Rubens in the leading role, moves along quietly but interestingly for the first five reels and impresses the spectator by its artistic qualities and the natural development of its plot. Then, into the life of the heroine enters the man that won her first love and threw it lightly away, and the atmosphere becomes charged with the mad passion and primitive instincts to be found in the dramas of the Sicilian actors who appeared in this country a few years ago. The transition is almost startling, but serves to wind up the story with vigorous action and imparts a number of well-developed thrills.

"I Love You" has an Italian girl as its heroine, the hero and the villain being sons of France. Felice is a peasant and is called "The Passion Flower" by her friends and neighbors. She first gives her heart to Jules Mardon, a young artist who engages her as a model, makes love to her while he is painting her portrait; then he goes back to Paris, becomes famous on account of the picture and forgets its inspirer. The picture attracts the admiration of Armande de Gautier, a wealthy young chap of excellent family, and he does not rest until he has sought out Felice and made her his wife, who learns to love him with all the ardor of her nature. Her happiness is complete when a child is added to the family. In the meantime, she has learned to grace her new station in life. When little Roy is about five years of age Mardon comes to call on his friend Gautier and meets his wife. The artist is filled with an unholy passion for Felice and manages to compromise her, and Gautier drives her from the house. But she settles accounts with Mardon. Her boy has been stricken with the Black Plague and she caresses him and presses her lips to his before being forced from his bedside. Hurrying to Mardon, she pretends to be infatuated with him and permits him to kiss her. She then informs him of his danger from the contagion, and the man perishes miserably. Felice is spared, the child recovers and a reconciliation is finally effected between man and wife.

Walter Edwards directed the picture and has done it in a way that calls for unstinted praise. The scenes have much artistic merit, and the cast has been chosen with discretion. Alma Rubens looks very beautiful as the Italian girl and reflects the soul of the character all through the story. Wheeler Oakman as Gautier, Francis McDonald as Mardon, John Lince as Ravello, Frederick Vroom as Prince del Chinay, Lillian Langdon as Princess del Chinay and Peaches Jackson as Roy are worthy candidates for the honor roll. The cameraman was C. G. Peterson.

"The Law's Outlaw."

Triangle's star sheriff, Roy Stewart, has a congenial character in "The Law's Outlaw," a five-part western drama written by Ethel and James Dorrance and put into scenario form by Alvin J. Neitz. The picture was directed by Cliff Smith and photographed by Cap Crane and is covered over thick with the stamp of the region to which it lays claim. It has a local issue at the start, for its motive, but the love story finally takes the lead and every other interest is subordinated to the question as to whether the hero chap gets the girl. He does, of course, but he has to put up a good, stiff fight in order to win her and show her father and the neighbors what a mistake they all made in electing another man sheriff.

The story is told with a keen sense of character, considerable real humor and sufficient dramatic interest to clinch the attention in every scene. Roy Stewart still looks capable of taking care of himself in any situation and still retains his smile and the natural hitch to everything he does. He has an attractive sweetheart in Fritzi Ridgeway as Rose Davison. Convincing impersonations are given by Harry Rattenberry, Norbert Gillis, Pete Morrison, Bob Thompson, Lou Durham, William Ellingford, A. Hollingsworth and Percy Challenger.

"Du Barry"

Theda Bara Leads in Story of Mistress of Louis XV—Dramatic Plot Clearly Pictured With Many Splendid Scenes.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

IT IS decidedly no easy thing to play Madam Du Barry and keep that certain physical attractiveness dominant behind unconventional manners so that we understand at the same time both the king and his courtiers who failed to sympathize with the lady. Theda Bara has some very attractive moments in the part. She doesn't fill it; she often poses as herself rather than as the character; but now and again she is most effective, as when the camera catches her just right to show the jet black and white of her hair and brow, in spite of the fact that in most scenes she is blond.

The picture, a Superfeature by the Fox company, tells the story with a good measure of effectiveness. The big dramatic incident, when the king almost discovers De Brissac in her room, is pictured in a group of scenes that grip strongly. The mob scenes are full of movement and excitement and also have those interesting flashes of character that give reality to the story. They do not match the mob scenes in, let us say, "Intolerance," but they are all capably handled and will thrill audiences. It is a picture for Theda Bara followers rather than one for a college class or a literary club. The sets, backgrounds and furnishings are in many scenes splendid and in all acceptable. J. Gordon Edwards had charge of the direction.

Charles Clary plays King Louis, with Herschel Mayall as Count Du Barry, and Fred Church as De Brissac. These and the others in the supporting cast played to the story rather than to the characters. If the king wanted to give an order the player aimed rather to emphasize the order than the king's individuality. This tendency of the players insures the story being understood, but keeps the picture from reaching a plane of high distinction.

Scene from "Du Barry" (Fox).

"Molly Go Get 'Em"

Five-Part American Featuring Margarita Fischer Proves Attractive in Comedy Sense.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE tomboyish capers of a half-grown girl usually make attractive material for screen presentation, and in "Molly Go Get 'Em," a five-part Mutual-American, there are no end of amusing situations, some of them too similar perhaps, in which Margarita Fischer gets a chance to portray the role of the kittenish heroine. This she does in a graceful manner with the exception of the fact that once in a while her actions appear studied rather than spontaneous. The production has been carefully directed and is pleasing in the choice of exterior location.

The story of the play, by-the-way, is more a matter of incident than regularly constructed drama. These incidents are of the comic sort and have to do particularly with a young girl's mischievous interference with the matrimonial prospects of an elder sister. Molly is without conscience with regard to most things, sorely trying her father's pocketbook as well as his patience, and our first introduction to her finds her on her knees sneaking out of sight while her father peruses a $198 bill for a gown which Molly has just purchased and charged to him. Among the mischievous things which she does is an escapade with a beau of her sister's, with whom she goes to a ball in spite of the fact that she is still a sub-deb, arrayed in sister's best ball gown. A walk home when the motor of the young man's car refuses to work finishes the event and lands Molly in her room for a ten-days term of bread and water diet. One of the final incidents finds her bringing in at a pistol's point a bogus count who has entered her sister's room and stolen her jewels, after which she elopes with the young man next door, with whom she has long been in love, contrary to her father's wishes.

"Face Value"

Mae Murray Featured in Five-Reel Bluebird Masterplay, Written by Herself in Collaboration With Robert Leonard.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

SINCERE presentation and a strong emotional quality in certain scenes are the outstanding features of this pleasing release. It contains nothing new in the way of plot, the co-authors, Mae Murray and Robert Leonard, having merely strung together certain characters and situations that are reminiscent of former productions. But they have, perhaps unconsciously, chosen the things they excel in doing, Mae Murray being particularly good in the part of a girl of the streets, and Mr. Leonard, who directed the production, understanding how to get a striking dramatic effect out of even familiar materials.

Miss Murray appears as Joan Darby, the girl who came from nowhere and took her chances among the urchins of the streets and alleys. She knew the rival gangs of her district and, being of a speculative turn, staged a prize-fight, which is fought out in the brief prologue. This makes a novel way of introducing the heroine and also one of the gang leaders, Louie Patrick MacGuire, who plays a leading role in the story.

It is after the prize-fight that Joan runs away from her washerwoman friend, Mrs. Kelly, who has falsely accused her of stealing money she made from the bout. The girl becomes cashier in a restaurant, but loses her job when she repulses the advances of the manager. Louie then appears on the scene and induces the friendless girl to aid him in a hold-up. The girl is caught and sentenced to a reform school. This attempted hold-up is briefly but realistically pictured.

On her way to the reform school Joan leaps from the moving train into a river. When she reaches the bank in an exhausted state she meets her fate—a wealthy young man named Bertram Van Twiller. The observer has already witnessed several scenes from Bertram's life on the Western plains and is not surprised when he takes the girl home. His subsequent love for the girl and the way he protects her from her former acquaintance, Louie, who again attempts to make a thief out of her, are also features of the plot which follow a little too naturally to create surprise. But the settings and incidents, especially at the reception, are well-handled and get a firm hold on the interest.

Scene from "Face Value" (Bluebird).

Mae Murray does some decidedly appealing work in the part of Joan, making the girl at all times an object of sympathetic interest. Others in the cast are Wheeler Oakman as Bertram, Casson Ferguson as Louie, and Clarissa Selwynne and Florence Carpenter as Bertram's mother and sister.

"Mrs. Dane's Defense"

Paramount Releases Five-Reel Number Featuring Pauline Frederick in Famous Play by Henry Arthur Jones.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

PATRONS of moving pictures will welcome an opportunity to witness a film version of "Mrs. Dane's Defense," one of the strongest dramatic successes ever written by Henry Arthur Jones. It is the story of a woman who sinned and who lied desperately to cover up her past when real love came to her. In film form the story has some advantages over the stage version, and in certain respects it perhaps falls below its original high mark. But it is all intensely interesting and in line with the best that is offered in either style of entertainment.

Scene from "Mrs. Dane's Defense" (Paramount).

Pauline Frederick gives a satisfying picture of Mrs. Dane, a pretty creature, struggling like a captive bird in the meshes of the net her own early error has woven about her. Her first appearance, as Felicia Hindemarsh, when she comes with her child to her cousin, the real Mrs. Dane, for protection, gets an instant hold upon the sympathies. All of the forepart of the production is elaborately and powerfully worked out. If there is a tenuous effect anywhere, in comparison with the stage version, it is in the memorable scenes where Sir Daniel Carteret so mercilessly probes her tissue of falsehoods and wrings a confession of the truth from her unwilling lips. At most, this part of the drama will merely call up an interesting contrast in the minds of observers who saw the original play; so far as winding up the problem itself is concerned, the effect achieved is entirely satisfactory.

The settings and social atmosphere, particularly in the scenes located in England, are very pleasing, and the cast is an agreeable one throughout.

Frank Losee plays the part of Sir Daniel, one of the most important in the story; Leslie Austen appears as Lionel, the son, and Cyril Chadwick as James Risbee. Others appearing are Ormi Hawley, Maud Turner Gordon, Amelia Summerville and Howard Hall. The scenario adaptation was made by Margaret Turnbull and the direction was in charge of Hugh Ford.

"Vengeance—and the Woman"

New Vitagraph Serial Promises to Be a Worthy Successor of "The Fighting Trail"—William Duncan and Carol Holloway Head the Cast.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IT WAS evident from the work done by William Duncan as director and also as the leading actor in "The Fighting Trail," the Vitagraph serial lately completed, that this reckless athlete and resourceful producer of thrilling situations was the right man in the right place. And the more dangerous the place the better he seemed to like it. "Vengeance—and the Woman," the new serial, is the joint effort of Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady, and follows along the general lines of its predecessor. It is a story of the West and of life in the open, of desperate men and deeds of daring. Its one object is to make the blood of the spectator flow through his veins with increased speed or else cause him to hold his breath at the risks being taken by one or more members of the cast.

The first four episodes are called "The Oath," "Loaded Dice," "The Unscaled Peak" and "The Signalling Cipher." The opening number shows the escape from jail of a pair of outlaws, Black Jack and Red Johnson, who have sworn to get even with Henry Blake, a wealthy mine owner, who was the means of their being convicted. The pair make a sensational "getaway" by stealing a locomotive in the prison yard and sending it through the locked and barred gates. Once free, they burn the home of Blake and kidnap his wife. The next three episodes are devoted to Blake's efforts to rescue Mrs. Blake. He, also, is taken prisoner, and the situations used in relating this portion of the serial are a succession of daredevil exploits. Each episode is complete in itself.

Aside from the uncommonly strong acting of William Duncan as Blake, and Carol Holloway as Bessie Blake, vivid characterizations are given by George Holt as Black Jack, Tex Allen as Red Johnson, Vincente Howard as Comanche Pete, Fred Burds as Jim Morgan, and S. E. Jennings as Cal Hawkins. The excellence of the locations and the fine riding of all the horsemen in the story should not be overlooked.

"The Strong Way"

June Elvidge in Five-Part World Photoplay Appears to Excellent Advantage in Well Constructed Romance.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

ORIGINALITY of theme is not the most striking feature of "The Strong Way," a five-part World photoplay in which June Elvidge is the principal player. Novelty of plot, however, is not the most important consideration. It is of much greater moment that the story the author has to tell be presented to the spectator in the most effective manner. "The Strong Way" is so constructed. The phases of life shown in it are familiar both to the stage and the screen, but they are always clearly defined and possess the merit of being dramatic. The picture is well acted and its exterior scenes are produced with fine artistic effect.

Scene from "The Strong Way" (World).

The leading motive is the always interesting one of the young girl who marries an elderly man of wealth, for the sake of her parents, when her heart is given to the handsome but far from rich hero. In this particular case, the heroine's husband has rather more money and less moral character than most gentlemen of his type. He neglects his wife, of course, and becomes insanely jealous of the hero. A plot to ruin the young man is almost successful. The old roue has a friend named Carter, an obliging person who will accept any commission—if the price suits him. The scheme to ruin the hero is a wild-cat stock deal, but Carter is captivated by the beauty of his employer's wife and attempts to make love to her. The hero has been invited to the home of Farrow, the elderly husband. He sees Carter and Mrs. Torrence, as he supposes, out on the grounds in the moonlight. They have an altercation and the woman shoots the man dead. The murderess is a maid in the Torrence-Farrow family whom Carter has wronged. The heroine thinks that young Chadwick fired the fatal shot, and the effort of both Chadwick and Mrs. Farrow to save the other from the consequences of the crime furnishes a strong climax. The story ends with Farrow out of the way and the lovers on the road to happiness.

June Elvidge, as Eunice Torrence, makes the heroine worth any man fighting for, and John Bowers is manly and forceful as young Chadwick. Joseph Herbert as Farrow, Hubert Wilke as Carter, Isabel Berwin as Mrs. Torrence, Rosina Henley as Martha, and Grace Williams as Farrow's stenographer, round out a proficient cast. George Kelson directed the picture.

"Our Navy"

Twelve Reels of Natural Color Pictures of Our Navy Presented at the 44th Street Theater By Prizma, Inc.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE most complete series of pictures of our navy that have yet been presented to the public, and also the most attractive for the reason that they are projected in natural colors, are those which have been running for the past two weeks at the 44th Street theater. Prizma, Inc., a firm which is slowly but surely stepping forward into the front ranks of educational motion picture photography, is responsible for them.

"Our Navy" tells us on the screen all that there is to know about that great American institution, second largest of its kind in the world. It shows us how thorough is the training given our boys of the navy and their officers. Target practice, in which they learn to be proficient in the use of the pistol and rifle, reminds us that the manipulation of big guns, which is a matter of crews and not of individuals, is not all that the navy man must know of firearms. Scenes at the Annapolis Academy are especially interesting.

Then there is the getting ready for sea, which includes the making of big guns. And, by the way, the latter subject presented by Prizma affords a real spectacle—the draining of molten metal from the furnaces, for instance, or the drilling of the metal plates by various methods. The speeding up of the navy yards where we witness the actual building of dry docks and the dry-docking of battleships are points of special interest. The emptying of the dry dock allows the scraping of the ship below water line to relieve it of its burden of barnacles or other sea infection, and also repainting with noncorrosive paint. Finally restored to ship-shape, the dreadnaught is towed forth from the reflooded dry dock and set free for another cruise.

The inspection of the battleship fleet is an impressive sight. And one of the most interesting features of this group of pictures is the armored hydroplane cruiser fleet, showing the catapulting of hydroplanes from an armored cruiser. This is made possible by means of a track and movable platform, which later accompanies the hydroplane on its leap from the cruiser, when it drops into the water and is hoisted back into place again to await the replacing of the machine on its return.

Other interesting illustrations show the launching of torpedoes, the manipulation of anti-aircraft guns, the clearing of the decks for action, turret salvos and fleet-firing from 14-inch guns. Reproductions of famous paintings of prominent figures in our naval history, and also of famous old battleships, including the "Constellation," were thrown on the screen in the course of the presentation. As a further exploitation of the fitness of the Prizma method of photography and projection, the first part of the program consisted of pictures of the Blackfeet Indians in Glacier National Park, and some truly remarkable views of the Hawaiian volcano Kilauea. The pictures of the navy were made under the direction of Dr. George A. Dorsey.

"The Cross-Bearer"

Eight-Part Photoplay Produced by William A. Brady Has Cardinal Mercier of Belgium for Leading Character Acted by Montagu Love.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

SUGGESTED by Bulwer-Lytton's romantic drama, "Richelieu," the eight-part photoplay, "The Cross-Bearer," produced by William A. Brady with Montagu Love as Cardinal Mercier, of Belgium, proves to be a picture of considerable significance. The plot does not follow any of the actual events in the life of the venerable and devoted head of the Catholic faith in the devastated land of Belgium. It uses the present war merely as a background for a love story in which a fictitious ward of the Cardinal's is the heroine, and all the other characters are creations of the author's brain.

The opening promises a series of events that adhere closely to the scenes that were enacted when the Germans invaded Brussels. Cardinal Mercier is first shown just before the beginning of the war, busy with the regular duties of his office and watching the rivalry between Lieut. Maurice Lambeaux and Gaston Van Leys for the hand of his ward Liana de Merode. The girl prefers Maurice, but Gaston is not willing to give her up. His father is a banker and a secret agent for Germany. Before the entrance of the Kaiser's army into the country, Liane goes back to her convent school, and a touch of real drama of Belgium is shown when a small detachment of Germans capture the convent and make the nuns and their charges wait on them at supper.

Liane manages to escape and reach the home of the Cardinal. Here Baron Spiegelman, commander of the German forces in Belgium, first meets the girl and determines to possess her. Gaston contrives to make Maurice think that Liane is untrue to him and that the Cardinal is a party to the affair. The Lieutenant, who has left his regiment that he may return and protect the woman who is now his wife, hastens to the Cardinal's home to kill him. The venerable man convinces the soldier of his mistake, and calls Liane from another room. The priest is still in danger, however. Spiegelman blames him for keeping Liane from him, and sends one of his officers to arrest the Cardinal. The German officer is tricked into believing that the aged churchman has been strangled by Lambeaux, and the Lieutenant and his wife escape beyond the German lines.

The part of the Cardinal is not given many dramatic situations. One of the incidents shows him at an audience with the Pope. For the most part the story brings out the benign qualities of the man as the whole world has learned to know him. The production is pretentious and has been well handled by George Archainbaud. The plot does not fully realize the strength foreshadowed by the earlier scenes, but contains enough of merit to satisfy the average screen patron.

Montagu Love plays the Cardinal with dignity and feeling, but is guilty of at least an artistic error in kissing his ward on the lips. Jeanne Engles is an excellent choice for Liane, and correct character impersonations should be credited to Anthony Merlo as Lambeaux, George Morgan as Gaston, Edward Elkas as his father, Charles Brandt as Spiegleman, Eloise Clement as Jeanne Perrier, Albert Hart as Colonel Krause, Alexander Francis as Brother Joseph, Kate Lester as the Cardinal's housekeeper, Fanny Cogan as Madame Lambeaux, and Henriett. Simpson as Madame Van Leys. Philip Hatkin was the cameraman.

King-Bee Comedies

Billy West in "The Candy Kid" and "The Slave" Heads the Cast of a Pair of Amusing Slapstick "Two-Reelers."

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"The Candy Kid."

A CONFECTIONER'S shop is the scene of most of the action in the King-Bee two-part comedy, "The Candy Kid," and Billy West finds it an effective stamping ground for his familiar brand of fun. No one but a society reporter would attempt to give the plot. Rivalry between two establishments in the same line of business has some slight connection with the doings, and a pretty cashier is supposed to be another bone of contention and, likewise, the object of Billy's devotion. But admirers of this comic gentleman's antics are aware that his real business in life is in making merry with everything within his reach that isn't nailed down. The star's fondness for playing practical jokes that are more renowned for their punch and kick than the delicacy of their humor is well understood, and he has invented a number of new ones for this particular comedy.

Scene from "The Slave" (King Bee).

The battle at the finish between Billy and all the other members of the cast has the speed and comic proclivities that have given the star his vogue among a large and enthusiastic following. The actor's sure-fire method of getting the laugh has never been shown to better advantage than in this picture. He is ably supported by Ethel Cassidy, Oliver Hardy, Leo White and Budd Ross.

"The Slave."

The land of the turbanned Turk is the scene of "The Slave," and Billy West is the lowest menial of the Sultan of Bacteria. His fondness for jokes that are broad in their humor and unerring in landing upon the victim is still as pronounced as ever. Even the august person of the Sultan himself is not sacred, and he is forced to hotfoot it through the two reels of the comedy whenever his slave is pleased to turn his attentions to his master. Billy uses the entire cast for ten-pins with his usual skill and lack of partiality, and his examples of physical wit are of his best quality. Like "The Candy Kid," and other King-Bee comedies, "The Slave" appeals to the patrons for which it is made and they will receive it with every manifestation of delight. The star's new leading lady, Leatrice Joy, appears in this picture and makes a favorable impression.

Triplet of Metro-Drews

"The Spirit of Merry Christmas," "His First Love," and "Shadowing Henry" Representative Samples of Excellent Drew Comedy.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"The Spirit of Merry Christmas."

AS THEIR Christmas offering Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew presented the public with a highly amusing comedy which savors of the burlesqueing of Christmas giving as it is practiced by some individuals. The picture shows us the domestic pair with whom we are now well acquainted approaching the Christmas season, with Polly arranging a wonderful list of gifts she intends to buy. A round of the stores convinces her that the list will require remodelling to bring it within the limits of her Christmas purse, and forthwith her inventive brain begins to busy itself trying to replace her expensive first choice with cheaper articles with more regard for her purse than for those to whom the gifts are to be given. Some funny incidents occur between Polly and Henry, and the finish comes when Henry presents Polly on Christmas morning with a tile umbrella stand which he has decorated himself.

"His First Love."

One of the funniest of Drew comedies, in which Polly persists in putting to Henry the embarrassing question, "Henry, am I really the first woman you ever loved or asked to marry you?" The arrival on the scene of one of the numerous women of Henry's affectionate past causes him to sweat drops of blood until he discovers that the only confidence exchanged with his wife by the mischievous lady is the news that she is engaged to be married. This is one of the kind of pictures that betrays a psychological knowledge of its audience. It will be enjoyed by all.

"Shadowing Henry."

In this number Henry has committed the indiscretion of coming home to his Polly the worse for liquor, the painting of his office providing the rare occasion for a celebration. An unfortunate dab of red paint on his handkerchief adds fuel to the flame of Polly's anger and causes her to point the finger of suspicion at Henry so strongly that she finally decides to leave home and sue for a divorce. Polly, true to her sex, weakens as a result of Henry's pleadings over the telephone, and when the detective, who has never seen Polly, suddenly appears at the lawyer's office with the "dope" on Henry, and it turns out that Polly herself was the pretty woman in widow's weeds with whom Henry has been seen, the divorce suit is as suddenly put an end to and the pair are reunited. A very funny offering.

"Chocolate of the Gang"

General Film Company Releases Exceptionally Enjoyable Juvenile Subject, Written by Judge Willis Brown.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

REAL juvenile interest is a difficult thing to capture in fiction or in films, but this number, by Judge Willis Brown, has it in good measure. The subject deals with the activities of a group of white boys, known as the P. D. Q. gang, and a small colored youth who wants to "belong," but has a hard time gaining his desire. Pigeon stealing is the thing which gives "Chocolate" a chance to make good, and he makes the most of it.

The headquarters of the gang is in itself a characteristic institution created by boys. It consists of a small shed, without doors or windows, which can only be entered by means of a secret tunnel. The boys have devised a periscope, by means of a looking glass and a smoke stack, by which they survey the surrounding territory.

It is by means of this periscope that the gang members see a colored man named Jasper steal a girl's pet pigeons. Later Chocolate steals the pigeons from Jasper, a fact to which he confesses later at a juvenile court session. This frankness is what gives him a standing with the gang and leads to his admission to membership.

Scene from "Chocolate of the Gang" (General Film).

The scheme of letting the pigeons fly home, in order to determine whether they belong to Jasper or the girl, was an ingenious one and works out very nicely. Altogether the number is not only true to juvenile life, but has a striking little plot as well. It is a good idea to keep an eye on this series of productions by Judge Brown.

Thomas Bellamy makes an excellent Chocolate and the other colored performers, including Chocolate's mother, must be given credit for playing their parts in a natural and amusing way. The gang members are also in good form in their various performances.

"Ghosts of Yesterday"

Norma Talmadge Gives Superior Interpretation of Dual Role in Engrossing Photoplay Made from Stage Drama by Rupert Hughes—On Select Program.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A STAGE drama written by Rupert Hughes for Mrs. Leslie Carter and called "Two Women" has been made into a photoplay by Mildred Considine, and produced by Joseph M. Schenk under the title of "Ghosts of Yesterday," with Norma Talmadge in the dual role of Ruth Grahame and Jeanne La Fleur. The screen version is in six parts, was directed by Charles Miller, and is on the Select Pictures program. The work may be best described as a modern "Camille."

Certain persons will find fault with the moral character of the heroine, and also condemn the hero for permitting a woman of doubtful character to take the place in his heart once occupied by his dead wife; but the dramatic value of the Hughes story cannot be denied. Those who sympathize with the highly wrought atmosphere of the Dumas play and regard the loves of Armand and his "lady with a past" as romance of the first rank, will find "Ghosts of Yesterday" greatly to their liking. They will be largely influenced in their decision by the lucid and engrossing telling of the drama, and the adroit manner of its presentation by Norma Talmadge, her supporting company, and Director Miller.

Scene from "Ghosts of Yesterday" (Select).

New York City is the locale of the opening scenes of the play. Howard Marston, who has thrown away a fortune in riotous living, is prevented from committing suicide by Ruth Grahame, a girl in humble circumstances. Marston learns to love his good angel and makes her his wife. He has studied painting, and manages to earn a modest living as an artist in a commercial establishment. Ruth, aways frail, falls ill while her husband is painting her portrait, and dies just as Marston learns that an invention of his has again made him rich. The death of his wife leaves him inconsolable, and he goes to Paris to live. Marston is still in a morbid state of mind when he is taken to a cabaret by a friend and meets Jeanne LaFleur, its principal singer.

Jeanne is the typical woman of her class, unmoral and avaricious, but bears a remarkable likeness to Marston's dead wife. The man is beset with a strong desire to use Jeanne as his model and complete the portrait of Ruth. He pursuades the French girl to agree, and has her become a member of his household while the work is being performed. The expected happens—the two fall in love with each other. Realizing his disloyalty to Ruth's memory, Marston tells Jeanne that he loves her only for her resemblance to his wife. In a fit of rage Jeanne picks up a knife and slashes the portrait to ribbons. She then returns to her old haunts and tries to forget Marston.

Hearing that the girl is at the home of Count Pascal, an old protector, the American, who finds that he loves Jeanne for herself alone, hurries to the place and saves her from the too ardent Frenchman. During a struggle in the dark between the two men, Marston is slashed across the face by the count, and loses his eyesight. Jeanne helps to nurse the stricken man. When she finds out that he may always be blind and that he loves her for herself she is overjoyed at the thought of becoming his companion for life. All of this is set forth on the screen, with intimate views of "the gay life" of Paris and correct reproductions of the several grades of existence touched on in the photoplay.

In the dual role of Ruth and Jeanne the star is given an interesting opportunity to show her versatility, and gratifies her admirers by making the most of every phase of character presented by the two women. As Ruth she has the requisite sweetness and simplicity, and as Jeanne her impersonation of a woman of the Parisian underworld is illumined by all the exaggerated charm, tricks of manner, and want of right feeling that belong to the cabaret singing woman type. Her differentiation of the moral nature of the two women is always clear and convincing. Norma Talmadge has never appeared to better advantage in any drama intended for the screen.

Eugene O'Brien as Marston could hardly be improved upon. He succeeds in throwing just the air of romantic ardor about the character that would come nearest to excusing Marston's infatuation for Jeanne. Stuart Holmes is the embodiment of a cynical, well bred, and dissolute Frenchman, and John Daly Murphy is equally lifelike as an aged roue. Henry J. Hebert as Roger Sterns, Ida Darling as Mrs. Whitaker, and Blanche Douglas as Marie Calleaux are valuable members of the cast. The extras used in the cabaret scenes have been selected with excellent judgment.

"The Blind Adventure"

Five-Part Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature from Story by Earle Derr Biggers Has Novelty and Interest and Is Capitally Acted By Edward Earle and the Entire Cast.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

MADE from one of Earle Derr Biggers' Saturday Evening Post stories, "The Blind Adventure" is among the most novel and interesting Vitagraph Blue Ribbon features. The manner of its telling is away from the conventional and keeps the spectator completely in the dark until the finish. Added to this it is artistically produced and capitally acted.

"The Blind Adventure" is supposed to relate to a mysterious murder. The hero of the adventure is a young American stopping in London just before the breaking out of the war. His name is Geoffery West and he sees Marion Larned, a pretty American girl, dining in a restaurant with her father, and is smitten with her. He puts an "ad" in the personal column of a London paper, asking for an introduction. Marion replies in a note, telling him to write her a letter a day for seven days so that she may judge if he is apt to prove an interesting acquaintance.

Geoffery does so and spins her a tale of adventure that completely deceives her and which will accomplish the same result with the spectator in front of the screen. It is not necessary to give the offspring of the young American's imagination in detail, but it turns out to be a most surprising murder mystery that comes to a sudden stop when Marion's father hustles her on to a steamer bound for the United States and Geoffery breaks off his letter-writing to catch the same boat. His romancing is successful, however, and the moment he finds himself actually talking to Marion, Geoffery informs her that he loves her, and the young lady does not offer any objections.

Wesley Ruggles has produced the picture with complete understanding of its needs, and has had the assistance of a competent cast. Edward Earle as Geoffery West, Betty Howe as Marion Larned, Frank Norcross as Congressman Larned, William Bailey as Captain Fraser-Freer, Gilbert Rooney as Lieutenant Fraser-Freer, C. A. Stevenson as Sir James Fraser-Freer, George Wright as Inspector Bray, P. D. Standing as Colonel Hughes, Eulalie Jansen as Countess Sofia De Graf, and John Sturgeon as Walters, complete the list of players.

Two Christie Comedies

"Cupid's Camouflage" and "One Good Turn" Fair Samples of Refined Comedy.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"Cupid's Camouflage."

PRETTY Betty Compson and "Smiling" Billy Mason are the featured players in the Christie comedy, "Cupid's Camouflage." The picture is refined and pleasing, and, while it may not be what some folks call a scream, it is funny enough to get a number of hearty laughs.

The theme of the comedy treats of the romance of the son of a milk king and a young lady on a visit to her aunt in the same town. The pair having first met accidentally on the platform of a railroad station are somewhat surprised at their second meeting to discover each other in humble vocations. The son of the milk king who has been made to start at the bottom of the ladder to learn his father's business on his round of delivering milk finds the girl posing as maid in her aunt's kitchen. On the recovery of the maid whose place she has been filling the young woman goes each day to the kitchen and dons the maid's cap and apron until milk delivering time is past. The aunt finally becoming wise to the situation, goes to the office of the milk firm to report the bold lover, and discovers not only that the milk king is an old friend, but that the young man instead of being an ordinary milkman is his son. The happy ending shows the young people receiving the blessing of their elders.

"One Good Turn."

More of the rollicking type is the comedy entitled "One Good Turn." The bulk of the fun is extracted from a situation resulting from the decision of a young married man to spend the evening of his first wedding anniversary downtown. The arrival at his home along with other guests of a former lover of his wife's, discovered later by the husband on his return, gives opportunity for some amusing incidents among which is the unintentional presence of the young man in the room of one of the female guests who is about to retire. A chase in and out of the window and down the side of the house adds to the comedy, which is quite inoffensive and pleasing.

"The Avenging Trail"

Harold Lockwood Featured in a Story of the Lumber Camps —Released by Metro.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell.

IN "The Avenging Trail," released by Metro on December 31, Harold Lockwood appears as a rough lumberjack, in contrast to the roles in which he is usually cast. This is a story of a lumber camp in winter, and is based on Henry Oyen's novel, "Gaston Olaf," the adaptation being made by Mary Murillo and Fred J. Balshofer.

Gaston reaches town in time to rescue Rose Haven from Lefty Red, and defeats him in a challenge fight. Taggert, Red's employer, hires Gaston to boss his lumbermen, and sends him to cut timber. Gaston discovers the timber belongs to Scene from "The Avenging Trail" (Metro).

Rose, and refuses to allow it to be moved. Taggert pays Rose in cash, and then tells Red to rob the safe in which it has been placed. Gaston reaches the scene in time to prevent the robbery, and one of his friends shoots Red just as he is about to fire on Gaston. It develops that Gaston is not really a lumberjack, but is looking for Henderson, who was responsible for the murder of Gaston's father. Red confesses that Taggert is really Henderson. In the meantime, Taggert is forcing his attentions on Rose. Gaston arrives in time to save Rose, and confronts Taggert, defeats him in a realistic fight, and wins Rose.

Harold Lockwood is agreeably cast as Gaston, with Sally Crute as Rose. Of the remainder of the cast, Lewis Wolheim as Lefty Red is very good; William Clifford is satisfactory, but has very little to do, and Walter P. Lewis is well cast as Taggert; Joseph Dailey appears as Tom Pine, Gaston's friend, and provides many of the lighter comedy touches.

The action is not always clear or convincing. However, the fight scenes, of which there are three, are good, and there are a number of fine snow and logging scenes.

Francis Ford directed the production, and Antonio Gaudio is responsible for the photography.

Constance Talmadge in "The Shuttle."

The cast of "The Shuttle," Constance Talmadge's new production in which she will be presented by Lewis J. Selznick, has been selected, and work on the play is now well under way in the Morosco studios in Los Angeles.

Miss Talmadge's new leading man is Albert Roscoe, who plays the part of Lord Mount-Dunstan, and other members of the cast are Edith Johnson, E. B. Tilton, Helen Dunbar, George McDaniel, Thomas Persse, Edward Peil, and Casson Ferguson. Miss Talmadge in the role of Betty Vanderpoel, unspoiled daughter of New York's greatest money king, has a characterization supremely suited to her personality. Betty possesses charm, an engaging directness, and a penchant for getting her own way, all of which Miss Talmadge is well qualified to interpret. The picture is being directed by Rollin Sturgeon.

"The Shuttle," which has been adapted for the screen by Harvey Thew and Margaret Turnbull from the famous novel of the same name by Frances Hodgson Burnett, is a tale of international love and marriage, and deals directly with the lives of Rosalie Vanderpoel, who maries for an English title, and Betty, her younger sister, who comes to the rescue. It is a melodrama of the better sort, with tense scenes and swift action, and its story is one of absorbing interest. It will be distributed by Select.

Bolster Shows Goldwyns in Australia.

Goldwyn Pictures have at last negotiated the long trip to Australia and the Orient, now made doubly slow and difficult by the War, and have been privately shown to two enthusiastic groups of exhibitors in the Antipodes. Both showings were arranged by Goldwyn's special representative, Harold Bolster, now touring the world in the interest of the new corporation. A letter just received at the home office after the long delay that is all too common in trans-oceanic mail matters these days, records special trade showings at the Theater Royal, Sydney, New South Wales, on November 18, and at Melbourne on November 25.

Both gatherings brought forth the leaders in the film industry of Australia and New Zealand. On both occasions, the first two Goldwyn releases, "Polly of the Circus" starring Mae Marsh, and "Baby Mine," starring Madge Kennedy, were shown.

"Ashcan Alley" (L-Ko).

President Julius Stern, operating in person from Hollywood, Cal., where L-KO's are made, selected "Ashcan Alley" as the comedy to be distributed through Universal exchanges Jan. 23. This subject carries as its principal funsters four players who have built their reputation as factors in previous L-KO's —Eva Novak, Eddie Barry, Bob MacKenzie and Chester Ryckman. This comedy brand has lately been using individual stars, but for one issue President Stern decided to assemble four of his old standbys in one comedy. The laundry business enters largely into the "plot of the piece," with a Chinaman getting the worst of it in unrestricted competition. Numerous odd and ingenuous devices are employed to shock and surprise the laughs from a swift-moving series of comical episodes that are promised to be free from objectionable incidents of any nature.

"Ruggles of Red Gap" Completed.

Lawrence D'Orsay has returned to New York, having completed his work in George K. Spoor's picture, "Ruggles of Red Gap." Mr. D'Orsay assumed the role of "The Honorable George" in this Taylor Holmes production. It is understood that Mr. D'Orsay will go into the New York Winter Garden Show.

"Ruggles of Red Gap" was completed on the last day of the old year. Director L. C. Windom was compelled to work his company overtime during the last few days, as the scene-taking in Arizona ate up more time than had been anticipated.

Taylor Holmes reports a tale of a wild ride on a wild ostrich while in the west. "We visited an ostrich farm near Phoenix," he reports, "and riding an ostrich has been one of my greatest ambitions."

"Let's Go" Will Be Ray's Next.

"Let's Go" will be the title of Charles Ray's fourth Paramount picture, under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince. The story is totally unlike what has come to be known as a "typical Ray story," giving this young Paramount star a chance to do acting of a type different than any with which his name has heretofore been associated. In "The Hired Man," to be released Jan. 28, Ray, who has come to be recognized as a typical American boy, plays a new and somewhat different sort of role from anything he has yet attempted.

This is a farm hand on a large New England farm, who is sincerely and deeply in love with the pretty daughter of his "boss." The sacrifices that he is called upon to make for her are many, and he cheerfully gives up every thought of himself for her sake.

Reid to Be Detective in New Picture.

Wallace Reid, who has come to New York from California to work on a Paramount production, will begin activities at Famous Players' studio shortly on a new type of story, in which he will play a detective hero. The picture has been adapted from the book, "Marcell Levignet," by Elwyn Barron, the scenario for which has been made by Margaret Turnbull. The story has a new twist to the "crook punch" melodramatic situation, and Mr. Reid will be afforded an opportunity of depicting an exceptionally interesting character, and one for which he is peculiarly fitted.

Paramount has announced that "The Thing We Love," starring Wallace Reid and Kathlyn Williams, is to be released Feb. 18, following the appearance of Mr. Reid as a star in "Rimrock Jones" on Jan. 21. "The Thing We Love" is a modern photoplay with a timely subject dealing with a patriotic theme, and was written by Beulah Marie Dix.

Jack Pickford Visits New York.

Jack Pickford arrived in New York on a short-time vacation between pictures, having completed two pictures ahead of his Paramount schedule. The young player, whose recent picture, "Tom Sawyer," was a hit, believed he might make a picture in the East before returning to the land of sunshine. Meantime, "The Spirit of '17" will be released and will be followed by "Huck and Tom." Thereafter he will be co-starred with Louise Huff in "Bunker Bean."

Still another production for Paramount with the same co-stars and including Lottie Pickford in the support is practically finished at the Morosco studios and will be announced in the near future.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Corporation.

CHOCOLATE OF THE GANG (General Film).—A Judge Brown juvenile story dealing with the adventures of a small colored boy and a gang of white boys. Pigeon stealing is the theme around which a very enjoyable little plot is built. This is an excellent subject of the kind. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

HE LOVED HER SO (Essanay).—A one-reel comedy of the farcical type dealing with a jealous husband who wants to kill everybody who approaches his wife. He finally thinks he has murdered a man, but it develops that he has not really done so. The plot of this number is very slight, and there is not much point to some of the action. It makes only a fair subject.

HOW CANADA AND THE FARMER CO-OPERATE (Essanay).—An industrial subject which gives a valuable insight into the raising of Canada's great wheat crops. Plowing the fields, cutting and binding the grain, threshing and shipping to market, inspection by the Government and other features are shown. The number is very instructive.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation.

A MODERN MUSKETEER (Artcraft), December 31.—This is one of the best of the Douglas Fairbanks pictures, the star having had the assistance of his new director and new leading lady. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

FACE VALUE (Bluebird Masterplay), January 14.—A five-reel number, written and produced by Mae Murray and Robert Leonard, the former appearing in the leading role. She plays the part of a street girl pursued by a young thief named Louie, who tries to make a crook out of her. But a wealthy young man who has had experience in the West comes to her aid and subsequently falls in love with her. Mae Murray is very appealing in the part of the girl. The plot is not particularly original, but the story contains strong emotional moments and holds the interest firmly. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Exhibitors Operating Corporation.

THE CITY OF PURPLE DREAMS (Exhibitors' Operating Corporation).—A seven-reel subject, adapted from a novel by Edwin Baird and produced by Colin Campbell. Thomas Santchi, Bessie Eyton and Fritzi Brunett play the leading roles. The story follows the career of a derelict who turns out to be a young man of good birth. But the hero does not retain the sympathy of the observer because he wins his way to wealth by unscrupulous means and then throws over the girl who helped him in favor of a wealthy young woman. This bears down too heavily on the seamy side of life, and is a disappointing production in many ways.

First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

DAUGHTER OF DESTINY (Petrova).—The first release manufactured by Madame Petrova is a five-part photoplay of the present, in which the star impersonates an American girl who is married to the Crown Prince of a European kingdom. The story will prove attractive to most persons, and is being presented by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. It has been skillfully directed by George Irving, and is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

THAIS, December 30.—A superb production of great artistic beauty from the story by Anatole France, with Mary Garden a success in the title role, perpetuating her triumph in the opera of the same name.

Greater Vitagraph.

THE BLIND ADVENTURE (Vitagraph), January 7.—Founded on an Earle Derr Biggers story this five-part photoplay is novel in plot and unusually pleasing all through. Edward Earle and Betty Howe head the cast. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

VENGEANCE AND THE WOMAN (Vitagraph).—The new Vitagraph serial starts off with every promise of being a worthy successor to "The Fighting Trail." It is given an extended review on another page of this issue.

King-Bee Films Corporation.

THE SLAVE (King-Bee).—This two-part comedy made by the King-Bee, with Billy West as the chief fun merchant, is the first comic film to be produced without subtitles. It relies on the variety and speed of humorous stunts, and is a good example of the King-Bee brand. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

THE CANDY KID (King-Bee).—Billy West has a stiff bit of work cut out for him in this two-part comedy, but disposes of it with his customary success. Rival candy shops are the scenes of his activities and the hurried movements of the rest of the cast. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation.

THE AVENGING TRAIL, December 31.—A five-reel adaptation of Henry Oyen's novel, "Gaston Olaf," in which Harold Lockwood is featured, appearing as a leader of a gang of lumbermen, a role different from the kind he usually portrays. There are some good logging scenes and snow scenes, but some of the scenes are rather long. A longer review appears on another page of this issue.

SHADOWING HENRY (Drew), December 31.—In this number Polly becomes incensed at Henry because he happens to come home one evening the worse of liquor. A daub of red paint which has found its way to his handkerchief in his newly painted office adds fuel to the flame and leads Polly to believe that there is a woman in the case. A divorce suit is started, which ends abruptly when the detective makes the amusing mistake of mistaking Polly for the "woman." A review will be found elsewhere.

THE SPIRIT OF MERRY CHRISTMAS (Drew), December 15.—A one-reel comedy which will be found reviewed elsewhere. The story is based on Christmas giving, and is somewhat of a burlesque on the giving of gifts which are more suited to the limits of the purse of the giver than to the needs of the receiver. Very funny and truly Christmasy.

HIS FIRST LOVE (Drew).—One of the best of Drew comedies in which Polly persists in putting to Henry the embarrassing question, "Henry, am I really the only woman you ever loved or asked to marry you?" The story was suggested by Bertie Badger Moyers, and is reviewed at length elsewhere.

Mutual Film Corporation.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 1 (Gaumont), December 31.—Interesting items of this issue of the Weekly are scenes at the Great Lakes naval training station showing Sousa's Marine band in review with other men-'o-war's men, a review of French soldiers on the occasion of the conferring on General Maistre the distinction of Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor, and American army engineers breaking ice on the river preparatory to throwing a bridge across.

MOLLY GO GET 'EM (American), January 7.—A five-part comedy production featuring Margarita Fischer. The story is more a matter of incident than of well-constructed drama, but the picture is pleasing because of the clean, youthful freshness which permeates it. A full review will be found elsewhere.

A PEACH AND A PILL (Strand), January 8.—A comedy of ordinary interest in which a young love desirous of keeping a date made with a stranger feigns illness as an excuse for leaving his lady love at an early hour. In attempting to doctor him for a headache she gives him by mistake a bi-chloride tablet, which he drops into his pocket instead of swallowing when she is not looking. A chase after the young man when the awful error is discovered affords considerable action.

Paramount Pictures Corporation.

MRS. DANE'S DEFENSE (Paramount), January 7.—A five-reel version of the famous play by Henry Arthur Jones, adapted by Margaret Turnbull and directed by Hugh Ford. Pauline Frederick appears as Felicia Hindemarsh, the girl who sinned in a weak moment and afterward assumed the name of her cousin, Mrs. Dane, in an effort to hide her past. The drama is intensely interesting. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ARGUS PICTORIAL NO. 5 (Pathe), January 13.—A demonstration of the way gold leaf is made leads this number. The gold, first in ingot form, is rolled into ribbons, then cut into squares and beaten into leaf only one three-hundred-thousandth of an inch thick. The microscope then reveals two tiny wonders of nature called Bell Animalcula and Monstyla, which are shown feeding upon even smaller forms of life. The final feature of this entertaining and informing number shows the Bagworm, which hatches out of pupa cases attached to swinging boughs.

YELLOWSTONE PARK (Pathe), January 13.—A tinted reel of scenic views taken in the great national park. This gives a very comprehensive idea of Yellowstone, showing the natural bridge, Rock of Ages and Wedding Rock, Emblem stream, Powell camp, Tower Falls, the Needles, terraces, cascades, and other natural wonders. Two herds of buffalos are also pictured.

MY LADY'S FURS (Pathe), January 13.—A half-reel subject showing the way in which furs are cleaned and cared for. It gives an idea of the special attention that must be given to fur-trimmed garments and muffs in order to preserve them from early destruction.

HEARTS AND HORSES (Pathe), January 13.—On same reel with above. This features Happy Hooligan and the boys in a rather elaborate animated drawing. The scenes at the race track, where Hooligan rides an old time favorite to victory, are very funny. The handling of great crowds in constant movement is quite an achievement as here presented.

THE CLOVEN TONGUE (Pathe), January 20.—A five-reel drama produced by the Russian Art Film Corporation. This is a story of love and jealousy enacted by an interesting cast of Russian performers. The scenes are laid on a country estate. The plot concerns the daughter of Nicolai Orloff, a Russian nobleman, beloved by a neighboring prince. Orloff's housekeeper, a beautiful Circassian woman, is jealous of the girl, and attempts to separate the lovers, but she herself is killed in the course of the story. This is a drama of the quiet, intense type and has a happy ending. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Prizma, Inc.

OUR NAVY (Prizma, Inc.), January.—A twelve-reel series of pictures of our navy photographed and projected in natural colors. This collection is probably the fullest and best yet made on the subject. A full review will be found elsewhere.

Triangle Film Corporation.

THE LAW'S OUTLAW (Triangle), January 13.—Roy Stewart has another of his favorite sheriff roles in this five-part photoplay of the West, and is capably supported by Fritzi Ridgeway and a good cast. The story is well written, and reveals some picturesque scenes in the cattle country. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

I LOVE YOU (Triangle), January 13.—The second Triangle superproduction released on the regular program, this seven-part photoplay has an unusual degree of merit. The scenes are laid in Italy, and Alma Rubens looks and acts the heroine to the life. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Universal Film Manufacturing Corporation.

CURRENT EVENTS NO. 34 (Universal), December 29.—A diversified issue containing many topics of general consequence. The scenes picturing the American soldiers in France are among the most interesting. Cartoons from prominent newspapers is the closing feature.

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 5 (Universal), January 2.—Fighting fire to save war munitions in Boston is the first feature of this entertaining topical number. Treatment of war prisoners, scenes from the Italian front, and numerous other subjects are also presented.

MAIMED IN A HOSPITAL (Nestor), January 14.—A comic number by Craig Hutchinson, featuring Dave Morris, Max Asher, and Gladys Tennyson. This is the old plot of the man who tries to get hurt in order to see a hospital nurse. The rough house among the patients is not done so well as in some previous numbers, but will amuse many observers.

THE FUGITIVES (Universal Special), January 14.—Instalment No. 14 of "The Red Ace." This opens with the escape of Virginia and Winthrop from the burning building. They then visit the president of a big powder company. Their actions are watched by the spies, who later pursue their automobile on horseback, firing at them so that the auto plunges over a cliff. The suspense has been splendidly maintained throughout this serial, which is now drawing to an interesting close.

"HOME-RUN" AMBROSE (L-Ko), January 16.—An unusually funny L-Ko, featuring Mack Swain. He helps his mother at home with the cooking, and later goes to "Cornyell" College. The kitchen scenes are full of amusing small business, and the later events at college are also laughable. Ambrose gets into an entanglement with the president's wife, but redeems himself at the ball game, where he knocks a home run. A very good subject.

HIDDEN HANDS (Universal Special), January 19.—Episode No. 8 of "The Mystery Ship." Betty is rescued from the sea still secreted in the chest by the man of mystery. The chest is found on the beach by the gang and conveyed to Chinatown, San Francisco, with Betty still inside of it. In Chinatown she meets with exciting adventures, and Gaston and Jack come to aid her. The number is full of action and makes a successful instalment.

World Pictures.

THE CROSS-BEARER (Wm. A. Brady).—Cardinal Mercier, of Belgium, is the leading character in this eight-part photoplay, Montague Love having the role and playing it with dignity and feeling. The picture is a love romance, and the present war is used merely as a background. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

THE STRONG WAY (World), January 14.—Fine locations and a well constructed story are to be found in this five-part screen drama, which tells again of the young girl who marries for money that she may save her family from poverty. June Elvidge is at the head of the cast, and is as wholesome and as artistic as ever. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Paralta Plays Announces Release Date

"A Man's Man" and "Madame Who" Have Been Selected as First for Distribution.

SINCE the announcement was made in this paper a few weeks ago that arrangements had been consummated between Carl Anderson, President of Paralta Plays, Inc., and the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation for the distribution of Paralta Plays through the Hodkinson Corporation, exhibitors throughout the country have been most enthusiastic in booking these productions, which have been so widely heralded, and which, pleased to state have, according to the critics, lived up to what has been said about them in the advertisements.

Realizing the fact that exhibitors would, in many cases be compelled to rearrange their booking schedules to make room for the presentation of Paralta Plays on their program, Carl Anderson decided that the first two productions, "A Man's Man," with J. Warren Kerrigan as the star, and Bessie Barriscale's starring vehicle "Madam Who," would be placed on the market without a regular release date, in order to give the exhibitors time to arrange their bookings.

In practically all of the larger cities throughout the country, and in a great number of the smaller towns contracts have now been closed for the presentation of these productions, and the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation are now able to announce definite dates for release of the future offerings. The third Paralta Play to be presented will be "His Robe of Honor" from the pen of Ethel and James Dorrance in which Henry B. Walthall will be seen as the star. This production will be released on the fifteenth day of January, and in the future one Paralta Play will be released every two weeks. In "His Robe of Honor" Henry B. Walthall will be seen in the roll of an unscrupulous lawyer, a tool in the hands of a great grafting political machine, whose nobler nature is awakened by the refining influence of a young woman of high ideals, and who at last turns on the "gang" and surmounting all obstacles that are thrown in his way, becomes an upright judge of the Supreme Court.

The story shows in vivid colors the inner workings of a political gang which controls the court of a great city and carries its onlookers into that great crucible of life where the tenacles of the "machine" reach out from the homes of refinement down to the very depths of degradation.

In speaking of the story, W. A. Pinkerton, the celebrated detective, said: "I have not seen a story in years that has pleased me more than this; it shows the authors, Ethel and James Dorrance, understand the subject about which they are writing thoroughly, and it is true to life. From my own personal knowledge, conditions as they exist not only in New York but in Chicago, and other large cities, are thoroughly explained."

Chaplin Takes on His Old Manager

Alfred Reeves Tells How It Happened Comedian First Came to America.

ALFRED REEVES, Charlie Chaplin's old vaudeville manager, arrived in New York last week, en route to Los Angeles, where he will be associated with the comedian in the business management of the new Hollywood studios.

Mr. Reeves tells an interesting story of how Chaplin came to America and how later the little funmaker left his management to join the Keystone Company. He says—and smiles a dry smile when saying it—"You know I really wanted Sid Chaplin, but the London management wouldn't let Sid come. 'You can have Charlie, if he's any good to you,' Mr. Karno told me—and I had to be satisfied. Sid gave his consent—then I had to win Charlie. I told him about the money some American comedians were making, promised him more than he was earning in England, and, finally, got him over here. I remember taking him to see George Cohan.

"'How much does he get?" Charlie asked. 'Oh, hundreds a week,' I told him. 'He's a rich man.' 'Well,' says Charlie, 'if he can do it so can I.'

"After some months on the road Charlie received an offer from Mack Sennett, who had seen him work in Los Angeles. Though I hated to lose him I told him to accept, as the salary was more than we could afford to pay. When we parted on the railroad platform at Kansas City Charlie gave me this (taking a wallet out of his pocket), and in it this twenty-dollar bill with a slip of paper on which was written, 'From Charlie to Al for a farewell toast.' As I still have the twenty we'll have the drink together when I reach Los Angeles."

Mr. Reeves reports that motion picture houses are doing better business under war conditions in England than the theaters and music halls. He says the trip over was uneventful, no submarines having been sighted.

PAULINE FREDERICK IN ALLEGORICAL PICTURE.

The date of release of Pauline Frederick's next picture for Paramount has been announced. It is George V. Hobart's allegorical morality play, entitled "Madame Jealousy," and will be released Feb. 4. The subject-matter is entirely new to the films and is said to make a most unsual and interesting production. Miss Frederick plays the part of "Jealousy."

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

Triangle Schedule for Jan. 13

Alma Rubens Starred in "I Love You," a Production of Beauty, With Scenes Laid in France and Italy—Roy Stewart, Cowboy Star, Appears in New Western Feature.

FOR the week of Jan. 13, Triangle will release two features that in every way come up to the diversified program policy of the company. One is a love story of foreign color, and the other a Western story said to give an entirely new angle from which to construct a thriller.

The second seven-part feature to be produced under the new Triangle plan of a seven-reel picture every month will be released the first part of the week under the title, "I Love You," with Alma Rubens as the star. The story centers around Felice, an Italian girl of exceptional beauty, who sits for a painting by a French artist, Jules Marton (Francis McDonald). He makes love to her, and after she learns to love him he leaves her. When the portrait is hung, a wealthy Frenchman, Armande de Gautier (Wheeler Oakman), sees it and falls in love with the original. Alma Rubens, as the Italian girl, is said to be well placed in the role and her natural beauty fits right into the character. Wheeler Oakman and Francis McDonald, both new to Triangle plays, also appear to advantage. The scenes for the production are laid in France and Italy, and the scenic displays are said to be of particular attractiveness. In one case the manuscript called for a Venetian scene and Director Edwards had two palaces and the Grand Canal of Venice reproduced, from which especially brilliant night effects were made. A street carnival was also taken. Quaint old houses with thatched roofs, the kind to be seen in Italy, were built especially at the Hartville ranch studio. The construction of these buildings resulted in a natural effect being secured and more that "local color." "I Love You" was written by Catherine Carr.

For the second part of the week's program, "Law's Outlaw," featuring Roy Stewart, now recognized as one of the foremost delineators of Western characters, will be released. The story was written by Ethel and James Dorrance, and deals with Charles Easton (Roy Stewart), who is defeated for the office of sheriff in a Far Western town. In spite of the fact that he is urged to contest the election, he refuses. Easton becomes an outlaw and, while hiding in Hawk's Nest, a bandit stronghold, he solves the mystery of the attack on Davidson. After capturing the two bandits he turns them over to the acting sheriff and is himself held for the murder of Ransford. But he is saved from hanging by the appearance of the sheriff, who declares the whole thing a "frame-up." The supporting cast in this picture is excellent and Director Cliff Smith is said to have secured unusually good Western atmosphere for the production.

"Dimples and Dangers," featuring Harry Gribbon, will be the Keystone comedy of the week of January 13. Gribbon appears as a dancing master with a class composed of Keystone beauties. In spite of the fact that he is married to Claire Anderson, Gribbon indulges in many flirtations and the picture is replete with action throughout. One funny scene is shown when Gribbon mistakes his mother-in-law for the new maid and welcomes the real maid as if she were a queen. Gribbon's mixing of personalities has him in hot water for a long while.

"A Straight Cook" and "A Marriage Not," one-reel Triangle Komedies, are included in the week's program.

GOODRICH DIRT AND THE DUKE DE WHATANOB.

Wallace Carlson, of the Bray Studios, introduces in the 101st release of the Paramount-Bray Pictograph, "the-magazine-on-the-screen," Goodrich Dirt, the funny tramp character who has amused thousands of theatergoers on the screen, in a particularly funnny cartoon called "Goodrich Dirt and the Duke de Whatanob."

Just as he is about to reach out, however, a passerby stops to make a purchase, and as he does so drops a card which is picked up by Goodrich, who discovers that it belongs to the Duke de Whatanob, and puts it in his pocket. The storekeeper turns around in time to see him and promptly kicks the barrel, which goes rolling down the streets and lands Goodrich against a post at the end of the wharf. Poor old Goodrich is spilled into the water and is about to go down for the third time when a passing yacht spies him, throws him a life-preserver and hauls him on deck. They come across the card of the duke and, quite naturally, think that this is he.

All goes swimmingly until the real duke appears in a hydroplane, which, by misfortune, lands him on the deck of the yacht.

Pathe Program

Strong Drama and Comedy on the Schedule of Releases for Week of January 20.

AN UNUSUALLY strong Russian Art Film and an especially amusing Lloyd Comedy stand out in Pathe's program for the week of January 20. "The Cloven Tongue" is a feature in five reels, produced by the Russian Art Film Corporation. It is a picture of country life in "the land of snows." The cast is composed of the best actors of the Moscow Art Theater, prominent among whom is Natalia Lesienko, the greatest vampire in Russia. "The Cloven Tongue" is a story of a nobleman who falls in love with his housekeeper, a Circassian peasant, physically beautiful but fickle, unscrupulous, cruel and deceitful. She steps between the nobleman and his daughter and then between the young girl and the man she loves, Prince Alexis. She attempts to win the prince for herself and she is almost successful when she steps too far and retribution overtakes her.

Doris Kenyon stars in the ninth episode of the Hidden Hand, entitled "Jets of Flame" with Sheldon Lewis, Arline Pretty and Mahlon Hamilton. This is a good episode with amazing scientific stunts and unusual thrills. To escape the Hidden Hand, Doris climbs up to the chimney of a factory but when the diabolical villain blows up the building, she falls into the fire room where jets of flame spout up around her. The Hidden Hand has gone too far however, since in the crash of the ruined chimney he has been seriously injured and as the picture fades from view, he is carried out by his henchmen.

Harold Lloyd's comedy is, "The Big Idea," in one reel, produced by the Rolin Film Corporation. Business is bad for the antique dealer. Harold has the big idea. He starts a rumor that an article marked XX at O. U. Phaker antique shop has $10,000 concealed in it. Then he proceeds to mark every article in the place XX, and the result can be imagined.

"Bruges (Belgium) Before the War" is a Pathe colored travel split-reel. It shows the city of Bruges, which owes its name to the number of bridges which cross its canal, and which was from the 12th to the 16th century the largest commercial city in the North of Europe.

"In Blossom Time," Pathe colored educational, which forms the other half of this reel, shows some beautiful closeups of various flowers and plants, and is one of the prettiest things of its kind ever made.

An International Cartoon and Educational split-reel and Hearst-Pathe News Nos. 8 and 9 complete this program.

NOVELTY WAR COMICS.

Beginning Feb 2 General Film will have a new product to offer in semi-monthly single reel subjects called Novelty Films, the product of the Merkel Film Company of Cincinnati. Each release will be composed of a variety of subjects making up a full reel and described best under its title of Novelty Films. The featured part of each release will be a comic animated cartoon on war subjects. The remainder of the reel will be devoted to educational, scenic or scientific subjects, of the most popular nature.

Official of General Film Company have already viewed the first three releases and regard them as subjects most desirable for any program. The headliner for each release is the animated cartoon. In several of them Kaiser William II of the Hohenzollern tribe and the Crown Prince are the leading characters and they are put through some convulsive comedy stunts that strike a popular chord with patriotic American audiences. Other patriotic matter is also included in the releases, such as an animated gallery of American military heroes, and British and other allied generals. One of the sure fire hits of a forthcoming Novelty Film will be "The Girth of a Nation" showing America's vast war-making resources in animated form both amusingly and educationally presented.

Arno Merkel, a young man of many clever ideas and well known to the Cincinnati public, is the author of the various stunts in Novelty Films. He is the author of "What Will America Do?" an animated film that scored quite a success several months ago just before the declaration of war by the United States. Associated with him is artist Ran. M. Anderson as animator.

MORE "FINN & HADDIES."

Walter Stahl and Billy Ruge make their third appearance in a Finn & Haddie comedy of the Jaxon series this week in "Out and In," a rapid-fire laughmaker. This is the first of the new series of Jaxon comedies. At the same time Billy Ruge will appear in "The Best of a Bad Bargain," the sixth of the fifth series of Sparkle comedies.

Mutual Program

Popular Frohman Play, "The Impostor," Starring Ann Murdock, Heads the Schedule for Week of January 14 List.

ANN MURDOCK, Charles Frohman's baby star baby—the youngest actress he ever placed at the head of her own company—has completed "The Impostor," a five-reel comedy-drama, scheduled for release by Mutual January 14. This production, made by the Empire All-Star Corporation under the direction of Dell Henderson, is a screen adaptation of the play of the same name first produced at the Garrick theater, New York, by Charles Frohman. After an extended run there it was produced at the Duke of York's theater, London, where it repeated its New York success.

The play is based on a story by Leonard Merrick and dramatized by Michael Morton, an American now ranked as one of England's foremost dramatists.

The action is built around the vicissitudes of Mary Fenton, a young lady of refinement who, through unfortunate circumstances, finds herself penniless and without friends in New York. Meeting Charles Owen, a chivalrous but indiscreet young married man, she accepts the hospitality of his hotel apartments, where embarrassing complications ensue, from which she is finally extricated and placed on the road to happiness by Owen.

The hotel scenes in "The Impostor" were taken in the Hotel Plaza, New York, and show the magnificent rose dining-room, the marble office and one of the sumptuous suites. The photographs of the rose dining-room were taken at midnight, the guests in the picture being actual patrons of the hotel. This privilege was granted through the friendship of the management for the late Charles Frohman.

The cast includes David Powell, an actor of sterling ability, who has appeared with Miss Murdock in many stage successes; Lionel Adams, Richie Ling, Charlotte Granville, Eleanor Seybolt, Edyth Latimer, Charles Mussett, and Anita Rothe.

"Burglars" is the title of the Strand comedy starring Billie Rhodes released January 15. They aren't real burglars, however; only Billie and her cousin, an adventurous young chap, mistake each other for burglars when they both try to break into their uncle's house at night. They're both arrested, but uncle arrives in time to prevent their spending the night in a dank cell.

The Mutual Weekly, released January 14, is up to the minute, and contains the usual quota of exclusive subjects. An instance of an exclusive picture is shown in the weekly released December 31, showing the landing in the Presidio, San Francisco, of Miss Katherine Stinson, the daring aviatrix, who set a new American record in flying without stop the 610 miles between San Diego and San Francisco.

FRANK KEENAN AND BESSIE LOVE PICTURES COMPLETED BY PATHE.

Frank Keenan and Bessie Love have completed their first Pathe Plays, and have already started work on their second big features under their new banner. Mr. Keenan's finished picture is "Loaded Dice," scenarioized by Gilson Willetts from the novel by Hillary A. Clark, and directed by Herbert Blache.

The character created by Mr. Keenan is that of an unscrupulous, unprincipled man, whose one law is "Success and let nothing stand in its way," who says, "God is a Myth." Through the intensely dramatic story he almost proves his point; always he seems capable of winning. "For when one plays for high stakes, when one must win, he must play with 'Loaded Dice'," he says. Then at last in a scene, the gripping power of which can not be described, he dies with these words on his lips, "I lose; there is a God." The picture to follow this is called "Simeon's Shadow," and is directed by Ernest Warde, more than half of the scenes having been completed in record time.

Little Miss Love's initial Pathe picture is "Spring of the Year," from Henry Kitchell Webster's "The Painted Scene," produced under the direction of Mme. Alice Blache, formerly director-general of the Gaumont Company in Paris, with the following hitherto unannounced cast: Chester Barnett, Donald Hall, Flora Finch, Florence Short, Walter Craven, and Jack Dunn. The story is a delightful one of a little country girl who comes to the city and through sheer charm of youth and innocence makes good on the stage. As can be imagined the little star fits the title and title fits the star. Her new Pathe Play is "How Could You, Carolyn?" by Zola Forrester, which is being directed by Frederick Thomson.

"KEITH OF THE BORDER," TRIANGLE WESTERN.

"In spite of what some people say, there still are thrills in the movies, and one must differentiate between 'stunts' and real thrills," says Cliff Smith, Triangle director of Western subjects featuring Roy Stewart, and who is now working on "Keith of the Border," the screen adaptation of Randall Parrish's novel of the same name. Smith made his statement following what he termed one of the most spectacular feats of horsemanship in which a seasoned puncher played the lead he has witnessed during his career as a director. Among the Triangle cowboys there is Bill Patton, former Texas ranger and deputy sheriff.

Chapin Pictures Released February 11

Paramount to Issue Lincoln Series in Ten Episodes of Two Reels Each.

PARAMOUNT has set Feb. 11 as the release date for the first of Benjamin Chapin's series, "The Son of Democracy." This series of ten two-reel features, each a complete story, deals with America and Americanism in the making, and Abraham Lincoln, the boy and the man, is the leading character in these stories.

"My Mother," the first of the series, deals with the log cabin birth of Abraham Lincoln, and with the humorous and pathetic events in his early boyhood, making an ideal release for the week of Lincoln's birthday.

"My Mother" and "My Father," the first two releases, might well be described as comedy-dramas. The second is especially full of action and fun, containing a rough-and-tumble fist fight in which Abe's father gives a terrific beating to a neighbor who tried to cheat him. In the first Abe himself gets into a rousing scrap, bringing sorrow to his mother. On her dying bed he promises her that he never will fight again, a promise that returns to him and holds him back when men are clamoring for him to declare war. "The Son of Democracy" is particularly inspiring in its patriotic scenes.

Besides being truly entertaining film short stories, "The Son of Democracy" series possesses great educational value, and Paramount is making a special advertising drive in magazines and in direct-by-mail circularization, so as to interest educators, clubwomen, etc., in actually doing constructive work to aid the exhibitor showing these pictures.

NOVELTY IN A PLAY WITHIN A PLAY.

The combined artistry of Edgar Selwyn and Aubrey M. Kennedy, the authors, and George Loane Tucker, the director of Mabel Normand's newest Goldwyn production, "Dodging a Million," promises to make this mystery play of love and thrills a really novel screen offering. Together these three masters of screencraft have hit upon an artifice that stamps the new picture as photographically and structurally something out of the ordinary.

In the course of the action of "Dodging a Million," at a time when the hero, heroine and villian are well tied up in a knot of mysterious adventures, they seek the distraction of the theater. The hero (Tom Moore) is unable to "shake" the villian (Armand Cortes) so that he can make love to the heroine (Mabel Normand), and accordingly the three are seated together watching the performance on the stage. It so happens that the play in progress is one of those exotic tales of love and murder against a background of Arabian Nights scenery and costumes; so the hero has every opportunity for the exercise of his imagination. As he looks over the footlights, the face of the villian there, who is about to stab the hero there, gradually metamorphoses into that of the dark Spaniard who sits beside him, the face of the hero into his own, and that of the beautiful heroine into Miss Normand's.

There have been many instances in motion pictures of the past where characters have attended the theater to learn lessons that they might apply to their own lives, but this is probably the first in which the stage action is carried out by the characters in the photoplay itself.

"KID McCOY" TO APPEAR IN "THE HOUSE OF GLASS."

Norman Selby, known to fame as "Kid McCoy," will make his screen debut as an actor in "The House of Glass," which Clara Kimball Young, Select star, and her own company are at present producing in the C. K. Y. studio in New Rochelle. Selby will play the part of Detective Carroll, a role in which not alone his histrionic ability, but his pugilistic training also will be given a chance for expression.

The casting for "The House of Glass" is practically completed. The vacancy made by Higel Barrie's enlistment in the Royal Flying Corps has been filled by Pell Trenton, and Miss Young's leading man will be Corliss Giles, who supported her in "Shirley Kaye." Edward Kimball, the star's father, whose excellent portrayal of the stiffnecked old father in "Magda" was second only to Miss Young's interpretation of the title role, has been given a strong part, and others in the cast are Josie Sadler as Mrs. Brandt, William Waltman as Detective Crowley, and Peggy Burke as Nellie, the maid.

"The House of Glass," which was written by Max Marcin, has been adapted to the screen by Charles F. Whittaker. It was acquired by Miss Young after fast bidding in competition with a number of rival purchasers and represents one of the most important transactions of the motion picture year. It will be directed by Emile Chautard and when completed will be distributed through Select exchanges.

SCENICS GO STRONG.

"Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada," the current Essanay scenic, a General Film release, upholds the fast pace set by these de luxe scenics as friend-makers for the box office, and is one of the most entertaining numbers of the series. Some of the most wonderful scenery ever caught by the camera is found in this release. The high standing the Essanay scenics have enjoyed in the leading picture theaters of New York has created an unusual demand for these short-length subjects, according to advices received from General film branches.

"The House of Hate"

New Pathe Serial Featuring Pearl White and Antonio Moreno—Will Extend Over Fifteen Episodes.

THE HOUSE OF HATE," is announced as the next serial released by Pathe, in which Pearl White plays the lead. "The House of Hate" is known as Pathe's all-star serial, and never before in any serial has this company gathered a cast of such excellence. The leads will be played by Pearl White and Scene from "The House of Hate" (Pathe).

Antonio Moreno; in the cast will be such actors as John Gilmour, Peggy Shaner, Paul Clerget and J. W. Dillon.

The story has been written by Arthur B. Reeve and Chas. A. Logue, well-known story and photoplay writers. Mr. Reeve has an international reputation as the creator of Craig Kennedy, the scientific detective. Mr. Logue is known as a co-author with Mr. Reeve in "The Hidden Hand," the Pathe serial in which the four film stars, Doris Kenyon, Sheldon Lewis, Arline Pretty and Mahlon Hamilton, have done such good work and which has been one of the big Pathe serial successes. He also is the author of many successful features.

The release date of "The House of Hate" has been set for the early spring and plans are now being made for one of the biggest advertising and publicity campaigns that Pathe has conducted on any of its serials.

"The mystery feature, production, thrills, efficient actors, and a dramatic story, which will bring motion picture audiences back for every one of the fifteen episodes, have all been provided for in 'The House of Hate'," said a Pathe official when giving advance information on this serial.

"We have found that serial audiences want mystery and thrills in the continued photoplays, and we are giving them both elements. The mystery develops from the fate that hangs over the House of Walden, celebrated munition-makers. This family for generations have been making munitions for the highest bidder. Nature takes a hand in the game, and the present-day generation of this family strives to fight against the doom of heredity.

"The head of the house of Walden is killed by a mysterious assassin just after he has arranged for the betrothal of his daughter, the part played by Pearl White, to her cousin, so that the control of the Walden War Works will remain in the family. Harry Gresham, a young scientist, played by Antonio Moreno, is in love with Pearl White, and she finds out that she regards him more highly than she does her cousin, after the betrothal. Another cousin, Zelda, played by Miss Shaner, is the vampire of this serial. She is in love with Gresham and does her best to block his efforts to win Pearl.

"Thrill follows thrill in logical sequence through the fifteen episodes, and the authors have drawn upon science and nature for spectacular stunts.

"In line with Pathe's policy, the production of this serial equals that given the best features. Pathe serials today are acknowledged to be among the best continued photoplay releases, and they are being shown to enthusiastic audiences in the highest class of theaters throughout the country. The story-star-production policy on Pathe serials has made each two-reel episode the equal, if not the superior, of the average feature shown in the best motion picture theaters. The result has been the winning of Pathe serial fans among all classes of society.

"BY RIGHT OF PURCHASE" NEW TALMADGE STORY.

Norma Talmadge will shortly commence work on a production the present title of which is "By Right of Purchase." This picture will be made at Miss Talmadge's own studio and with her own company; it will be presented by Joseph M. Schenck and distributed by Select.

Next Artcraft a Hart Subject

Third Ince Production Released January 14 Presents Hart in New Character of the West.

THE third Ince-Artcraft production, starring William S. Hart, presents the noted actor in a new role. The title of the photoplay is "Wolves of the Rail," and is a melodrama of the West with a wealth of action and a romantic love story.

Hart has the role of "Buck" Andrade, the leader of a gang of outlaws who terrorize the country through which the Atlantic and Pacific railroad runs. Hart's mother, on her dying bed, prays for her son to reform. He assures her that he has done his last "job" and from that moment will go "straight." And then he starts in to live a new sort of life, commencing with the defeat of his own gang of outlaws as they try to hold up the train on which are "Buck" and a detective sent from the Eastern offices of the railroad, a famous tracker of criminals, known as "The Bloodhound." This detective is shot in the fray. Hart procures his papers and credentials and introduces himself to the local railroad officials as the man who has been sent to clear the line of banditry.

Vola Vale, as Faith Lawson, the sweetheart of "Buck," plays an important part. Faith has been given the position of "towerman" by the railroad company upon the death of her father, who held the post, and she renders valuable assistance to "Buck" in his desperate encounters with the outlaws.

C. Norman Hammond plays the part of the detective, and "Billy" Elmer is Pablo Trilles, who succeeds "Buck" as the leader of the outlaws and is the mortal enemy of his former chief; Melbourne MacDowell, as the railroad president, has a very human role, and materially assists in the romance between "Buck" and Faith.

Most of the scenes in "Wolves of the Rail" were photographed in the mountains of California, where a complete railroad station, switch tower and a division superintendent's office were erected. Thomas H. Ince says that he considers this the best Hart picture thus far made for Artcraft.

BLACKTON AT WORK IN CALIFORNIA.

Work began December 20 at the Lasky studios in California on "Wild Youth," third of the Sir Gilbert Parker novels to be translated to the screen by J. Stuart Blackton, and which will be a Paramount release in the near future, following "The World for Sale." Comodore Blackton expressed himself as delighted with the cast chosen for the production and also with the locations.

FOX EXPECTS "SPURLOCK" TO BREAK RECORDS.

William Fox states that he paid George H. Lorimer more for the privilege of filming "Jack Spurlock—Prodigal" than he ever before paid for a similar privilege, and Mr. Fox has filmed some mighty big stories. George Walsh says his work in the picture is the best he ever did before the camera. Carl Harbaugh, who directed it, declares his willingness to be judged as a director by the results he obtained in the film story. These foregoing facts doubtless prompt the Fox forces to refer to it as the BIG picture.

Now here is where the exhibitor comes in. Mr. Fox has announced that "Jack Spurlock—Prodigal" is to be given without extra charge to William Fox patrons, listed January 30, 1918, as having contracted for the Fox Special Features, and that nobody else will get it. It is going out as a regular weekly Special Feature, not as an "extra," although General Manager Sheehan declares "it has the punch entitling it to rank as a de luxe production and is really worthy of being distributed on the basis of an 'extra' at an advanced price.

Scene from "Jack Spurlock—Prodigal" (Fox).

"I have no doubt 'Jack Spurlock—Prodigal' will attain the distinction of being one of the big money producers of the year 1918 and we want our patrons to share in it. From present indications it not only will be a money maker but it will be a record breaker."

New Year's Brady-Mades

Latest Release Sheet Schedules Time up to March 18.

THE World Film Corporation's new release sheet announces the publication of World Pictures Brady-Made at the regular rate of one each week up to and including March 18.

The list begins with "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds." the story of Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr, written by Samuel M. Weller, with many historical scenes in old New York and Washington, D. C., and a star cast including Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley, and Arthur Ashley. Among the subordinate players are Hubert Wilke as Jacob Clingman, Pinna Nesbit as Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, Lionel Belmore as Gen. Israel Putnam, Justine Cutting as Mrs. Putnam, George MacQuarrie as Gen. George Washington, Rose Tapley as Mrs. Washington, Albert Hart as Thomas Jefferson, Jack Drumier as John Adams, Alexander Francis as Gen. Philip Schuyler, etc. This picture was directed by Arthur Ashley, with Lucien Tainguy as chief cameraman. "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds" is one of a series of historical romances published by World Pictures. Its two predecessors upon this program, "The Heart of a Hero" (reflecting the life of Nathan Hale) and "Betsy Ross," were received with such widespread favor as to encourage the producers to return to this field at stated intervals in the pursuit of material.

On January 28, Madge Evans in "Gates of Gladness" will be the attraction, and George MacQuarrie will be featured with her. Parts of this picture play are laid in the art colony around Washington Square, and other parts in Georgian Court, the superb estate of George Gould at Lakewood. Sharp visual contrast is aroused by several faithful reproductions of McDougall's Alley as against the regal ornamentation of Georgian Court. In the cast with little Miss Evans and Mr. MacQuarrie are Niles Welch, Rosina Henley, Gerda Holmes, and Mrs. Stuart Robson. "Gates of Gladness" was directed by Harley Knoles; photographed by Rene Guissart.

On February 4, Kitty Gordon in "The Divine Sacrifice" will make her newest appearance upon the World program. The psychology of this photoplay concerns the measure of justification falling to a husband who seeks the human privilege of fatherhood elsewhere when his wife refuses to assume the responsibility of bearing children. The dramatic crisis comes when the mother of the girl thus brought into the world faces the problem raised by a reputable and well born young man who seeks to marry the maiden without a name. Miss Gordon plays the self-sacrificing mother, and her daughter, Vera Beresford, appears as the child. In the company are Jean Angelo, formerly leading man with Sarah Bernhardt; Selene Johnson, Charles Dungan and others. George Archainbaud directed "The Divine Sacrifice," and Philip Hatkin operated the camera.

"Whims of Society," with Ethel Clayton as its star, will be published February 11, a play in which the stern old factory owner is about to disinherit his son for perfectly honorable attentions to a girl in the factory, but before he can sign the document a disgruntled employee blows up the structure, owner and all. In this picture play, besides Miss Clayton, are Pinna Nesbit, Katherine Johnston, Frank Mayo, Jack Drumier and others. The director is Travers Vale; cameraman, Max Schneider.

June Elvidge and Arhur Ashley in "Broken Ties" will be seen February 18; Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greeley in "A Leap to Fame" (in which Mr. Blackwell performed a startling and dangerous "stunt"), February 25; Alice Brady in a new comedy drama, "The Spurs of Sybil," March 4; Kitty Gordon in "The Wasp," March 11, and Madge Evans in "Wanted, a Mother," March 18.

THIRD PHYSICAL CULTURE FILM.

The third issue of the Physical Culture Screen Magazine, which has just been released by General Film Company, contains a great wealth of interesting material for picture fans who are anxious to build stronger bodies and insure better health for themselves. Editor Bernarr Macfadden is shown performing an unusual feat of strength which is guaranteed to improve the health of any business man. Vera Roehm illustrates a number of methods which women can utilize to good advantage in protecting themselves from mashers, and also displays a number of beneficial exercises for the hips, legs and abdominal walls of the body. Another interesting feature is contributed by Henry Elionakey, a champion swimmer, who demonstrates the use of various swimming strokes. Proper exercises for the baby, bayonet exercises by Prof. William Grupp, a well-known boxer, and Prof. Allan Smith's exhibition of jiu jitsu holds complete the unusual attractive number of this unique screen magazine.

IN SYDNEY THE ANTIPODEAN METROPOLIS.

Sydney, the port of entry into Australia, the only country in the world that covers an entire continent, is the subject of No. 100 of the Paramount-Holmes Travelogues. The picture shows the entrance of the harbor, the splendid suburban villas on the shores, the docks, warehouses, piers and skyscrapers, which make the noble city of Sydney a splendid metropolis of 800,000. The trip goes all over the city from the top of skyscrapers to the Post Office, Martin Place, Botanical Garden and Circular Quay, and a number of other interesting sights. This travelogue was released Jan. 7.

"THE MYSTERIOUS CLIENT" (Pathe).

A distinct novelty in story and in dramatic construction is promised in the Pathe feature just completed under the working title of "The Mysterious Client."

This picture, the first made under the direction of Fred. Wright since his return to the Pathe Company, has Irene Castle in the star part supported by Milton Sills, Warner Oland and Caesare Gravin. It was produced from a script prepared by Roy Somerville from a story by an anonymous author.

The story opens as a conventional society drama but rapidly assumes the character of an intensely thrilling melodrama. Scenes are shown that depict almost unbelievable situations, and when the impressions has been created that the things seen could not possibly happen in real life, the story takes a sudden turn and not only proves conclusively that the occurrences could happen, but the conviction that they actually do happen, is grimly established.

The insistent demand for something new is fully met in this feature which is a story on the grotesqueness of real life, and while the object sought by the producers is merly the furnish- of entertainment, the subject has an underlying vein of thought that recalls the line that inspired the author, "the truth is more strange than fiction."

It is said that Mrs. Castle's work in "The Mysterious Client" possibly excels her performance in "Convict 993" that was so highly praised by all of the critics.

LIEUTENANT GEORGE HILL, U. S. S. C.

Goldwyn has lost its director of photography, who happens also to be one of the brilliant men in his profession. He is George Hill, now of the Signal Corps. With a first lieutenant's commission in his inside pocket he made a flying trip to Hollywood, Cal., to spend a day with his parents, following which he reported at Washington for further orders.

Few men are better known in the studios than Lieutenant Hill, and his achievements since joining Goldwyn have been many. Besides assuming responsibility for every detail of photography in the big organization at Fort Lee, Hill applied his talents in the actual filming of productions, his capital work in "Polly of the Circus" and "The Cinderella Man" standing as evidence of his skill as a cinematographer.

Considering his youth—he is but twenty-two—his distinction is all the more remarkable. Having started as a camera "man" when less than sixteen years old, his present high place is the result of ceaseless work and an inherent sense of beauty in photography.

When D. W. Griffith went to the French front to make pictures for his present production he personally approached Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, for Hill's release, and it was only the existence of a long-term contract that induced Mr. Griffith to forego trying to take Hill with him. While Goldwyn could not spare the young expert to Griffith, to the Government he can well be spared.

FAVORITE PLAYERS IN "THE WINDING TRAIL."

Winsome Viola Dana is supported by a cast of favorite players in "The Winding Trail," a Metro picture written by Katharine Kavanaugh and June Mathis, and directed by Tod Browning at the Metro West Coast studios in Hollywood, California.

Miss Dana's leading man is Clifford Bruce, who played the prominent role of Ben Boone in "Blue Jeans" with the little star. Hayward Mack, who plays the role of Alvin Steel, has played with most of the leading motion picture companies. Mabel Van Buren is seen in the part of Lou, the sin woman; a strong character role.

Many Western and Mexican characters are seen in this picture which reflects the life of the '70's. All the players were selected just to fit the exact type, and many of the rugged characters seen in the picture faced the camera for the first time. The entire production is full of local color and pictures early Western life with vivid realism and thrilling action.

"The Winding Trail" will be released by Metro on Jan. 14, being the firm's second 1918 release.

BIG THRILLER IN NEW HART PICTURE.

William S. Hart does not, as a rule, present stunts of a sensational character in his photoplay work, but in his newest Ince production, to be released by Artcraft, "Wolves of the Rail," he performs a feat of real daring.

The plot of "Wolves of the Rail" provides that a gang of Mexican bandits send a "live" locomotive crashing into a railroad train on which are United States soldiers. Hart discovers the Mexican's plot in what the writers of fiction commonly term "the nick of time," and, putting spurs to his horse, starts in a mad pursuit of the on-rushing engine. After a spurt that proves the actor's wonderful horsemanship, Hart swings himself into the engine cab in time to throw the lever in reverse, bringing the locomotive to a standstill and preventing the collision. In making this scene, Hart was compelled to do without the usual rehearsals and to ride a horse that was, in addition to being new to motion pictures, "engine shy."

Metro Buys "Lest We Forget"

Acquires Much-Sought-After Picture Starring Rita Jolivet —Many Thrilling Scenes.

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION announces its acquisition of the much sought after picture "Lest We Forget," the war spectacle in which Rita Jolivet is starred. The deal, which was consummated some weeks ago between the original producers, Count de Cippico and J. L. Kempner and Richard A. Rowland and W. E. Atkinson of Metro, gives Metro the entire rights to this photo-drama.

Metro regards the picture as one of the most powerful and significant that has yet been made around the world war, and intends to present it soon at one of the large Broadway theatres as a Metro special production de luxe. Before this presentation, however, the picture will be completely re-arranged and many new scenes taken of important events that had not come to light at the time of the original filming. This work will be in the hands of Charles A. Taylor.

Rita Jolivet.

"Lest We Forget" has already received the indorsement of many Government officials as the best medium to bring home to thinking and patriotic Americans the tremendous issues at stake in the war and the righteousness of its cause. It is wholly American in theme and treatment, and its presentation of the incidents which finally plunged the United States into the war is a masterly defense of this country's course and a stirring reminder of the grievous wrongs suffered at the hands of autocratic Germany.

The story is founded on the series of historical events which led up to the declaration of war on Germany and her allies, and includes in many thrilling scenes an exact reproduction of the sinking of the Lusitania. It will be recalled that Miss Jolivet herself was a passenger on this ill-fated leviathan. In fact, it was she who gave to the world Charles Frohman's last words, "Death is the most beautiful adventure in life." She was making the trip to England to be starred under Mr. Frohman's management at the time, and when the giant liner took its final plunge the actress happened to be at his side.

TOM MIX COMING IN A FOX JANUARY 13.

Tom Mix will make his debut as a star of Western dramas in a production entitled "Cupid's Round Up," which will be released January 13 as a Fox Special Feature. The former comedian is cast this time as a rich man's son, temporarily turned cowboy, who is betrothed in youth to a daughter of his father's best friend—a young woman whom he has not seen since childhood and regarding whose subsequent development he knows nothing.

The young woman, impersonated by Wanda Petit, is quite as uncertain as is her fiancee of the advisability of carrying out the matrimonial arrangements, but like her prospective husband, is prompted to see it through by a strong sense of duty. Determined, however, to have a good time prior to her marriage, she goes to her ranch in the West, exchanges places with her maid and proceeds quite unintentionally to win the love of the man she is to marry.

Others in the cast besides the star and Miss Petit are E. B. Tilton, Roy Watson, Verne Mesereau, Al Padgett, Fred Clark, Eugenia Ford and Barney Furey. The story was written by George Scarborough and the scenario is by Charles Kenyon. Edward J. Le Saint did his first work as a member of the Fox forces in directing this picture.

RUPERT HUGHES SEES "EMPTY POCKETS."

Herbert Brenon had as his guest at a private showing of his recently completed "Empty Pockets" Rupert Hughes, the author of the book. Quoting the latter's own words: "It gives me an eyrie feeling to see the characters I created walking about on the screen, especially when their individuality has been so successfully visualized as in Mr. Brenon's picturization."

Mr. Brenon was much pleased at the author's expression of approval of the new production, as Mr. Hughes is a discerning critic who does not hesitate to make known his opinions where his own reputation is in any way involved. The First National Exhibitors' Circuit is releasing the picture this week.

THREE BIG FEATURES FOR HARRY CAREY.

Universal intends to specialize in Harry Carey features, directed by Jack Ford, as one of the production plans announced for the forthcoming year. Universal contends that Carey has been created as a star during the time he has been engaged at Universal City and it is the managerial purpose to realize to the fullest extent on his popularity by giving him better opportunities than he has ever had before. To that end Director Jack Ford has made careful selections not alone of manuscripts but of the players who will support Carey in acting the parts and following his lead in the saddle.

Molly Malone has been definitey assigned as Carey's featured leading lady and the first of the Carey special will be seen Jan. 28, when "The Phantom Riders" will be released. This is particularly an adventure in which wild riding is featured, but his next offering, "Wild Women," on Feb. 25, will be a riotous comedy that takes the cowboys onto the ocean to finish off their escapade.

Director Ford is now preparing two more productions that will serve Carey with special fitness, besides providing Molly Malone with agreeable roles. They are "Back to the Right Trail," made from Frederick R. Bechdolt's story, and "Lin McLean," founded on Owen Wister's novel of the same title. Betty Schade, Vesta Pegg, Edward Jones, M. K. Wilson, William Carroll, Helen Wright, Martha Mattox, Roy Clark and L. M. Wells will be active in Carey's support.

These Carey features, to be offered at reguar intervals during the coming year, will carry a special equipment of advertising and publicity. It is the declared purpose of Universal to give its exhibitors every possible facility for realizing to the last possible sale of an admission ticket for these attractions.

FANNIE WARD IN "INNOCENT" (Pathe).

In "Innocent," the first of the big star Pathe Plays which will be released on January 27, Fannie Ward will be seen in a Chinese setting that will recall her great triumph in "The Cheat," but in theme, "Innocent" is entirely different to the tragic story in which Miss Ward created such a furor.

For her debut as a Pathe star that company has selected a vehicle that furnishes abundant food for thought. From the psychological angle it asks the grave question should a woman be judged guilty who is engrained with the sins of her father. The film version of George Broadhurst's play leaves this vital question unanswered, but with all it has a pleasant ending. As the last scene of "Innocent" fades out the spectator will be left in a state of indecision, which viewed from the business angle will unquestionably prove of great benefit to the exhibitor in that it will cause discussions that constitute good advertising.

"Innocent" as a stage play produced by A. H. Woods ran for a full season in New York City at the Eltinge theater, and served as a starring vehicle for Pauline Fredericks. In the screen version, Miss Ward, in the title role, is supported by John Miltern, who played opposite Miss Fredericks during the New York engagement of the piece, and the debonair Parisian is interpreted by Armand Kalitz, the well known musical comedy star formerly associated with Amelia Bingham.

The production has had a most lavish staging under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, and into those scenes that are laid in Mukden, China, all of the barbaric allurements and fantastic color of the Orient has been recorded with as great faithfulness to detail as the knowledge of Mr. Fitzmaurice's long residence in China could make them.

Scene from "Innocent" (Pathe).

In announcing this production, Pathe promises a picture that photographically is superb in every detail. Some new and highly artistic light effects will be revealed, and entirely aside from its dramatic values the production is heralded as a pictorial camera study.

Triangle Opens New Year Strong

Four Features Completed as Old Year Died and Four Started With Entrance of 1918—Sea Story by Saturday Evening Post Writer Under way.

STIMULATED by the exceptional production schedule set by General Manager H. O. Davis, the Triangle studios at Culver City opened the New Year with a burst of speed. The first week of 1918 has seen four new stories started and four exceptional pictures completed as the old year died. Four directors are waiting for stories, and one director, Cliff Smith, maker of Western thrillers, is putting the finishing touches to his latest Roy Stewart vehicle.

E. Mason Hopper, whose last feature was "Her American Husband," a romance of the Orient, has begun shooting on a seven-reel feature by E. Magnus Ingleton, the title of which has not been announced. This is described as a gripping socialistic story in which a man who is biased in his way of thinking, a result of heredity, is made to see the right through his love for a good woman. Among the Triangle favorites included in Director Hopper's cast are Alma Rubens, Joe King, Francis McDonald, Jean Hersholt, and Nellie Anderson.

Metropolitan Magazine Story Started.

Director Frank Borzage, with two well known Eastern actors in his cast, has begun work on "The Shoes That Danced," a screen adapation of John Moroso's Metropolitan Magazine story of the same name declared by Editor-in-Chief Julian Johnson to be one of the most interesting stories bought by the department in some time. Jack Cunningham did the continuity. This is a story in which the leading characters are gangsters, and it touches on life in the underworld. An unusual feature is that the villain attends a masquerade ball disguised as Charlie Chaplin.

Working with Director Borzage are Wallace McDonald, the well known leading man, who recently joined the Triangle playing forces. This will be his first appearance in a Triangle feature. Another film favorite in the cast is Dick Rosson, who scored such a success in the Triangle productions, "Cassidy" and "For Valour," made at the Eastern Triangle studio in Yonkers. Rosson recently arrived in Southern California, and will remain with the Culver City forces. Little Pauline Starke, who was generously praised for her work in the Triangle hit, "Until They Get Me," will be seen in the leading feminine role. Others in the cast include Anna Dodge, Ed. Brady, Ann Kronan, Bill Dyer, and Joseph Bennett.

Story of Society Life.

Director Gilbert P. Hamilton seems to be running to "souls" in his work for Triangle. Having just completed a story, the working title of which was "Captain of His Soul," he has started work, with an exceptionally fine cast, on a subject titled "A Soul in Trust." This is an original story by one of the staff authors, Catherine Carr, and deals with society life in Virginia and Washington, D. C. Supporting Belle Bennett in this new subject are Lillian West, Darrell Foss, J. Barney Sherry, Grover Franke, W. A. Jeffries, and Wilbur Higbee. This is Franke's first big part, and Casting Director Arthur Hoyt believes that he will measure up to Triangle standard.

Sea Story by Clarke.

Thomas N. Heffron is now working on a water subject called "The Sea Panther." It is a tale of pirates of the Caribbean Sea, written by Kenneth B. Clarke, well known Saturday Evening Post author. In this picture, William Desmond will be seen as "The Panther," a swashbuckling freebooter of the early days when the old sailing ships fell easy prey to the speedy pirate craft.

Director Cliff Smith, Triangle Western expert, is putting the finishing touches to the latest vehicle of the cowboy star, Roy Stewart, and in "Keith of the Border," Smith believes he has a feature that will score a new success. Experts who have seen the "rushes" on this picture declare that the fight between Roy Stewart and Pete Morrison is the best that has been staged since "The Flame of the Yukon."

The four Triangle pictures which have been completed in the past week include "Real Folks," the Photoplay Magazine contest winner, directed by Walter Edwards; "Captain of His Soul," a screen adaptation of Eleanor Kinkade,'s magazine story, "Shackles," directed by Gilbert P. Hamilton; the magazine story, "Little Red Decides," in which Director Jack Conway is said to have obtained some wonderful scenes between the child actress Barbara Connolly and the Chinese cook, and "The Hopper," from Meredith Nicholson's Red Book Magazine story of the same name, on which Thomas N. Heffron handled the megaphone.

The Triangle directors who are waiting to begin work on new subjects are Jack Dillon, Raymond Wells, Jack Conway, and Walter Edwards.

CURRENT ESSANAY COMEDY.

Almost every guest of a large metropolitan hotel becomes involved in a series of laughable complications in "One Night," the current Essanay comedy released by General Film Company. A young eloping couple, an intoxicated gentleman and a "ham" actor are involved in a never-ending series of complications which continue through the greater part of the night.

JACK-TARS IN THE MAKING.

The Gaumont-Mutual Weekly is showing some wonderful pictures of the training of our sailors and soldiers. The issue for release Sunday, January 6, shows the making of a jack-tar at the Mare Island Navy Yard, California. Coupled with time for the right kind of sport the intensive training is making happy and efficient fighters for our navy. A review of the tars, a physical drill, and a number of different athletic stunts are interestingly pictured.

A lesson is strikingly conveyed in the subject, which is titled "Traitors at Home." Starting with a scene in a restaurant, which shows the man who will not observe "meatless day," there are illustrated several scenes of beef cattle on the range which will be used to feed our fighters and the handling of the beef at the army camps. Each of our sixteen cantonments consumes over 20,000 pounds of meat every day.

This issue of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly contains some striking pictures from the European battle fields. The steps undertaken by French engineers to restore the territory reconquered in the battle of the Aisne are graphically portrayed. Bad roads are being rebuilt with timber, heavy batteries are rapidly being mounted in places of advantage, and anti-aircraft guns mounted on motor trucks are shifted to positions wherever needed. When the Germans retreated they were forced to abandon vast stores of guns, munitions, and material, which will be used by the French. The French are also gathering up the empty shell cases, which will be reloaded and again used against the enemy. The destructiveness of the heavy fighting during the battle of the Aisne is well illustrated in scenes which show all that remains of the village of Allemant —a few broken-down walls and piles of debris, and the Fort of Malmaison, now reduced to a few standing walls and empty caverns.

The Allies have commandeered every possible type of motor car in order to rush supplies and munitions to the Italian forces, and a number of scenes show the conveying of these supplies across the Alps.

From Sacramento, Cal., comes a picture of the Gubernatorial Mansion, which shows the corner destroyed by dynamite in an attempt to kill Governor Stephens.

In San Diego, Mme. Schumann-Heinck, world famous prima donna, for a long time a resident of the United States, presents a flag to a regiment of infantry which she has adopted as her "boys." This great contralto has several sons who are now fighting for the United States.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS SHOWS U. S. WAR FILMS.

The Hearst-Pathe News, which, through its enviable connections, has been in a particularly fortunate position as regards pictures showing different phases of the war, began recently to show pictures which, from the American standpoint, must rank first in interest; namely, the official U. S. Government pictures of the war as seen by the official cameramen with the American forces. From now on it is promised that these pictures of the activities of our boys in France will appear regularly in this film.

No private motion picture companies are allowed at the front with the American troops. All motion pictures are being made by trained motion picture operators attached to the Signal Corps of the War Department. These films are primarily for military purposes, but after being censored by the War Department they are turned over to the American Red Cross, and through an arrangement made with this organization by the Hearst-Pathe News some of the films will be shown to the public through this medium.

The first installment showed pictures of the Norton Harjes Ambulance Unit showing the American boys enlisting in this unit in Paris, scenes in their training camp and their work at the front. The next series of pictures to be released appeared in reel No. 105, and will show the American artillerymen using the famous French 75s. These are the boys that fired the first shot for Uncle Sam against the Kaiser's troops.

A great many other films are on hand showing the training of the American troops in the various branches of modern warfare, including grenade throwing, trench digging, handling of heavy guns, etc. All the films were made in the training camp of the American troops in France.

The War Department is exceedingly anxious that the general public see these films and, realizing the enormous distribution of the Hearst-Pathe News, made an arrangement for handling some of the films through this medium.

FINE CAST ASSEMBLED FOR DALTON PICTURE

Dorothy Dalton and company has returned from Chatsworth Park, where picturesque exteriors were photographed for a Paramount picture to be released Feb. 4. The company has recently been "on location" at an immense stone quarry, belonging to Los Angeles County, in order to get the proper atmosphere for some mining-construction scenes. In the picture Miss Dalton will have the support of Jack Holt, who will play the role opposite; William Conklin, Melbourne MacDowell, Robert McKim and Dorcas Matthews.

Mr. McKim, in particular, after playing almost every sort of a screen villain that the Ince staff of scenario experts could devise, will offer in this new picture a characterization that is said to be entirely different from anything he has yet made known.

Six Standard Pictures Scheduled

Among First Ten Weeks' Releases Is "Cheating the Public," the 1918 Cinemelodrama.

SIX new Standard Pictures, some of which are now in process of production, have been announced by William Fox for release during the first two and one-half months of 1918. Two pictures will be available in January and February and the same number in March, the schedule, however, being completed at present only to March 15. The January 20 picture will be "Cheating the Public," the William Fox 1918 cinemelodrama with an all-star cast. The production is being advertised as of the same class of melodramatic pictures as "The Honor System."

"From the Depths," temporary title of a picture which was recently completed, will be released January 27. This is the story of a young woman who becomes an outcast in consequence of having put too much trust in a man, but who rises again after she has revenged herself. Part of the scenes were taken in the Bohemian quarter of Greenwich Village, New York City.

Jane and Katherine Lee's third picture is scheduled for release February 15. It is declared to be a legitimate successor to "Two Little Imps" and "Troublemakers," the productions in which the Fox "Baby Grands" journeyed on their career in stardom during 1917.

William Farnum's next production will probably be titled "Rough and Ready," and the present intention is to release it February. This will be followed by a propaganda production under the direction of Frank Lloyd and entitled "The Divorce System." No star, it is announced, will be featured, but the company now at work in Hollywood includes Rhea Mitchell, Bertram Grassby, Marc Robbins, Willard Lewis, Charles Clary and a number of other equally well known actors. March 3 is the date when it is expected that "The Divorce System" will be available to exhibitors.

Work is in progress in one of the William Fox New Jersey studios on a picture temporarily titled "The Soul of Buddha" which probably will be released March 15.

GOLD KING SCREEN MAKING TWO GRADES.

In order to meet the demands of exhibitors, the Gold King Screen Company is now making two grades of screens. No. 1 is finished on both sides of the cloth and sells for 75 cents a square foot. No. 2 is finished on one side and sells for 50 cents a square foot. These prices include stretchers.

"OUR LITTLE WIFE" NEARING COMPLETION.

Madge Kennedy's latest vehicle, "Our Little Wife," the Goldwyn picturization of Avery Hopwood's splendid stage success, is nearing completion at the Goldwyn Fort Lee studios. Miss Kennedy is surrounded by a notable cast in "Our Little Wife." Her leading man, George Forth, who portrays the role of Herb, the loving but jealous husband of Dodo (Madge Kennedy), has done creditable work in several screen productions made on the coast, and previous to acting before the camera was intrusted with a number of important roles in Broadway productions.

William Davidson, as Dr. Elliott, who admires Dodo much to his wife's discomfiture, is another who has given a good account of himself. Wray Page has the role of Mrs. Elliott, whose one aim in life is to make hubby forget other women exist. Kempton Greene is Tommy, the poet, whose love sonnets drive Dodo frantic. The role of Bobo, the "goat" of it all, is in the hands of Walter Hiers, who was a vaudeville artist before his advent on the screen. Marguerite Marsh, sister of Mae, is Angie.

Scene from "Our Little Wife" (Goldwyn).

WELL-KNOWN PLAYERS IN "BROADWAY BILL."

What Metro characterizes as an exceptionally fine cast has been engaged to support Harold Lockwood in "Broadway Bill," a Metro wonder play written by Fred J. Balshofer, now in course of production. Mr. Lockwood's leading woman in this picture is Martha Mansfield, who, under the name of Martha Early, played opposite Max Linder in the comedies he made in America. The heavy character is enacted by Stanton Heck. Another important role is played by Bert Starkey who is probably best known for his portrayal of "The Spider" in the serial Scene from "Broadway Bill" (Metro).

"The Fatal Ring." William Clifford and W. W. Black are also members of the cast. Cornish Beck, a boy actor, plays a juvenile part. Mr. Lockwood and his company of players are now in the Maine woods making the exterior scenes for "Broadway Bill." Fred J. Balshofer is directing the production.

"CHEATING THE PUBLIC" NEXT CINEMELODRAMA.

"Stronger, bigger, more gripping than 'The Honor System,'" is William Fox's description of the second in his series of one-a-year, all star productions which he calls "cinemelodramas."

The prediction is made that the new production, "Cheating the Public," will far surpass its predecessor from a box office standpoint. Exhibitors who have been invited to see pre-release showings are quoted by the Fox publicity department not only as being enthusiastic over the picture but as attributing to its melodramatic qualities of an unprecedented sort.

"'Cheating the Public'," says Mr. Fox, "not only has a great deal in common with 'The Honor System,' but decidedly surpasses it in quality and quantity of high grade thrills and in strong, compelling, vital heart interest. It is melodrama of the highest order. It expresses exactly what I meant when I coined the word 'cinemelodrama.' Food profiteering and child labor conditions in factories are phases of the story, and furnish the underlying theme of the plot, but it is by no means dependent on these factors either for its remarkable appeal or for success."

The production, it is announced, is to be released January 20 as a Standard Picture and will be the first release of the year in that series. The cast includes Enid Markey, Wanda Petit, Frankie Lee, Ralph Lewis, Bertram Grassby, Tom Wilson and several others. It was directed by Richard Stanton, who made "The Spy," and the story is by Mary Murillo. Mr. Stanton and Edward Sedgwick wrote the scenario.

Adolph Zukor, Douglas Fairbanks and Allan Dwan.

Universal Starts New Serial Contest

This Time It's "The Bull's Eye," With Eddie Polo and Vivian Reed as Stars.

AS SERIAL follows serial with the Universal, so do contests follow contests. Now it's the "What Eddie Polo Should Have Said Contest," as passed and approved by the Post Office Department—an idea the Universal will advance in advertising "The Bull's-Eye," a serial in which Eddie Polo and Vivian Reed will star. The "best ending" contest, well under way, as a publicity feature of "The Mystery Ship," has thus early proven so successful that President Carl Laemmle, of the Universal, has decided to awaken interest in "The Bull's-Eye" of a similar method. The awards will total $1,000, and they will be principally paid in Liberty bonds, war savings stamps and thrift stamps.

Eddie Polo and Vivian Reed.

There will be this difference in the two mentioned contests: "The Mystery Ship" competition is confined to children of fifteen or younger, and concerns the "best ending," as applying to the sixteenth episode; while "The Bull's-Eye" contest will allow competition by boys and girls of sixteen or under, in expressions of what they believe Eddie Polo should have said at specified points in the progress of the serial.

There will be a title in each of the first seven episodes, but partially complete, starting with a few words and finishing off with dashes to indicate an incomplete sentence. Contestants will be expected to tell in twenty-five words what Eddie Polo should have said in the specific instances, using the words printed in the unfinished title as an integral part of the caption submitted in the contest. Thus "The Bull's-Eye" competitions will be unique in that the excitement begins at the very outset of the serial.

The matter of awards will be entirely vested in the judgment of a committee of referees, comprising the editors of trade papers that serve the moving picture industry. The contest begins Feb. 1 and ends June 1, forthcoming, and the journalists who have consented to serve as sole judges of the awards include James L. Hoff, Moving Picture World; William A. Johnston, Motion Picture News; Martin J. Quigley, Exhibitors' Herald; P. L. Woodruff, Motography; Lesley Mason, Exhibitors' Trade Review; Lynde Denig, Dramatic Mirror; Sime Silverman, Variety; William H. Donaldson, The Billboard; Paul Sweinhart, The Clipper.

The awards to be distributed number 475, including 100 subscriptions to Boy's Life, the Boy Scout's official publication for Scouts and Camp-Fire Girls. The first award will be Liberty bonds to the amount of $100. There will be awards in war savings certificates and thrift stamps of $50, $25, $15, $10 and $5, running from second to fifth award, and 249 additional awards of $2 each, payable in thrift stamps.

According to the announcement submitted by its publicity department, Universal believes that the subscriptions to the Boy Scout publication will be particularly acceptable to the young folks and will constitute an award that boys and girls will be glad to welcome as a reminder for a whole year, of their success in the contest. The awards paid in Liberty bonds, war savings certificates and thrift stamps are expected to serve not alone a patriotic purpose but there is a likelihood that this new savings plan the Government lately instituted will be introduced to a certain number of children who may not have known the benefits of the plan and who may be thus inspired to use the stamps awarded to them as a nucleus for a fund of their own.

Exhibitors will be supplied by the Universal with circulars explaining the contest in full detail, to be distributed to patrons or to be given upon request to children who express a desire to enter "The Bull's-Eye" competitions. There will be no restrictions or entrance fee, apart from the age limit for boys and girls of sixteen years or less. The descriptive circulars will carry the contest title in its incomplete form, but children are not required to use these accompanying blanks.

Contestants may record their opinion of what Eddie Polo should have said upon any sort of paper, by any method—ink, pencil, typewriting or printing, confining their suggestion to twenty-five words and forwarding it to the Eddie Polo Quotation Department, Universal Film Manufacturing Co., No. 1600 Broadway, New York City. Either the name of the theater where contestants view the serial or the name of the theater nearest to their place of residence should be stated in submitting quotations.

"The Bull's-Eye" will be released at the time the contest begins—Feb. 1—and at that time "The Mystery Ship" will have reached its tenth episode. Thus, for the first time since the Universal began releasing serials, more than six years ago, two attractions of the chapter-story sort will be in co-incident circulation. In his recent statement President Laemmle of the Universal declared that during 1918 his corporation would go more extensively into serials than ever before. This declaration is thus early confirmed and is augmented by the further announcement that Marie Walcamp will begin work upon a wild-animal serial within the month.

"THE WHISPERING CHORUS" (De Mille).

The theme of self-sacrifice, employed by authors and dramatists in all ages as the compelling motive, or the culminating moment in some of the greatest works known to the stage or the printed page, and which has never before perhaps been evidenced in more pronounced form than in the present great conflict, appears in a tremendous climactic conclusion to "The Whispering Chorus," the novel by Perley Poore Sheehan, now being translated to the screen by Cecil B. De Mille, as a special De Mille production to be released by Artcraft. The story of "The Whispering Chorus" is entirely modern in character, but its bigness would suit it to any period or setting.

Just what form this particular example of self-sacrifice assumes in the picture it would be unfair to divulge at this time, since the interest in the story or picture would be largely destroyed by an advance knowledge of its culmination. Suffice that Mr. De Mille himself has vouched for the fact that it is as compelling, as stupendous in its emotional intensity, as the ending of that exceptional story by Charles Dickens, "A Tale of Two Cities."

Cecil B. De Mille is devoting care and attention to every detail in the production of this picture. The cast has been chosen with especial attention to the fitness of each individual player to the role; the settings are being prepared with a thorough conception of the requirements, and the photographic work under the direction of Alvin Wyckoff, director of photography at the Lasky studios, will, of course, leave nothing to be desired.

PROFOUND SUBJECT MOST INTERESTING FILM.

The great attractiveness of Maeterlinck's "The Bluebird" lay in the fact that while it dealt with subjects of great profundity in an allegorical manner, it was easily understood. The author took for his central figures a little boy and girl, and for them he drew aside the curtain of life, delved into the past, and touched eloquently upon the great Beyond.

In the form of a play, the wonderful story teemed with dramatic interest, and instead of a heavy preachment or a dry sermon it developed into a virile presentation.

In adapting this masterpiece to motion pictures Director Maurice Tourneur, who is making the production for Artcraft, has carried out the idea of the author in making the photoplay perfectly understandable. He has discussed the scenes with the tiny actors, who are theoretically the leading characters, believing that if these children can grasp the story the average patron of a moving picture theater, with the aid of the lucid titles which embellish the film, should easily follow the play and understand the allegory.

Maurice Tourneur Explaining a Scene in "The Bluebird" to Tula Belle and Ribon McDougall.

The result is a unique photoplay of stupendous magnitude, in which is incorporated the highest technique of photographic art, with scenes in double, triple and quadruple exposures, requiring infinite care and patience.

Settings of colossal size and ensembles of hundreds of people make this photoplay a mighty spectacular offering, in which the artistic details have been carefully worked out.

"A PAIR OF SIXES" (Essanay).

George K. Spoor has begun production of Taylor Holmes' next picture: "A Pair of Sixes," by Edward Peple. "A Pair of Sixes" is often called Mr. Peple's most successful stage play, although he is well remembered for his "The College Widow," "The Prince Chap" and others.

The story concerns the farcical and mirthful results of a game of cards as a result of which T. Boggs Johns, an illustrious pill manufacturer, becomes the valet of his business partner. There is a wealth of opportunity for Mr. Holmes' inimitable fun and taxation of his dramatic genius, a strong love element and a surprise finish.

This vehicle gives Mr. Holmes a distinctive characterization, though here again, as in "Ruggles of Red Gap," he is the innocent masquerader. Mr. Holmes expressed his enthusiasm over this new role and declared that he had long wished to appear in "A Pair of Sixes" for the screen. In fact, so eager was he to get to work on "A Pair of Sixes" that he did not complain in the least of having his holiday plans disrupted and marched off to the studio floor twenty-four hours after completion of his "Ruggles of Red Gap."

A sudden decision on "A Pair of Sixes" necessitated the turning on full blast of all departments including the scenario writers who worked night and day just prior to New Year's eve to complete the continuity.

The production is in the hands of L. C. Windom, who produced "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Uneasy Money," and all other Taylor Holmes pictures.

Following "A Pair of Sixes," Taylor Holmes will start work on "The Rainbow Chaser," an adaptation of the Saturday Evening Post story: "Mr. Williams Takes a Chance," by Freeman Tilden.

"HUNGRY EYES" READY FOR BLUEBIRD PROGRAM.

"The Highest Card" and "Hungry Eyes," the last of Rupert Julian's productions for the Bluebird series, with Ruth Clifford the star and Monroe Salisbury her featured leading man, have been completed and Wilfred Lucas has undertaken the screen management of Miss Clifford and Mr. Salisbury. "The Highest Card" has not been definitely dated up for release, but "Hungry Eyes" has been set for distribution February 18.

Elliott J. Clawson's story, "His Wife in Arizona," formed the basis of the Julian production, "Hungry Eyes." The picture was filmed at Seven Oaks, Cal., where the company remained to create "The Highest Card" amid the picturesque surroundings that nature has furnished in the foothills of the Sierra Nevadas. Mr. Julian, besides directing, played an important role in support of Miss Clifford. Others in the company included W. H. Bainbridge, H. W. Barrows, Arthur Travers, Gretchen Lederer and Reta Pickering.

Wilfred Lucas is now engaged in filming "The Heart of the Desert" with Miss Clifford and Mr. Salisbury leading the cast. Bess Meredyth furnished the scenario, basing her work on Honore Willsie's book of the same title depicting a romance of Indian life, when a girl is taken into the wilds to recover her health through living like the Indians do, close to nature. Val Paul, Gretchen Lederer, Monte Blue, Al Sears, Princess Neola and Dark Cloud (the last mentioned being full-blooded Indians) will comprise the supporting cast.

MANY PRETTY GIRLS IN ESSANAY COMEDIES.

Essanay has selected several dozen of the prettiest girls from a group of nearly two hundred to appear in its General Film one-a-week comedies. That Essanay has struck a popular vein of humor in these productions by Arthur D. Hotaling is evident by the reports from both exhibitors and the General Film Booking records.

The release for January 12 is "One Night," depicting the wholesale complications arising from the innocent efforts of a "Gentleman drunk" to regain his hat, fallen to the sidewalk from his hotel room window. In it figure many pretty girls alarmed in the middle of the night by the cry of "burglar" and a number of good characters that afford many laughs.

In a comedy now in the making, Mr. Hotaling has achieved a picture that requires but two subtitles for the entire reel, thus indicative of the ability of the picture to tell its own story.

Essanay's General Film one-reel scenic for January 12 is "Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada," showing, with a good deal of action and rapid movement, the picturesque and commercial attractions of the country to our north.

Essanay's scenics are proving a profitable addition to the exhibitor's program, judging by the reports. Unlike the average scenic, they do not "drag" as the scenes shift rapidly and only the most interesting points filmed.

ANN PENNINGTON STARS AS HOYDEN.

Alice Hegen Rice's novel, "Calvary Alley," which, as Sunshine Nan, is Ann Pennington's next vehicle on the Paramount program, is a document full of human interest. Miss Pennington plays the part of Nance Molloy, of the slums, who evolves gradually into a position of respect in the world without imposing upon credulity. The story is replete with action, and radiates with comedy situations particularly adapted to the vivacious star.

"WHO'S TO BLAME" (Nestor).

The Nestor comedy to be released through Universal exchanges on Jan. 21 will be entitled "Who's to Blame?", and will have Gale Henry and William Franey as the featured players, with Lillian Peacock and Milburn Moranti heading the supporting company. There will be one reel of fun in "Who's to Blame?", involving a mix-up in the proper distribution of a number of kiddies in the case. Children are used as much as grown-ups to get the fun out of the various situations, and Scene from "Who to Blame" (Nestor).

Universal's juvenile stock forces were combed to get the right assemblage of little tots to fit the occasion. Of course, the more broadly developed lines of comedy will be carried by Mr. Franey and Miss Henry, who are established favorites in the fun-making fraternity.

CITY FATHERS ASSIGN POLICE TO "LITTLE MARY."

Activities on Mary Pickford's next picture to be released by Artcraft following "Stella Maris" finally have been commenced in San Francisco as a result of special arrangements made by the local police to take care of the crowds that daily storm the locations. The title of the new picture is "Amarilly of Clothes Line Alley," by Frances Marion, based on the novel by Belle K. Maniates. It was for this production that the Mary Pickford players recently journeyed to Frisco, and on which they were unable to begin work because of the enthusiastic crowds that gathered in the streets to watch "Little Mary." After several unsuccessful attempts the company returned to Los Angeles and upon assurances from the San Francisco authorities that special arrangements would be made to allow Miss Pickford to work the company again made the trip to that city with better success. Streets surrounding the locations in which the Pickford players are working have been roped off for a number of hours each day. These measures are necessary as a result of "Little Mary's" popularity in Frisco, where she recently further endeared herself to the city by assisting in recruiting as well as bringing the Liberty Loan subscriptions above the quota when a stimulus was most needed.

PARALTA STUDIOS NEARING COMPLETION.

Under the direction of President Carl Anderson of Paralta, the work of enlarging the studios of Paralta at Hollywood, Los Angeles, has now progressed so far that the complete design is apparent. Mr. Anderson is in Los Angeles in connection with the improvements which are being made so that the capacity of Paralta will be increased by a half.

As the war has made desirable, intensification is being given a new meaning at the Paralta studios. There is a large central plaza or square in which are many glass-covered stages. Set about the sides of this central square are the new dressing-room structure, with dressing-rooms, the new buildings which house the costumes, sculptors, furniture makers, scene painters, carpenters, artists, etc.

The demand for bookings of the first two Paralta plays, now available at the W. W. Hodkinson exchanges, has been such that Paralta found it absolutely necessary to double the capacity of the plant in order to attempt to cope with the demand.

OREGON MANAGER PRAISES JEWEL'S "THE CO-RESPONDENT."

Manager Stills, of the People's Theater in Portland, Oregon, in speaking of the success he had in a week's run of the Jewel production of "The Co-Respondent," said: "The Co-Respondent" has called forth more praise from the patrons of my theater who have seen it in the past week, than any production I have shown during the past six months.

"I have seldom offered a production that brought forth more admiration from the public than did this film."

PARAMOUNT TO RELEASE "THE GUILTY MAN."

Paramount is to release soon a startling photoplay version of a tense drama—A. H. Woods' Presentation of his Broadway success, "The Guilty Man," which enjoyed great prosperity at the Astor Theater in 1916. Ruth Helen Davis and Charles Klein wrote the play. The photoplay was directed by Irvin W. Willat, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, Inc.

"The Guilty Man" makes a deep study of man's moral responsibility and unmercifully exposes and flays conditions arising from the practice of the "double standard."

A notable cast has been chosen for the subject. Gloria Hope is Claudine, the daughter. Vivian Reed plays the mother. William Garwood has the difficult part of Claude and Charles French is Flambon. Others in the cast are Hal Cooley, John Steppling, J. P. Lockney and Hayward Mack.

The photography is excellent and the settings are gorgeous. The dramatic intensity of the scenes has been artistically handled.

VIVIAN MARTIN IN A JOE LINCOLN STORY.

Following her appearance in "The Fair Barbarian," filmed from Frances Hodgson Burnett's story, and recently released by Paramount, Vivian Martin will be seen in "A Petticoat Pilot," a picturization of Joseph Lincoln's story "Mary Gusta," by Gardner Hunting. The story itself is particularly delightful and is laid in the Cape Cod section of New England, a district abounding in interesting characters and traditions.

Scenically, the production, which was directed by Rollin S. Sturgeon, should prove one of the most attractive offerings in which Miss Martin has yet been seen, and the suporting cast has been chosen with great care. Among those who appear are a number of the best known players in the organization, including that sterling character actor, Theodore Roberts; James Neill, Harrison Ford, Helen Gillmore, Richard Cummings, Jane Wolff, Bert Hadley, John Burton, Antrim Short and Tom Bates.

GEORGE BEBAN IN "ONE MORE AMERICAN."

George Beban, Paramount's character-star, has started production work on a new photoplay to follow "Jules of the Strong Heart," which will be released January 14. Mr. Beban's new piece is called "One More American," and the story has been supplied by William C. DeMille, author of numerous stage and screen plays, director and famous brother of Cecil B. DeMille. William C. DeMille will direct the picture.

In the cast supporting Mr. Beban will be Jack Holt, Raymond Hattan, Helen Jerome Eddy, Camille Ankewich, who, by the way, has changed her name to Marcia Manon, Ernest Joy, Signor Buzzi, Hector Dion and May Palmer.

Mr. Beban has gathered about him a crowd of three hundred Italians, who are appearing in scenes taken in a reproduction of the famous Mulberry Bend section of New York.

EDNA GOODRICH AS "AN ARTIST'S MODEL."

Edna Goodrich, star in a series of photoplays for the Mutual Film Corporation, has just completed, at the studios of the Empire All-Star Corporation, Glendale, L. I., the sixth of her productions. The play has not yet been titled, but has been produced under the working title of "Art and the Girl." It casts Miss Goodrich as an artist's model, a most suitable part for the famous beauty, and a role in which she has an opportunity to wear the most beautiful and most gorgeous of her expensive gowns.

The release date of the picture has not been set. It will follow in the Goodrich series, "Her Second Husband," which was released December 31. Miss Goodrich's plays for Mutual have included "Reputation," "Queen X," "A Daughter of Maryland," and "Her Second Husband."

O. HENRY DETECTIVE STORY.

"O. Henry's" penchant for providing last minute climaxes of an unusual nature has never been illustrated to better advantage than in "The Clarion Call," the current release in the General Film series of Broadway Star Features. The plot is swiftly moving romance in which a battle of wits between two friends is featured. Walter McGrail and Alice Terry who have won distinction in the O. Henry stories, are featured in this novel production. "The Clarion Call" tells of two friends who come to New York, one in pursuit of the fickle goddess of pleasure and the other in search of a career. Barney Woods finds a job as patrolman and eventually becomes a detective with a great future before him.

MISS CLARK TO STAR IN "PRUNELLA."

Immediately after the holidays Marguerite Clark began for Paramount the production of "Prunella," adapted from the famous play-fantasy of that name.

"The Seven Swans," the current Paramount release starring Miss Clark, has started off on a wave of tremendous popularity.

The announcement that "Prunella" is to be Miss Clark's next vehicle is most interesting to those who knew the play. It was produced by Winthrop Ames in 1914 at the Little Theatre, New York, and Marguerite Clark played the main part in that production. There is a sentimental association connected with the piece in the fact that this was the play which Adolph Zukor, president of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, attended one night and then and there decided that Miss Clark was a remarkable actress whose future in motion pictures would be unlimited in its possibilities for world-wide popularity.

PEGGY HYLAND COMING IN 1918 PATHE PICTURE.

With the completion of "The Other Woman," featuring Peggy Hyland, supported by Milton Sills and Anna Lehr, Pathe has added another high quality feature to their reserved stock of 1918 productions.

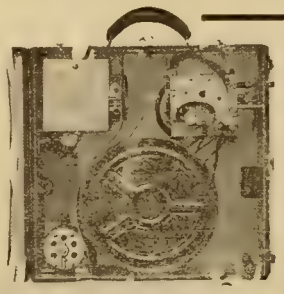
The story is an adaptation from a play. It has not yet been produced, but it is rumored that the story will be seen behind the footlights shortly after it makes its appearance on the screen.

While it is a social problem play bringing in the eternal triangle the story has a unique twist, and in its situations it never even remotely approaches the suggestive. The action of the story takes place for the most part in New York City, and depicts life in the art studios.

The production was staged under the direction of Albert Parker.

TITAN INCORPORATES.

The Titan Feature Photoplay Company has been incorporated under the laws of the State of Washington. The officers are J. Don Alexander, president; Eugene DeSmeth, vice-president; R. E. Musser, treasurer; H. G. Twomey, secretary. The general offices are at 506 Sprague avenue, Spokane, Washington.



Motor Drive
17"x17"x7"
Weighs but 20 lbs. Takes Standard size reels and film.

Small Town Exhibitors!

When your Electric Current Supply fails—

Attach the De Vry to Storage Batteries and your show goes on without delay.

Any size picture up to 12 feet; any throw up to 75 feet.

Used by Western Electric Co., General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric Mfg. Co., National Lamp Works.

THE DE VRY CORPORATION 117 N. Fifth Ave. Chicago, U. S. A.

GOERZ

Kino Hypar F:3.5 Lens

The enviable reputation enjoyed by GOERZ LENSES among "still" photographers now includes the camera men. They have given their unqualified approval of the GOERZ KINO HYPAR F:3.5. Whether it is used outside or inside the studio, this lens has met the severest tests of critical motion-picture experts. We make it in the following focal lengths: 1⅝, 2, 2⅜ and 3 inches equivalent focus. Our catalog describes the lens and also our well-known improved VIGNETTING and DOUBLE EXPOSURE DEVICES. Write or call TODAY.

C. P. Goerz American Optical Company

318 East 34th Street, New York City

"WE NEVER DISAPPOINT"

TELEPHONE BRYANT 5576

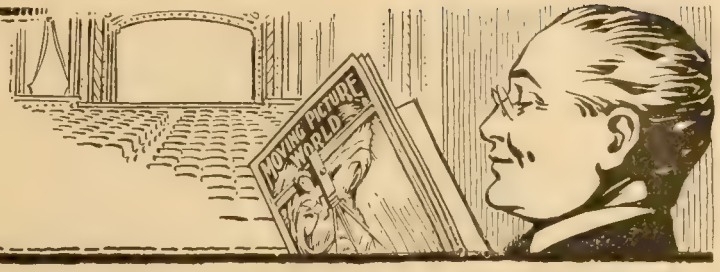
CROMLOW FILM LABORATORIES

INCORPORATED

220 WEST 42ND STREET NEW YORK

ALLAN A. LOWNES GEN. MGR.

Trade News of the Week



GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Film Happenings in New England Territory

Business Reports Are Depressing—Old United Film Service Re-organized—Changes Among Distributors and Exhibitors—Personal Items.

By Richard D. Howe, 80 Summer Street, Boston, Mass.

BOSTON, MASS.—The old United Film Service, a state right organization which was taken over by the Unicorn, when Frederick Murphy, its president and general manager, went to New York to assume charge of the Unicorn Corporation, has been reorganized in this city and Mr. Murphy has been elected president and general manager of the concern.

Allston Theater Changes Hands.

Boston, Mass.—The Allston theater, one of the finest neighborhood moving picture houses in Greater Boston, has changed hands, Lyman C. Fisher, owner of the Opera House in Newton, Mass., having purchased it. The new owner reorganized its policy of straight program pictures. In its place he is running both program and special features. His present program pictures consist of Metro and Bluebird, he having dropped one service.

Shortly after assuming control of the Allston theater Mr. Fisher made a call on General Manager Edward J. Farrell of Metro and booked almost every feature he had in stock, including "Pay Me," "The Corespondent," "The Slacker," "Blue Jeans," "Draft 258," "The Whip" and many others. Mr. Fisher will manage both houses, thus letting out Frank Brown, who has managed the Allston since it opened three years ago.

L. J. Hacking Will Assist Manager Sawin

Boston, Mass.—L. J. Hacking of the local Vitagraph office, is receiving congratulations from his many film friends on his recent appointment by the home office as assistant manager of the Boston office of the Vitagraph Company, under Manager C. W. Sawin.

Mr. Hacking, who has been connected with the film business for a number of years, formerly worked for the General Film in various capacities. At different times he was salesman, assistant manager and manager in the Boston office and was for over three years manager of the New Haven, Conn., office of that organization. Less than a year ago Mr. Hacking came to the Vitagraph Company as a salesman, covering Massachusetts.

James O'Hara in Quartermaster's Corps.

Boston, Mass.—James O'Hara, formerly connected with the Federal Feature Film and at one time manager of the Holland theater, a moving picture house in York Beach, Maine, has entered the service of Uncle Sam, having enlisted in the Quartermaster's Corps. Mr. O'Hara has been assigned to Camp Dix, in New Jersey.

Change of Policy at Providence Majestic

Providence, R. I.—The Majestic theater, a moving picture and vaudeville house, owned and controlled by Emery Brothers, of this city, has closed. The house will reopen next week with a new policy in effect, that of showing big attractions, which formerly were shown at the Strand theater. "Oh, Boy" is scheduled for the opening performance.

Emery Brothers are planning in the near future to open the old Emery theater, which was closed last spring, when the Majestic opened.

Depressing Business Reports.

Boston, Mass.—Reports from Maine to Connecticut say that business in the motion picture theaters in several cities and towns is very depressing at the present time. Many attribute the decrease in patronage to war conditions, while others say it is the general high cost of living problems that is keeping the people away from the theaters. This city, however, has not suffered from lack of patronage, most of the houses here being filled to capacity nightly. It is believed though, that as soon as America gets the burden squared on its shoulders business will pick up.

Carl Crawford Traveling for Vitagraph.

Boston, Mass.—Carl Crawford, formerly manager of the Montreal office of the Fox Film, and who for the past few months has been booking in the home office of the Vitagraph, has been appointed sales representative for that concern and is now covering New Hampshire and Vermont. He is making his first trip through that territory at present, the very worst time of the year, because of the terrible cold weather and lack of facilities for transportation.

Thomas Cuddy Takes Theater at Quincy.

Quincy, Mass.—Thomas Cuddy, formerly of the Opera House, in Augusta, Maine, has taken oved the Auditorium theater in this city, having purchased the same from A. A. Ashley. The Auditorium, which has a seating capacity of about 700, is a first class moving picture house, drawing a very good patronage.

As an added attraction for his patrons Manager Cuddy has installed a musical program which is making a decided hit. He has engaged the Imperial Trio, conducted by Miss Lenna Howe, who has played in several Boston theaters during the last ten years.

Mr. Cuddy is running only moving pictures, special features being his policy. The Auditorium is doing an excellent business.

H. G. Segal Enters Matrimony.

Boston, Mass.—A large gathering of moving picture men and other prominent persons attended the wedding of Harry G. Segal, general manager of the Globe Feature Film Corporation, of this city, to Miss Sadie Shoolman, daughter of Joseph Shoolman, of Malden, Mass. The bride formerly was employed in the office of the Globe Corporation, having acted for some time as private secretary to Mr. Segal.

Mr. Segal, who is one of New England's foremost film men, and his wife, are on a honeymoon trip to Jacksonville, Fla., enjoying life in the land of the sheltering palms. Mr. and Mrs. Segal will be away about two weeks, and when they return will reside in Malden, Mass.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs $4.80 less.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....

Please fill in the name of your Theatre.....
Cut Out and Mail To-day—Now!

Halifax Theaters Getting on Their Feet

Dates Are Set for Re-openings—Academy of Music Will Be Film Theater in Conjunction with St. John's Imperial.

By Alice Fairweather, Standard, St. John, N. B.

HALIFAX, N. S.—The theaters of the stricken city are gradually getting repaired and opening dates are now set. At first it was thought that the feeling would be against reopening for some time, but it is now being seen that amusement is an actual necessity and that the people must have somewhere to go, to say nothing of the employment needed by the staffs of the theaters, most of whom lost all they owned in the way of personal property in the disaster.

The Academy of Music is to open, as well as the Casino, Strand and Orpheus. The Academy opens with the Famous Players film "The Moth," on January 5. The Orpheus opens with "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." "God's Man" is to be shown at the Academy on January 19.

Mass was held in the Imperial theater, Halifax, for the members of St. Joseph's parish. At the Casino theater a Christmas service was held in the evening with special Christmas music.

Money for relief is still badly needed in Halifax.

Academy to Co-operate with the Imperial.

Halifax, N. S.—The historic Academy of Music, which has long since been the leading and dignified house of entertainment in Halifax, has entered into a co-operative arrangement with the Imperial, of St. John, in the matter of program material and general policy.

The Academy, under the capable management of J. F. O'Connell, has provided splendid stock plays for six seasons consecutively and it is now deemed advisable to give the public something in motion pictures. As soon as it is possible to reopen the Academy will commence with a capable orchestra and some high class talent who will sing and play. The patronage accorded the Academy has always been representative of the discriminating household class and nothing will be introduced in the program to offend these people or cause them to withdraw their support.

With the Halifax Academy, the Imperial at St. John, the new Strand of Lynn, Mass., the Imperial theater of Montreal, the Boston theater of Boston, and other important picture houses of the higher order in the United States and Canada it will be possible by a circulating arrangement governed by the Keith offices to keep the programs filled from week to week with performers of merit and refinement.

Will Open New Show in Campbellton.

Campbellton, N. B.—Miss Laura McIntyre expects to open a theater in the town of Campbellton about the middle of February. She has purchased the entire equipment from A. J. Reddy, of the Perkins Electric.

Manager McKay Appreciated.

St. John, N. B.—At the Opera House recently a very fine presentation was made to Manager McKay. The theater was given for a Christmas treat for 1,400 soldiers' children by the Soldiers' Wives League of St. John. Mr. McKay has always taken a great interest in this entertainment, and at the close of the performance was presented with a handsome traveling bag suitably filled and with his name engraved upon it. He was also given the enameled pin of the league tied with the ribbons of red and blue. Mr. McKay has the honor of being the only man entitled to wear this pin. The assistant manager, H. D. Beaman, was given a fine pipe, tobacco pouch and supply of tobacco.

Next evening Mr. McKay was presented by his staff with a set of pipes, a box of cigars and pound of tobacco. The stage manager, J. W. Stackhouse, made the presentation with an address expressive of the very pleasant relations existing between the manager and his employees. Mr. McKay's many friends will join in the good wishes expressed.

Business Jottings in St. John.

St. John, N. B.—Talking with A. McArthur of the Metro your correspondent was told that Edward Bizar is having a great success on the road booking the Metro specials, "The Slacker" and "The Bar Sinister." "The Slacker" is booked for at the following places: St. Stephen, Moncton, Chatham, Newcastle, Bathurst, Campbellton. "The Bar Sinister" was shown in Moncton last Monday and Tuesday, and will be shown in St. Stephen very shortly.

Many inquiries are being received about the William Flynn serial, "The Eagle's Eye."

The Imperial has had a very fine run of pictures lately. "The Spreading Dawn," featuring Jane Cowl, was especially liked.

Manager Golding has booked the new Universal serial "The Bull's Eye," to follow "The Fighting Trail." A feature is being made of the official Admiralty pictures released by the Specialty Film Import.

At the Famous Players exchange A. E. Smith reports very good returns from the activities of M. Bernstein and A. L. Gaudet, who are traveling through the territory. Mr. Gaudet has been down the south shore of Nova Scotia and sends in bookings for Bridgewater and Shelborne.

For the states rights pictures "Over There" and "Parentage" F. G. Spencer has booked "Parentage" for his circuit, including the Lyric, St. John, where it will play for one week. W. Fenety, of the Gaiety, Fredericton, will run "Parentage" in that city.

From A. J. Reddy, sales manager of the Independent Theater and Films Supplies Company, comes the news of very good business for his firm. He has just returned from a tour of the Nova Scotia territory as sales manager of both the Independent Theater Film Supply and the Perkins Electric companies. He reports many inquiries for the new transvertor which this company is handling. "God's Man" is to be shown at the Academy of Music in Halifax on January 19.

Anti-Sunday Show Move Gets Stepped On

Spokane Prosecutor Refuses to Aid Campaign of Deer Park Literary Society—Says No Statute Permits Closing of Sabbath Picture Shows.

By S. Clark Patchin, E. 1811 Eleventh Ave., Spokane, Wash.

SPOKANE, WASH.—Prosecutor John B. White refused to assist in a campaign to ban Sunday moving picture shows on the grounds the present state law only closes places of amusement conducted in a "noisy" or "boisterous" manner and which disturb places of worship.

A member of the Deer Park Woman's Literary Society telephoned to the prosecutor that they wished the law enforced, which would close up the moving picture shows of the country on Sunday.

"I find there is no statute which would close the picture shows as long as they show decent pictures and are not noisy," said Prosecutor White.

Spokane Soldier Writes to Clemmer.

Spokane, Wash.—J. R. Dixon, former moving picture operator at the Clemmer theater, Spokane, Wash., who is now with the 161st Infantry, probably in France, wrote Dr. H. S. Clemmer, manager of the Clemmer theater, that the Spokane boys appreciated the way the New York papers and the eastern people praised the western boys.

He said in part: "The Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross have been a Godsend to us boys. They sure have been doing fine work and the Spokane Red Cross surely needs an iron cross for the comfort kits they sent the boys at Camp Lewis before we left there. You should have seen the happy looks on the boys' faces when they received their kits. They have helped many a poor boy who has no family to send him little comforts and care for little wants like this.

Orphans See Christmas Gift Show.

Spokane, Wash.—400 orphans of various institutions of the city attended a Christmas party at the Liberty theater Saturday morning, December 22, as the guests of L. W. Hutton and the El Katif Temple of Shriners. Manager Sam W. B. Cohn secured a Fatty Arbuckle comedy and other attractions dear to the hearts of youngsters. Souvenirs were given to the children at the theater, and the Shrine gave the children a Christmas feast at the Masonic temple after the performance.

Film Shows Lead and Silver Mines at Kellogg, Idaho.

Spokane, Wash.—The operations of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company of Kellogg, Idaho, are to be shown in moving pictures at the annual convention of the Northwest Mining association in February in Spokane.

Gets Good Films for New Year.

Spokane, Wash.—The Casino theater has contracted with the Greater Vitagraph company for service to start the first of the year. "Sunshine Comedies," produced by the Fox Film corporation, will be used with the Vitagraph features. The first booking is "The Tenderfoot," a "Wolfville" story by Alfred Henry Lewis, which will appear December 30 for four days run.

MORE MID CANADA NOTES.

By W. M. Gladish.

One Canadian Board Doesn't Like "Thais."

Toronto, Ont.—It was somewhat difficult for the Quebec Board of Censors to see their way clear to approve the Goldwyn feature "Thais" for showing in the Province of Quebec. They first decided to condemn the big picture but finally agreed to pass it providing a number of eliminations were made. The first run of this feature was at the St. Denis theater, Montreal, for the seven days starting December 30.

"Thais" easily passed in all other provinces of the Dominion, but when it became known that the subject was being held up by the Quebec Board there was a general outcry on the part of exchange managers and exhibitors of Montreal, Toronto and other places for National Censorship in Canada. The subject of Federal Censorship, in fact, was on the lips of almost every film man and many and varied were the comments offered.

Pine Tree State Letter

By John P. Flanagan, 151 Park View Avenue, Bangor, Maine.

Fuel Shortage Felt Markedly.

LEWISTON, ME.—A Lewiston businessmen's committee has just made a report that one of the three local theaters be closed, that all churches of the same faith unite in the services and that the use of city hall for roller polo and moving pictures be limited. This action was taken in the form of recommending what appears to be an apparent need because of the scarcity of coal here. There are three theaters in Lewiston, Music Hall, Empire and Union Square, all controlled by one corporation, and it was not specifically pointed out at the meeting which theater it would be advisable to close but left it to the judgment of the corporation.

The Bangor fuel committee has been asked to consider closing theaters and schools by the state fuel administrator. While the Bangor committee is making no statements, it is understood that the committee will do all in its power to avert such action, as it has no desire to interfere with legitimate business.

Good Business in Calais.

Calais, Me.—The Calais City opera house and the Calais theater, which are owned by T. F. Shea of Eastport, and managed by Henry W. Gillespie of this city, have been doing almost capacity business during the early winter months. At the opera house they are using Artcraft and Blue Ribbon features, Fox, Paramount, Triangle, Metro, Pathe News and the Kay-Bee comedies. The Palace, which is generally open on the last two days of the week, usually features a Pauline Frederick or a Marguerite Clark Paramount production.

Some little competition is being contended with from the Bijou just across the international line in the adjoining Canadian town, St. Stephen, N. B. Manager Charlie Staples is running a very attractive program, including the serial, "The Seven Pearls."

Mr. Gillespie is one of the Calais citizens who can display a service flag over his front door. His son Arthur, who has been assisting in the box office, recently enlisted for overseas service with a heavy artillery regiment.

Frederick F. Sully Becomes Teacher.

Frederick F. Sully, formerly Maritime Provinces representative of the Moving Picture World, with headquarters at St. John, N. B., is now drill-master and instructor in sciences at the Academy of Calais.

Theaters Aid in Charitable Work.

Old Town, Me.—Eastern Maine moving picture exhibitors are giving generously of their time and money for the many good causes related to the war. Both in Bangor and Old Town managers have recently given their houses free of charge for relief work concerts. At the Bijou in Bangor on a recent Sunday three very successful shows were given for the Jewish Relief fund through the courtesy of Manager Brogrett. At the Old Town Strand a substantial sum was realized from three photoplay exhibitions given for the War Sufferers' Relief Work. Eastern Maine managers flash patriotic slides free of charge and otherwise show that they are alive and responsive to the nation's need at this time.

Now Smallpox Adds to Difficulties.

Bangor, Me.—Maine small-town theaters have been hard hit of late by misfortunes ranging all the way from smallpox epidemics to the lack of fuel, not forgetting poor business and the war revenue tax. Smallpox has resulted in closing of motion picture houses at Mars Hill, Eastport, Oakland, Jonesboro, Robbinston, and other places. Most of them are now opened. Exhibitors say that it is harder to make both ends meet now than at any other period in recent years. But they hope for brighter things, believing that before the war is on many months more people will realize that the theater is a necessity, not a luxury, in that it affords the recreative diversion necessary to maintain efficiency, morale and good spirits, all of which are needed to win the war.

Baltimore Has Children's Xmas Shows

Orphans, Cripples and Poor Children Not Forgotten This Year of Many Patriotic Benefits—Other Notes of Interest.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, MD.—On Sunday, December 23, Manager Frederick C. Schanberger, of the Maryland theater, held the usual annual Christmas entertainment for the crippled children of Baltimore, and more than 800 of the "Tiny Tims" of this city were assembled at this playhouse to enjoy the treat. Patrol wagons and automobiles were drafted for use in bringing them to the theater, and after the entertainment of vaudeville and moving pictures each was presented with a bag of candy and some toy as they left the place. Crippled children were brought to the theater from the following places: Public Schools Nos. 22 and 24, the James L. Kernan hospital, the Garrett hospital, and the John Hopkins hospital.

Show for Catholic Orphans.

On this same day a great entertainment was held at the Lyric theater under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus for the orphans from the 12 Catholic institutions of Baltimore and vicinity. This was the thirteenth annual Christmas treat to be given by this organization. A fine program of moving pictures, including "Black Beauty," was given together with speeches by several prominent Baltimoreans. Over one thousand litle souls were present at the affair.

2,000 Poor Children at Ford's.

Then on Christmas day, through arrangements made with Charles E. and John T. Ford, the Christmas Club had as its guests at Ford's opera house nearly 2,000 of the poor children from all over the city. A delightful program was arranged for the occasion, and all went away happy with a stocking full of toys and candy.

Other Benefits.

On Sunday, December 23, a benefit performance was held at the Comedy theater, 412 East Baltimore street, through the courtesy of J. Rabinowitz, manager of this house, for the boys of the Three Hundred and Thirteenth Inf., Co. K, at Camp Meade.

At the Maryland Penitentiary, Warden John F. Leonard arranged as part of the entertainment for the inmates of this institution for Christmas day a two-hour moving picture performance. One hour was given for the men, and one hour for the women.

It seems that the boys from Baltimore are particularly fond of Mary Pickford out at Camp Meade, for they all registered a desire to see her in a picture on Christmas day. They appealed to Mrs. James Nathan, chairman of the War Recreation Commission's committee on entertainments, and she in turn appealed to Bernard Depkin, Jr., supervising manager of the Parkway interests. Brother Depkin is always on the job, especially when it comes to helping others have a bit of enjoyment, so he arranged to have a picture featuring "America's Sweetheart" and another one sent to Camp Meade. These were especially for the men quarantined at the camp. For the others an entertainment in which the moving pictures, "The Right to Be Happy," founded on Dicken's Christmas Carol, and others were included in the program in the main "Y" building.

C. M. Stern Marks Five Well-Filled Years.

Bangor, Me.—Five years of success in the exchange business have just been completed here by Manager Charles M. Stern, of the Universal Film exchange, No. 119 Franklin street. Mr. Stern, who is a New York boy originally, and one of the pioneer exhibitors of the eastern states, came here from Boston in 1913, and has won the regard and friendship of every exhibitor in the Pine Tree state. As far as known "Charley" is always good natured; he has never been known to get "mad," and his middle name is "optimism."

When you combine business ability and hustle with qualities like these there can be only one result—success. One reason for Mr. Stern's good record is his faculty of associating with him the right kind of people. His brother, "Sam" Stern, is onto his job all the time, and the same can be said about the chief clerk, Miss Sarah Lynch. And, by the way, Mrs. Stern is even more popular than her genial husband. The Bangor Universal exchange is shortly to hang out a three-star service flag, a trio of employees having left to fight for Uncle Sam. They are Samuel Kaminsky, Joseph Beaupre, and William Fish.

H. P. Smith Resigns from General Film.

Bangor, Me.—H. P. Smith, of Everett, Mass., who has been manager of the Bangor branch of the General Film, has resigned. The office here is temporarily in charge of Earle B. Tinker, head of the sales force of the Boston office. Miss J. E. Taylor, traveling auditor of the Bangor company, has been at the Bangor office for a few days going over the accounts. Mr. Smith has made many friends in Bangor and eastern Maine, all of whom will wish him much success.

A. M. Seligman Back to Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md.—The announcement that A. M. Seligman, who formerly acted as treasurer of the Nixon-Victoria theater, 415 East Baltimore street, is to return to Baltimore is a very pleasant surprise for his many friends here. At the beginning of the present theatrical season, Mr. Seligman went to Pittsburgh, where he took charge of the finances of the Nixon theater in that city. Later on he was transferred to Philadelphia, where he was associated with the Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger interests in that city. He is to return to the Nixon-Victoria in this city on January 7 as the business manager of that house, it is understood.

Two Out-of-Town Fires.

Vienna, Md.—On Thursday morning, between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock, December 27, a terrific fire, which for a time threatened the whole town, occurred in this city, causing an estimated loss of $20,000. The Higgins opera house, owned by James A. Higgins, was a total loss. The value of this structure, taken together with the store building also owned by Mr. Higgins, made his personal loss total about $5,000.

Carbondale, Pa.—Included in the disastrous fire which destroyed several buildings in the business section of this city on Monday, December 31, causing a loss of about $80,000, was the Grand opera house.

No More Anthracite Delivered to Theaters

District of Columbia's Federal Fuel Administrator Forbids Dealers to Let Certain Classes of Customers Have Hard Coal.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Federal Fuel Administrator for the District of Columbia John L. Weaver is forbidding coal dealers in this city to deliver hard coal to certain prescribed classes of consumers. The edict is, no more anthracite for churches, theaters and other such places of public assembly, and none for private houses with heating plants which will burn soft coal.

The prohibition is to remain in effect until the pressing anthracite requirements of the domestic trade have been supplied. The United States Fuel Administration had recommended to Mr. Weaver that he suspend temporarily all deliveries of coal except to homes, hotels and apartment houses in order that there may be sufficent delivery service available to get coal into the homes of the people. The situation existing today, it is said, is that there is an abundance of soft coal in the city, but there is not sufficient transportation to deliver it rapidly enough to prevent suffering.

It is not known to the Washington bureau of the Moving Picture World that any of the local houses are without coal, although the supplies of none of them are great enough to last them through, it is understood. It is thought that the present is but a temporary condition, aggravated very largely by intense cold, for Washington is experiencing one of the most severe winters it has seen in years.

The extreme cold is serving to hold down the business of the theaters to a marked extent. It was so cold here last week that people refused to leave the comforts of their own homes regardless of type of picture being shown at their favorite house. Added to this is the dullness usual to this period and the further effect of the calling out of the boys for the army.

Fear Many Theaters Must Close.

Washington, D. C.—Few houses in the territory are more than breaking even, while there are many exhibitors telling tales to the exchange managers of business so poor as to make them venture to predict that if existing conditions continue there will be many of them forced to close their doors. They are now called upon to pay burdensome taxes and there are none who can foretell what a continuation of heavy taxes, huge expenses and poor business will result in. Exchange managers have been asked for many credit favors, and they, in turn, complain that because of these conditions they are unable to make any money for their companies and in turn are greatly worried. If shut off from coal supplies it will prove for many exhibitors the final straw that will break, not the camel's back, but their own businesses.

C. R. Milliman Traveling for Fox.

Washington, D. C.—Visitors at the Fox Film exchange, on Ninth street, were greeted last week by C. R. Milliman, who is back in the "movie" game again and "darned glad to be in Washington at that." It is to be remembered that Mr. Milliman held one of the so-called civilian commissions in the Airplane Corps. He traveled all over the United States attached to the Italian Mission, recently visiting this country, accompanying the airships manned by officers of the Mission and having in charge moving picture films sent to this country by the Italian Government.

His commission terminated on November 1, and not being desirous of accepting the new form of commission available to him under the recent legislation of Congress he returned to civil life and the moving picture business. He joined the sales force of the Fox Film Corporation and has already made a trip through Virginia. Before taking up the army work he was manager here for the Universal.

Curfew Law Agitation Again.

Washington, D. C.—The Federation of Women's Clubs is again stirring up the question of a curfew law in the District of Columbia. At the December meeting of that organization a committee was appointed to co-operate with the District of Columbia Commissioners in the formulation and passage of such legislation.

Theater Licenses Net $33,890 in October.

Washington, D. C.—Figures have just been made available by the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of the Treasury Department which show that during the month of October, 1917, motion picture and other theaters, museums, etc., paid into the treasury of the United States $33,890.10. This is more than ten thousand dollars in excess of the sum so received during October, 1916.

Cleveland News Letter

By M. A. Maloney, 218 Columbia Bldg., Cleveland, O.

Biggest Lithographing Plant.

CLEVELAND, O.—What is claimed to be the largest lithographing plant in the world, is that which the Morgan Lithograph company is erecting in Cleveland, at Payne avenue and East 17th street.

The building is of English Gothic and will cost about $200,000. It will be two stories in heighth with a red tile roof. The building will cover space of 230 feet by 180 feet. It will be ready by May 1, 1918.

The Morgan Lithograph company has been a Cleveland institution for 52 years and makes moving picture posters.

Mollie King at Keith's Hippodrome.

Cleveland, O.—It's a poor week when a movie star doesn't visit Cleveland. The week ending December 29 saw Mollie King appearing at Keith's Hippodrome. She had a Christmas tree on the stage Christmas Eve. Said Mollie:

"I felt that I was progressing quite well as a movie star, but I longed to look into the face of an audience—to see them smile and to hear them applaud. Many good actors do not make good in pictures just on that account. They can work better before an audience, while in a studio the only audience you have is a director, camera-men and some stage hands, yelling and jabbering.

Philadelphia Exchange Goes Up in Flames

Radiators Near Vault in Ideal Exchange Drive Gas Out of Film and Ignite It—Many Commercial Reels and Features Destroyed.

By F. V. Armato, 144 North Salford Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Ideal exchange, which occupied the first two floors of the three-story building at 237 N. 13th street, was completely burned down on Christmas day, by one of the most spectacular fires ever witnessed in this section. About 300 commercial reels were burned, in addition to many features, including Ella Wheeler Wilcox series, 12 reels; "Mystery of the Boule Cabinet," 6 reels; "Price of Hate," 6 reels; and several "Motoy Comedies." The third floor of the building was equipped with a complete set of machines for cleaning films, which were partially saved.

Albert Title, president of the Ideal Film exchange, is keeping up his courage in the face of this adversity and has completed plans to start anew. Offices have been reopened at 1220 Vine street, where the second and third floors will be occupied.

S. Rudolph, whose reputation as a reliable and trustworthy film salesman is well known in this territory, has been appointed sales-manager and will have full charge of all business transactions.

A new feature, entitled "The Loyalty," to be released Jan. 7, will be a forerunner to a series of high-class productions to be handled by the Ideal in the future.

The local fire marshal, in analyzing the origin of the fire, attributes its cause to combustion, caused by the overheating of the gases in the film vault. It is claimed that two large steam radiators located next to the brick walls of the vault were sufficient to generate the gases from the films. Ventilator pipes should be as large in width as possible in order to allow all gases from film vaults to escape freely.

This is the first fire in the film district of this city, which is creditable to the exchange managers for the excellent arrangements made and provided for the care of films.

Marcus Benn Makes Improvements.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Marcus A. Benn, a pioneer exhibitor of this city, has just completed extensive improvements and alterations at his Benn theater. A large electric and flasher sign, together with a new ticket booth, have greatly improved the front.

The painting and decorating on the interior have been tastefully applied and the seats rearranged to allow for two large aisles. The walls in the lobby will have special frames set in for advance advertising, and there will be several popular stars also displayed. An entire new wooden floor has been laid and covered with rich red velvet carpet. The indirect lighting system will be used in conjunction with dimmers to give artistic lighting effects. Mr. Benn is confident about the future of the motion picture and is preparing to lead the way with advanced methods of exhibiting.

Exhibitor Faunce Appears in Uniform.

Ocean City, N. J.—D. R. Faunce, a prominent exhibitor of Ocean City, paid a visit to the Paramount Artcraft offices in his new uniform as Sergeant of the Quartermaster Department. He answered the call to the colors some time ago, and is now preparing to go into camp.

Trade Showing by General Film.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The General Film Co.'s trade showing of "A Man's Man," featuring Warren Kerrigan, and "Madame Who," featuring Bessie Barriscale, held Sunday, Dec. 30, at the Locust theater, was well attended, and these two releases of Paralta proved that they possess the finer qualities of the photo dramatic art that will go a long way towards providing a substantial foundation for their future popularity.

J. A. Gill Remembered by Employes.

Philadelphia, Pa.—J. A. Gill, manager of the Mutual exchange, was pleasantly surprised last week when he received a diamond-studded signet ring as a token of esteem from the Mutual employees for a Christmas present.

Star to Be the Photoplay.

Chambersburg, Pa.—H. R. Weber sold the Star theater to Morton and Mahon last week. The new owners, after making extensive alterations and improvements, will reopen the house under the new name of The Photoplay theater.

May Form Montreal Screen Club.

Montreal—Montreal exchange managers also recently held a meeting to discuss the formation of a screen club in that city, the need for which has been felt during the past few months more than ever before. The managers are looking for suitable premises for club purposes and are also lining up all available prospects.

Z. Renaud Will Manage Holman Theater

Montreal—Duclos & Duclos, 90 St. James street, Montreal, liquidators of the Holman theater, Montreal, have appointed Z. Renaud house manager of the theater. This house was only completed last spring and, although it was in the same locality with several very attractive theaters, the interior had never been decorated. It is proposed to dress up the theater throughout and, in the meantime, the admission price has been cut from 20c to 10c.

Two Managerial Changes.

Montreal—Announcement has been made in Canadian exchange headquarters here of an important change affecting two branch offices in Montreal. Tom Byerle of the Montreal Universal office, who had been in charge of Jewell, Century and other productions, has resigned to become manager of the Montreal branch of the Famous Players Film. E. Gronau of the Canadian Universal is in charge of the Montreal office until definite arrangements are made for its management.

Hamilton, Ont., Theaters Change Policies

New Loew House Opens—Temple Theater Goes to Films Exclusively—Lyric Will Show Vaudeville—Details of the Loew Theater.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard Street East, Toronto, Ont., Canada.

HAMILTON, ONT.—The third theater of Marcus Loew in the Dominion of Canada was opened in Hamilton, Ontario, on New Year's Eve and coincident with this event came a general shake-up among other theaters of the city. The cost of the new Loew house has been officially placed at $500,000. The seating capacity is no less than 2,900 and Hamilton, with its population of 108,000, is the smallest city in Canada to have so large a house.

Temple's Policy of Films Only.

Just previous to the opening of the Loew theater, the policies of two Hamilton houses were materially changed. The Temple theater, formerly a vaudeville house, became a screen drama theater exclusively with changes of program three times each week. Two five or six-reel features are shown at each performance along with other subjects, making no less than six different features each week. During the first week of this policy, the following were presented: Monday and Tuesday, "The Hungry Heart" and "The Guardian"; Wednesday and Thursday, "Who Goes There?" and "Polly Ann"; Friday and Saturday, "Jack and Jill" and "Every Girl's Dream." The theater has matinees daily for which the admissions are 5c and 10c. Night prices are 10c, 15c and 25c.

Lyric Shows Vaudeville with Films.

The Lyric theater, Hamilton, adopted a policy of mixed pictures and vaudeville instead of pictures exclusively and during Christmas Week Metro's "Adopted Son" and the Pathe Gazette were among the films screened at this house. This theater has also decided to pay the Ontario war tax for patrons. Evening prices are 10c, 15c and 25c. Manager Wall, formerly of the Temple theater, has taken charge of the Lyric while Manager Al. Morgan of the Lyric has gone to the Temple under the new arrangement.

Policy at the New Loew Theater.

The opening feature at Loew's, Hamilton, was "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," starring Mary Pickford, native of Toronto. Various other comedies and weeklies were also presented by H. H. Turner, formerly of Toledo, who assumed the management of the new house. Top price for matinees at Loew's, except on Saturdays and holidays, is 15c and the night top is 25c. A number of theatrical notables accompanied Mr. Loew from New York for the official opening, while the opening ceremony was performed by Kitty Gordon.

One of the distinctive constructional features of the new theater is that there are two entrances, one on King Street East, opposite the Royal Connaught hotel, and the second on King William Street. Imposing double staircases of marble lead to a magnificent marble rotunda where various alcoves are fitted with fire-places, lounges, easy chairs, writing desks, cosy corner and other furniture. Many large rugs relieve the feeling of coldness in this part of the handsome building. Leading in various directions from this rotunda are found six spacious rest and smoking rooms. The architect was Thomas W. Lamb.

Decoration by Arthur Brunot.

The adornment of the interior was in the hands of Arthur Brunot, the famous decorative artist. Various color schemes have been developed in different sections of the house, gold and delicate blue being used in the lobbies. A combination of gold, grey and ivory has been used on the mezzanine floor while the huge dome is a sunburst of gold with a faint touch of Italian blue. A cameo effect has been produced in the mural ornamentation. All panels along the promenades and stairways are covered with a heavy brocade silk of bronze hue.

James B. Miller, a Canadian, superintended the construction for Architect Lamb, and the contractors were P. H. Secord & Sons, Limited. Four hundred tons of steel were used in the building, which is also made up of brick, hollow tile and concrete with a street front of carved Indiana limestone. The lobby floor is of Terrazzo and the lobby walls have been finished in Caenstone with marble mosaic borders and marble base. Large plate glass mirrors have been used generously in the lobby. The stage and the auditorium are practically two separate buildings as a protection against fire, and all equipment is complete. The hundreds of lights used for the interior illumination are all hidden with the exception of those in the huge candelabra which is suspended from the dome.

This was the second Loew theater to be opened in Canada within a month, the other being the million-dollar house in Montreal. The third Loew theater in the Dominion is located at Toronto. The Toronto house is of the double-deck type. the same show being presented every night in a large winter garden over the main auditorium.

Superfeatures Takes Over Griffin Pictures

Canadian Rights to "Civilization," "Lone Wolf," "Salambo" and Other Specials Change Hands—Griffin Offices Close.

TORONTO, ONT.—Two absorptions have marked the recent developments in the exchange field in Canada and there are indications that further steps along this line will occur before the robins come again.

As previously announced, Regal Films, Limited, with six offices across Canada, has acquired the selling rights of all Paralta, state rights and other releases formerly controlled in Canada by Globe Flims, Limited, and the offices of the latter have been closed.

Superfeatures, Limited, has taken over the business of Griffin Pictures and the offices of the latter concern in Toronto and Montreal have also been shut. Superfeatures, Limited, now stands as the largest exclusive distributors of state rights features in the Dominion. This company, the head of which is Charles Stevens, a veteran showman, has also proceeded with further development with the opening of another branch office in St. John, N. B., with Mr. M. Brown of Toronto in charge.

With the taking over of Griffin Pictures, Stevens secured the Canadian rights for "Civilization," "The Lone Wolf," "Salambo," "Vera the Medium" and other specials. The first two named have already been presented in Toronto but Stevens is planning another engagement for "The Lone Wolf" in a large Toronto theater. Stevens has also arranged for the premiere of "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" in Toronto late in January.

Mr. Stevens recently recovered from an attack of appendicitis but his usual energy has apparently not been impaired. He has been showing a real, live octopus in the window of his Toronto headquarters as an advertisement for "20,000 Leagues." This picture went over big during Christmas Week at the Orpheum theater, Montreal, when this house had previously been a vaudeville theater.

Theaters in Quebec Have to Pay Expressage

Exchanges Issue Statement on the New Cost of Doing a Distributing Business and Tell Why They Must Charge for Return Carriage.

MONTREAL, QUE.—The exchanges of the Province of Quebec have taken the lead in Canada in requiring all exhibitors to pay return express charges on all shipments of reels as a help to meet the added expenses of the exchange business due to the application of the American war tax of one cent per foot on positive prints and to other rising costs. The above policy went into effect on January 6, 1918 according to a notice sent to all exhibitors late in December.

The exchanges of Quebec have also arranged a new schedule of prices for posters and other advertising accessories to meet advanced costs in paper. Announcement was made that the printing houses of the United States which make a specialty of poster making had increased their charges fifty per cent. and, accordingly, the duty on these supplies were automatically increased by half.

The following schedule on all advertising matter has been adopted by the exchanges:

Flat paper, 12c per sheet for outright sale.

Mounted paper, 6c per sheet rental.

Slides, 15c each for rental. In case of breakage or non-return, a flat charge of 50c per slide will be made.

Photographs—8 x 10, 25c per set; 11 x 14, 25c per set; 22 x 28, 50c each.

In connection with these advances, the exchange managers issued the following announcement: "The various film companies doing business in Canada for the past three years have paid all increased charges without a murmur, but the time has come when it is necessary for the exhibitors to share a portion of these increased costs."

Fuel Shortage May Close Dayton Theaters

Gas Gets Low in Bitter Weather and Supply of Coal Is Insufficient—Some Leading Houses See Unpleasant Possibilities Ahead.

By P. D. G., Dayton Correspondent of Moving Picture World.

DAYTON, O.—At this writing (a week before going to press) cold weather continues to hold sway and business is still suffering. The coal shortage is as bad as ever, and every day brings indications that several of the city's leading theaters will close. The Mecca, which was closed for a short time at the start of the present cold wave and reopened for a few days, was again forced to close due to a fall in temperature last Sunday. This house, though one of Dayton's largest neighborhood theaters, heats with gas. The supply of gas is running low, and Dayton last Sunday literally froze.

Julius Leopold, who owns the Mecca, also controls the Midget theater a few blocks away, and last Sunday, when the Mecca was closed, "The Woman God Forgot," with Geraldine Farrar, was switched to this house. Mr. Leopold blames the new war tax partly for the present slump in business, for quite a few Daytonians are complaining of the tax. Mr. Leopold has enough coal for about three days for the Midget, and when this is gone that house will be forced to close. The city continues to handle the coal situation, and one ton at a time is still the rule at the municipal clearing house. City officials deny the rumor that the water supply is to be cut off, although this report had gained considerable circulation.

A. L. Kinsler Boasts of Best Booth.

Dayton, O.—The Elite theater was included in a trip to all of the suburban theaters which the writer made last week, and I find it to be one of the nicest of Dayton's neighborhood houses. On the afternoon that the writer visited Al in his private sanctum business was very good, all things considered, for it was extremely cold. Mr. Kinsler looks just as well at his desk in the office of the Elite as he does at the Exhibitors' League, of which organization he is secretary. Mr. Kinsler is very particular in the class of pictures shown at the Elite, and they are all of the very best.

The convenient projection booth is surely a model, and a prospective builder would do well to visit the Elite for ideas. Two Simplex machines take care of the projection, with a third Edison in reserve in case of accident. The operator has a motor rewind, giving him practically all of the time to watch his picture. The booth is one of the largest the writer has seen, and has a very high ceiling, this allows plenty of ventilation.

"Auction Block" Week's Best Attraction.

Dayton, O.—The one best attraction of the week in Dayton was the "Auction Block" at the Apollo. This picture enjoyed good business for the entire week, and most of the time there was a standing line. This is remarkable when one takes all things into consideration. The recent change in policy made by the Apollo in the presentation of big features was a good move, and Theodore Chifos is well pleased.

Gossipy Jottings from Dayton.

Dayton, O.—L. C. Pollack was seen at the league rooms last week, and he comes forth with the expected announcement that Metro, with whom he is working, is doing a good business. L. C. is another like Jack Needham, who believes in giving out prosperity announcements every so often.

John Lyons, at the Orpheum, Dayton, boomed forth last week with the Pathe war pictures.

Harold Lockwood in the "Square Deceiver" went over strong at the Ideal at Dayton, managed by John Seifert.

Val Rayburg has bought out no new enterprises in Dayton within the last week.

It is reported that the Midget in Dayton is for sale.

The New Dayton theater will be booked by the Loew interests.

Julius Leopold (King of the West Side, Dayton) is praying every night for warmer weather—on the writer's last visit to the Mecca his one worry seemed to be the heating system, or rather the lack of it.

Pick-up Items from Lima.

Lima, O.—"Babs Burglar," with Marguerite Clark, at the Faurot theater in Lima last week added to the laurels of this popular star.

One of last week's successes at the Star at Lima was Mrs. Vernon Castle in "Stranded in Arcady."

The Majestic at Lima had as its holiday attraction Clara Kimball Young in "The Price She Paid."

The fuel situation in Lima has been relieved somewhat by the arrival of thirteen carloads of coal. There was a three-hour delay in the distribution of the coal through a misunderstanding as to the price. Several theater managers were included in the rush for coal cards at the city hall, where a large staff was kept busy issuing orders. None of the Lima managers report lack of heating facilities, and all the houses are running.

Short Toledo Notes.

D. W. Griffiths' great success, "Intolerance," is to be shown at the Temple theater in Toledo for a week's run starting January 20. The Temple is one of Toledo's most beautiful theaters, and always enjoys a largt business.

Pictures of the Ohio boys at Camp Sheridan, Alabama, were shown at the Alhambra theater in Toledo last week. Many of the Alhambra's patrons recognized friends who are at present at the camp, and it seemed like a homecoming to the many friends, wives, and sweethearts who attended.

Billie Burke in "The Land of Promise" made the Princess in Toledo one of the best bets of the last week.

A special midnight show was given New Year's eve at Loew's Valentine theater with a musical program by the incomparable Grand Concert orchestra.

The Majestic here had as its New Year attraction Clara Kimball Young in "Shirley Kaye." An unusual amount of attention is being paid this picture because of the fact that George Fawcett, who is in the supporting cast, has appeared several times here and has many local followers and admirers.

Springfield Jottings.

Jack Pickford in "Tom Sawyer" was the feature selected by the management of the Alhambra theater in Springfield for three days of last week, incuding New Year's. Business is holding up at the Alhambra.

Springfield has, considering its size, several of the nicest picture houses the writer has visited for some time. Among the leading theaters we have the Fairbanks, which had as a New Year attraction Geraldine Farrar in "The Devil Stone" at ten and fifteen cents. The Fairbanks is not stingy with newspaper space, and their ads occupy a prominent place in the amusement columns of the various dailies.

Pittsburgh News Letter.

By Pittsburgh News Service, 405 Fourth Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Will Not Rebuild Ruined Gem Theater.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The Gem theater, Frankstown avenue, East Liberty, a suburb of Pittsburgh, damaged recently by the collapse of the rear wall, will not be rebuilt, according to David Mintz, owner of the house. The theater is an old structure, and had a capacity of 500. The house was but partly filled when the accident occurred, and only about a dozen persons, mainly young folks, were slightly injured. The piano player, Miss Margaret Galbraith, stuck bravely to her post while the falling bricks and timbers rained about her. It was partly due to her courage that none of the persons in the theater was killed.

Supreme Buys Seven-Reel Italian War Film.

Manager Harry F. Greele, of the Supreme Photoplay Productions, Pittsburgh, announces that his firm has purchased the state rights on the seven-reel Italian war picture, "On the Isonza," for the following territory: New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, the District of Columbia, and Virginia. Mr. Greele states that the production will be handled aggressively and that several road shows will be started out with it at once. This picture was recently bought for western Pennsylvania and West Virginia by the Quality Film Company, of this city.

B. D. Bailey Will Run Two Theaters.

Scottdale, Pa.—The management of the Arcade theater and the Scottdale theater, Scottdale, Pa., has been assumed by B. D. Bailey, formerly of the publicity staff of the World Film, New York, and an ex-newspaperman. The Arcade and Scottdale are owned by the Scottdale Amusement Company, and are up-to-date houses. The Arcade features high class pictures exclusively, while the Scottdale runs pictures and road shows. Mr. Bailey has started an aggressive advertising campaign for both theaters, and reports business quite active.

Gus Sun Takes Over Columbia Theater.

Springfield, O.—Gus Sun, theatrical promoter and president of the Gus Sun Amusement Company, has bought the attractive Columbia theater, Springfield, O., and also the site for the erection of another large picture house on the Brookwalter estate. The new theater planned by Mr. Sun will be one of the finest in the state, and will seat 2,000 persons. It will be of the most modern type and of fireproof construction. Ground will be broken for the house in the early spring. The Columbia theater, formerly the Grand opera house, is now being extensively remodeled, and will be reopened with high class feature pictures in the near future.

Harry Davis' New Theater to Open.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—After several postponements it is stated definitely that the doors of the handsome new theater rebuilt by the Harry Davis interests on the site of the old Grand opera house, Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, will be thrown open within the next week or ten days. The house embodies all of the modern ideas in arrangement and equipment that make the Davis amusement places distinctive, and will be a splendid addition to this city's array of first-class picture theaters.

H. E. Stahler Visits Pittsburg.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—H. E. Stahler, formerly manager of the local office of the Wolfberg Attractions and now introducting Wolfberg pictures in Maryland, visited in Pittsburgh over the holidays. Mr. Stahler states that business is very good in Washington, D. C., and Norfolk, Va., and reports excellent progress being made in that territory.

John Wilson Gets Strand Theater.

Point Pleasant, Pa.—The Strand theater, Point Pleasant, W. Va., has been taken over by John Wilson, an experienced exhibitor of that place. Mr. Wilson is contemplating some extensive improvements in the house, and alterations will be made in the spring.

Buffalo News

By James McGuire, 157 N. Elmwood St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Had to Dig Show Out of Freight Heap.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"Princess Virtue Buried Alive" would be an appropriate title of a lively drama enacted in real life in Buffalo recently. A picture of the stars appears herewith. They are F. S. Hopkins, on the right, sales manager of the entire output handled by the Victor Film Service, Buffalo, and J. F. Gibbs of the Victor, on the left, and the photograph was taken on a recent midnight. Messrs. Hopkins and Gibbs are holding a case of film—"Princess Virtue"—a special Bluebird feature. The faces are wreathed in smiles in sharp contrast to the care which had overspread their features a few hours before the cameraman got there.

F. G. Gibbs and F. S. Hopkins.

"Princess Virtue" was played at Olean, N. Y. on Monday and Tuesday and was due back in Buffalo Wednesday, to be reshipped to Cornell theater, Auburn, for Friday and Saturday," said Mr. Gibbs.

"It left Olean alright Wednesday and got to Buffalo Wednesday afternoon, but covered with a lot of freight. We couldn't locate it. After we burned up the wires to Olean all Thursday night, Mr. Hopkins had a hunch that the film must be in Buffalo, so we went to the Adams Express and looked through all the freight there. Some job. After a while we found our 'Princess Virtue' buried alive.

Arbuckle Sends Us His Picture.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Buffalo correspondent has just received a pleasing photograph of "Fatty" Arbuckle, from "Roscoe" himself. The writer was delighted with the gift.

Ready to Begin on Keith's Palace Theater

New Cincinnati House Will Seat 3,000 on One Floor and Will Cost With Site Almost a Million—Policy to Be Pictures With Vaudeville.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 307 1st Nat. Bk., Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI, O.—Detailed plans for the new Palace theater, to be constructed on Sixth street just east of Vine, are now in the hands of contractors, and bids are being received by the architects, C. W. and George Rapp, of Chicago.

The building is to be much larger and more elaborate than was at first understood by the public, as the plans now out call for a handsome structure of five stories, containing principally a large theater, with a seating capacity of 3,000 on one floor, making it the biggest house in Cincinnati by a good deal. An investment approximating $1,000,000 is called for by the plans of the architects.

A forty-foot entrance from Sixth street will be provided, while the lobby will have a depth of about sixty feet. Locally identified with the company, which is headed by E. F. Albee, the leading figure in the Keith interests, are I. Libson, who is vice-president of the company, Ben S. Heidingsfeld, secretary, R. K. Hynicka, and Jos. L. Rhinock. It is announced that the theater will be devoted to popular-priced vaudeville, including pictures, but it is by no means improbable that pictures will prevail exclusively should it prove that this course is best. Work of construction will start as soon as bids have been computed and contracts awarded, as the site has been cleared of the buildings formerly standing on them.

Western New York Theater Notes.

Livonia, N. Y.—Claire Meacham, formerly proprietor of the Pictureland, Livonia, has bought the Pullman theater, Rochester.

Buffalo—Shea's theater, Buffalo, had a "midnight show" New Year's Eve, so patrons could enjoy the dawn of 1918, with an accompaniment of vaudeville and pictures.

An extra ticket office was needed to take care of the crowds at the Olympic theater, Buffalo, on New Year's and Christmas days. Bruce Fowler, manager, is featuring Ethel Clayton in "Easy Money." Charlie Bowe, manager of the Lyric, Buffalo, also did capacity business on these two holidays. Among his attractions is Mollie King in "Seven Pearls."

In the lobbies of Buffalo theaters are displays of posters booming the membership drive of the Red Cross. The posters were contributed by students of the Buffalo Art School and members of the Arts' Club of this city.

Although business at the theaters in the Buffalo territory during the holidays was not heavy, some report that the attendance was slightly better than that of the same period a year ago.

Utica, N. Y.—The Park theater, a picture house of Utica, has been closed.

Middleport, N. Y.—The Star theater, Middleport, has had a successful run on "The Barrier."

Buffalo.—Fred Flarity, Pittsburgh manager of the Jewel productions, was a Buffalo visitor.

The New Arcadia in William street, Buffalo, a former ten-cent house, has gone back to the nickel admission.

"Vitagraph Bill" Allen of the Buffalo territory took a holiday trip to Pittsburgh.

Buffalo billboards are carrying special advertising of the Greater Vitagraph picture, "Vengeance and the Woman," featuring William Duncan and Carol Holloway.

Ed Balser has taken charge of the shipping department of the Mutual, Buffalo.

Select in Its New Quarters.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Select Pictures Corporation has moved into its new quarters at 176 Franklin street, Buffalo. Arthur S. Kane, general manager of the company, was a Buffalo caller. A practice of the local office of the Select is to ship out film two days in advance of playing date and have the show in the theater the night before the date. This exchange is therefore having a marked success in serving the exhibitors.

Mary Roberts Rinehart Approves Camp Sherman Film.

Cincinnai, O.—The big picture of camp life at the cantonments made at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, under the direct supervision of Gen. Glenn and the other Army authorities, has received the approval of one of the most competent judges, both of literature and pictures, as well as of military life, in the country, in the person of Mary Robert Rinehart, the famous author. Mrs. Rinehart has been spending some time at the camp, where her husband, Capt. Stanley Rinehart, a surgeon, is stationed; and she was one of the first to see the film, as far as it is completed. "It is the most remarkable military picture I have ever seen," she declared. Immediately after the completion of the picture in its initial form, without revision, it was sent to Washington for the inspection of the authorities. All revenue from its distribution and exhibition will be turned over to the Ohio War Relief Commission. "There are thousands of families who cannot come to Camp Sherman to see their boys," said Mrs. Rinehart. "This picture will be especially welcome to them, for in it they will see just how the men are trained, just how they look in a review, and how they eat and sleep and play and work."

New Year's Eve Packs Picture Theaters.

Cincinnati, O.—New Year's Eve was the usual big affair with the theaters, from moving-picture houses to the Grand and the Lyric, with their dramatic attractions. Fortunately, the great evening was not one of the "lightless nights" imposed by the requirements of the Fuel Administration, and the electric signs were consequently in full working order, pointing the way of amusement seekers.

All of the moving-picture theaters kept open until midnight, as their custom is on the last day of the year, in order to permit those who desired to remain downtown for the merrymaking, without having to kill time in some less entertaining manner; and the way the houses were crowded right up to the last performance showed that there is no lack of money for amusement purposes. In fact, it has already been shown, to the satisfaction of local exhibitors, at least, that any economy in amusement on the part of the public has been at the expense of the high-priced theaters, turning just that many more people to the moving-picture houses.

Records Made by Theaters.

Cincinnati, O.—The showing at the Strand theater of the fine Paramount production of Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," with Jack Pickford in the title role, was highly successful, being favorably commented on by the newspapers. Also, several hundred children composed a considerable part of one crowd which saw the picture, being treated to the performance by the head of the school which they attended.

Cincinnati, O.—The reappearance in pictures of Billy Burke gave the Walnut a fine attraction for the first week of the year, as the star has lost none of her popularity, and "The Land of Promise" proved to be an unusually good picture. A Vitagraph comedy and a Burton Holmes Paramount travel picture completed the program.

Brighter Outlook for Films in St. Louis

Split Between Shubert and Klaw & Erlanger Has Renewed Competition in Amusements—Downtown Film Shows Take New Life.

By Mary Moore Publicity, 6035 Kingsbury Bl., St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The split between Messrs. Shubert and Klaw & Erlanger is creating a healthy condition in St. Louis, both for the legitimate and the silent drama. In the first place the renewal of competition in the downtown field has already resulted in the rehabilitation of two large legitimate theaters—both seating more than 1,900—and the injection of life into a quarter that was rapidly growing stagnant from an amusement standpoint.

Klaw & Erlanger have leased the American theater, owned by the Frank Tate-Louis Celia syndicate, operators of a string of eight of the largest motion picture houses in the city. To give the K. & E. a chance at the American, Cella-Tate moved their usual attractions over to the Imperial, Tenth and Pine streets, and will open there on January 6. The first show at the American under K. & E. will be on January 14.

Harry Wallace, now managing the Grand opera house (vaudeville) and the Columbia (moving pictures), will assume management of the Imperial. George K. Lighter will manage the Jefferson (which has been housing K. & E. attractions) as a Shubert agent, and the Shubert-Garrick, which has been playing Shubert shows, will take on the large features.

This is where the films benefit from the split. Several movie men have been looking over the field in the neighborhood of the Imperial since the change was announced. The Shubert-Garrick, with pictures, will add new life to downtown shows. All this would have been impossible under a continuance of the theatrical pooling arrangement.

St. Louis Film Men Eager to Serve.

St. Louis, Mo.—An unsually large percentage of motion picture exhibitors and film managers are engaged in war service or awaiting orders to depart. Another lot of the managers are already in training as a unit of the home guard, under the direction of Floyd Lewis of the Goldwyn forces.

Tom McKean, manager of the Royal theater, is awaiting orders to depart at any time for the aviation division of the Navy, having been accepted and notified to be ready some days ago. McKean is a son of G. E. McKean, manager of the Paramount office in St. Louis. He was given a farewell banquet here last week at which many of the exhibitors were guests.

Spiros Skouris, manager of the Pageant theater, one of the largest in the city, enlisted in the aviation service and has been accepted. He expects to leave any day now and the Pageant house on Delmar avenue will be sold before his departure under present plans.

William Goldman, partner of Sam Koplar in the ownership of a string of more than ten houses, is preparing to leave for the army. He will surrender vast interests to serve his country.

More than twenty others connected with the film offices or active theater management have been included in the draft and are either already in camp or awaiting orders

Floyd Lewis Leaves Goldwyn.

St. Louis, Mo.—Floyd Lewis, who has been handling the Goldwyn films in St. Louis for several months, has severed his connections with the company and is to be succeeded by a Mr. Busby of Chicago. Lewis is going into the state rights business and will leave for the East this week.

Nashville News Letter

By J. L. Ray Trade News Service, Nashville, Tenn.

Knickerbocker Entertains Kiddies.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—Manager W. H. Wassman of the Knickerbocker displayed the true Christmas spirit in opening the doors of his house to Nashville poor children on Christmas eve, at which time 2,000 inmates of this city's orphans' homes and other charitable institutions took advantage of his generosity and paid a visit to "Jack and the Beanstalk," the Christmas booking. The children had just enjoyed the hospitalities of the Elk's Club, where they were each presented with a bag of fruits and toys, but the moving picture performance equalled the trip of Santa in the hearts of the little folks. From the squeals of delight at the film it was plainly evident that the picture "scored" as no other offering of the year has done.

Sudekum Shows Pictures at Prison.

Nashville, Tenn.—The Crescent Amusement Company is doing a different kind of "bit." When everybody is engaged in helping win the war, charity of a different kind is often neglected. President Sudekum continues to show a five-reel feature and comedy at the state penitentiary each Saturday for the convicts free of charge with the machine which he installed over a year ago, and at considerable expense.

Near Riot at Bijou Theater.

Nashville, Tenn.—Patrons at the Bijou theater, one of the South's largest negro moving picture houses, experienced genuine as well as screen thrills a few nights ago when a shooting took place in the audience. Only the wildest nature of a panic among the wildest-natured class of people was averted through the prompt appearance and presence of mind of Manager Milton Starr, who immediately stepped upon the stage and announced that the disturbance had been created by firecrackers set off in the lobby.

The shooting was done by a negro who, according to eye-witnesses, walked down the aisle, told a woman sitting beside his intended victim to "move or get hurt," and with a 32-calibre revolver opened fire on another negro from the rear. The negro fell over, wounded in two places, while the assailant made good his escape in the confusion. Officers arriving on the scene carried the wounded man to the city hospital, where he died later.

In ordinary cases of this kind in Nashville there would have appeared a dozen or more guns ready for immediate action, and, knowing the nature of the men with whom he has been dealing for so long, Manager Starr's nerve and timely announcement prevented a serious condition of affairs.

Detroit News Letter

By Jacob Smith, 718 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

Garson Will Make State Rights Films.

DETROIT,MICH.—Harry I. Garson, of the Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation, was a Detroit visitor last week. He informed the World correspondent that he has taken over the Thanhouser Company and that he will soon organize another company for the making of state right features. Mr. Garson believes that up to the present time some producers have oversold buyers of state rights pictures, and that it is his plan to make state rights pictures that can be sold at a price that will make money for the buyer.

"If the state rights buyer has to pay too big a price for his pictures he cannot make money but is bound to stand a loss," said Mr. Garson. "The fact must not be overlooked that in addition to the cash price for the picture the exchange is under a heavy overhead expense for office rent, traveling salesmen, printing, paper, etc.—all of which must be given due consideration. In fact the cost of selling is nearly equal to the total price of the picture."

Patriotic Exhibitors Waste Little Coal.

Detroit, Mich.—W. S. McLaren, of the Majestic and Colonial theaters in Jackson, is rendering great aid in his community towards the conservation of coal. He is closing his box office earlier every night, and is cutting down the use of every unnecessary light. "Mac" is always one of the first to co-operate in any movement that means for the uplift and development of the moving picture business.

Regarding the use of electricity in theaters, all that can be said is this—it is up to every exhibitor to conserve wherever he can. If he can get along with certain lights he ought to do so without having to be told. Let every exhibitor watch the lights in his theater for one week—and he will soon find out which ones he actually needs and which he can do without. It should not be necessary for the Government to be constantly passing laws, and laying down drastic rulings in order to conserve—each exhibitor should feel it his duty in this respect and should render his community every aid possible.

Theaters Pay Tax for Children Patrons.

Detroit, Mich.—Blair McElroy of the Fitzpatrick & McElroy theaters, in Michigan and Illinois, who was a recent Detroit visitor, says that in some of his theaters he is not charging the children with the war tax but is making the theater pay it. This is proving quite a help in getting the children to attend and bring their parents. He says the plan has worked out very successfully.

More Names for Honor Roll.

Detroit, Mich.—Others who have the right to go on the Roll of Honor list in Michigan as having enlisted in the war are: Otto V. Locey, Coliseum theater, Edmore, one of the youngest exhibitors in Michigan; Vance Barber, of the Family theater, Vermontville; F. M. Huber and E. Harrison, with the World exchange in Detroit.

World Film Manager Makes Statement.

Detroit, Mich.—Robert Cotton, of the World Film Corporation branch in Detroit, desires to take issue with the statements appearing in some of the trade journals that the Detroit exchanges, charging the film tax, are offering to sign new contracts at amounts less than the former rental prices even with the war tax added. "For the information of anyone interested, please be advised that not a single reduction has been made in the price in Detroit for service by the World Film Corporation since this matter has come up."

A. I. Shapiro Has 100 Per Cent. Office.

Detroit, Mich.—The first license issued to any exchange in the new Detroit film building for "a perfect score," being 100 per cent. up to the building code, was A. I. Shapiro, manager of the Goldwyn exchange, whose entire quarters are laid out for efficiency in serving the exhibitor. The offices are attractive and roomy, and ideal for working purposes.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compete with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Prairie State News Letter.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Yes, Drug Stores Handle Everything.

MAYVILLE, N. D.—Writers of business articles have drawn attention to the drug store which features everything except its prescription department. Even those who have become accustomed to buying shower-baths and lawn-mowers from registered pharmacists will be jarred a little from their complacency by having their photo-play program supplied by a drug company. Yet that is what has happened in Mayville, the Munro Drug company having taken over the lease on the moving picture show at the opera house. The new owners will feature the Paramount program at a ten and fifteen-cent admission, including war tax. The schedule is designed so that the adults will pay the war tax for the children.

Theater Jottings from the Dakotas.

Overly, N. D.—Charles Snyder has purchased the moving picture theater here from M. S. Gray.

Hatton, N. D.—C. P. Anderson is manager of the new opera house which has been opened here.

Trent, S. D.—Otto K. Olson has again secured control of the Cozy theater and re-opened that house.

Lisbon, N. D.—Frank Stegge has enlisted in the United States army and has let the Princess theater to Louis Hronek.

Beach, N. D.—The opera house here was destroyed by fire.

Among Nebraska Exhibitors.

York, Neb.—E. B. Woods has let the Sun theater to Ballenger and son.

Red Cloud, Neb.—A. G. Hauserman, of Alma, sold his half interest in the Orpheum theater to F. Retzman, who is now in control of the house.

Osceola, Neb.—Harry Nusselman, who operates the Auditorium theater, has added to his holdings by purchasing the Strand from Clarence Miller.

Geneva, Neb.—The Grand theater has been sold to Percy Bedford.

West Point, Neb.—W. H. Agnew, of Omaha, has taken over the Ideal theater.

Sidney, Neb.—The Ideal theater is now under the management of Alfred P. Bentle.

Brainard, Neb.—John Rech has taken over the moving picture show business which has been conducted by Ed. Novak.

Nelson, Neb.—The moving picture theater which has been taken over by George C. Algier hereafter will be known as the Gem theater.

Illinois News Letter.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Princess Management Reopens House.

WHITE HALL, ILL.—After giving up the ghost and announcing that business would be suspended indefinitely because of the war, the Princess theater has resumed operations. It was closed a little more than a week. Competition of other amusement enterprises and the increased admission necessary to meet the war tax led to a decrease in patronage which prompted manager Carl Lowenstein to close the house.

From Theaters Across Illinois.

Benton, Ill.—The Auditorium theater, which has been re-opened, will have an admission of ten and fifteen cents, five and ten cents for the balcony, including the war tax.

East Moline, Ill.—Manager Defoe of the Lyric theater donated his house for the afternoon to the philanthropic department of the Woman's Club, for a special performance for the school children of the city. The pictures were furnished by the local Y. M. C. A.

Indianapolis Business Picks Up a Little

Increase in Attendance Not So Great as Expected, But Seems to Be Holding Up Well—Elaborate Holiday Programs.

By Indiana Trade News Service, 861 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Motion picture stock among the exhibitors of Indianapolis, like the mercury in the thermometers, ascended a few degrees last week—holiday week—and although the mercury is now sliding backward at a fairly rapid rate, business with the exhibitors, comparatively speaking, continues good. Their main hope is that it will continue that way throughout the new year.

The increase in attendance, although not as great as was expected, started on Christmas and was holding up well at this writing—New Year's Eve. Even a number of neighborhood exhibitors, who had been complaining of the depression during the last few weks, noticed a slight change for the better, but they predicted that conditions would revert back as soon as the holiday season is over.

Although there has been good shows at all the legitimate theaters for the last week, the increase in attendance at these theaters has not been as noticeable as it was at the motion picture houses. Practically all of the downtown exhibitors had special holiday programs, and these, no doubt, aided materially in increasing the attendance.

One of the most elaborate programs of the week was at the Circle theater. In addition to the presentation of Mae Marsh in "The Cinderella Man," S. Barrett McCormick, manager of the Circle, arranged an elaborate electrical setting for the Snowflake ballet, given by Mlle. Theo Hewes and her twenty young dancers. The spectacle was one of the best ever staged by Mr. McCormick and reflected the true holiday spirit of joyousness.

Permits Two Flaming Arcs on Lightless Nights.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Downtown Indianapolis on Thursday and Sunday nights now must somewhat resemble London during an air raid. Thousands of electric lights, especially along motion picture row in North Illinois street, which heretofore have flashed brightly, are now turned off on these nights in accordance with the plea for fuel conservation.

Although the "lightless" night order has, to a certain extent, worked a hardship on the downtown motion picture theaters they have generally complied with the request. Dr. Henry Jameson, county fuel administrator, realizing that the "lightless" order has hit the motion picture theaters harder than most other concerns this week, that he had partially exempted the exhibitors from the order.

His ruling stipulates that the downtown exhibitors may burn two "flamers"—very high power, red arc lights—in front of their theaters on Sunday and Thursday nights. The lights, however, may be burned only from one-half hour after sundown to 11 o'clock at night.

Poor Business at Washington, Ind.

Washington, Ind.—Hugh L. O'Donnell, owner of the Grand theater at Washington, Ind, and one of the most active men in the affairs of the Indiana branch of the American Exhibitors' Association, was in Indianapolis on business last week and during his stay called on Frank J. Rembusch at the national headquarters of the A. M. E.

"Business has been rotten down in our section of the state," said Mr. O'Donnell, "and I can't say that I can see any bright prospects for the future. All of the exhibitors in the vicinity of Washington report that their business has fallen off greatly in the last two months. The tax has hit us all a mighty hard blow and something has got to be done pretty soon or some of us are going to go broke."

Mr. O'Donnell said that in addition to his many other troubles he was forced to close the Grand last Thursday night because of the failure of one of the films to arrive. The film was shipped from St. Louis in ample time, he said, but when the train reached Vincennes it was detoured south on account of wreck, and all express on board the train, including the film, was taken along.

Christmas Picture Show in Hospital.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Joseph I. Schnitzer, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Central Film Service Company, of this city, won a warm spot in the hearts of the children patients at the Robert W. Long hospital, Christmas night, by giving them a free moving picture show.

Several boys in Troop No. 13 of the Indianapolis Boy Scouts approached Mr. Schnitzer a few days before Christmas and asked him to help them devise some means of arranging a little entertainment to please the patients. One of them offered the suggestion that motion pictures would be nice if they could be arranged.

"Just leave it to me," said Mr. Schnitzer. He got busy immediately. On Christmas night he set up a projecting machine at one end of one of the wards and placed a screen at the other end. Patients who were too ill to enjoy the pictures were wheeled out of their ward and their places were taken by the little folk from other wards.

The pictures which Mr. Schnitzer selected for the entertainment, "The Little Pirate," a Universal Butterfly production, and "The Guy and the Geyser," a Universal Nestor, proved highly enjoyable. Some of the youngsters had never seen a picture show before and their delight at the sight of the pictures was indescribable.

Mrs. Leo Wharton Conducts Show for Poor Children.

Rochester, Ind.—Thursday, December 20, was observed as "Wharton Day" at the Paramount theater in this city. Mrs. Leo Wharton, formerly Miss Bessie Emerick, of this city, who is associated with her husband in producing Pathe pictures, took charge of the theater for the day and gave the proceeds to the Helping Hand Society to buy shoes and clothing as Christmas presents for the poor children of Rochester. Mr. and Mrs. Wharton spent the holidays with relatives and friends here and then returned to their home in the east.

NEWS NOTES FROM QUINCY, ILL.

By Joe Ester, Traveling Representative of Moving Picture World.

Dominic Frisina Branches Further.

Charleston, Ill.—Dominic Frisina, owner of the Majestic at Charleston and two houses at Kincaid, Ill., is branching out still further and has just closed a deal for the Rex at Charleston. This makes four houses in the Frisina string and more may be added in the near future.

Wm. Lancaster Is Running Landale Theater.

Carlenville, Ill.—Wm. Lancaster has taken charge of the Landale theater at Carlinville.

Soldiers and Sailors See Shows Free.

The moving picture houses at Quincy have decided to allow all sailors and soldiers in uniform free entree to their houses. Business has been fair during the price of the tickets by all the local houses. The war tax is being added to the past few weeks. A big holiday trade is being prepared for.

Asking Whether Lightless Nights Save Coal

Texas Exhibitors Are Loyal in Coal Saving, but Are Seeking What Humor There Is in the Situation—Attendance Keeps Up.

By Douglas Hawley, The Times-Herald, Dallas, Tex.

DALLAS, TEX.—This final ending, "less" on things is getting to be real ordinary—some fellow wanted to know the other day whether, if we went to war with Bulgaria, would we have Bulgarian buttermilkless days. And he said he didn't want to take a sour view of the situation at that. "Less" hung onto "light" has Texas moving picture men wondering now—but they're loyal, and are obeying the mandates of the local fuel administrator, glad that their electric bills are lower, and giving reassurance to timid women, who see stickups and assassins lurking around the dark corners where the bright arcs formerly glowed, these Thursday and Sunday nights the white ways are white—"less," but thus far attendance, it seems, hasn't been any less, and people in the amusement line are thankful for that. The question uppermost in their minds is, is the movement saving coal, and it's a question that thus far is answerless.

The new year begun in Texas under excellent conditions, with everybody feeling pretty good, but hoping—particularly in the West and Southwest—that the hitherto rain—"less" condition will soon be at an end.

No Sunday Films Yet at Wichita Falls Cantonment.

Dallas, Tex.—Officers want Sunday pictures; the soldiers want Sunday pictures; the picture men are willing, even though it might prove a losing game, and yet the blue-law element is putting up stiff opposition. That's the situation at Wichita Falls, where there's an army cantonment with a lot of men seeking innocent amusement they can't find in sufficient quantity. The mild fight over the proposition is still being waged.

Queen Theater May Reopen with "Thais."

Dallas, Tex.—Mary Garden, in the Goldwyn production "Thais," will probably open the rejuvenated Queen theater, Dallas, following the fire of late in November. The Queen is a Hulsey theater, John De Stefano, manager, and work of rehabilitation is proceeding rapidly. It is expected it will open about Jan. 15. The Hulsey theaters will also soon offer the newest Goldwyn release, "Dodging Millions," with Mabel Normand.

West Texas to See First Circuit Films.

Dallas, Tex.—Despite drouth and starving cattle, a trio of young moving picture house operators out in West Texas territory, have signed up for no less than twelve towns, for the full purchases of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit of Texas—and that's the way, according to Manager H. G. Morrow, that the F. N. E. C. is growing in this territory. Organized and with offices established just three months ago, the list of members now includes more than fifty of the leading exhibitors of the state—and the end is not yet; the list is still growing. Messrs. Dye, Ford and Rogers are the young gentlemen in the west Texas territory referred to above. They have theaters at Amarillo, Plainview, Floydada, Claude, Tulia, Canyon, and a lot more towns, the people of which know excellent productions when they see them, just as they know whether an actor doing "Western stuff" has his hair pants on properly.

The Texas F. N. E. C. is now booking "The Submarine Eye," "Daughter of Destiny," with Petrova; Brenon's production, "Empty Pockets"; "On Trial," "Alimony," and Charley Chaplin Specials, with the signature guaranteed.

Incidentally, there is a rumor afloat here that one of the largest distributing organizations in the country is soon to adopt, practically in toto, contracts similar to the F. N. E. C.

C. A. Meade in Temporary Charge.

Dallas, Tex.—Charles A. Meade, special representative of the Pathe exchange, is temporarily in charge of the Dallas Pathe branch, coming here from a trip to Coast points in December. Mr. Meade's journey to Dallas came following the promotion and transferring of A. W. Smith, Jr., formerly local manager, to the New York Pathe office. Mr. Smith has "made good" in Texas and now goes East. Mr. Meade is highly pleased with conditions and the outlook in this district.

Jewel Pictures Made Hit.

Dallas, Tex.—Ned Depinet and Lew Bissinger are pleased picture merchants. Depinet is manager for the Consolidated Film and Supply. Bissinger is manager of the Washington theater. Why are they pleased? Oh, because the first Jewel has been shown in Dallas, and another followed it immediately. They were, respectively, "The Price of a Good Time" and "Come Through." Depinet's concern is distributing the Jewel productions. Bissinger's theater was crowded with pleased picture fans for the full showing of both of them. Sufficiency!

H. P. Barnett Dies.

Dallas, Tex.—H. P. Barnett, of the Barnett Film Supply, Dallas, died at San Antonio, Dec. 28. The remains were brought to Dallas by his brother, W. F. Barnett, associated with deceased in business. Mr. Barnett was only twenty-eight. Surviving married sisters live at Omaha and Cozad, Neb., respectively.

Producing Company Formed in Houston.

Dallas, Tex.—The Supreme Pictures Corporation has been chartered at Houston, Tex., with a capital stock of $10,000. The purpose of the concern, as stated in its charter application, is to make moving pictures. The incorporators include John H. Oeding, James Calnay and Charles H. Taylor, all of Houston.

Louisville News Letter

By Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starks Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

Lack of Coal Hits Theaters Hard.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Some suburban theaters handled the poorest business on record during the recent period when there was seventeen inches of snow on the ground. The intense cold, coupled with the high cost of fuel, and light patronage, has occasioned big losses for some of the houses. Parents won't trot through heavy snow to attend the shows, and won't allow their younger children out under such conditions, while coasting and skating take the attention of the elder ones. On account of the high cost of coal many of the houses have not been properly heated, the operators waiting until too late in the evening before starting their fires with the result that the houses could not become comfortable, especially with a half empty house, until the shows were nearly over.

In one of the East End theaters, a total of twenty-six people were seated in a theater seating several hundred, when the second show went on. During the first show a general laugh went up when one of the house men stirred up a fire in one of the four large stoves, this house not having a furnace system.

Many Houses Cut Down Shows.

Louisvile, Ky.—The bad weather out in the state has resulted in a number of the theaters discontinuing shows except on Saturday and Sunday, some houses only operating on Sunday. A. B. Barkley, manager of the Opera House, at Georgetown, Ky., recently cut out his week day shows, being unable to obtain coal for a week's run.

Wm. Small Takes Lease of Tabb Theater.

Mt. Sterling, Ky.—Judy & Gay, who have been operating the Tabb theater, have decided not to renew their lease on the building, and it has since been announced that William Small, of the Shannon Stock Co., has agreed to take up the lease on January 1. Mr. Small has announced that there will be no change at the present in the program or in the staff of employes, and that the shows will continue right through without any loss of time.

Notes of Interest in Kentucky.

Winchester, Ky.—A change has been made in the management of the Colonial theater, J. A. Lightner having sold his half interest in the business to C. G. Ginter and associates.

Injunction Makes Censor Hold Off

Goldwyn's "The Auction Block" Refused by the Censors—Company Gets Writ and Can Show Film Till the Next Appeal Screening.

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The mere rejection of a picture by the local censor board does not necessarily deter the Kansas City Goldwyn office from filling their contracts, for such was the case with the booking of "The Auction Block" to the New Center theater here. This picture was extensively advertised by the management for several weeks before the actual running, which began January 1. Several days before the showing of the picture the reviewing board rejected the picture. Certain close-ups and gambling scenes were given as the grounds for the rejection. Not having time to submit a revised print, the local Goldwyn manager, Richard Robertson, obtained through his attorneys a temporary restraining order from interference with the picture. The order included actions by the mayor, chief of police, police commissioners, and the head of the review board. The hearing on the permanent injunction was set for January 8, a date after the completion of the run at the New Center. Now the question is raised as to the supremacy of a circuit judge over the decision of the Kansas City Board of Welfare Review Board.

Jewel Office Force Makes Good.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Kansas City office of Jewel productions reports that the amount of business expected of it by the New York office had been reached, and that the office was running high in the competition with the other 31 offices of the company. With the exception of a change in managers at the opening of the office the working force of this exchange has been practically the same, and to this fact, Milton Feld, manager at Kansas City, attributes the success of the last few months.

Wichita Kiddies Have a Treat.

Wichita, Kan.—The Jewel production, "The Man Without a Country," was shown to the children of the city of Wichita, Kansas, December 26, 27, 28, by the Wichita Beacon, a daily of the city.

Coupons were published in the papers by which on presentation a child under 15 years of age was entitled to admission to the Holland theater during the morning performances of the theater on the days mentioned. It is needless to say that the picture was shown to overflowing crowds at each performance, for this patriotic picture appealed to every child and there was nothing forbidding a return visit. It was a real treat to the kiddies of the city, and their response to the invitation was proof of their appreciation of the picture. Such worthy acts as these are wonderful helps to all concerned. The paper is endeared to the community, the theater becomes better known to the public, and the picture shown is advertised in a way that can not be rated in terms of money.

Universal Exchange Begins New Year Right.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Universal Film and Supply Company office here has been thoroughly cleaned and redecorated during the last week. The walls are now painted and decorated in light colors, so as to get the greatest amount of light. This exchange is in a building fronted with plate glass. The offices are arranged along the wall facing the street and the light. In the darker part of the office is the out office, display space, and telephone switchboards. With the change in the decorations this outer office is brightened up considerably, and the office, as a whole, has been made one of the most attractive in the city.

"Magda" Makes Good Run in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo.—The first of the New Select pictures, "Magda," featuring Clara Kimball Young, closed a very successful run at the Twelfth Street theater. The picture was shown for a week ending December 29. The Twelfth Street theater has the first run for these pictures. The next Select showing will be "The Moth."

E. C. Kirkpatrick Will Travel for Select.

Kansas City, Mo.—E. C. Kirkpatrick, formerly manager of the New Orleans Paramount office, has been added to the traveling sales force of the Select Pictures. This is his first work in this territory. He began his new work January 1.

Frank Newman's Kansas City Reel.

Kansas City, Mo.—Something else new in the way of "extras" has been introduced by Frank Newman, owner of the Royal and Regent theaters here. It is a Kansas City news film. This film contains important happenings about the city, and will be shown at the Royal and Regent theaters. The first of these films to appear was of the recent Kansas City Star Party in Convention Hall, where Marguerite Clark in "The Seven Swans" showed to 75,000 people in five performances. The news reel is made by the Enterprise Motion Picture Company. This company makes a specialty of commercial work, and is having remarkable success along this line. The company made about 450 feet of the film on the Star party. Pictures on oil holdings and other commercial enterprises made by this company have already been shown at the Royal.

R. L. White Visits.

Kansas City, Mo.—R. L. White, Metro representative in Iowa, with headquarters at Des Moines, was a visitor in Kansas City, December 30. He was formerly manager of the local World Film office here. After leaving Kansas City he represented Vitagraph in Iowa.

Mr. Exhibitor:—You will get more helpful information by carefully reading one trade paper weekly than by skimming over three or four. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD is the paper you need.

Film Trade News from the Twin Cities

Benjamin Judell Leaves the Universal to Go in the States Rights Business—A. A. Hixon Changes to General—Film Row Notes of Interest.

By John L. Johnston, 719 Hennepin Avenue, Minneapois, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Right in the midst of the Yuetide quiet another change in local film exchange managers was announced. Benjamin Judell, who came to Minneapolis four months ago to take the Universal-Laemmle-Jewel-First National combination under his wing, resigned last week and, beginning January 5, will join his brother in promoting a state rights exchange to be known as the B. N. Judell, Inc., exchange. Mr. Judell whipped a good firm Universal organization into shape before leaving his post, and with E. R. Pearson, former division manager for Kleine and Vitagraph, and also former General exchange manager at Omaha, assuming the managership of the local Universal one must admit that the future of this office is indeed rosy. Mr. Pearson comes to Minneapolis from Chicago where, for the past few months he has been Western district manager for the Kleine interests and also connected with Essanay. Mr. Pearson is well known in the Northwest. Mr. Judell's new venture will control territorial rights to "Purity," "Redemption," and several other features.

Associated Theaters Exchange in Running.

Minneapois, Minn.—General Manager Thomas J. Hamlin of the Associated Theaters, Inc., has announced that Jan. 28 his organization will be prepared to distribute a good line of films, despite any statements to the contrary.

Supreme Office at Sioux Falls Moves.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—General Manager Conhaim of the Supreme exchange has announced that the firm's branch office at Sioux Falls, S. D., is now located at 129 South Main avenue and that during its first two weeks its business was very gratifying.

E. B. Shaw Now with Standard.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Earl B. Shaw, formerly with Essanay, is now connected with the Standard exchange here and is doing special roadwork for that organization.

Howard Robarge Goes to Triangle.

Minneapois, Minn.—Howard Robarge, formerly with the Mutual, has been secured to look after the night work for the Triangle exchange.

A. A. Hixon Changes to General.

Another unexpected change occurred during the merry, merry season also. Aloysius Alonzo Hixon, formerly with the Metro, and one of the most popuar exchangemen in the Northwest, shifted from the Metro to the General exchange last week and is now busy in building up Paralta business for Manager Larson. Hixon has begun his new duties with more pep than the Kaiser has displayed in the last three years and to date Paralta pictures have been enjoying unusual success for "new comers."

Film Row Business Notes.

Minneapois, Minn.—Harry L. Muir, Standard's Twin City salesman, booked the two-reel Hart features handled by his firm in twenty-three Minneapolis theaters during the past ten weeks, thus establishing a record for salesmanship during the dull season and making a mark that is hard to equal during any other time of the year.

Manager Jack Corbett, of the Triangle exchange, Minneapolis, was host to Pop. Anson, former ball player, and other members of last week's Orpheum theater bill at a dinner at the Hotel Radisson. Corbett spent New Year's day in Duluth, Minn., on business.

Manager Phil Hazza, of the Winnipeg Universal exchange, spent two days in Minneapolis last week visiting local exchangemen.

O. H. Dutton, of the United Theater Equipment Co., Minneapolis, became the proud papa of a bouncing baby boy last week.

Joseph M. Fieldman, special representative for the Standard exchange, with headquarters in Minneapolis, will leave on a short trip through the Dakotas.

Fred B. Benno, Farbo branch manager for the Laemmle exchange, Minneapolis, spent three days in Minneapolis Christmas week.

Ed Buckley, manager of the Opera House theater, Foley, Minn., and Axel Nielson, of the Auditorium, Red Wing, Minn., were among the out-of-town exhibitors who visited Minneapolis exchanges during the holidays.

Middle West Theater Changes.

By Kansas City News Service.

Cumberland, Ia.—T. H. Henderson has purchased the Lyric theater and has taken possession.

Deming, N. M.—The new Cody theater has been opened to the public. Sol. Carragion is the manager.

Snyder, Tex.—The Cozy theater opened December 20.

Lincoln, Neb.—A moving picture film caught fire in the Wonderland theater recently. The damage was small.

Oakland, Neb.—Seth Oak has sold his moving picture business to P. Kace.

Ravenna, Neb.—Dr. Gehrke has leased the Pastime theater here.

Callaway, Neb.—W. H. McCulloch has leased the Star theater from C. W. Wright.

Independence, Kan.—The Maple theater, a picture house on West Maple avenue, was damaged by fire December 26 to the extent of $16,000.

Junction City, Kan.—N. H. Gibbons has been appointed house manager of the Columbia theater.

Inman, Kan.—Mr. Oldfield of Canton has been putting on a moving picture show here recently and if well patronized expected to locate a permanent show.

Sand Springs, Okla.—Bill Strickler, manager of the Liberty theater at Collinsville, is putting in a picture show here and expects to open it for business in the near future.

Coffeyville, Kan.—A new theater for moving pictures is being built here by John Tackett, which will have a seating capacity of 1,000.

Cherryvale, Kan.—A new house for the showing of moving pictures will be built here soon.

Eldorado, Kan.—Charles Parten has opened the Empire theater here. A new pipe organ has been installed. Mr. Parten formerly had the Royal theater here.

Yates Center, Kan.—G. L. LaMont has bought the Star theater here from Charles DeVore. Mr. LaMont was formerly owner of the Wigwam theater at Overlin.

Mulberry, Kan.—The Mystic theater here has been bought by Reede and Gees. The new owners have thoroughly remodeled the theater.

Great Bend, Kan.—E. G. Brodock now has the Regent theater here. This theater has a seating capacity of 800.

Made Huge Provision for Kiddies' Week

Kahn & Greenfield Circuit, With Help of Merchant's Organization, Made a Bright Christmas for Thousands of Youngsters.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Following its usual custom the management of the Kahn & Greenfield circuit, which conducts three large houses in this city, played host during the Christmas holidays to thousands of children in the Mission and Fillmore street districts. The plan, found to be so successful last year, was followed this season at both the New Mission and the New Fillmore theaters and aroused an immense amount of interest.

In both of these thriving business districts the merchants have formed strong organizations for promotion work, and the management of these theaters secured the co-operation of the organized business men in making "Kiddies' Week" a huge success. Ten thousand toys were purchased for distribution at each house, and each day for five days the merchants in the neighborhood distributed two thousand tickets upon request and without the need of purchases being made. The lobby of each house was converted into a veritable fairyland of toys, with Santa Claus himself on hand to hand out one to each holder of a free matinee ticket. As many of the youngsters were accompanied by their parents, who paid their way into the theaters, the receipts for the week were not lessened.

A little while before "Kiddies' Week" Joseph E. Levin, manager of the New Fillmore theater, entertained the youngsters of the neighborhood at a special matinee, the attraction being Marguerite Clark, in "The Prince and the Pauper," and Fatty Arbuckle. The interesting feature of the event was the fact that although there are but 2,889 seats in this house a grand total of thirty-five hundred children were accommodated, and all were seated. Chairs made for one were made to care for two and youngsters even seated themselves in the aisles.

Nasty Billboards Condemned.

San Francisco, Cal.—It has been a long time since any objection has been filed against pictures shown on the screens of local theaters, but the management of certain downtown houses are being condemned by the thoughtful public and by the press for the indecent tone of the billboard advertising that is being done. Two of these houses are apparently vieing with each other in the matter of suggestive publicity, and the contest has reached such a stage that editorials are appearing in the daily press condemning the use of billboards for such a purpose and calling upon the Board of Supervisors to put a stop to the practice by revoking billboard privileges. Since the censorship of moving pictures was abolished in this city exhibitors have steadily striven to keep their screens clean, and the representative men of the industry are steadfastly against such schemes as these to achieve notoriety.

Eugene H. Roth to Go East.

San Francisco, Cal.—Now that the California theater is running along smoothly and its operating staff has been completed, Managing Director Eugene H. Roth is preparing to leave for New York on a business trip and will probably get away before the middle of January. While away he will inspect many of the large theaters elsewhere and will be open for suggestions that might be used to advantage in his beautiful house in this city. Not only does Mr. Roth supervise the policy of the California theater and arrange its bookings, but continues to act in a similar capacity in regard to the Portola theater. Business at this house has not been affected by the opening of the California and it is still in the market for the same kind of features upon which its success has been built in the past. Harry David is house manager at the California, while Van B. Clement is in charge at the Portola.

Mary Pickford Helps Red Cross.

San Francisco, Cal.—San Francisco has adopted Mary Pickford as its very own "Darling Mary," and just to show that she is willing, the diminutive screen star has twice within the past two weeks led a parade through thronged streets. Her first appearance was in the role of a U. S. Marine, to stimulate enlisting, and the last one was to aid this city in a Red Cross drive for membership. The parade on her last visit was led by her St. Bernard dog, bearing the emblem of the Red Cross, with Miss Pickford at the head of a large body of troops, dressed in the uniform of a Red Cross nurse. She reviewed the parade at the St. Francis hotel and was visibly affected by the ovation in her honor. "Not until today," she said, "did I grasp the full meaning of the slogan, 'San Francisco Knows How.' Now it is plain to me. I say that nowhere else in all the world people honor me as this community has done." In the afternoon following the parade a tea dance was given at the hotel and the receipts turned over to the Red Cross. On the following day she visited the Union Iron works and addressed four thousand men during the noon hour, after which she visited Camp Fremont, San Francisco's great training camp

"Human" Music Urged.

San Francisco, Cal.—The organized musicians of the city are running a series of advertisements in the daily press urging theater patrons to go to houses where "human" music is used as an accompaniment to moving pictures, instead of to those which features the "canned" variety. The following theaters are listed as employing from six to twenty-five musicians: California, Tivoli, Jewel, Rialto, Imperial, Strand, Portola, Alhambra, Valencia, Verdi, Pantages, Casino, Hippodrome, Wigwam, Princess, Garrick and the Lyceum.

Investigates Advertising Mediums.

Berkeley, Cal.—Sam Y. Edwards, manager of the local T. & D. theater, is making an interesting study of the value of various forms of publicity in the College City. Recently he ran a series of slides giving the telephone number of this theater and making the suggestion that use be made of this to secure any information desired. The nature of the telephone calls that resulted were then tabulated and it was found that out of the average of one hundred and fifty calls daily fully three-quarters of these were in regard to the program, with a few asking for the time schedule. The opinion arrived at was that newspaper advertising in Berkeley was not especially effective. Thousands of the residents of this city, which is a unit of the Greater San Francisco, work across the Bay, have their entire interests there, and read the San San Francisco newspapers. The rates of the latter are too high to permit a suburban theater to advertise its program, and it is asserted that the local papers do not cover the field.

Camp Pictures to Be Released.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Turner & Dahnken circuit recently sent a cameraman to American Lake, Wash., to secure moving pictures of soldier life at Camp Lewis, and the first of the series has been received. These will be sent to Washington to secure the approval of officials and will then be shown over the T. & D. circuit and throughout the West. E. M. Asher, head of the exchange department of this concern, will leave shortly on a trip over the territory to explain to exhibitors the policy of the First National Exhibitors' Association.

Ink Thrower Gets Jail Sentence.

San Francisco, Cal.—Alice Smith recently amused herself by spattering the interior of a moving picture theater on Powell street with ink, and upon being taken before a police judge was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail.

San Francisco Newslets.

William Bernard is now covering the northern California territory for the Select Pictures.

The Rialto theater, 1129 Market street, is having extensive changes made in its electric signs.

S. Hasterlick has purchased a one-half interest in Fisher's theater, Seventh avenue and Clement street.

The California Camera Club held its annual Christmas jinks at the clubrooms on Dec. 27. Edward H. Kemp, the local Motiograph representative, took a prominent part in this.

Herman Lubfin, business agent of the Moving Picture Operators' Union, with John O'Connell, is working to organize the film exchange workers, who recently received a charter from the American Federation of Labor.

Good Films Draw Holiday Crowds in Seattle

"Seven Swans," "Cinderella Man," "Mad Lover" and Other Attractions Keep Seats Full—Some Fine Xmas Decorations.

By S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, WASH.—In spite of turkey dinners and home parties during Christmas week the motion picture theaters of Seattle have been drawing good crowds. Realizing the hold of home upon Seattleites at this season the theater managers took special pains to book features of such strong appeal that people would be drawn from their firesides in spite of themselves.

A real Christmas picture is being shown at the Coliseum for the special benefit of the kiddies during the holiday week. It is "Seven Swans," featuring Marguerite Clark. From the way the grown-ups have been flocking to see the play it seems that it is pleasing the parents as much as the little ones. Manager Tate of the Coliseum has promised the kiddies an extra treat at 10 A. M. on Saturday, Dec. 29, when a showing of Baby Marie Osborne's latest picture, "The Little Patriot," will be given for the benefit of the Seattle Day Nursery.

Another film that carries with it the spirit of Christmas is "The Cinderella Man," starring Mae Marsh and Tom Moore at the Strand. Mae Marsh has many admirers in Seattle, and the Strand has been doing an unsual Christmas business all week.

At the Clemmer "The Mad Lover," with Robert Warwick and Elaine Hammerstein, drew so well that it was held over all week, instead of remaining only the four days originally intended.

Charles Ray, in "His Mother's Boy," at the Liberty, also proved so popular that it was held over for the full week. The Pathe news picture, "France in Arms," was specially advertised on the Liberty program and drew its quota of the Christmas crowds. A special feature of the decorations at the Liberty were the lighting effects in the two boxes at the sides of the stage. In one of these boxes a country snow scene with fir trees and a lake in the background was made to show all the glories of sunrise over snow-clad hills by the use of different colored lights in succession, and the lake caught the gleam of the sun when fully risen. On the other side a life-size soldier stood guard in a snow-covered trench, his figure dimly outlined at first by the dull glow of a campfire beside him. Gradually the day dawns, showing wire entanglements in front of the trench and, farther on, the shell holes and snow-covered debris of "No-Man's Land."

At the Rex the double headline attraction of the Bushman-Bayne feature, "The Voice of Conscience," and the Arbuckle comedy, "Coney Island," has had its share of Christmas popularity.

Cedar and holly and flowers have been used, both in the lobbies and the interiors, in order that the theaters may be pervaded by the spirit of the holiday season.

There has been very little disorder in the city during the holidays, and none of the theater managers have had any trouble with rowdy persons. It is true that an I. W. W. tried to stir up a row at the Strand on Christmas eve, but certain members of the audience took care of him, and Manager Smythe's services were not even requested. It was during a four-minute speech by H. A. Ford. Mr. Ford made some very strong arguments for joining the Red Cross when the I. W. W. member of the audience interrupted him with some sneering epithet. Several men immediately around the man took him up, carried him to the door and pitched him across the street. When they returned they were cheered by the rest of the audience, and Mr. Ford continued his speech.

Exhibitor Rebuked for Removing Scenes from Film.

Seattle, Wash.—The Northwest Film Board of Trade held its meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 26, this week. That the organization means to accomplish its purpose of benefiting both exhibitors and themselves is shown by the action taken at this meeting against an exhibitor who, in conjunction with his operator, removed certain scenes from films. He has been informed that he will get no more film until he has paid for the damage already done and given dependable assurance that the same thing will not occur again. In the large territory covered by the exchanges of the Northwest, a great many circuits have to be made with the films, and those exhibitors to whom such a damaged film is next sent, without the exchange having an opportunity of inspecting it, must suffer for the action of their dishonest fellow exhibitor.

Action was also taken against an exhibitor who had returned a film C. O. D.

After the business of the meeting had been transacted the Board of Trade's general counsel, Harry Sigmond, outlined the plan of action governing N. S. F. checks.

Every exchange manager in the city was present.

Meetings are held every Tuesday.

Exhibitors' Film Salesmen Hard at Work.

Seattle, Wash.—F. D. Fisher, manager of the Exhibitors' Film exchange, states that his two salesmen, George J. Ekre and C. H. Feldman, are already getting big results in their respective territories in booking the new Chaplin and Petrova Pictures and "On Trial" and "Alimony." When "Alimony" was booked for the Liberty theater, Seattle, it was intended to show it only four days, but owing to its popularity it was held over for the entire week.

E. H. Emmick Coming to Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—E. H. Emmick, well-known film man of the Northwest, is coming to make his headquarters in Seattle soon to handle the two-reel reissues for Greater Features.

Passable Holiday Business in Portland

Compared Favorably With That of Other Years—Mercantile Houses Did Better—Several One-a-Week Theaters Open.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Bldg., Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, ORE.—The holiday season at the Portland downtown theaters compared most favorably with that of other years from a box office standpoint, notwithstanding the many drives on the pocketbooks of the people. Indications are, however, that the mercantile houses did a better business in proportion than the theaters.

The Majestic showed "The Cinderella Man" and the second chapter of the "Battle of Arras" pictures to big audiences; the Liberty did good business with "Joan the Woman" and a fourteen-piece orchestra led by Albert Hay Mallotte; the Columbia made "Tom Sawyer" a popular attraction and the Peoples featured "Maciste" to good business.

Shipbuilding Helps Business.

M. B. Donovan, owner of the Portsmouth theater, a suburban house, is enthusiastic over the way the new shipbuilding industry in Portland has helped the business in his neighborhood. Everybody out there seems to have money.

W. E. Tebbetts, of the Alhambra, in the Hawthorne district, is planning having more fifteen-cent days, due to the liberal patronage of his shows on Sunday, when fifteen cents is the price of admission. Mr. Tebbets says the public has become most discriminating and that it is only the good pictures that can command the money.

New One-Day-a-Week Theaters.

This territory is now getting several new theaters, but they are running only one day a week. Touchet, Washington, recently went on the picture show map with a show that is conducted by the Woodmen of the World and operated only on Friday nights. At Elgin, Oregon, a municipal theater, conducted by the city council one night a week for the purpose of paying the interest on the building investment, has been opened to run in opposition to the Gem theater, conducted by Mrs. George James. A civic club has arranged to run the theater at Carlton, Oregon.

Myrick Entertains the Kiddies.

Portland, Ore.—By actual count, 4,260 children were guests of E. J. Myrick, of the Liberty theater, on the Monday morning preceding Christmas when he gave a children's party to view his Christmas trees and incidentally "Joan the Woman." Mr. Myrick gave away that number of Christmas packages. He gave only one performance for the children and those that couldn't get in to see the show were marched in through the entrance of the theater, given a package of candy, and sent out through the side exit.

Theater at Wodburn Cuts Down Shows.

Portland, Ore.—The Bungalow theater at Woodburn, Oregon, has cut down its running days from seven to four a week. Road men report cuts in running days in several of the small towns, due to the falling off of patronage.

Exhibitor W. S. Trites Dies.

Harrisburg, Ore.—W. S. Trites, owner of the theaters in Junction City and Harrisburg, is dead from pneumonia, having been sick only a short time. The Junction City house is closed for good, the fixtures having been torn out by V. Cartright, who, it is reported, plans a new theater for Harrisburg this summer.

New Films Show Fruit Drying.

Portland, Ore.—Jack Woods leaves soon for Chicago with the industrial films of the Wittenberg-King Company, driers of Oregon fruit, to exploit the product by means of films gotten out by Burnett Goodwin. The company plans to send men with copies of the films throughout the United States.

Norman and Gray Dissolve.

Rainier, Ore.—The partnership of Norman & Gray, recently formed to manage the Grand theater here, has been dissolved and the theater is now being operated by Gray and son.

Theater at Kelso Sold.

Kelso, Ore.—E. P. Peck, of the Edison theater, has sold his show to C. C. Vaughn of the Vogue theater who will operate both houses. Mr. Vaughn came to Kelso not so very long ago with a lot of new ideas in the show game, and has made a success of it.

Another of Those Rumors.

Portland, Ore.—All of Film Row is agog over the rumor that George Jackson is going to get married. It was known for some time that the genial Mutual manager had made up his mind on this question some time ago but that he had spoken to any charming young lady about it was news.

Claude Cannon Back in Portland.

Portland, Ore.—Claude Cannon, who owned the Nob Hill theater for several years, was seen the other day on Film Row and it is understood he is looking for another location. Mr. Cannon has been living in Roseburg for the past year or so and has not been in the picture business.

Majestic Decorations from Piney Hills.

Portland, Ore.—Manager J. J. Parker, of the Majestic theater, took his Christmas decorations from the woods of Oregon and made a showing in that line that excited many favorable comments from the Majestic patrons. The lobby was a big bower of firs and cedars, set with red lights and it radiated the fragrance of the Oregon forests. Inside of the foyer was hundreds of feet of tinsel hung with tiny silver stars and there were several decorated Christmas trees to please the children. The decorating was directly in charge of house manager H. D. Green, who spread himself for the occasion.

With the Portland Road Men.

Portland, Ore.—B. J. Sperry, traveler for the Paramount company, returned recently from southern Oregon and the Tillamook country where he reported things progressing nicely with the exception of a few of the small towns south of Portland which seem to be hard hit by the war conditions.

Harry Hunter, also of Paramount, and Fred Simonton, traveler for General, both made a trip into eastern Oregon and reported good business throughout. Mr. Simonton was particularly pleased with the outlook for a prosperous season in the Walla Walla territory. His next trip will be in behalf of Paralta pictures.

H. H. Hearn and E. R. Redlich, of Triangle and Metro, respectively, were recent visitors in Portland.

H. G. Mapes with General.

Portland, Ore.—H. G. Mapes, former manager of the Sunset theater, has been employed by the General Film Company as booker. Mr. Mapes left the Sunset recently to take this position, his place being taken by W. L. Reauveau. The new General booker was formerly house manager for the Portland T & D, and for the Alta and Cozy theaters in Pendleton.

Advertising Aids for Busy Managers

COMPILED BY THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD'S STAFF

BETTY TAKES A HAND.

Triangle Presents Beautiful Olive Thomas in Katherine Kavanagh's Original Five-Act Story of the Son of Millions Who Made Good.

Cast.

Betty Marshall.....Olive Thomas
Peter Marshall.....Frederick Vroom
Mrs Hamilton Haines.....Bliss Chevalier
Ida Haines.....Mary Warren
James Bartlett.....George Hernandez
Tom Bartlett.....Charles Gunn
Miss Catherine.....Margaret Cullington

Directed by Jack Dillon.

The Story: Blood feuds may run true to form, but when the disowned son of a millionaire and the daughter of the man to whom a part of those millions rightfully belong unite to make a success of a boarding house in the home of the millionaire's partner in swindling something is bound to happen, and in this fast moving little story a whole lot happens before the kinks are all straightened out.

For the Program: Olive Thomas in a play of poverty and plutocracy.
Betty's brains beat Bartlett's millions.

Advertising Phrases: An auto wreck that cost half a million.
With Cupid for a star boarder.

Feature These Players: Olive Thomas as the girl with brains.
Charles Gunn as the millionaire's son who helped run a boarding house.

Stunt Suggestions: For the lobby borrow what is left of an automobile from some repair garage. Put up a sign, "Would you pay the girl who wrecked your machine like this $50,000 to marry your son? James Bartlett did in 'Betty Takes a Hand.' (Date.)" If the lobby is too small use a display window, or display a couple of broken wheels and other parts in a heap. Get some dry-goods store to make a display of silk and cotton stockings. Use a window card announcing, "Betty Marshall started in cotton stockings, but she wound up in silks. Buy your stockings here then see 'Betty Takes a Hand' at (house and date)." If you can get a badly battered car of good make run it through the streets with a banner on each side, "I've met Betty Marshall. You can meet her at (house and date), in 'Betty Takes a Hand'."

Advertising Aids: Two one-sheets, one each, three and six-sheet herald in rotogravure. Slides. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Electros and mats. Press sheet.
Released January 6.

THE BLIND ADVENTURE.

Greater Vitagraph Presents Edward Earle and Betty Howe in the Five-Part Blue Ribbon Feature Based on Earl Derr Biggers' Novel.

Cast.

Geoffrey West.....Edward Earle
Marion Larned.....Betty Howe
Congressman Larned.....Frank Norcross
Capt. Fraser-Freer.....William Bailey
Lieut. Frader-Freer.....Gilbert Rooney
Col. Hughes.....P. D. Standing

Directed by Wesley H. Ruggles.

The Story: Geoffrey West is fascinated by a girl he sees in the breakfast room of the Carleton Hotel, London. She is reading the "agony" column of the Times, and to gain her interest he appeals next morning through the personals. She responds through the same medium, demanding that he prove himself an interesting person. He replies with the recital of a mystery murder that induces her to hurry her father to his aid to find that—.

For the Program: The mystery of a murder never done.
He killed a man to win a girl's attention.

Advertising Phrases: He loved a lady, she loved adventure, and so he took "The Blind Adventure."
What's a man's life to a woman's interest?

Feature These Players: Edward Earle as the young American who kills a man on paper.
Betty Howe as the girl who wanted to be entertained.

Stunt Suggestions: Use a street wagon with signs reading, "Would you kill a man to gain a woman's interest? See 'The Blind Adventure.' (House and date.)" Repeat in teaser advertisements in the papers, first asking the question, and adding the title the day before the showing. Repeat on the lobby signs with portraits and stills. Hammering on this fact will help the surprise climax.

Advertising Aids: One style each, one, three and six-sheets. Window card. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Slide. Heralds. Plan book. Press sheet.
Released January 7.

CONVICT 993.

Pathe Presents the Astra Five-Act Play by Wallace Clifton with Mrs. Vernon Castle in a Drama of Daring.

Cast.

Roslyn Ayre.....Irene Castle
Rodney Travers.....Harry Benham
Bob Ainslee.....J. H. Gilmore
Neva Stokes.....Helene Chadwick
Dan Mallory.....Warner Oland
Jim Morton.....Paul Everton
Bill Avery.....Bert Starkey
Stella Preston.....Ethyle Cooke

Directed by William Parke.

The Story: Neva Stokes was too cynical to believe Roslyn Ayre's story of how she came to be a convict. She knew all the "stalls," and she hated Roslyn for her successful escape from behind stone walls. She made it a point to look her up when her own sentence was ended, and forced her to join Dan Mallory's gang of jewel thieves and aid in a big robbery—but there was just one thing Neva did not know that spoiled the scheme and brought an unexpected ending to the story.

For the Program: Irene Castle in a series of sensational surprises.
Iron bars could not restrain Convict 993.

Advertising Phrases: How did Convict 993 break out of jail?
Something new in detective stories.

Feature These Players: Mrs. Castle as Roslyn.
Harry Benham as the man who loves her.

Stunt Suggestions: If the fire laws permit—build a false entrance from joist and cotton cloth painted to suggested a jail entrance. Put your doorman in uniform with a bunch of keys and with "Warden" lettered upon his cap. Over the door letter, "Join Convict 993 inside." Use the phrase, "Go to jail with Irene Castle," in all your advertising.

Advertising Aids: One one-sheet, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 24-sheet. Lobby display 11x14, both sepia and colored. One 22x28 scene, one 22x28 portrait. Art portrait. Campaign book. Two one-column newspaper cuts of star. Photos of star in black and white.
Released January 6.

GHOSTS OF YESTERDAY.

Joseph M. Schenck Presents Norma Talmadge in a Fascinating Dual Role in a Screen Version of Rupert Hughes' Stage play, "Two Women."

Cast.

Ruth Grahame; Jeanne La Fleur, Norma Talmadge
Howard Marston.....Eugene O'Brien
Count Pascal de Fondras...Stuart Holmes
Duc de Lissac.....John Daly Murphy
Roger Stearns.....Henry J. Hebert
Mrs. Whitaker.....Ida Darling
Marie Calleaux.....Blanche Douglas

Directed by Charles Miller.

The Story: Howard Marston is saved from suicide by Ruth Graham, and under his good influence he takes a new hold upon life and wins a fortune through an improvement in engraving, but money cannot defeat death, and Ruth dies with Howard's portrait of her still unfinished. Howard goes to Paris and in the gay underworld he finds Ruth's physical double in Jeanne Le Fleur. At his solicitation she poses for the completion of the portrait, and Howard does not realize that in completing his wife's picture he is giving something of her soul to the model. In anger at his blindness, she slashes the completed painting and rejoins her old companions—there Howard finds her and light and darkness come to him.

For the Program: A fascinating study of two women wholly unlike.
The girl with a soul and the girl who found a soul.

Advertising Phrases: Found his wife's double at the Bal Tabarin.
Which Norma Talmadge would you prefer.

Feature These Players: Norma Talmadge in vividly contrasting roles.
Eugene O'Brien as the artist.
Stuart Holmes and Ida Darling in the support.

Stunt Suggestions: Offer pairs of seats to all doubles (men or women) presenting themselves at any performance. Feature this in throwaways and newspaper ads, "Have you a double? Is there some one in town who looks like you? If you can find your counterpart you will be made welcome as our guests at any performance of 'Ghosts of Yesterday,' the new Norma Talmadge production in which she plays two women who loved one man (house and date)." For the lobby decorate with streamers of serpentines and confetti. Fasten the serpentines thickly to the dome of the lobby. Use a card, "See the wonderful scenes at the Bal Tabarin in 'Ghosts of Yesterday.' Now showing."

Advertising Aids: Two styles each, one and three sheets. One style each, six and 24-sheets. Window cards. Heralds. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Cuts on production: Two one-column, two two-column, one three-column. Cuts of star one-half, one and two columns wide.
Released in January.

DAYBREAK.

Metro Presents Emily Stevens in an Adaptation of the Play by Jane Cowl and Jane Murfin, Arranged by June Mathis and Albert Capellani.

Cast.

Edith Frome.....Emily Stevens
Arthur Frome, her husband,
Julia L'Estrange
Dr. David Brett.....Augustus Phillips
Herbert Rankin.....Herman Lieb
Carl Peterson.....Frank Joyner
Alma Peterson.....Evelyn Brent
Otway.....Joe Daly
Meta Thompson.....Evelyn Axzell

Directed by Albert Capellani.

The Story: Edith Frome, fearful of her husband's drunken humors, leaves him and conceals from him the fact that she is about to become a mother. A year later she returns to him, but still conceals from him the fact of his paternity. Through a detective, Frome learns of the existence of the child, and believes their family physician, Dr. Brett, to be its father. The husband of the woman Frome has employed as a detective becomes suspicious and shoots him. The shock brings about moral rebirth, and under the guidance of Dr. Brett, Frome finds his way to his wife and child.

For the Program: A striking plea for prohibition.
A loveless home turned to the home of love.

Advertising Phrases: She feared to tell her husband of his child.
Baby hands brought the dawn of a new day.

Feature These Players: Emily Stevens as the young wife.
Julian L'Estrange as the husband.
Augustus Phillips as Dr. Brett.

Stunt Suggestions: For the lobby arrange a well furnished buffet with plenty of bottles, and before this place a cradle, the sign reading, "Which wins, the buffet or the baby? See 'Daybreak' (date)." Interest the temperance societies with a form letter or personal solicitation. Arrange with a furniture store to make a display of a nursery, with a card, "The little child in the cradle lived here because his mother dared not let its father know he had a son. For the reason see 'Daybreak' at (house and date)."

Advertising Aids: Two styles each, one, three and six-sheets. Press sheet. Filler sheet. Ten minute novel for newspapers. Slide. Herald. Lobby sheet. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Mats and cuts.
Released January 7.

EMPTY POCKETS.

First National Presents a Screen Vivification of Rupert Hughes' Well-Known Novel of New York Life.

Cast.

Maryla Sokalska.....Ketty Galanta
Muriel Schuyler.....Barbara Castleton
Dr. Worthing.....Bert Lytell
Perry Merithew.....Malcolm Williams
Jacob Schuyler.....Ben Graham
Red Ida Ganley.....Susan Willa
Shang Ganley.....Thornton Baston
Pet Bettanny.....Peggy Betts

Directed by Herbert Brenon.

The Story: Perry Merithew, a well-known society man, is found dead upon the roof of an east-side tenement. The only clew to his murderer is a strand of copper colored hair, but it is sufficient to direct suspicion against five women with titian hair, ranging from society buds to the wife of a gangster, but when the net seems to tighten about the society girl a young interne extricates her from her awful predicament.

For the Program: Thrill piled on thrill, sensation on sensation.
Five red headed women face a murder charge.

Advertising Phrases: An absorbing study of real New Yorkers.
A fascinating tale of dives and drawing rooms

Feature These Players: Feature the general excellence of the ensemble cast in which no particular player is featured to the detriment of the story.

Stunt Suggestions: The press sheet offers two good ways to use the book, and the matinee for red headed girls is excellent. You can hire red "Biddy" wigs from a theatrical costumer. Get five, place them on dummies in a store window, back to the street, and below ask, "Which of these five red-headed women killed Perry Merithew? See 'Empty Pockets' at (house and date)." Put on special red-headed ushers for the day, and advertise prominently for them, both in the newspapers and in your lobby. Get the local paper to write up the advertisement. Get a couple of yards of red crepe hair and glue to the lobby posters.

Advertising Aids: Two styles one-sheet, one style each three, six and 24-sheets. Line cuts from one-half to four columns wide. Three styles single column halftones. Four styles double column halftones. Window cards. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Four designs of book marks to use instead of heralds. Three styles of slides. Press book.
Released December 31.

HER SISTER.

Empire All-Star Corporation Presents the Charming Broadway Actress, Olive Tell, in a Charles Frohman Stage Success.

Cast.

Eeanor Alderson.....Olive Tell
Ernest Bickley.....David Powell
Jane Alderson.....Eileen Dennes
Mrs. Herriard.....Eileen Errol
Mrs. Bickley.....Madeline Meredith
George Saunders.....Sidney Blair
Charles Hamilton.....Herbert Evans
Mrs. Hamilton.....Eleanor Seybolt

The Story: Nell Alderson and her sister, Jane, are models, but to shield Jane and provide her with the luxuries she covets, Nell becomes a fashionable and high-priced fortune teller. Jane, in spite of Nell's care, goes to a road-house with a married man, providing a jealous wife with the excuse she seeks for suing for divorce. To shield her sister, Nell takes the burden of her indiscretion, but the real co-respondent is unmasked and two weddings are planned.

For the Program: An innocent lark and its consequences.

She told fortunes, but could not foresee her own.

Advertising Phrases: She took the shame to shield her sister.
She sought pleasure and found scandal.

Feature These Players: Olive Tell as Isis, the fortune teller.
David Powell as her sweetheart.
Eileen Dennes as the amusement-loving sister who nearly spoils her sister's life.

Stunt Suggestions: For window work get stationers and department stores to make displays of fortune telling books and games with a sign. In the lobby place a black pedestal with a crystal globe (an inverted globe aquarium will do for want of better) and placard, "Gaze into the crystal and see if you can read your future. Isis could read all things save the shame her sister would bring her. See 'Her Sister' (date), with Olive Tell."

Advertising Aids: One style each, one three and six-sheets. Cuts in one-half, one, and three-column widths. Mats one, two and three columns. Program cover cut 4x4. Slides. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Press sheet.
Released December 24

FACE VALUE.

Bluebird Presents Mae Murray in the Story of a Girl from Nowhere, Written by Herself and Robert Z. Leonard.

Cast.

Joan Darby.....Mae Murray
Mrs. Van Twiller.....Clarissa Selwynne
Margaret Van Twiller.Florence Carpenter
Bertram Van Twiller....Wheeler Oakman
Louis Patrick Naquire..Casson Ferguson

Directed by Robert Leonard.

The Story: Joan Darby as the drudge for a washerwoman, delivering the clean linen and collecting soiled clothes, but she aspired to higher things and promoted a prize fight between the leaders of two rival gangs. She appropriated the gate receipts, and when her mistress saw the money she accused her of theft—Joan ran away. She was doing well for herself, when one of the gang leaders discovered her and forced her to aid his nefarious schemes, but she got into society in evading the reform school and found real happiness.

For the Program: She jumped from a moving train into high life and happiness.
She took a long chance, but she won.

Advertising Phrases: From prize-fight promoter to social belle.
See Mae Murray in her own play.

Feature These Players: Mae Murray as the little girl from nowhere.
Wheeler Oakman as the millionaire reformer.

Stunt Suggestions: Get the dry goods stores to display a cheap gingham apron in their windows with the card, "To buy a pinafore like this, Joan Darby staged a prize fight in the livery stable, and ran away with the money. See what happened in 'Face Value' at (house and date)." For a lobby display get two ragged boys of about sixteen to pose in the lobby with boxing gloves and announce the championship fight in "Face Vaue."

Advertising Aids: One style each, one, three and six-sheets. Stock ones of stars. Colored and black and white lobby displays. Slide. Player cuts in three sizes. Scene cuts in one and two-column widths. Heralds. Press sheet.
Released January 14.

FIELDS OF HONOR.

Goldwyn Presents Mae Marsh in Irvin Cobb's Realistic Story of New York's Unknown—Appearing in The Saturday Evening Post Under the Same Title.

Cast.

Marie Messereau.....Mae Marsh
Helene.....Marguerite Marsh
Paul.....George Cooper
Hans Grossman.....John Wessell
Robert Vorhis.....Vernon Steele
Judge Vorhis.....Neil Moran
Mrs. Vorhis.....Maud Cooling

Directed by Ralph Ince.

The Story: Evil pursues Marie Messereau, a little French girl, who came to this country with her brother and sister in search of better things. The brother is called to the French colors, leaving the two girls alone. Then the sister falls ill, and Marie cannot afford to give her the trip to the mountains that the doctor orders. At last fortune seems to smile. She wins the love of Robert Vorhis, the son of a wealthy judge, but a jealous friend tells Robert she is a fallen woman, and her apparent confession, due to her lack of understanding of English, drives Robert away. Then comes word that their brother and her sister's sweetheart have fallen, and this brings about the collapse of Helene. Marie, seeking to locate a charitable home, is suspected of accosting men, and is taken to the night court. Meantime the waiting sister, doomed to death, commits suicide, and the detective sent to investigate Marie's story finds her dead. Marie is released, and at last the clouds blow away from the brave little stranger, fighter upon the fields of honor in a strange land.

For the Program: Can you ask more than Irvin Cobb interpreted by Mae Marsh?
The story of a heroine of the lowly.

Advertising Phrases: Mae Marsh in one of Irvin Cobb's best stories.
Sobs and smiles lie strangely close.

Feature These Players: Mae Marsh as the brave little French girl.
Marguerite Marsh, formerly known as Marguerite Loveridge.
Vernon Steele as Robert.

Stunt Suggestions: Interest the welfare societies if there are any in your town, also French societies. The story does not lend itself to stunting, but is better handled through newspaper publicity playing up the name of the star and the author.

Advertising Aids: One litho and one rotogravure one-sheets, two litho three-sheets, one six and one 24-sheet. Coming and current slides. Lobby displays 8x10 and 11x14. Two double and three single column scene cuts, single and double-column mats of star. Four advertising cuts. Press sheet.
Released January 14.

THE MARIONETTES.

Clara Kimball Young and Her Own Company Present Their Screen Interpretation of the French Play of the Same Title by Pierre Wolff.

Cast.

Fernande de Monclars, Clara Kimball Young
Marquise de Monclars, Mrs. Ethel Winthrop
Roger de Monclars.....Nigel Barrie
Pierre Vareine.....Corliss Giles
Ferney, Fernande's uncle.Edward Kimball
Nizerolles.....Alec. B. Francis

Directed by Emile Chautard.

The Story: Fernande de Ferney, a young French girl, has spent her time between the convent and the country home of her uncle, where she has learned to passionately love Roger, the son of the Marquise de Monclars. He marries her for her fortune, but does not value what he has so lightly won until she profits by the lesson taught in the little marionette play written by their friend, Nizerolles, and finds that men are much like marionettes.

For the Program: She found that clothes make the woman.
There are two routes to a man's heart —his stomach and jealousy.

Advertising Phrases: The country mouse learns city ways.
The dressmaker is cupid's best friend.

Feature These Players: Clara Kimball Young. Refer to Magda or Shirley Kaye if you have shown those productions.
Nigel Barry as the indifferent husband.

Stunt Suggestions: For the lobby use marionettes, large dolls with strings fastened to the tops of their heads and to hands and feet. If you can rig a motor with an eccentric shaft you can give motion to the figures and greatly increase the attraction of the display. The same display can be used for store windows, with a card, "To gain your husband's love dress well and make him jealous. That is the lesson taught in the Clara Kimball Young production of 'The Marrionettes' at (house and date). Come in and see our displays." With a little trouble you can erect a float with a proscenium on either side with marionettes taking their motion from the vibration of the vehicle if they are strung with springs.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one and three-sheets. One style each, six and 24-sheets. Window cards. Heralds. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28 One three-column cut and two each two and one-column cuts on production, one each one-half, one and two-column cuts of star.
Released in January.

MOLLY, GO GET 'EM.

Samuel S. Hutchinson Presents Margarita Fischer in a Dashing Comedy Drama of Real Love and False Pretensions by Beatrice Van.

Cast.

Molly Allison.....Margarita Fischer
Billy Wilcox.....Jack Mower
Robert Allison.....Hal Clements
Julia Allison.....Margaret Allen
Gordon Gilbert.....David Howard
Count Renaud.....True Boardman
Mrs. Vanderverr.....Emma Kluge

Directed by Lloyd Ingraham.

The Story: Molly didn't give a whoop for her sister's suitors, for she had a sweetheart of her own, though her father wouldn't let her marry him, but sister's suitors took so much interest in Molly that sister stayed single. Then came the count, and to help along, his accomplice inveigled Molly out to a road-house, and she would have had to walk back twenty miles in the dark, after she slapped his face, only she met a Chinese vegetable peddlar. To scare the count off she told him she really was a squaw, Molly-Go-Get-'Em. The count was also a member of the Get-'Em family, and he got sister's pearls, only they were as false as his title, and Molly—she got married.

For the Program: Molly was a good little getter.
The tribulations of a younger sister.

Advertising Phrases: American girl outwits French count.
Ten days on bread and water for Margarita Fischer.

Feature These Players: Margarita Fischer as Molly.
Jack Mower as the real sweetheart.
True Boardman as the count.

Stunt Suggestions: Arrange with jewelers to display imitation pearls, with a card, "Pearls like these were stolen by a jewel thief in 'Molly Go Get 'Em', and they deceived even the expert. See the play at (house and date), and let your face relax." A novel street stunt would be a girl in a ball dress and furs on the seat of a huckster's cart with a Chinese driver, and proper banners. For the lobby set a table with elaborate silver service, but with only bread and water and a card explaining, "This is not a war dinner, but what Molly got for staying out all night. See Margarita Fischer (date)."

Advertising Aids: Not stated.
Released January 7.

MRS. DANE'S DEFENSE.

Adolph Zukor Presents Pauline Frederick in an Adaptation of Henry Arthur Jones' Great Play, Made by Margaret Turnbull.

Cast.

Felicia Hindemarsh.....Pauline Frederick
Sir Daniel Carteret.....Frank Losee
Lionel, his son.....Leslie Austen
Lady Eastney.....Maud Turner Gordon
Janet, her niece.....Ormi Hawley
Mr. Bulsom-Porter.....John L. Shine
Mrs. Bulsom-Porter.....Ida Darling
James Risbee.....Cyril Chadwick
The Duchess of Grantby, Amelia Summerville
The Vicar.....Frank Kingdon
Mr. Trent.....Howard Hall
Mrs. Trent.....Grace Reals
Mrs. Dane of Canada.....Mary Navarro

Directed by Hugh Ford.

The Story: One of the most famous stories of an English dramatist who delights in presenting the problems of life in caustic fashion, masking his preachments with vivid and gripping stories of human interest. Felicia Hindemarsh is not made to pay the price of her early indiscretions. She pays for supposing that these indiscretions could be hidden, and it is the hiding of her identity behind that of her cousin, Mrs. Dane, which is condemned. It may be regarded as a problem play or merely as a gripping human document.

For the Program: A stage classic that is classic still
The story of a woman's last stand.

Advertising Phrases: A famous play from Famous Players.
The woman pays—for women make her pay.

Feature These Players: Pauline Frederick, who wears some unusually gorgeous gowns.
Frank Losee in a strong character part.
Amelia Summerville, Ormi Hawley, Ida Darling, and Grace Reals.

Stunt Suggestions: Use this copy for mailing cards or throwaways, "Are you a woman? Will you come to Mrs. Dane's defense? See the reason at the (house and date)." Induce some woman's club to discuss the play at a meeting prior to showing, or offer free matinee tickets that the members may see the play to be discussed, always working the papers in this connection. Borrow or roughly make large balance scales for lobby display. On one weight paint "Happiness," and on the heavier, "Deception." On the card, "Deception outweighed happiness in Mrs. Dane's defense. Henry Arthur Jones' absorbing study of a social problem. (Date.) With Pauline Frederick."

Advertising Aids: Two each one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14, 22x28. Eight by ten photos of star. Cuts and mats on stars and production, five of each one-column, three two-column, and two three-column. Heralds. Advertising layouts. Window cards. Slides. Press book.
Released January 7.

MAN ABOVE THE LAW.

Triangle Presents Jack Richardson in Lannier Bartlett's Novel Play Dealing with the Squaw-man Who Bowed to No Law but Love.

Cast.

Duke Chalmers.....Jack Richardson
Esther Brown.....Josie Sedgwick
Natchah.....Claire McDowell
Tonah.....May Giracia

Directed by Raymond Wells.

The Story: Disappointed in love and disgusted with religion, Duke Chalmers seeks the desert, where he lords it over the Navajos and the Mexicans through lavish use of whiskey. He rules with iron will, and the Indians name him Man-Above-the-Law. But a teacher comes to the little school, and when Chalmers orders his people to stay away she fights back and wins even Chalmers half-breed daughter as her pupil. Then Chalmers finds that love is above all laws, and he passes on with his squaw and child, leaving his kingdom to the little teacher.

For the Program: The love story of a lawless man.
Even the lawless must bow to love.

Advertising Phrases: The Desert King finds his ruler.
As vivid as the Painted Desert.

Feature These Players: Jack Richardson as the Desert King.
Claire McDowell as his squaw wife.
Josie Sedgwick as the school teacher.

Stunt Suggestions: Your local library may have some Government publication on the Navajo Indians that will suggest, through colored plates, many window displays easily and cheaply made, or you can build an Indian village with modeling clay for a lobby display, using the stills as models, with the trading post and school. An Indian can be used for street word, with a placard, "The 'Man Above the Law' ruled the Indians with whiskey and violence, but the little teacher won with love. See the play (house and date)."

Advertising Aids: Two one-sheets, one each, three and six-sheets. Heralds in rotogravure. Slides. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Electros and mats. Press sheets.
Released January 6.

OVER THE HILL.

Pathe Presents Gladys Hulette in a Five-Part Astra Story of Small-Town Newspaper Life by Lois Zellner.

Cast.

Esther.....Gladys Hulette
Roy.....William Parke, Jr.
Allan Stone.....Chester Barnett
Amos Winthrop.....J. H. Gilmour
Rose Lawlor.....Joyce Fair
Jim Barnes.....Richard Thornton
Mr. Neal.....Dan Mason
"King" Arthur.....William Sullivan

Directed by William Parke.

The Story: Left alone by the death of her father, a superannuated minister, Esther takes up his work as a book canvasser, and her enterprise wins for her a position on the local paper as assistant to Allan Stone, the business manager, who has been promised a better position if his skill can put the paper "over the hill" of its losses. One certain advertisement can turn the balance, and it is Esther who finally wins the contract, but only after a quick succession of tense situations.

For the Program: Spend an evening in the Editor's sanctum with Gladys Hulette.
She risked her job to save a girl's fair name.

Advertising Phrases: She spoiled the edition, but she saved the day.
A yellow journal and a girl who dared.

Feature These Players: Gladys Hulette as the plucky wage earner.
Chester Earnett as the business manager.
Joyce Fair as the merchant's daughter.

Stunt Suggestions: Arrange with local merchants to advertise in a special one-sheet edition of your local paper, but with a fanciful title, such as the "Clarion." You can get enough outside advertising to pay for the sheet. Print up with reprinted locals and boiler plate with a two-column spread announcement on the front page that "Owing to an accident to our forms we are unable to offer our readers a complete newspaper this morning. For the reason see Over the Hill at (house and date)." Put these out the day before the showing, using boys to distribute the same as throwaways. Borrow the "hell-box" from the local paper, or a mass of linotype slugs, a form and an imposing stone for a lobby display.

For the card: "Esther 'pied' the forms to save her friend's good name, but she put the paper 'Over the Hill.' (Date.) With Gladys Hulette."

Advertising Aids: One style each one, three and six-sheets. One sepia 22x28 of star and same of scene. Slide. Cut of star. Colored lobby display. Campaign book.
Released Dec. 30.

ROSE OF THE WORLD.

Adolph Zukor Presents Elsie Ferguson in the Spectacular Artcraft Production of the Famous Novel by Agnes and Edgerton Castle.

Cast:

Rosamond English.....Elsie Ferguson
Capt. Harry English..Wyndham Standing
Lieut. Bethune.....Percy Marmont
Lady Cunningham.....Ethel Martin
Aspasia, her daughter.....June Sloane
Sir Arthur Geraldine.Clarence Handysides
Jani .....Marie Benedetta

Directed by Maurice Tourneur.

The Story: Made a widow by the death of her husband in action, Rosamond English marries the conceited Governor of the province, a man of sixty. To her horror, she finds her love for her first husband increases until she can scarcely bear the presence of Sir Arthur. To complicate matters Lieut. Bethune, her first husband's comrade in arms, who is writing of English's life, falls in love with Rosamond, but her affairs find satisfactory solution in a most unexpected fashion.

For the Program: Masters of literature made more real through masterly screen production.
A book of life in living form.

Advertising Phrases: All the color of the Orient with the interest of the Occident.
Three men loved this woman—so will you.

Feature These Players: Elsie Ferguson in her third Artcraft production.
Wyndham Standing as a modern Enoch Arden.
Clarence Handysides as Sir Arthur.

Stunt Suggestions: Use real or artificial roses on a wire structure in the form of a globe for a frame for the 8x10 portrait of the star or one of the 22x28 tinted scenes, according to size of the frame. Use other roses to dress the lobby or frame the box office, if practicable. Florists, milliners and dry goods stores can be interested in window displays of roses through the loan of parts of the lobby displays, and stationers can be induced to feature the books of the Castles in return for a slide display. Prizes might be offered for the best artificial roses made by patrons of wax, cloth or paper, and in this way you can hook up your house with stationers selling crepe paper and findings.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each, one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet. Lobby displays, 8x10, 11x14, 22x28 and 8x10 portraits of star. Cuts and mats for both star and production, five of each one column, three each two-column, two each three-column. Rotogravure one-sheet. Advertising layouts. Heralds. Slides. Press book.
Released Jan. 7.

THE SEVEN SWANS.

Adolph Zukor Presents Marguerite Clark in An Unusually Gorgeous Spectacle Based Upon the Familiar Fairy Tale. Adapted by J. Searle Dawley.

Cast:

Princess Tweedledee....Marguerite Clark
The King .....William Danforth
The Wicked Queen....Augusta Anderson
The Witch.....Daisy Belmore
Prince Charming....Richard Barthelmess

Directed by J. Searle Dawley.

The Story: Snow White, Paramount's last season fairy production, has probably been enjoyed by a greater number of persons than any other motion picture ever made. But Seven Swans, with the same dainty star, has been given an even more sumptuous production and forms a most important new chapter in the history of the Land of Make-Believe.

For the Program: Paramount's annual Fairy Spectacle with Marguerite Clark.
Snow White outdone by Seven Swans.

Advertising Phrases: The Fairy Spectacle Supreme.
For all children from 7 to 77.

Feature These Players: Marguerite Clark as the Princess.
Richard Barthelmess as Prince Charming.
William Danforth (screen debut) a comic opera favorite.

Stunt Suggestions: Work for window displays. For example, a toy store will make seven celluloid swans in a basin of water the centre of a display of bath toys, and dry goods stores can use a cut-out from a one-sheet in an open umbrella as the attractor for a display of similar goods with "Marguerite Clark, in Snow White, used one of our famous $1.98 umbrellas as a boat. They're waterproof." If you can borrow seven pedestals, you can set up seven sun-dials in the lobby with appropriate reading matter on the dial faces. Swans can be made of white card and feathered with glue and a little down

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet. Lobby displays, 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28 and 8x10 photos of star. Cuts and mats for five one-column, three two-column and one three-column each for star and production. Advertising layout mats. Heralds. Slides. Window cards. Press book.
Released Dec. 31.

THE PRICE OF A GOOD TIME.

Jewel Presents Mildred Harris and Kenneth Harlan in Lois Weber's Masterly Adaptation of The Whim, by Marion Orth.

Cast:

Linnie .....Mildred Harris
Her Mother.....Ann Schaeffer
Molly .....Helene Rosson
Mr. Winfield.....Alfred Allen
Mrs. Winfield.....Adele Farrington
Preston .....Kenneth Harlan
Miss Schuyler.....Gertrude Astor

Directed by Lois Weber and Philips Smalley.

The Story: Her father was a paralytic, her brother a "soap-box socialist." She was a department store slave, and she longed for a good time. He was the son of wealth, deceived, disillusioned, lonely. He, too, wanted a good time. Together they sought their desire—and the price they paid was a heavy one.

For the Program: Stronger than Shoes—and as clean.
Lois Weber's newest film classic.

Advertising Phrases: A play of irresistible appeal.
It bares the mysteries of a young girl's heart.

Feature These Players: Mildred Harris as the little girl who felt her right to happiness.
Kenneth Harlan as the man who found that money was not all.

Stunt Suggestions: Make a generous use of window cards and stills for window work. Use plenty of paper, getting out twenty-four sheets a week or ten days before showing. Start before then with teaser snipes and liners reading "What would you pay for a good time?" Use a street wagon several days in advance, if possible. In the advertising call attention to the previous work of these producers and announce this as their best. Give emphasis in the press work to the fact that the story does not depend upon nastiness for its appeal. Lay stress upon the human interest of the story.

Advertising Aids: One, three, five, twelve and twenty-four sheet stands. Photographic stills in various sizes, rotogravure heralds. Window cards. Lobby displays. Special advertising campaign books. Newspaper cuts from one column to half pages.

(This department continued on page 416)

SPECIAL Roll Tickets

PRICES

Five Thousand	$1.25
Ten Thousand	2.50
Fifteen Thousand	3.75
Twenty-five Thousand	5.50
Fifty Thousand	7.50
One Hundred Thousand	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

National Ticket Co., Shamokin, Pa.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending January 19 and January 26, 1918

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 426, 428, 430, 432)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

MONDAY, JANUARY 14, 1918.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL PRODUCTION—Hell's Crater (Five Parts—Drama)	02847
NESTOR—Maimed in a Hospital (Comedy)	02848

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 16, 1918.

L-KO—Home-Run Ambrose (Two Parts—Comedy)	02849
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—No. 7 (Topical)	02850

SATURDAY, JANUARY 19, 1918.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 54 (Educational)	02851
UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS—Issue No. 36 (Topical)	02852
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Red Ace (Episode No. 14—"The Fugitives"—Two Parts—Drama)
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 8—"Hidden Hands"—Two Parts—Drama)

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1918.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL PRODUCTION—Madame Spy (Five Parts—Drama)	02855
NESTOR—Who's to Blame (Comedy)	02856

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1918.

L-KO—Ashcan Alley (Two Parts—Comedy)	02857
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Issue No. 8 (Topical)	02858

SATURDAY, JANUARY 26, 1918.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 55 (Educational)	02859
UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS—Issue No. 37 (Topical)	02860
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Red Ace (Episode No. 15—"Hell's Riders"—Two Parts—Drama)	02861
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 9—"The Black Masks"—Two Parts—Drama)	02862
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—The Finley Nature Pictures (One Reel—Educational)	02863

Mutual Film Corporation

MONDAY, JANUARY 14, 1918.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—The Impostor (Frohman—Five Parts—Drama)	3FAM5
MUTUAL WEEKLY—Issue No. 3 (Topical)	3W1

TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1918.

STRAND—Burglars (Comedy)	3CST1

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1918.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—In Bad (American—Five Parts—Drama)	4FR5
MUTUAL WEEKLY—Issue 4 (Topical)	4W1

TUESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1918.

STRAND—Their Litle Kid (Comedy)	4CST1

If your newsdealer cannot or will not supply you every week with a copy of this paper, send your subscription direct for one year or six months to address below. You cannot afford to miss a single issue.
See Title Page for Rates.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. City

LABORATORIES and STUDIO

ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
LUDWIG G. B. ERB, President
Producers of
MOTION PICTURE FILMS

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPING and PRINTING

Telephone Audubon 3716
203 to 211 West 146th St., New York City

The Members of the First National Exhibitors Circuit stand for quality plus service—and they won't stand for anything else—

That's why we are doing the manufacturing and shipping of First National Releases.

We will be pleased to quote prices on developing and printing in quantities large or small.

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

STOLEN HONOR.

William Fox Presents Virginia Pearson in a Story of Washington Official Society Life and the Art Studios by George Scarbrough.

Cast:

Virginia Lake.....Virginia Pearson
Robert Macklin.....Clay Clement
Betty .....Ethel Hallor
Hon. Richard Belfield.....Walter Law
Countess Collonna.....Dorothy Rogers
Signor Conte.....Mr. Ardrizonia
Paul Hollister.....George Marazonia
The Ambassador.....Edward Roseman

Directed by Richard S. Stanton.

The Story: A famous picture, stolen from an Italian gallery, finds its way to the Corcoran gallery in Washington. When its identity with the stolen painting is discovered, plans are made to restore the canvas to the rightful owners, but in pursuance of a plot of jealousy, it is made to appear that Virginia Lake has copied the painting and has substituted the copy for the original; retaining the latter. The plot is helped by Virginia's absence on an errand of mercy, but in the end her innocence is established and justice is done.

For the Program: Undercurrents of international diplomacy.
A gorgeously gowned story of Washington society.

Advertising Phrases: Society girl bests astute diplomats.
Love, intrigue and innocence.

Feature These Players: Virginia Pearson, who wears 25 handsome gowns in this production.
Clay Clement, as her sweetheart.
Ethel Hallor as Betty.

Stunt Suggestions: One or more dealers in most towns stock the process prints that are in close imitation of the original paintings. Get them to run a drive on these with a card: "These paintings can scarcely be told from the originals. Virginia Lake might have been accused of substituting one of these for the stolen painting in Stolen Honor. At the (house and date)." A similar display might be taken into the lobby, with a credit card for the dealer.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three, and six-sheets. Lobby displays, 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Slide. Free mats. Press sheet.
Released Jan. 6.

THE WILD STRAIN.

Greater Vitagraph Presents a Five-Part Blue Ribbon Feature with Nell Shipman in an Original Story by George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester.

Cast:

Winifred Hollywood.....Nell Shipman
Harold Burton.....Alfred Whitman
John C. Hollywood.....Otto Lederer
Kingsley Royce.....Ed Alexander
Colonel Bull.....R. Bradbury
Mrs. Hollywood.....Mrs. Buskirk

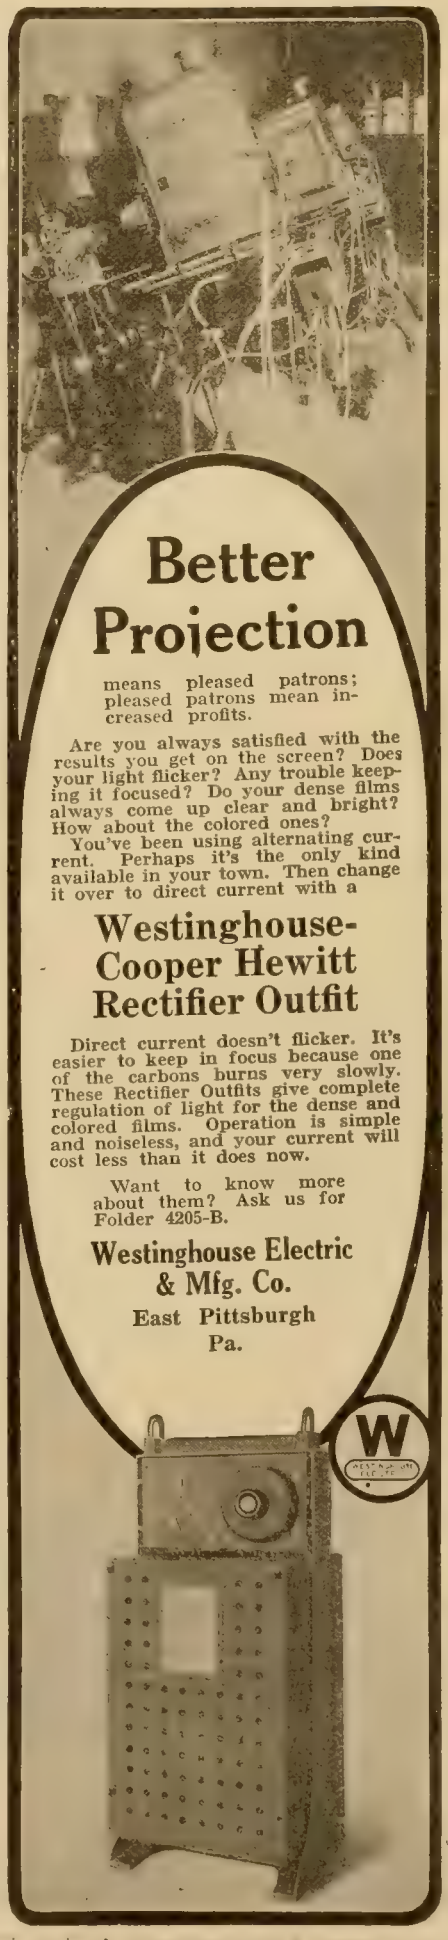
Directed by William Wolbert.

The Story: A delightfully dashing story of a girl who has seven ancestors of the utmost respectability—but the eighth was a bandit. She is engaged to a bank president who had seven eminently respectable ancestors—but the eighth was a prize-fighter. And the ninth generation is much the same as the first until youth has had its fling in a series of the most unexpected happenings.

For the Program: More fascinating than a "Wallingford" story.
For once society and the circus mixed.

Advertising Phrases: Return of Nell Shipman.
See the circus roustabouts clean up the road house.

Feature These Players. Nell Shipman, who makes her reappearance as a Vitagraph player.
Alfred Whitman, the bank president with a pugilistic ancestor.



Better
Projection
means pleased patrons; pleased patrons mean increased profits.
Are you always satisfied with the results you get on the screen? Does your light flicker? Any trouble keeping it focused? Do your dense films always come up clear and bright? How about the colored ones?
You've been using alternating current. Perhaps it's the only kind available in your town. Then change it over to direct current with a
Westinghouse-Cooper Hewitt Rectifier Outfit
Direct current doesn't flicker. It's easier to keep in focus because one of the carbons burns very slowly. These Rectifier Outfits give complete regulation of light for the dense and colored films. Operation is simple and noiseless, and your current will cost less than it does now.
Want to know more about them? Ask us for Folder 4205-B.
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.
East Pittsburgh
Pa.
W

Stunt Suggestions: Any circus stuff you may have used for street work will be available for this picture with "See the circus men clean up the road house in The Wild Strain." "Society belle does daring bareback stunts in The Wild Strain," etc. Do not give too much of a circus suggestion to the lobby, but play up the authors and the return of Miss Shipman in special cards

Advertising Aids: One style each one, three and six-sheets. Window card. Lobby displays, 11x14 and 22x28. Slide. Herald. Plan book. Press sheet.
Released Jan. 14.

THE WINDING TRAIL.

B. A. Rolfe Presents the Dainty Star, Viola Dana, in an Unexpected Story of the West of the '70s, by Katherine Kavanaugh and June Mathis.

Cast:

Audrey Graham.....Viola Dana
Zachary Wando.....Clifford Bruce
Alvin Steele.....Hayward Mack
Lou .....Mabel Van Buren

The Story: To avenge her sister's disgrace and death, Audrey Graham leaves her theatrical engagements in New York, and in one of the caravans of the early '70's seeks Hell's Paradise, a mining camp to which Steele, the betrayer, has gone. The caravan nearly perishes in Death Valley, and Audrey, disguised as a child, goes to seek relief from a band of outlaws. Her subterfuge is perceived and she is given her liberty only on condition that she bring Steele to the bandit, who married a woman Steele deceived. Audrey keeps her word but turns aside the happiness within her grasp for the sake of the other woman.

For the Program: She would not take happiness at the price of another's suffering.
She braved Death Valley to avenge her sister's dishonor.

Advertising Phrases: The hell-holes of the West before the railroads came.
Broadway star becomes dance-hall girl to gain revenge.

Feature These Players: Viola Dana as Audrey.
Clifford Bruce as the bandit.

Stunt Suggestions: A prairie schooner is the most obvious street stunt, and can be easily framed up with old tarpaulin and saplings. For a lobby flash mount an old-fashioned revolver on a card reading: "If you had to use this to shoot either your husband or the man you loved, but who wronged you, who would get the bullet? For one answer see The Winding Trail (date)." The gun should be as old as possible to attract curiosity.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Press sheet. Filler sheet. Ten-minute novel for newspaper use. Slide. Herald. Lobby sheet. Lobby displays, 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Mats and cuts.
Released Jan. 14.

STOLEN HOURS.

William A. Brady Presents Ethel Clayton in a Charming Story of the London That Was, from the Story by Olive Wadsley.

Cast:

Diana Lester.....Ethel Clayton
Hugh Carton.....John Bowers
Cosmo Lester.....Joseph Herbert
Lady Drayton.....Louise De Rigney
Lord Harron.....Jack Drumier
Lord Windlesham.....Victor Kennard
Philip Duran.....Frank Mayo
Benson .....Richard Clarke
Lady Hermione.....Lila Chester

Directed by Travers Vale.

The Story: Diana Lester is the daughter of a gambler, whose mother died at her birth and who has never known a woman's loving care, yet for all of that she has grown up pure and unspoiled. She aids Hugh Carton, a rising young politician, to escape the consequences of a gambling raid, and they fall in love, but Carton has a wife who will not divorce him, though they live apart. Diana at last determines to leave Hugh, but finds that her will is not strong enough, and goes to him, spoiling his chances of a cabinet portfolio. Then she leaves him to his career, but he finds her again just in time.

For the Program: The M. P. and the Gambler's Daughter.
Stolen hours and stolen kisses are the sweetest.

Advertising Phrases: The photoplay of happiness.
Her love meant more than a cabinet portfolio.

Feature These Players: Ethel Clayton as the gambler's daughter.
John Bowers as the Member of Parliament.

Stunt Suggestions: Cards, chips and other gambling material can be used for lobby decoration, or perhaps you can contrive a roulette table. For the sign: "Diana Lester was only a gambler's daughter, but for the sake of her love the Parliament man counted a portfolio well lost. See Stolen Hours (date)." Fake the suggestion of a wall with door for a store window display, with the door just ajar and a cut-out of Miss Clayton's head and shoulders showing. By the door place a number of wrapped dress boxes bearing the form's name. On the window place a card lettered: "This letter rather surprised Hugh Carton's valet, but it showed that Carton knew what all women know—that (store name here) is the best. See the details in Stolen Hours at (house and date)." The letter is to be written: "Benson, there is a lady occupying my room for tonight. Go to (local store) and get some decent clothes. She is about five-feet-four."
Released Jan. 7.

THE STUDIO GIRL.

Louis J. Selznick Presents Constance Talmadge in La Gamine, Adapted by Paul West from the French of P. Veber and H. de Gorsse.

Cast:

Celia Laird.....Constance Talmadge
Frazer Ordway.....Earle Foxe
Adriana Peroni.....Edna Earle
Obediah Daw.....John Hines
Mrs. Daw.....Gertrude Norman
Harriet Farnum.....Isabel O'Madigan
Rachel Farnum.....Grace Barton
Dr. Walter Grierson.....Ferd Tidmarsh

Directed by Charles Giblyn.

The Story: Constance Laird, living in a small New England village, is doomed by her aunts to marry Obediah Daw, the village lout, because marriage is the expected thing. When Celia becomes interested in a visiting artist, they hurriedly advance the wedding date, but while Obediah is waiting at the church Celia is nestling in the tonneau of the departing artist's car. When he discovers her he starts her home, but she is waiting for him when he arrives at the studio and his jealous fiancee advises the village authorities who come to arrest him for an abduction of which he is more than innocent, but Celia finds the way out for all.

For the Program: She knew what she wanted and how to get it.
She never can say she didn't propose.

Advertising Phrases: Constance Talmadge as another "real" American girl.
The goddess in the machine.

Feature These Players: Constance Talmadge in her third study of real girls.
Earle Foxe as the artist who was eloped with.
John Hines as the village lout.

Stunt Suggestions: Print up some cards reading: "What would you do if you should find a girl in your car? See what Frazer Ordway did in The Studio Girl at (house and date)." Punch and provide with a string loop and hang these on cars that stop along the main streets. A couple of small boys can keep enough cards up to get the advertising. The same thing can be used in automobile salesrooms in the display cars, with a cut-out of the three-sheet appearing above the top of the tonneau. A somewhat similar mailing card might be sent to all car owners.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one and three-sheets. One style each six and 24-sheets. Window cards. Heralds. Lobby displays, 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Two one-column, two two-column and one three-column cuts on production and one-half, one and two-column cuts of star. Press book.
Released in January.

MOTIOGRAPH SERVICE
Pronounced by every user
THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.
574 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.
Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

Cremona
ORCHESTRA - ORGANS
Write for information to
The Marquette Piano Co.
Chicago

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

HE'S gone across—
YOU "come across"!

Adopt a SOLDIER and Supply him with "SMOKES" for the Duration of the WAR!

YOU know that our fighting men are begging for tobacco. Tobacco cheers them. They need it. "Send more cigarettes." "We can't get half enough smokes over here." "A cigarette is the first thing a wounded man asks for." Almost every mail brings many thousands of such requests.

$1.00 a Month Keeps a Soldier Supplied—Will YOU Be a "BIG BROTHER" or a "BIG SISTER" to a Lonely Fighting Man?

Every dollar sends four 45c. packages of tobacco. Mail the money and coupon right now.

"OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"
19 West 44th Street, New York City
Depository: Irving National Bank, New York

"I wish you all possible success in your admirable effort to get our boys in France tobacco."
—THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Endorsed by

The Secretary of War	Lyman Abbott
The Secretary of the Navy	Rabbi Wise
The American Red Cross	Gertrude Atherton
Cardinal Gibbons	Theodore Roosevelt
	Alton B. Parker
	And the Entire Nation

"OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"
19 West 44th Street, New York

GENTLEMEN: I want to do my part to help the American soldiers who are fighting my battle in France. If tobacco will do it, I'm for tobacco. (Check below how you desire to contribute.)

I enclose $1.00. I will adopt a soldier and send you $1.00 a month to supply him with "smokes" for the duration of the war.

I send you herewith ....., my contribution towards the purchase of tobacco for American soldiers. This does not obligate me to contribute more.

NAME.....
ADDRESS.....

We have for sale Twenty Million Dollar Mystery, 22 reels; Zudora, 18 reels; and Million Dollar Mystery, 46 reels. We also have a large stock of new and commercial film in all lengths for all parts of the globe.
Established 1908
THE FILM EXCHANGE
729 7th Avenue, New York City

Film Stories

General Film Company, Inc.

ESSANAY.

HE LOVED HER SO (One Reel—Comedy).—The jealous husband suspects that his wife is fickle but cannot discover any evidence until the butler hands her a letter one morning. He snatches it from her, and only waiting to read "My Dearest Sweetheart," tears it up and storms about the room. The wife pleads with him, but he goes out and buys a revolver. The wife, changing her clothes, also goes out. The cook, spying the discarded dress across her mistress' bed, puts it on, in celebration of an evening with the butler. When the husband returns and sees, in the half-lit dining room, the cook with his wife's dress on, in the arms of a man, he draws his revolver and fires. The cook, though unhurt, falls to the floor. The husband turns in the hall just as his wife enters with a man by her side. The wife introduces her father to the trembling husband, who then realizes his mistake in not reading all of the letter which told of the parent's coming. The three go into the other room where the cook and the butler laughingly tell of the mistake in identity.

ONE NIGHT (One Reel—Comedy).—The Gentleman Drunk returns to the hotel about midnight, climbing into bed with his silk hat on. Upstairs the Ham Actor climbs through the window and down a rope, beating his board bill. Across the hall, talking in whispers the Girl and her fiance plan an elopement, enraged at parental objections to kissing in the hotel parlor. Hearing the Ham Actor scuffling down the wall on the rope, the Drunk staggers to the window and peers out, his silk hat falling to the ground below. Stealthily he creeps down stairs and onto the sidewalk to regain it. In the meantime the Girl and Man are ready for flight, but the irate parents catch them. The Drunk loses his nightgown, and to hide from some girls entering the hotel, rolls up in a rug and runs wildly through the halls. The Ham Actor has aroused the guests of the hotel, who think him a burglar. Nora in the kitchen is entertaining the Cop. Together they capture the Ham Actor and finally discover the Drunk in hiding under the sofa.

AGRICULTURAL OPPORTUNITIES IN WESTERN CANADA (One Reel—Scenic).—This scenic reel shows the tremendous output of the Canadian soil and the open country still waiting to be sown. It reveals how the land is irrigated by the many dams; the Brooks aqueduct, the cutting of alfalfa, the industries of dairying, chicken raising, sheep raising and woolen milling. You will also see the ultra modern methods of sanitary milk handling in the dairies by electricity, which power, as is also shown, even serves in the threshing of the grain.

SPARKLE.

DOUBLE CROSS (One Reel—Comedy).—Bill and Leola, old sweethearts, meet in the park and talk over old times. That evening in their respective homes they are preoccupied and at last the suspicions of Bill's wife and Leola's husband are aroused. They visit Prof. Chiro the next day and the husband is told to beware of a dark young man, while Bill's wife is warned that a blonde is trying to alienate her husband's affections. Each determines to pursue the cause of the trouble and an exciting search follows. Finally, wearied of the chase, they call on Prof. Chiro again for advice, and he tells them to see Jingse, the detective, who occupies the next room to his. They do so, but do not recognize the detective, who is the professor in disguise. Each gives him a portrait to be used in tracing the parties.

While visiting the two homes in the discharge of his duties the detective recognizes the originals of the pictures and comprehends the situation. He tells Bill and Leola to be in his fortune telling parlors at a certain hour, and also tells the husband and wife, respectively, to be at his detective's rooms at the same time. He first interviews the husband and wife in his role of detective, collects his money, and then tells them that the professor next door will fix them up. The detective makes a quick change and slides through a door into the house next door, where, as the professor, he again collects. Then bringing the two couples together, an explanation follows.

JUDGE BROWN STORIES.

BUD'S RECRUIT (Two Parts).—The cast: Bud (Wallis Brennan); Reggie (Robert Gordon); Reggie's fiancee (Ruth Hampton). Directed by King H. Vidor.

Reggie learns that his number is so far down on the draft list that there is little likelihood of his being drawn, and he and his mother and fiancee are delighted. Bud, his kid brother, however, feels the disgrace of having a "slacker" in the family, and shows his contempt for Reggie in various ways. Bud's patriotism finds an outlet in a demonstration of his company of "soldiers" in front of the house where his mother is entertaining the Peace Society. As a recruiting party the demonstration is a success, for Reggie's fiancee comes to the door with the others to see what the noise is all about, and is touched by the undoubted earnestness of the young "soldiers," and, taking a flag, joins them.

Finally Bud can stand it no longer, and not being able to enlist himself, he impersonates Reggie and enlists in his name. Reggie is at once congratulated on all sides and is bewildered until he sees the announcement of his enlistment in the newspapers. The realization that the part he is playing is not a manly one dawns on him gradually. He arrives at the recruiting desk just in time to answer to his name. Bud, still in the role of Reggie and ready to go on with the affair, reluctantly takes off his disguise and watches the activities of his big brother with mingled feelings of pride and longing.

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

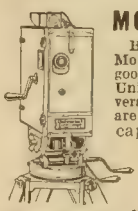
THE CLARION CALL (One of the O. Henry Series—Two Parts).—The cast: Barney Woods (Walter McGrail); Johnny Kernan (Bernard Randall); Eileen Murphy (Alice Terry). Directed by Ashley Miller.

Johnny Kernan, who pursues the Goddess Pleasure on a shoestring income, and sometimes catches up with her, pals with Barney Woods, always his friend, sometimes his meal ticket and never beyond the reach of a "touch." In an exchange of Christmas presents Barney presents Kernan with a small gold pencil with his initials J. W. K. on it. Soon after, having a lucky day playing the races, Kernan sets out on the tin-horn trail to the white lights. Barney makes the acquaintance of Eileen Murphy the day she is moving into what she hopes isn't as disappointing a place as she knows it is going to be.

Their friendship ripens into love. Kernan comes back, meets Eileen, decides he'll have her. He induces Barney to accept a thousand dollar loan from him and go to New York. Barney finally accepts, but before he leaves he and Eileen are married. In New York Barney gets a job with a salary just large enough to support himself, but just as hope is dying out in Eileen he gets a better job as patrolman, and she and her mother join him in New York. He is ambitious, and becomes a detective. Seeking clues to the murderer of Mr. Norcross, who had been shot by a burglar, Woods traces it to Kernan through the small gold pencil. Kernan plays upon Barney's indebtedness to him to force Barney not to make the arrest. It is only when Barney Woods reads an extra offering a reward of $1,000 for the murderer's arrest that he sees his way clear to pay his debt to Kernan and do his duty by making the arrest.

SWAAB
Complete
Picture Theatre Equipment
CARBONS AND SUPPLIES
Dept. M., 1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

We lead; let those that can, follow.
DEVELOPING—PRINTING
TITLES—TINTING—TONING
MANUFACTURERS AND SPECIALISTS IN MOTION PICTURE PHOTOGRAPHY
GUNBY BROS, INC.
145 West 45th Street New York City



MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS
BASS TESTED AND GUARANTEED
Motion Picture Cameras are the acme of good value. Whether you purchase a new Universal at a big saving or a used Universal at prices from $195 to $225, you are obtaining a camera of undoubted capabilities. USED MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS ALWAYS ON HAND
BASS CAMERA COMPANY
111 N. Dearborn St., CHICAGO, ILL.
M. P. CAMERA DEPT.

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe
THE
KINEMATOGRAPH
& LANTERN WEEKLY
The Foremost Trade Organ of Great Britain, covering the whole of the British Film Market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters; Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world) —and every section devoted to the Kinematograph Periodical. Special Export Numbers in French, Italian, Dutch, Spanish, and Portuguese. Specimen copy on application to Kinematograph Publications, Ltd.
92 Long Acre, London, W.C., 2, England

WAR PRICES—Going Down
The well-known "Orpheum Collection" consists of melodramatic music almost exclusively, and is one of the best collections of agitatos, hurries, mysteriosos, short plaintives, etc., on the market. Particularly useful in serial pictures for bringing out the dramatic points. My last edition is printed from the same plates as the first, on a good quality of paper, and sells for these reduced prices: Piano (solo), 1st, 2d or 3d series, 35 cents each; Violin (1st, 2d or 3d series), 25 cents each; Cornet (1st, 2d or 3d series), 20 cents each; Flute, Clarinet, Trombone, Drums (1st or 2d series), 20 cents each.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace St. Chicago, Ill.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

L-KO.

TORPEDO PIRATES (Two Parts—Jan. 9).—The cast: The Professor (Harry Lorraine); His Assistant (Hughie Mack); Prof's Daughter (Gladys Varden); Sherlock Holmes (Walter Stevens); The Vamp (Catherine Young). Directed by Noel Smith.

Mr. P. Nutt invented a wonderful flying torpedo, which was worth millions when it flew, but his happiness was marred by his daughter's crush on his help hound. The president of the Midnight Thieves' Association craved the torpedo, so he sent Vampa, a well set-up young woman, to find a man who looked like Sherlock Holmes. They found him in an ash-can pulling a Hoover on the garbage. When the inventor learned that the eyes of the spies were upon him, he hastened to the Detective Agency and besought the ash-can dweller to take the case. Father returned—they always do—delighted at his date with Vampa. She arrived with a copyrighted scheme of her own to make the old duffer jealous. She winked her pretty eyes at the help hound, who could not withstand temptation. The scheme worked fine—the inventor became crazy jealous. "You tub of lard—I could kill you—there!" shouted the frenzied P. Nutt slapping him on the wrist. His rough words had an awful effect on Fatty, who resorted to tears. Suddenly a tremendous noise was heard, a storm came up—big ocean waves resounded their morbid chantings—the family was eating soup. Camouflaged by this tempestuous ordeal, the gang was making way with the torpedo, when Detective Snitch smelt trouble and dashing up into the private chamber he kicked the crooks in the hallway and flew out on the marvelous torpedo. He was nearing France, and the gas was giving way, when he was rescued by the inventor and the family.

NESTOR.

CAVE MAN STUFF (Jan. 7).—The cast: Priscilla Pringle (Gale Henry); Dolliver Dippie (William Franey).

Priscilla Pringle, an old maid, is so much interested in Cave Man methods that she will not tolerate the courtship of a society fop for her niece's hand. She tries to get the niece interested in a cave man.

Dolliver Dipple is also in love with the fair niece. She spurns him. He conspires with a couple of tough characters to kidnap his beloved, thus forcing her to wed him. They, however, kidnap Aunt Priscilla, who is brought to Dolliver's cave man plant. The toughs then return with the minister only to find that Priscilla is the authority.

The law of compensation begins to work. The two young lovers, separated by the aunt's cruelty, find their opportunity to slip off and become one while the aunt is being kidnapped. The same minister that married them is the one chosen by the toughs. By following them, the newlyweds come upon the cave man plant in time to see Aunt Priscilla married to Dolliver. Every one is satisfied but Dolliver, and he is too far gone to care.

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY.

ISSUE NO. 3 (Dec. 19).

King Winter is a Sportsman.—The white monarch affords his hearty subjects many a thrill, and ice boating is one of their favorite pastimes—Shrewsbury River, N. J.

The Red Cross in the White House.—President's granddaughter, Eilen Wilson McAdoo, hangs grandpa's service flag in window of his home—Washington, D. C.

A Long-Distance Wallop at the Hun.—Miss Janet Beecher and other actresses in "Pipes of Pan" do stagehands' work to release men for war.

French Batteries "Warming Up."—Poilus, reinforced against winter hardships by specially constructed clothing, can continue their fight for Democracy in comfort—Somewhere.

Wave of Patriotism Swamps Army Post.—Thousands of young men not drafted but anxious for a crack at the Boche tax officers to the utmost to find billets for them—New Rochelle, N. Y.

The Laugh is on the Thermometer.—"Snow-

A HINT
Quality DEVELOPING and PRINTING are possible only where experience guides and high standard of workmanship is maintained.
EVANS' DEVELOPING and PRINTING insure the full value of the negative being released.
EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., New York City Telephone St. Nicholas 3443

The Mighty Strides Forward That Have Made for the Success of the Moving Picture World are only the big crystallizations of the hundreds and even thousands of little things which progressive motion picture men everywhere—manufacturers, distributors, and exhibitors—are constantly "trying out."

The moving picture man in any branch of the industry who skims off the cream of the profit is the chap who learns first just what is going on and applies this advance information to his business.

The Moving Picture World, with a thoroughness and care which have resulted from long experience, covers the entire moving picture field.

Its news items and trade announcements are authoritative and up-to-the-minute. Its regular weekly departments are edited from the viewpoint of the individual everywhere who is looking for real help.

Altogether the Moving Picture World not only accurately chronicles the little things being done everywhere to make for the lasting success of the industry but, in addition, helps the aspirant for greater success to apply the latest developments of the industry to his particular needs.

The mails the world over will bring the Moving Picture World to your door without fuss or worry, regularly, each week.

Domestic $3.00 Canada $3.50 Foreign $4.00

You Cannot Afford to Miss a Single Issue of the "World"—Send Us Your Subscription NOW!

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO. 516 FIFTH AVENUE New York

bird" frolic marks first real winter Sunday of the season—Coney Island.

No Sufferer's Cry is Unheeded by Americans.—Our Red Cross and bluejackets from our warships work ceaselessly to aid stricken city—Halifax.

These Soldiers Never Say Die.—Blinded or maimed, French victims of the Kaiser's war cheerfully learn tasks which will make them self-supporting—Somewhere-in-France.

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

ISSUE NO. 4 (Dec. 26).

Cutting a Cord to Save a Ton.—Wealthy folks, as well as poor, like to keep warm, so, with coal lacking, these millionaires combine exercise with profit—Suburbs of Boston, Mass. Subtitles: "Coffee and"—is the proverbial New England cure-all.

Unique Stockholders' Meeting.—Thousands of employees who are also share owners in big tire concern, vote in new directorate—Akron, O. Subtitles: Every kind of worker is represented in the big gathering. They pour into the assembly hall. The meeting adjourns. President H. S. Firestone is congratulated by his men. Their thoughts turn to the comrades at the front as they face their flag of a thousand stars.

Even the Sea Gives Up to Feed Our Boys in France.—Salt marshes, once tide-swept, are reclaimed in drive for bigger crops—San Francisco, Cal. Subtitle: This half-brother of the tank doesn't know what "obstacle" means.

The Pride of the Seven Seas.—American sailing ships were once famous in every port in the world, and war has again brought them into their own—Fall River, Mass. Subtitles: Miss Helen Farrar is sponsor for the Luther Tuttle. She is the first schooner launched at Fall River in forty years.

We'll Win this War if it Takes Our All!—While American men fight for democracy American women are the "Men behind the men behind the guns—All Over America. Subtitles: Mary Pickford grabbed a score of recruits for the marines by "hitting in the pinch" for the well known Sousa. "Bird-woman" Stinson, christened Katherine, who has made a new non-stop aeroplane flight, wants to work for Uncle Sam. Fifteen guys who ought to be in the army stood around and watched the "Cheer-Up" girls in the Hippodrome shovel snow. "The smile on the face of the tiger" denotes approval. Miss Katherine Bleeker, "Showman," and manager of the Broadway theater, New York.

A Long Step Ahead.—The Republic of Mexico adopts a new constitution in place of laws dating back to 1857—Queretaro, Mexico. Subtitles: Mexico now has an army of excellent fighters, well equipped and trained in modern warfare. Delegates from 27 States were present. President Carranza signs the new laws.

It'll be a Tough Winter for the Kaiser.—Every kid in the country is out to get him and in our Northern States ammunition is free and plentiful—Chicago, Ill. Subtitles: "Over the Top" if your legs are too short, go around. The spoils of victory consist of one tin helmet.

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

ISSUE NO. 5 (Jan. 2).

Fierce Blaze Threatens U. S. War Munitions.—Fire destrovs buildings only ten feet from Federal barred zone on Eastern waterfront—Boston, Mass. Subtitle: Hot coffee!

Daring Boys Keeps the Home Fires Burning.—Street urchins steal coal from under the shovel of janitor of building which managed to buy some—New York City. Subtitle: They took chances, but they beat the shortage.

World-War Has Taught Spain Her Lesson.—Although neutral, the Castillian kingdom, completely surrounded by battling nations, works overtime to develop military strength—Madrid, Spain. Subtitles: King Alfonso watches his soldiers practicing modern warfare. Bombs fired from rifles have been proved effective in trench fighting.

Money May Not Grow on Bushes, but—Hundreds of boys picked pennies from the air when a "nut" in a window above showered them with coppers—Los Angeles, Cal.

May the Kaiser Reciprocate Our Treatment of War Prisoners.—Interned German sailors, skilled at toy making, turn out complicated playthings which are sold for spending money—Ft. McPherson, Ga. Subtitles: This isn't the only German-built ship now flying the Stars and Stripes. A replica of the William P. Frye, a U. S. ship sunk by U-boats. Evidently this man can't forget the teachings of the Prussian War Lord. Detail is life-blood to most Germans. The home-made instrument will forecast everything except when the war will be over. Fritz has a "cold bottle" on his Yankee guard.

Farmers' Enemies Make Food for Poor.—Thousands of rabbits which destroy crops rounded up by gunners and given to needy persons—Near Los Angeles, Cal. Subtitle: Plenty of Hasenpfef—we beg your pardon—Yankee Hot Bunny here.

Pancho Villa's Still Very Much Alive and Now and Then He Kicks.—With 1,500 men the Mexican bandit drives the Carranza army from Ojinag into the United States—Presidio, Texas. Subtitles: Fearing Villa would cross the river, reinforcements were rushed to the fords. U. S. army headquarters at Presidio. U. S. observers kept constant eyes on the bandit leader. American surgeons cared for the wounded. Twelve-year-old soldiers are common in Mexican armies. U. S. officers questioned the refugees closely. The Carranza officers were placed under special guard. Carranzistas were herded into a refugee camp by U. S. troops. No Mexican army is "regular" without camp followers.

Italy is Battling Mightily to Check the Hun's Advance.—High in the snowbound Alps her famous soldiers on skiis furnish some of the most striking scenes of the war—Somewhere on the Italian Front. Subtitles: The fiercest winter weather has no terror for this army in the clouds. They zig-zag up the steepest slopes. In heavy going American snowshoes replace the skiis. Maneuvers are easily and silently accomplished. The firing line on runners. No obstacle too difficult to overcome. They charge down the mountains with the speed of express trains.

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS.

ISSUE NO. 34 (Dec. 29).

"Roll" to Reduce is Tip to Women.—The fair sex is rapidly taking up the sports which have kept hubby out so late o' nights—Chicago, Ill. Subtitles: "Strike out!" No wonder the pin-boys are lax.

The Mighty Hand of Nature Laughs at the Work of Man.—Water, let loose, is the most irresistible force, and the most ruthless foe of human ingenuity—Tacoma, Wash. Subtitles: Railways and their freights were wiped out by the ravage of waters. Street cars stopped where the deluge met them.

"Once More, Dear Home, We With Rapture Behold Thee."—Scarred veterans, nursed back to health at Base Hospital in France, return to their native town—Sydney, Australia. Subtitles: Still alive and kicking after sixteen gunshot wounds. "Here comes my daddy, now, oh, Pop! oh, Pop!"

"Good Morning, Judge," Gets Aid for Red Cross.—170 persons on Pacific Coast ship sentenced to contribute $142 to war relief work—Somewhere at Sea. Subtitles: Staying on the bridge all night cost skipper $1.23. Charge, wearing silk stockings. Evidence, not shown to jury. Fine, $1.

Heads of Our Nation Join in Hymns of Praise.—Thousands gathered to sing carols on steps of Treasury Building, led by members of Cabinet—Washington, D. C. Subtitles: Secretary and Mrs. McAdoo—the President's daughter. Secretary and Mrs. Daniels.

"There's a Providence Guiding Our Destiny."—Government freight the only cargo to escape unscathed in big railroad wreck—Alpine, Texas. Subtitles: Cars turned to kindling wood in an instant. Right of way for supplies for our boys "Over There" was cleared in record time.

France Honors Her Heroes of the Aisne.—Brave Poilus, who have just finished beating the Kaiser's best troops, are rewarded—Somewhere in France (Official French War Pictures). Subtitles: Gen. Petain reviews the victorious troops. Whole regiments were honored by their Commander-in-Chief. Lumbering engines of peace—London omnibuses—carry French troops to the front. The siege gun train moves. The river of men flows on. Back on the job walloping Fritz.

Pershing's Boys in Khaki on the Road to Berlin.—Yanks "Over There" are busily engaged in arranging for a call on Mr. Bill Hohenzollern—Somewhere in France. (Photo-

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

EXHIBITORS SUPPLY CO., Inc.
Mallers Building, CHICAGO, ILL.
Exclusive Distributors
Simplex Machines
Illinois Indiana Wisconsin

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe. For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.
For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read
THE BIOSCOPE
The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.
Specimen on Application

The Automatic Ticket Selling and Cash Register Co.
MANUFACTURERS OF
AUTOMATICKET MACHINES
and all kinds of Theatre Tickets
USED UNIVERSALLY
1735 BROADWAY N.Y. CITY

PHOTO-GRAVURE PROGRAM
4 pages, size, 6½ inches long and 5½ inches in width. Picture covers nearly entire front page. 35 BIG NAMES. Write for specimens, $2.50 per thousand in any quantity desired.
New Colored Catalogue Now Ready

The Photo-gravure program is a real souvenir and will bring you more patrons
LARGE HANDCOLORED PICTURES
Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player.....75c. each
FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $1.50 to $35 framed.
THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players.
PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.
LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.
GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, $10 per thousand.
SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 50c. each.
KRAUS MFG. CO.
220 West 42d Street, New York
12th Floor, Candler Building

TYPHOON COOLING SYSTEM
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

graphed by the Photographic Section, U. S. Army Signal Corps.) (Official war pictures of the U. S. expeditionary forces in France. Released by the Committee on Public Information through the American Red Cross.) Subtitles: Our fighting sons-of-guns march to the music of the Blue Devil's Band. A good soldier can take an awful beating. Fritz hates cold steel and just for that our boys are going to hand him some. Sam is no dull boy. Cleanliness is the watchword of the American Army. Yankee flour for Yankee stomachs. Why worry about coal shortage? Dough for "Dough-Boys." One of the daily 350,000. Given the range, these boys could pick the ends of the Kaiser's mustache. Practicing up for "Little Willy"—the first real shot fired by American boys in Europe. The big boss looks over his help, in company with General Petain.

Cartoons from the World's Greatest Newspapers.—Subtitles: The Separate Pieces, by Evans in the Baltimore American. Oliver Twist Hoover, by Knott in the Dallas News. A Popular Song Hits Petrogad, by Shafer in the Cincinnati Post.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

THE RED ACE (Episode No. 13—"New Enemies"—Two Parts—Jan. 12).—The cast: Virginia Dixon (Marie Walcamp); Sergeant Winthrop (Lawrence Peyton); Dr. Hirtzman (Harry Archer); Steele Heffern (Chas. Brindley); Bertha Schweir (Nellie Allen).

Virginia and Winthrop burst into the cabin and prevent Hirtzman from throwing the platinum overboard. Hirtzman promises to turn over the metal if Winthrop will promises to say nothing of their differences until they arrive at San Francisco. He promises, and securing the metal, he and Virginia hurry to place it in the safe keeping of the purser.

Meanwhile Hirtzman wires a confederate to meet the boat, arrest his (Hirtzman's) party, take Virginia and Winthrop as witnesses. The gang will overpower them and secure the metal again at a certain street corner in the city.

When the boat docks, the fake inspector and his men arrest Hirtzman's party, and Virginia and Winthrop go willingly as witnesses. The journey abruptly ends in a deserted alley. The two are overpowered by the spies. Steele secures the platinum while Hirtzman escorts his pursuers to an upper room, where he tells them they will be safe until he leaves. To make doubly sure, he sets fire to the building. They are locked in and bound, but Virginia escapes, and going to the window, sees Steele leaving. She tries the desperate feat of climbing out of a fifth story window, and jumping to the wires. In a final burst of flame Virginia jumps.

THE MYSTERY SHIP (Episode No. 7—"One Minute to Live"—Two Parts—Jan. 12).—The cast: Miles Gaston, Jr. (Ben Wilson); Betty Lee (Neva Gerber); Harry Russell (Duke Worne); Jack Fay (Kingsley Benedict).

Miles Gaston finds himself securely bound and a prisoner in a strange house, with Jack Fay and Betty Lee all in separate rooms. Fay evades the gang, reaching the roof. To escape, Jack makes a perilous leap and swims safely ashore. While the gang is chasing Jack, Gaston frees himself and rushes into the next room to save Betty. The gang returns, and Harry Russell discovers Gaston and Betty together. While Miles Gaston attempts to ward off the gang, a strange figure, vested with uncanny power, appears and carries Betty into the room in which the stolen treasure is hidden, after which he disappears. Jack Fay reaches the police station and summoning help, speeds with motor cops toward the house where Miles Gaston and Betty Lee are.

Betty Lee hides the valuables in a hole in the wall, and secrets herself in the trunk. One of the gangsters seeing the cops, gives warning. In the fracas, Miles Gaston escapes and joins Jack Fay. The Spider hides behind a packing box, and opening a trap-door, lets the cops fall through to a locked room below. Fearing trouble, The Spider orders his henchmen to remove the trunk, which they supposed contained the treasure, but which contains Betty instead. Miles sees them carrying the treasure away in an automobile, and follows. The automobile which Miles and Jack are in crashes into the other car, sending it over the edge of the dock into the water. Jack is thrown into the water and Miles, seeing him unconscious, dives in after him. While Miles is rescuing Jack, Betty is in the rapidly sinking trunk.

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING CO.
Los Angeles, California
Producers of "RAMONA" (8½ reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (8½ reels)
Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced.
Available for state rights.

We do not CUT prices but quote SENSIBLE prices for DEVELOPING—PRINTING TITLES—TINTING
CAMERAMEN FURNISHED
ALL WORK GUARANTEED
Standard Motion Picture Co.
1620-21 Mallers Bldg., Chicago

UNIVERSAL
Motion Picture Camera more speed better results,
at half the price.
Write for 6 new features.
Burke & James, Inc.
240 E. Ontario St., Chicago

FOR SALE
Mailing Lists
MOVING PICTURE THEATRES
Every State — Total 24,000
Price, $3.50 per M.
1400 Film Exchanges..... $4.00
200 Manufacturers and Studios..... $1.50
335 Picture Machine and Supply Dealers $1.50
Particulars.
A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
LOW Price
and CAST IRON

Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.
STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

Mutual Film Corp.

STRAND.

BURGLARS (One Reel—Comedy—Jan. 15).—Billie receives an invitation to visit her uncle, and at the same time uncle's wife invites her nephew to spend a few days with them. Neither niece nor nephew has seen each other since baby days. Uncle and aunt are motoring to meet the train when the machine breaks down. When Billie arrives at the house there's nobody home, but the door being unlocked she enters. She sees a young chap wandering around whom she mistakes for a burglar, and notifies the police. The young fellow, who is in reality her cousin, makes the same mistake, and two squads of police arrive on the scene. At the height of the general melee which ensues, uncle and aunt come in, explanations are in order, and the police retire disgusted while the family celebrate the occasion in a fitting manner.

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

ISSUE NO. 2 (Jan. 7).

Everywhere-in-America. "Traitors at Home."—The man who does not observe meatless day. Subtitles: Help conserve the supply of beef for our soldiers. Each of 16 cantonments consumes over 20,000 pounds of meat every day.

Sacramento, Cal.—Attempt to kill Governor Stephens proves failure. Only one corner of Gubernatorial mansion wrecked in dynamite plot.

San Diego, Cal.—Mme. Schumann-Heink presents flag to U. S. Infantry. World-famous contralto adopts regiment as "Her Boys."

Mare Island, Cal.—A way with a jack tar in the making. Intensive training with time for play makes happy and efficient fighters for America's new navy. Subtitles: Capt. Harry George, commandant. Sack races and athletic stunts furnish healthful amusement. Blind boxing. Hit or miss—it's all the same—just fun. Physical drill with arms. The review.

Sending Reinforcements to Italy.—The Allies have commandeered all types of motors to rush supplies and munitions across the Alps to aid Italians.

Fresno, Cal.—This little city combines pageantry and fun with its drive for members of the Red Cross. Follow the footsteps.

THEATRE MANAGERS
Look for our New Department "ADVERTISING AIDS FOR BUSY MANAGERS" Every Week You Can Use It and You Should.

WONDERFUL CARBON CHANGES A. C. TO D. C.
THIS CARBON ELIMINATES THAT "TERRIBLE NOISE" that is so COMMON with the "OLD ROARING" A.C. ARC. It produces a PURE WHITE, STEADY LIGHT and IMPROVES A.C. PROJECTION 100%. PORTER STAKES HIS REPUTATION ON THE RESULTS. Stock on hand. Can make PROMPT shipments. Write or Call for SAMPLES. Make your own TEST. PORTER handles THE ONE BEST OF EVERYTHING FOR ADVANCED PROJECTION.
B. F. PORTER, 1482 Broadway (on the Square), at Times Square, New York

Somewhere-in-France.—After the victory of the Aisne. French engineers start to restore the reconquered territory. Subtitles: A battery of 75's take their position on the new advanced line. Guns mounted on automobiles police the air. When the enemy retreated they left vast stores of material, guns and ammunitions. The shell cases were gathered to be reloaded and reused against the Huns. Bad roads are being rebuilt with timber. Shell craters offer a shelter for a quick lunch during a lull in the fighting. All that remains of the village of Allemant. The Fort of Malmaison was reduced to a few standing walls and empty caverns.

Miscellaneous Subjects

KING-BEE FILMS CORP.

THE BARBER (Two Parts—Jan. 15).—After an exciting chase, Billy escapes from his keepers and wanders out into the park. There he meets Joy, a manicurist, and makes such a hit with her that she takes him home to introduce him to father. Mr. Budd, her father, runs the barber shop, but he is an inveterate "chicken-chaser." A fair damsel passes and Budd, pressing Billy into service, starts out after her, leaving Billy in charge of the shop.

Billy makes a fine barber. A bum comes in for a shave and Billy removes his whiskers with a vacuum cleaner. As he refuses to pay for the "shave," Billy reverses the cleaner and squirts the whiskers back on to his face. A cowboy, with a pair of bearskin chaps, is next. He orders a haircut and while he snoozes, Billy clips all the hair off his chaps. He gives the next customer a rough shave with sandpaper and a massage with a rolling-pin, and makes a mess of the day's business in general.

Oliver is Joy's sweetheart. He invites her to the barbers' ball that evening and takes the chair to get "fixed up" for the ball. Billy "fixes him" by trimming his moustache to look like his own. Several other customers with moustaches come in and Billy trims them all to look like his own.

At seven o'clock Billy turns the clock an hour ahead and, convincing Joy that Oliver has disappointed her, he takes her to the ball himself. At the ball are Budd and Gladys, the chicken he has been chasing. Oliver comes in later with Joy's mother, who has been waiting in vain for Budd and altogether some interesting situations develop.

The warden, meanwhile, has put two new keepers on Billy's trail. He gives them a photo of the lower part of Billy's face showing mostly his moustache and they start out to find him by means of this. Later in the evening they wander into the ball but seeing half a dozen men there with the same style of moustache they are completely baffled. When they finally land Billy, he breaks away from them and after a wild chase runs home to his asylum and, locking the keepers outside, returns to his old quarters.

PLIMPTON EPIC PICTURES, INC.

THE SONG OF THE SOLDIER (Produced under the supervision of The National Bureau for the Advancement of Music—One Reel).—This picture opens with a view of a community chorus singing "The Red, White and Blue." Fred Hale and Annette Thurber are among the singers. On the way home he tells her that he is now an enlisted man in the United States Army; that he has passed his physical examination and is to report at once. She is glad that he has done his duty. Fred has now to break the news to his mother, and the natural sorrow which she feels is tempered by the announcement that he and Annette are engaged to be married. Now it is the last evening at home. Fred is in his uniform, envied by his younger brother. It is the custom of the family to sing every evening, and to relieve the strain of the fast approaching separation Fred asks why they should not follow their usual custom. They gather around the piano and sing "Annie Laurie"—his favorite. At the second verse his mother breaks down while he, himself, is overcome. Bravely Annette finishes the song alone.

The regiment marches away and next we see Fred at night in a rear line trench "over there" with a few of his comrades, during a brief rest from their danger and hard work. To a banjo accompaniment they sing "Dixie." His thoughts go to the loved ones at home and the last evening when they sang "Annie Laurie."

There is a charge and Fred is wounded. He is carried from the battlefield by two of his comrades. In the hospital his nerves are found to be badly shattered. The wound itself is not necessarily fatal but, as in so many cases, the country is liable to lose his services through nerve shock.

In the next room to his ward a nurse is singing with a few convalescent soldiers. One of them suggests "Annie Laurie" as his favorite. Tossing upon his cot Fred becomes conscious of the well-remembered air. He imagines that Annette is near him, singing it.. His brain, tormented by suffering and weeks of dreadful sights and sounds, becomes easier, and on her next round the nurse finds, for the first time, that he is having a restful sleep.

At home Fred's mother receives a letter. It tells of his wound, of the song which started him to recovery and of his leaving again for the front. As this letter is being read Annette rushes in with one she has received. In this Fred says: "Sing Annie Laurie as we used to sing it. I think I can hear you." In the fading twilight they do as he wishes sure that their boy will come back to them. Throughout the picture familiar airs are suggested, to which the scenes are synchronized.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS NO. 1 (Dec. 29).

Tacoma, Wash.—Hundreds are rendered homeless and great havoc is caused when the Puyallup River rises and inundates the entire city. Subtitles: Submarine trolleys would do a profitable business. A vast number of logs and tree-stumps are washed ashore.

Detroit, Mich.—With Berlin as the ultimate destination, thirty new army trucks start on cross-country run to an Atlantic port. Subtitles: Crowds in Pittsburgh, Pa., cheer the train on its way. Over the Appalachian hills the cars exhibit remarkable endurance.

Chicago, Ill.—All records are smashed and famous champions of the turf hopelessly outclassed as Axel Olfort's steeds enter the lists. Subtitle: The inventor and his bucking bronco.

With the Stars and Stripes Abroad.—Official U. S. war films released by the Committee on Public Information through the American Red Cross. Subtitles: The busiest men at the U. S. training camp are the gunners as they prepare a fiery message of steel for the Kaiser. Uncle Sam's batteries using the famous French "75's." America's guns are now thundering at Autocracy's gates and these are the boys that fired the first shot. Feeding the gunners keeps pace with feeding the guns. The doughboys never miss their mark—every "shot" hits home. Another contingent off for the firing line—as French Chasseurs sound the call of Victory.

New Orleans, La.—More than two hundred thousand dollars damage is done when fire of unknown origin destroys several big buildings. Subtitle: Dense volumes of smoke handicap the firemen.

New York City.—The Yuletide spirit rules over the land and good will to all prevails. Gifts galore are distribtued at the 69th Armory. Subtitles: Bluecoats act the part of Santa Claus to the little folk. The soldier boys are showered with gifts; no one is forgotten. Scene at Camp Meade. Thousands gather on the steps of the Treasury in Washington to sing Christmas carols.

Washington, D. C.—To solve the transportation difficulties, the Government takes control of all American railways. Secretary McAdoo is appointed Director-General. Subtitles: Relief from the traffic tie-up which has hindered America's war preparations is in sight. Guided by the firm hand of Uncle Sam, these big engines will now speed the way to success. The new engineer.

Boston, Mass, Local.—Two giant papier-mache statues are erected on the Commons to aid the Red Cross campaign for more members. Subtitle: Their mute appeal has been nobly answered by New England.

TO EXHIBITORS.

If you are doing something new and interesting at your theater let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.

Helpfully yours,

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

TWO BIG FILMS AT THE LYCEUM THIS WEEK
LAST CHANC
Tonight, Saturday Matinee and Saturday Night to See
"MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY" IS BIG FILM WONDERPLAY Positively Last and Only Week
—OF—
THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY
A Jewel Production
LAST CHANCE
Saturday Matinee and Saturday Night to See
THE MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY
A Jewel Production
France in Arms
Seat 25c Any Seat In the House
LYCEUM THEATER
TWICE TODAY 1:30
STIRRING FILMS AT LYCEUM TONIGHT
LYCEUM WEEK DEC
PUPILS GREET PATRIOTIC FILM INSTRUCTING WAR
Interest in Big Picture Is Growing
WARM APPLAUSE GREETS PICTURES AT THE LYCEUM
PEOPLE DEEPLY INTERESTED IN PATRIOTIC PLAY SHOW AT LYCEUM FOR RED CROSS CLOSES SATURDAY
LYCEUM THEATER
THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY
the Benefit of the Red Cross
Admission 25c
Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 1:30 to 5 P. M.
EVENINGS—7:30 to 11 P. M.
PUPILS ENJOY FILM PLAY AT LYCEUM
25c Any Seat In the House
THEATER
Today 1:30
RED CROSS

The Above Cut Shows Some of the Publicity Received in the Pittsburgh Chronicle During the Run of the Jewel Production of "The Man Without a Country."

La Cinematografia Italiana ed Estera

Official Organ of the Italian Cinematograph Union

PUBLISHED ON THE 15th AND 30th OF EACH MONTH

Foreign Subscription: 20 francs. per annum

Editorial and Business Offices: Via Cumiana, 31, Turin, Italy

$7,000 Meisel Press for $3,500

Movie Ticket Printers can make money on this press—Speak quickly

KELLER PRINTING CO., 297 Lafayette St., N. Y.

Classified Advertisements NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

OPERATOR desires position, eight years' experience. Massachusetts license, best references. E. R. Wilcox, 117 Prichard St., Fitchburg, Mass.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

MOVING picture theaters, laboratories and studios wanted and for sale, all sizes, throughout the country, as we have clients interested who will buy, rent, lease or co-partnership at all times. Send photos and full data. Studio Contracting Co., Knickerbocker Theater Bldg., N. Y. City.

STUDIO for rent for three months while owner is in California. A motion picture studio fully equipped with Cooper-Hewitts and latest style arc lamps. Floor space, 50x80, ten dressing rooms, everything ready for immediate use, including services of expert staff and crew. Blackton Productions, Inc., 423 Classon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

PHOTOPLAY AND VAUDEVILLE HOUSE, one of the largest theaters in New Castle, Pa., seating and standing capacity over fifteen hundred, admission ten to fifty cents; six days week; matinee and evening; stage sixty by forty; modern machinery and equipment; our client is leaving for the South and is ready to accept ten thousand; two weeks ago was offered fifteen thousand and refused. Here is a bargain. The receipts last week were $1,883.85; expenses about twelve hundred. Lewis, Moving Picture Broker, 580 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

GURANATEED MACHINES—Slightly used type S-1917 model, Simplex motor drive, factory guarantee, at reasonable prices. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

EXHIBITORS—OPERATORS — PROJECTION EXPERT F. H. RICHARDSON SAYS "INSTALL 'AMBERLUX' LENS FILTERS." IMPROVE PROJECTION 100%. RESULTS GUARANTEED. PRICE, WITH ADVERTISING SLIDE, $3.50. PARCELS POST PREPAID. W. D. WARNER, 8 EAST BROAD ST., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

FOR SALE about 400 moving picture seats. Inquire Herman Ellis, Perth Amboy, N. J.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 75c up. Serviceable goods guaranteed, cut prices on new chairs. Three asbestos booths. Send for list of dropped patterns and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

WINTER CLEARANCE OF USED M.. P CAMERAS————400 ft. U. S. M. P. Camera, $95.00————400 ft. Ernemann Model B, $225.00————400 ft. Williamson, $135.00 ————200 ft. Davsco, Slightly Used, $80.00 ————200 ft. Universal, late model, $175.00 ————200 ft. Ernemann Model A, $110.00 ————Universal Tripod with Pan and Tilt, $55.00————Many others. WRITE OR WIRE FOR DETAILED DESCRIPTION ON ANY OF THESE. SEND FOR OUR COMPLETE LIST OF NEW AND USED MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS, TRIPODS AND ACCESSORIES. DAVID STERN COMPANY, 1027R. MADISON ST., Chicago, Ill.

JANUARY CLEARANCE SALE—EXTRAORDINARY VALUES—ACT QUICK. 1917 Model Universal, like new; 50 M.M. Tessar ser. 1C. f.3.5 lens. List $300.00, our price $215.00. New Universal Tripod. List $90.00, our price $72.50. 400 ft. Prof. Photo Cines. Complete equipment with 50 M.M. Tessar f.3.5 lens, Panoram and Tilt Tripod. Fine condition. Cost $400.00, our price $200.00. 200 ft. Ernemann Model A. Outside Focusing Device, 50 M.M. Ernen f.3.5 lens, 2 extra magazines. Worth $175.00. Our price $85.00. 4" Dallmeyer Telephoto f.4.5 in bbl. List $45.00. Our price $30.00. 50 M.M. Carl Zeiss Tessar f.3.5 in bbl. Condition new, price $30.00. All Guaranteed. WRITE TODAY TO AMERICA'S CAMERA HEADQUARTERS. BASS CAMERA COMPANY, 109R. Dearborn St., Chicago.

WILLIAMSON Topical model, 100 foot capacity; leather carrying case, tripod and extra magazines; $75. Leon Goetzman, 205 Third St., N. E., Washington, D. C.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

FOR SALE complete new set drums and traps, all packed in new 40 inch trunk, smallest to largest imitations. Will sell reasonable. Write for list and price. R. Painter, Tribune Office, Independence, Kan.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOUR-AND-FIVE-REEL features at $35 per feature, including posters. M'Liss, Protea I, Protea II, Marked Woman, What Happened to Jones, Lights of London, Conspiracy, Chimes, Winning His First Case, Rip Van Winkle, Honor of Old Glory, One of Millions. Walter Scheuer, Room 1203, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Official French Government war pictures, six reels, "Fighting in France." Plenty paper on same. Adirondack Film Service, Malone, N. Y.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TOM BRET—Titles and scenarios. Room 616, 220 West 42d St., N. Y. City. Phone Bryant 8419.

Order Now!

The Latest Issue of the

BOUND VOLUMES

OF THE

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Comprising All the Issues of October, November and December, 1917

Substantially Bound in Cloth

PRICE $1.50

Transportation Charges Additional

Ready January 15, 1918

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 516 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM, PATHE AND PARAMOUNT PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 414.)

General Film Company, Inc.

(Note—Pictures given below are listed in the order of their release. Additions are made from week to week in the order of release.)

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

Two Renegades (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
Whistling Dick's Christmas Stocking (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
The Fourth in Salvador (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
The Clarion Call (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).
The Hiding of Black Bill (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).
The Count and the Wedding Guest (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Comedy-Dr.).
The Thing's the Play (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).

CHAPLIN COMEDIES.

By the Sea (One reel—Comedy).
In the Park (One reel—Comedy).
Work (Two parts—Comedy).

ESSSANAY COMEDIES.

Hard Luck.
The General.
A Depot Romeo.
Make Your Eyes Behave.
Lunch.
Nut Stuff.
He Loved Her So.
One Night.

ESSANAY SCENICS.

Salmon Fishing in New Brunswick.
Lake Louise.
Banff National Park.
The Great National Industries of Canada.
Water Powers of Western Canada.
Through Canada from Coast to Coast.
How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising.
Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada.

FALCON FEATURES.

Feet of Clay (Four Parts—Drama).
Brand's Daughter (Four parts—Drama).
His Old-Fashioned Dad (Four Parts—Drama).
Zollenstein (Four parts—Drama).

HANOVER FILM COMPANY.

Camille (Helen Hesperia—Six Parts—Drama).
The Marvelous Maciste (Six parts—Drama).

JAXON COMEDIES.

(Sixth Series.)

Out and In (Finn & Haddie).
The Inspector's Wife.
Close Shaves (Finn & Haddie).
Anybody's Money.
In Wrong (Finn & Haddie).
Marooned.
Sherman Was Right.
Her Fatal Shot (Finn & Haddie).
What Will Happen Next?
Which Was Lucky?
Hash and Horrors.

JUDGE BROWN STORIES.

Bud's Recruit (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
The Chocolate of the Gang (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
The Preacher's Son (Two parts—Drama).
The Accusing Toe (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
Two Boys and Two Lies (Two parts—Drama).

KALEM.

The Munitions Plot (Daughter of Daring Series—One part—Drama).
The Detective's Daughter (Daughter of Daring Series—One part—Drama).
The Railroad Smugglers (Daughter of Daring Series—One part—Drama).
The Deserted Engine (Daughter of Daring Series—One part—Drama).

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTOPLAY CO.

Physical Culture Magazine (Monthly).

RAY COMEDIES.

A Peaceful Flat.
Cheating His Wife.
A Bathtub Marriage.

SELIG.

The Rustler's Vindication (Two Parts—Drama).
The Witness for the State (One Part—Drama).
Selig-World Library No. 21 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 22 (Educational).
Selig-World Library No. 23 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 24 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 25 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 26 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 27 (Edu.).

SELBURN COMEDIES.

(Piedmont Pictures Corporation)

Hubby's Holiday (Two parts—Comedy).
Too Much Elephant (One part—Comedy).
Wedding Bells and Lunatics (One part—Com.).
His College Proxy (One part—Comedy).

SPARKLE COMEDIES.

(Fifth Series.)

On the Love Line.
The Detective.
Smashing the Plot.
After the Matinee.
Double Cross.
The Best of a Bargain.

THREE C COMEDIES.

His Watery Waterloo.
Fat and Foolish.
A Harem Romance.
His Winning Way.
A Boarding House Battle.
Stealing a Sweetheart.
A Hash House Romance.
The Mod Carrier's Million.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 30.

Over the Hill (Five parts—Drama—Astra).
The Hidden Hand (No. 6, "The Flower of Death"—Two parts—Drama—Pathe).
The Eighth Annual Round-Up, Pendleton, Ore. (Three parts—Topical—F. C. Quimby).
Argus Pictorial No. 4 (One reel—Educational—Argus Laboratories).
Step Lively (One reel—Comedy—Rolin).
Rocky Mountain Park (Combitone-Travel—One Reel—Earle).
Katzenjammer Kids, "Peace and Quiet" (Cartoon Comedy) and Making the Comic Section (Educational—International Split Reel).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 2 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 3 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF JANUARY 6, 1918.

Convict 993 (Five parts—Drama—Astra).
The Hidden Hand (Episode No. 7—"The Fire Trap"—Two parts—Drama—Pathe).
The Tip (One reel—Comedy—Rolin).
Picturesque Rivers of France, the Tarn and Its Gorges (Colored—Travel—Pathe) and Here and There in Keswick, Cumberland, England (Colored—Travel—Pathe) (Split reel).
Katzenjammer Kids—"Der Captain's Birthday" (Cartoon Comedy—Half reel) and War Bibles (Educational—Half reel) (International split reel).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 4 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 5 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF JAN. 13, 1918.

The German Curse in Russia (Five parts—War Film—Donald C. Thompson).
The Hidden Hand (Episode No. 8—"The Slide for Life"—Two parts—Drama).
Argus Pictorial No. 5 (One reel—Educational—Argus Laboratories).
Our National Park, Yellowstone Park—Its Wonders and Oddities (One Reel—Travel—Ralph Earle).
The Movie Dummy (Two parts—Comedy—Rolin).
Happy Hooligan—Hearts and Horses (Half reel—Cartoon) and My Lady's Furs (Half reel—Educational) (International Split Reel).
Hearst Pathe News No. 6 (Topical).
Hearst Pathe News No. 7 (Topical).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Oct. 7—Susie Slips One Over.
Oct. 15—Nearly a Baker.
Nov. 12—A Society Scrimmage.

KLEVER KOMEDY.

Nov. 19—Nutty Knitters.
Dec. 3—Toothaches and Heartaches.
Dec. 17—The Installment Plan.
Dec. 31—O. U. Boat.
Jan. 14—Meatless Days and Sleepless Nights.
Jan. 28—He Got His.

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNET COMEDIES

Dec. 30—Taming Target Center (Two parts).
Jan. 13—The Kitchen Lady (Two parts).
Jan. 27—His Hidden Purpose (Two parts).
Feb. 3—Watch Your Neighbor (Two parts).
Feb. 10—Sheriff Nell's Tussle (Two parts).

PARAMOUNT ARBUCKLE COMEDIES.

Sept. 30—Oh, Doctor! (Two parts).
Oct. 29—Fatty at Coney Island.
Dec. 10—A Country Hero.
Jan. 20—Out West (Two parts).

PARAMOUNT FEATURES.

Dec. 10—Tom Sawyer (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—Nan of Music Mountain (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—The Fair Barbarian (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Love Letters (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—His Mother's Boy (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—The Seven Swans (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—Mrs. Dane's Defense (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Jules of Strong Heart (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Spirit of '17 (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 21—Rimrock Jones (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The World for Sale (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—The Widow's Might (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—The Hired Man (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT SERIAL.

Dec. 17—Who Is Number 1? (Episode No. 8—"Walls of Gas"—Two Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—Who Is No. 1? (Episode No. 9—"Struck Down"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Who is No. 1? (Episode No. 10—"Wires of Wrath"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 11—"The Rail Raiders"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 12—"The Show Down"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 13—"Cornered"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 14—"No Surrender"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 15—"The Round Up"—Two parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Jan. 7—Sydney, the Antipodean Metropolis (Scenic).
Jan. 14—A Trip to the Jenolan Caves of Australia (Scenic).
Jan. 21—Melbourne the Magnificent (Scenic).
Jan. 28—Round About Melbourne (Scenic).
Feb. 4—Adelaide, Capital of South Australia (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS.

Dec. 23—A Dog Chauffeur on Fifth Avenue; Binding Uncle Sam's Harvest; Goodrich Dirt and the $1,000 Reward.
Dec. 30—No. 100—Knit Your Bit; War Dogs; Bobby Bumps' Tank.
Jan. 6—No. 101—The New Art of Dress; Destructive Power of T. N. T.; Goodrich Dirt and Duke de Whatanob.
Jan. 12—No. 102—The Panama Canal; Evolution of the Dance; Flour from Potatoes.

Producers.—Kindly Furnish Titles and Dates of All New Releases Before Saturday.

Simplex

THE SCREEN SPEAKS

By E. M. P.

(Apologies to K. C. B.)

JUST FOR a moment
* * *
LOOK AT me
* * *
AND SEE how I
* * *
AM THE victim
* * *
OF THAT contraption in
* * *
THE PROJECTION room.
* * *
IT SENDS to me
* * *
BEAMS OF light
* * *
THAT SEEM nervous,
* * *
THEY QUIVER so;
* * *
AND I have got to
* * *
STAND RIGHT here and
* * *
TAKE THEM all in
* * *
AND SEND them back
* * *
INTO THE eyes
* * *
OF THOSE who paid
* * *
GOOD MONEY to
* * *
COME AND see me.
* * *
THE TROUBLE is,
* * *
I AM helpless,
* * *
FOR I can give
* * *
NO BETTER
* * *
THAN I receive.
* * *
I WISH the boss
* * *
WOULD REALIZE that and
* * *
NOT BLAME war times
* * *
FOR LACK of patronage.
* * *
HE OUGHT to know
* * *
THAT ALTHOUGH
* * *
MODEST AND plain,
* * *
I AM the most
* * *
VITAL SPOT
* * *
OF HIS business.
* * *
PEOPLE COME here
* * *
FOR ME alone;

EVEN A deaf person
* * *
CAN GET a big
* * *
MONEY'S WORTH
* * *
IF PROPER attention
* * *
IS PAID to me;
* * *
BUT TO feed me
* * *
ON PALPITATING pictures
* * *
AND EXPECT me to
* * *
REFLECT THE kind
* * *
THAT IMPELS people
* * *
TO COME again
* * *
AND AGAIN and again,
* * *
IS LIKE throwing a
* * *
SAUCER AT your neighbor
* * *
ACROSS THE table
* * *
AND EXPECTING him
* * *
TO CATCH a platter.
* * *
SOME TIME ago
* * *
A MOVIE fan
* * *
TOLD ME that he
* * *
HAD DROPPED in here
* * *
BECAUSE I was near;
* * *
BUT NEVER again
* * *
WOULD HE return
* * *
UNTIL I was like
* * *
A SCREEN in a
* * *
HOUSE DOWN the street
* * *
IN WHICH the show
* * *
IS NO better than
* * *
THE ONE given here,
* * *
BUT THE screen is
* * *
EASY TO look at.
* * *
THE SIMPLEX would
* * *
MAKE ME so, too.
* * *
I THANK you.

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL, GOLDWYN, METRO AND TRIANGLE PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 414.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Dec. 12—Number 2 (Topical).
Dec. 19—Number 3 (Topical).
Dec. 26—Number 4 (Topical).
Jan. 2—Number 5 (Topical).
Jan. 9—Number 6 (Topical).
Jan. 16—Number 7 (Topical).

GOLD SEAL.

Oct. 8—The Ninth Day (Three Parts—Drama).
Oct. 15—The Taming of Lucy (Three Parts—Drama).
Oct. 22—The End of the Run (Three Parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—The Mysterious Iron Ring (An episode of "The Perils of the Secret Service"—Three parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Oct. 1—Her Naughty Choice (Comedy).
Oct. 1—The Masked Marvels (Comedy).
Oct. 8—The Wart on the Wire (Comedy).
Oct. 8—Rainstorms and Brainstorms (Comedy).
Oct. 15—The Magic Jazz-Bo (Comedy).
Oct. 15—Who Done It? (Comedy).
Oct. 22—The Tight Wad (Comedy).
Oct. 22—A Wise Dummy (Comedy).
Oct. 29—I Quit (Comedy).

L-KO.

Nov. 21—The Joy Riders (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 28—Kid Snatchers (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 5—A Hero for a Minute (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 12—Deep Seas and Desperate Deeds (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—Bullets and Boneheads (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—Ambrose's Icy Love (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 2—Carnivals and Cannibals (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 9—Torpedo Pirates (Two parts—Com.).
Jan. 16—Home-Run Ambrose (Two parts—Comedy).

NESTOR.

Oct. 29—A Bad Little Good Man (Comedy).
Nov. 5—Caught in the Draft (Comedy).
Nov. 12—The Shame of the Bullcon (Comedy).
Nov. 19—Strike One (Comedy).
Nov. 26—Water On the Brain (Comedy).
Dec. 3—The Other Stocking (Comedy).
Dec. 10—A Munition Worker's Curse (Com.).
Dec. 17—Secret Servants (Comedy).
Dec. 24—The Guy and the Guyser (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Busted Hearts and Buttermilk (Com.).
Jan. 7—Cave Man Stuff (Comedy).
Jan. 14—Maimed in a Hospital (Comedy).

SPECIAL PRODUCTION.

Oct. 29—A Marked Man (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—John Ermine of Yellowstone (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—The Cricket (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 19—The Man from Montana (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 26—Fear Not (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—Fighting Mad (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Silent Lady (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—Beloved Jim (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Bucking Broadway (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson Production—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—The Wolf and His Mate (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Hell's Crater (Five parts—Drama).

VICTOR.

Oct. 1—Kicked in the Kitchen (Comedy).
Oct. 8—A Walloping Time (Comedy).
Oct. 15—When Liz Lets Loose (Comedy).
Oct. 22—What'll We Do With Uncle? (Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCEEN MAGAZINE.

Oct. 29—Issue No. 43 (Educational).
Nov. 9—Issue No. 44 (Educational).
Nov. 16—Issue No. 45 (Educational).
Nov. 23—Issue No. 46 (Educational).
Nov. 30—Issue No. 47 (Educational).
Dec. 7—Issue No. 48 (Educational).
Dec. 15—Issue No. 49 (Educational).
Dec. 22—Issue No. 50 (Educational).
Dec. 29—Issue No. 51 (Educational).
Jan. 5—Issue No. 52 (Educational).
Jan. 12—Issue No. 53 (Educational).
Jan. 19—Issue No. 54 (Educational).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Dec. 15—The Red Ace (Episode No. 9—"A Voice from the Past"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 15—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 3—"Adrift"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Red Ace (Episode No. 10—"Hearts of Steel"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 4—"The Secret of the Tomb"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 29—The Red Ace (Episode No. 11—"The Burning Span"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 29—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 5—"The Fire God"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 5—The Red Ace (Episode No. 12—"Overboard"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 5—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 6—"Treachery"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—The Red Ace (Episode No. 13—"New Enemies"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 7—"One Minute to Live"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Red Ace (Episode No. 14—"The Fugitives"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 15—"Hidden Hands"—Two parts—Dr.).

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS.

Oct. 19—Issue No. 23 (Topical).
Oct. 26—Issue No. 24 (Topical).
Nov. 2—Issue No. 25 (Topical).
Nov. 9—Issue No. 26 Topical.
Nov. 16—Issue No. 27 (Topical).
Nov. 23—Issue No. 28 (Topical).
Nov. 30—Issue No. 29 (Topical).
Dec. 7—Issue No. 30 (Topical).
Dec. 15—Issue No. 31 (Topical).
Dec. 22—Issue No. 32 (Topical).
Dec. 29—Issue No. 33 (Topical).
Jan. 5—Issue No. 34 (Topical).
Jan. 12—Issue No. 35 (Topical).
Jan. 19—Issue No. 36 (Topical).

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

GOLDWYN FEATURES.

Sept. 9—Polly of the Circus (Seven parts—Comedy-Drama).
Sept. 23—Baby Mine (Six parts—Comedy).
Oct. 7—Fighting Odds (Six parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—The Spreading Dawn (Six parts—Drama).
Nov. 4—Sunshine Alley (Six parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—Nearly Married (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 2—The Auction Block (Eight parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Cinderella Man (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 30—Thais (Six parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Fields of Honor (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 28—Dodging a Million (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).

GOLDWYN SPECIALS.

The Manx-Man (Seven parts—Drama).
For the Freedom of the World (Seven parts—Drama).

MARIE DRESSLER COMEDIES.

The Scrub Lady (Two parts).
Fired (Two parts).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

Dec. 10—Alias Mrs. Jessop (Five parts—Dr.)
Dec. 17—An American Widow (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Red, White, and Blue Blood (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Avenging Trail (Yorke Film Corp.—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Daybreak (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Winding Trail (Rolfe—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Eyes of Mystery (Rolfe—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Under Suspicion (Five parts—Drama).

METRO SPECIALS.

October—The Slacker (Eight parts—Drama).
Nov. 15—Draft 258 (Seven parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Blue Jeans (Seven parts—Drama).

METRO COMEDIES.

Nov. 19—A Close Resemblance (Drew).
Nov. 26—As Others See Us (Drew).
Dec. 3—Too Much Henry (Drew).
Dec. 10—Wages No Object (Drew).
Dec. 15—The Spirit of Merry Christmas (Drew).
Dec. 24—The Unmarried Look (Drew).
Dec. 31—Shadowing Henry (Drew).
Jan. 7—Their Mutual Motor (Drew).
Jan. 14—Why Henry Left Home (Drew).
Jan. 21—Their First Love (Drew).
Jan. 28—Under the Influence (Drew).

Triangle Film Corporation.

TRIANGLE PRODUCTIONS.

Dec. 2—The Ship of Doom (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 9—Fanatics (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Learnin' of Jim Benton (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—Because of the Woman (Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Maternal Spark (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—Without Honor (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—Until They Get Me (Five Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 30—The Gown of Destiny (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Framing Framers (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 6—Betty Takes a Hand (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—Man Above the Law (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—I Love You (Seven Parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—Laws Outlaw (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Evidence (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Flames of Chance (Five parts—Dr.).

TRIANGLE KOMEDY.

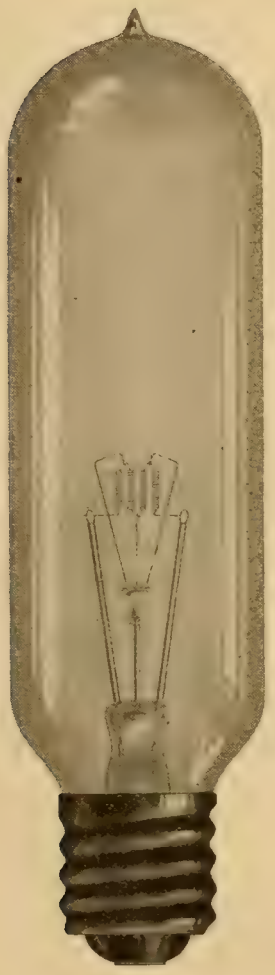
Dec. 2—An Officer's Miss.
Dec. 2—Sauce for the Goose.
Dec. 9—Their Straying Feet.
Dec. 9—When War Meant Peace.
Dec. 16—His Bad Policy.
Dec. 16—A Discordant Note.
Dec. 23—A Counterfeit Scent.
Dec. 23—A Birthday Blunder.
Dec. 30—In Wrong Right.
Dec. 30—His Double Flivver.
Jan. 6—Matrominial Breaker.
Jan. 6—His Day of Doom.
Jan. 13—A Straight Crook.
Jan. 13—A Marriage Not.
Jan. 20—Their Indian Uncle.
Jan. 20—The Price of His Head.

KEYSTONE COMEDY.

Dec. 2—An Ice Man's Bride (Two parts).
Dec. 9—The Grave Undertaking (Two parts).
Dec. 16—A Sanitarium Scandal (Two parts).
Dec. 23—Afraid to Be False (Two parts).
Dec. 30—Welcome Home (Two parts).
Jan. 6—His Hidden Shame (Two parts).
Jan. 13—His Punctured Reputation (Two parts).
Jan. 20—Dimples and Dangers (Two parts).

Producers.—Kindly Furnish Titles and Dates of All New Releases Before Saturday.

Better Light, Less Expense and a Whole Lot Less Trouble



Even if it cost more to use NATIONAL MAZDA lamps for projection (which it doesn't), still the added cost would be justified by any one of these results:

(1) Less heat and better air in the booth.

(2) No regulating after the lamp is once focused.

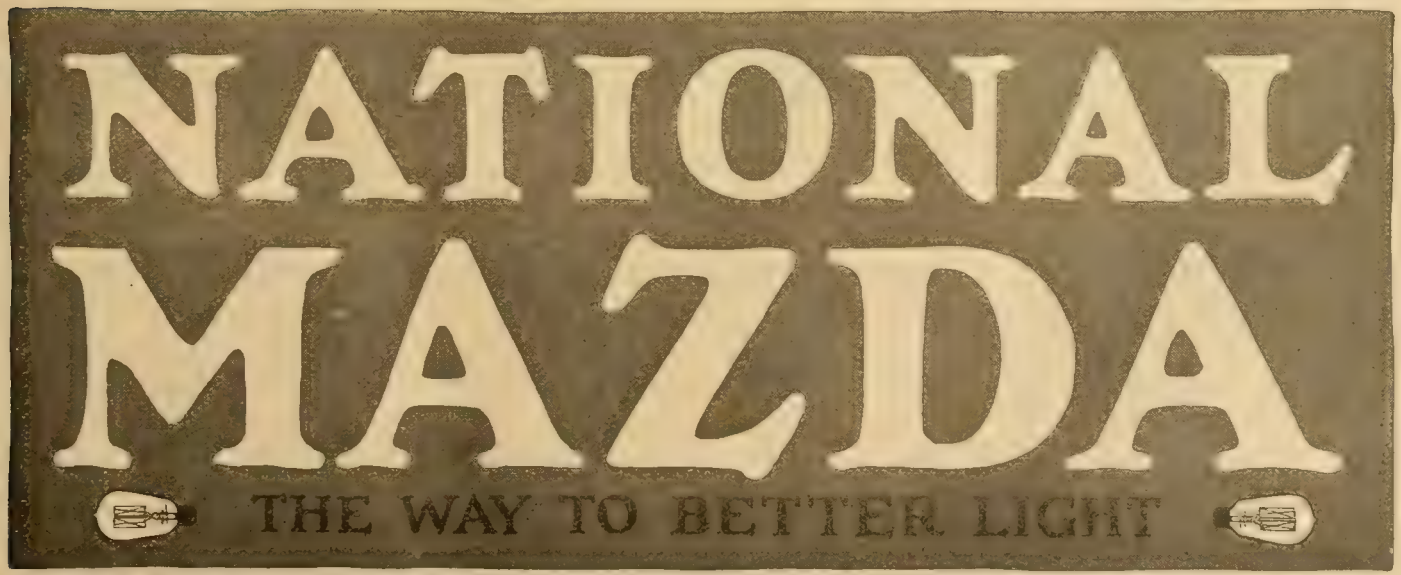
(3) Flickerless light on the screen.

(4) Even illumination all over the screen.

(5) Greatly lessened breakage of lenses.

(6) No more expense for carbon jaws.

But instead of costing more it costs less! The saving in current alone, to say nothing of the other savings, will pay for rebuilding your projector. Full information from your Supply House, or from Nela Specialties Division, NATIONAL LAMP WORKS of General Electric Co., 102 Nela Park, Cleveland, Ohio.



List of Current Film Release Dates

MUTUAL PROGRAM AND MISCELLANEOUS FEATURES

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 414.)

Mutual Film Corp.

CUB.

Nov. 1—Jerry's Lucky Day (Comedy).
Nov. 7—Jerry and the Vampire (Comedy).
Nov. 15—Jerry's Running Fight (Comedy).
Nov. 22—Jerry's Victory (Comedy).
Nov. 29—Jerry and the Burglars (Comedy).
Dec. 6—Jerry Takes Gas (Comedy).
Dec. 12—Jerry's Boarding House (Comedy).
Dec. 20—Jerry's Double Cross (Comedy).
Dec. 26—Jerry's Best Friend (Comedy).

GAUMONT.

Nov. 8—Reel Life No. 80. Subjects on reel: Safety Last; The Pipe Organ; A Cord Tire Machine; The Story of Water; It Was Not the Colic, from "Life."

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Nov. 25—Number 152 (Topical).
Dec. 2—Number 153 (Topical).
Dec. 9—Number 154 (Topical).
Dec. 16—Number 155 (Topical).
Dec. 23—Number 156 (Topical).
Dec. 31—Number 1 (Topical).
Jan. 7—Number 2 (Topical).
Jan. 14—Number 3 (Topical).

STRAND.

Oct. 23—And Along Came Mary.
Oct. 30—A Two-Cylinder Courtship.
Nov. 6—Mary's Merry Mixup (Comedy).
Nov. 13—That Dog Gone Dog (Comedy).
Nov. 20—A Maid to Order.
Nov. 27—Tom, Dick and Harry (Comedy).
Dec. 4—Just Kidding (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Putting One Over.
Dec. 18—Little Miss Fixer (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Mary's Boomerang (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Her Awful Fix (Comedy).
Jan. 8—A Peach and a Pill (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Burglars (Comedy).

MUTUAL SPECIALS.

Oct. 22—The Adventurer (Charlie Chaplin Picture No. 12—Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 12—The Planter (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

Nov. 26—The Mate of the Sally Ann (American—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—The American Maid (Goodrich—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Miss Jackie of the Army (American—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—New York Luck (American—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Her Sister (Frohman—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Her Second Husband (Goodrich—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Molly Go Get 'Em (American—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Impostor (Frohman—Five parts—Drama).

SIGNAL.

Nov. 7—The Lost Express (Episode No. 8—"The Mountain King"—Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 14—The Lost Express (Episode No. 9, "The Looters—Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 22—The Lost Express (Episode No. 10—"The Secret of the Mine"—Two parts—drama).
Nov. 29—The Lost Express (Episode No. 11—"A Fight for a Million"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 6—The Lost Express (Episode No. 12—"Daring Death"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 12—The Lost Express (Episode No. 13—"The Escape"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 19—The Lost Express (Episode No. 14—"Unmasked"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—The Lost Express (Episode No. 15—"The Return of the Lost Express"—Two Parts—Drama).

Feature Releases

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 26—The Silent Man (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 17—The Devil Stone (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—A Modern Musketeer (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Rose of the World (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 14—Wolves of the Rail (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 21—Stella Maris (Five parts—Drama).

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

Dec. 3—The Raggedy Queen (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 10—The Door Between (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 17—My Little Boy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Scarlet Car (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Girl by the Roadside (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—My Unmarried Wife (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Face Value (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Broadway Love (Five parts).
Jan. 28—The Fighting Grin (Five parts).

BRIND EDUCATIONAL MOVING PICTURES.

All About Bees (Approx. 725 feet).
Beautiful Goldfish (Approx. 467 feet).
My Friend the Ant (Approx. 671 feet).
The Freshwater Aquarium (Approx. 522 feet).
The Infinitely Small (Approx. 732 feet).
Denizens of the Deep, No. 1 (Approx. 616 feet).
Denizens of the Deep, No. 2 (Approx. 532 feet).

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION.

Dec. 10—Our Vanishing Game (Ditmar's Living Book of Nature).
Dec. 12—Fishing for Fish.
Dec. 17—Nature's Weavers (Ditmar's Living Book of Nature).
Dec. 19—Flying Trip Through Japan No. 2.
Dec. 24—Nature's Songsters (Ditmar's Living Book of Nature).
Dec. 26—Beside the Glimmer Glass.
Dec. 31—Animals in Mid-Summer (Ditmar's Living Book of Nature).

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT

Dec. 23—Daughter of Destiny (Petrova Picture Co.).
Dec. —Alimony.

FOX SPECIAL FEATURES.

Nov. 25—A Branded Soul (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 2—The Babes in the Woods (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Pride of New York (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—Unknown 274 (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Kingdom of Love (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Stolen Honor (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—For Liberty (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—Cupid's Round-Up (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 20—A Heart's Revenge (Five parts—Dr.).

FOX STANDARD PICTURES.

Oct. 14—Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp.
Nov. 4—The Rose of Blood (Six parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—Treasure Island (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 2—A Daughter of the Gods (Eight parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—Troublemakers (Seven parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Heart of a Lion (Six parts—Dr.).
Dec. 30—Du Barry (Seven parts—Drama).

FOX SUNSHINE COMEDIES.

Nov. 11—Wedding Bells and Roaring Lions (Two parts).
Nov. 25—A Milk-Fed Vamp (Two parts).
Dec. 9—Smashed in the Career (Two parts).
Dec. 23—Damaged—No Goods (Two parts).
Jan. 6—Shadows of Her Pest (Two parts).
Jan. 13—Are Married Policemen Safe? (Two Parts).

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

Dec. 17—In the Balance (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—The Fighting Trail (Episode No. 15—"Out of the Flame"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—When Men are Tempted (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Vengeance—and the Woman (Episode No. 1—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Dummies and Deceptions (Comedy).
Dec. 31—His Own People (Five parts—Comedy).
Dec. 31—Stowaways and Strategy (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Vengeance—and the Woman (Episode No. 2—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—The Blind Adventure (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Wild Strain (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 21—The Menace (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—A Mother's Sin (Five parts—Drama).

W. W. HODKINSON CORP.

(Paralta Plays.)

Dec. 15—A Man's Man (Seven parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Madam Who? (Seven parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—His Robe of Honor (Seven parts—Dr.).

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Come Through (Seven parts—Drama).
Pay Me (Five parts—Drama).
Sirens of the Sea (Six parts—Drama).
The Man Without a Country (Six parts—Dr.).
The Co-Respondent (Six parts—Drama).
The Price of a Good Time (Seven parts—Dr.).
The Grand Passion (Seven parts—Drama).
K (Seven parts—Drama).

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM.

Dec. 3—Small Town Guy (Essanay-Perfection Picture—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Dream Doll (Essanay-Perfection Picture—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Sadie Goes to Heaven (Essanay Perfection Picture—Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 2—Girls You Know ("The Screen Fan"—First Release of the James Montgomery Flagg Series—One Reel—Comedy — Edison Perfection Picture.)
Jan. 16—Girls You Know ("The Bride"—Second Release of the James Montgomery Flag Series—One Reel—Comedy—Edison Perfection Picture).
Jan. 30—Girls You Know ("The Superstitious Girl"—Third Release of the James Montgomery Flagg Series — One Reel — Comedy — Edison Perfection Picture).

SELECT PICTURES CORP.

Oct.—The Moth (Six parts).
Oct.—Magda (Five parts).
Oct.—Scandal (Five parts).
Oct.—The Wild Girl (Five parts).
Oct.—Over There (Six parts).
Nov.—Her Silent Sacrifice (Five parts).
Nov.—Secret of the Storm Country (Five parts).
Nov.—The Barrier (Seven parts).
Nov.—The Lone Wolf (Six parts).
Nov.—Public Be Damned (Six parts).
Dec.—Shirley Kaye (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—The Honeymoon (Five parts—Drama).
Jan.—Woman and Wife.
Jan.—Ghosts of Yesterday.
Jan.—The Marionettes.
Jan.—The Studio Girl.

WHOLESOME FILMS CORPORATION.

His Awful Downfall (One Reel Comedy).
Little Red Riding Hood (Four parts—Juvenile).

WORLD PICTURES.

Nov. 19—Easy Money (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 26—Her Hour (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—The Awakening (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Good for Nothing (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—The Tenth Case (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—The Volunteer (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Diamonds and Pearls (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Stolen Hours (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Strong Way (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Gates of Gladness (Five parts—Dr.).

U. S. EXHIBITORS' BOOKING CORP.

The Zeppelin's Last Raid.
Those Who Pay.
The Belgian (Sidney Olcott Players, Inc.).

Producers.—Kindly Furnish Titles and Dates of All New Releases Before Saturday.

Sure Fire Helps to Success

The CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., publishers of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD and CINE MUNDIAL, the leading trade papers devoted to the Motion Picture Industry, are also publishers of the only library of practical text books dealing with the cinema art adapted to the every-day needs of those already engaged in the business or about to engage in it.

These text books, six in number, have been written by men carefully selected for their proven knowledge of the subjects to be covered, being almost without exception veteran members of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD'S editorial staff; entirely without exception these men are at present actively engaged in the motion picture business—they are not dreamers or theorists.

Each text book has been written to provide real help to the individual who reads it—consistent with the unswerving policy of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD—a genuine "Dedication to Service."

Motion Picture Handbook

for Managers and Operators
By F. H. RICHARDSON
Third Edition

The most complete, exhaustive and instructive work ever published on the projection of moving pictures. Contains complete instruction with detail illustrations on all leading makes of American projection machines and practical information on wiring, lenses, carbon settings, screens, theatre equipment, etc., etc. 700 pages and over 300 illustrations, $4.00, postage paid.

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

A real help and business builder for exhibitors, theatre managers and owners. It tells all about theatre advertising, type, printing and paper, house programs, lobby displays, newspaper advertising, posters, heralds, etc., etc. 300 pages. $2.00, postage paid. P. S.—Mr. Sargent conducts a weekly department in this same style in the Moving Picture World, which contains many up-to-date business-getting ideas.

Motion Picture Electricity

By J. H. HALLBERG

An up-to-date work on the electrical equipment of picture theatres by a practical electrical expert. Contains chapters on electricity, D.C. and A.C. current, resistance and resistance devices, electric service, wiring, lighting, etc. Also contains practical suggestions and all necessary reference tables on wire sizes and capacity, weights and measures, heat units, etc., etc. 260 pages, illustrated. $2.50, postage paid.

Modern Theatre Construction

By EDWARD BERNARD KINSILA

Our newest book is one that will fill a long-felt want to those contemplating the building of a theatre. This is a very complete and exhaustive work by an architect with many years of practical experience in theatre and studio construction. Fully illustrated, with considerable data as to requirements, construction cost, building laws, etc. $3.00, postage paid.

Technique of the Photoplay

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT
Third Edition

Complete instruction in photoplay writing, including study of plots, how to obtain and how to develop; writing the synopsis; studio requirements; script preparation and marketing; technical terms; examples of actual scripts in facsimile typewriting, etc. 400 pages. $3.00, postage paid.

Screencraft

or the Making of a Photoplay

By LOUIS REEVES HARRISON

A comprehensive and thought-provoking treatment of the subject in a series of chapters, similar to a university course of lectures, by a successful writer of photoplays. Also contains a complete working scenario and several sample pages of manuscript. 150 pages; illustrated. $2.00, postage paid.

Any of These Publications Sent Promptly Upon Application to Chalmers Publishing Co.

Publishers of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

Schiller Building
Chicago, Ill.

Wright & Callender Bldg.
Los Angeles, Cal.

Order from Nearest Office

M. P. HANDBOOK
MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY
PICTURE THEATRE ADVERTISING
MOD. THEAT. CONSTRUC.
TECH. OF PHOTOPLAY
SCREENCRAFT
(Check book or books desired)

Enclosed ..... Money Order will cover cost, as per prices in this adv.

Address.....
.....
.....

List of State Rights Pictures

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 414.)

Note—For further information regarding pictures listed on this page, address State Rights Department, Moving Picture World, and same will be gladly furnished.

ADVANCED M. P. CORP.
The Woman Eternal (Seven parts—Drama).

AMERICAN-JAPAN PICTURES CORP.
The Land of the Rising Sun (10,000 feet—Issued complete or in series of 2,000 or 5,000 feet).

ARROW FILM CORPORATION.
The Eyes of the World.
Ramona.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.
The Eagle's Wings.
Hell Morgan's Girl.
Mother O' Mine.

BRENON PRODUCTIONS.
Fall of the Romanoffs (Eight Parts).
Kismet.

JULES BURNSTEIN.
December—Shame (Produced by Duplex Films, Inc—Seven parts—Drama).

CENTURY COMEDIES.
Nov. 1—Neptune's Naughty Daughter (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 1—Her Bareback Career (Two parts—Comedy).

BENJAMIN CHAPIN-PARAMOUNT SERIES.
My Mother (Two parts).
My Father (Two parts).
The Call to Arms (Two parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.
Hearts and Clubs (Comedy).
Almost a Bigamist (Comedy).
More Haste Less Speed.
Betty's Big Idea.
Stepping Out.
Almost Divorced.
Betty Wakes Up.
Their Seaside Tangle (Comedy).
One Good Turn (Comedy).
Thirty Days.
Nearly a Papa.
Cupid's Camouflage.

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOFILM CO.
Denny from Ireland (First Release of the Shorty Hamilton Series—Five parts—Drama).
The Snail (Second of the Shorty Hamilton Series—Five parts).

COMMONWEALTH PICTURES CORP.
The Frozen Warning (Drama).

COSMOFOTOFILM, INC.
I Believe (Seven parts—Drama).

CREST PICTURES CORP.
The Lust of the Ages.
A Grain of Dust.

CRYSTAL PHOTOPLAYS CORP.
Mother Love and The Law (Drama).

EBONY FILM CORP.
Wrong All Around (One Reel—Comedy).
Some Baby (One Reel—Comedy).
Ghosts (One Reel—Comedy).
The Porters (One Reel—Comedy).

M. S. EPSTEIN.
Kerensky in the Russian Revolution of 1917.

EXHIBITORS' OPERATING CORP.
The City of Purple Dreams (Seven parts—Drama—Selig Production).

FILM D'ART CORP.
Auntie's Triumph.
Cousins.

FORT PITT CORPORATION.
The Italian Battlefront.
The Italian Stand on the Piave.

FRANCE FILMS, INC.
The Natural Law (Seven parts—Drama).

FRATERNITY FILMS, INC.
Oct.—Devil's Playground (Nine parts—Drama).

FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES.
A Mormon Maid (Six parts—Drama).

FUN-ART FILMS, INC.
A Rag, a Bone and a Hank of Hair (Two parts—Comedy).

GENERAL ENTERPRISES, INC.
Mother (Six ports—Drama—McClure Picture).
The Warrior (Seven parts—Drama—McClure Picture).
The Liar (Six parts—Drama—General Enterprise Feature).

GRAPHIC FILM CORP.
Moral Suicide (Seven parts—Drama).

HILLER & WILK, INC.
Alma, Where Do You Live (6 Parts—Drama).
Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman (Seven parts—Drama).
The Submarine Pirate (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy—Four parts).
Fatty and Mabel Adrift (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy—Three parts).
Cinders of Love (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
He Did and He Didn't (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
The Other Man (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Bright Lights (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Bucking Society (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
The Snow Cure (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
The Village Scandal (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Saved by Wireless (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Fatty and the Broadway Stars (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Dizzy Heights and Darling Hearts (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
His Wild Oats (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Waiters' Ball (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
His First False Step (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Ambrose Cup of Woe (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).

HIGH CLASS FILM PRODUCTIONS.
The Struggle Everlasting (Seven parts—Dr.).

HOFFMAN-FOURSQUARE PICTURES.
The Bar Sinister.
The Silent Witness (Seven Parts—Drama).
Her Fighting Chance.
Should She Obey.
The Great White Trail.
Madame Sherry.
One Hour (Six Parts—Drama).
The Fringe of Society (Seven Parts—Drama).

LYMAN H. HOWE PICTURES CO.
The U. S. Navy.

IVAN FILM PRODUCTION.
August—Babbling Tongues (Six parts—Dr.).
Married in Name Only (Six Parts—Drama).
Sins of Ambition.

KING BEE FILMS CORP.
Sept. 1—The Goat (Two parts—Comedy).
Sept. 15—The Fly Cop (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 1—The Chief Cook (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 15—The Candy Kid (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 1—The Hobo (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 15—The Pest (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 1—The Bandmaster (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 15—The Slave (Two Parts—Comedy).
Jan. 1—The Stranger (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 15—The Barber (Two parts—Drama).

MAYFAIR FILM CORP.
Persuasive Peggy (Drama).

NATIONAL FILM CORP. OF AMERICA.
Tarzan of the Apes.

ORO PICTURES CORP.
Who Knows? (Six parts—Drama).
Loyalty (Drama).

OVERLAND FILM CO.
The Russian Revolution.

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.
To-Day (Seven parts—Drama).
Mad Lover (Six parts—Drama).

PETER PAN FILM CORP.
Mo-Toy Troupe (Release No. 14—"Jimmie the Soldier Boy").
Mo-Toy Troupe (Release No. 15—"Jimmie and Jam").
Mo-Toy Troupe (Release No. 16—"In Japaneland").

PIONEER FILM CORP.
Nov. 1—Danger Signals (Seven parts—Drama).

W. H. PRODUCTIONS.
Dakota Dan.
Double Crossed.
The Last Card.
A Knight of the Trail.
A Square Deal.
Horns and Hoofs.
The Bargains (Six parts—Drama).
The Bandit and the Preacher (Five parts—Second of the Hart Superfeatures).

PYRAMID COMEDIES.
In and Out (Two parts).
Love and Lunch (Two parts).
Beach Birds (Two parts).
Beauties and Bombs (Two parts).

RANKIN-LEE, INC.
Nov.—A Modern Lorelei.

HARRY RAVER.
The Hand of the Hun (Four parts—Novelty).

RENOWNED PICTURES CORP.
June—In Treason's Grasp (Five parts—Drama)
A Soul for Sale (Six parts—Drama).
Weavers of Life (Drama).
The Public Defender.

WILLIAM N. SELIG.
April—The Garden of Allah.
May—Beware of Strangers (Eight parts—Dr.)
Who Shall Take My Life? (Seven parts—Dr.).

FRANK J. SENG.
May—Parentage (Drama).

S. & S. PHOTOPLAYS, INC.
Redemption (Six Parts—Drama).
Disillusioned.
Just a Woman.

STERLING PICTURES CORP.
Peg of the Sea (Drama).

SUPREME FEATURE FILMS, INC.
May—Trip Through China (Ten parts).

TWEDE COMEDY CO.
The Recruit.

ULTRA FILMS, INC.
A Day at West Point (Educational).
West Is West.
Rustlers' Frame-Up at Big Horn.

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).
June—The Cross-Eyed Submarine (Three parts—Comedy).
June—Come Through (Seven parts—Drama).

VENUS FILMS.
The Triumph of Venus.

WESTERN IMPORT FILM CO.
Mickey (Seven parts).

Producers.—Kindly Furnish Titles and D ates of All New Releases Before Saturday.

QUICK

Railroad Service in New York State and Pennsylvania

Complete Line of All Supplies for Moving Picture and "Legitimate" Theatres—Prices Right—Open Night and Day

WIRE WRITE RIDE

Moving Picture Machine Co., Binghamton, New York

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

Expert Developing, Printing and Coloring

CAMERA OUTFITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED

CAMERA MEN SENT ANYWHERE

985 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

THE CINEMA

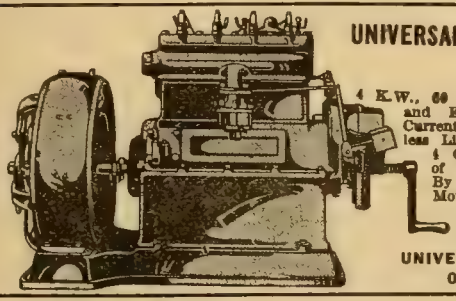
NEWS AND PROPERTY GAZETTE

30 Gerrard Street, W. I. London, England

Has the quality circulation of the trade in Great Britain and the Dominions. All Official Notices and News from the ASSOCIATION to its members are published exclusively in this journal.

Yearly Rate—Postpaid, Weekly, $7.25
Sample copy and advertising rates on request

Appointed by Agreement Dated 7/8/14 THE OFFICIAL ORGAN of THE CINEMATOGRAPH EXHIBITORS' ASSOCIATION OF GREAT BRITAIN & IRELAND, LTD



UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC GENERATOR SET

4 K.W., 60 or 110 Volt. Dependable and Efficient. Smooth, Direct Current, and consequent Flickerless Light. Direct connected to 4 Cylinder, 4 Cycle Engine of unquestioned reliability. By all odds the best for Moving or Permanent Picture work.

Write for Bulletin 26.

UNIVERSAL MOTOR CO.
Oshkosh, Wis.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

8 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone—3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Thirty-five Years' Practical Experience

Foreign and Domestic Stained Glass

for Theatres, Public Buildings, Churches, etc.

Estimates and Special Designs furnished on application on Leaded Lights for Doors, Halls, Staircases, Skylights or any stained glass effect desired in your theatre.

Benjamin Sellers & Sons

79-84 Bible House, New York City

Verdicts are Formed after Evidence and Convincing Facts Have Been Submitted

Speer Alterno Carbons

FOR A.C. WORK

and

Speer Hold-Ark Carbons

FOR D.C. WORK

Produce Incomparable Results—results mould operators' opinions—opinions determine the verdicts—verdicts establish the reputation. The operators' "stamp of approval" places Speer Projector Carbons in that exclusive class of motion picture supplies most essential to improved projection.

PARAMOUNT FEATURES

ALTERNO CARBONS

Perfect Projection—Wanderless Arc.
Noiseless Operation—Brilliant Illumination.
Bright, Flickerless, Eye-Resting Light.
No Change Required in Booth Equipment.

ESSENTIAL ADVANTAGES

HOLD-ARK CARBONS

Permanent Arc Longer Life
Perfect Crater Minimum Adjustment
Hard Core and Metal Coating
Elimination of Projection Difficulties

When ordering specify whether for alternating or direct current. Each style has a special duty to perform. Substitutions or attempted alterations are costly.

Write today for descriptive literature

"THE CARBONS WITH A GUARANTEE"

SPEER CARBON COMPANY

ST. MARYS, PA.

EASTMAN FILM

The result of highest grade materials and painstaking manufacture is shown in the results on the screen.

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" on the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Gundlach
Projection Lenses

give clean cut definition with the utmost illumination. This is all that you can expect from perfect lenses. The universal use of these lenses is the best evidence of their superior quality. They are sold on approval by all dealers and furnished as the regular equipment with the best machines.

IT'S ALL IN THE LENS

Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.
808 So. Clinton Ave., Rochester, N.Y.

THE January issue of Cine Mundial was read by a larger number of people in the film business in the Central and South American Republics and other Spanish Speaking Countries than any previous issue. It is now the best known and most eagerly read Spanish moving picture paper printed anywhere. It is producing export business for American manufacturers every month.

Forms for February issue close on January Fifteenth

Cine-Mundial
Spanish Edition of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue
New York City

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

Read what C. A. Morrison of The Princess Theatre, Hartford, Conn., says about Newman Quality:

Gentlemen:
We have purchased quite a number of Brass Frames and Easels, together with Brass Ticket Rail and Three-Sheet Brass Poster Frames of your Company.
All of these goods reached us in perfect condition and the quality was the best. I have told several other managers in the city of your goods and in several instances orders have been sent you—all of which goes to show that your best advertiser is a satisfied customer.

PRINCESS THEATRE CO., Inc.,
C. A. Morrison, Mgr. Hartford, Conn.

INSIST ON THE NAME "NEWMAN" WHEN BUYING FRAMES
Write for New 1918 Catalog.

The Newman Mfg. Company

Established 1882
Frames, Easels, Rails, Grilles, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, O.
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada.
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.

The Leading Concern in China

WITH

Branches and correspondents all over the country.

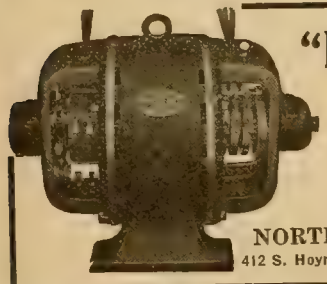
Established for Over 10 Years

Dealers in new and second hand Films, Cameras, Projectors and Accessories

TAKING OF VIEWS
PRINTING AND DEVELOPING WORK

Offers and correspondence solicited by

The Far Eastern Cinema Exchange Co.
1a Jinkee Road, Shanghai, China



"MARTIN" ROTARY CONVERTER

FOR REAL SUN-LIT PICTURES

PERFECT REEL DISSOLVING

WRITE FOR FURTHER INFORMATION

NORTHWESTERN ELECTRIC CO.
412 S. Hoyne Ave., Chicago 1010 Brokaw Bldg., New York

GOLD KING SCREEN

Perfection in Projection—Ten Days' Free Trial
Try before you buy is your privilege.

GOLD KING SCREEN CO., Altus, Oklahoma

Send For Our

New Theatre Catalog

Eighty full-page illustrations—many in colors—of theatres we have ornamented.

BROADWAY-STRAND THEATRE, CHICAGO
MARSHFIELD AMUS. CO., OWNERS.—LOBBY VIEW.

Our new catalog will give you many valuable ideas of theatre design and arrangement.

Send Plans for Special Designs of

Ornamental Plaster Decorations

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.
Archer Ave. and Leo St. CHICAGO, ILL.

SERVICE

Are you getting service where you are purchasing your supplies for your Theatre?

DO YOU GET PROMPT SHIPMENTS?
DO YOU GET SATISFACTORY GOODS?
EVERY CUSTOMER SATISFIED IS OUR AIM.

We have an efficient organization and we specialize in GOOD GOODS and PROMPT SHIPMENTS. We guarantee satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded.

A TRIAL ORDER WILL CONVINCE YOU

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade
Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers, and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres
Third Floor, Mallers Building
Cor. Madison St. and Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.
WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

Educate Your Audience to Help Fight Censorship!

Introducing a bill providing for the Censorship of Moving Pictures is a favorite indoor pastime in legislative halls throughout the country. Eternal vigilance is the price of the Exhibitor's mere safety if not his success.

Presented in the proper manner, the Censorship of Moving Pictures is just as obnoxious to the Exhibitor's audiences as it is to the Exhibitor. And public opinion aroused in behalf of moving pictures and against their unfair and discriminatory control is the surest weapon to defeat Censorship.

The Management of this Theatre desires the co-operation of its patrons in providing good clean entertainment.
We want no "legalized" censorship of moving pictures

We have prepared a series of nine different stereopticon slides which crystallize the argument against Censorship; one of the slides is shown herewith.

These slides shown repeatedly in any theatre cannot fail to influence public opinion in that locality against Censorship. They will line up the general public on the side of the Exhibitor.

You Ought to Be Showing Them Now! Legislatures Everywhere Are Convening

Set of Nine Slides, carefully packed, will be sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York City

To All Motion Picture Exhibitors

WAR TAX!

Allied Exhibitors Legislative Committee

H. P. Varner
Of North Carolina
CHAIRMAN

Lee A. Ochs
Of New York

Ernest H. Horstmann
Of Massachusetts
TREASURER

Judge O'Donnell
Of Pennsylvania

Frank Rembusch
Of Indiana
SECRETARY

THE undersigned committee of the Allied Exhibitors' Organizations of America elected by the Joint Conventions of all Exhibitors' Organizations, held at Washington, D. C., December 11th and 12th, hereby request the fullest co-operation and assistance of every motion picture exhibitor in America.

We are charged with the duty of gathering the exact and absolute truth of how the war tax is affecting every motion picture theatre, with a view of securing through united effort a readjustment of the war excise taxes on motion picture theatres and film for presentation to Congress.

Therefore we respectfully request each and every exhibitor to fill out the following blank, giving the full facts and figures available, the experience of each theatre, and forward immediately by mail to:

FRANK REMBUSCH,
Secretary, Allied Exhibitors' Legislative Committee,
407 Indiana Trust Building, Indianapolis, Ind.

How does the business of your theatre for the month of November, 1916, compare with the month of November, 1917?

.....

Have you suffered a comparative loss? and to what do you attribute same?

.....

DO IT NOW!

Did the war tax affect your business? and to what extent?

.....

General remarks: .....

.....

Your answer will be doubly effective if you send it immediately.

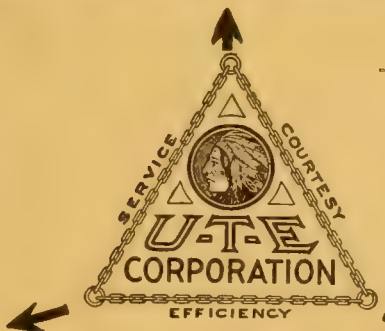
A letter of explanation will be very acceptable.

UNITED THEATRE EQUIPMENT CORPORATION

THE DISTRIBUTOR

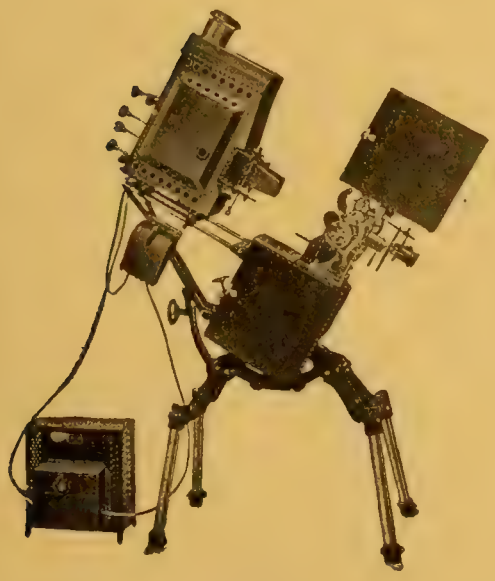
Hallberg Motor Generators and Incandescent Projector Lamp Regulators.

"Fulco" and Novelty Specialties.



Velvet Gold Fibre Screen
Acme Portable Projectors
Edison "Mazda" Lamps
National Carbons

THE MACHINE



POWERS 6B

THE EXHIBITOR

New York, Dec. 2, 1917.

Mr. J. H. Hallberg, Vice-Pres.,
United Theatre Equipment Corporation,
1604 Broadway, New York City.

Dear Mr. Hallberg:

Three years ago you equipped our theatre with a complete outfit—two Power's 6-A projecting machines which I am pleased to state have given us good service and are still in good condition. Nevertheless, I want to be up to date and I herewith place my order for two more Power's machines, latest type, and I am willing to pay the regular price—although I have been offered two complete projection machines from other manufacturers without charge. The reason I prefer the Power machine is that I have a 165½ foot throw, and the size of my picture is 16½ x 20½', on a plaster wall, and I use only 45 to 50 amperes—and have perfect projection. Please let me know when you will be able to install the new machines.

Very truly yours,
CLAREMONT THEATRE,
Fred J. Dollinger,
Manager.

"Everything for the Motion Picture Theatre Except the Film"

BRANCH OFFICES:

New York, N. Y.—729 Seventh Ave.
Boston, Mass.—129 Pleasant St.
Philadelphia, Pa.—1233 Vine St.
Pittsburgh, Pa.—940 Penn Ave.
Cincinnati, O.—115 W. 7th St.
Detroit, Mich.—57 E. Elizabeth St.
Chicago, Ill.—154 W. Lake St.
Omaha, Neb.—13th & Harney Sts.
Minneapolis, Minn.—16 N. 7th St.
Cleveland, O.—Columbia Bldg.

U. T. E. SALES AGENTS:

Kansas City, Mo.—K. C. Machine & Supply Co., Inc., 813 Walnut St.
Des Moines, Ia.—K. C. Machine & Supply Co., Utica Building

United Theatre Equipment Corporation

H. T. EDWARDS, Pres. J. H. HALLBERG, Vice-Pres.

Executive Offices: 1604 Broadway, New York

THE ZONE SYSTEM

has been adopted by us as the most efficient method of distributing our product. By this system we have portioned the United States into five Zones known respectively as A, B, C, D and E.

In each Zone we have appointed a Distributor to carry a complete stock of our Equipment and Repair Parts, thus being always in a position to render prompt and efficient service to the trade.

For uniformity of action we would prefer that our Dealers obtain their supplies through the Zone Distributors. Should unforeseen conditions make it desirable to place orders direct with us, they will receive our usual careful attention.

We take pleasure in announcing our selection of the following concerns as ZONE DISTRIBUTORS. The States included in each Zone are shown under the Distributor's name.

UNITED THEATRE EQUIPMENT CORPORATION

MAIN OFFICE 1604 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

ZONE A

MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VERMONT, MASSACHUSETTS, RHODE ISLAND, CONNECTICUT, NEW YORK, PENNSYLVANIA, NEW JERSEY, DELAWARE, MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA, KENTUCKY, OHIO, INDIANA, MICHIGAN, ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, MINNESOTA, NORTH DAKOTA, SOUTH DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, KANSAS, IOWA, MISSOURI, PART OF OKLAHOMA

SOUTHERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY

MAIN OFFICE 74 MARIETTA ST., ATLANTA, GA.

ZONE B

NORTH CAROLINA, SOUTH CAROLINA, GEORGIA, FLORIDA, PART OF OKLAHOMA, TENNESSEE, ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI, ARKANSAS, LOUISIANA, TEXAS, PART OF NEW MEXICO

THE SWANSON & NOLAN SUPPLY COMPANY

MAIN OFFICE, 1744 CURTIS ST., DENVER, COLO.

ZONE C

MONTANA, IDAHO, WYOMING, PART OF NEW MEXICO, UTAH, COLORADO

G. A. METCALF

MAIN OFFICE 117-119 GOLDEN GATE AVE., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

ZONE D

WASHINGTON, OREGON, NEVADA, PART OF CALIFORNIA

PACIFIC AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

MAIN OFFICE 109 E. 6th ST., LOS ANGELES, CAL.

ZONE E

ARIZONA, PART OF CALIFORNIA

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

Incorporated

Pioneers of Projection

90 GOLD STREET NEW YORK

Vol. 35, No 4 January 26, 1918 Price 15 Cents

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Founded by J.P.Chalmers in 1907

Goldwyn Pictures

Thousands of exhibitors owe their box-office prosperity during the recent depression to the strength and appeal of powerful Goldwyn productions

Copyright 1917 by the Chalmers Publishing Company.

Chalmers Publishing Company 516 Fifth Ave. New York

:Name Another Feature Today That Can Equal This!

IN New York City "The Price of a Good Time," the Jewel Wonder-play featuring Mildred Harris and made by Lois Weber, the BELASCO OF THE SCREEN, played at the Mt. Morris Theatre for three days. It was then REPEATED two weeks later with full knowledge that the Picture was showing at Moss's "Regent," ONLY TWO BLOCKS AWAY.

BUT—

GET WHAT FOLLOWS! Sandwiched in between the "Regent" and the "Mt. Morris" is the "Orient." IN SPITE OF THE FACT that it was going up against hard competition, the "Orient" ran "The Price of a Good Time" AFTER the "Regent"—and AFTER the SECOND SHOWING AT THE "MT. MORRIS"!

Now—How did it go?

James Johnston, Manager of the "Orient," wrote us January 10th:

"I played 'The Price of a Good Time' on Monday, January 7th, in a terrible rain—snow and walks covered with ice, streets in a terrible condition—and the Feature gave the best satisfaction of any picture I ever showed."

AND THIS IN NEW YORK! The most critical, the most calloused, the HARDEST-TO-PLEASE City in the United States!

"The PRICE of a GOOD TIME"

(A Lois Weber Production)

is destined to be the very biggest money-getter of the year 1918. Reserve NOW. "The Price of a Good Time" W-O-N-T W-A-I-T!

FIVE OTHER SPLENDID JEWELS

"The Man Without a Country" "Sirens of the Sea" "Pay Me"
"Come Through" "The Co-Respondent"

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS INC.
1600 Broadway. New York

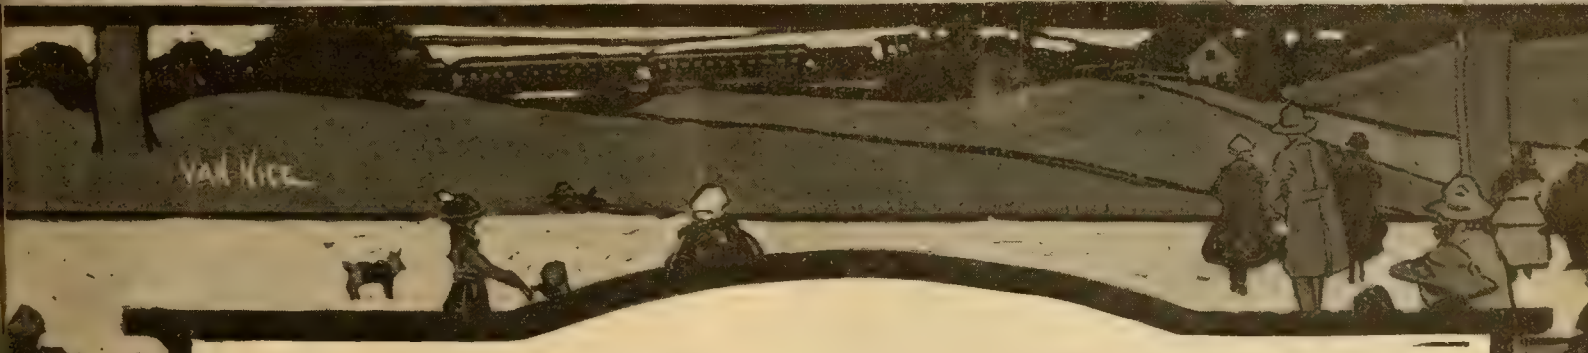
George K. Spoor presents

I, MARY MacLANE

IN

Men Who Have Made Love To Me

AT ALL FIRST CLASS PICTURE THEATRES—Ask When!



A Searchlight On A Woman's Soul!

I, Mary MacLane, believe in truth.
I care not for false standards nor artificial morality.
I paint the things as I see them.

I have had six startling love affairs.
I portray them as they are.
I spare neither myself nor my lovers.
I reveal everything—the truth.

THE GREATEST NATIONAL ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN EVER GIVEN AN INDIVIDUAL STAR

Arrange your booking dates NOW!

Essanay

Distributed By George Kleine System Throughout The United States

Perfection Pictures

HARRY CAREY in "The Phantom Riders"

The BIGGEST FEATURE WESTERN OF THE SEASON

GO to your nearest Universal Exchange. Ask to have them project "THE PHANTOM RIDERS" with Harry Carey, and if you don't book it irrespective of the price asked, then you are not in the market for pictures that mean profits and success.

To miss this one is to actually turn your back on the biggest winner of the season. Nothing has it beaten. Few have it equalled. It's simply tremendous. Also watch for the forthcoming big Harry Carey Productions, to be announced soon. All winners.

BOOK NOW THRU YOUR NEAREST UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE.

THE UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.
CARL LAEMMLE, President
1600 Broadway, New York

SPECIAL POSTERS

Official War Pictures

NOTICE TO EXHIBITORS

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company has contracted with the American Red Cross who will directly handle for the United States Government, all the war films that are received direct from the battlefields of Europe. These authentic official war pictures are photographed on the firing line by the American Signal Corps, and these official pictures will be shown every week in 3-A-WEEK-NEWS-SERVICE. By contracting NOW for 3-A-WEEK-NEWS-SERVICE, composed of the Universal Animated Weekly, Universal Current Events and Universal Screen Magazine you get the cream of these official pictures. Communicate with your nearest Universal Exchange for more facts, terms, etc., or get in touch with us without delay direct.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"
1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

A series that has captured the country. The highest form of refined entertainment for the millions, who love fine pictures.
Chosen by the new Rivoli Theatre in New York.

FINLEY NATURE PICTURES

Something brand new. Something unusual. Something worth while. Something that every man, woman and child in your town will talk about and come to see. No series like it on the market. Produced under the direct supervision of William L. Finley, of the Oregon Game and Fish Commission. Don't miss this magnificent series.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.
Carl Laemmle, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"
1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK

Still setting the pace in the Comedy field

L-KO
High Speed Comedies

Snappiest action—side splitting situations and lots of new comedy gags in "THE DONKEY DID IT" latest L-KO release. Book it. Book all L-KO's and keep a mile ahead of competition on comedy nights.

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.
CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"
1600 Broadway New York

"The SON of DEMOCRACY"

Paramount Pictures Corporation

PRESENTS

BENJAMIN CHAPIN

In

"The Son of Democracy"

A series of dramatic film stories of America in the making.

Written, Directed and Produced by

BENJAMIN CHAPIN

A Tense Drama

20 reels in length, released in 10 chapters of 2 reels each, teeming with thrills, pathos, and laughter.

A Foremost Star

Benjamin Chapin is a stellar attraction strong enough to follow a big week at the Strand Theatre, New York, with 235 performances at the Globe Theatre, nearby.

Nationally Advertised

A tremendous magazine campaign has been launched, embracing some 20 magazines, including the Literary Digest, St. Nicholas, Christian Herald, American Boy, etc. Also, all the officials or people of official position who might influence people to go to see these pictures, have been circularized.

An Appealing Title

This picture was called "The Son of Democracy," since it is the story of "America in the making."

Will Pull New Patrons

Aside from the prestige of the releasing arrangement — Paramount—this picture will attract the more discerning people.

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

A Paramount Series

Paramount Pictures

"The Guilty Man"

"Fate had placed Freedom at her fingertips."

BEATEN, tortured, placed on sale by the brute she called "father," this child, desperate, at the critical point in her life, finds a sure way to save her own soul and her mother's life.

She shoots—and kills!

But she is not the murderer. A person she has never seen is the guilty man and he is the one who is punished.

This is just one of the vivid moments in this motion picture version of "The Guilty Man," which A. H. Woods and Thomas H. Ince, Inc., have made into the tensest photo-drama of the year.

A. H. WOODS

presents

His Broadway Success

"The Guilty Man"

By Ruth Helen Davis and Charles Klein

Irvin V. Willat, Director

Supervision of Thomas H. Ince, Inc.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Released by Paramount Pictures Corporation

Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Pictures

BURTON HOLMES packed the biggest auditorium in Pittsburgh at $2.00 a seat and the live showman figured that he could attract some new patrons to his theatre by advertising part of the same show.

Mr. Holmes is one of the best known and one of the best advertised personalities in the amusement business.

Why not cash in on it?

The Best Vaudeville Theatre in Pittsburgh books Burton Holmes Travel Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L LASKY Vice Pres CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

Paramount Pictures

Paramount-Mack Sennett Comedies

They Please All

Texas Paramount Pictures Co., Dallas, Texas.

Gentlemen:

We desire to thank you for your courtesy in sending us Mack Sennett Comedy, "The Pullman Bride," for inspection. We ran this picture to capacity house, and can truthfully say that it pleased all and offended none; for continuity of action, fun and interest, do not see what more could be desired in any comedy, and as soon as we can arrange an opening for these comedies we shall be glad to contract for same, which will be in the near future.

MAJESTIC THEATRE
W. J. Johnson, Manager

Paramount-Mack Sennett Comedy

"Taming Target Center"

with

POLLY MORAN

BEN TURPIN

and

TOM KENNEDY

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L LASKY Vice Pres CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

Paramount Pictures

THE WHARTONS PRESENT

A PATRIOTIC APPEAL

AMERICA'S SERIAL SUPREME

IN 20 EPISODES
BASED ON FACTS

"THE EAGLE'S EYE"

THE STORY OF
THE IMPERIAL GERMAN GOVERNMENT'S SPIES AND PLOTS IN AMERICA

KING BAGGOT

MARGUERITE SNOW

By WILLIAM J. FLYNN
RECENTLY RETIRED
CHIEF OF U.S. SECRET SERVICE

A Novelty in Serial Photoarama

¶ Thrilling fiction used only as a vehicle to present startling war revelations.

¶ Each episode the story of a spy plot detected and exposed.

¶ A message to the American people in a most impressive form.

¶ Everybody will want to see this attraction.

¶ Sound show-sense should impel Exhibitors to book it.

U.S.A. T.W. WHARTON L.D. ITHACA, N.Y.

DISTRIBUTED BY FOURSQUARE EXCHANGES
PRINCIPAL OFFICE - 729 SEVENTH AVENUE - NEW YORK
BOOKING OFFICES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

4 SQUARE EXCHANGES

MR. WILLIAM RUSSELL
in "IN BAD"

William Russell is appearing in a series of successively better pictures. "In Bad" is an extraordinary photo-drama, thoroughly "Russellistic," in which a precocious young man experiences thrilling and humiliating adventures in his pursuit of a fair maiden's heart. Produced by American Film Company, Inc—

Available January 21 at all exchanges of the
Mutual Film Corporation—

Announcing the

SCREEN TELEGRAM

A TWICE a week news reel of the highest excellence. A pictorial review of events of significance and interest. Made and assembled by experts. Offered as a highly finished product fitted for the finest screens and the most discriminating theatres in America.

MORE than "just a weekly," a screen journal of de luxe quality and polish which makes it a choice supplement to the dramatic program.

FIRST edition to be released March the fourth—and available twice a week thereafter.

Distributed from Exchanges of the
MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

¶ How do you know it's a Rose?

Your nose knows!

¶ How do you know it's Helen Holmes?

Your Box Office knows!

She Stars in

Presented by Signal Film Corporation

"THE LOST EXPRESS"

fifteen chapters of desperate mystery and adventure

Screen tested and proven by big successes in best neighborhood houses, as for example:

Lane Court, Chicago
Fine Arts, Detroit
Lyric, Fort Dodge
Palace, Lincoln
New Grand, Whitehall, N. Y.
New Liberty, Cincinnati
Texahoma, Fort Worth
Paris, Santa Fe
Orpheum, Anderson, Ind.
Bijou, Hibbing, Minn.
Pekin, Montgomery
Judith, Lewiston, Mont
Lyric, Annapolis
Crystal Palace, Philadelphia
Garden, Elizabeth, N. J.
Crescent, Little Rock, Ark.

AVAILABLE AT ALL EXCHANGES OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

Goldwyn Pictures

Here Are A Star and Story That Repay You For All Your Waiting!

THE story—one of romance and adventure; of thrills and mystery; of fashion-shop elegance and love and laughter.

The director is George Loane Tucker, who made your and our big box-office success—Mae Marsh in "The Cinderella Man."

The star is the world-wide favorite returning after a year's absence from the screen radiant

Mabel Normand

in

Dodging A Million

by Edgar Selwyn & A. M. Kennedy

Released everywhere: January 27

Goldwyn Pictures

Here's the Box-Office "Prescription" For A Big Money Maker!

ONE MILLION dollars. A beautiful heiress. A handsome lover. A mysterious foreigner. A trunkful of jewels. A bottle of slow poison. Two dozen gorgeous mannequins and nearly all the clothes in the world.

Combine all of these elements before the camera; bring Mabel Normand back for her sensational reappearance into filmland under the direction of the genius George Loane Tucker and the result will be packed houses everywhere.

Following the box-office successes scored by Madge Kennedy in "Nearly Married;" Rex Beach's greatest story "The Auction Block;" Mae Marsh in "The Cinderella Man" and Mary Garden in "Thais," Goldwyn predicts equal success for exhibitors with Mabel Normand in "Dodging A Million" and repeats the proved assertion that powerful productions banish depression in the theatre.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President — EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President — MARGARET MAYO, Editorial Director

16 East 42d Street New York City

USE THIS HEADLIGHT FOR A CLEAR ROAD AHEAD

For 1918

"William Fox promises that he will secure the rights and will produce the stories of the world's best authors"

FOX SPECIAL FEATURES

One a week
52 a year

Coming Releases

TOM MIX in "CUPID'S ROUND UP".....
SONIA MARKOVA in "A HEART'S REVENGE..
JUNE CAPRICE in "THE HEART OF ROMANCE"..
GEORGE WALSH in "JACK SPURLOCK-PRODIGAL"

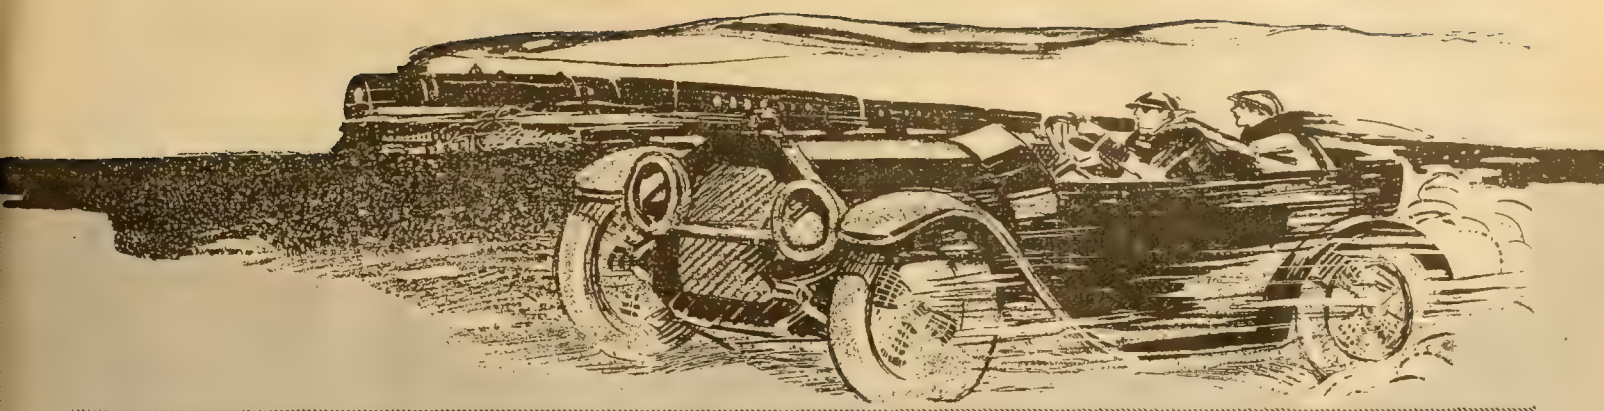
Contract now at nearest branch

FOX FILM CORPORATION



SEE

THE THRILLING FOOD RIOTS
THE FIGHT BETWEEN MAN AND GIRL ON GOLDEN STAIRS
THE 100-MILE-A-MINUTE-RACE-AGAINST DEATH
THE ELECTRIC CHAIR IN OPERATION
THE FIGHT IN THE JURY ROOM
THE POWERFUL SCENE IN THE COURT ROOM
SUSPENSE! SUSPENSE! SUSPENSE!

PERFECT ALL STAR CAST

William Fox Presents

THE 1918 CINEMELODRAMA STANDARD PICTURE

CHEATING the PUBLIC

Story by Mary Murrillo - Scenario by Richard Stanton and Ed. Sedgwick
Directed by Richard Stanton

BOX OFFICE SENSATION OF THE YEAR-BOOK NOW AT ANY BRANCH
TURNING THOUSANDS AWAY at the* LYRIC THEATRE, B'WAY and 42ND ST. N.Y.

10.000 RICH MONOPOLISTS' SILK HATS ON 5TH AVE. N.Y

WALL STREET WHERE MONOPOLY THRIVES

FOX FILM CORPORATION

No Matter If You're Booked Solid, Read—Ponder—ACT!

IN one of William Fox's Theatres on December 9th, the crowd broke down the doors in their haste to get in and see

"THE PRICE of a GOOD TIME"

THE Title lured them—the Posters pulled them—the fame of the Producer drew them on. And they crowded and pushed and shoved in front of the doors till the doors smashed in and the management had to call out the reserves.

IN all earnestness—in all sincerity we say to you—here is one of those amazing, astounding, country-sweeping successes which come only once in a blue moon—which no one, not even the Producer, can predict—which simply take the business into their own hands and walk away with it.

How Do We Know That "The Price of a Good Time" Will Sweep the Country?

WE know it just as every merchant knows when an article suddenly takes the country by storm—by the unanimously favorable criticisms in the papers—by the enthusiastic word-of-mouth advertising of the audiences—by the rush on the box-offices—by the jumping figures on the sales sheet.

Who Made This Commercial Marvel?

LOIS Webermade it! Lois Weber, the Balasco of the Screen—who made "Scandal" and "Hypocrites" and "Shoes." Lois Weber—who came to the rescue of the Exhibitors of the country in the infantile-paralysis year with that wonderful winner, "Where Are My Children?"—the Title and the Play that made a fortune for Exhibitors.

"The Price of a Good Time"

has the same kind of Box-office Title as "Where Are My Children?"—is the same wondrously beautiful kind of Play—has the same Masterhand behind it all.

AND "THE PRICE OF A GOOD TIME" is already rushing at tremendous speed towards the same record mark in what is, admittedly, a bad year for us all.

NO matter if you're booked solid with all kinds of wonderful pictures—no matter if it seems impossible to postpone even a single Feature to make room for a bigger money-getter—

WE ask you—advise you—urge you with all the force we can put behind printed words to show just as quickly as you can this whirlwind Jewel Success.

JUST as sure as sunrise this marvelous picture is the one really great money-getter of the year 1918.

—a Title so enormously alluring,
—a Story so tremendously affecting,
—a Star so heart-touching,
—a Producer so widely known,
—a Play so perfect in detail that you will be the short-sighted loser of your biggest profit of the year if you don't—

—book this picture at once by wire,
—advertise it to your limit and beyond,
—show it at your first opportunity,
—run it twice as long as you ever ran a picture before.

DON'T let anything take the big sure profit on "The Price of a Good Time" away from you. Don't hesitate to postpone your very biggest Feature for this wonderful money-maker.

Be First to Show "The Price of a Good Time" in Your Section. You'll do your Biggest Business—So get it All. Act now. Wire for Reservation. Most important of All—reserve for at least Twice Your Ordinary Run.

JEWEL
PRODUCTIONS
INC.
1600 Broadway. New York

OUR representative leaves New York within a few days for a tour of the open territory on Pyramid Comedies. He will carry prints of the four completed pictures. His trip is for the purpose of disposing of the remaining franchises and we are going to release Pyramid Comedies throughout the entire world simultaneously.

We have refrained from quoting prices or negotiating with any one who has not seen these four completed pictures. Such is our confidence in our product; it has not been done before in film history.

We have received numberless letters from substantial exchangemen saying they were in need of such comedies as we are making, but that they could not possibly come to New York at present.

We are going to them.

If interested write or wire us and the Four Completed Prints will reach you shortly.

Address

Pyramid Comedies, Inc.

220 West 42nd Street New York City

In Answering Advertisements. Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

Madame

PETROVA

in her second

Petrova Picture

"The Light Within"

To be released on or about February 1st 1918

Exchanges of

First National Exhibitors' Circuit

Petrova Picture Company

Frederick L. Collins.. President

25 West 44th Street.. New York

Are YOU Paying SUICIDE PRICES?

"Exhibitors throughout the country are paying entirely too much for film service."

¶ This is the opinion of Lubliner and Trinz of Chicago. It is also the opinion of hundreds of progressive exhibitors like Tom Moore of Washington; Mr. Dooley of Paterson, N.J., and Mr. Ascher of Chicago.

¶ All of these exhibitors are booking Pathe Plays because

The Pictures Are Right and the Prices Are Right

¶ Don't take our word for this. See for yourself. Prints of some of the early releases, including Fannie Ward in "Innocent," Frank Keenan in "Loaded Dice," Bessie Love in "Spring of the Year," and Bryant Washburn in "Kidder & Ko." will soon be shown in our exchanges.

¶ Big stars in big plays at prices that insure exhibitors a profit is the Pathe policy.

¶ Read what Lubliner and Trinz say:

> "Unless something is done immediately to correct the evil of exorbitant film rental, a large percentage of the theatres now existing will be closed during the coming year.
>
> "We are pleased to note your policy of reasonable rentals and want to assure you that the day of suicide prices has passed in so far as we are concerned. We are arranging for Pathe Plays in ALL our houses."

PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.

PATHÉ PLAYS

A. H. Woods presents the sensational success of the dramatic stage .....

"INNOCENT"

with

FANNIE WARD

Written by George Broadhurst
Directed by George Fitzmaurice .....
Produced by ASTRA

PATHÉ IS PROUD TO OFFER "INNOCENT" TO THE EXHIBITORS ..... IF THEATRES COULD ALWAYS SHOW PICTURES AS GOOD THEY WOULD PLAY TO CAPACITY EVERY PERFORMANCE

A SUPERLATIVE PRODUCTION AT A REASONABLE PRICE — A PRICE AT WHICH YOU CAN MAKE MONEY! .. ...

Released Jan. 27th

COMING!

"LOADED DICE" with FRANK KEENAN

"KIDDER and KO" with BRYANT WASHBURN

"SPRING of the YEAR" with BESSIE LOVE

"HOW COULD YOU, CAROLINE?" with BESSIE LOVE

..... ONE EVERY TWO WEEKS ...

Pathé

RUTH ROLAND

proved her worth as a box office attraction for you in "Who Pays" and "The Neglected Wife," two very successful Pathé Serials. Now she is presented in — a series of eight chapters, each in two parts and each complete in itself. "The PRICE OF FOLLY " is based upon themes somewhat similar to those of "WHO PAYS?" and "The NEGLECTED WIFE," problems of everyday life, questions that everyone is interested in and which everyone will wish to see on the screen. Play up Miss Roland and get the business!.....

The PRICE OF FOLLY

RELEASED JANUARY 20th

Pathé

DORIS KENYON

SHELDON LEWIS

HE RUNS SIX DIFFERENT SERIALS A WEEK BUT FINDS PATHÉ SERIALS AND .....

The HIDDEN HAND ...

with

DORIS KENYON

SHELDON LEWIS, ARLINE PRETTY, and MAHLON HAMILTON IN A CLASS BY ... THEMSELVES .....

OPERATING:
MORNINGSIDE THEATRE
REGENT THEATRE
72nd ST. PLAYHOUSE
DRURY LANE THEATRE
YORK THEATRE
NEW AMSTERDAM
MOVIES THEATRE
IDEAL THEATRE
ARENA THEATRE
VILLAGE THEATRE

CONSOLIDATED AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES
189 EIGHTH AVENUE
TEL. CHELSEA 2900

NEW YORK, December 28th, 1917.

PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.,
1600 Broadway, New York City.

Gentlemen:—Allow me to voice my unstinted praise of your newest serial THE HIDDEN HAND. It gets away with a flying start in the first episode and looks, for all the world, like another IRON CLAW.

The Drury Lane runs six different serials a week and has been doing so for years and I can truthfully say that the Pathe brand "brings home the bacon" every time. They are in a class by themselves. With best wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year, I am

Sincerely yours,
JOHN BURKE, Mgr. Drury Lane

"The HIDDEN HAND" – written by Arthur B. Reeve and Charles A. Logue .....

Pathé

ARLINE PRETTY

MAHLON HAMILTON

AMERICA'S BIGGEST CITY HAS FOUND AMERICA'S BIGGEST SERIAL

The HIDDEN HAND

A FINE BOX OFFICE ATTRACTION .....

The following are a few of the well known houses in New York which are showing the

FOUR STAR SERIAL

Arena Theatre.....40th Street and 8th Avenue, City
Costello Theatre.....23 Fort Washington Avenue, City
Drury Lane Theatre..... 615 Eighth Avenue, City
Fox Comedy Theatre.....Grand Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Grand Opera House..... 23rd Street and 8th Avenue, City
Halsey Theatre....Halsey and Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Hamilton Theatre..165 Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Harlem Strand Theatre.....East 125th Street, City
Hopkinson Theatre.....Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Keith's Bijou Dream Theatre..... Jersey City, N. J.
M. & S. Crescent Theatre..... 1175 Boston Road, City
New Comet Theatre.....West New York, N. J.
New Law Theatre.....25 Second Avenue, City
Opera House Theatre..... Bayonne, N. J.
Park West Theatre .....103 West 99th Street, City
Pastime Theatre.....Union Hill, N. J.
Schuyler Theatre.....82nd Street and Broadway, City
Strand Theatre..... Portchester, N. Y.
Tremont Theatre ..... 1942 Webster Avenue, Bronx
U. S. Theatre....195th Street and Webster Avenue, Bronx

Pathé

IN GOOD COMPANY!

The exhibitor who shows

HAROLD LLOYD IN THE "LONESOME LUKE"
(TWO REELS)
AND ROLIN COMEDIES
(ONE REEL)

is in good company. The best houses everywhere show them and swear by them!

The best in Comedy is not too good for you! .....

W. W. HODKINSON

has laid down in these pages the principles upon which he believes the motion picture business must stand. The principle of Equitable Values to the exhibitor is being demonstrated in striking manner today by the bookings of

PARALTA PLAYS

through
GENERAL FILM
Exchanges at prices that balance producer requirements with exhibitor ability to pay. The quality of the Paralta Plays and the triumphant working out of our wide distribution at just rentals is focussing attention on the

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

527 FIFTH AVE. NEW YORK

TELEPHONE
MURRAY HILL 2123

PARALTA PLAYS
PICK OF THE PICTURES

The Second Paralta Play

Bessie Barriscale in

Directed by
REGINALD BARKER

"Madam Who?"

Written by
HAROLD MacGRATH

ROBERT BRUNTON, Manager of Productions

It isn't organization,

nor selling methods — nor advertising

you're interested in.

What you want is great pictures at a reasonable price.

We make great pictures.

The PUBLIC says so. That's final.

And as to price,

ask your brother-exhibitor.

HE won't spoof you.

He'll tell you the truth.

And we are glad to abide by His judgment.

Coming! The Motion Picture Plus (?)

PARALTA PLAYS, Inc.

729 SEVENTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY

Foreign Distributor: Inter-Ocean Film Corporation.

DISTRIBUTED BY
W.W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

PARALTA PLAYS

PICK OF THE PICTURES

The First Paralta Play

J. Warren Kerrigan in

Directed by OSCAR APFEL

"A Man's Man"

Written by PETER B. KYNE

ROBERT BRUNTON, Manager of Productions

Now, here is an exhibitor,

Mr. G. N. Shorey,

who says:

"If every picture of PARALTA issue is as good as 'A Man's Man,'

we will willingly pay you

three times the rental

you are charging us."

Did you ever hear that said about any other brand of pictures?

Do you want to feel like saying what Mr. Shorey said?

Talk to us!

Coming! The Motion Picture Plus (?)

PARALTA PLAYS, Inc.

729 SEVENTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY

Foreign Distributor: Inter-Ocean Film Corporation.

DISTRIBUTED BY
W.W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

THE OPEN BOOK

MR. FOREIGN BUYER

ARE YOU GETTING THE BEST RESULTS ON THE PRODUCTIONS YOU ARE BUYING FOR YOUR PARTICULAR TERRITORY?

ARE YOU AWARE OF THE FACT THAT WE ARE SPECIALISTS IN FOREIGN FIELDS - AND THAT WE STUDY YOUR REQUIREMENTS WITH THE SAME INTEREST AS YOU DO?

DO YOU KNOW THAT WE HAVE JUST PURCHASED FOR EXCLUSIVE FOREIGN DISTRIBUTION

PARALTA PLAYS

THE PICK OF THE PICTURES AND THAT WE ARE READY NOW TO CONTRACT YOU FOR SAME?

AND - MR. FOREIGN BUYER DO YOU KNOW THAT WE HAVE A THOUSAND AND ONE SUBJECTS FOR YOU TO CHOOSE FROM?

NOT ONLY DRAMAS - BUT COMEDIES - SERIALS - EDUCATIONALS - IN FACT EVERY FORM OF MOTION PICTURE PLAYS WHICH ARE ESSENTIAL FOR YOUR SUCCESS IN

FOREIGN FIELDS

OF COURSE YOU KNOW

"WE OPERATE EVERYWHERE"

AND THAT WE ARE THE LARGEST DISTRIBUTORS OF FILM IN FOREIGN FIELDS AND THAT WE ARE EXCLUSIVE EXPORTERS OF SPEER CARBONS

INTER-OCEAN FILM CORPORATION

PAUL H. CROMELIN
PRES. & GEN'L. MGR.

220 W. 42ND ST.
NEW YORK CITY

SCHLES

GOOD SHOWMANSHIP DEMANDS THESE BIG SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

THOS. H. INCE SEVEN PART DRAMATIC THUNDERBOLT

Bessie Barriscale in THOSE WHO PAY

WRITTEN BY C. GARDNER SULLIVAN
DIRECTED BY RAYMOND B. WEST

SIDNEY OLCOTT SEVEN PART TIMELY SENSATION

Walker Whiteside and Valentine Grant in The Belgian

WITH THE OVERWHELMING APPEAL OF MARTYRED BELGIUM
BY FREDERIC ARNOLD KUMMER

THOS. H. INCE NEWEST AND GREATEST SPECTACLE

The ZEPPELIN'S LAST RAID

WRITTEN BY
C. GARDNER SULLIVAN
DIRECTED AND PHOTOGRAPHED BY
IRVIN V. WILLAT

BOOK THROUGH THE FOLLOWING EXCHANGES:

FOURSQUARE

NEW YORK	729 Seventh Ave.
BUFFALO	47 W. Swan St.
CHICAGO	207 S. Wabash Ave.
DETROIT	304 Jos. Mack Bldg.
DENVER	1735 Welton St.
SEATTLE	2014 Third Ave.
PITTSBURGH	127 Fourth Ave.
LOS ANGELES	514 W. 8th St.
PHILADELPHIA	1325 Vine St.
CINCINNATI	301 Strand Theatre Bldg.
ST. LOUIS	301 Empress Theatre Bldg.
CLEVELAND	310 Sloan Bldg.
WASHINGTON	8 E St., Northwest
KANSAS CITY	1120 Walnut St.
SAN FRANCISCO	191 Golden Gate Ave.
MINNEAPOLIS	206 Film Exchange Bldg.

SOUTHERN STATES FILM CO.

ATLANTA	114 Walton St.
DALLAS	1900 Commerce St.

GLOBE FEATURE FILM CO.

NEW ENGLAND...20 Winchester, Boston, Mass.

FRANK GERSTEN, Inc.

NEW JERSEY...220 W. 42nd St., New York City

FOREIGN RIGHTS: Robertson-Cole Co., 23rd Floor, Times Bldg., New York City

U·S·EXHIBITORS' BOOKING CORPORATION

FRANK G. HALL — PRES.
TOP O'THE TIMES BLDG. NEW YORK

TRIANGLE

S. A. LYNCH, President — R. W. LYNCH, Vice-President
FRED KENT, Treasurer — Y. F. FREEMAN, Gen. Mgr.

is operated on U. S. Railroad Principles

When press despatches burned the wires with the announcement that President Wilson had taken over the railroads, an electric thrill passed through the great body of the nation. For a second people were dazed. And then the great fact dawned on them; that the nation has passed through a gigantic economic movement for traffic stabilization, that the public welfare would come first and private profits were no longer a first consideration. From the four corners of the greatest nation of the world arose a shout of praise.

While the Railroads of the United States represent an investment of billions and Triangle investment is but a fraction of this great sum; and while the railroads are a great governmental institution and Triangle but a private enterprise; yet principles of a common nature govern both and make Triangle worthy of more than passing attention.

Triangle, in stabilizing the production and distribution of its pictures and issuing them in a program of the highest merit and utmost box-office power, has solved the problem of exhibitors who wish to be constantly certain of consistent service and ever-growing patronage.

Triangle has first and foremost the welfare of the exhibitor at heart. The success of Triangle exhibitors means the continued success of the Triangle investment of millions at the Culver City studios, and of the great Triangle distributing organization.

Triangle strikes at the heart of commercial weakness—waste. Like the government, it will have no empty freights lying on side switches because of inefficiency. Every dollar of investment brings its proper return. Directors are artists who plan before they produce. Waste is as hateful in Triangle as a snake to a plainsman. The standing order is, "Kill Waste."

There is a to-morrow, Mr. Exhibitor, which is as important as to-day. To-day should bear its profits but to-morrow will see the public convinced that you and not your competitor are to be the continued success. Triangle exhibitors face to-morrow confidently, knowing that they are more than making good with the public to-day.

Get aboard the Triangle train. Triangle steam is up. There's a Triangle track ahead of you that leads straight to success. Any Triangle exchange manager or salesman will insure your passage to Triangle Service. RUN TRIANGLE.

TRIANGLE

1457 Broadway
New York City

The Kind of Pictures that Make Money in War Times

BECAUSE:

They are first class entertainment.
They are fascinating and intensely interesting.
They carry pleasing, cheering comedy action.
They raise the spirits and your patrons go home thoroughly satisfied.

AND BECAUSE:

the public in these times of depressing war conditions, are satiated with the grim and tragic and wish to see pictures with the joy of life.

LOOK THEM OVER

"SADIE GOES TO HEAVEN"
Presenting Little Mary McAlister

"THE DREAM DOLL"
Written and directed by Howard S. Moss

"THE SMALL TOWN GUY"
Presenting Taylor Holmes

"GIFT O' GAB"
Presenting Jack Gardner

"TWO BIT SEATS"
Presenting Taylor Holmes

"YOUNG MOTHER HUBBARD"
Presenting Little Mary McAlister

"THE FIBBERS"
Presenting Bryant Washburn

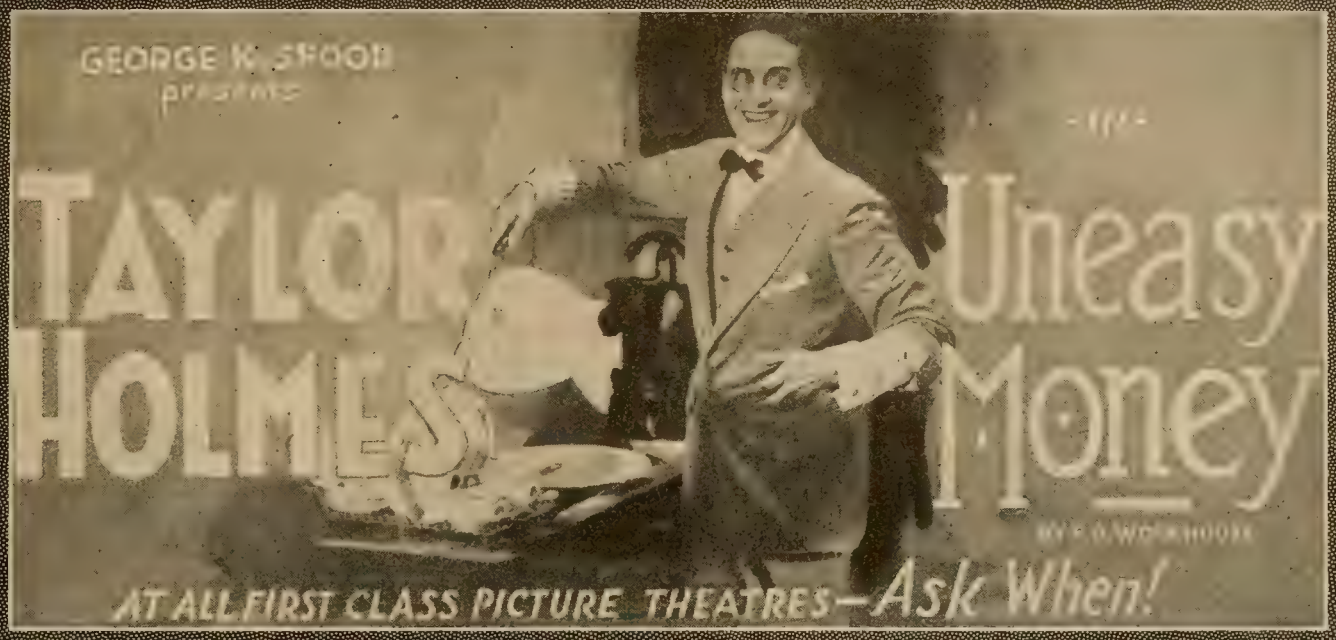
"FOOLS FOR LUCK"
Presenting Taylor Holmes

Screen time 65 minutes

Essanay

Distributed by George Kleine System throughout the United States.

Perfection Pictures



What the Critics Say

"'Uneasy Money' is another Taylor Holmes SURE WINNER. It cannot fail to please everyone."—Exhibitors' Trade Review.

"A story that holds the spectator in its meshes from the first to the last scene."—Moving Picture World.

"Clean, humorous, interesting—with an inimitable screen entertainer."—Exhibitors' Herald.

"Humor keenly infectious under the skillful treatment of Taylor Holmes."—Dramatic Mirror.

Paramount

Distributed by George Kleine System Throughout the United States

Perfection Pictures

The Thomas A. Edison Studios

present

A Seven-part super-feature of romance and action

"The UNBELIEVER"

based upon the story "THE THREE THINGS
by
Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews
featuring
RAYMOND McKEE and MARGUERITE COURTOT

To be released February 11, 1918

distributed through
THE GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM
63 East Adams Street, Chicago
Branches in all principal cities

NOW BOOKING

Perfection Pictures

The Thomas A. Edison Studios present

JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG'S

"GIRLS YOU KNOW"

Types of attractive Americans

A series of twelve original, humorous single-reel stories featuring distinctive types of attractive girls

First release January 2, 1918 with succeeding releases every two weeks thereafter.

Distributed by THE GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM

Perfection Pictures

63 East Adams Street, Chicago
Branches in all principal cities

SELECT SP PICTURES

ALICE BRADY

re-creates one of the famous characters of fiction in the new production which she has recently finished for Select Pictures. With wonderful sympathy and meticulous fidelity to type she has brought to the screen in a living, moving, feeling portrayal of Charlotte Bronte's immortal "Jane Eyre," beloved heroine in the deathless romance of the same name. It is Alice Brady's finest achievement on the screen, and Select Pictures Corporation is proud to present it.

WOMAN AND WIFE"

Adaptation by Paul West; direction by Edward Jose.

Distributed by

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

SELECT SP PICTURES

Exquisite flowering of the camera's art-- An orchid of the screen!

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

AND HER OWN COMPANY

present

"The Marionettes"

from the play of the same name

by PIERRE WOLFF

Directed by EMILE CHAUTARD

Distributed by

Select Pictures Corporation

729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

Distributed by

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

THE MOST STARTLING AND UNFORGETABLE

COMING TO BROADWAY SOON

THE WONDER STORY OF THE AGE

TARZAN OF THE APES

BY EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS
DIRECTED BY SCOTT SIDNEY

COMMENT

This is a romance of the African forests, more fascinating, more unforgetable than any story of many past seasons.

Tarzan is the orphaned son of a British nobleman, adopted while a baby by a tribe of anthropoid apes and cared for during his childhood and youth by a fierce animal foster-mother. He learns all the secrets of the wilds, he acquires the strength and agility of his associates, and in time his human intelligence aids him in becoming the leader of the tribe.

His fearless encounters with the jungle terrors, his slowly dawning realization that he is a man, his pathetic efforts to add to his knowledge, are experiences such as have been nowhere else described with so absorbing an interest.

When he meets with others of his kind and is able to note the strange differences; when he sees the woman who should be his mate but is separated from him by insurmountable obstacles, even greater trials are before him.

It is more than a strong, unique story —it is one that will be remembered and read again and again through the coming years.

CAST

ELMO LINCOLN	ENID MARKEY
TRVE BOARDMAN	KATHLEEN KIRKHAM
THOMAS JEFFERSON	BESSIE TONER
GEORGE FRENCH	GORDON GRIFFITH

THE NATIONAL FILM CORP. OF AMERICA

PRODUCERS

NEW YORK OFFICE 1604 BROADWAY

STORY EVER WRITTEN

CIRCULATION OF THE STORY

1,700,000 BOOKS SOLD

6,000 NEWSPAPERS PUBLISHED IT SERIALLY OVER A PERIOD OF ONE YEAR.

PUBLISHED IN 14 LANGUAGES INCLUDING

ENGLISH - FRENCH
GERMAN - GREEK
AUSTRIAN - RUSSIAN
ITALIAN - HUNGARIAN
JAPANESE - TURKISH SPANISH - PORTUGUESE
ETC.

MAIN OFFICES AND STUDIO
HOLLYWOOD, CAL.

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE
WILLIAM A. BRADY,
Director-General
WORLD-PICTURES present
JUNE ELVIDGE
IN
"The Strong Way"
WITH
JOHN BOWERS
Directed by GEORGE KELSON

MABEL NORMAND in "MICKEY"

7 reels

"MICKEY WILL HIT THE BULLS-EYE and prove a magnet for old and young just as soon as the theatres begin to display their 'MABEL NORMAND in MICKEY HERE THIS WEEK' banners."

from~

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

January 12~1918

WORLD RIGHTS CONTROLLED BY

WESTERN IMPORT CO.

1010 BROKAW BLDG.
NEW YORK CITY.

"THE LITTLE GIRL YOU WILL NEVER FORGET"

MABEL NORMAND
in
"MICKEY"

7 reels

A PHOTO PLAY THAT CALLS FOR THE EXPRESSION OF EVERY HUMAN EMOTION

THE LONG WAITED FOR MACK SENNETT
$300,000
PRODUCTION

WORLD RIGHTS CONTROLLED BY
WESTERN IMPORT CO
1010 BROKAW BLDG· NEW YORK

FORCE! POWER! STRENGTH! ATTRACTION!

Are the distinctive qualities of our HART Superfeatures.

WILLIAM S. HART

1 "The TWO-GUN MAN" in "The BARGAIN"
6 reels
2 "The BANDIT and the PREACHER"
5 reels
3 "The HELL-HOUND of ALASKA"
5 reels

W. H. PRODUCTIONS CO.

71 WEST 23rd St. PHONE GRAMERCY 3027 NEW YORK

To STATE RIGHTS BUYERS

MACK-SENNETT 28 KEYSTONE COMEDIES

TWO-REELERS

SYD CHAPLIN - CHESTER CONKLIN - FORD STERLING - MABEL NORMAND - CHARLIE CHAPLIN - MACK SENNETT - CHAS. MURRAY - MACK SWAIN - FATTY ARBUCKLE

SUCCESSES

THE SELECTED BEST OF THE ENTIRE OUTPUT

INCLUDING 3 of the FUNNIEST

CHARLIE CHAPLINS

AND THEY ARE COPYRIGHTED

$80. A REEL & WE PAY WAR TAX

ALL PRINTS from ORIGINAL negatives which we absolutely OWN and CONTROL

SOME TERRITORY STILL OPEN

W.H. PRODUCTIONS CO.

71 west 23rd st.
phone Gram 3027

N.Y. CITY

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL

REQUESTS THE ATTENDANCE

OF

TRADE AND PROFESSION

AT

THE PRE-RELEASE SCREENING

OF

THE EPIC MOTION PICTURE

PRESENTING
THE PRE-EMINENT ACTOR

MR. ARNOLD DALY

IN

MY OWN UNITED STATES

A PHOTO-PLAY PRODUCTION OF POTENT PATRIOTISM

BY

MR. ANTHONY PAUL KELLY

DIRECTED

BY

MR. JOHN W. NOBLE

PRESENTATION PROMPTLY AT TEN O'CLOCK, THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY SEVENTEENTH, AT THE RIVOLI THEATRE, BROADWAY AT FIFTIETH STREET, UNDER SUPERVISION OF MR. S. L. ROTHAPFEL AND DR. HUGO REISENFELD.

APPLY FOR CARDS OF ADMISSION TO

THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, PRESIDENT

EXECUTIVE OFFICES :: TIMES BUILDING, NEW YORK

FROM YUKON'S RUN TO

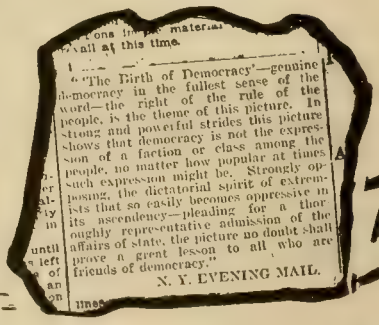
FRANCO-CLARION CALL OF

"THE BIRTH OF"

A GRIPPING STORY OF SACRIFICIAL LOVE

A SUPER SPECTACLE OF ELEMENTAL PASSION

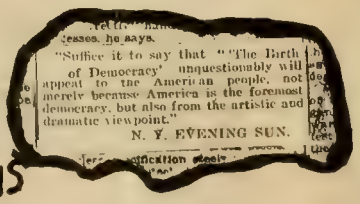
READ THIS →



"The Birth of Democracy"—genuine democracy in the fullest sense of the word—the right of the rule of the people, is the theme of this picture. In strong and powerful strides this picture shows that democracy is not the expression of a faction or class among the people, no matter how popular at times such expression might be. Strongly opposing the dictatorial spirit of extremists that so easily becomes oppressive in its ascendency—pleading for a thoroughly representative admission of the affairs of state, the picture no doubt shall prove a great lesson to all who are friends of democracy."

N. Y. EVENING MAIL.

AND THIS



"Suffice it to say that "The Birth of Democracy' unquestionably will appeal to the American people, not merely because America is the foremost democracy, but also from the artistic and dramatic viewpoint."

N. Y. EVENING SUN.

FOR TERRITORIAL

EXPORT & IMPORT
729 SEVENTH AVE

N.Y. STATE AND NORTHERN
NEW JERSEY DISTRIBUTORS
MERIT FILM CORP
126 W. 46TH ST N.Y.C.

FROM THE ATLANTIC COAST

THE CARRIBEAN SEA
AMERICAN TRIUMPH DEMOCRACY
LYDA BORELLI
IN HER FOREMOST EFFORT SUPPORTED BY HUNDREDS OF ARTISTS AND A CAST
OF TEN THOUSAND
"The love interest is so masterly interwoven in this stupendous spectacle, that while the mind is overcome with the greatness of the theme, the heart pulsates with sympathy for the beautiful heroine."
N. Y. EVENING WORLD.
"As a rule we do not like pictures made across the seas, but 'The Birth of Democracy' is quite different. Not for a moment is the thread of elementary human passion lost in the great medley of action that of necessity has its place in a presentation of so momentous an issue as that shown in this picture. The picture is exquisitely staged, and one can easily believe that the filming of it may have taken three years."
N. Y. TRIBUNE.
AND THIS
AND THIS RIGHTS
FILM CO. INC.
NEW YORK CITY
CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA, NEVADA
DISTRIBUTORS
M. & R. FEATURE FILM CO
107 GOLDEN GATE AVE.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
TO THE PACIFIC SLOPE
EGGERS, INC. N.Y.

TO CONTENTS

Addresses of Film Exchanges....564
Adventures of a Film Critic....506
Advertising Aids for Busy Managers....570
Advertising for Exhibitors....511
Aluminum Company Builds Perfect Theater.550
Allied Exhibitors Plan Formed....486
At Leading Picture Theaters....484

Baltimore Filmdom Doings....549
Bay State Amusements Must Close at Ten...548
"Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds, The" (World)....522
Berman Finds Outlook Promising....492
"Bogus Uncle, The" (Sunshine)....525
Border Towns, Picture Theater Problems in.559
Bowers, John, with World Film....503
"Bride, The" (Edison)....527

Calendar of Daily Program Releases....568
Chadwick, J. E., "Eye" of Ivan....499
Chicago News Letter....494
Chicago Picture Men in New York....490
Cleveland Screen Club Turns Over New Leaf.552
Cobb, Irvin, When He Sold Cold Stuff....490
Comments on the Films....530
Control and Regulation....520
Crandall Tells of New Theater....550

"Daybreak" (Metro)....529
Deibel, Ivy, Wins Fox Contest....506
"Devil's Playground, The" (Fraternity)....527

Educational Comedy....479
Emerson and Loos Go to Paramount....492
"Evidence" (Triangle)....527
Exhibitors Elect Officers....488
Explanation, An....493
Exposition to Have Aircraft Exhibit....491

Facts and Comments....477
Film Exchange Board of Trade Reorganized.561
Film Stories....578
"Flames of Chance, The" (Triangle)....527

Foreign Trade News....520
"For Liberty" (Fox)....528
Freuler Announces "Screen Telegram"....490
Fuel Problem Not Pressing Near Forests....552

General Enterprises Acquire "Crucible of Life"....502
Gordon, Eva, in "Under Suspicion"....521
Grinding the Crank....505

Health Board's Code for Theaters....555
"His Mother's Boy" (Paramount)....524
How it is Done at the Strand....519

"In Bad" (Mutual)....526
Income from 800-Seat Theaters....553
Indianapolis Palms Theater to be Made New.556
Indian Notes....520
Irving, George, to Direct Metro....492

"Jules of the Strong Heart" (Paramount)...526

Kane Covered Hardware Convention, How...503
"Kitchen Lady, The" (Paramount)....526

Lesser, Sol. L., Undergoes Operation....499
List of Current Film Release Dates, 582, 584, 586, 588

"Madam Spy" (Universal)....522
Manufacturers' Advance Notes....532
Markova's, Sonia, Release Ready....489
Maryland Censorship Fight....487
Mastercraft Forming Producing Company...491
"Men Who Have Made Love to Me" (Essanay)....524
Miami Valley Exhibitors and Footage Tax..551
Minneapolis Filmdom Doings....557
Motion Picture Educator....507
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The....487
Motion Picture Photography....518
"Mrs. Dane's Defense" (Paramount)....525
Music for the Picture....510

Nashville Public Demands Sunday Pictures.554
New Orleans' Year Opens with Frolics....558
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity....496
"No Money—No Fun" (Sunshine)....525
North Carolina Convention Date....488

Oakes, Jean S., Dies....499
"Our Mutual Motor" (Metro)....528
Paralta's Eastern Scenario Department....489
Paramount-Artcraft Exchange Men Meet....485
Philadelphia Pathe Enters New Office....549
Photoplaywright, The....514
Picture Theaters Projected....545
Portland, Ore., Suffers Film Delays....563
"Price of Folly, The" (Pathe)....523
Projection Department....515

Reviews of Current Productions....521
Returned With Thanks....478
"Rose of the World" (Artcraft)....524
Russell, "Bill," Entertains Press....491

St. Louis, First Nat. Circuit Office in....560
Sales of the Week in the State Rights Field.501
Seattle's Coliseum Gives Red Cross Frolic....562
Shallenberger & Priest Handle Warren Productions....501
Some Class to Directors' Ball....484
"Son of Democracy, The"....481
Spokes from the Hub....504
State Rights Department....499
"Stolen Hours" (Fox)....523

Tendency Among Theaters to Combine....493
Tie the Bull Outside....480
Tucker Strong for Careful Titling....519

"Uplifters" Boss War Films....482

"Wild Strain, The" (Vitagraph)....523
"Wolves of the Rail" (Artcraft)....529
"Woman and Wife" (Select)....528

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
National Carbon Co.... 590
Speer Carbon Co.... 585

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
Steel Furniture Co.... 579

ELECTRICAL AND MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
Amusement Supply Co.... 589
Exhibitors Supply Co.... 579
Moving Picture Machine Co.... 580
Porter, B. F.... 574
Swaab, Lewis M.... 578
Typhoon Fan Co.... 579
United Theater Equip. Corp.... 591

FILM EXCHANGES.
Film Exchange, The.... 580
H. & B. Film Service Corp.... 579
Liberty Film Rental Co.... 583

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Bausch & Lomb Opt. Co.... 585

LOBBY DISPLAYS.
Kraus Mfg. Co.... 578

MANUFACTURERS OF INDUSTRIAL PICTURES.
Cromlow Studios.... 578
Duhem M. P. Co.... 589
Erbograph Co.... 568
Evans Film Mfg. Co.... 580
Gunby Bros.... 577
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.... 569
Standard M. P. Co.... 579

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
Clune Producing Co.... 577
Edison, Thos. A., Studios....464-65
Essanay Film Mfg. Co....439, 462-63
Export & Import Film Co....474-75
Fox Film Corp....450-51
Frohman Amusement Corp.... 473
Goldwyn Pictures Corp....448-49
Hodkinson, W. W.... 455
Inter-Ocean Film Corp.... 458
Jewel Productions, Inc....438, 452-53
Mutual Film Corp....Colored Insert, 447
National Film Corp....468-69
Paralta Plays, Inc....456-57
Paramount Pictures Corp....442-45
Pathe Exchange, Inc....Colored Insert
Petrova Picture Co....Colored Insert
Pyramid Comedies, Inc.... 454
Select Pictures Corp....466-67
Triangle Distributing Corp....460-61
Universal Film Mfg. Co....440-41
U. S. Exhibitors Book. Corp.... 459
Western Import Co....Colored Insert
Wharton Releasing Corp.... 446
W. H. Productions....571-72
World Film Corp.... 470

MISCELLANEOUS.
Anti-Censorship Slides.... 589
Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co.... 580
Bioscope, The.... 578
Brookins Co., The.... 587
Cine Mundial.... 590
Cinema, The.... 589
Classified Advertisements.... 581
Community Motion Picture Bureau.... 583
Eastman Kodak Co.... 583
Kinematograph Weekly, The.... 577
LaCinematografia Italiana.... 577
Moore, Wm. N.... 577
Moving Picture World....546-47
M. P. Circulation Coupon.... 555
M. P. Directory Co.... 589
M. P. Electricity.... 585
National Ticket Co.... 576
Our Boys In France Tobacco Fund.... 580
Richardson M. P. Handbook.... 587
Sellers, Benj., & Sons.... 589
Thanhouser Film Corp.... 545
Williams, A. F.... 579

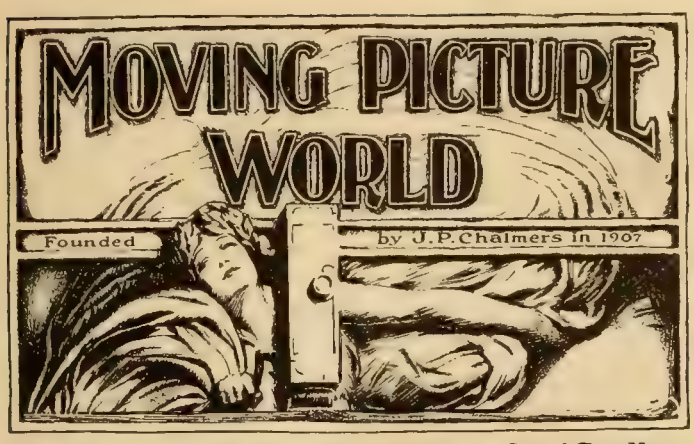
MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Bass Camera Co.... 578
Burke & James, Inc.... 587

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photoplayer Co.... 578
Marquette Piano Co.... 587
Sinn, Clarence E.... 577

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.... 579
Power, Nicholas, Co.... 592
Precision Mch. Co.... 575

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Gold King Screen Co.... 577

THEATRICAL ACHITECTS.
Decorators' Supply Co.... 589



Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

516 FIFTH AVENUE, AT 43D STREET, NEW YORK CITY

(Telephone, Murray Hill, 1610, 1611, 1612, 1613.)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
James L. Hoff.....Managing Editor
A. MacArthur, Jr.....Advertising Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—610-611 Wright and Callender Building, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4640.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Cuba, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands.....$3.00 per year
Canada.....3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid).....4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time should be allowed for change.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 516 Fifth Avenue, at Forty-third Street, New York, and not to individuals.

CINE-MUNDIAL, the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 516 Fifth Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American and Spanish-speaking market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, January 26, 1918

Facts and Comments

IN this issue we are publishing an article, the result of considerable careful research and in which we endeavor to present the moving picture industry's side of the all too evident lack of real accomplishment in the work of assisting the Government. No doubt many of those appointed on the various committees have made little or no effort to buckle down and do things or to give the needed time. There is much to be said on the other side, however, and we believe the article in this issue indicates several reasons why the moving picture has come far short of what many of us hoped for in actual and concrete results. There can be no doubt of President Wilson's desire to secure and use to the fullest possible extent the co-operation of the whole industry in the nation's task. A lack of confidence, or whatever else it may be, on the part of the Government, either in the ability or integrity or sincerity of the moving picture men, seems so far to have seriously nullified most of our efforts even in spite of such work as was done throughout the country for the Liberty Loans, especially the last one. Were we expecting too much?

* * *

WE are still in the midst of rumors as to new combinations and consolidations of prominent interests in the producing and distributing ends of the business. Most of these so far are vague and indefinite and largely speculative conjecture as to what might be done. We will not attempt to prophesy but we are convinced that more than one important change will take place in the near future, simply because they must. There is so much that can be accomplished in the way of reasonable economy and better service in the renting and distributing end of the business, that present conditions cannot continue nor can these opportunities be ignored. We also believe that these improved conditions will be brought about by the men now actively engaged in the business and this despite the rumors of consideration of the possibilities by large outside financial interests.

* * *

GETTING down to bed-rock is hard work, but we have got to do it. There is a task ahead of us; a big task, the biggest task we have ever tackled, and we are going to finish it, but only a small percentage of the nation yet realizes what is needed. In the great nation-wide preparation everyone will be affected, everyone must do his part, every industry must readjust itself and the picture business much more than many others. To the picture business, however, and perhaps to it more than to any other activity, this may prove a blessing in disguise. The necessary pruning process will undoubtedly produce a more rapid and drastic result than could have been obtained by years of reasoning and experimentation. Many things may have to be eliminated that have been considered essential and which may prove to have been altogether non-essential. Certain it is that much of the senseless and useless extravagance in film production and distribution will be done away with, to the great permanent gain of everyone.

* * *

IN discussing trade conditions and prospects with an old time and successful small town exhibitor recently, we were asked several questions that provoked consideration. Are there as many of the young people attending our theaters as there were a few years ago and have they gone elsewhere because the present multiple real subjects do not interest them as much as the old time varied program of single and double reel subjects? If they miss the first of the feature nowadays, it means a wait of an hour and a half and they do not wait. There were many more theater patrons than the young people who liked to drop in for an hour in the afternoon or in the evening, but who gave it up when they had to wait for two or three reels to get an intelligent start somewhere in the program. True, we have gained a better type of patron in some ways, but have we gained them in sufficient numbers to offset the loss of the others? Possibly not.

* * *

AS our readers will have noted, the weekly index to contents and advertisers will now be found each week on the page facing this one. The index to contents is made very full and complete, to enable busy theater managers and readers to quickly locate the departments and important news items in which they are more particularly interested. Consult the index regularly, otherwise you may miss something of especial interest to you.

Returned—With Thanks

By Edward Weitzel

UNDER the title "A Prophecy That Missed Fire" the Photoplay Magazine in its February number takes a good natured and well merited "barrage" at THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD for an article in the issue of June 8, 1912, which contains the prediction that as a concise and comprehensive term the word "Photoplay is being so seldom used that it may soon be forgotten, especially so now that the abominable 'movies' has risen. Like all such words, it may not last a generation, but this is written with the wish to drive it into oblivion as quickly as possible."

Many and momentous changes have taken place in the moving picture field during the last five years, and the name photoplay is now recognized as the proper designation for one form of screen fiction. Eventually, as the moving picture acquires a more complete classification, the photonovel will take its place on the list, and the drama and the novel of the screen will be as distinct in name as they are in fact. With this will come a vastly improved technique for both forms; and the photoplay will be dominated by the art of the dramatist and not by the master of pictorial effect. In spite of the warning conveyed in the first paragraph, the WORLD again enters the precarious ranks of the prophets!

And now will the Photoplay Magazine take, with equal good nature, a few comments upon the article "Now Who's the Thief," also published in its February number? The contribution would be a most excellent reply to Louis Defoe's remark: "I refuse to encourage the movies; they do nothing but practice thievery on the theater," only, unfortunately, it has no more foundation in fact than has the assertion of "the eminent dramatic commentator of the New York World." The screen did not invent the "fade-in," nor the fade-out," nor the "close-up." All three were used back of the footlights long before the moving picture was evolved. Stage history, probably, has no record of the birth of any of the three devices, but it is safe to hazard the opinion that they came in with the introduction of illuminating gas and the calcum light.

To the writer's knowledge the "fade-in" was used over forty years ago by Joseph Jefferson in his performances of "Rip Van Winkle." Rip's meeting with the phantom crew in the Catskill mountains was always introduced by a "fade-in," and the writer well remembers being sharply reprimanded in a stage whisper for moving slightly during a performance of the play, in which he appeared as one of Henrick Hudson's men, and did not realize that the audience might detect the move, so gradually was the scene taking shape out of absolute darkness. The mechanism employed was different from that of the camera, but the effect was the same.

Before the invention of the electric light, that fine actor and brilliant man, Frank Mayo, used both the "fade-in" and "fade-out" in the ghost scenes in "Hamlet." His arrangement of the appearances and also the disappearances were perfect examples of the two effects. The ghost seemed to come out of the air, the effect being secured by a complicated arrangement of scrim drops and skillful handling of the lights. His parting with his son on the battlements was wonderfully contrived. At the words. "Adieu, adieu, adieu! remember me!" the spirit seemed to melt into the surrounding gloom. A better "fade-out" was never shown on the screen.

The "close-up" was used in this country, in England, and in France, at least a generation ago. Henry Irving was the greatest master of his time of stage lighting and employed the "close-up" more frequently than any other producer of dramatic art. His most celebrated scene of this nature was the courtroom episode in "The Bells." The stage was set to represent the trial of a man for murder. Judge, jury, witnesses, spectators, all were there. But the curtain went up on absolute darkness. Then, out of the gloom appeared the figure of the accused, a strong light shining down upon him. The voice of the judge was heard occasionally, and other characters were dimly visible at times. But the attention of the audience was focused on the agonized face of the guilty man, as he strove to combat the evidence against him. The "close-up" was here used at its fullest power. Mounet-Sully, the French tragedian, employed the same effect in a novel manner in his production of "Hamlet." For the ghost scenes he had a calcium light in the center of the flies that threw a circle of light straight down on the stage. During these scenes Hamlet always stood within this circle, the ghost a mere shadow that seemed to float in the air beyond the light.

The list of examples could be added to indefinitely, but enough has been cited to show that the claim the screen created the "fade-in," "fade-out" and "close-up," is without foundation. The stage has sins enough of its own to answer for, without being accused of filching from a kindred art effects that were of its own invention, and which are now the common property of all.

By the way, when is this senseless bickering between the adherents of the stage and the supporters of the screen to cease? At the start, when it was the practice of many apparently intelligent persons to sneer at the moving picture, there was some excuse for childish resentment; but the photoplay has won its place as a recognized force in the worlds of amusement, education, and art, and its followers should not attempt to belittle the parent that gave it birth. If the prejudice of certain "highbrow" dramatic critics prevents them from rightly informing themselves as to the merits of the silent drama, nothing will be gained by displaying, intentionally or otherwise, a corresponding attitude toward the stage of Shakespeare and Irving and Booth; of Belasco and Hopkins and Minnie Maddern Fiske.

Guiding the Operator in Fade-Outs

A good friend of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD, a Brooklyn exhibitor operating two large houses, writes to us inclosing a clipping from the current Mutual Press Sheet entitled "Operator's Cues for Fading Reels." "Music cue sheets are made up on mostly all features," says our correspondent, "but a cue sheet for operator is very rarely seen, and I think all film companies should issue one with each feature. I know it would help exhibitors in the proper presentation of their features."

The whole item is comprised within the space of a dozen lines. As an example we have "Reel I—Julia talking to her father." The ending of each subsequent reel is indicated in a similar manner. The operator does not have to depend on the attention-distracting punches the first time he runs a film through a machine. He has his cue. Should he be uncertain as to whether he has before him the exact scene indicated a glance at his reel will resolve any doubt.

The expedient which has received the commendation of our Brooklyn friend would seem to be worth the consideration of producers.

Educational Comedy

By Louis Reeves Harrison

SOUNDS funny—doesn't it—the idea that there could be anything educational about comedy? Our own stupidity is the comic part of it, for there are no more powerful weapons known than those used by Mark Twain and other American humorists to show up the silly emptiness of human pretense, mental deficiency and intellectual turpitude, to more strongly establish our national sanity and common sense. Education is mental and moral training, cultivation of the mind, feelings, and manners, and few people are so badly in need of it as those who imagine that "readin', ritin' and 'rithmitic" constitute an education.

Suppose we consider only our material interests, take a socalled "practical" view of motion picture releases, and notice what the average audience favors. Watch closely at the exhibitions, and you will see that most satisfaction is given by beautiful "educationals" and comedies which show up the weakness of human nature in all its forms and guises. Moving pictures are already highly educational and they are becoming more so as producers get wiser and rise to their opportunities. The punch of these pictures lies in driving straight for intelligent interest with definite aim.

The definite aim with which comedy scores a hit is best illustrated in those which ridicule vanity conceit and false claims of superiority made less by ignorant people than by the half-educated. There is nothing more amusing than our poor old human craving for appreciation and approval. The self-complacency and extreme selfishness of the money grub is often tragic but we can only laugh at the man who spends for effect in this age of dawning sanity. It is in ridiculing silly pretense of superiority and all other hollow shams that comedy does its full share to make the audience soundminded.

Of course, there are all kinds of laughter, from the broad grin of the piccaninny with a slice of watermelon to the wan smile of a joke's victim, but the mirth of an audience is so keenly critical that it may be aroused at unexpected places. The director knows this and dreads it. We might as well dispense with the easily pleased and idiots—theirs, the stereotyped smile. Our inner energies bubble up most often because of a superior viewpoint—we are watching the troubles of the other fellow from a place of security. We hold tight to our own hats while we laugh at some unfortunate chase his scudding up the street.

Besides a lot of artistic activity in the audience mind there is ever present a sense of the fitness of things. We laugh to scorn the miser who is made to pay, because we detest avarice—we abhor it in others. But avarice is difficult to cure—it can be so easily concealed. Not so vanity—it is always out hunting publicity, unaware that nearly everybody sees through the hollowness of its claims. The social ceremonies of fashionables are as vulnerable as the importance of those grafters who sit in places of judgment, our political judiciary. The self-glorification of the actor makes him also a shining mark for ridicule.

Comedy is a healer, very often a caustic, for weak and diseased minds. Ignorance and stupidity may be ridiculed out of existence in the course of time. Comedy also acts as a counterbalance to those who aspire too much, who attitudinize far beyond their abilities, or of those unconventional Bohemians who excite derision because they are out of comprehension of the ideals and feelings of others. The comedy shepherd dog brings home to the common herd its lost, strayed and stolen, besides others about to wander beyond the bounds of common sense.

It is this sense of the fitness of things which makes an audience laugh at a human being lacking adjustment to circumstances. Men who hanker for the esteem and respect of their fellows, yet do nothing to deserve it, or conduct themselves in a sour, autocratic and offensive manner, put themselves beyond the pale of common sympathy and arouse an antagonism which is manifested in derision. We may only resent their attitude in life—we laugh at it in the play. This is particularly true of the newly-rich or the newly-empowered. The way they act, all unconscious that we see through their shallow pretense, furnishes rich material for comedy of clean and definite aim.

The screen may teach us to know ourselves, and it will do infinite good if it causes us to dispense with ludicrous assumption of superiority, one over the other, opposed as it is to the very essence of our form of government. Highly educational is comedy that dispels our illusions, restores our balance and keeps us normal. Just as we laugh at the vainglorious, we roar at stupidity and ignorance. It is almost beyond belief that applicants for life insurance should be guilty of saying, "Mother died in infancy." "Father woke up dead." "I have never been fatally ill." Yet those are replies on actual record.

Ignorance is the legitimate laughing stock of the whole world. Its pitiful side is its utilization, that of the German who may believe he is fighting for his country while destroying Serbia and torturing Belgium to death. It may be made contemptible in the American pacifist, either childishly perverse or so lacking in manhood that he longs to be conquered.

The two classes of people most unaware of themselves are the conceited on one hand and the ignorant on the other. These fools and their follies furnish more subjects for comedy than all others put together, and from the pictured stories of them we glimpse something within ourselves, become better acquainted with certain weaknesses we have been more or less successful in suppressing. "Know thyself" is a sort of education better taught by screen portrayals than in the schools. Comedy operates as a check on any tendency to get away from reasonable balance of character into silly affectations while it points ridicule at ignorance.

The significant wit of higher comedy can be utilized on the screen in subtitles. In fact, it is not an uncommon experience at the picture show for the subtitles to win all the laughs. There is something to think about in the remark of a rising young statesman of democracy to a titled diplomat, "My family begins with me—yours ends with you." These sharp points are often dulled on the stage by friction with other sentiments, but they stand out with cameo distinctness on the screen, where they are given more time, and the eye is quicker than the ear.

Wholesome comedy acts as a mental stimulus, bringing into play bright and cheering thought activities. On the other hand it is often humanizing even stirring our sympathies as Dickens did for people who were ludicrously weak; as Mark Twain and Bret Harte did for the foolish and erring. Among the brightest of recent screen comedies are those of a series dealing with the pranks of an American school girl. We are given a broader and better perspective of ourselves and our lives in such moving pictures. What tragedy teaches through struggle and suffering, comedy does through laughter and smiles.

"Tie the Bull Outside"

By Sam Spedon

THE proverbial bull in a china shop never created more havoc than the "bull" in the "movies." It ran rampant and got such headway, it looked as if it never would be checked in its mad career. The serious trend and lull that now pervades the industry has brought the exciting sport of verbal "bull"-baiting within the confines of its tether and sober judgment. We can't blame the "bull" because it was given free and untrammeled sway by the picadors of the pen who took such infinite pride in seeing how hard they could prod it with their mighty weapons, to arouse the admiration of a lot of sentimental "fans," as well as to excite the cupidity of a horde of "peanut merchants" and "shoe string" speculators.

You've Got to Hand It to Eve.

Motion pictures have forced their detractors to acknowledge their worth and in spite of every obstacle, command the respect of the world and now occupy a place among the arts and sciences. They have come into their own. Their producers, exhibitors and the public are taking them seriously, accepting them as one of the enlightening and elevating influences of the world. The old time "bull" is to-day a detraction, looked upon as a "camouflage." Those who produce and exhibit motion pictures must take them seriously if they want to hold their own. They must convince each other that they are sincere in their purpose to establish motion pictures and the industry upon high ideals and business principles, that will endure. A would-be producer, when consulted on methods of production and dramatic value said: "Vat do I care about dramatics and methods. All ve vant to do is make the people laugh and make 'em cry. Dat's all. De publicity man vill do de rest." That was six years ago. Today that standard should be only a memory and those who advocate it must seek pastures new.

Geting Down to Business.

The industry is getting bold and fearless in the expression of its opinions. If it keeps it up, we will get some real truths and plain facts. These opinions, when sincere, are going to bring us to a realization of our frailities and help the industry. In all earnestness, with no desire to offend nor to escape condemnation ourselves, we must say that the bane of the motion picture industry has been the superlative publicity and excessive verbosity in the press matter. Three pages of foolscap to tell one paragraph of facts. Without any bearing upon the announcement of a picture to be released, we are given a life's history of the whole office staff from the errand boy up. The notice of a star or a new comer often involves her or his whole family pedigree from the cradle to the grave. We are all anxious to get business helps and news and we want to get them quick and to the point. It is one of the first principles of efficiency, the conservation of time, paper, wear and tear of typewriter and the waste basket. If we expect to get down to brass tacks and actual business, we must tie the "bull" outside, to make room for all that is deserving of notice.

Resumé.

Recognition in print is a gratification and satisfaction.

Publicity is a weakness peculiar to the show business and temperamental life.

When publicity is distasteful to a man, it is a sure sign that others are getting what he wants.

"Bull" is an effort to strengthen what is too weak to stand on its own recommendation.

Thieves! Police!!

SOME barefaced crooks, who seem to be altogether too intimate with the film industry, are getting away with murder. While honest exporters and film distributors are paying good big money for the right to handle feature pictures in foreign parts, partiularly in South America, dupers and thieves are offering copies of the same features at the cost of the positive prints, or supplying the market in advance of the owners without right or title to do so.

How Do They Get Away with It?

In some cases where these crooks have been caught with the goods they have escaped prosecution, for some unaccountable reason, or else have proved an alibi. Under the very noses of the owners or distributors these thefts of films are of almost daily occurrence. Detectives have been employed to trace these thefts and yet we have heard of very few arrests and convictions. Motion pictures have furnished a fertile field for the ingenuity and trickery of dupers and film thieves. No sooner do we get these thieves under surveilance at home than they crop up in foreign fields where they are free from suspicion, to exercise their nefarious trade and undermine the prospects of legitimate business dealings there. While the producers and distributors are contemplating the glorious prospects of foreign trade after the war, the crooks are working night and day to get the start of them and steal their business.

Time to Wake Up.

With knowledge of these practices we cannot understand why the industry has not aroused itself to some concerted action to nip them in the bud and forewarn our unsuspecting trades people and Latin neighbors of the dangers of having any dealings with these crooks. The only hope of preventing an increase of these dishonest and open faced robberies, is to keep a watchful eye on the go-betweens in American and British ports, where they can be brought under the law and punished. There is altogether too much indifference displayed by the industry as a whole in a matter of such vital concern to the welfare of the industry.

MALITZ AND ENGLER OUT OF PIEDMONT.

The recent charges against Felix Malitz and G. A. Engler, former employees of the Piedmont Corporation, made by the government, has brought the following letter from that concern:

"Dear Sir: We herewith inform you that Felix Malitz and G. A. Engler have completely severed their connections with this corporation.

"The change of management does not in the least affect our business and any matters which are pending with your good selves or any future business with you, will be given the most careful attention. All letters should be addressed to the corporation and not to individuals."

A copy of the above letter was sent to all having any business connections with the Piedmont Corporation. Nothing will be permitted to interfere with the proper dispatch of business in the company's hands. Special attention will be concentrated on what shall be called the "Special Service Bureau," a department from whence authorative information concerning any export or import question can be procured for the asking.

Piedmont further announces a working out of their "Protective Plan." By this is meant an efficient method to protect producer as well as buyer from notorious pirating so rampant, specially in the export and import branch of the industry. In a word Piedmont's ship of State, clear of all possible encumbrances, will sail on full steam ahead for all concerned.

The Son of Democracy

By Edward Weitzel.

THE announcement that the Paramount Pictures Corporation has taken charge of the distribution of the Benjamin Chapin series of pictures first shown as "The Lincoln Cycle" and to be known in the future as "The Son of Democracy" heralds an important event for the screen. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD has already expressed the opinion that, "Not only every man, woman and child in the United States, but every lover of liberty in the civilized world, owe a debt of thanks to their creator. No finer or more impressive lesson in patriotism and right conduct is to be found than in the life history of Abraham Lincoln, and the truth and skill with which this lesson is set forth in the Chapin pictures is beyond all praise. They make clear the influences that moulded the character of our best loved president, and reveal with unmistakable lucidity the kind of Americanism for which he stood. Their use as propaganda at the present time would prove a powerful aid to the cause of that freedom for which the United States has entered the great war."

Since the foregoing words were written last April the march of world events has given them stronger significance. The example of Lincoln's clear vision and calm spirit is needed by everyone. Excellent as the pictures are from an educational point of view and also in their entertaining qualities, it is their ability to spread broadcast the firm principles and splendid humanity of this great son of democracy that gives them their chief value in this hour of death grip between the curse of autocracy and freedom for all mankind.

"The Lincoln Cycle," as planned by Benjamin Chapin, could hardly have been more comprehensive. Starting with the boyhood of The Great Emancipator, it follows the facts of his life up to his election to the highest office in the gift of his countrymen and continues through his career as president and his conduct of the civil war. The series will be released in ten two-part episodes under such titles as "My Mother," "My Father," and "The Call to Arms." Purely for their educational worth they should be given unstinted patronage.

So much skill and judgment have been used in selecting the material for the different episodes, and Lincoln the man has been made to live again all through the series in such a vital manner, that each number has the interest and charm of a piece of master fiction. The lessons to be learned from them are numerous and inspiring, and they teach clearly that humble birth and poverty are no bar to the being who is determined to rise above them. The stories are also filled with beauty—the beauty that comes from nobility of soul, of love and devotion that never knows weariness or harbors a thought of self. Such a character was Nancy Hanks, the mother of Lincoln, and her influence upon the boy, who saw her laid away when he was still a lad, never left him. This portion of the history is told with deep sympathy and understanding.

"The Call to Arms" is particularly timely. The almost overwhelming weight of responsibility put upon the shoulders of the chief executive of the country at war is brought home to the beholder; and the task now confronting President Wilson will be better understood after viewing the trials and heartbreaking obstacles that beset Abraham Lincoln under similar circumstances.

It would seem that the qualities already touched upon would be sufficient to insure the success of the series with any body of spectators. But life is made up of smiles and tears, of merry thoughts as well as grave, and most of the men and women at a screen theater do not take kindly to instruction unless they are being entertained at the same time. "A Son of Democracy" is always entertaining, and will often provoke laughter of the heartiest description. Lincoln's keen appreciation of humor and his talent for story telling are utilized to supply the comedy relief which is relished by all well balanced persons and which Lincoln so frequently used to lighten his own labors.

As to Benjamin Chapin's part in the production of "A Son of Democracy," it may best serve the ends of simple justice to him to again quote from the review written just after seeing the cycle: "To accomplish the result for which he has long labored Benjamin Chapin has brought a love and a zeal that are nothing short of apostolic. The form in which he has cast his cycle admits of no preceptible improvement. High as it ranks as an educational force and an authentic record of one of the chief figures in history it has the almost inestimable advantage of being entertainment in the best sense of the word. . . . As the author of the scenario and general director of the cycle and also as the impersonator of Abraham Lincoln and Tom Lincoln, his father, Benjamin Chapin's meed of praise must surely be a generous one. His unique fitness for the part of Abraham Lincoln has long been conceded, and he is quite as successful in his acting of Tom Lincoln. His domination of the entire acting force has insured an unbroken line of correctly directed situations, upon which neither time nor money have been spared."

Briefly stated, the screen has never produced a series of pictures in which serious purpose, healthful amusement and patriotism are more happily blended than in "A Son of Democracy."

FILM EXCHANGE ADDRESSES.

We refer all exhibitors and readers who are booking moving picture programs to the list of exchanges and renting offices throughout the country on pages 564-567. This list is alphabetically arranged, both as to titles and cities in which located and also contains a complete list of the brands handled by each group of exchanges. On account of the space required, we will only be able to publish this list occasionally, consequently would suggest that this copy be carefully filed for future reference.

MRS. WILSON SEES FAIRBANKS PICTURE.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President, attended a motion picture theater in Washington last week, when she viewed Douglas Fairbanks in his latest Artcraft picture, "A Modern Musketeer." The showing of this production at Loew's Columbia theater in Washington necessitated a guard of special police to handle the crowds which stormed the theater and proclaimed it the best picture in which Douglas has ever appeared.

CO-OPERATIVE FILM CO. ORGANIZED.

The Co-Operative Film Co., of New York, has been organized, with offices at No. 148 Duane street, New York. The company will supply American film and accessories to foreign buyers.

ANNOUNCING A NEW STATE RIGHT LIST.

A new and highly useful list will be carried in our next edition (February 2). It will identify the territorial right holders on every independently produced and state-right exploited feature. While every production that has been offered on a state-right basis within the past six months will be listed, it is also arranged that productions, older than a half-year, still enjoying a vogue, will also be recorded. The compilation will be detailed alphabetically according to each state in the United States and Canada, and will occupy several pages.

"Uplifters" Boss War Films

By Henry MacMahon

Secret Events Revealed Showing How and Why the Government Failed to Accept the Film Industry's Offer of Hearty Aid

WHILST the War Department in the matters of clothing and rag-picking appointed powerful manufacturers to the Supply Board and let the members award million-dollar contracts to each other's firms, the authorities have proved stern and unbending puritans as far as the films are concerned. With the exception of J. E. Brulatour, chairman of the National Cinema Commission, not an important man in the industry enjoys any authoritative connection with the vast Government motion picture work. This state of affairs represents the other extreme from the policy of giving representatives of an industry full sway. There must be a reason for it. It seems evident from all the facts below that the exclusion of the film men was based on a more or less deliberate plan to entrust the distribution of war films to social "uplifters" and philanthropists.

On June 28 President Brady of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry appointed Samuel Goldfish, Lee Ochs, Dr. Cranston Brenton, Mrs. J. Stuart Blackton and William Farnum a committee to co-operate with the National Commission on Training Camp Activities, Raymond B. Fosdick, chairman. Writing under date of Nov. 13, nearly five months later, President Brady says: "Mr. Raymond B. Fosdick for some reason has never seen fit to recognize this committee."

Late in August Patrick A. Powers, acting on behalf of the Association, saw Secretary Baker in Washington and offered to the Army and Navy the use of the past and present films of the organized manufacturers. Mr. Powers intimated that the makers stood ready to distribute free pictures to the camps and contonments from the regular film exchanges, thus saving the Government a large expense both for rentals and for overhead cost of distribution. Secretary Baker's reply praised the "generous proposal," which he accepted as far as the War Department was concerned, but he suggested that in carrying out the details Mr. Powers communicate with George Creel of the Committee on Public Information, "who has already somewhat similar plans in hand."

Y. M. C. A. Got the Camp Job.

Nothing practical ever came of the manufacturers' offer. Apparently it had never been intended to put the manufacturers in charge of the camp distribution. Creel's committee, in its Motion Picture Division, was straining every energy to send propaganda film abroad. As Mr. Creel himself wrote on October 1, "I made the distinct statement that I could not, and would not, consider the American situation at this time, since it was all important that we concentrate upon operations in France, Italy and Russia." Meantime the War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Association took active charge of camp pictures, appointing the Community Motion Picture Bureau, a Boston concern, as its official distributor.

Let us now go back to the National Commission on Training Camp Activities, for it was they who had selected the Y. M. C. A. as chief camp amusement exhibitor, and through Lee F. Hanmer, the Commission's delegate on pictures, had approved the choice of Community Motion Picture Bureau as distributor. The membership of the Commission includes representatives of the Sage and Rockefeller Foundations; John R. Mott of the Y. M. C. A.; an army officer; a physical hygiene expert and Marc Klaw, the "legitimate" theatrical manager.

Being unable to locate Chairman Fosdick, Mr. Powers wrote him on September 5, renewing the offer to the Government of free pictures (this time mentioning the troops overseas) and re-stating the willingness of the industry to maintain an organization for the handling and viewing of these productions. Not hearing from Mr. Fosdick, Mr. Powers sent a letter a week later to each member of the Commission. His purpose was to convey a clear idea of the plan so that all the members would be equally familiar with it, and he fully expected that at their next meeting the matter would be taken up. At this point Lee F. Hanmer steps into the story.

The reason Mr. Powers did not hear from Mr. Fosdick is that Mr. Fosdick turned over the Powers letter (as he had the previous Brady letter) to Mr. Hanmer. Mr. Powers and Mr. Hanmer missed each other at divers and sundry attempted engagements, though they communicated by letter and the Fosdick representative formally acknowledged the "generous offer of films and service," but as late as November 9 we find Hanmer questioning President William A. Brady: "Have you appointed him (Powers) as chairman of some special committee for this purpose or made him your representative?"

Hanmer's Doubts Are Resolved.

Mr. Brady at once replied:

"Mr. P. A. Powers is chairman of the committee named by the motion picture industry to co-operate with the Secretary of War. The National Association of the Motion Picture Industry represents 97% of all distributing and producing companies in the United States. All those that are not members of this organization are on our records with their desire and intention to co-operate with me in carrying out the instructions of the President of the United States in his letter of June 28: 'May I ask you, as Chairman by my appointment ,to organize the motion picture industry in such manner as to establish direct and authoritative co-operation with the Committee on Public Information, of which Mr. George Creel is chairman?' The motion picture industry stands ready to do its bit, and we await any definite suggestion as to how we shall proceed to co-operate with your Commission. Mr. P. A. Powers, treasurer of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, is a very capable and very patriotic gentleman, and if your Commission feels that this work should be placed under the supervision of the committee that Mr. Powers is chairman of, I shall gladly arrange it."

Satisfied as to Powers's credentials, Hanmer now took up with him detailed plans as to the extension of the camps' amusement facilities. He had already explained that the Y. M. C. A. controlled the picture auditoriums. He expatiated much on "the limited facilities in the various camps for motion picture exhibitions," the Y. M. C. A. and the Knights of Columbus buildings being practically the only ones where pictures could be shown. Of course there were also the regular theater buildings which the Government was putting up for standard plays and vaudeville. Mr. Marc Klaw, of the Commission, was specially interested in this work, and would no doubt be glad to accept some reels of film to go along with the vocal entertainment. The gist of Hanmer's tips and hints boiled down to this: additional buildings and equipment. "If you have any suggestions on this score," he remarked, "I shall be glad to receive them." He uttered the further warning, however, that anything of the sort mustn't be a money-making affair!

A Noble Offer That Went Begging.

Has the reader guessed it? The N. A. M. P. I.'s magnificent offer of free pictures from the entire industry to the soldiers and sailors of America—after having been footballed from pillar to post, and shelved as conflicting with the Y. M. C. A. program—petered out to Mr. Powers' individual patriotic offer, and the granted official permission thereto, to erect a "sample" motion picture theater at Camp Merritt. It is being built at the expense of the energetic Universal executive, with the aid of a few personal friends. The admission price to this Strand or Rialto of the army will be 5 cents. It will be a real theater, not a picture hall; will have all the music, scenic and back stage effects of the best houses, and only the current film successes—no back numbers, industrial films nor advertising films—will be represented. The soldier will step into it assured that he couldn't find a better, "livelier" program anywhere on Broadway. Films will be furnished free by the manufacturers and the entire net receipts after expenses of construction, will go to camp philanthropies.

Motion picture manufacture (it's now a commercial byword) is the fifth largest industry in the United States. As an art the pictures far transcend in importance the regular drama. Commercially the Government derives two or three times the revenue from them as from the old-line theaters, and the proportion of the popular appeal is as 10 to 1. It seemed reasonable to the manufacturers at this stage of the negotiations that they should ask for the appointment of one of their representatives to the Commission on Training Camp Activities.

When, however, this necessary recognition was asked for, they were informed that Mr. Marc Klaw already represented theatrical interests on the board and that was enough! Such an answer displays abysmal ignorance. It would be as sensible to have a bookman represent the musicians or a sculptor represent the costumes as to have a "legitimate" theatrical manager stand sponsor for the films. The distinguished services of the motion picture industry to the Government were then pointed out. The powerful help given to the Liberty Loan and Food Conservation Campaigns, the donations of positives and negatives for propaganda work in foreign lands were referred to, and it was argued that an industry helping the Government in such effective ways should surely be recognized on a Commission one of whose chief duties it was to show the industry's film products to the soldier boys. Chairman Fosdick replied: "There is no possibility of increasing the membership of the Commission on Training Camp Activities. The Secretary of War has felt all along that a small Commission was highly desirable for many reasons." This of a Commission that contains not one practical film man in its personnel! The utmost Chairman Fosdick would concede was the possible appointment of a cooperating committee.

The impasse as the result of which Walter W. Irwin's trip to Russia was cancelled and the departure of P. A. Powers for France in the interests of the National Cinema Commission was indefinitely postponed, did not make any smoother the relations between the manufacturers and officialdom. This was a dispute over procedure, powers and duties of the commissioners. The prospective commissioners felt that they should receive military rank to give them right of way and authority in military areas; that they should devise the system of film distribution on landing in the foreign country, according to their best judgment of conditions. All of the above seemed to them proper functions of an executive. Delegated authority should be ample; after the proper instrument is secured full confidence should be placed in it.

But just as the Commission on Training Camp Activities delegated no jot or tittle of its authority to the film-makers and distributors, so the Committee on Public Information (through Chairman George Creel) hesitated to clothe with full authority the foreign commissioners. At any rate, a magazine editor distributes the American films in Russia, no commissioner was sent to France, but F. J. Marion, of the Kalem Company accepted the Italian Commission and excellent reports are had from him.

The present situation as to Government films is as follows: First, as to the work in the training camps. With the exception of the Powers "sample" theater now going up in New Jersey, all the picture halls in the camps (over 500 in number) give free "movies" controlled by the Y. M. C. A. or the Knights of Columbus, as the case may be, the Community Motion Picture Bureau being the Y. M. C. A.'s agency of distribution. That bureau has moved its organization from Boston to New York and has established eight exchanges—in New York, Boston, Washington, Atlanta, San Antonio, Chicago, Des Moines and San Francisco. It shows the soldiers (1) the old stuff from its own shelves; (2) the official Government topicals and war pictures; (3) such of the manufacturers' current or standard features as it can buy or lease at less than commercial rates. Warren Dunham Foster, the head of the bureau, is a practical film man on the educational end. He aims at innocuous yet entertaining and inspirational pictures. Considerable criticism has emanated from the camps regarding poor condition of film, old prints and indifferent subjects. On the other hand, much really good stuff is being shown. For example, the bureau recently closed a contract with Walter Greene of the Paramount for run-of-exchange Paramount-Artcraft features (whatever isn't commercially booked up) at the uniform price of $8 per show. The bureau wasn't able to make the same arrangement for the soldier boys in France, as the French rights of Paramount are controlled abroad. The president of the bureau receives no salary, the subordinates are paid, and the total cost of distribution for the past six months, according to Mr. Foster, has been approximately $100,000.

Second, the National Cinema Commission, of which Jules E. Brulatour is the directive head in New York, and which is supervised from Washington by George Creel, deals only with the preparation and shipment of American patriotic pictures to foreign lands. These are intended to be shown to the civilian and soldier population of Allied and neutral countries. The work necessitates, in the judgment of Mr. Creel's committee, the printing up of vast amounts of raw film. Admittedly a large percentage of this is so-called industrial film, obtained in positive or negative from the factories or trusts that have recorded their own achievements in film. There is also much of the topical or news weekly character sent over, for which several of the film corporations have donated subjects. The cost of printing is 3½ cents a foot (with tax 3¾ cents). Many positives are donated. Those that are not are printed by the Commission at the charge of the Government—commonly in the laboratories where the originals were made.

Third, the Red Cross has received from the Government the sole rights of the commercial distribution of official war films. This means that the Red Cross has gone into the film business. After one or two fits and starts the organization has established a film headquarters at 120 West 41st street, where it is now engaged in cutting and showing film and will offer war features for sale a little later. The Red Cross, moreover, handles all the Government topicals, including such footage of Army and Navy scenes as the Creel Committee wishes to have published, and the news weekly editor—whether Universal or Hearst-Pathe or Mutual—is both a customer of theirs and a sworn-in employe of the Government. There was much complaint last month of the chaotic way in which the Red Cross topical film was kept, the disorderly accumulation of negatives and the lack of cataloguing, but, according to Mr. Creel, this neglect, due to hurried inception of the work, has been righted, and an effective means of taking care of negatives has been provided.

Fourth and last is the Motion Picture Division of the Signal Service. The primary object of this division is to make a pictorial history of our battles in France and elsewhere. In the draft are many expert cameramen who will be picked out of the ranks and assigned to this special work. In the same manner, drafted laboratory experts will work in the film development wagons close to the battlefront. It is known at the present writing that the Government will not rely on the drafted men altogether, but will employ others to supervise them. The commercial product of the Motion Picture Division—so far as the Government desires to publish any of these films—will be distributed by the Red Cross. The commander of the division at the present time is a professional army officer.

Keeping the Experts Out of It.

Looking over the whole field after this detailed survey, it is evident that the Government and its auxiliary agencies have gone into motion picture production, distribution and exhibition with the minimum of counsel from the wise heads of the industry and the maximum of direction by those unacquainted with the films. Part of it is the hurry and haste of feverish preparation, but unquestionably part of it is due to the desire to keep the Government film control out of the hands of professional film men and entrust it to semi-educational agencies.

The good aims of the Government to give the soldier decent films, to hand the Red Cross its toll or percentage on War Pictures, and to send much Ally propaganda abroad, are praiseworthy beyond measure. Some of the methods used, however, have met with deserved criticism from the industry. Let us figure how the ends of the Government can be better achieved by some necessary changes in the plans and methods.

There is no sort of objection to the Young Men's Christian Association as a viewer or even an exhibitor of motion pictures in its own halls throughout the thirty-two camps and cantonments. But instead of their paying for pictures as under the present method and often getting the poorest and cheapest ones, why not have the distribution of free pictures done by the film corporations direct? That offer has been made, and it should have been accepted long ago. It now appears that an "advisory committee" from the ranks of the manufacturing distributors is to be appointed to aid Mr. Hanmer. Keep the Community Motion Picture Bureau, if you will, as a viewing and selecting agency. Put a live film leader on the Training Camp Commission, and let him see to it that all the companies furnish as a freewill offering the new and current features that all the boys crave. Encourage also the Rialto type of theater with nominal admission charge, such as Mr. Powers is building at Camp Merritt. Since music and settings constitute 40 per cent. of the value of a picture entertainment, give the lads the whole feast and not a moiety. Send two or three able film men to France and have them cooperate with the military to establish the same conditions for the fighting forces.

As to the Red Cross Campaign.

In the name of common sense, why start the Red Cross in the film business? It would be much more reasonable to ask them to operate a chain of grocery stores. Try the better plan used by each of the Allied countries—a Government Pictorial Service to sell War Pictures directly to the distributor. That plan works out with the same result, i. e., the British Pictorial Service turns over the net proceeds of its business to the War Relief Fund. The charitable organization is saved from the undignified scramble for business and devotes all its energies to succor and help. There are plenty of brains in the industry to make the American Pictorial Service a brilliant success. Choose good men without questionable affiliations, pay them decent salaries and watch that service grow into the biggest in the world, yielding the Red Cross a splendid income for its beautiful and proper work. The appointment of an "advisory committee" from the manufacturers is now actually under consideration.

Get the authors busy writing for the National Cinema Commission. Titling, cutting and assembling of industrial and topical film is good, but it is not enough. Put stories into the propaganda. "Comrade Democrats," a model patriotic film, borrowed a little industrial here and a little scenic or topical there, but it held the narrative together by a thread of entertainment based on original characters and plot. The same can be done to enhance the attractiveness of every film that is intended to propagate our cause. Finally, send directors as well as cameramen to France. Commandeer Griffith and other good ones and let them plan the war-narrative consecutively. Audiences get tired of marching troops and dreary landscapes. Give them the thrilling fact-story instead.

We can all help and we all will help if the Big Bosses at Washington say the word.

Some Class to Directors' Ball

Coming Function at the Biltmore Will Approach the Last Word in Trade Social Events.

ARRANGEMENTS are practically complete for the ball to be given at the Biltmore Hotel on the evening of Saturday, January 26, by the Motion Picture Directors' Association and, according to the schedule, it will be some event as a trade social function. The number of invitations is limited to three hundred, the purpose being to prevent the ball room from being crowded; then the price of tickets is ten dollars—also calculated to provide standing room for the dancers.

But if the price may seem high the directors promise to give all who attend their money's worth. The ballroom will be especially and richly decorated by Urban; there will be forty pieces of music in the dance orchestra and a large and capable concert orchestra will be provided in addition. A buffet supper will be served and there will be a liberal supply of punch.

Altogether it looks like a big night and the editor intends to use his invitation even though he might have to make a visit to his "uncle" to dig up the necessary coin. From the mysterious air that has spread over the features and is controlling the actions of "Silent Bill" Haddock, press agent for the event, it is certain that there will be something doing at that ball.

W. A. BACH LEAVES UNIVERSAL.

W. A. Bach, who has just completed a tour of the Universal exchanges installing publicity service departments and also acting as personal representative of the general manager of exchanges, has announced his resignation from the Universal Company to take effect on January 19. When spoken to about his resignation Mr. Bach stated that as he had completed the work he was contracted with the Universal to do, his resignation simply meant a termination of contract.

Mr. Bach states that he has made no definite plans as yet and will be pleased to consider any proposition concerning the increasing of sales and the reduction of costs that may be placed before him.

JESSE L. LASKY LEAVES FOR CALIFORNIA.

Upon conclusion of the series of meetings held in New York last week at which all the Paramount-Artcraft exchange managers attended, Jesse L. Lasky, vice president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and head of all the production work of that company, left New York for California. In dividing his time between the studios of the East and West, Mr. Lasky is able to keep in direct touch with all the producing activities of the big organization.

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of January 13 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"Fields of Honor" at the Strand.

FIELDS OF HONOR," in which Goldwyn presented Mae Marsh at the Strand for the week of January 31, is a screen version of the popular Saturday Evening Post story of the same name by Irvin S. Cobb. It is a vital tale of a grim situation created by the present war. Only the distant rumbles of the European battlefields are heard in the action, but the tremendous grip it has on individual lives this side of the water is shown. Miss Marsh is supported by an exceptionally well balanced cast. "Animals in Midsummer," a Ditmars' Zoological picture; "Yellowstone Park," a scenic study in natural colors, and the Strand Topical Review concluded the film part of the entertainment.

A condensed version of "Carmen" and a violin solo by Mary Zentay made up the special musical features.

"Rimrock Jones" at the Rivoli.

Wallace Reid, in "Rimrock Jones," a Paramount production, was the feature of the Rivoli's program. The story is by Dane Coolidge, and the direction by Donald Crisp. The scenes alternate between New York at its smartest and a mining camp at its roughest, the star appearing as a young prospector who puts up a manly fight to retain a claim which swindlers try to take away from him. The plot has a new twist to it, and there are many comedy touches introduced mainly by George Kuwa, the Japanese, who has been seen in many recent pictures.

"The Hound of the Hills," in which Robert C. Bruce's famous dog is the only performer, is one of the most artistic scenic pictures ever screened; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in "Why Henry Left Home," the Helen Moller Pupils in a dance number and the Animated Pictorial were also shown.

The "Spinning Chorus" from "The Flying Dutchman" and a solo by Gladys Rieve were on the musical program.

"Jules of the Strong Heart" at the Rialto.

George Beban departs from his familiar Italian characterizations in "Jules of the Strong Heart," the week's principal photoplay at the Rialto, and appeared as a happy-go-lucky French-Canadian. The story by William Marion Rouse, originally printed in Collier's Weekly, deals with the life of the Canadian lumberjack, many of the scenes having been taken at a logging camp in Hoquiam, Washington. Mr. Beban's keen sense of comedy and the equally effective bits of pathos which he introduces find full scope in his new role. Donald Crisp directed the production for the Paramount Pictures Corporation. Among the supporting cast are Helen Eddy, Charles Ogle and Raymond Hatton.

"Kitchen Maid," a Mack Sennett-Paramount comedy; a new scenic feature, and the Animated Magazine balanced the bill.

Mlle. Madclaine D'Espinoy and Signor Bonelli were the soloists.

"Broadway Love" at the Broadway.

"Broadway Love" leads the program at the Broadway Theater. It is a screen version of W. Carey Wonderly's story of the same title, which appeared in Snappy Stories magazine. Dorothy Phillips is the star. A Bluebird feature in five reels, it graphically reveals life and love as it is to be found on New York's Great White Way. The cast includes William Stowell, Lon Chaney, Juanita Hansen, Eve Southern and Gladys Tennyson.

Eighty-First Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-first Street Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wenesday Bessie Barriscale in "Madame Who" was the feature. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday Mary Garden in "Thais" headed the bill.

TRADE SHOWING FOR FLYNN SPY SERIAL.

A trade showing of the first episodes of "The Eagle's Eye," the serial photodrama produced by The Whartons, founded on the story by Chief Flynn, exposing the ramifications of Imperial Germany's spy system in America, will be made at the Strand Theater next Friday morning, January 18, at ten o'clock.

Invitations have been sent to all exhibitors, representatives of the trade and to state and city officials, judges of the courts, clergymen, heads of patriotic, defense and war service organizations and to military and naval officers detailed at this station.

Paramount-Artcraft Exchange Men Meet

Series of Conferences Held to Discuss Distribution—Reports from Coast to Coast Prove Star Booking System a Big Success.

ONE of the most enthusiastic get-to-gether-meetings ever held in the history of the organization took place at the New York headquarters of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation during the week of January 7, which the branch managers from all over the country attended. The series of meetings was called for the purpose of discussing the distribution plans of the company for the coming year in connection with the releases of Paramount and Artcraft pictures.

At these conferences, it is announced, the reports from representatives in different localities throughout the country proved a most emphatic indication that the star series system of booking, inaugurated last Summer, is probably the most potent advancement in the distribution field since the inception of the photoplay. Glowing addresses by the branch managers announced the success of this plan of distribution in all parts of the United States and cited the appreciation of the equitable values of this system as expressed by exhibitors large and small.

Adjustments and revisions of schedules were carefully worked out to meet the conditions of exhibitors everywhere in the country and new plans pointing to better service and greater co-operation with the exhibitor were minutely discussed and adopted. The work accomplished as a result of the $1,000,000 advertising campaign and the hearty manner in which exhibitors are taking advantage of this big publicity drive, also received much comment.

Present at these meetings were Adolph Zukor, Walter E. Greene, Hiram Abrams, Arthur S. Friend, Al Lichtman, William L. Sherry, John C. Flinn, Max Goldstine, Frederick Gage, C. E. Tandy, A. D. Flintom, Herman Webber, Carl H. Pierce, Harry Asher, Louis Marcus, James Steele, E. V. Chamberlain and William E. Smith.

Zukor Celebrates Birthday.

Concluding the series of conferences a dinner at the Astor to the visiting representatives, the executive committee and the department heads of the Famous Players-Lasky organization and its affiliated bodies, was given by Adolph Zukor. This occasion marked the forty-fifth birthday of Mr. Zukor, and inasmuch as he did not know that his associates were aware of this fact, he was deeply moved and surprised when the Executive Board presented him with an immense silver loving cup. Jesse L. Lasky made a stirring presentation speech, after an appropriate introduction by Toast Master Elek J. Ludvigh, and expressed the great sense of appreciation felt by those present of all Mr. Zukor means to those closely associated with him as well as the entire industry.

In his speech Mr. Zukor fittingly thanked the members of the executive committee and others present for their loyal support of all his undertakings and cited the history of his organization since the very beginning. Greater co-operation with the exhibitor and the continued use of fair and equitable business methods in the pursuits of their daily work was strongly urged by him. In a talk that rang true with sincerity, the President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation presented a speech that clearly disclosed the reason for his present great success. His straightforward remarks were felt and appreciated by every one present and upon conclusion of his speech a storm of hearty applause was accorded him.

Other speakers of the evening were Jules E. Brulatour, who it is understood, has just been elected a member of the Board of Directors and J. C. Graham, the London representative. Those present were Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Eugene Zukor, Elek J. Ludvigh, Arthur Friend, Jules Brulatour, Emil E. Shauer, Walter E. Greene, Morris Kohn, Hiram Abrams, Al Lichtman, B. P. Schulberg, Ralph Kohn, Hugh Ford, Whitman Bennett, Frank Myer, Robert Macalarney, J. C. Graham, Arthur S. Kans, John C. Flinn, Charles C. Burr, Charles E. Moyer, Fred Gage, J. Albert Thorne, J. K. Burger, Pete Schmid, A. M. Botsford, Norris Wilcox, B. P. Fineman, Herman Wobber, C. E. Tandy, J. V. Chamberlain, Al Lichtman, A. D. Flintom, W. L. Sherry, William E. Smith, Max Goldstine, Lewis J. Selznick, Joseph Schenck and Julius Steger.

WANDA PETIT ONE YEAR IN FILMS.

Miss Wanda Petit has been a film actress just one year. During this time she has been with the William Fox forces exclusively. She has advanced rapidly from small parts to the position of leading woman, and has appeared with several of the Fox male stars, including William Farnum, George Walsh and Tom Mix. The principal pictures in which Miss Petit has been cast are "The Derelict," "The Broadway Sport," "This Is the Life," "The Heart of a Lion" and "Cupids Round Up." She has worked in both the Eastern and Western studios, being now at Hollywood, Cal.

Group of Famous Players-Lasky Executives, District Managers, Department Heads and the Company's Service Flag.

Left to right: Bottom Row—Al Lichtman, Hiram Abrams, Arthur S. Friend, Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Walter E. Greene, William L. Sherry.

Top Row (Standing)—John C. Flinn Max Goldstine, Frederick Gage, C. E. Tandy, A. D. Flintom, Herman Wobber, Carl H. Pierce, Harry Asher, Louis Marcus, James Steele, F. V. Chamberlin, William E. Smith.

Allied Exhibitors Plan Formed

Committee Appointed at Washington Convention to Consider Proposition of Manufacturing Group for Direct Distribution Submits Report

WHEN the convention of League and Association exhibitors met in Washington on December 11 and 12 representatives of a group of five independent firms appeared at one of the meetings and outlined a proposition for a direct service from the manufacturer to the exhibitor. The companies and their representatives were: Frohman Amusement Corporation, W. L. Sherrill and Joseph W. Farnham; Ivan Film Corporation, J. E. Chadwick; High Class Film Corporation, Harry Rapf; Triumph Film Corporation, J. A. Golden; Crest Pictures Corporation, Lester Park.

The plan as outlined by Mr. Farnham as spokesman for the producers made so favorable an impression upon the meeting that a special committee was appointed, to consider the proposition and to make a report at an early date. Accordingly C. C. Pettijohn and L. L. Levine, members of that special committee, got together in New York and after a week or more of hard work framed a tentative plan upon which the proposed service was to be based, and have issued a report covering the essential features thereof to be sent to the officers of the various exhibitor organizations. The report reads as follows:

A great convention of the Allied Exhibitors' Organization of practically every state and large city in the union was held in Washington, D. C., December 11 and 12, 1917. That convention considered and passed many constructive measures which will permanently benefit the entire industry. That convention heard a new plan from five independent producers for marketing films direct from producer to exhibitor. That convention unanimously agreed that the principle of direct dealing between producer and exhibitor is correct, and a committee was selected then and there to consider details and work out a plan with these five producers.

The undersigned was requested to send telegrams (82 in number) into the various states where the addresses of prominent exhibitors and various officers of the exhibitors' organizations were known by the undersigned. Over 70 favorable answers were received, and many suggestions and ideas, which have been invaluable in working out the details, were offered.

These five producers will pay the expenses of two or more prominent exhibitors to attend meetings called by exhibitors for the purpose of taking up this plan, and to then and there explain details and to represent both the exhibitors and producers in the closing of contracts to put this plan into effect at the earliest possible moment.

These same five independent producers whose proposition was approved realize and fully understand, from communications thus far received from prominent exhibitors, that they must make special feature attractions based upon stories with box office values. As a matter of fact these same men have made and are making some of the greatest special features ever distributed, and exhibitors have been buying them at very high prices through present distributing methods. Under this plan these five companies will compete with each other. Their profits are not to be divided, and the company making a highly successful feature will enjoy alone the producer's profits therefrom. These men can and they have pledged themselves to make pictures with box office values and drawing powers under this "direct sales" plan.

Here the committee gives some space in its report to the past productions of the different members of the producing group showing a very creditable record, and then continues:

I desire to here outline in greater detail exactly what these producers have in mind and those elements which, in my opinion, should appeal to the bodies of exhibitors throughout the country. These manufacturers propose to manufacture and release 52 picture a year, one each week. These manufacturers are ready and willing to enter into direct business relations with the exhibitor to the end that the large cost and profit incident to the present methods of distribution of special feature films may be eliminated, and tney offer to the exhibitor their combined product upon terms which are as follows: The pictures shall cost, together with prints, not less than $25,000 and not more than $50,000, the cost to be certified to by the manufacturer by his sworn statement.

To the gross cost the manufacturer shall add a sum equal to 25 per cent., which shall be his guaranteed minimum profit. This will make the gross cost of the pictures range from $31,250 to $62,500. This gross cost shall be taken up by all the 48 states in proportion to a just division based upon its number of theaters, number of cities, population, and all other data that goes to make up a fair quota for each state. Each state will have its allotment based upon this fair division, and the exhibitors of each state shall absorb the quota assigned to them. All revenue derived from distribution in excess of the minimum quota in each state shall be divided between the manufacturer making the particular picture and the exhibitors in each individual state using that picture; that is, 50 per cent. to the manufacturer and 50 per cent. to the exhibitors in rebates.

In order to make up the gross allotment there must be secured in the United States 2,700 days of bookings per picture. You will note from the following schedule the number of days' booking which we have figured for your state quota:

	Days		Days		Days
Maine	25	Florida	23	Kansas	86
N. Hampshire	10	Alabama	16	Nebraska	56
Vermont	9	Mississippi	15	Texas	75
Massachusetts	87	Louisiana	27	Oklahoma	46
Rhode Island	11	Arkansas	24	Utah	13
Connecticut	38	Michigan	100	Colorado	25
New York	375	Ohio	156	Wyoming	6
New Jersey	87	Indiana	101	Montana	24
Pennsylvania	205	Kentucky	38	California	80
West Virginia	33	Tennessee	26	New Mexico	8
Maryland	35	Illinois	188	Arizona	10
Dist. of Col.	12	Wisconsin	88	Nevada	4
Delaware	5	Iowa	125	Oregon	29
Virginia	24	North Dakota	26	Washington	38
North Carolina	24	South Dakota	26	Idaho	18
So. Carolina	15	Minnesota	101
Georgia	23	Missouri	87	Total	2,703

All amounts received in excess of these quotas would be divided as heretofore outlined, namely, 50-50.

You can readily see that all the receipts above the minimum quota above outlined would tend to reduce still further the cost to each exhibitor for the service by reason of the rebates and the profits contemplated.

I suggest to you that this matter is of sufficient importance to exhibitors to warrant their earliest attention, and that the proper way to bring it before them would be at an exhibitors' meeting, either through the state organization or through any organization you might suggest.

In submitting this report the committee asks criticism and suggestions from the exhibitors. It is also requested that the various exhibitors' organizations call meetings at the earliest moment possible at which meetings some one who is competent to discuss the subject will be present and who will also have authority to arrange details and submit contracts.

Mr. Pettijohn characterizes the proposition as "a sincere plan to bridge the gap between the two permanent branches of the industry."

MUTUAL MEN IN TOWN.

John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation; S. S. Hutchinson, president of the American Film Company, and Terry Ramsaye, director of publicity for the Mutual, were in New York during the week of January 6. The Mutual officials made some plans while here looking forward to big production plans. Mr. Freuler and Mr. Ramsaye returned during the week to Chicago, stopping in Philadelphia to attend to some legal matters.

NEW YORK'S NEW LICENSE COMMISSIONER.

John F. Gilchrist, the newly appointed Commissioner of Licenses of New York City, promises to be a very capable and affable official, with a broad grasp of his duties. He has occupied many positions of trust, including two terms as Under Sheriff of New York County, coming in close touch with economic public needs. While he is an unknown quantity to the moving picture interests, we are assured he will give a very satisfactory account of himself on all questions that may arise in that branch of his duties.

Scene from "Under Suspicion" (Metro).

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

Maryland Censorship Fight

Maryland League Starts Campaign to Secure Repeal of Present Censor Law.

THE opening gun in the campaign to be fought by the Maryland Exhibitor's League, for the repeal of the Moving Picture Censor Law, which has been in effect in that state since July, 1916, has been fired and much publicity has been given the matter. The League has opened headquarters in the New Theater Building, 210 West Lexington street, and it is understood that the committee handling the publicity end of the work includes Frank A. Hornig and L. A. DeHoff. Jack S. Connolly, a former well known newspaper man, is in charge of the campaign.

A bill has been prepared carrying a repeal of the censorship law in Maryland which, it is expected, will be introduced in both the House and Senate at Annapolis within the next few weeks. It is not the desire of the motion picture exhibitors of Maryland, in asking that this law be repealed, that their theatres may be used for the showing and exhibiting of pictures which would have a tendency to debase the morals of their patrons, and for the most part, many exhibitors take special pains to see that their pictures are thoroughly without taint before they are thrown on the screen for the public.

By the repeal of this law, it would not mean that Maryland would be without any sort of law for the restricting of immoral or improper pictures, for the police have always had the power to stop the showing of any pictures of this sort. Some of the arguments which are being put up by the Maryland exhibitors are:

The law has been given a fair trial and has been found wanting on many grounds, especially as a large revenue producer for the state.

The law gives opportunity to gag one of the largest sources of public expression.

The law gives opportunity for a small group of individuals to pass upon the views and tastes of the community and to arbitrarily say what the public shall not see without the public being given an opportunity to voice its own sentiments.

It is predicted that the revenue from the law will be wiped out during the year, due to the amount of film used in pictures being curtailed and to be further curtailed at the request of the government, which condition will cut down by almost a third the receipts of the Censor Board, which are based on the amount of film by feet which is censored. This, taken together with the additional allowance which is being asked for additional expenses of the board, will, it is thought, cause the revenue to be entirely wiped out. The Censor Board, it is shown, produced a revenue of $8,000 during its first year, with $4,000 to its credit during the first six months of the second year.

A pamphlet has been issued by the League entitled "State Censorship—What It Means." In this book the following facts are given: Emphasis is placed on Article 40 of the Maryland Constitution, which provides for the liberty of the press and the inviolable right of every citizen to speak, write and publish his sentiments, being responsible for the privilege. The history of the Censor Law in Maryland, its origin and result, is reviewed. An extract from Bagby's Annotated Code is given, showing plainly the police power already possessed in the state to deal with obscene or other improper pictures, without resort to the abitrary censor law. Extracts are carried showing George Creel's repudiation of arbitrary censorship, and editorials from many prominent newspapers throughout the country against censorship are given.

The officers of the Maryland Exhibitor's League are Frank A. Hornig, president; Louis Schlichter, first vice president; Eugene B. McCurdy, second vice president; W. A. Stumpf, treasurer; L. A. DeHoff, secretary, and J. Louis Rome, counsel. The legislative committee includes Louis Schlichter, J. Louis Rome, Eugene B. McCurdy and E. C. Sandell.

For several months, members of the League have been actively engaged in obtaining just what the sentiment of the general public is in regard to the censorship question both in Baltimore City and Maryland in general. Due to this investigation, they have come to the conclusion that the censorship law is an unpopular measure.

The work of the Censor Board is now in the hands of two people, Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison, of Baltimore, understood to be also in newspaper work, and Charles E. Harper, of Salisbury, of whom it is said that he spends as much time at home as censoring pictures. The vacancy which has been open for several months is still vacant. On this phase of the question, the Baltimore News, published this editorial on January 8, under the title, "Waiting for the Right Man":

"In Pennsylvania and Maryland," says D. W. Griffith, film play producer, "the moving picture censorship was made the football of party politics." The moving picture men desire no censorship, and this statement is part of their campaign to eliminate the Board of Moving Picture Censors in Maryland. But are we entirely innocent of their charge?

"William F. Stone, who was the minority member of the Board, died on September 16. His successor has not been named. Governor Harrington has never displayed especial haste in making appointments; but four months does seem rather a long time to search for a guardian of our movie morals. Is the Governor saving salaries? Or is it that the Movie Censorship Board isn't worth while, anyway? Or is it just that the Republican who is the Governor's ideal must possess other qualifications than those of aesthetic sensitiveness and ability to criticise intelligently the celluloid art? Not the last, surely; for it would be wholly incompatible with the Governor's official declaration that he is almost converted to the idea of the merit system. This, of course, precludes any suspicion that the job is being kept for dangling before Republican Legislator's eyes."

Coming League and Other Exhibitors' Conventions

(Secretaries Are Requested to Send Dates and Particulars Promptly)

North Carolina Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association at Raleigh, N. C.....January 17-18
Massachusetts and Rhode Island Branches, M. P. E. L., at Quincy House, Boston.January 22
New York State M. P. E. L. at Grand Central Palace, New York.....February 2 to 10

Manhattan Exhibitors Elect Officers

Annual Meeting of Local No. 1 Held Thursday, Jan 10. Will Seek New Headquarters.

MANHATTAN Exhibitors' Local No. 1 held its annual meeting for the election of officers on Thursday, Jan. 10, at 1 P. M., at its rooms, 218 West 42d street, New York City. The following slate was unanimously elected: John Manheimer, of Brooklyn, president; Charles O. Reilly, of Yorkville, New York, first vice president; Sol Coleman, of Bronx, second vice president; Ben Kelly, of Queens, third vice president; David Weinstock, Manhattan, financial secretary; Sidney Ascher, secretary; Morris Needle, Manhattan, treasurer; Gus Koemgswald, Brooklyn, sergeant-at-arms.

The retiring president, C. R. Martineau, was given a rising vote of thanks for the efficient and impartial manner in which he had administered the unexpired term of his predecessor—a well deserved compliment to Mr. Martineau, who had conducted his office in a most creditable way and held the organization together through one of its most trying periods.

The committee appointed to secure new quarters for the league made its report and said it had under consideration a building near the Godfrey building, West 49th street, which was eminently suited for the purpose. The committee will again report on this site at a special meeting to be held early in the week of Jan. 13. It is very likely the league will decide upon this location as a permanent club house. Grant Anson called attention to the Sunday opening case to be argued before the Court of Appeals in February and the bill to be brought before the New York Legislature on the same subject. He advised immediate preparation for meeting these movements. It was stated by one of the members that the National Association of the M. P. Industry had these matters under way and would prepare to meet them. Report of Treasurer Needle showed that the league has a considerable amount to its credit in bank.

NEW YORK STATE MEETING IN NEW YORK CITY.

The officers of the New York State Motion Picture Exhibitors' League have decided to change their place of holding their annual convention from Buffalo to New York City during exposition of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry and the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, at the Grand Central Palace, on February 2-10. This announcement was made by State President T. A. Buettner, requesting the endorsement of National President Lee A. Ochs. Notice will be sent to all the members of the organization in due course of time.

BAY STATE MEN MEET JANUARY 22.

The adjourned mass meeting and banquet of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island branch of the National League will be held at the Quincy House, Boston, on Tuesday, January 22, at 6 p. m. Tickets for the banquet, which may be had from E. R. Gregory at 127 Pleasant street, are $2.50 each.

One of the matters of importance to come before the meeting will be the descent of the Boston Boosters on the New York convention the first week in February.

H. B. VARNER ILL.

Hon. Henry B. Varner has been confined to his home at Lexington, N. C., for several days by sickness. Mr. Varner had made plans to remain in Washington almost the entire month of January, starting January 1, in his capacity as legislative chairman of the national organizations, but has been delayed in going on account of his indisposition. However, he expects to be able to go to his post this week and will remain until the North Carolina convention, in Raleigh, to be held January 17 and 18.

DETROIT EXHIBITORS MEET WEEKLY.

The Detroit branch of the A. E. A., now meeting weekly at the Board of Commerce, has added the luncheon feature to its meetings. In other words, the members can now come at 12 o'clock and have their lunch at the building and later go into a private room for its business meeting. The combination is proving quite an attraction to the members judging from the increased attendance each week. Thursday is meeting day.

North Carolina Convention Date

Meeting at Raleigh Will Be Held January 17 and 18—Important Matters to Come Up.

PRESIDENT PERCY W. WELLS has named Wednesday and Thursday, January 17 and 18, as the dates for holding the semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Exhibitors' Association, and every effort will be made to gather together a large percentage of the exhibitors of the state to go into session with the organization upon some of the gravest problems which ever confronted the industry of the nation and of the state.

Raleigh is the place, this having been decided upon at the annual convention last July, this city being selected because it is the State Capital and the State Legislature will be in session at that time. Several legislative matters of serious import to the industry in the state will engage a major portion of the sessions of the convention and an effort will be made to obtain immediate audiences with the various legislative committees touching on these matters while the convention is in session and thus obtain immediate action.

An important matter to come before the North Carolina exhibitors at this meeting will be the taking of formal action toward withdrawing from the M. P. E. L. of A. and alligning with the American Exhibitors' Association, and it is the concensus of opinion that the convention will be unanimous upon taking this formal action, notwithstanding the fact that conciliatory sessions between the two organizations at the recent Washington gathering led many to believe that there would be an amalgamation of the two in the near future. However, leaders in North Carolina put forth the argument that two organizations, both strong within themselves, and which will work together in harmony when grave and serious things are to be considered, can accomplish more than a single organization. Another argument put forth is that the presence of two organizations of national scope in the field will tend to keep out petty politics, which has so largely dominated the old league heretofore and changed it from an instrument of power and good into a worthless plaything. As this is the first gathering of Tar Heel exhibitors since the Chicago "bolt," and as two of the North Carolinians, Messrs. H. B. Varner and Percy W. Wells, were prime movers in the framing of the new organization, their attitude at this time will be awaited with much interest, but it is known that Mr. Varner has never become thoroughly imbued with any enthusiastic good fellowship toward the old league since the Chicago proceedings. It is presumed that the pledge of North Carolina's support given to the A. E. A. in Chicago will be formally carried out. Mr. Varner, however, as general legislative chairman for the entire industry at Washington, is representing both the old and the new organizations, and is entering heart and soul into the work before him without any thought whatever of pulling down or boosting either of the organizations, and those who know the man feel certain that nothing but absolute harmony will prevail in his attitude and actions toward and with the two organizations. There are many North Carolina exhibitors who were "fighting mad" right after the Chicago convention who now entertain much more kindly feelings toward the National League, since accomplishments of the past six months have shown them that there is a chance for it to yet be of great value to the industry through proper and sane conduct and management.

Another matter which will probably be brought before the convention will be the question as to whether or not North Carolina will be officially represented at the Madison Square convention and exposition to be held in February. No doubt many exhibitors from the state will attend, but whether as official delegates or not will be settled at the Raleigh convention.

Convention headquarters will be established at the Yarborough Hotel, and as hotel facilities are always congested at the State Capital during legislative sessions reservations should be made by wire at once.

CLEVELAND LEAGUE ELECTION.

Cleveland League elected a new set of officers last week. Henry Lustig, president; R. H. Gray, vice president; Joseph Lefkowich, secretary; Adolph Mahrer, treasurer. They were installed immediately and Mr. Lustig in a speech says he intends to rule the league with an iron hand in an effort to build up strong local organization and will not give much time to National or State organizations until this work is completed.

PHILADELPHIA LEAGUE GAINS MEMBERS.

During the last meeting held by the Exhibitors' League of Philadelphia, Charles H. Goodwin, secretary, reports that some forty members of the American Exhibitors Association were admitted into the League. Charles Rappaport and S. Miller, two members of the League, received threatening letters from the music publishers and a motion was passed to stand behind these two exhibitors to the finish, who will be supported under all circumstances. A large number of the members of the League have arranged to prepare to visit the Motion Picture Exposition to be held in New York from February 2 to the 10th.

Paralta's Eastern Scenario Department

New Office Has Capable Staff in Charge of Henry Chandlee.

IT WAS with the idea of branching out along new lines that Carl Anderson, president of Paralta Plays, Inc., established the eastern scenario department of that organization at the company's New York offices. Paralta maintains a producing scenario department at its western studios—and many of its stories are written by staff authors—but to assure enough material with proper variety of subject and treatment, it is Mr. Anderson's intention to purchase a large number of stories from outside authors.

Harry Chandlee

It was with the idea of taking advantage of near-opportunities to acquire good stories, that Mr. Anderson placed Harry Chandlee in charge of the Eastern Scenario Department of Paralta Plays, with instructions to decline no story until certain that it contained nothing of value as picture material for Paralta, giving him a free hand in management of the department otherwise.

Mr. Chandlee has associated with him a force of persons experienced in the scenario end of the industry—notably Helen Christene Hoerle and Elizabeth Petersen—both of whose screen stories are well known. When a story is received which, with a few changes, would prove available, an outline of the changes is worked out and the author is then called into conference—whenever possible the changes being discussed with him and the form of the revised story being decided upon, with the result that a story which might otherwise be declined, is made often available. In addition, the author becomes familiar with Paralta requirements, and can be guided in his future work for the company. An added advantage lies in the fact that the story, when finally sent to the Los Angeles studio, is worked out from a picture standpoint, and thus the making of the continuity is greatly facilitated.

Already, the eastern department has increased the available material something over one hundred per cent.

J. A. HAMMELL WITH GENERAL.

J. A. Hammell, one of the most popular and best known exchange men in the film business, last week assumed charge of the New York City sales office of General Film Company, succeeding P. A. Bloch, who has been assigned to special work of importance. Mr. Hammell leaves a responsible position with Pathe Exchange, Inc., to return to the General Film position he held until about six months ago. Prior to his retirement from the General Film family last year, Mr. Hammell had been continuously engaged in General Film service for many years, holding important positions in various departments.

Sonia Markova's Second Release Ready

MADAME SONIA MARKOVA'S second production as a William Fox star will be released to exhibitors January 20 under the title, "A Heart's Revenge." This Fox special feature is said to contain a number of thrilling scenes, the climax being in an exciting motorboat chase on Buzzard's Bay. It is heralded as a picture replete in action and one that shows the new star to better advantage even than did her first production, "The Painted Madonna."

Sonia Markova.

Rivalry in love between a Russian nobleman and an officer in the United States navy furnishes the theme, Madame Markova portraying the role of the heroine, the daughter of the Russian ambassador. A Chinese poison is employed by the nobleman in temporarily getting rid of the naval officer, and the plot thereafter revolves about the girl's efforts to learn her sweetheart's whereabouts.

Assee Leung, a real Chinese woman whose stage name is Helen A. Long, has an important role in the production. Others in the cast besides Madame Markova are David Herblin, Frank Goldsmith, Eric Maigne, Bradley Barker, Stanley Heck, Fred Ratcliffe and J. Alling. The story was written especially for Madame Markova by George Scarborough, and the picture was made under the direction of Oscar A. C. Lund.

KATE PRICE TO SUPPORT WALTHALL.

Photoplay "fans" who were devotees of the photoplay theaters a few years ago will welcome the news that Kate Price is again to be seen upon the screen in the support of Henry B. Walthall in his second Paralta play "Humdrum Brown." A few years ago Kate Price was one of the most popular actresses of the screen appearing in photoplays of the Vitagraph Company. At that time Miss Price was one of the most versatile of the screen actresses and appeared in productions ranging from heavy melodrama to the lightest comedy. That was in the days when the late John Bunny was at the zenith of his popularity and Kate Price appeared opposite him infrequently.

In "Humdrum Brown" Miss Price will be seen in the role of Aunt Elvira, a character part which is bound to bring to memory the kind of acting that at one time made her one of the most popular women of the screen.

NEW THEATRE EMPLOYEES' UNION.

A new organization has been established under the title "Theatre Employees' and Machine Operators' Union of Long Island and Brooklyn, N. Y." Being a regularly chartered body, all members of this new union are protected by the laws of the state from any other unionized bodies and they are not affected by existing injunctions and the managers and operators of the theatre, who are employees, have redress by law if any unfair means are employed to interfere with their business. They have already over fifty enrolled members on their roster.

LAURA AUSTIN NOT CAMPBELLS DAUGHTER.

In the World of January 5 it was in error stated that Eric Campbell, the comedian who was killed in an automobile accident, had left a daughter, Laura Austin, an actress. In the issue of January 12 it was correctly stated that Mr. Campbell left a daughter, a pupil in a Los Angeles school.

The World is advised by the publicity department of the Chaplin studios that Laura Austin is the wife of Albert Austin, one of the members of the Chaplin organization. Our apologies are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Austin.

Freuler Announces "Screen Telegram"

A Twice-a-Week News and Current Events Reel to Be Distributed Through Mutual Exchanges.

THE SCREEN TELEGRAM," a twice-a-week news reel, of a new type, is announced by John R. Freuler, of the Mutual Film Corporation and various allied film enterprises. This release is to be available at Mutual exchanges beginning the week of March 4, according to Mr. Freuler's announced plans. It will follow up and supplant the Mutual Weekly, which is one of the oldest and long-established news reels in the film trade.

"We have elaborate and promising plans for the production and assembling of the 'Screen Telegram,'" said Mr. Freuler, discussing the new release at his New York offices. "We have arranged for an extensive system of foreign camera correspondence with a war news service from some new angles, which we expect will give an unusual attractiveness to the reel.

"I have been giving the news reels particular attention for a long period and I have come to the conclusion that improvements in this field have been very slow to come. Yet the enduring success of the Mutual Weekly and some of its better competitors, and their obvious value to the best theaters, prove the permanence of demand.

"In the production and assembling of the 'Screen Telegram' we shall take advantage of all of our long experience in news film manufacture and distribution. While we are not ready to announce the complete staff of the 'Telegram' organization it is sufficient to assure that we have arranged for the services of the best available experts in the newspaper and news film fields.

"The 'Screen Telegram' will be a true screen publication presented with refinements of make-up and dress which will make it a fitting unit in the best programs of the best theaters.

"The mechanical work of the 'Screen Telegram' will be handled at the excellent laboratories and printing plant of the American Film Company, Inc., which is, I hold, a guaranty of a film product as near technical perfection as the market affords.

"This means that the 'Screen Telegram' reels will be of the same high physical quality as the feature productions of that concern released through the Mutual Film Corporation. The American Film Company is famous for the quality of its prints and the excellence of its development, tinting and toning processes. This plant with its million feet a week capacity can give us all the speed we can use.

"The location of the printing and shipping plant of the 'Screen Telegram' in Chicago at the American Film Company will afford the release special advantages as to time for the whole United States, while supplementary arrangements have been made for the printing and shipping of 'extras' from New York and other important points when extraordinary conditions call for such a handling of the subject."

The Mutual from its Chicago offices is conducting negotiations with camera men in a number of points yet to be covered by the "Screen Telegram." This detail of the organization is being handled through the office of Terry Ramsaye, the Mutual's director of publicity.

Chicago Picturemen in New York

Freuler and Hutchinson of Mutual Come Here to Plan Series of Big Specials.

NEGOTIATIONS preliminary to the production of a number of big special feature pictures are being conducted in New York by Samuel S. Hutchinson and John R. Freuler, who were in the city during the week of January 7. According to present plans it is said that the specials will be made by a separate organization working on the west coast with the Santa Barbara studios of the American Film Company, Inc., as headquarters. It is to be assumed that these specials will be made available to exhibitors through the exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation, although no official announcements to that effect have been made.

"We have found certain market tendencies will assure us that, to a considerable proportion of theaters, a series of occasional big special productions will have a particular value in the coming year," said Mr. Freuler. "There are basic reasons for this trend, representing an evolution in the business of presenting pictures. This will not affect our handling of star productions featuring 'big stars only,' including the Mary Miles Minter, Margarita Fischer, William Russell, Edna Goodrich, the Charles Frohman plays and others."

Mr. Hutchinson is conferring with a number of available authors and stars, who will be at liberty for contracts at the periods planned for the special features.

"We are starting amply in advance to insure careful preparation for every aspect of these pictures. I am not just now in a position to make any announcements relating to the stars and casts of these specials, but I can say most assuredly that these pictures will, unlike those of today, present both a real star and a real story."

When Irvin Cobb Sold Cold Stuff

CONTEMPORARY biographers of Irvin S. Cobb, who just can't wait for his funeral to begin writing interesting things about him, are having a merry time calling up this or that incident in a career of which this distinguished author is frankly unashamed, although its records reach back to the age of sixteen, when Cobb was village iceman in Paducah, Ky., and include nineteen, when he was the youngest managing editor of a daily paper in the United States in this same town. But Mr. Cobb himself is his own best biographer, as the following, related by Robert H. Davis, editor of the Munsey magazines, testifies:

Irvin S. Cobb.

Without knowing to whom he was speaking, a stranger once asked Irvin Cobb what kind of a person Cobb was.

"Well, to be perfectly frank with you," replied the Kentucky prodigy, "Cobb is related to my wife by marriage, and if you don't object to a brief sketch, with all the technicalities eliminated, I should say that in appearance he is rather bulky, standing six feet high, not especially beautiful, a light roan in color, with a black mane. His figure is undecided, but might be called bunchy in places. He belongs to several clubs, including the Yonkers Pressing Club and the Park Hill Democratic Marching Club, and has always, like his father, who was a Confederate soldier, voted the Democratic ticket. He has had one wife and one child and still has them. In religion he is an Innocent Bystander."

Mr. Cobb has many a claim to literary fame both as a humorist and as a writer of heart-gripping stories of dramatic force and fire. Among the latter one of the more recently successful is "Fields of Honor," and now made into a motion picture with Mae Marsh as the star. This Goldwyn subject is said by its producers to be one of the most promising vehicles Mae Marsh has ever had.

"Fields of Honor" will be released throughout the country on January 14.

MESSRS. GREENE AND ABRAMS ISSUE STATEMENT.

That no advertising or publicity announcement purporting to be indorsements by them of any state right features is to be considered authentic unless their signatures are attached to these comments, was stated last week by Hiram Abrams and Walter E. Greene. Testimonials regarding photoplays other than Paramount or Artcraft Pictures without this reproduction of their signatures are not to be accepted as emanating from the offices of Messrs. Greene and Abrams with their consent and knowledge.

Mastercraft Forming Producing Company

General Manager Wolper Arranging Details in New York —Will Have California Studio.

ISAAC WOLPER, vice-president and general manager of the newly formed Mastercraft Photo-Play Corporation, spent several days in New York City last week arranging many details for the new company and left for Boston, where the Eastern studios are being built.

For a number of years Mr. Wolper has been one of the foremost men of affairs in the city of Boston. A little over a year ago he became interested in the motion picture industry and since then has devoted his entire time making a careful study of the business.

In speaking of the Mastercraft company, Mr. Wolper said, "After spending a great deal of time and money in carefully investigating the motion picture industry, I am thoroughly convinced that there is ample room for a picture organization operating on purely business lines and making productions of exceptional magnitude. The men who are my associates in Mastercraft Photo-Play Corporation are men of not only sound financial standing, but men who have really achieved distinction in large business enterprises and who are now going to devote their entire energies to the development of this enterprise upon which we are launched. In all our departments strictly business principals will be followed out. It is our intention to make no less than four nor more than seven productions a year, but in making these productions we will spare neither effort or expense in securing the finest talent obtainable to make photoplays that are really superior in all that the term applies.

"In addition to our studios in Boston, which when completed will cover over fifty acres of ground, we will also have large studios in California. F. Eugene Farnsworth, president of our company is in California at the present time looking after these details and as soon as they are completed he will return to New York where he will arrange the final details for the filming of the first production.

"Dr. Thomas Dixon, Jr., whose 'Birth of a Nation' is without exception the finest offering the screen has born, will be a member of the new organization, and I believe our first production will be an elaborate picturization of one of his works. Ever since the making of 'Birth of a Nation' producers have been making Dr. Dixon most flattering offers for his other works, but up to the forming of the Mastercraft Photo-Play Corporation he has steadfastly refused these offers, as he wanted to be assured tha tthe visualization of his stories would be of such magnitude as not to depreciate his work, after the making of his initial photoplay spectacle.

"I hope to be able to announce within the near future the names of other writers who have won a high place in the world's literature, whose stories will be visualized by Mastercraft, but I want to assure the exhibitors and the general public throughout the world that we are not 'boasting' when we predict that Mastercraft Photo-Play productions are going to mark an epoch in the history of the silent drama."

"Bill" Russell Entertains Press

Enjoyable Luncheon Tendered by Popular Screen Player Meets With Appreciation and Live Appetites.

MEMBERS of the press who attended the luncheon given at the Hotel Claridge by William Russell on Thursday, January 10, enjoyed the pleasant informality of the affair. There were those present who brought with them the best of appetites to enjoy the culinary excellencies, et cetera, provided; and there were there those whose fondness for food gave way to the charms of Terpsichore; for be it known that there was also present a well-tuned orchestra which unintentionally cheated several of the guests out of more than one tempting course. William Russell, ably assisted by Mabel Condon, received the guests and placed them at the prettily decorated tables, after which the chatter of tongues and the informal moving about of guests bespoke the spirit of true jollity which pervaded the occasion.

We were all glad to see "Bill" Russell, and—let's say it right here—he's one of those fine, clean physical types that the screen has produced and kept, and he's got a little news story for us pretty soon that's going to be of real interest. He's going back west in the near future, and he will take with him the good wishes of his many eastern friends.

Among those present at the luncheon were Lynde Denig, Dramatic Mirror; Edna Earle, Pathe studios; Herbert Howe, representing Photoplay; Joe Reddy and O. Watts, Morning Telegraph; Messrs. Cooper and Mason of the Trade Review; Peter Milne, Moving Picture News; Charles R. Condon, Photoplay; James L. Hoff, George Blaisdell and Margaret I. MacDonald, Moving Picture World; Harriet Underhill, New York Tribune; Miss Nomence, Vanity Fair; Mrs. Case; T. E. Oliphant, Evening Mail; Lawrence Reid, New York Review; Mrs. Burness, Film Fun; Edwin M. La Roche, Moving Picture Magazine and Moving Picture Classic; James Beecroft, Exhibitor's Trade Review; Alice Glenister, Saucy Stories; and Milton Lowenthal, Theater Magazine.

Exposition to Have Aircraft Exhibit

On Show Will Be a Scouting Plane With Army Officers in Charge.

AS the result of a flying trip to Washington last week General Manager Frederick H. Elliott, of the Motion Picture Exposition, and Executive Secretary of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, arrangements have been made for an official exhibit at the forthcoming exposition which should attract wide interest. This exposition will take place in the Grand Central Palace February 2 to 10. Mr. Elliott conferred with Howard E. Coffin of the Aircraft Board and the Council of National Defense, with the result that when the exposition opens one of the big attractions will be an army airplane from which motion pictures have been taken at the front. This scouting plane will have mounted on it an observer's motion picture camera, as well as a Lewis machine gun, and it will be in charge of army officers from the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps, who will demonstrate to the public how motion pictures are made by airplane observers for military purposes.

Mr. Coffin is now making arrangements with the Secretary of War to secure a detail of officers throughout the week. Another feature of this exhibit will be a collection of enlargements of official army photographs showing flight scenes of airplanes taken from other airplanes, also aerial battles and machines going through sensational acrobatic evolutions in the air. The Aircraft Board realizes the value of the co-operation of the motion picture industry in helping to perfect machines suitable for military reconnaisance work, and has shown a cheerful willingness to co-operate in making this coming exposition an intensely interesting one to all patriotic Americans.

Arrangements are now being made to reproduce a modern film studio in one section of the Palace, and each day one of the prominent producing companies will "shoot" interior scenes of some big production. Special scenery and interior decorations for these will be brought into the building for the occasion and the famous stars being featured will appear. Furthermore, these scenes are not to be enacted before a mere empty box with its crank buzzing, but the regular lights will be used and film actually exposed. These sections of film will be developed, printed and shown at the exposition the following day.

Another "stunt" will be to permit amateur aspirants for a motion picture career to secure a try-out before the camera in a scenario especially written for the purpose.

Various exhibitors will enjoy special days at the show. Sunday, February 3, will be Pathe Day; Tuesday, February 5, is to be Universal Day, and other special days are to be selected by the other big companies.

A Bit of Ancient Egypt Revived by Denishaun (Paramount-Bray).

Emerson and Loos Go to Paramount

Former Fairbanks Director and Script Writer Will Produce High-Class Comedy.

AN announcement of exceptional interest to the exhibitor, the public and the industry has just been given out at the Paramount New York offices. John Emerson, director and his equally successful collaborator, Anita Loos, have been engaged by Jesse L. Lasky to provide a series of photoplay dramas for release by Paramount. The pictures will be distinctly individual and will be known as the John Emerson and Anita Loos Productions for Paramount.

Mr. Emerson and Miss Loos, at the termination of their association as director and scenario writer for Douglas Fairbanks' productions for Artcraft pictures, recently came to New York, and it was not wholly unexpected that their future activities would be in connection with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation The fact, however, that they are to be given carte blanche in their new association and are now enabled to continue to put forth the result of their best effort in their new productions for Paramount, is undisputably good news.

John Emerson and Anita Loos.

John Emerson is an example of what can be accomplished by highly specialized and constant training in the field where his activities lay. His education was received at the University of Chicago. Throughout his preparatory years he studied the stage, stagecraft, dramatic writing and acting constantly. He appeared on the stage in many notable productions and eventually was made general stage director for the Shuberts, under whose management he produced, among many plays, Clyde Fitch's last drama, "The City." In 1911, Mr. Emerson was made general stage director for Charles Frohman, making all productions under that famous management until he appeared as a stage star in "The Conspiracy," of which he was the co-author.

Miss Loos dates all her experience in pictures from the time she became production assistant to D. W. Griffith, five years ago. Since that time she has had more than 250 scripts produced. Her training was received under the most favorable auspices, and the results showed in the remarkable fine titles written by Miss Loos for "Intolerance." As a title writer, she is exceptionally facile, with a sense of humorous satire that has greatly pleased motion picture audiences all over the country.

The John Emerson and Anita Loos Productions for Paramount will deal with the highest class comedy dramas.

Berman Finds Outlook Promising

Jewel Sales Head Sees no Reason to Worry Over Reports of "Poor Business."

HARRY M. BERMAN, sales manager of Jewel Productions, Inc., who is making a transcontinental tour in search of first hand information as to national trade conditions, writes his home office from St. Louis, that he sees "no immediate reason to worry over the prospects for the coming year."

"From what I have seen in Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis there is every reason to be optimistic, in my viewpoint. In all three cities I made it my business to talk with almost every large exhibitor.

"Some of them seemed to feel that the war tax was responsible for a slight loss of business. The majority, however, were frank enough to admit that whenever there was a falling off in their receipts, local conditions were mainly responsible.

"The prevailing opinion seems to indicate that as far as the exhibitor is concerned, business is good. In Chicago, the open market is extremely popular and the announcement of our new sales policy has found favor in all three cities.

"In sections of the many states that I have visited, general business conditions vary. Where farming and munitions are the principal industries general business is so good that many exhibitors say that they could not accommodate the crowds that were attracted by some of the features they played.

"In states where there are great military training camps theaters have done capacity business.

"I'm headed for Denver tonight and will write more from there. Frankly I think the exhibitor has about mastered the situation and although every community has its calamity howler, the majority feel that 1918 will be a good year."

George Irving to Direct ForMetro

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION has added to its directing staff de luxe George Irving. The first Metro Production showing his handiwork will be "Her Boy," a patriotic Star Series production co-starring Effie Shannon and Niles Welsh, with Pauline Curley in prominent role, "Her Boy," had been adapted by Albert Shelby Le Vino from the original story of H. Carey Wonderly, and presents America's war problem from a new angle, making a direct appeal to the home.

Mr. Irving has a long list of successes to his credit, one of his most recent productions being "Daughter of Destiny," starring Mme. Petrova. His excellent record as general production director for the Frohman Amusement company is well known, among his successes with this firm being "The Witching Hour," "The Conquest of Canaan," "Jaffrey," and "A Builder of Bridges." For Lawrence Webber he directed "Raffles."

George Irving.

Mr. Irving's advent into the world of motion pictures was the result of his friendship with Augustus Thomas. The first picture in which he appeared was "Paid in Full," in sympathetic role of "Jimsy." After playing the lead in "The Education of Mr. Pipp," he became director for the All-Star company. His motion picture work was preceded by valuable experience on the speaking stage. He was under the management of Charles Frohman for thirteen seasons, for seven years of this time being a member of Maude Adams' company, appearing in "The Little Minister," "Quality Street," "The Pretty Sister of Jose," and other productions. He also played with Henry Miller, and with Francis Wilson, for whom he was stage manager. He went on the stage as a member of William Gillettes company in "Secret Service." Mr. Irving admits that his first part consisted chiefly in carrying a gun.

The director was born in New York, in the wilds of Harlem, "which at that time," says Mr. Irving, "were very wild indeed." He went to the public schools, and then attended the College of the City of New York. Newspaper work brought him in contact with the stage, and the next step was acting. Mr. Irving has definite ideas about picture producing, and his success has largely been due to his originality. He is a man of whom good work can always be expected.

"Empty Pockets" at Rialto.

Herbert Brenon's production of "Empty Pockets" will have its first presentation on Sunday afternoon, Jan 20, at the Rialto, where it will remain throughout the entire week, according to the Rothapfel custom.

"Empty Pockets" is Herbert Brenon's first production as an independent producer, and is the property of the First National Exhibitors Circuit.

Tendency Among Theaters to Combine

View of Last Year's Business in St. Louis Shows Movement Toward Theater Syndicate.

THe new year finds the moving picture exhibition business in St. Louis rapidly developing to a point where the ownership of a string of theaters is to be a more usual thing than the mere operation of one. During the year just closed the movement towards the theater syndicate has been the most pronounced of any film activity and there are plans scheduled for completion during the coming twelve months that will, if carried out, pave the way for a struggle in the very near future of "the survival of the fittest" among several syndicates.

Two Big Rival Syndicates.

The two largest syndicates are in a battle for prestige of ownership. The Vaudeville Theatrical Company stands first in the amount of capital invested and the character of theaters owned, but the syndicate headed by Harry Koplar, known as the Koplar-Goldman string, is first in the number of theaters owned. Both of these syndicates have their eyes on other houses, while several of the one-house exhibitors are planning the purchases of similar strings.

The Vaudeville Theatrical Company, headed by Louis Cella and Frank Tate, has just begun work on the Princess, the old home of the Players Stock Company. Contracts for more than $100,000 have been let in the remodeling process. An entire gallery is being removed from the building; the parquet floor is being "scooped" and 1,000 additional seats are to be placed in an extension which will take up a large portion of the old lobby. The house will open at Grand and Olive on about Feb. 1, with feature films and vaudeville, and will add a first class picture house to the vaudeville company's present string.

Selecting Films for Cella-Tate Houses.

This theater syndicate has inaugurated a novel form of management which has proved most successful and which should be of interest to exhibitors of other cities. It has appointed so-called managers of each of the houses included, but these managers conduct the details of operation as to physical matters and, in some instances, the vaudeville features, while the motion picture bookings are left to the complete supervision of Dave Russell.

Russell, who in title manages the Park, King's and Shenandoah, books all the films for the syndicate entire list of theaters. He personally selects, after a private showing of some sixteen or eighteen big features, six feature films a week, and in addition to this picks out the feature comedies, weeklies and other fillers for all programs. In this way he has figured out a system of saving through transfer that saves without destroying drawing power. All features shown at the King's are "first run." He then switches them for a half-week first to the Strand, thence to the Shenandoah and thence to the Park. These four houses are in four separate sections of the city. By alternating all but the King's he plays each section of the town fairly, even with regard to the small filler films. This system is worked satisfactorily by reason of the fact that Russell, after booking, takes no actual part in the management of any but his own houses. The company for which he books and manages has ten of the largest theaters in the city and is said to have a working investment of more than $2,500,000.

Essentially the Koplar-Goldman company is not in competition with the other syndicate, but there is keen rivalry in the matter of investment and number of houses owned. Harry Koplar, who has a valuable interest in more than sixteen houses is now looking over available property in at least four other sections of the city.

Other Exhibitors Who May Control Chains.

Joseph Mogler, president of the Exhibitors' League, is looked upon as one of the men who will early head a big syndicate of theater owners. Mr. Mogler has made a distinct success out of two houses, privately owned, but is known to be planning considerable development.

Another manager who may be mentioned in this connection is Mrs. Cornelius of the West End Lyric. Mrs. Cornelius started with a small house on Sixth street. She made a success of what was popularly a "doomed" house and then opened the Delmar avenue house. Within a short time she took out a license at the Royal, within two blocks of her Sixth street house and invested heavily in a full square block of property on Delmar and Taylor avenue. At present she is one of the most successful exhibitors of the city.

The Freund brothers, on the South Side have branched out into a string ownership and have probably the most comprehensive plan of development under consideration of any of the smaller syndicates.

It is freely predicted among the film managers that the next two years will see the ownership of more than 90 per cent. of all the picture houses vested in not more than five large syndicates.

An Explanation

Orrin G. Cocks of the National Board of Review Tells Why Other Than "Better Films" Are Put in Circulation.

IN AN article appearing in the January number of Bulletin of the Affiliated Committees for Better Films, Orrin G. Cocks answers satisfactorily the question "Why are pictures not classed as better films put in circulation?" A quotation from the article which is entitled "The Other Side of the Shield" is as follows:

Have you given full weight to the consideration that motion pictures are a commercial amusement for which people pay admissions and which must depend for their support on all the people of your town? There are many kinds of folks in every community. The desires of some of them receive little real thought. A goodly proportion must count their pennies and have few diversions costing little which they really enjoy. Perhaps some of the film dramas you dislike are just what they want and need. They certainly fill the theaters, and from every point of view their wishes demand recognition.

The other day one of the greatest of the American newspapers in its literary section told us that the sailors had voted as their preference for the stories of Jack London, Stevenson, Dumas, Conan Doyle, Jules Verne, Thomas Dixon, Poe, O. Henry, Owen Wister, Rex Beach, Hugo, Dickens and Zane Gray. These were the most popular in the order named. You will notice that all of them abound in action, plot, full-blooded characters, intrigue, and in a word—life.

The most successful magazines and weekly periodicals also are those which furnish to the masses colorful, fresh and gripping facts in story and article. Some of these are not "nice"—they impress us as being "rough and raw," but they also are instinct with life. They strip us of pretense and discuss real though imperfect men and women.

These facts, whether some of us like them or not, indicate that people during their play and leisure periods want melodrama. They seek it in novels, short stories, plays, photoplays, amusement resorts, trips of adventure, or camping. It can be called by no other name; it is melodrama.

This demand of the public for different kinds of life from the commonplace and drab ones they are living from day to day occasionally causes us offense and we offer opposition. No one, however, can decide for masses of people as to what they shall enjoy provided the pleasure does not destroy life and the welfare of others. When we are certain that these fundamental things are attacked, we are justified in open protest. Democracy demands, however, tolerance, fair-mindedness, and teachableness which are the antitheses of hypocrisy, cocksureness and dogmatism. This disquieting thought must always haunt us—these other people may be right!

GENERAL FILM MANAGERS DISCUSS SERVICE PLANS.

At the very time when many motion picture interests frankly complain of diminishing support and of doubtful conditions in the trade, enthusiastic sales conferences have been held by General Film Company executives and branch managers. The meeting held at the home office in New York on January 5 set the pace with a spirit that pervaded all of the conferences. At this meeting were General Film Company executives and the following branch managers: J. A. Hammill, New York City; P. A. Bloch, New York City; R. E. Gallagher, Albany; J. D. Levine, Boston; E. J. Hayes, Buffalo; W. B. Hart, New Haven; W. T. Kinson, Pittsburgh; A. J. Nelson, Washington; J. R. Lynch, Wilkes-Barre, and Frank E. Samuels, Philadelphia.

To begin with, the meeting concerned itself with reports on the first run bookings. Sales Manager Kent brought out tellingly the fact of the conspicuous ratification of exhibitor confidence in General Film as presented in its current activities.

Auditor Gulick presented some new plans for handling the detail of accounting in the branch offices and home office of General Film. Sales Manager P. W. Brinch, of the Hodkinson Corporation, was present at the New York meeting, and gave a useful demonstration of the Hodkinson plan, reinforcing many points that had been presented by Mr. Hodkinson in his circulars to the exchanges regarding the Paralta Plays.

SHELDON LEWIS TO RETURN TO STAGE.

Sheldon Lewis, the popular character actor of the screen and stage, will return to the spoken drama upon the conclusion of his present contract with Pathe. Mr. Lewis, it is understood, has received such a flattering offer that he has decided to forsake the screen.

Prior to his advent on the screen several years ago Mr. Lewis became widely known for his powerful character work before the footlights. In addition to being starred in photoplays, Mr. Lewis has become widely popular among followers of serial pictures in heavy character roles.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

The Big Snow Storm

Transportation by Rail Practically Stopped for a Time While Chicago's Streets and Sidewalks Were Impassable.

THE now historic snow storm that swept down on this city with fury Saturday night, January 5, and continued unabated throughout Sunday practically put showmen of every kind out of business for that day and night. Few people ventured out as the streets and sidewalks were impassable, great snow drifts in some places eight or ten feet deep, being of frequent occurrence.

The general rule adopted towards exhibitors by exchanges has been to promise the service unused by them Sunday, for another date, free of charge. Exhibitors in the territory adjacent to Chicago fared much worse than those in the city, as films for outlying points were all delayed. Sunday films had not been received by them up till Tuesday morning.

Express companies positively refused to accept shipments of films to points outside the city on Monday evening, on the grounds that no trains carrying express were leaving the city. They did, however, in a number of cases, accept shipments when they were delivered at their offices, but the Adams Express Co., even in such cases, refused to accept all film shipments.

Quite a number of exchanges, led by Ralph O. Proctor, manager of the Pathe Chicago office, got in touch with Postmaster Carlyle, of Chicago, who agreed to accept all shipments for mail delivery. By this means a large number of shipments were sent by parcel post, special delivery, and were received in fairly good time by exhibitors.

Mr. Proctor inclines to the opinion, based on this experience, that the parcel post is bound to take this business away from the express companies, in the near future. About 800 shipments of films are made daily from Chicago, and as many more are coming in daily. At an average of 80 cents per package, 1,600 packages will amount to a daily expenditure of $1,280, and during the 365 days of the year this would amount to $467,200 for Chicago alone.

It is estimated that Chicago handles about one-tenth of the film distributing trade of the country, so that for the whole country the postoffice department would receive $4,672,000 yearly for handling this business. Express companies, therefore, cannot afford to be so arbitrary in a pinch as they have proved themselves to be in this instance.

Order No. 16, Ruling Lightless Fronts, Has Been Modified.

The letter sent out by Raymond E. Durham, Chairman of the Cook County Fuel Administration, to the members of Chicago Local, M. P. E. L. of A., regarding national order No. 16, governing the lightless fronts of moving picture theaters in the city, as well as the order referred to, has been considerably modified in the exhibitor's favor since the writing of my last letter. A committee of 12 members of Chicago local, representing as many districts of the city, after numerous conferences and considerable effort, have succeeded in securing a concession from the Fuel Administrator that makes more tolerable the conditions surrounding many exhibitors. The concession was gained through the efforts of Henry A. Gardner, Chairman of Electric Lighting, Cook County Fuel Administration, and the ruling reads as follows:

"In order that all theaters may be treated with equal fairness and in order that there may be a definite ruling as to what lights will be required by safety, we have concluded to allow each theater to burn a light or lights aggregating 500 Watts or eight 60 Watt lights, or any other combination of lights whose aggregate does not exceed 500 Watts. We should be glad to have you notify your members and any other theaters which may not be members of your League of this ruling, and advise them that we will expect them to live up to such order, which is a lenient one under the circumstances. We would also be glad to have your committee report any violations to us, so that we may take the matter up with them further."

The committee of 12 members referred to are co-operating heartily with the fuel administrator and will report to him any violation of the ruling just cited, and has issued the following instructions to exhibitors in Chicago and Cook County:

"Don't do any 'cheating.' Let ever theater owner evidence his patriotism by playing fair. Five hundred (500) Watts mean just that many and no more. Don't violate this ruling. Failing to comply means you will be reported and your lights cut off. Burn no electric signs."

The committee was headed by Joseph Hopp, president of Chicago Local, who, for the past year, has proved himself to be the best president the Local has ever had.

A Novel Screen Used in Convention Hall, Kansas City.

William W. Lewis, traveling representative of the Nicholas Power Co., returned to the city last week, after an absence of five months. During that time he visited Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, Lincoln, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Mr. Lewis, during his call at the Chicago office, showed us an interesting photograph of the interior of Convention Hall, Kansas City, where 18,000 people assembled to see the presentation of "The Seven Swans," featuring Marguerite Clark. Mr. Lewis said that this was by far the biggest gathering he had ever seen at a picture show.

"The usual method of showing a picture at Convention Hall would have been impossible," said Mr. Lewis. "A very novel scheme was introduced by placing the screen in the center of the hall. This screen was of box-like form, affording four projection faces. At the four sides of the hall were located the operating rooms, with two machines and two operators each. The eight Power's 6b machines performed their functions so well that on all four sides of the screen the pictures were simultaneous."

The picture was shown under the auspices of the Kansas City Star as a Christmas gift to the people of Kansas City. Mr. Lewis made a special trip to be present at the big event and to look after the interests of his company.

He reports that all along the line business was all that one could expect, exceptionally so in Omaha and Kansas city. Mr. Lewis expects to be in Chicago for an indefinite stay.

Tom North Exploits "The German Curse in Russia," Pathe's New War Picture.

Tom North, Pathe's representative from New York, spent several days in the city last week and, in conjunction with Ralph O. Proctor, manager of Pathe's Chicago branch, exploited Pathe's new war picture, "The German Curse in Russia," which is now being released. Mr. North describes this picture as being both bewildering and amazing, and he is highly impressed with its value as a business getter.

The pictures were taken on the ground by Donald C. Thompson, of Topeka, Kan., the famous war photographer and cameraman, who has faced death many times to secure realistic scenes of battles on the western and eastern fronts of Germany. One of the special and interesting features of the pictures under discussion is the Women's Battalion of Death, a Russian regiment of women which has gone through the fiercest hell in the war with Germany.

An invitation showing of "The German Curse in Russia" was given by Mr. North while in the city, at which many officials of Chicago, judges, aldermen and other prominent citizens were present.

Mr. North will visit Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in the interests of the big war picture before returning to New York.

Chicago Film Brevities.

Ben Blumenthal, president of the Export and Import Film Company, New York, and Sidney Garrett, president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., New York, spent several days in the city last week. They came on specially to see Wm. N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, for whom they handle the Selig product for all foreign territory except the British Isles, the latter being in charge of E. H. Montagu, London, Eng. The European war has prevented Mr. Montagu from covering territory outside of the British Isles, hence the new arrangement for all other foreign territory. Messrs. Blumenthal and Garrett returned to New York Friday, January 4.

* * *

Jesse Lasky spent a few hours in Chicago Wednesday, January 9, on his way from New York to Los Angeles, where he expects to remain for about six weeks. While here he gave out that Fred Stone has been engaged to work on several pictures during the summer, scripts suiting his special talents having been prepared for him. He also stated that "Bluebird," a special feature directed by Maurice Tourneur, is nearly finished and will be released some time in March. This is an Artcraft feature about seven and one-half reels in length. He also announced that Pauline Frederick will be the star in a New York production some time next season, the script by Husband Willard Mack. Mr. Lasky also hinted that Ethel Clinton may join Paramount when her present contract expires with the World Film.

* * *

Notwithstanding all the good that moving pictures have wrought, it seems that they are still held in disfavor in certain sections of the country and even ranked as being among the evils that desecrate the Sabbath, as is shown in the following dispatch from Hattiesburg, Miss., January 7, to the Chicago Examiner: "Dwelling at length upon the evils of desecration of the Sabbath, especially with thousands of soldiers in camp at the city's outskirts creating a serious problem, local pastors have begun war upon a movement to open Sunday movies."

* * *

The Associated Theaters, an incorporation of certain Chicago theaters for the purpose of booking films for the greatest number of days and for their showing at the different theaters interested, was recently formed, with a paid-up capital and with offices on the fourteenth floor of the Consumers Building. The officers are: Joseph Hopp, president; Harry Miller, vice-president; William Heaney, treasurer; W. D. Burford, secretary, and John Bobeng, auditor.

The plan is to book a program of pictures which will go the round of the houses represented, starting with a week on Madison street. State-right subjects are chiefly under consideration at the outset and several offers have been made the organization by producers to make pictures especially for its use. Bookings already have been made for a period of sixty days.

* * *

The unprecedented snow storm of Sunday, Jan. 6, rendered business at moving picture theaters throughout Chicago useless as amusement drawing factors. The weather was so bad and the streets and sidewalks so piled up with snow that people did not venture out. On Monday picture theaters did a fair business, while on Tuesday it was a little better, and by Thursday it was back to the normal except in out-lying districts.

* * *

The license committee of the City Council met Thursday, Jan. 10, for further consideration of the increase of licenses on moving picture theaters seating 400 and upwards. After considerable discussion of the six plans submitted, a majority of the committee finally agreed on the plan of $175 for theaters seating 300 people or less, with $30 increase for each additional 100 or portion thereof. The plan was referred to the corporation counsel's office for an opinion as to its legality. If the plan turns out to be legal, it will be recommended to the city council for passage at some future meeting. The new license will not take effect until July 1. According to the new plan, for a house seating 500 people the license will be $235; for 1,000 seats the license will be $385; for 1,500 seats $535, and for 2,000 seats $685.

* * *

Friday afternoon, Feb. 1, at the regular annual meeting of Chicago Local M. P. L. of A., officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

* * *

The Pastime theater, 66 W. Madison street, has booked the "German Curse in Russia," Pathe's latest war feature, for four weeks commencing Monday, Jan. 21. This changes the policy of the house from that of a daily program change to longer runs.

* * *

At the regular meeting of the M. P. T. O. Association held at headquarters Friday, Jan. 4, the following officers were elected: President, E. Thomas Beatty; vice president, George Henry; treasurer, Louis H. Frank; secretary, A. Powell; financial secretary, Miss Anna Kesner, and sergeant-at-arms, August Zilligen, Jr. The executive committee is composed of the officers mentioned in addition to H. A. Gundeling, A. J. Krug, W. J. Mulligen and J. Cooper. On the grievance committee are M. A. Choymski, S. Abrahams and A. Ostrovsky, and the members of the legal aid committee are G. Paul, L. M. Hale and P. E. Banovitz. At the next regular meeting Friday, Jan. 18, the officers will be installed.

* * *

E. M. Newman, the well-known travelogue lecturer, spent several days last week at the Rothacker laboratory arranging negative continuity for the series of travel pictures which will be made for him at the Rothacker plant and released through the Educational Films Corporation. Mr. Hammons, of the Educational Films Corporation, has reported a gratifying list of advance bookings for the Newman pictures, which will soon be seen in the leading picture theaters throughout America.

* * *

W. R. Rothacker, president of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, will be in New York from Jan. 12 until Jan. 18, with headquarters at the Hotel Biltmore. He will proceed to Washington before returing to Chicago.

The board of directors of the Rothacker company declared a cash dividend of 7 per cent. on the preferred stock for the fiscal year of 1917, at a recent meeting held in this city. General plans for the extension of business activities were outlined by President Rothacker at the meeting and approved by the board. It is understood that these plans include special operations in New York and on the Pacific Coast, as well as several others of magnitude at the Rothacker studios. A vote of thanks to the members of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit was voted by the board as their expression of praise for work done on First National releases by the Rothacker laboratory.

* * *

G. L. Stiles, manager of the Universal exchange in Escanaba, Mich., for over a year past, has been appointed manager of the Bluebird exchange at Milwaukee. Mr. Stiles has been in Universal service for many years and at one time was a representative of the Universal exchange in Chicago.

* * *

"The Price of a Good Time," the latest Jewel release, which had a run of several weeks at the Broadway Theater, New York, has been booked for an indefinite run at the Pastime Theater, this city, by I. Van Ronkel, Chicago manager of Jewel productions.

* * *

Mary MacLane honored the members of her company and Director Arthur Berthelet by giving each of them an autographed copy of her book, "I, Mary Mac Lane," after the completion of "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," in which she figured as the star. It is needless to state that they will carefully preserve the present in memory of this remarkable woman.

* * *

The members of Chicago Local M. P. E. L. of A., at the regular meeting held Friday, Jan. 4, moved and passed a resolution that they would co-operate in every way with the national and city fuel administration in observing "lightless nights" at their theaters. A committee of ten was appointed to give every possible aid toward the enforcement of the order. On the committee are Joseph Hopp, Charles G. Stuart, W. D. Burford, H. C. Miller, Max Hyman, R. R. Levy, Alfred Hamburger, I. S. Berkson, W. E. Heaney, George M. Laing, John Bobeng and H. E. Newell.

* * *

An elaborated and revised edition of George Kleine's "Quo Vadis" is now having a prosperous run in the city, in many of the best theaters. Among these may be mentioned the fine houses on the Ascher Bros.' circuit and also those on the circuit of Lubliner and Trinz. Evidently the first of the great superpictures has lost none of its drawing power, judging from reports coming in.

* * *

An official in the Chicago sub-treasury has advised me that the penny shortage in Chicago is not so stringent as it was immediately before the holidays. The only receipt of pennies within the last ten days has been one of $5,000. The limit governing every one who makes application at the sub-treasury for pennies is $50.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. HARLEMAN

Quinn's New Theatre

Will Be Something Entirely New in Picture House Construction.

AS stated briefly in this department last week, J. A. Quinn is to have another motion picture theatre on Broadway, work on which will begin in less than two weeks. The house will be located on a piece of property at 816-820 South Broadway owned by the Katherine P. Hooker estate. Tenants of the hotel now occupying the site have already been notified to move. The lease was signed by Mr. Quinn this week and the firm of Metcalfe and Ryan handled the deal for both parties.

Albert R. Walker, well known local architect, who built the Bible Institute on Hope street, will be the architect.

Mr. Quinn will give Broadway something entirely new in theatre construction. The front of the house is to be executed in Spanish Renaissance style, and it will be one of the most picturesque theatres in California. The house will seat approximately nine hundred, with a circle of loges and boxes in the back part. These loges are to be built in such a way that parties will be entirely separated from other patrons; a plan already carried out at the Rialto Theatre. Lighting, ventilation and heating will be the most modern and perfect. Great care will be taken in the installing of a huge orchestral organ, which has already been ordered, and at the installation of which experts from the manufacturing concern will be present at all times. A big orchestra pit is also to be built for a symphony orchestra of about twenty musicians.

The New Hampshire Hotel, which at present is situated on the property, will be razed to the ground. Walls and foundation, however, will be left standing, as the original plans provided a ten foot building. This will enable J. A. Quinn to go ahead and rip out the interior, and begin the work of construction in a very short time. The entire investment cost of the enterprise will represent a capital of about $100,000.

Health Department Makes Motion Picture

Film Shows How Los Angeles Health Officers Have Cut Down Contagious Diseases by Scientific Methods.

In a constructive effort to show the people of Los Angeles County the manner in which the County Health Department has cut down the number of cases of diphtheria fifty per cent. during the past year, to bring home the claim that the conservation of health is a patriotic duty and to show parents in general the manner in which their children become infected with contagious diseases, Los Angeles County has just completed a motion picture film illustrating this work.

The film was shown for the first time Sunday, January 6, before members of the County Medical Association and received high praise. Its characters were portrayed by Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, County Health Officer, under whose supervision it was made, and several well known physicians of this city. It is the plan of the County Medical Association to give the film state-wide circulation. Dr. Pomeroy claims that this is the first time the motion picture has been used in this connection in the West.

Some weeks ago the idea was conceived by Dr. Pomeroy. The members of the Board of Supervisors approved his plan and a motion picture company, with J. H. Buffum as director, was engaged to make the film. Natural settings were used for the scenes—the County Hospital, the County Health Office and various city schools—and school children, county nurses and County Hospital physicians, were among the performers. Everyone fell into the spirit of the thing and acted before the camera without make-up or rehearsal. The film is eleven hundred feet in length and cost the county $300, a trifle, claim the county officials, in comparison with the good that it is expected to do.

The film opens showing Dr. Pomeroy with his "disease map" which designates the various parts of the county wherein contagious diseases have been discovered. Then comes the telephone call and little Maitland Dirks, the eight-year-old son of Dr. Charles P. Dirks, is shown in bed, stricken with diphtheria. Dr. Dirks plays the part of the family physician and takes a culture of Maitland's throat. Mrs. Dirks plays the part of the mother and Mrs. Evelyn Sears, a nurse in the health office, appears as the nurse.

Dr. Pomeroy is then shown, accompanied by Harold Young, county sanitary inspector, and Ray Hasson, State dairy inspector, starting forth to trace Maitland's disease to its source. They locate the source in an unsanitary camp which is promptly cleansed. The school where the children from this camp attended is visited. It is found that Stanley, the nine-year-old son of Dr. Pomeroy, who plays the part of "Johnny Doe," has been infected and that he, in turn, gave the disease to Maitland. Johnny is questioned and it is revealed that he allowed Maitland to eat an apple which he had partly eaten. Dr. Pomeroy states that habits of children such as that, and the borrowing of pencils, putting them in their mouths, are among the commonest forms of spreading the disease.

Johnny Doe is sent home and quarantined. But still the disease spreads. Further investigation is had, and it is found that Johnny's brother has been sneaking away from home and drinking from a public fountain. Cultures of the disease are found in this fountain after the brother had drunk there.

Chaplin's New Year Celebration.

With the assistance of the heads of the various departments of his organization, Charlie Chaplin ushered the old year out and the new in with a banquet at the Alexandria Hotel in Los Angeles. There were ten in the comedian's party and it was a stag affair. The Chaplin aggregation attracted considerable attention, generally because of the tremendous popularity of the host and also due to the absence of feminine beauty about the festive board. A color scheme of red and white was conspicuous in floral decorations.

Shortly after the arrival of the new year the star was singled out by a number of his friends and admirers, who escorted him to the platform, at the same time calling for a speech. The comedian spoke briefly and then introduced one of the new acquisitions to his studio staff, Charles Reisner, author of the patriotic song success "Good-bye Broadway—Hello France." Mr. Reisner favored with this number and followed up with his humorous monologue, known to the theatergoers throughout the country.

Those present besides the star and Mr. Reisner were John Jasper, manager; Charles Lapworth, writer; Melville Brown, scenario department; Roland Totheroh, chief camera department; Frank Crompton, technical director; Henry Bergman and Albert Austin, character actors and Calyle R. Robinson, director of publicity.

Pathe to Produce at Paralta Studios.

Announcement has been made this week by J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager of the Pathe Exchange, Incorporated, that arrangements have been made with the Paralta studios, through Carl Anderson, president, and Robert Brunton, director of productions, for the leasing of a part of the Paralta studios at the Pathe Company. Production will be started immediately on a large number of important Pathe productions and Bryant Washburn, under the direction of William Worthington, will move from the Glendale studios this week. It is expected that three other companies, headed by Fannie Ward, Frank Keenan and Bessie Love, who are now working in the east, will be brought west within a few weeks and be located at the Paralta studios.

It is stated that the above production arrangement is not a combination of any sort between the two companies. The Paralta studio is one of the largest and best equipped on the Pacific Coast; it has five big stages and a large glass-enclosed studio.

A Telegram from Mr. Laemmle.

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, has determined that "the girls they left behind"—the men who have gone into Uncle Sam's service or that of the allied powers, are meant by "they"—are not to suffer unnecessary hardship by reason of the fact that their bread winners are either in the Liberty army or are doing their bit in other branches of the Government service.

President Laemmle feels that "the girls"—the mothers, wives, sisters and others who before the boys went forth in defense of Old Glory and in the great cause of humanity, were entirely dependent upon them, shall have an opportunity to become employes of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company and be useful to his organization in its numerous departments wherever it is possible to find positions for them. To this end the Universal chief has issued the following order by telegraph to William Sistrom, his personal representative at Universal City:

"Hereafter in engaging employees for any purpose always give preference where possible to mothers, wives, sisters or other dependents of men who have sacrificed their work to serve the United States Government, or any of its allies, in any branch of war service. This applies not alone to men who have left the employ of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company to serve, but also to those of other companies in any line of business; in fact, in any and all cases where the girls they left behind need work."

McRae Has Almost a Spill.

Henry McRae, Universal City's dynamic production manager, escaped a bad spill from his horse, Pal, the other day. A telephonic message from the "back ranch," as the lower part of Universal City is called, was received by McRae Monday afternoon this week informing him that one of the companies working there was in trouble over an accident to a set which had been blown down during a sudden sandstorm.

McRae immediately mounted his horse and dashed away for the scene of the accident. At high speed he was passing a set where Miss Elsie Jane Wilson was busily engaged upon her current production, the locale of which is in the land of the Don. Pal shied at one of the burros used in the set which had strayed into the road. As the horse suddenly swerved to one side McRae lost his hold of the reins, slipped from his saddle and nearly fell to the ground.

However, any man who has made pictures with lions and tigers as his principal actors and staged big railroad wrecks is ready for any emergency, and in this instance, too, McRae had his wits about him. He clutched at the martingale as he was going over Pal's side and held on for dear life while the animal reared and snorted excitedly. McRae spoke softly to him and in an instant Pal became his normal self again and the production manager continued his interrupted ride.

Los Angeles Breveties.

Douglas Fairbanks recently visited North Island, the California aviation camp, and gave the men a first hand view of his famous smile. In company with Capt. Dexter C. Rumsey and Capt. J. N. Thorpe he viewed the points of interest and the flyers in action.

After lunch at the commissioned officers mess hall, he spoke to the enlisted men in the Y. M. C. A. tent. Among the men he met were two of the sons of his close friends. One, Rex Beach, Jr., son of the popular novelist, and the other Harry Powers, son of the Chicago theatrical manager.

Before leaving the Island he visited Capt. W. J. Ergenziner and his company of Pacific Coast artillery boys, who are guarding the island. He was introduced to the boys by Corp. Ivan Kahn of that company.

* * *

Bill Hart's famous Pinto pony, Fritz, which was awarded a life of equine luxury after contributing materially to Hart's first Artcraft picture, "The Narrow Trial," made his farewell neigh, or whinny, or whatever it is that Pinto ponies make on similar occasions, to a Los Angeles audience when "The Narrow Trial" was initially displayed in that city. Fritz, with his familiar trappings, and accompanied by his master, attired in sombrero, chaps and the other impediments and accoutrements of the Western cowboy, had a royal time on the stage. Hundreds of people beyond the footlights clapped their hearty approval of Hart's speech, a splendidly delivered tribute to his old Pinto side-kick.

* * *

The cast for "Ann's Finish," Margarita Fischer's fourth American Film Company production, has been announced by studio manager, J. R. Crone, as follows: Margarita Fischer, Jack Mower, David Howard, John Gough, Robert Klein and Perry Banks.

The story is from the pen of Beatrice Van, author of "Miss Jackie of the Army" and "Molly Go Get 'Em," Margarita Fischer's first two pictures, and several other screen successes. Miss Elizabeth Mahoney, who adapted the story to the screen, is responsible for the continuity of "Miss Jackie of the Army," "Molly Go Get 'Em," "Mademoiselle Tiptoe" and "The Mate of the Sally Ann." The two latter productions are recent releases. featuring Mary Miles Minter.

Lloyd Ingraham, who directed the first three Margarita Fischer productions, will supervise the forthcoming picture.

* * *

Miss Bertha Mann, the popular leading woman of the Morosco Stock Company who is making her first appearance before the camera, is working hard at the William Fox studios in Los Angeles under the direction of Frank Lloyd. The play in which she appears deals with a burning phase of the situation caused by divorce, and requires exactly the sort of talent that Miss Mann possesses. Those who have seen her work declare that she is remarkably successful before the camera.

* * *

The cast for "Extra! Extra!" the forthcoming American Film Company production featuring Mary Miles Minter, has been chosen this week. It includes the following: Mary Miles Minter, Alan Forrest, Harvey Clarke, Clarence Burton, Lucille Ward, Emma Kluge, Perry Banks and Robert Miller.

The story and the scenario is the work of Will M. Ritchey, the new head of the American Film Company's scenario department. Mr. Ritchey is well known as one of the best screen authors of the day and wrote the new Minter play from actual experiences he encountered while working as a newspaper editor some years ago.

The production will be directed by Henry King, who supervised the making of "The Mate of the Sally Ann" and "Madamoiselle Tiptoe," Mary Miles Minter features.

* * *

Charles Ray has completed a picturization of Larry Evans' story, "His Own Home Town," produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. This offering, which will be an early Paramount release, should add materially to Ray's popularity with screen patrons, as it is said to be one of the best efforts of this rising young cinema star. The original Evans story has been followed very closely, giving Ray, in the role of Jimmy Duncan, even more opportunity to display his cleverness as a character actor than has any of his recent pictures. Director Victor L. Schertzinger has added quaint touches of local color to the feature, assisting to make it quite out of the ordinary.

* * *

Director Raymond Wells and a number of Triangle players, including Jack Curtis, Louis Durham and others, are spending a week at Colton, where they are working in a stone quarry on the new Triangle picture, "The Hard Rock Breed," from Frederic Bechdolt's magazine story by the same name.

* * *

A new street depicting the town of Bannock when it was at the highest of the mania for gold, and when viciousness and organized lawlessness was rampant as it was at no place on this continent at any time, is being used by Tom Mix in making his new play for William Fox. This drama has developed a historical phase that has not been touched upon before either in printed words or on the screen. It is probably the first time when history has been written in pictures before it found its way into print. The chapter that this play tells of has been learned of through research work, and Tom Mix, with the aid of his company, is not only making a remarkably virile moving picture, but also creating a valuable historical record.

* * *

Bessie Barriscale has just completed another splendid feature for Paralta Plays which had a working title of "Blindfolded." It was written by E. Richard Schayer and presented her in a sort of female Jimmy Valentine character and which gave her yet another opportunity to prove what a consummate little artist she is.

* * *

Edward Sloman is now directing Mary Miles Minter, alternating with Henry King. For many months Mr. Sloman made the William Russell features at the American studios, elevating them to a high plane. He is glad to direct a woman star for a change and has a very high regard for the ability of Miss Minter.

Triangle-Keystone Director Harry Edwards has begun work on "A Rough Diamond," and has made rapid progress on the filming of some lavish interior sets. Features in the big cast will be Peddy McQuire and Rae Godfrey.

* * *

Four recent pictures made by Thomas H. Ince for Paramount were written by Julien Josephson. Two years ago Mr. Josephson was teaching school "somewhere" in the state of Washington at a salary of sixty-five dollars a month. Becoming dissatisfied with the life of a pedant, he essayed newspaper work in San Francisco. His next step up the literary ladder was a modest scenario sent to Mr. Ince. That was four months ago. Today Mr. Josephson is a regular member of the Ince staff of scenario writers.

* * *

Harry Carey has started work in a new five-reel production which will be filmed under the working title of "The Hill-Billy." Jack Ford, who is directing the production, also wrote the story. Molly Malone is playing opposite Carey, with Betty Schade as the heavy.

* * *

Roy Stewart, Triangle cowboy star who is being featured under the direction of Cliff Smith, played Santa Claus to the punchers at the Triangle ranch studio, Hartville. Stewart and Smith secured a Christmas tree and smuggled it into the bunk house while the punchers were working out some bad broncs in the western street. The tree was decorated with presents and all the "fixins," and then the punchers were herded into the bunk house and given the surprise of their lives.

* * *

Dorothy Dalton, Thomas H. Ince's brilliant young screen star, will journey three hundred and fifty miles from Los Angeles to film some "snow stuff" in her new Paramount production, as yet unnamed. A story of the big Canadian Northwest, it is said to be even more exciting, and to contain a greater number of thrills to the square inch of celluloid, than any of Miss Dalton's earlier triumphs, not excluding "The Flame of the Yukon" or "Flare-Up Sal." Miss Dalton will have the support of an unusually capable cast, including such well known players as Thurston Hall, Melbourne MacDowell, William Conklin, Carmen Phillips and others.

* * *

"Five to Five," the first picture featuring Bobby Vernon in Christie Comedies, scored an instant hit with picture play patrons who have followed the youthful star in his ascendancy in the films. A new story is now under preparation for him which will afford every opportunity for his peculiar talents to make him increasingly popular.

* * *

Every once in a while some ambitious girl is struck by "cinema lightning." The latest "accident" of this sort is reported from the Thomas H. Ince studios, in Los Angeles, where Paramount pictures, starring Dorothy Dalton, Enid Bennett and Charles Ray, are produced. Recently, when a girl of more than average beauty and intelligence was needed in a hurry, and when none answering to the pulchritudinous requirements was available, Director Victor L. Schertzinger recalled having seen an attractive operator at the studio switchboard. He sent a messenger for the girl, gave her a few hurried instructions about what he wanted her to do, and in less than thirty minutes Charlotte Woods found herself somewhat of a studio celebrity, because she proved to possess features that photograph "like a million dollars," to quote Mr. Ince, himself. Now Miss Woods is in another Ray picture, and may be said to be well started on her way to screen fame.

* * *

Betty Compson and "Smiling" Billy Mason are once more co-starring in "Many A Slip," a comedy revolving around the mysterious disappearance of a diamond butterfly pin. They are supported by Ethel Lynne and Harry Edwards, the latter cast as high grade crooks in the play.

* * *

Claire Anderson, ingenue with the Triangle-Keystone, has deserted comedy for the drama and is now cast with Triangle Director E. Mason Hopper, in "John Warfield," a gripping screen drama written by E. Magnus Ingleton. Miss Anderson's last comedy appearance was with Director Harry Edwards in Ray Griffith's picture, "His Double Life." In this comedy Miss Anderson was called on to do one of the most dangerous stunts in her moving picture career when she leaped from a bridge to the tender of a rapidly moving train twenty feet below. This leap was one of the big thrills in "His Double Life."

C. H. Christie, general manager of the Christie Film Company, is on the last lap of a tour of the United States, made in the interest of Christie Comedies. He has visited all the larger cities in the East and Middle West and shortly after his return he will leave on a visit in the Northwest.

Rupert Julian will direct himself in his next picture. Julian at present is engaged in the preparation of the story which he intends will be one of the strongest dramas the cinema world ever has seen. It will be a story dealing with modern problems and as planned will require an unusually large cast and "mobs" galore.

Henry McRae is co-operating with Julian in the development of the story about half of which has been written at the present time and which McRae says probably will run longer than six reels. Julian expects to complete the writing of the story within the next two weeks and then will proceed to select the cast, which according to McRae will be one of the most notable that has been recently assembled for any of the feature productions.

* * *

Taking with him some of the largest and huskiest members of the Triangle playing forces, Director Raymond Wells and company are at Colton, California, for a week doing the opening scenes of the latest Triangle offering, "The Hard Rock Breed," a screen adaptation of Frederic Bechdolt's magazine story of the same name.

Director Wells' new story deals with the life of those sturdy men who spend their time burrowing into the bowels of the earth for hard rock. J. Barney Sherry and Jack Curtis are two typical hard rock men in this story. Both began life as bosses in the quarry, and Sherry rises to head of the company, while Curtis, through drink, remains where he started. Then comes Jack Livingston, as the son of the successful Sherry, to the rock quarries, where his father has sent him to make a man of himself. Here it is that he meets Margery Wilson as the daughter of Curtis, and there is a pretty romance in which Margery helps Livingston to make good. Others in the cast are Lee Phelps, Aaron Edwards, George Chase, Louis Durham, Thornton Edwards and Marion Skinner.

* * *

Cliff Smith, director of Triangle western thrillers, in which Roy Stewart plays the leads, has just finished his latest picture, "Keith of the Border," and Smith and his company of cowboys spent the last day of the old year at the ranch studio, Hartville, with an impromptu rodeo in which the punchers tried out the bucking horses in preparation for the next western subject of the Triangle, which calls for some outlaw broncs to be ridden. The working title of Director Smith's new picture, which will be cast in a few days, is "Boss of the Lazy Y," a screen adaptation of Charles Alden Seltzer's novel by the same name.

* * *

A letter written by Dion Titheridge, former member of the Triangle forces ,a few days before he died in the service of the British army, has been received at the Triangle Culver City studio. Titheridge, who was a brother of the noted actress, Madge Titheridge, resigned from the Triangle to enlist. His death was due to pneumonia. He made his debut as an actor under Sir Beerbohm Tree at His Majesty's Theatre in London, playing the role of Artful Dodger in Oliver Twist. Before entering the motion picture field he won success with Laurette Taylor in one of her noted New York productions.

* * *

Director Stuart Paton has started production on a new five-reel photoplay which is entitled "The Other Thing." The story was written by Blair Hall for a popular magazine and was adapted for the screen by Harvey Gates. The featured roles are being played by Carmel Myers and Kenneth Harlan with Harry Carter as their principal support.

* * *

The first of the big glass-enclosed stages at Paralta Studios has been completed. It is equipped with the most modern appliances used in cinema craft; something entirely new in the arrangement of light diffusers which will give much more overhead space and better light regulation, being one of the features. Carl Anderson, president of the Paralta, and Robert Brunton, director of productions, are particularly gratified over having it completed before the rainy weather comes on, as it will enable them to carry on the large program of productions without interruption from atmospheric conditions.

State Rights Department

Conducted by A. K. GREENLAND

I. E. Chadwick the "Eye" of Ivan

Serving First as Counsel, Then Financing Exchange, Ivan Head, Ex-Lawyer, Becomes Successful Independent Producer.

IN NOVEMBER last, Isaac E. Chadwick, up to that time vice-president and general manager of the Ivan Film Corporation since its inception, now three years back, assumed the presidency of this successful independent organization, continuing at the same time his role of general manager. Starting from a small concern with one director, he has done his manly share toward building it up to the very van of independent producers employing three directors, all constantly on production, together with its own exchange, the Merit Film Exchange, doing business with Ivan product in the territory of Greater New York. The trade is already familiar with the fact that Edmund Lawrence, Francis J. Grandon and William Humphrey are the trio of directors responsible for the continuance of the Ivan standard, while in the past the Ivan payroll has included such well-known film stars as Grace Valentine, Rita Jolivet, Marguerite Snow, Christine Mayo, Maude Fealy, Zena Keefe, James Morrison, Ruby De Remer, Milton Sills, Barbara Castleton, Vincent Serrano, Frank Mills, Alma Hanlon, Sally Crute, Wilfred Lucas, Gretchen Hartman, Madeline Traverse and Leah Baird.

The first solely Chadwickian production for Ivan under the new regime will appear on February 15, featuring Leah Baird and James Morrison, directed by Mr. Lawrence. It is entitled "Life or Honor." On March 15, Ivan promises the first of its features, based upon recent stage successes. It will be "The Unchastened Woman," the former Oliver Morosco drama, from the pen of Louis Anspacher, and will feature Grace Valentine and Frank Mills. "The Unchastened Woman" will appear in seven parts.

Mr. Chadwick entered the film game in an indirect way in 1907, as attorney for Pathe Freres, and gradually took on other film accounts, until he ventured to finance an exchange in New York. It was not until 1915, however, that he put both feet into the industry, by casting his lot with Ivan, the undeviating expansion and success of which enterprise reflects his ability in an admirable way. One characteristic of this able "eye" of Ivan is his perspective and foresight. Right now, he is one of the exponents of the evolution which is to form the inevitable alliance between exhibitor and producer. He pronounces the closest of future direct relations between these two elements of the industry and speaks of the coming era as the "future partnership of exhibitor and manufacturer." Success cannot be denied a forceful leader of the type of I. E. Chadwick. His recent trip to Washington at the time of the joint exhibitors' meeting in the Capitol City, where his willingness to form a mutual alliance with the exhibitors was presented through Joseph Farnham, spokesman for the five producing firms of which Ivan was an important cog, verifies the perspective of the subject of this article. His forthcoming activities will be eagerly observed by the live wires of the motion picture domain.

LESSER UNDERGOES OPERATION.

Sol. L. Lesser, the California exchangeman and president of the State Right Distributors, Inc., was stricken with appendicitis on Tuesday, December 8, while in his private office in the All-Star Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, removed to a local hospital, and operated on at once. Here of late this busy little exchangeman has been under the doctors' care several times. While in New York last fall he developed typhoid fever and was laid up for several weeks. Exerting himself too soon, upon his release from the hospital, he suffered a relapse. Convalescing from the operation, and pronounced out of danger. Mr. Lesser sent this humorous telegram on the tenth to C. Mell Simmons, general manager of the S. R. D: "As a booker of hospital time, I leave no open dates." It is expected that he will return to his office toward the end of the month.

JEAN S. OAKES DIES.

Jean S. Oakes, auditor of Williamson Brothers' Submarine Film Co., New York City, died of pneumonia in the Knickerbocker Hospital, Manhattan, on Wednesday, January 9, at the age of 40 years. He is survived by a mother and younger brother, who make their home in Norfolk. The deceased dates back many years with the Williamson interests, having been the secretary of the inventor, Captain Williamson, during the days that the parent of the two brothers made his quarters in New Orleans. He also saw experience in Porto Rico as an exhibitor.

PATRIOTIC ITHACA AND THE WHARTONS.

Ithaca has again shown its civic pride in having a big motion picture making plant in its midst—the studios of The Whartons, who are producing the serial photodrama, "The Eagle's Eye," written by Chief Flynn, in which he reveals the secret history of the Imperial German Government's spy plots in America.

That not a day might be lost in the production of this serial, the street car system of Ithaca, last week, was made subservient to the demands of The Whartons, and electric power that usually goes to run the trolleys was diverted to the great lamps and arcs used to light the sets of the picture.

Several days ago there was an explosion in the power plant of the Ithaca Electric Light and Power Company. Evidence points to German interference, and the local authorities are making a most thorough investigation to discover the cause and the culprit, if possible.

The explosion shut off all the lights of the town for one day while emergency repairs were made. Then the plant was found to have only two-thirds of its former capacity.

There was not enough power to run the street cars, light office buildings and run the lighting system of the Wharton Studios. So arrangements were made for The Whartons to work on "The Eagle's Eye" at night, the street cars and other users of power to shut down at a certain hour so that it could be diverted to the studios.

For several days the people of Ithaca walked after a specified hour, while at the Wharton Studios at Lake Cayuga, Theodore Wharton and his assistant directors filmed the thrilling incidents in Chief Flynn's story. The people expressed their willingness to walk and do their bit in the making of the picture that will show the Imperial German plots that forced America into the war.

NEW EXCHANGE WITH HELPFUL IDEA.

A new exchange has entered the field, with quarters in the Godfrey building. The name of the firm is the H. & B. Service Corporation, and its officers consist of R. Hershkowitz and D. Berk, both exchange veterans. The latter was formerly manager for S. E. Manheimer, of The Film Exchange.

The policy of this house is not to keep any films longer than a period of four weeks; that is, they intend buying new films all the time and sell those over four weeks in the house. By this system the danger of an exhibitor getting a repeater is to be eliminated.

WOLFBERG TOASTMASTER.

At the convention of the salesman and sales-managers of the Harris P. Wolfberg Attractions, held on New Year's day, Mr. Wolfberg predicted that the quest for recreation would be stimulated instead of lessened by the war. Plans for the coming year were discussed at this convention, and in the evening a dinner was held at the William Penn Hotel, with Boss Wolfberg as toastmaster.

Scene from "The Natural Law" (France Films).

Opportunity Knocking at S. R. Portals

H. J. Shepard Discerns a Rainbow of Contentment Spanning the Independent Market.

THE independent market is the permanent and proper one to solve the difficulties of the industry's disposition of its best product and the salvation of the exhibitors and the independent exchangemen whose existence it affects.

W. H. Productions Company has come to the forefront within the past two months as a leading factor in the development of the independent market, and intend not only to retain the prestige it has already established but also to expand its energies along independent lines throughout the entire world, domestic and foreign.

Joseph Simmonds.

The administration of the organization is being guided by men of the highest calibre, Joseph Simmonds and H. Winick. They have had years of experience and careful study in the various branches of the industry, particularly in the foreign market, for which they are among the largest buyers in the independent field.

There is no "pig in the bag" in the independent market. The cards are on the table, and the product is exposed for sale upon its merits. The dealing in futurities and possibilities cease and the gambling on its success is a thing of the past. Its worth and values are evident. It is either good or bad, as the case may be, and the buyers' profits and existence are wholly dependent upon their judgment and business ability, rather than being a victim of fortune, under the other method.

Experienced distributors, like men who form the personnel of W. H. Productions Company, in the building of their business, will exercise their best judgment in the original purchase of the many productions in selecting only those which are meritorious and can be exploited profitably by themselves and also by the exchanges to the exhibitors.

Under this system three of the four component parts of the industry, viz.: the distributor, the exchangeman and the exhibitor, are privileged to exercise liberties never before enjoyed.

Every production W. H. Productions Company will release will be chosen with the exhibitors' success in mind at all times. This method, therefore, places the burdens upon the shoulders of the producer to turn out only the proper kind of productions, which will make an emphatic change in the attitude he has evidenced to the trade — under the program method they must take and pay for his article, whether good or bad, and whether or not they want it.

H. J. Shepard.

It is true, we have quite a number of reissues, but these have been the greatest successes in their time, and now, in the new dress we have given them, they are a sure-fire proposition when handled intelligently. They possess the advantages which the earlier advertising gave them and are favored with the very best work of famous screen stars — in fact, their fame has often taken birth from their work in these very productions. Then again, the exhibitors know what these productions have done for them, and they also realize that the motion picture going public has increased considerably within the past two years, thus creating a new audience for them.

The re-editing and retitling of these films are being made to meet the modern conditions—both in respect to the tempo of action and the choice of understandable words, and as an added asset a complete exploitation campaign for the exchangeman and for the exhibitor is laid out on each production.

To make the entire scheme of the independent market successful, the exhibitor must contribute his share—it is his duty to study the market and get the best obtainable at the right prices. It logically follows that if he is careful and discreet, he will be in constant touch with all of the independent productions, particularly with those independent exchanges which are equally discreet in the selection of their subjects. The independent exchangemen will, by necessity, in order to survive, practice discrimination in their selections if they wish to make permanent customers of successful exhibitors.

A foremost example of the modern trend of progressive exhibitors and independent exchangemen who appreciate the value of this field is Tom Moore, of Washington, who has broken the shackles of program subserviency and ventured successfully into the independent market.

This is now the era of changes, and the establishment of new standards. The world is at war in behalf of democracy and freedom, and the evils of the film industry will now be likewise treated; and its administrators, consistent with the prevalent trend, are demanding freedom and will secure these betterments by taking advantage of the means at hand in the independent market.

A strong competitive independent field, in addition to developing a better product is bound to prove creative of many new forms and means of assistance to the exhibitors.

The W. H. Productions Company is an independent distributor, looking for permanent business, and realizes it must give the advantage to the other fellow in order to secure this permanency. We are giving attention to the solution of the exhibitors problems, not only from the price standpoint but also in respect to the advertising and exploitation basis.

Within the two months we have been in business we have disposed of the rights to the entire country of our fifteen William S. Hart two-reel subjects, and most of the territories on "The Two-Gun Man," "The Bandit and the Preacher," "The Hell Hound of Alaska," and the twenty-eight two-reel Keystone comedies. These productions were sold on a basis that assured us a satisfactory profit, and guaranteed a similar profit to the independent exchanges, and good pictures properly exploited at a price within the means of every exhibitor. The sales speak for themselves as to the merits of our proposition and our method of doing business.

SILVERMAN REPORTS ADVANCE.

"I wish to state," is the way Mayer Silverman, of the Liberty Film Renting Co., puts it in a letter to the writer the past week, "that I have already spent a week in my territory booking up service and securing applications. Erie is the only town where I failed to place 'Lust of the Ages.' I secured two days in the Lyric theater, Butler, Pa.; two days at the Regent theater, Newcastle; two days in the Majestic theater, Rochester, Pa.; two days in the Alhambra, Beaver Falls; two days in the Princess, Oil City; two days in the Penn, Uniontown; four days in downtown Pittsburgh; three days in the Cameraphone theater, East Liberty; one day in Franklin; one day at the Photoplay, Jeannette; two days in the Rex, Masontown. The majority of these exhibitors have paid me a $100 deposit and guarantee to join our new corporation. I am not yet ready to announce the names of members who have joined, but I have already secured one-half of our minimum quota.

"I find that Lillian Walker productions have been eagerly snapped up by these exhibitors. I am also agreeably surprised to find that our live exhibitors are going to charge an admission fee of 20 and 25 cents on these productions, and I feel that in 'Babbling Tongues' and 'Sins of Ambition' we have subjects that will cement us stronger together as a unit. I plan to release 'A Grain of Dust' through our new circuit about March 1.

"We have received several letters from outlying territories, requesting further information on our plan, and to aid them in organizing their territory, and we stand ready to cooperate and, if we can secure a sufficient quota, organize the United States in one big organization."

IT'S SERGEANT HALL NOW.

Harry Hall, brother of Frank Hall, general manager of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation and himself a film man of long experience, has been promoted to a sergeancy in the 305th Infantry at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., where he has been stationed for the last few months.

Mr. Hall is directing the theatrical entertainments held for the soldiers. Recently he presented "The Zeppelin's Last Raid" at the camp, and will also show "Those Who Pay" and "The Belgian" at Camp Dix in the near future.

As manager of the U. S. theater, Hoboken; the City theater, Newark; the U. S. Astor theater, Plainfield, and the U. S. Garden theater, Elizabeth, during the last five years, Mr. Hall has a wide acquaintance among theatrical folk throughout the state of New Jersey.

Sales of the Week

Herebelow a Compendium of the Selling Activities Recorded in the State Rights Market the Past Seven Days.

PHIL RYAN, sales-manager of The Standard Film Corporation, consummated the biggest deal of the week in the Independent Film Field with the W. H. Productions Company by securing their productions for the following territory:

The rights to "The Bandit and the Preacher" in five-reels for Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

The rights to "The Hell Hound of Alaska" in five-reels for Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

The rights to W. H. Productions Company twenty-eight two-reel Keystone comedies for Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Illinois and Indiana.

* * *

W. H. Productions Company further announces the following sales during the week:

The rights to William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher," in five reels, to the following: The Standard Film Corporation, Kansas City, Mo., for Missouri and Kansas; the Standard Film Corporation, Omaha, Neb., for Iowa and Nebraska; the Standard Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill., for Illinois and Indiana; the Standard Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn., for Minnesota, North and South Dakota; to Phil Goldstone, Omaha, Neb., for Michigan and Kentucky.

The rights to William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska," in five reels, to the following: The Standard Film Corporation, Kansas City, Mo., for Missouri and Kansas; the Standard Film Corporation, Omaha, Neb., for Iowa and Nebraska; the Standard Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill., for Illinois and Indiana; the Standard Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn., for Minnesota, North and South Dakota; to Phil Goldstone, Omaha, Neb., for Michigan and Kentucky.

The rights to W. H. Productions Company twenty-eight two-reel Mack Sennett comedies, to Peerless Photoplays Company, Omaha, Neb., for Michigan and Kentucky: to Peerless Photoplays Co., Omaha, Neb., Phil Goldstone, manager, for Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska; to the Standard Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill., for Illinois and Indiana; to the Standard Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn., for Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

The rights to William S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher," in five reels, to Wm. Politzer, Queen theater, San Antonio, Texas, for Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

The rights to William S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska," in five reels, to Wm. Politzer, Queen theater, San Antonio, Texas, for Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

* * *

The rights to W. H. Productions Company twenty-eight two-reel Keystone comedies have been disposed of to the Standard Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill., for Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin.

* * *

The rights to Wm. S. Hart in "The Bandit and the Preacher," in five reels, to The Wisconsin Film Company, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for the State of Wisconsin.

The rights to Wm. S. Hart in "The Hell Hound of Alaska," in five reels, to The Wisconsin Film Company, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for the State of Wisconsin.

* * *

The Sterling Pictures Corporation announces the sale of the Jean Sothern feature, "Peg o' the Sea," to Mayer Silverman, Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., for western Pennsylvania; to the Standard Film Service Co., Cleveland, O., for northern Ohio; to the Standard Film Service Co., Detroit, Mich., for the state of Michigan; to the Standard Film Service Co., Cincinnati, O., for southern Ohio and Kentucky; to the American Photo Play Co., Philadelphia, Pa., for eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, Maryland and Washington, D. C., territory.

Also the Jean Sothern features, "A Mute Appeal," "The Cloud" and "A Mother's Ordeal," to the Standard Film Service Co., Cleveland, O., for Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky.

* * *

Harry I. Garson, personal manager of Clara Kimball Young, has closed with "Wid" Gunning for "Parentage" for Michigan and Ohio, and will open the picture simultaneously in both states.

* * *

Ivan Film Productions, Inc., announce the following state rights sales: "One Law for Both" for eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia and West Virginia, to the Peerless Feature Film Exchange, 1339 Vine St., Philadelphia, Pa.; also, "Married in Name Only" for Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Virginia and North Carolina to Sidney Lust, Inc., 903 E. St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

* * *

Oro Productions, Inc., announces that it has closed with the Fontenelle Feature Film Co., 1504 Harney St., Omaha, Neb., for the states of Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, and Missouri for their program of one feature per month.

* * *

Announcement of the sale of territories on their latest feature, "Birth of Democracy," by the Export & Import Film Co., has been made as follows:

New York City and northern New Jersey—Merit Film Co., 130 West Forty-sixth street, New York City; New York State—Modern Feature Film Co., 729 Seventh avenue, New York City; New England—Boston Photoplay Co., 195 Pleasant street, Boston, Mass; California, Arizona and Nevada—M. & R. Feature Film Co., 107 Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco; Ohio—Ohio Ivan Feature Film Co., Cleveland, O.

* * *

Goldwitt Film Sales Co. has sold to the Southwestern Film Co., of Dallas, Texas, the Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana rights to its five-reel production, "The Human Orchid."

* * *

The True Film Company, 1911½ Commerce street, Dallas, Texas, has secured the rights to "The Whip" for the states of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. Dave Reed, vice-president of the True Film Company, personally closed negotiations while in New York.

* * *

C. A. Snyder, of the Exhibitors' Operating Corporation, announces the sale of "The City of Purple Dreams," the Selig state right production on which he controls the national rights to the Civilization Film Exchange, Newark, N. J., for the state of New Jersey; to Nathan Hirsh, of the Pioneer Film Corporation, New York, for New York State; and to R. D. Marson, Inc., Boston, for the six states of New England. Griever and Herz, of Chicago, have secured the rights for this same production to Illinois and Wisconsin.

S. R. D., INC., BUYERS SPEND BUSY WEEK.

The buying committee of the State Right Distributors, Inc., assembled in New York on Wednesday, January 9, and commenced the inspection of the state right offerings, of which productions they are in the market for the negatives. The event brought to the S. R. D. headquarters in the Longacre building the following members: J. J. Allen, of Canada; Harry Grelle, of Pittsburgh; Leon D. Netter, of Cleveland; D. M. Vandawalker, of Chicago; Sidney B. Lust, of Wasnington, D. C., and Nathan Hirsch, of Manhattan, and, though they expected to finish their investigation and observation of productions by Thursday night, they were still hard at work on Saturday and even counted on putting in some time on Sunday. C. Mell Simmons, general manager of the organization, had saved them considerable time and confusion by having all film showings carefully arranged in advance of the body's arrival. The decisions of the buying committee are to be reported early next week, and should be ready for publication in next week's edition. This being done, Mr. Simmons is due for an extended trip among the S. R. D. franchise holding exchanges.

S. & P. CLOSE FOR WARREN PRODUCTIONS.

Edward Warren, of Warren Productions, announced last week that he had concluded a contract with Shallenberger & Priest Selling Agency (Arrow Film Corp.), Times building, whereby that company assumes complete charge of the marketing of his two productions, "Souls Redeemed," on which a little territory still remains unawarded, and "Weavers of Life," the exploitation of which has not really yet been started. The deal also specifies that all future Warren productions are to be marketed through Shallenberger & Priest.

SHERRILL GIVING TRADE SHOWING.

Thursday morning, January 17, at ten sharp, the Frohman Amusement Corporation is to show their latest production, "My Own United States," directed by Jack W. Noble, with Arnold Daly in the stellar role, at the Rivoli theater.

WEINTRAUB IN MANHATTAN.

Max Weintraub, head of the Fontenelle Feature Film Company, Omaha, Neb., spent the past week in New York on a buying mission. Among other productions that he closed for was the program of Oro pictures, twelve in number, for Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

Scene from "His Day Out" (King Bee).

Hall Closes for Canada

Selects Superfeatures, Ltd., as Distributors for U. S. Productions in the Dominion—Stevens Was in New York.

CHARLES STEVENS, president of the Superfeatures, Ltd., the Canadian independent distributing concern, has obtained from Frank Hall, president of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, the franchise for the Canadian distributing privileges to all subjects released by his organization. In this connection Mr. Hall has this to say:

"Mr. Stevens' concern was selected from among a number of other Canadian companies that were bidding for the territorial marketing rights, because it specializes in the distribution of important productions exclusively and has, perhaps, the most efficient system of any of the Canadian independent enterprises.

"Charles Stevens, while yet a young man, is one of the best known operators in the film field of the Dominion. He has spent many years in the show business and has advanced step by step until today he is the directing head of an organization that girdles Canada and handles such important subjects as 'Civilization,' 'The Crisis,' 'The Barrier,' 'On Trial,' 'The Lone Wolf,' 'The Whip,' 'I Believe,' 'Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea,' 'Paid in Full,' and others.

"He has already established offices in Montreal and Toronto, and another at St. John's, through which the Maritime provinces are covered. J. C. Crosby is in charge of the Toronto exchange; L. M. Kissock is head of the Montreal offices, and M. J. Brown handles the booking in the Maritime exchange.

"It is the intention of Mr. Stevens to establish offices in other large cities in middle and western Canada for the express purpose of exploiting the U. S. subjects, as in the past his activities have been mostly confined to the more lucrative eastern field."

Mr. Stevens journeyed to New York to close the deal.

R. P. Madden, who recently went to eastern Canada as special representative of the booking corporation, has returned to New York after launching the U. S. productions in a majority of the principal cities of the Dominion. He will remain here a few days and then return to Toronto, where he will take charge of the distribution of U. S. subjects, making his permanent headquarters in the Toronto offices of the Superfeatures, Ltd., to which company has been alloted the Canadian distributing franchise.

HOFFMAN BUYS BARRISCALE-INCE PICTURE.

One of the finest feature productions ever supervised by Thomas H. Ince—"The Cast-Off"—with Bessie Barriscale as the star, has been purchased by George Backer for distribution through Foursquare Pictures. The photoplay is in six reels and was directed by Raymond B. West. The story is by C. Gardner Sullivan and is not alone gripping in its drama and pathos, but has bits of appropriate comedy and human touches that are very real.

"Before purchasing 'The Cast-Off'," said P. V. R. Key, director of sales and advertising for Foursquare Pictures, "the committee which passes upon all pictures had seen a great number that had been highly recommended, and several of which were of exceptional merit. Mr. M. H. Hoffman, whose judgment and standard of pictures is the very highest, is more enthusiastic over 'The Cast-Off' than over any feature he has seen. He pronounces it the finest picture Foursquare ever acquired."

IT IS NOW SOUTHWESTERN FILM CORP.

What was formerly the Southwestern Art Dramas, Inc., has been changed to Southwestern Film Corporation of Dallas, Texas. The Southwestern Film Corporation is chartered under the laws of Texas, and from its headquarters at 1911½ Commerce street, Dallas, conveys independent productions to exhibitors throughout the states of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Florida and Georgia. Among their product they include the Billy West comedy series, "The Crisis," "Souls Redeemed," "The Libertine," "Twilight Sleep" and "The Web of Life."

The officers of the company are F. M. Sanford, manager; L. C. McHenry, sales chief, and A. Feickert, secretary and treasurer.

ROSENBAUM ORIGINATES NEW SLOGAN

The Moving Picture Machine Operators' Local No. 244, who are holding their fourth annual reception and ball in Newark on Feb. 18, and whose trademark is I. A. T. S. E. 244, were given a new slogan by Ed. Rosenbaum, Jr., publicity director of the King-Bee Films Corp., when they solicited copy for their souvenir program. It is as follows: "Invaluable—Assistants—to—Successful—Exhibitors."

FOURSQUARE HEAD IN CANADA.

M. H. Hoffman, of Foursquare Pictures, left Saturday, Jan. 5, to visit the exchanges of this growing organization in Boston, Montreal, Toronto and St. John. Apart from conferences with Samuel Rubenstein, of Boston, and general and division managers, J. J. Unger and M. C. Hughes, of Montreal and Canada, Mr. Hoffman will meet the exhibitors of New England and Canada.

SAWYER AND LUBIN ACQUIRE "CRUCIBLE OF LIFE."

Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, of General Enterprises, Inc., have acquired a new state rights offering. The latest addition to their string of pictures is "The Crucible of Life," a seven-part society melodrama possessing sufficient war atmosphere to add timeliness and interest to the dominant theme. The story is an adaptation from the well known stage play and novel, "Fairfax," written by Bartley Campbell, and which attained wide sucess in the spoken drama and in reading form.

"The Crucible of Life" was directed by Captain Harry Lambert. A cast of prominent screen artists, headed by Grace D'Armond, at present featured with Vitagraph; Jack Sherrill, and Frank O'Connor, who played the original title role in "Fairfax," have been entrusted with prominent roles.

Scene from "The Crucible of Life" (G. E.)

The latest state rights offering was produced by the Authors' Film Company, from which concern General Enterprises, Inc., recently acquired the rights for the United States and Canada. The successful distributors of the McClure features, "The Warrior" and "Mother," have planned an intensive exploitation drive for "The Crucible of Life," and for the purpose of giving the picture the prestige of a New York engagement, arrangements have been completed whereby the film version of "Fairfax" will commence a run at the Park theater, New York, on Jan. 20. The picture will be distributed strictly on a state rights basis by General Enterprises, Inc. A private showing of "The Crucible of Life" in one of New York's large hotel ballrooms is shortly to be presented. Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin promise a surprise for the assembled guests in the way of a personage high in governmental work who will also be present.

Inasmuch as "The Crucible of Life" contains a certain amount of war atmosphere, the executives of General Enterprises, Inc., have arranged for the appearance at the showing and dinner to follow, of Private Frederick R. Rath, and the famous Camp Upton quaret. Mr. Rath is the author of "When the Moon is Shining Somewhere in France," and he, together with his soldier comrades, will entertain with a specially arranged program.

MOON COMEDIES COMING SOON.

Emil Harder, president of Sunshine Film, Inc., whose aims were recorded on page 248, in the Jan. 12 issue of the Moving Picture World, announces that he has decided upon the felictitious name of "Moon" as the brand title for his comedy product featuring Gus Pixley, formerly comic of the Biograph organization. Mr. Harder also promises a new idea for the selling market which will be used by Sunshine Film, Inc., the details of which are being prepared for our next issue, in the form of a trade announcement.

ABRAMSON ENGAGES LEAH BAIRD.

Leah Baird, whose work in "One Law for Both" and "Sins of Ambition," is fresh in the minds of theatergoers, has been engaged by the Graphic Film Corporation to appear in "Moral Suicide," Ivan Abramson's forthcoming photodrama, the direction of which he commenced last Thursday, Jan. 10.

Miss Baird, who contemplated appearing in a series of pictures to be produced by a company of which she was to be the head, has surrendered all thoughts thereof to appear in "Moral Suicide."

WILSON ATTACHED TO CHICAGO STAFF.

G. W. Wilson, representative of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation in Cincinnati, has been transferred to the Chicago headquarters of the concern, in which territory he has had long experience.

How Kane Covered Hardware Convention

And How He Stubbed His Toe on a Schlitz Plow But Kept on Smiling in the W. K. Milwaukee Way.

BACK in 1897 Arthur S. Kane, general manager of Select, and Albert T. Reid were both bright luminaries of the Kansas City Star, Kane as a special writer and a star reporter, and Reid as artist extraordinaire. And the friendship that was cemented between th se two was, in the words of Bret Hart, beautiful to behold. Reid and Kane used to cover assignments together, and the results of their double-barreled efforts were the pride and envy of the Star —the pride of the City Ed., and the envy of the City staff.

On one occasion these twin musketeers of the pen started out to cover a notable convention of implement dealers. Now, in Kansas City the hardware and warehouse district lies in what natives endearingly term the West Bottoms and to the West Bottoms our heroes hied. Knee-deep in their rounding-up of hardware headliners, Kane, Reid & Company ran into a plumb newfangled invention of a prominent implement firm, yclept the "Schlitz Plow." (Yes, the name has a Milwaukee flavor; and the "implement" had likewise!) The outcome of the attack upon the "Schlitz Plow" takes the form of one of Reid's inimitable drawings in the evening issue of the Star of the same date, which special front-page illustration greeted Kane on his arrival home. It depicted the w. k. form of our now general manager wrapped in an ulster of familiar shape and with features wreathed in an ineffable smile. In one hand he held a large and decidedly flowing stein of Milwaukee Schlitz. And the "Schlitz Plow" has been a sore subject in the bosom of Kane's domestic circle ever since.

Albert T. Reid, the one-time cartoonist and artist on the Star and Kansas City Journal, has, like General Manager Kane, climbed to greater heights since those halcyon days of 1897. He has become owner of the Leavenworth (Kansas) Post, and is an artist whose name is known throughout the entire West; for his wonderful posters boosting the Santa Fe road, for his artistic interior decorations, and for the art school which has started on the road to fame and fortune much budding western talent.

And Kansas memories are long. Hence the little cartoon at the head of this screed, and Albert Reid's best wishes to General Manager Kane, who, in his mind's eye, he has already seen as a president, no less!

GUNN GETS A VACATION.

Charles Gunn, well-known Triangle leading man, is enjoying a well-earned vacation and rest at his home in Hollywood, after working constantly for almost three months. Gunn's latest picture was with Director Gilbert P. Hamilton and bears the title of "Captain of His Soul."

John Bowers with World Film

JOHN BOWERS now acts as principal male support for both Ethel Clayton and June Elvidge, sometimes appearing in scenes from two plays during the same day. This made it necessary for Mr. Bowers to be a pampered son of the idle rich at ten a. m., and a poor but honest clerk in a real estate office at ten thirty—which is more or less confusing, although enabling him to contemplate life from numerous angles. Mr. Bowers' most important engagement on the speaking stage was in the principal role of "Life," presented on an immense scale some seasons ago by William A. Brady at the Manhattan Opera House. Ever since Mr. Brady assumed the active direction of World Pictures this actor has been prominent in these photoplays, rendering adequate aid to the most famous of the feminine stars and incidentally establishing widespread popularity for himself in the screen world. Mr. Bowers is an athlete, an intrepid automobile driver, and so expert a mechanician that he can take the most intricate motor to pieces and reassemble it without help. Some fo the screen plays in which Mr. Bowers has appeared for the World Film Corporation are "The Bondage of Fear," with Ethel Clayton; "Darkest Russia," with Alice Brady; "The Divorce Game," also with Miss Brady; "The Tenth Case," with June Elvidge, and "Stolen Hours," with Miss Clayton.

John Bowers.

BALSLY LEAVES STANDARD FOR ADVERTISING BUSINESS.

Lee D. Balsly, who for the past nine months or more has been manager of the Standard Film Corporation exchange at Kansas City, Mo., this week announced his intention to resign his position with that organization in order to accept the situation of Director of Creative Advertising for the Union Bank Note Company of Kansas City, one of the largest concerns of its kind now in operation.

Six years ago Mr. Balsly was manager of the Aladdin and the Landers Theaters of Springfield, Mo., and was known as a live-wire and persistent advertiser. Prior to buying the above theaters he was a traveling salesman for the International Harvester Company and coming in contact with the public, Mr. Balsly observed and studied human nature. Disposing of the theater, he again joined the Harvester ranks as an editorial advertising writer and promoter of sales. Three years later, he left the Harvester organization to join the Kansas City office of the Paramount Company, then known as the Kansas City Feature Film Company, A. D. Flintom, president.

BRADLEY BARKER RETURNS TO FOX FORCES.

Bradley Barker, who is well remembered for his character portrayals in "The Little Gypsy" and "A Woman's Honor," has returned to the William Fox forces for an important role in a production now in work at the Fort Lee, N. J., studios. Mr. Barker will be seen as Dr. Wu Ching, a crafty Oriental, in "A Heart's Revenge," starring Sonia Markova. William Fox has tentatively scheduled the picture for January release.

NEW ROLE FOR DESMOND.

William Desmond, Triangle favorite, is soon to be seen in a decidedly new role, that of a swashbuckling pirate of the Caribbean Sea, and it is said he will be hardly recognizable in his top boots and uncouth garb. Desmond is raising a mustache to aid his appearance in the part of "The Sea Panther," the title of the story.

Spokes from the Hub

By Marion Howard

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG scores again with "Shirley Kaye," ably supported by the inimitable George Fawcett, whose work is unique as to facial expression, and didn't he make a graceful surrender to the bewitching heroine! Here we found dainty Claire Whitney, and some of us thought the lovemaking of the Earl (John Sunderland) rather convincingly true to life, and, sure enough we now read of their marriage and of the groom's departure for England under the colors, his leave having expired. The Select company is rightly named, judging from the pictures thus far given us.

* * *

I have found some more screen players here. Stewart Baird, of the Hub, now in "The Rambler Rose," with another screen player, Julia Sanderson; Jane Stuart and Florence Auer in "The Wanderer" with Nance O'Neil. A local writer put James O'Neill in the pictures, which is news indeed. Guess he was thinking of James Neill of the Lasky forces. Then we have Burton Holmes here with his lectures, while his profile appears at picture house on the titles of his wonderful travel reels. A recent visitor was Miss Ethel Cunningham, formerly with the Vitagraph, here in a little play, "A Regular Business Man," written for Douglas Fairbanks and done equally well. At the picture house where I went to see it we were inflicted with the most awful dose of slapstick I have ever had thrust upon me—all about a circus and consuming 15 minutes of perfectly good time. Several, including men in uniform, left the theater in disgust. How do such pictures pass the Board of Review anyhow? One-half the audience was made up of young people—more's the pity!

* * *

The Fenway had a patriotic feature last week worth mentioning—a stirring song called "The Unfurling of the Flag," written by a Back Bay woman, Miss Clara Endicott Sears, set to music in march time by John Densmore. Miss Helen Rumsey Smith sang it well, while the screen illustrated the words with stirring pictures done by the Atlas Film Corporation at its new studio in Newton. Harry Davenport, so long with Vitagraph and other companies as player and director is here engaged for this new concern. Leon J. Dadmun is president. Mr. Davenport tells me that his son is at the front.

* * *

Best picture seen here of late? By all odds it is "The Eternal Temptress," with "Cavalieri the beautiful," who has made a big hit in this her second try at the screen. In "The Shadow of Her Past" we had good scenery and staging, but she was only momentarily satisfactory. At all times in the newer one she was perfect and does she not face the camera fearlessly? I cannot recall another who so fills the eye as to beauty and grace. Director Chautard must have been given carte blanche, for every detail seemed perfect. My companion rebelled at the needless suicide at the close and said "Too bad, for Dexter was worth waiting for." Alan Hale had a small part and was listed on the title as "Allen." This is certainly a great picture from any standpoint and a credit to the Famous Players.

* * *

In "The Unforeseen" we get not only a very fine picture with new angles, but Olive Tell is most pleasing in this her first one. Here we have Fuller Mellish, an old timer on stage and screen, and David Powell, the dependable player, in a somewhat pathetic role at the close. We rarely get such interiors as this or such gardens and ball rooms.

* * *

Another good Vitagraph in "The Fettered Woman," and she was all that and more. Alice Joyce seems just the player for the role and is ably supported by Webster Campbell. There were one or two ancient melodramatic situations, on the other hand some new ones to offset all that. One of the funniest episodes seen in a picture for a long time was the sleepy railway train led by "Emma," otherwise known as the locomotive. It made us all laugh heartily over the types of passengers, the hero the only one who looked as if he knew of a Broadway. Splendid adaptation of Chambers' book "Anne's Bridge." A dog and a parrot figured to add to the hilarity of all in front.

Little Mary McAlister's name means a box office success anywhere. Mrs. Ayer gave her large following "Sadie Goes to Heaven," a flawless picture of interest to mixed audiences. The Exeter of late has opened an extra box office to facilitate matters in making change for the thoughtless ones who do not get the tax pennies ready.

* * *

A good story of Irish life is "Molly Entangled," featuring Vivian Martin and Harrison Ford. Another is "Nearly Married," with Madge Kennedy, the clever comedienne of the speaking play. "The Auction Block" went well, so full of incidents more or less of a lesson. I noted the late Walter Hitchcock, in presumably his last picture. Rex Beach ought to be pleased with this dramatization, which I hear he personally supervised.

* * *

Some fans "line up" "The Secret Game" with "The Cheat," but there is little comparison, and it needed a Fannie Ward to make this nearer its equal. Hayakawa does a finished piece of work, and his handling of the Japanese fittings in his alleged business office showed great skill. The play is timely and full of suspense and twists. Raymond Hatton was some sight as the housekeeper. Isn't he versatile? I have seen him in the role of crook, king, soldier of France, lover, diplomat, spy, etc., but never before playing the woman.

* * *

Well, why did not the Essanay company capture "Bunker Bean" for their new star, Taylor Holmes, who created the role with tremendous success? Can Jack Pickford do it? Well, the lad has given us some surprises like "Tom Sawyer," now on here at several theaters. We have Griffith's masterpiece "Intolerance" at the Globe theater and some stunning Prizma pictures, "Our Navy in Colors," at the Tremont Temple, a place of worship on Sundays and a picture house week days.

* * *

We were edified on seeing Jack Gardner in the "Gift o' Gab," a merry comedy, one which must be seen to get the gist of. Douglas Fairbanks has nothing on Gardner as to athletic stunts, and he must look to his laurels. Following a hilarious supper Tom Bain, the hero, and two chums emerge from a cafe at daybreak, take possession of a hansom cab, make matters lively, are pursued by the police in an auto. Tom jumps from the cab to a tree bough, then to the top of the auto, then to a trolley car top, thence to a freight train, striking terra firma without a scratch—presumably. It was a bit uncanny to witness. Good college stuff in this play.

* * *

Saw "The Conqueror" at the Park, a splendid picturization of the meteoric life of Sam Houston and of vital interest to an older generation. William Farnum was all that could be desired, but can we ever forget the dog episode, so natural. Wonder how he was trained to die just that way. "What a monster," said a friend next me when the villain fed the dog with meat and glass hash. It is the first time I have ever seen an animal used thus in a picture, and I wonder if any other producer would permit such a wicked thing done even on the screen.

* * *

Billie Burke in "The Land of Promise" gives out her best work, and such a fine company! Jack Johnston is a favorite of mine; so is Mary Alden, who will be recalled for her work in "The Birth of a Nation." Here she had a thankless part of a shrewish wife, made so by circumstances. A man was heard to say, "Why does the husband wear such good clothes and allow his wife to slave and cook for that bunch—no wonder she rebels." Tom Meighan had an unusual part, but was easily tamed by the sympathetic little heroine who aroused the soul in him. The speaking play is now on at The Copley theater to packed houses.

* * *

Space is too limited for any extended mention of pictures equally worthy, like "Her Beloved Enemy," with our own Doris Grey and J. H. Gilmour, a good Thanhouser picture; "Diamonds and Pearls," with Kitty Gordon wearing them gracefully, much to the delight of those who go in for that sort of thing; "The Avenging Trail," for Harold Lockwood and Sally Crute, a picture not differing much from thousands with the same theme, but giving Harold a chance for fisticuffs to call out the "Ahs" of the men. The Drews continue to entertain with their little domestic pictures, the Hearst-Pathe are giving us the news of the war, much of it from France, and local current events all of interest.

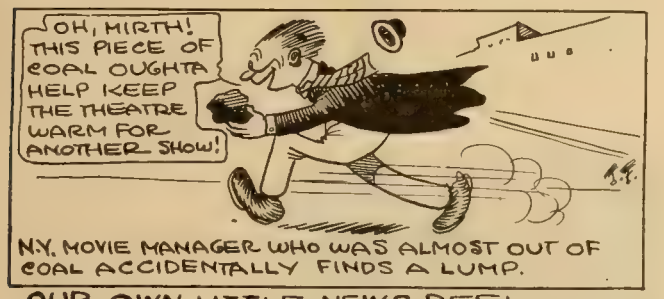
Grinding the Crank

With Thornton Fisher

ABOUT the only permanent thing in some studios today is the flooring.

* * *

They won't exempt a young juvenile simply because he supports the star.



OH, MIRTH! THIS PIECE OF COAL OUGHTA HELP KEEP THE THEATRE WARM FOR ANOTHER SHOW!
N.Y. MOVIE MANAGER WHO WAS ALMOST OUT OF COAL ACCIDENTALLY FINDS A LUMP.

OUR OWN LITTLE NEWS REEL.

We want to see a moving picture of old Kaiser Bill being—— [Nix on the rough stuff. This is a genteel trade paper.—Editor.]

* * *

Our Own Little Hints to Would-Be Photoplaywrights.

(Apologies to E. W. S.)

I am a carpenter, but the hard work is telling on me. My friends advise me to become a scenario writer. What would you suggest.

Answer.—The trenches.

* * *

Dear Sir:

In writing scenarios which side of the paper do you use? And if so is a typewriter ought to be used for same and should it be rolled or folded (the scenario, not the typewriter)? And where is the best chance you've got of selling same, or do you got to be on speaking terms with the manager, and would a box of cigars help some with him?

Answer.—Yes and no.

* * *

Dear Sir:

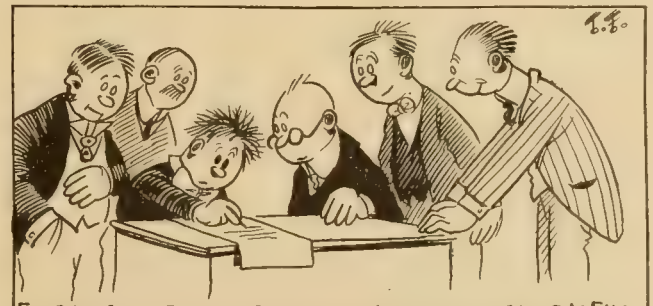
I am writing a scenario and need some advice. John loves Mary, and upon finding her with a rival round the corner of the gas works pulls out a hop needle and shoots himself in the left arm. Mary's grandmother, who is doing a "fish walk" on the back porch with grandpa, seeing it rushes to him, exclaiming: "You leave my best hop needle alone, John Hayberry. I hate you, you." At this point I want to get in something pathetic. What do you recommend?

Answer.—Leave it alone. It's pathetic enough.

* * *

Ladies and gentlemen of the trade, let us present a few paragraphs of a close imitation of the average "Answer Man's Column" in a modern movie magazine, wherein he is supposed to answer a question concerning the age of a certain star. Here goes:

Oh, X, I think you are a jollier. I love to receive your letters. Do I look as if I were fat, foolish and forty? Surely, send them on. I will be glad to receive them. Oh, you little rascal, so you want to know how old Francis Keenan Hart is. That would be telling. Write him yourself. If you enjoy his work I'm sure he would love to have you tell him so. Yes, King William played the lead in "The Doughnut's Revenge" or "Who Stole the Lump of Sugar."



An exciting time occurred in the home of a famous comedy director noted for his absentmindedness two weeks ago. It seems that the servant was serving a plate of soup to the director's wife and while attempting to place it on the table accidentally spilled the whole thing down the back of the lady's neck. The incensed director leaped from his chair, claiming that it was poor comedy, amateurishly done, and wouldn't get a laugh in a nut factory, and demanded that he try it over again.

DIVE AND STICK YOUR FACE INTO THE SNOW, JAMES! ATTA BOY!
IF THE FOLKS IN MATTOON COULD ONLY SEE ME NOW!
AFTER THIS SCENE HE'S GOT TO DIVE THROUGH A HOLE IN THE ICE INTO THE RIVER— OH, BOY!
AND THE POOR LAD SHIVERS LIKE A MEXICAN HAIRLESS HOUND WHEN IT GETS BELOW 75 DEGREES!
B-R-R-!
LEAVE IT TO ME TO BE THE BOOB WHO'S ALWAYS CAST IN THESE WINTER SCENES IN THE NORTH-WEST WOODS!
JIMMY, THE JUVENILE, WHO HATES THE SNOW AND COLD IS COMPELLED TO DO A SCENE IN BOTH.
THORNTON FISHER

Adventures of a Film Critic

By Robert C. McElravy.

SOME five years ago, when the writer first came to New York, he began looking for a job and some kindly providence directed him to The Moving Picture World. He got a job as a reviewer, or critic, of the new films. He took the job for the same reason that a person usually takes a job, for the simple reason that it was—well, because it was a job!

Prior to that he had seen a few moving pictures; the first one was that of a train moving down a mountain railroad. This was in Detroit, Mich., in the year 1899, at the Wonderland vaudeville theater. He afterward saw some moving pictures Somewhere-on-Curtis street, in Denver, then a few at Clune's and Tally's in Los Angeles; still later at his home town in Iowa he used to drop into the old corner grocery, where he was once delivery boy, and look over four or five reels of an evening.

He was not entirely a stranger to the films on coming to New York. At the same time the idea had not yet occurred to him in connection with this new and strange occupation that he might pick up a little information as he went along. People didn't go to see moving pictures in order to learn anything, did they? A fellow simply went to "see th' pictures" with his best girl in order to hold hands in the dark and make fun of the actors, didn't he?

Well, anyway, he got started as a moving picture critic and since that time has written reviews of between ten and fifteen thousand reels (no kidding!), and knows some very good fellows who have seen that many and even more.

He has seen bands of dusky redskins surrounding wagon trains upon the broad plains of the West; he has seen mounted regulars riding at top speed from the distant stockade to the rescue; he has seen sheepmen and cattlemen battling upon the open range; he has seen the gallant cowboy, astride his snorting broncho, going forth to save the daughter of the ranchowner. He has seen the desert and the mountains and the rivers in all their native splendor; he has climbed the Rockies of our own West and the Alps of Switzerland; he has viewed Paris from Eiffel Tower and Egypt from a steamer on the Nile; he has consorted with the Sphinx and the pyramids; he has gone upon polar expeditions in the North and South. He has seen the native life of many lands—the belles of Brittany, the hula-hula dancers of Hawaii, the wooden-shoed children of Holland, the coolies of China, the water-carriers of India, the Eskimos of the arctic regions. He has seen plant life, insect life, the animals and birds of the wild in their native habitat; he has seen bees and ants and goldfish; he has seen microscopic views of the lively little creatures that take their exercise in a drop of water. He has looked upon heroes who fly in airships and heroines who drop from bridge tops to moving trains; he has seen the simple country miss coming to the wicked city; he has seen the disillusioned youth returning to his country town; he has seen the lady vampire and the gentleman villain at their cleverest tricks. He has seen virtue rewarded and villainy geting it in the neck; he has seen manifold joys and sorrows on the screen. He has seen comedies, dramas, melodramas and tragedies; he has seen knockabout and slapstick performances without end. He has seen calm, pastoral scenes and scenes of fire and pestilence; he has seen nature in serene and violent moods; the aftermath of windstorms, earthquakes and volcanic disturbances. He has seen proud czars and kaisers marshaling their armies upon the field; he has seen war and the destruction wrought by war; he has seen an indignant world rise up in wrath to strike down autocratic aggression; he has seen bold men cleaving the air and brave men fighting in the trenches to save democracy to the world, and he hopes to see upon the screen the beaten armies of the warlord retreating to Berlin, pursued by the allied forces which alone can restore peace and freedom to the world!

Yes, it is all there on the screen, every afternoon and night, just around the corner at the nearest picture house, or down town at the more stately palaces that have been built.

Yet it was only the other day that the critic was talking with a man who didn't seem to know anything about it. He was one of those fellows who don't seem to get around much, perhaps up to the zoo or down to the aquarium once or twice a year. You do meet that kind quite frequently, you know. They are usually afflicted with culture and conservatism.

"Hello, there" he said, with a pleasant smile, "is there anything doing in the movies just now?"

Why, the poor simp! The critic looked at him and started to say something. Then he stopped and yawned; you can't do very much for some people, you know. And then, too, the critic was forced to admit that it wasn't so very long ago that he might have asked just exactly the same fool question himself!

Ivy Deibel Wins Fox Contest

CONTINUOUS daily publicity for nearly two months has been obtained for William Fox stars through a contest conducted under Mr. Fox's auspices in the Cleveland News and Sunday Leader. Pictures of all the principal Fox players and a great variety of information regarding the Fox organization have been published in the two newspapers, resulting, it is said, in an appreciable increase in the business which Cleveland exhibitors of Fox productions have been doing.

The newspapers, through an arrangement with the producer, agreed to furnish free trips to and from New York for the winner of the contest and the chaperon selected by her. In addition, the successful young woman was guaranteed a tryout of at least one week in the Fox Eastern studios and that the picture in which she appeared would be shown in Cleveland. The contest, which ended Monday, December 17, attracted a great deal of attention, several hundred young women ranging in age from upward of sixteen years, having entered their photographs.

Ivy Deibel.

The winner was to be the one who, on tests, proved best suited for film work. Selections of ten were made on the basis of photographs and personal appearance. Film was taken featuring the ten and from inspection of this the committee chose Miss Ivy Deibel of 10201 Olivet avenue. She is twenty years old, a brunette, weighs 119 pounds and is athletic. The successful young woman came to New York the latter part of December and now is taking an important role in a picture being made at Fort Lee.

Mr. Fox is reported to be enthusiastic over the result of the contest and says the plan will be continued. Not only does he find the idea productive of extensive publicity and of increased business for Fox exhibitors, but he also considers that it justifies itself solely from the standpoint of developing possible stars. It is recalled in this connection that June Caprice was discovered through a similar contest conducted in Boston and that her subsequent rise has been exceptionally rapid.

FENNIMORE COOPER TOWNE DEAD.

Fenimore Cooper Towne, the young actor playwright, son of Edward Owings Towne, the dramatic author, and grandnephew of James Fenimore Cooper, the novelist, died recently at his father's residence, New York City.

Mr. Towne was a very popular and rising young actor and writer. He played the light comedy part in his father's play "Other People's Money," for three seasons. He played in a sketch written by himself called "Spilling the Beans," for two seasons in vaudeville. He has recently devoted himself to motion pictures, having been the personal business manager of several of the leading directors.

The funeral services were held at his father's residence, St. James Court, 92nd street and Broadway, New York City, at 8 o'clock, Sunday evening, Feb. 6.

BURTON RETURNS TO NEW YORK.

Frederick Burton, who plays "Cousin Egbert" in George K. Spoor's "Ruggles of Red Gap," has returned to New York, having finished his portion of this Taylor Holmes production. Mr. Burton created this role in the original stage presentation of "Ruggles of Red Gap." This is to be his first appearance in pictures.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

Interesting Educationals

One Engineering Subject, Two Zoological, One Agricultural, Three Travel, Two Horticultural, One Sport, One Art, One Industrial and One Economic.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"The Panama Canal" (Paramount-Bray).

A MECHANICAL drawing by J. F. Leventhal illustrative of the operation of the locks and the control of the water levels of the Panama Canal will be found in the 102d release of the Pictograph. As is usual with Mr. Leventhal's illustrations, a clear idea of the subject can be had from the picture, where we see the passage of a ship through the locks and the various happenings which allow of its easy and safe guidance from coast to coast.

"Bird Island" (Prizma-Stone).

The fame of this island on which thousands of wild birds congregate and hatch their young has spread far and wide, and George E. Stone of the Prizma, Inc., has brought pictures from there, photographed by means of the Prizma method, which are unusually fine. The rarest of sea birds, the petrel, is presented on the screen in interesting and remarkably close views. The cormorant, which builds its nest in the most inaccessable places, has proved the camera man to be worthy of his trust; for one wonders how it was possible to photograph the nest and eggs of the cormorant, and also the bird itself on its nest, at such close range. The sea gull standing like a sentinel on the very summit of the highest rock is an inspiring sight. Then there is the murre and the sea parrot, both of which are given equal attention. Close-ups of the eggs and young of these birds add to the interest of the picture, which is, of course, in color.

"Rare Tropical Birds" (Prizma-Stone).

In this picture a number of rare tropical birds of brilliant plumage are shown. Birds from various parts of the world, which we will not attempt to name, have been photographed for Prizma, Inc., by George E. Stone. The birds have posed well after much trouble on the part of the photographer, who tells us that many times during the process of posing them they attempted to fly into the camera. The picture is unusually pleasing in color.

"How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate" (General Film-Essanay).

An agricultural subject which shows the methods employed in Canada for raising great wheat crops. The fields are plowed by gasoline tractors and by horses, in the old way. Then comes the cutting and binding of the grain, the threshing and shipment to the great system of elevators, numbering not less than 3,500 all told. Government inspection of the grain is another important detail. After this the milling is treated in brief form. A well-illustrated and interesting subject.

"Through Canada from Coast to Coast" (General Film-Essanay).

This offering, No. 6, of the "Wonders of Nature and Science" series, begins at Nova Scotia and crosses the Dominion of Canada, giving scenes from the important cities of Montreal, Toronto, Sault Ste Marie, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria. It also gives many fine glimpses of rivers, mountains and other scenic wonders. Canadian industries are also pictured in this instructive number.

"Beside the Glimmer-Glass" (Educational-Brice).

Another of those remarkably beautiful scenics which have been contributed to the moving picture library of scenics. It consists of a number of views in the western mountains and valleys and includes a placid-visaged lake nestled in the hills, where the reflections of mountains are the only things, beside now and then a passer-by, to disturb it. It serves as mirror and wash basin to the traveler, and is, besides, a thing of beauty.

"Bruges—Before the War" (Pathe).

A tinted half-reel, depicting the famous city of Belgium, known to the world as a great commercial center since the Twelfth century. It still has the aspect of a mediaeval city in many respects, with its moats, bastioned walls and splendid Gothic architecture. The Town Hall, bridges, canals, Lake of Love and other features are pointed out. A glimpse of the art of lace making, by hand, is also included.

"In Blossom Time" (Pathe).

A half-reel of film which will be appreciated by the majority of audiences, not alone by reason of its beauty, but because of the suggestion of the freshness of spring contained in the tinted views of plum, peach, almond and cherry blossoms presented. These blossoms are shown in the process of opening, and the effect achieved is very beautiful and attractive.

"Bessie Boston's Dahlia Farm" (Prizma-Stone).

More interest than merely the color interest which the Prizma method allows is attached to the views photographed by George E. Stone on the dahlia farm of Bessie Boston at San Mateo, California. It is interesting to many of us to know that Miss Boston was a former newspaper woman and that when her health failed to permit her to follow the strenuous duties attached to her profession she chose one of the most beautiful of vocations by which to make a livelihood—that of raising and breeding dahlias. These pictures show many scenes in her beautiful gardens, as well as individual closeups of blossoms of rare varieties. She herself poses for the camera in order to explain a few interesting things about the dahlia tubers and the correct method of planting them. We also learn in the picture something of the artificial means used in breeding rare varieties.

"Angling for Steel-Head Trout" (Prizma-Stone).

An interesting short bit photographed by George E. Stone in which the Fish and Game Warden of that territory is caught by the camera making possibly the only failure at trout catching which he ever made. This is followed by a genuine catch after he has looked and acted his disgust over his former trial. This, of course, has a comic touch and is heightened in interest by the color quality of the picture.

"The Manikin Theater in Greenwich" (Universal).

In the 56th release of the Universal Screen Magazine will be found an interesting item which acquaints us with the fact that in Greenwich Village there is maintained a unique theater in which only manikins perform. It is amusing and astonishing to watch these funny and truly realistic figures going through their "stunts." The picture disillusionizes us finally when it leads us behind the scenes where we are privileged to watch the manipulation of the limbs of the funny little people by means of wires in the hands of a fair executrix.

"Building Wooden Ships" (Universal).

An interesting and lucid description of how wooden ships are built is given in the 56th release of the Screen Magazine. Closeups of the workmen performing individual tasks are shown, and also the hoisting into position of individual parts of the vessel. Well photographed and timely.

"Flour from Potatoes" (Paramount-Bray).

Necessity being the mother of invention, we have been forced by conditions brought about by the war to look elsewhere than to the grain of wheat for bread-making products. It has been found that the potato contains all of the nutritive elements found in wheat; therefore a flour is being manufactured from the potato from which bread can be made more economically than from wheat. The picture, in addition to showing the process through which the potato is put in converting it into flour, teaches us that on account of the potato containing more starch than the wheat grain, for instance, less potato flour is required for the same amount of dough than other flours. The use of potatoes not fit for the table, and of the parings as well, constitutes an economy worth considering.

A Plain Truth

The Reason Why the Educational Moving Picture Has Not Been Acceptable to the Public.

JUSTICE is not being done to the Educational Pictures. For some time now it has been evident that the Educational Pictures were not having "a square deal," not that any one was particularly to blame, but rather that there was some sort of condition which seemed in some way to be hindering the proper development of the educational pictures after they had secured a hold upon the public mind and taste, besides having aided to bring into good repute the whole field of moving pictures. It is well known that we are now in the day of the educated pictures, that which was good enough a few years ago is too poor to be considered now; standards have been lifted, the public taste has been elevated, censorship is almost forgotten through lack of need for its unsought-for advice, the carping critics are bankrupt, and entirely out of business. Through all this the Educational Pictures have not seemed either to increase in popular favor or to attain a higher standard. Although constantly studying the matter the writer has not been able to fathom the reason, or to discover the difficulties; he has, however, found some causes which may eventually lead to a solution of the problem. One thing particularly noticeable was that they were not always acceptable to the general public when made part of the program, except in the best of theaters and with a more intelligent audience; even then there often seemed some sort of a cloud hanging over their appearance. The reason for this latter state of things has at last revealed itself: They have not been properly screened.

Phobably the most used of those subjects classed as educationals are the scenics; these were more readily accepted by the general public and commanded more general attention, besides seeming less pointed in educational or instructive value than any other subjects. Alas, however, they soon became a sort of "drag" to a program, and their appearance was not at all times most welcome. Why? The plain revealed truth is they were, and are, too long drawn out. There are some stories and some pictures which may be extended to a serial length, but not educational pictures; they must be brief, pointed, explicit, interesting and final.

There are three things very much alike in their objectives which must also be similar in their presentation; they are sermons, lectures and educational pictures. Today the half-hour sermon is cut down to fifteen minutes; the lecture is likewise condensed and both are made richer in the process; the pictures must follow suit.

All scenics are too painfully long; in their length they lose their beauty; in their monotony they lose their interest; in their consumption of time they become dreary; in their staying powers they "wear out their welcome." They must be cut and cut again; rivers must lose their mileage and mountains their long dreary slopes up which the weary traveller is painfully plodding with the audience equally weary. It seems almost unbelievable, but we have some scenics three reels in length, simply because there is the excuse of a thin, long drawn out story interwoven therein. These could easily be cut down to two reels and then be too long. Their interest would, however, increase with the decrease in size. One of these so-called important scenics was recently shown before an audience of most intelligent people. It was noticeable that as the picture grew in length the audience decreasd in size, so that when the picture was finished the hall was about half empty. "No more scenics" was the verdict there. Who was to blame?

Travelogues come under the same condemnation. What a lack of tact is shown in the lack of cutting! Children tire and their elders yawn; yet they smile, they must smile, for when the tedious length is at last exhausted, "Passed by the Board of Censors" reminds them that they have also been passed by the bored public; yes, passed for all time.

What a wonderful example was set at the new Rivoli, where the gems of several reels of scenics were cut and selected to less than one reel! What appreciation was shown by the audience even to the audible expressions of admiration, and, above all, how they fitted the true definition of educational and were helpful and inspiring! Truly herein lies their redemption. The screening of educationals has never been made a study. They have been thrust upon the public without care or discrimination. It seemed that as they were educationals they must be all right. Because they needed no censor of subject it did not follow that they needed no censor of presentation. Justice has not been done to educational pictures and they have lost power and acceptability therefor. This is a state of things which must be immediately remedied. In another article the writer proposes to present other grave injustices which have come to him as the reason why the educational pictures have not only not been filling their mission, but why they have lost power, and place the blame if possible.

W. H. J.

North Carolina Takes Bull by Horns

At Legislative Session Appropriation of $25,000 for Rural Community Motion Picture Entertainments for North Carolina Is Made.

ONE of the needs of rural communities is a form of entertainment which will bring closer the life of the world. The motion picture offers the best solution of this problem. Unfortunately the difficulty of obtaining suitable films, the cost of the equipment and of exhibiting the films, and the legal requirements regarding fire-proof booths and licensed operators have made it almost impossible heretofore to maintain regular motion picture entertainments in the country neighborhoods.

The state of North Carolina has taken the bull by the horns. At the last legislative session an appropriation of $25,000 was made to assist rural communities in arranging for motion picture entertainments. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction was directed to provide for such entertainments where communities desired them. The plan for putting this act into operation has been worked out and a circuit has been organized in Sampson County. Under this plan the motion picture service is combined with the community organization work done by the State Bureau of Community Service. The act provides for a series of entertainments varying in number and cost, two-thirds of the cost being paid by the communities served, and one-third by the State. A unit consisting of one complete picture outfit, photoplays and operator and everything necessary for one year's service, it has been found, costs about $3,000. The county's share is $2,000, the state providing the balance. The plan involves the organization of a circuit of ten community centers, each guaranteeing its proportionate part of the cost to the county Board of Education. The entertainments are held twice a month. The type of man chosen for operator is one who can organize community leagues in the different communities. Each program consists of not less than six reels, occupying about one and one-half hours. The remaining half-hour of the meeting is made available for holding a community meeting and discussing community problems. At this meeting may appear some state official interested in community development work, such as farm demonstrations, and present the subject in which he is interested. Other officials accompanying the operator in his rounds may be the County Superintendent or the County Health Officer.

Ten communities in Sampson County asked for the service for a full year beginning November 20. Each of these communities guaranteed to the Sampson County Board of Education a sum not to exceed $225.00 to pay for the service, each being allowed the privilege of choosing its method of raising the money. In every case the communities decided to charge an admission fee of ten cents. This is proving a decided financial success, according to information received at the office of the National Board of Review. Some of the communities have taken in at a single meeting more than three times as much as the cost of the service. The program running at the first part of December consisted of two reels presenting a Boy Scout story full of patriotism and German spies; two reels of a Max Linder Comedy; and two health reels on tuberculosis furnished by the State Board of Health. The county health officer made the rounds with the operator, talking a few minutes at each meeting on the subject of tuberculosis and Red Cross seals in connection with the films.

Prizma Pictures Kilauea

Colored Illustrations of the World's Largest and Most Active Volcano Astonishing in Character.

SOME of the most remarkable educational views that have ever been photographed are those of the great volcano of Hawaii, as presented by Prizma, Inc. The volcano Kilauea is not only the largest in the world, but the most active. In its tremendous crater there is constantly in motion a sea of molten lava which sputters its anger over high walls formed also of lava which has cooled and hardened through the ages. In the Prizma picture the vividness of the scene is indescribable; and not until you have seen these pictures is it possible for you to realize what a spectacle Kilauea really presents, unless perchance you have visited it in reality. Here and there on the grayish black froth which fills the crater the red hot lava can be seen boiling and spouting. Reflections of this red heat at various points add color of a terrifying sort to the scene. The sink hole is a spectacle by itself, and even the destructive vapors which arise continuously have their share in vividness of portrayal by Prizma. The picture is hard to describe and wonderful to see. It is being exhibited in conjunction with "Our Navy" at the 44th Street Theater, New York City.

X-Ray Photographed

Universal Screen Magazine 55 Contains Remarkable Photographic Studies of X-Ray of Human Skeleton in Motion.

AMONG the astonishing things which the editors of the various screen magazines have collected for the public are a number of X-ray photographic studies of the human skeleton in motion. These will be found in the Universal Screen Magazine No. 55, and are said to be the first of their kind presented on the moving picture screen.

Before passing on to the subject proper we are shown the X-ray tube and the intricate X-ray switchboard. Then comes the examining of fractured arm bones with a fluoroscope, an apparatus which enables one to see bones without X-ray plates. The viewing of the movement of the bone of the elbow, of the knee, and of the foot, shorn completely of their covering of flesh is a remarkable sight. There are also X-rays of the stomach, and of the jaw in motion, and also of the hand toying with a rose.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company is to be congratulated upon the securing of a scientific subject of such vast importance and value.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A small number of clergymen representing the Catholic, Episcopal, Baptist and Presbyterian churches of New Jersey met in the Senate Chamber of the State House at Trenton on Wednesday afternoon, December 19, to discuss the question of preparing a bill for introduction at the legislature, providing for state censorship. Some opposition to the proposition developed. Mr. H. F. Sherwood, Assistant Secretary of the National Board of Review, attended the conference and pointed out that state censorship did not accomplish anything of value, and was destructive, not constructive. He showed that the average of the quality of motion pictures is constantly rising, and wherever there may be a demand for finer pictures, constructive methods are better than destructive for securing them. He indicated that the industry was constantly striving to improve its product, and that the United States Government was recognizing the tremendous value of the motion picture as a means of distributing information.

* * *

The Douglas Fairbanks picture, "The Modern Musketeer," which opened the Rivoli theater, has a special point of interest beyond the fact that it was produced in the vicinity of the Grand Canyon. Many of its scenes in fact have been taken within the canyon, presenting delightful views of the Colorado River and the wonderful interior of the big chasm from different points on its trails. The El Tovar and Bright Angel hotels appear in closeups at various times. The picture itself is one of unusual excellence.

* * *

"The Seven Swans," Paramount's Christmas offering, is a thing of beauty. It formed the Christmas attraction at the Strand theatre, New York City. It is an elaborate production of exquisite type, and was much appreciated by both children and grownups.

In Richmond, Va., a syndicate operating several theaters is giving Sunday afternoon entertainments for young people and children of the orphanages, children's homes, settlements and other classes of institutions, using selected pictures. These entertainments are given free, the manager believing that he owes this to the unfortunate young people of the city as a free-will offering. High class pictures chosen from the selected lists of the National Board of Review are used. The manager of this group of theaters, the Wells Theater Syndicate, is proposing to provide a free Sunday afternoon program of motion pictures for the soldiers from the neighboring training camp and the people of Richmond in the John Marshall High School auditorium. In connection with these meetings, in addition to the motion pictures, there will be addresses, community singing and solo and orchestral musical selections.

* * *

Gold beating is the first feature of Pathe's Argus pictorial No. 5, and it proves very interesting and instructive. The precious metal is first shown in the form of ingots. These are rolled into ribbons, which in turn are cut into small squares. The beating process is then shown, which in the end produces gold leaf only one three-hundred-thousandth of an inch thick.. Microscopic views of Bell Animalcula and Monstyla come next, two of the smallest forms of life. The number closes with a study of the Bagworm, which swings in the wind on the boughs of trees. The hatching out process and forming of new pupa cases are pictured.

* * *

A report received from our Washington Correspondent, S. E. Patchin, states that geography, history and language will be taught in the junior high schools of Spokane, Wash., by moving pictures, according to an announcement made by Ralph M. Brown, principal of the Stevens school, which will be converted into the household art junior high school next summer.

"We gave a cafeteria luncheon December 20 and the money realized from this luncheon will be used to start a fund with which we intend to purchase a moving picture machine," said Principal Brown. "Language will be taught by having the students write compositions on pictures which will be thrown on the screen. Noted places will be shown to the history classes and the children will also be taught geography by use of the films."

Principal Brown stated that he hoped to secure a set of films which have been made especially for teaching these classes. It is expected other schools which will be converted into junior high schools will contribute to the moving picture fund.

* * *

The following are longer dramatic pictures for the family and for young people which have been used successfully for special programs in theaters:

Artcraft, "The Devil Stone"; Goldwyn, "Sunshine Alley"; Metro, "The Eternal Mother," "The Adopted Son," "The Voice of Conscience," "The Square Deceiver," "Alias Mrs. Jessup," "The Outsider"; Paramount, "Molly Entangled," "The Judgment House," "The Trouble Buster"; Triangle, "The Learnin' of Jim Benton," "For Valor," "The Cold Deck"; Universal, "Beloved Jim"; Mutual, "Please Help Emily," "American Maid," "The Mate of the Sally Ann."

EXHIBITORS FOR TWELVE YEARS.

Casper Shults, former exhibitor of Little Falls, N. Y., visited the New York office of the Moving Picture World last week. Mr. Shults and his brother-in-law compose the firm of Reardon & Shults, who have been exhibitors in Little Falls for the past twelve years. They have just sold two of their houses, the Gem to Mr. Squire, Sr., and the Star to Mr. Thomas, both local gentlemen, who expect to continue giving their patrons high class picture programs. Messrs. Reardon and Shults still own the City Theatre block. The City Theatre has been converted into a skating rink by G. A. Williams and is doing good business.

ARNOLD-SANTON.

Cecilia Santon, former leading woman with Crane Wilbur, was married recently to First Lieutenant Earl W. Arnold, now stationed at Camp Alfred Vail. The ceremony occurred at the home of the bride's mother in Long Branch, N. J. Lieutenant Arnold expects to go to France soon and after his departure the bride will make her home with his mother in Los Angeles, Cal.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E. SINN

Non-Taxable Theater Music

Fifth Installment of Numbers Which Are Free from Royalty Charges.

BELOW we publish the sixth installment of the list of musical numbers upon which no royalties will be demanded, as furnished by Miss Catherine C. Melcher for the Chicago Local Branch No. 2, M. P. E. L. of A.

Carl Fischer, 335-339 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., 46 Cooper Square, New York.

Eldorey-Ballet Intermezzo, Von der Mehdew
Passing Caravan.....Schmid
Prelude .....Kiseler
Flirtation.....Meyer Helmund
Au Bord D'Un Ruissear..Rene de Boideffre
The Mill .....Jensen
Traeumerei .....Jensen
Desert Suite .....Homer Grunn
Indian Summer Suite.....M. L. Lake
Love in April.....C. Kriens
Petite Mazurka .....W. Sapelnikoff
La Colombe.....Ch. Gounod
Romance .....Wieniawski
Costachoque.....A. S. Dargomijsky
Romanze.....Carl Reinecke
Reverie.....Karl Rissland
Jota Spanish Dance.....E. Granados
Reverie (Traeumerei)....E. A. MacDowell
Two Characteristic Dances—1. March
2. Danse Arabe.....P. Tschaikowsky
Two Mazurkas .....F. Chopin
Andante Religioso .....G. Golterman
Adagio Expressivo.....R. Schumann
Serenade.....G. Saint-Saens
Adoration.....Felix Borowski
Romance.....Alfred Gruenfeld
A Halloween Episode.....M. L. Lake
A Deep Sea Romance.....M. L. Lake
Dolce Far Niente.....Lucius Hosmer
Anthony's Love Song.....L. Oehmier
Broken Melody.....A. Van Biene
Cleopatra's Death.....O. Oehmier
Dawn of Hope.....Jean D. Casella
Lamento..... Gabriel-Marie
Lost Happiness.....R. Eilenberg
Nocturnal Piece.....R. Schumann
Serenade.....C. M. Widor
Sweet Revery.....P. Tschaikowsky
Berceuse.....G. Karganoff
Clair De Lune.....F. Thome
Erotic.....E. Grieg
Pastel.....H. Faradis
Pensee D'Amour.....C. Ely
Sunshine and Shadow.....W. F. Sudds
Swan, The.....C. Saint-Saens
Hot Foot Dance.....M. L. Lake
Our Country First March.....Unshuld
Land of Moa March.....Lithgow
Wild Rosebud Intermezzo.....Tobani
Nubians Parade.....Borch
Chanson D'Amour .....Sear

Walter Jacobs, 8 Bosworth St., Boston, Mass.

Antar, Intermezzo Oriental..Max Dreyfus
Aubade Printaniere.....P. LaCombe
Ball of the Hen-Coop Knights..Laurandeau
Barcarolle, from "Tales of Hoffman," Offenbach
Bedouin.....Edwin F. Kendall
Belle of the Highlands.....J. J. Derwin
Belles and Beaux.....Bartlett Briggs
Berceuse.....Ludwig Schytte
Berceuse, from "Jocelyn".....B. Godard
Chirpers.....Charles Frank
Confetti Carnival Polka, John Carver Alden
Consolidation No. 6.....Franz Liszt
Crucifix .....J. Faure
Dainty Cupid Valse Ballet, Lester W. Keith
Dance of the Skeletons.....Thos. S. Allen
Dream Faces Reverie.....Bert Hollowell
Dream of Spring.....P. Hans Flath
Drift-Wood Novelette.....George L. Cobb
Elaine Valse Ballet.....Frank H. Grey
El Amante, a Mexican Scene..Thos. S. Allen
Enchanted Lute Serenade...C. E. Pomeroy
Expectancy Novelette.....Geo. L. Cobb
Farmer Bungton March Humoresque, Fred Luscomb
Flickering Firelight Shadow Dance, Arthur A. Penn
Flower of Mexico Intermezzo..Carlos Curti
From Foreign Parts.....M. Moszkowski
Girl of the Orient Persian Dance, Thos. S. Allen
Golden Dawn Tone Picture...Geo. L. Cobb
Grandfather's Clock, Descriptive, Louis G. Castle
Hamtown Minstrels.....L. P. Laurandeau
Happy Gap Geisha Dance..L. B. O'Connor
Happy Minstrels Medley Overture, L. P. Laurendeau
Herd Girl's Dream Idyl.....Aug. Labitzky
Humoreske.....Anton Dvorak
Hungarian Dance No. 2.....Brahms
Hungarian Dance No. 5.....Brahms
In a Shady Nook Tete-a-Tete, R. E. Hildreth
In a Tea Garden, a Japanese Idyl, Frank H. Grey
In Dreamy Dells, a Fairy Fantasy, Walter Rolfe
Intermezzo Irlandais.....Norman Leigh
In the Jungle Intermezzo....J. W. Larman
Irvina Intermezzo.....Walter Rolfe
Jungle Echoes, a Cocoanut Dance, R. E. Hildreth
Kelpie Dance Entr' Acte....W. K. Whiting
La Fontaine Idylle.....Ch. B. Lysberg
La Palmera.....L. P. Laurandeau
La Paloma (The Dove).....Yradier
La Petite Etrangere.....P. B. Metcalfe
L' Ermite (The Hermit) Meditation, R. Gruenwald
Little Coquette.....P. Hans Flath
Lost Chord.....Arthur Sullivan
Lovey-Dovey Intermezzo..Robt. A. Hellard
Mazetta, a Gypsy Idyl.....Thos. S. Allen
Mazurka No. 1.....C. Saint-Saens
Meditation and Chansonette...A. C. Morse
Melody in F.....Rubinstein
Mi Amada Danza de la Manola, Norman Leigh
Mimi Danse des Grisettes..Norman Leigh
Murmuring Zephyrs.....Adolf Jensen
Musidora Idyl d'Amour....Norman Leigh
My Polar Star, an Eskimo Intermezzo, Walter Rolfe
Myriad Dancer.....Thos. S. Allen
Namouna, Intermezzo Oriental, R. E. Hildreth
Neath My Lady's Window...J. W. Lerman
Nocturne, Op. 9, No. 2.....F. Chopin
Norwegian Dance, No. 2.....Greig
Numa, an Algerian Intermezzo, Thos. S. Allen
Pas des Amphores Air de Ballet, C. Chaminade
Pavena Entr' Acte.....Thos. S. Allen
Polonaise Militaire.....F. Chopin
Pride of the South.....Geo. L. Lansing
Reception Waltz Caprice.....E. H. Frey
Red Cloud Waltz Characteristique, E. C. Ramsdel
Salut d'Amour (Love's Greeting), Edw. Elgar
Scarf Dance and Air de Ballet..Chaminade
Serenade.....Franz Drylla
Serenade.....Gabriel Pierne
Serenade Badine .....Gabriel-Marie
Serenade d'Amour.....F. von Blon
Shadowgraphs, Scenes des Silhouettes, Norman Leigh
Sighing Surf.....Bernise G. Clements
Sleepy Hollow Idyl.....Thos. S. Allen
Solaret (Queen of Light)....Thos. S. Allen
Spanish Fantasia "La Paloma".....Missud
Summer Dream.....P. Hans Flath
Swedish Fest March.....Albert Perfect
Swedish Wedding March.....Sodermann
Tehama.....Chauncey Haines
Tendre Aveu Romance.....E. Schutt
Three Nymphs.....George L. Cobb
Tickle Your Toes.....Geo. J. Trinkaus
To a Star Romance.....H. Leonard
Twittering Birds.....L. P. Laurendeau
Valse, Op. 64, No. 2.....F. Chopin
Venetian Serenade.....P. Sudesi
Viscayan Belle .....Paul Eno
Vivien Entr' Acte....Eugene G. Ramsdell
Whirling Dervish.....J. W. Lorman
Young April Novelette.....Geo. L. Cobb
Zophiel Intermezzo.....R. E. Hildreth

McCarthy & Fisher 143 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., 148 West 45th St., New York.

In the Land of Yamo Yamo, McCarthy & Fisher
I'm Always Thinking of Georgia, Monaco & McCarthy
Lorraine.....Bryan & Fisher

Triangle Music Pub. Co., 821 Gravier St., New Orleans, La., 143 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

I'm Sorry I Made You Cry.....N. J. Clesi
I Like the Way You Kiss.....N. J. Clesi
Somewhere Some Day, Rosenbaum & Verges
Don't Leave Me, Daddy.....Jos. N. Verges

G. Schirmer, 3 East 43rd St., New York.

Selections from "You're In Love," Rudolph Friml
Selections from "Maytime," Sigmund Romberg
Selections from "Passing Show of 1917," Sigmund Romberg
Selections from "Land of Joy," Sigmund Romberg

Seltzer Reports Business Good.

Charles Seltzer, head of the Seltzer Music Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., states that the closing month of last year was the biggest in the history of his business. Seeburg pipe organ orchestras were sold and installed in the following houses during the past four weeks: Family, Braddock; Princess, Republic; Anchor, Diamond street, Pittsburgh; Comet, Beaver Falls; Paramount, Latrobe; Frederick, East Pittsburgh; Photoplay, Monaca; Barnes, Elwood City; Lyric, McKees Rocks; James Pizzola, Clairton; S. L. Woodward, Charleroi; Grand, McKees Rocks. This is some showing and indicates that the exhibitors are anticipating a revolt in business, even if things are a little slow at the present time.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Give It An Air.

COMMENTING upon a recent paragraph an Exhibitor remarks: "You must remember that we are not getting out an art catalogue, nor a booklet for the commemoration of a silver wedding anniversary." That is all very true, but on the same line of reasoning a restaurant manager might remark that he was selling food and not cleanliness. At the same time no one wants to sit in an untidy eating place, no matter how clean he may know the food itself to be. A house program is not supposed to be an elaborate production, but there is nothing whatever, save indifference, to prevent it from looking like something better than it is. It may use cheap book paper and still be so well planned that it gives the proper first impression. Some house programs are so smudgy and smeary, with all-chosen types and poor ornamentation that they are unlovely to the sight. They may announce the finest program in town, but they will not give the impression that they are put out by the leading theater and, consciously or otherwise, the reputation of the house will suffer. The multi-millionaire can afford to wear poor clothes and go unshaven, but the average business man must put up a good front, wear good clothes, dress his place of business attractively and seek to create a general air of prosperity. It is the same with the theater. You must seek to create the suggestion of briskness and prosperity in all that is done, and a poorly-planned, four-page house program may prove more hurtful than no program at all. The cheapest throwaway is as well worth your care and attention as the most elaborate lobby display. Just because it is a cheap job is the reason why more than ordinary care should be paid to its preparation and printing. The sheet may be in a prospect's hands only an instant, but that instant may prove fatal. The other day we saw the samples of a well-known paper company; a dozen sample sheets to be sent out broadcast. Each sheet preserved such perfect harmony between color, story and type that we spent half an hour looking over those few sheets for sheer love of the good work. There was not a jarring note. A cheap book paper was printed up in a block letter with "Utility." A dainty blue, linen finished, was done in imitation of angular script with "Femininity." Each sheet preserved the trinity of type, stock and color and was a thing of joy—save one. That was printed up "Cheapness." It was common news, printed in a gummy ink from type of the country printer style. Even before you could read the legend you wondered how that come to be in such good company. It was disgusting, through contrast with its fellows. You don't have to print an art catalogue each week—you'd be foolish if you did, but for the price you pay, or perhaps very little more, you can, with care, get a job that will suggest class and distinction. You can make a proper selection of type. You can lay it in the form with due regard for proportion. You can make people feel that your good printing stands for an attractive house and an absorbing program. But you cannot do this by merely sending the job to the printer and trusting to blind luck. Good printing is in itself an advertisement. It may not make your film attractions any better, but it assuredly will aid you in selling your entertainment.

Spacing.

We have before us a program with a column five inches wide. Some of the lines are but three and four inches wide, yet the printer uses the common letter space (three to the em) for spacing, crowding the matter into small compass. One line, for example, is "George Beban in His Sweetheart." This is in twelve point; the star in capitals and Tuesday, November 20, 1917.

PARENTS' and CHILDREN'S NIGHT
MASTER
BOBBY CONNELLY greatest child actor, in "What Bobby Wanted"
A one-part "kiddie" film.
GEORGE BEBAN in "His Sweetheart"
(Paramount)
A tender, quaint, pathetic photo-drama, showing the real heart and soul of the Italian, with the added interest of American environment and a strong story of love and politics.
Also:
A two-part Lonesome Luke comedy
Children 5c——ADMISSION——Adults 15c

the title in lower case. The line is about 2⅞ inches wide. A substitution of em quads for the three-to-em spaces would have lengthened the line and have given a better display. There is plenty of room for the change, but the printer did not think. The three-to-em is the regulation spacing. He did the usual thing and lost the display. The entire box makes a good study of spacing. Even the fact that this is a parent's and children's night does not justify the sinking of the main title to the Bobby Connelley picture, pleasing as that series is to the young people. It will be seen that here an eighteen-point letter is used for the Connelley name, and not only that, but the letters are spaced, making them look still larger. A line of ten-point is taken for the "Master," and there is a twelve-point bold title, in addition to eight-point lines. This sinks the five-reel feature, which is set in twelve-point light line, with a three-line bank of eight-point, and the comedy gets but a single line of eight-point, where at least a bold could have been employed. Putting the top name in eighteen-point extended would have given better results than spacing in this case, though often letter spacing is better than the use of an extended face. The "Master" could have been dropped, being covered by "Greatest Child Actor," gaining ten points. Then by eliminating the "also" following the Beban bank, Beban and his play could have been given each an extended line without crowding, and the Lonesome Luke could have gone into a ten-point bold letter. Probably both printer and house are to blame for this lack of display. Give the printer proper copy and then see that he gives you the proper display. Even where there is no lack of space the printer used a twelve-point bold for titles, where he could use an eighteen point to as good advantage and with better results to the display. No doubt the star is more of an attraction than the title, as a rule; but give the play a chance, too. Surely Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter" is as well known as Stuart Holmes, to give one example.

Australian Advertising.

Our Australian correspondent, Thomas Imrie, sends in a copy of the Sidney Sun, with the comment that the Sun is about the best paper in its line and the issue sent an unusually good one; from which we gather that it carries rather more patronage than usual. The Sun is an eight-column paper, twenty-two inches deep, rather larger than our average issue, and the issue sent in contains something more than three pages of motion picture advertising, including one advertisement for a supply house and one for Goldwyn. The full page reproduced here is the only one made up almost wholly of picture advertising. The majority of the advertisements are run down the right hand sides of the pages. The dominant advertisement on this page is that for the Petrova offering; three fifteens, the columns being rather wider than out measure. Much of this space, we think, is wasted. A more compact advertisement would have shown to better advantage. As it stands the two portrait cut, with the black top cut off the house name and yet the pictures carry no especial appeal. The action cut is stronger. The Gail Kane picture, in the lower right hand corner, carries but a single cut, yet it gets and holds the attention better and surrounds the text that runs with the cut. In the Petrova space it will be noticed that the actress has her back turned to the text. Most persons will have to turn back to the text afer a conscious effort instead of letting their glance slide from the cut to the text. It is a small matter in some ways, but it does not make for full value. The same feature is advertised in the space above the Alhambra. Here the space is divided with two other features and nothing is played up sufficiently. The Enmore gets a better display by boxing in all titles. Six titles (two programs) are shown and all six are given equal display, though the stars are relegated to the background. The third advertisement in the centre is evidently the newspaper's contribution to its readers. It lists the houses and their current attractions. Elsewhere, in the news columns, there is a list of newly-released titles. Most of the smaller advertisements on this page suffer from poor display. An eight-point bold all caps is the best they get, apart from the house name, but in such company it is scarcely probable that much more could be done. The pace is too strong to be followed, on that page.

Two good displays are shown in the next example. Apart from the straight line make up, that for Redeeming Love is the better because it connects the text directly with the cut. The top line is supposed to be the woman's speech and from that it runs into the story and then gives star and title. It holds interest right down the column. On the other hand the cut for The Deemster is attractive, but you must again be interested in the text to start to read. The small type tells all about the pictured people, but they are doing nothing to arouse our curiosity. It is a picture of a man and woman sitting on a rock; nothing more. It will be noted that while the Globe and Majestic also have a Fanny Ward picture, they do not try to advertise it strongly. They feel that Redeeming Love offers the stronger point of contact. They do not hurt that display by trying to share the space with another attraction, even though that may be equally good from other points. This is a point where too many double program exhibitors fail. They do not realize that it is better to advertise one feature well than to try to divide the attention. By all means give the full program by titles, but do not expect two halves to make as strong an appeal as one well directed punch. Concentrate on the title that is most likely to produce results and advertise that to the best of your ability. It will bring more money.

The next examples do not show so well. There is no character to either. The face of Poppy is not enough like Miss Talmadge to attract, and it is an error to get her name in 24 point type and gives a lettered name to the author in about 60 points. The star in most instances means much more than the author. Play up the star. Mention the author, if desired, but hold the display down. The lettered title suggests that this was either specially drawn or lifted from some other advertisement. In the former case the name of the author should not have been lettered in. In the latter the name should have been cut off before copy was sent to the engraver, but we think it was an error in judgment to use the lettered title at all. It makes the name indistinct. The chief function of the displayed advertisement is to impress upon the memory the time, the place and the attraction. All display advertising should be so framed that these three things stand out above all other parts of the advertisement. They should be so clearly displayed that even the person who is glancing over the paper with no intention of reading the amusement advertising cannot help but know that Poppy is at the Strand. It is not sufficient that the fans be reached. They will be landed anyhow. Advertise as well to the person who is not interested. Command his interest and you will get all that you can from your space. This applies with equal force to the advertisement for Miss Glaum on the right. The "fuzzy" sketch is bad enough, but to write the house name in script, and not a plain script, at that, is to greatly reduce the value of the advertisement. The letter press here is capital—about the best story in the entire issue, as it is told, but a sketch of the dance hall should have proven a far better attractor than a picture of the star in another and wholly different type of character. This advertisement shows up better in the reproduction than it does in competition with the advertisement for The Deemster shown above. With these two on the same page, The Manxman shows much the better of the two. The Glaum sketch is novel, but it is too indistinct for newspaper work where legibility and clearness of statement are the first considerations.

The general standard of advertising "down under" is as good as the best examples here, and they are almost prodigal in their use of space. Australia was the first, we believe, to use the scheme of music and pictures for a full evening's entertainment, at a respectable price. In this they were even ahead of the English and French houses, and all of them were ahead of this country in making the photoplay something more than the quick-lunch counter of amusements.

For Serials.

Here is a scheme one Exhibitor tried for a special. He announced that no admission would be charged for the serial to those who did not remain for the rest of the program. The first instalment was run off and the manager gave a brief talk on the portions to come. Then it was annouficed that those wishing to remain could do so. It took a little longer to collect from the audience, and possibly some persons avoided paying, but by having the aisles patrolled by ticket sellers, who moved from row to row at the same time, few who remained escaped payment and the collection was made in shorter time than would be supposed. The novelty of the idea got good results, and practically no one left after the showing of the serial.

One Theater's System.

F. H. Purrington, a Boston advertising expert, sends in a set of the advertising he does for the Olympia Theater, New Bedford, Mass., run by T. B. Baylies, asking for comment. He adds that it does not cover their entire advertising, but covers the main features of the work. Each month a folder is sent out. This is on good white paper, 8 by 11 inches, folded into thirds and with a third of one side printed up, with a close-up picture of the house front done from a photograph, with the letters forming the house name on the electric sign done in red. We presume that these are printed up in gross and the proper number of sheets taken for each month's use. This will cut the cost of the double printing and explain why the other two-thirds of that side has been left blank. Inside there is a tabular program of the attractions, by day and date. The house uses vaudeville and changes on Mondays and Thursdays, so that each attraction runs three days. The calendar runs on one of the thirds and is headed at the top "Tear this out," and below "Mark your dates." This last alludes to small squares to the left of the dates in which the recipient may make a mark against the plays he desires to see. The remainder of the space is taken with general talk and a reference to the herald enclosed. This herald is a strip, 11 by 3¼, folded once and set across the narrow measure. This gives, in their order, the comment on the various attractions, and is to be read in conjunction with the calendar on the other slip. On this folder there is no trace of date of any sort. We think that each attraction should end with "At the Olympia Monday to Wednesday," and the dates. If the slip should come into the hands of some one who has not access to the calendar there is no reference to dates to gain interest, and it would not consume much space to give this important information at the moment when interest in that title is most acute. The talk of the features is well done except for this, but the herald should be so framed as to be complete within itself. The second circular is a card sent by mail each week. This gives both the film and vaudeville attractions. The same cut as on the monthly circular is used, though this is slightly larger in detail and is cut off so as to show less of the house. It would save money to use the same cut for both jobs and run off the stock at the same time, saving one cost of make-ready. Here the type is jammed in by the printer, and you get too much at once. This applies both to the vaudeville and the film advertising. Using type too large forbids the greater advantage of white space with which to throw up the title. This is a favorite fault of the country printer, but this tendency should be checked. For the Sunday papers the house uses three nines, including a cut of the theater, that evidently serves as a trade-mark. This is a good idea, for then the appearance of the house is made familiar to the reader, and the sight of it unconsciously recalls the advertising argument. Two and a half inches are used on other days save in the Wednesday evening papers, when the change on Thursday is advertised in two sixes. The advertisements are better set than the mailing card, though the printer still seems to think that the larger the type the better the display. The one point we think is lacking is intimacy. The film fan is a rooter for stars. He wants to talk about stars and plays knowingly and confidentially. Talk to him in the same language. Get chatty. This copy is all the copy of a man trying to sell amusement. From that point of view it is well done, but the best way to reach the film fan is to tell him to come on down to the Olympia because Little Mary is going to be there in a play that suits her down to the ground. The best film advertising is the talk of one fan to another. For example, one of the Sunday ads tells of Jane Cowl in The Spreading Dawn. The copy reads:

> By the author of "The Inner Shrine," as screened by Goldwyn, showing a society belle of the Civil War, in a production that is replete with love interest and mysticism. The spectacular fire scene is a photographic work of wonder.

This would interest the playgoer, but something along these lines would appeal more strongly to the fan:

> This is another of those new Goldwyn pictures, of which you have already seen several. Jane Cowl has long been a noted stage star, but she had to come to the screen, along with the rest, to find her widest field. You are going to like her, for she has beauty and magnetism, and the story has a thread of mysticism that is almost as good as an old-fashioned ghost story, and more logical. Set in the picturesque Civil War times, with the quaint dressing of those times.

The whole of the press work should be more or less along these lines. Make the new stars known. Speak knowingly and intimately of the old friends. Be a fan. This extract from the program of the Third Street Theater, Easton, Pa., is along the line we like:

> Here we have the lovely Anna Murdock in a picturization of a stage success of last season, with many of the original cast, including David Powell.
>
> What do you suppose the beautiful adventure is? We'll give you three guesses and just a little hint. On her wedding morning to an "old stick" a little French maid runs away with her really truly lover. The resulting complicaions are deliciously funny.

That's the sort of talk fans appreciate.

Slide Making.

We are indebted to J. L. Ellman, advertising manager for the Harris L. Wolfberg attractions, for permission to reproduce his article on slides originally appearing in the "Pittsburgh Moving Picture Bulletin." In his preamble Mr. Ellman points out that the function of the announcement slide is to sell the picture to the spectator in the few seconds it remains on the screen, and to do this it should arouse sufficient interest to be retained vividly in the memory. He goes on to say:

THE PRINCIPLES INVOLVED.

Nobody as far as I know has ever written any rules for the proper construction of slides, but if we will apply the principles of the successful lay-out in the printed advertisement we should not be far from the safe rule.

Every advertisement should do four things: Attract attention, create interest, stimulate desire, and bring about action. The slide does not fight for attention but since several slides are usually presented in succession, the slide in this way does compete with others; not for attention but for a place in the memory of the audience. Therefore, the second and third functions of an advertisement are the important ones to remember in designing a slide.

To create interest and arouse a desire to see a certain picture the slide must contain what we may term a "teaser." Upon the successful selection of the teaser depends the success of a whole slide. The teaser should be in the form of the most pointed scene of the picture advertised, and therein lies the biggest task of the slide designer as well as of the advertising men who make the "Stills" in the moving picture studios. It is not an easy job to pick the pointed picture.

First of all, it must be truly representative of the whole story. Very often one scene will be picked which may be the most dramatic moment, or a moment of greatest tension in the picture and still be lacking in advertising value. We see such mistakes very often on posters that are otherwise very beautiful and lavish with colors.

PICKING THE TEASER.

The ideal pointed picture is the one which shows the intense moments of the story, which contains dramatic action, and which is at the same time truly descriptive of the main theme of the story.

In the illustration on this page there is a reproduction of a slide which advertises Florence Reed in "Today." This slide is an example of the "pointed picture." The inscription below the figures tell the story of "Today" in a sentence and at the same time arouse curiosity. The figures are considered as a single unit, and the bullseye effect gives them the unity of a single mass. The larger bullseye, that is the large circle, groups all the lettering in another mass. Here again, in this mass, are two distinct units that must be emphasized, namely the name of the picture, "Today," and the star, Florence Reed. Observe how both of these are emphasized and yet are in harmony with the rest of the slide.

The principles embodied in slide-making are worth serious thought and study on the part of everyone who is interested in making the slide "bring home the bacon."

The line on the slide to which reference is made, comes at the feet of the players and reads, "You sold yourself for a dress."

Paste This Up.

The latest Triangle booklet to come from the other side carries this gem by Philip Wright Whitcombe:

Don't say: "Business is poor. The people aren't coming in." Go get the people.

Stick that up over your desk and look at it the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. If the people do not come, go get them. It's only a matter of keeping their interest up with good programs and an inviting house, plus persistent advertising. They won't come unasked, but you can keep after them until you bring them in. GO GET THEM.

And Mr. Whitcombe gets at another evil when he says:

> Unreliability has been the curse of the film business. And the idea of atoning for a bad one one week by a good one the next has only made things worse.

It takes more time, it is more trouble and perhaps it will cost a little more to pick your program and make certain that you will have what your patrons really want. A poor feature one week, or part of a week, will hurt business for several weeks. You're sure of the fans, but the man who likes to drop in now and then without taking too much trouble to follow the pictures is not coming back for a while after he has been stung. Give a good, even show and you have something that, in the long run, is better than an unbalanced program that makes money some days.

How About It?

How about the suggestion made some time ago that you send in a duplicate of the layout you used when you send in a specially good advertisement?

Save Them Up.

If you want to get out an advertisement and happen to have two good ideas, don't throw the other one away. Make a note of the idea and set it aside. You will be able to use or adapt it later on. And cut from the papers and magazines other good ideas. You never can tell when they will come in handy.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 516 Fifth Avenue, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. — Wright & Callender Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

Technical Talk.

FOR some weeks past we have been having a very enjoyable correspondence with a novice on the technique of writing, but he has already begun to split hairs. He wants to write into his scenes nice shades of meaning, to have "fade up" mean one thing and "fade up to" another, though whether you fade up a scene or fade up to it the only possible result is that you fade to the next written scene. We are always sorry to see a promising writer get going on the technical end because he always works over to the most exacting and rigorous form of work. In this particular case he points out that we use both "fade up" and "fade up to," and surely, being the author of a book on technique, we must have an exact form. We don't. Being versed in technique we write to tell the director what we want, but so long as we do that we'll invent a brand new form on the spur of the moment, if the old form seems to lack the necessary elasticity. We wrote 119 scenes the other day with never a "back to" or "same as," and the script is perfectly intelligent. "Same as" and "back to" are handy phrases, and we'll use them when needed, but we had so few locations that "same as" did not seem to be necessary, and so we did not write it in. It all depends, and no one is a graduate in technique until he can forget the set forms and write as his own good sense tells him; which will be in clear technique and good practice, but not in any set form of words.

We Agree.

Just because Louis Reeves Harrison writes in highbrow and we use more commonplace English a correspondent seems to think that we are not in agreement. He says:

> While being a close follower of your department and the editorials of Louis Reeves Harrison, I have come to the belief that you and he do not agree on all points of play source.
>
> Harrison holds that a play must have a reason for existence, that is, it must have something to tell—hold up the mirror as he puts it—and that a play built along mechanical lines or one with merely a dramatic climax as its main offering is better where it was before it was written.
>
> Now, although you are not in direct conflict with him, yet you do not seem to lay the stress on THEME idea that he does. You seem to hold that IDEA is the essential, while he starts back one further than you, going to theme first, then idea, and then story construction.
>
> Now what got me is, which of those stories are in demand and which make the best story? I know that Harrison writes much that could well go over our heads, but he seems quite logical to me, and I would like to know how you stand.

Mr. Harrison does not go one move back of our own proposition for his platform. He says that a play must have a reason for being. We insist that a play must have an idea—something to advance upon which to hang the interest. It means precisely the same thing. A play to be of interest must have an idea back of it. It must offer an argument, and you can call this theme or moral as you will; starting with the proposition or winding up with the reply. If you have a play with an idea you have its antecedent theme, because the theme gives value to the idea. Boiled right down we both mean that you cannot manufacture a story from an automobile falling down the face of a cliff. You must have a reason for the happening and a result that will be more important to the mind of the spectator than the mere spectacle of the falling automobile.

Saving Money.

Discussing a matter of technique recently, an author suggested that since he would use a certain home, he would establish it in the first scenes. His first scene showed the exterior of the home at night, brilliantly lighted, with guests arriving in autos. The next scene showed the interior of a ball room. Nothing happened in the first scene and little in the second. The idea was all right, but the author did not stop to count his costs. To show the house at night one of two methods would be followed. Either the house would be taken in the day time and stained for a moon effect, or it would be taken at night with the aid of powerful lights. In either case the exterior illumination would be so superior to the inside lighting that it would be impossible to suggest the interior lighting save through a wasteful use of magnesium candles. That scene would have cost a couple of hundred dollars to make, and yet it meant nothing to the story. It is well to identify localities as early in the story as possible, but to do at a prohibitive cost is unwise It should be the study of the author to save money in production; or, rather, not to suggest expense, for the story would not have been made as he wrote it, though to start the story in such a fashion might hurt the chances of acceptance. The sole idea of the two scenes was to suggest that the heroine was the daughter of wealthy parents. It could have been demonstrated in the ball-room scene, without the use of the exterior, but it could have been better done in an exterior (without the use of extras) by merely bringing her from the house to her auto or saddle horse in the daytime, since the ball was no part of the story but merely atmosphere. A little planning of this sort will often save a story from a series of suggestions that will limit its chances of acceptance.

Wasting Ribbons.

Today a beginner sends in a hurry call for information as to what makes of ribbons to buy, explaining that the standard brand he has on his machine cuts out in a week or two and they must be bad. From the looks of his letter, the impression and the blurs, we are inclined to think that there is nothing the matter with the ribbon. Rather the platen is at fault, and this is something that too few beginners realize. The platen is the rubber roller around which the paper passes and against which the type strikes, through ribbon and paper. Rubber gets hard with age, and when it gets too hard the type will pound a ribbon to pieces in no time at all. We have a machine with a hard platen to be used for manifolding. It works all right with four sheets of paper and three carbons, but with a single sheet of paper on the roller the ribbon would be cut to pieces in a week. It is cheaper to pay for a new platen and get good typewriting than to keep on buying new ribbons and getting poor results as well. Any repair shop will put on a new platen at a small charge, but until you can space your machine for a couple of days try backing the sheet with two or three sheets of soft paper. Newspaper cut to the proper size will do very nicely.

Billy Sunday and Others.

The Reverend William Sunday comes to town and as a rule the largest building in the place is too small to hold those who wish to hear him. Very few churches complain of an inadequate seating capacity. The average minister preaches an average sermon. Mr. Sunday turns hell inside out and shows its palpitating vitals to the shuddering sinners. He is vulgar and irreverent, according to general standards, but he is forceful and dominant, and also well advertised. People crowd to hear him. Too many plays are like too many sermons—just average. Be different if you would have your script attract attention.

Starting the Synopsis.

Probably more than once you have started to read a story but have given it up because it did not interest you. It may be an excellent story, as a whole, because otherwise it is not to be supposed that the editor would print it, but you get tired of a verbose beginning and lay it aside, not willing to take the editor's word for it. It is the same way with the synopsis—only more so. The editor has no time to waste. You cannot trust to your splendid finish. You must start in well or he will never read the story through to that all-saving finish. Don't trust to your story as a whole. Get a good start, and then keep plugging clear through to the end. We saw a script the other day that began: "This is an unusual story with a surprise finish. Please read it through." Then followed about twenty lines of premise so badly and confusingly told that it had to be read through three or four times before the relations of the various characters to each other became fixed in the memory. After that the story was fairly well told and proved to be reasonably novel, but the introduction spoiled it. Probably no editor will ever read through to that point where the interest starts. A good plan—though this is not the general rule—is to start with your hero or heroine. Make this protagonist interesting. Then gradually introduce the other characters as they are employed. Interest in the protagonist will make for interest in those who aid or seek to defeat him, but to introduce the entire cast of characters in a series of word-sketches before getting down to the plot is almost fatal to the story's chance of success.

Numbers.

The author who sells his first story has generally sold his last.

Technique of the Photoplay

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Practical pointers on the preparation of stories for the screen, answering the hundred and one questions which immediately present themselves when the first script is attempted. A standard and tested handbook for the experienced writer of picture plots as well as for the beginner. "Straight-from-the-shoulder" information from an author with a wealth of real "dollars-and-cents" experience.

By mail, postpaid, Three Dollars
Order from nearest office.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 516 Fifth Ave., N. Y.
Schiller Bldg., Chicago Wright & Callender Bldg., Los Angeles

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Rivoli Theater Projection Installation.

THE new Rivoli theater is Broadway's latest contribution to the growing number of theater palaces devoted to the photodrama. But it is the best of them all; the ne plus ultra. Its beauty has already been well described in our columns, as has also its excellence. But one thing yet remains without a song of praise, and that is its projection installation.

Through courtesy of Managing Director Samuel Rothapfel and Lester Bowen, Chief Operator, it was my privilege to inspect the operating room prior to opening night. The room is 10 by 21 feet in size, with about a 15-foot ceiling. Its walls for eight feet up are battleship gray as also are the projection machines and other equipment. The upper part of the walls and the ceiling is in cream color. The walls are of hollow tile and the floor is cement. At one end of the operating room is the rewinding and repair room, with film storage tanks having individual compartments for sixteen large-diameter reels. The rewinder is the latest type "Horting" enclosed, motor driven.

Projection equipment consists of two Simplex projectors and two specially designed dissolving spot-stereopticons, all in battleship gray, the latter of very massive build and so made that they swing sidewise, or tilt at any angle instantly, at will of operator. There is an arrangement by means of which the operator sights his spot just as he would sight a rifle. The lamphouses of the spot-stereopticons are approximately two feet deep, front and back, by three feet high and are about one foot thick. There is running water in the rewinding room. Ventilation is by means of a 36-inch exhaust fan, with outlet to roof, but there is no fresh air inlet, which is distinctly bad. Behind the projectors are two metal shelves, one above the other, the lower at workbench height and quite wide. Rewinding tables are of metal. There are three steel clothes lockers for the operators.

Arc controllers are established for each machine; also both space and ports have been provided for a third projector, which I would suggest, might better have been installed at once. The projectors set back from the front wall so that there is about two feet between it and the lens. The distance of projection will be 131 feet, and the angle is 20°, 10″.

There is a metal enclosed switchboard, with 15 switches, the necessary fuses, etc.; also the rear of the board is metal enclosed, but readily accessible through a large door. The current is d. c., through rheostats located near the ceiling. In this connection we find something new and excellent. To the right of the observation port of each projector is a gray marble panel board carrying a speedometer registering the speed of the projector, an ammeter registering the amperage used at the arc and a voltmeter registering arc voltage. At the bottom of this panel is a knob which moves a switch of special construction mounted behind the panel. The whole amounts to an extension of the adjusting switch connections found on adjustable rheostats. By moving the knob on the panel to the neutral position all connection with the rheostat is severed. By revolving it to the right when in neutral position fifty amperes are cut in, and then additional current in ten ampere steps until a maximum total of 120 amperes is had at the arc. By revolving the knob to the left from neutral position ten amperes is first cut in, then 60 more, in six additional ten ampere steps, and last of all 50 additional, making the full compliment of 120. It is hardly to be expected, however, that 120 amperes will ever be used.

This arrangement is highly advantageous, in that it not only gives the operator instant control over current strength, but also the slightest variation of arc voltage or amperage is immediately apparent.

In addition to d. c. Edison service it is so arranged that the moving of a series of double throw switches immediately connects the house with a. c. supply lines through a 110 volt rotary converter. This is designed for emergency service only. The throwing of the aforesaid switches cut the entire theatre off the d. c. supply lines and connects with the emergency a. c.

By and large the Rivoli projection plant is a beauty. The angle of projection is the only point open to criticism, but it is no worse than that of many high class theaters, and not so bad as some.

In charge of the operating force is Lester Bowen, Chief Operator Rialto and Rivoli theaters, who is subject only to the authority of Managing Director Samuel Rothapfel. Under Mr. Bowen are operators Joseph Basson, Oscar Smith, M. A. Kirkorian and John Reiser at the Rialto, and Fred Stoffregan, Edward Fitzgerald, Ivan Bowen and Frank Nealy at the Rivoli—a staff of distinctly high class men, if you ask me.

Each theater works two shifts, from 12 M. to 6 P. M. and from 2 P. M. to 11.30 P. M.

Lester Bowen has been with Mr. Rothapfel ever since he opened the Regent theater at 116th St. in November, 1913. He receives a salary of $5,000 a year, and—earns it. His responsibility is heavy. He not only has charge of equipment of large value, but is directly accountable to Managing Director Rothapfel for screen results in both theaters. When we consider the fact that the Rialto Theater has taken in at its box office the comparatively huge sum of $21,000 in one week, it will be seen that this is no light burden, since Lester Bowen and his capable staff must do their share in the pleasing of those who pay in this great revenue, and do it well, else the revenue would very soon cease.

In closing let me pay a tribute to Managing Director Rothapfel, who has made possible this beautiful installation, and to his Chief Operator, Lester Bowen, who attended to the immediate work of selecting and installing the equipment. I present herewith photographs of Mr. Bowen and the full staff of operators for both Mr. Rothapfel's theaters, the Rivoli and Rialto. I compliment them upon the positions they hold and trust and believe they will do full credit thereto.

The Rivoli installation was made by the United Theater Equipment Company. The controlling devices for rheostats were designed by Mr. J. H. Hallberg, Consulting Electrical Engineer for the U. T. E., and his assistant, Mr. F. H. Hibbard. The rheostats were constructed by the Nicholas Power Company.

A Genuine Curio.

We present herewith a photograph of the first kinetescope built by Thomas A. Edison. The machine rests on an oak board about eight inches wide by eighteen inches long. The movement is of the star and cam type, and is what is known as the "two-pin" variety. Framing was accomplished by means of a rod serving as a gate hinge. This rod extended fully six inches above the top of the mechanism. A washer, seen between the two halves of the upper gate hinge, was fastened to the rod by means of a set screw. The lower end of the rod was threaded into the lower hinge lug attached to the gate, but there were no threads in the lug attached to the frame. It will thus be seen that by turning the knerled knob at the top of the rod the gate was raised bodily, the movement covering about half of one picture. This had the effect of framing the picture, though very crudely, since the opening in the plate behind the gate was much deeper than that in the gate itself. The two wire springs on the gate face seem to have supplied pressure to the spindle of a roller, which acted as an idler to the intermittent sprocket, but the roller itself was absent. Instead of a roller it may have been a shoe. Just what the purpose of the jigger attached to the lower end of the two flat springs I am unable to figure out. There was no provision for the attachment of a top reel hanger, and I do not know how the roll of film was supported. The gate latch is seen at the upper right-hand corner of the gate.

But the main item of interest lies in the close resemblance the main frame of this old relic to the frame of the Edison Model B, which is still on the market. There have been additions to it, of course, but the general design is but very little changed. The photograph is presented as a relic of the very earliest days . The machine itself is in possession of Mr. Frank Cannock, of the Precision Machine Company, who kindly loaned it to me to be photographed. Incidentally, I have the plate, and will have additional 7½ by 9¼ prints made for any union or operator who would like to have one. They cost me fifteen cents, and ten cents will cover cost of photo envelop and mailing, I guess. Three-cent stamps will be accepted—eight of them. The photograph is very clear. If you do want one get busy. I am willing to accommodate, but don't care to chase down to the photographer a cuppla dozen times.

An Honorary Member.

In recognition of the justice and fairness shown by Municipal Justice Jacob S. Strahl, New York City, in dealing with cases in which the rights of labor are involved, Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union No. 306 has by unanimous vote, conferred upon the Judge an honorary membership. It was the pleasant task of Brother Charles Unger and the editor to acquaint the Judge with that fact. Brother Strahl (he is our brother now) was on the bench when we arrived, but immediately upon the letter of notification being handed him, adjourned court long enough to retire to chambers, and, through Brother Unger and myself, thank the local for its action.

Incidentally the Judge is being seriously considered for appointment to the Federal bench. No more worthy appointment could be made.

Judge Strahl has never "favored" the side of labor in his decisions. He has simply given to labor a square deal, and that is all labor asks or wants from any judge. Unfortunately, however, labor all too often does not get a square deal, nor is this always the fault of the individual judge. More often it is the fault of an absolutely unconscious mental leaning toward the "other side," due in some instances to life-long associations with men and women who eat not their bread by the sweat of their brow, and in other individual instances to what is equivalent to snobbery. Judge Strahl is not subject to such mental influences. He has held the scales of justice evenly, without regard to aught save that elementary, fundamentally important item: Justice between man and man. It is such as he who hold steadfast our faith in courts when judicial decisions are "handed down" which reek to Heaven with palpable injustice. We greet you, Brother Strahl. Labor asks at your hands only that unswerving fairness you have always shown, and because you have shown it Local 306 is proud to have you upon her honorary roll, which you, in turn honor.

From Toronto.

John Margrave, Toronto, Canada, demands the floor. It is yours, Brother Margrave; proceed.

> In a recent issue I note an article by Martin, Los Angeles, titled "A Kick Registered." This article afforded me particular delight, in that it promises an early return date for an espe- drawing an analogy as between burning charcoal and volatizacially interesting topic, or study, and one which will inevitably enter largely into debate in the near future, due to the rapid development of the incandescent lamp for projection purposes. Friend Martin's "kick" ought really to be aimed at himself for deserving of study, because its volume may be controlled in various ways—made greater or less.
>
> With regard to your comment on Bowen's article to the effect that you do not believe temperature can be increased in an tion of carbon. Volatization and combustion are in no sense similar. Combustion is a chemical change, whereas volitization is not, or, at least, not necessarily so. The electric arc, as you point out, does not depend upon chemical change for its existence. It exists by reason of change of molecular position, which maintains its characteristic structure (Afraid you are leading me into cold, deep and very wet water. Have a heart, man!—Ed.). Martin also remarks that "light is more closely related to activity than is heat," which is very misleading. I hardly believe Martin accepts this as a literal fact. As a matter of fact both are the direct result of activity—motion of atoms, if you will.
>
> To interest and enlighten your readers more on this point, at a temperature of minus 259 Cent. all matter comes to rest. No further motion exists. This is what is known as absolute zero, at which all chemical combinations disintegrate and all substances, as we know them, would fall away from each other. Attraction and cohesion would cease to be. Therefore it is very evident that temperature is very closely allied to activity. Your comment on the article in question, Mr. Editor, was splendid. But I feel the importance of the subject is such that this further setting forth of an important fact of science might be excused.
>
> Your position as editor of our department is a peculiar one indeed, since not only must you be a practical operator, but also a bit of a scientist (and electrician, optician, mechanic, writer and several other things.—Ed) as well, in order to keep your craft and ours on an even keel. But you certainly are a "big man in a big place," to whom I say "well done." To Martin we may attribute some of our finest articles on the optics of the projector. In him we have a valuable shareholder of the department. His opinion in support of Bowen's views as to the quickening of volatization to obtain greater brilliancy I am delighted to share, though not by reason of his deductions, to which I have above referred. It seems quite reasonable to suppose that if the light source be composed of light rays all bundled together, and that if each particle of carbon reaching incandescence supplies its added quota to the sum total of light, then the more particles volatized in a given time the more light there will be. But any such theory should be received with caution.
>
> Another extremely important factor is the gas stream which is interposed between the crater and lens. This is an item open crater, once volatization temperature is reached, you must consider carefully whether or no the crater is really an unconfined area. It may be possible to create a partial state of confinement by an extreme rate of volatization in which the normal rate of gas expansion is to some extent hindered, thus creating pressure and additional heat, therefore more light. I feel that Bowen and Martin have a sound basis for their view in this respect.

This is my first bow in the department and I must consume no more space. I am quite in accord with your view that argument encourages study and study increases our knowledge, which, set forth in the department, is of benefit to all. And thus we grow in knowledge, become better men, better operators and better citizens. My best wishes for your happiness.

Your words of commendation are appreciated. I have given space to your letter because of the evident care you took in its preparation, although the matter has already been pretty well covered insofar as pertains to the phases thus far touched upon. I do not quite see that this particular argument will have much bearing upon incandescent lighting for projection, because of the fact that volatilization is not involved in that light source. In fact, the difficulty, or one, at least, is to get sufficient brilliancy in a small enough compass or area without volatilization of the lamp filament. I cannot give too much space to debates of this kind by reason of the fact that it is "over the heads" of a very large number of our reader friends. Come again, friend Margrave. Live ones are always welcome.

Reasonable Claims for Incandescent Projection.

W. M. States, Edison Lamp Works of General Electric Company, writes at some length regarding the hopes and aims of the company with regard to its incandescent lamps for projection of pictures. Mr. States says, in part:

Referring to our recent conversation relative to incandescent lamp motion picture projection, I wish to confirm my statement that it is not our endeavor to try to do impossible things with incandescent lamps, or to attempt the replacement of every type of arc projection at this time. We feel that under some conditions * * * it would not be practical for us to at this time suggest a change from arc to incandescent. * * * Under conditions, however, where the incandescent will displace an a. c. arc it will eliminate the annoying noise, the flicker (where low cycle current is used) and the fumes of the arc and will supply even screen illumination and a better average brilliancy than is secured from the average 50 ampere a. c. arc. We also claim the incandescent to give a screen result to that produced by the average 30 ampere d. c. arc.

We can, under ordinary conditions, illuminate a 12-foot picture to the satisfaction of the audience and theater management, and where high grade metalic or mirror screen be used that dimension may be materially increased.

Congratulations, Brother States. You are the first man connected with the incandescent projection proposition and interested in promoting it, who has, to date, censented to talk sense for publication. Eliminate absurd claims, come down out of the clouds and deal in facts and you incandescent boosters will find this department and its editor ready to meet you half way on any proposition which can be measured by the rule of common sense and fact. There is nothing unreasonable in the claims made by Mr. States, though "illuminate a 12-foot picture to the satisfaction of the audience and theater management" verges on debatable ground. I would rather see it put this way: "We can illuminate a picture to give, auditorium lighting conditions being the same, a screen result which will be equal to that of the 50 ampere a. c. or the 25 ampere d. c. arc, from the standpoint of doing justice to the philosophy itself."

Altogether, however, Mr. States' statement is in no way unreasonable; also he puts it in the form of "we believe we can do this," instead of as a dogmatic statement of fact. It is NOT the exploitation of the incandescent we have objected to, but the Hurrah-boys-here-it-is! It's-a-world-beater! Buy-one-quick! type of promotion, basing our objection on the injury which may be done to the industry by any illuminant which detracts from the beauty of presentation of the photoplay on the screen. In circumstances where the incandescent equals the arc in general results on the screen we favor it because its cost of operation is less, and right now there is a percentage of theaters, mostly in small towns or in larger towns where only a. c. is available and current consumption is limited by a penurious management, or where d. c. consumption is limited through false economy, where the incandescent will be an improvement. As the lamp is further perfected, as it surely will be, its field of usefulness will enlarge. Just how large it may become no man may at this time say. Again I congratulate the General Electric Company on having a man like Mr. States, who talks sound sense, instead of indulging in pipe-dream visions and vaporings.

What Does It Mean?

One of the French moving picture trade papers, the Paris L'Ecran, has been taking our name in vain. Here is what it said. Will some of our French readers kindly put us wise to what it really means. Is L'Ecran saying nice things or taking our name in vain?

UNE MEILLEURS PROJECTION!

L'expert cinématographique célèbre, M. Richardson, fait actuellement aux Etats-Unis une grande tournée dans les principales villes, parlant en faveur de la meilleure projection des films.

Il a reçu partout le meilleur accueil, ce qui prouve tout l'intérêt qui se rattache à cette question.

M. Richardson devtrait bien venir en France.

License Law.

A union in a city of the middle west writes thusly concerning a license law:

The men of this city are desirous of obtaining the passage of a law for licensing operators, to the end that only competent men be employed in our theaters. We would greatly appreciate your sending us a copy of any city laws of this kind you may have in your possession, or address where we may obtain them; also we would appreciate any suggestion you might be willing to make.

As to that, my brothers, it would be quite a task to typewrite a copy of several license laws, but I would, nevertheless, gladly do it if I thought it would aid you to any material extent. But I don't. If you will turn to page 621 of the Handbook you will find the necessary parts from which to build a license law, and any competent attorney can whip them into shape for you. Also write Department of State Police, State House, Boston, Mass., asking for copy of Massachusetts law; to Joseph Armstrong, President Local Union 110, Chicago, Illinois, Room 718, No. 219 South Dearborn street, for a copy of the Chicago law. G. Kingston Howard, President and Manager Local Union 181, Gayety Theater building, Baltimore, can supply copy of Baltimore law.

But when you have your law you will be but little further ahead than now, unless you get a really effective examining board. There is the crux of the whole matter. There are cities in which excellent license laws exist, but the examination is a double-jointed, stem-winding farce of the nth power. Getting a license in those cities merely consists of making application and demonstrating your ability to dig up the fee. A license law coupled with a competent, impartially-conducted examination is a blessing to the industry in any city. But when we have a license law and an incompetent or a careless board it is merely a very bad joke.

Then, too, there is such a thing as a union using its power wrongly in matters of this kind, to its everlasting disgrace. A certain Texas city has a license law and the union secured the appointment of one of its members as examiner and inspector. It then proceeded to turn the whole thing into a farce by insisting that the examiner pass none but union applicants; also it proceeded to make life miserable for him when he called down union operators who were smashing the law right and left. I found this all out when I visited the city last spring, but was compelled to keep still because my speaking out would be the signal for trouble galore for the official in question, who wanted to do his duty but was prevented by the union. In that city while walking along the street with the examiner-inspector I saw operators clear outside the operating room leaning out the street window watching the crowd while the show was running. I timed one of them who did not move for two solid minutes. He was the only man on duty at the time. I jumped on the examiner-inspector and then it all came out. He was up against it, and must either admit gross neglect of his duty as a public official or tell the truth. He, perforce, did the latter. I promptly investigated matters and found the union had secured his appointment to the board and had then tried to tie his hands by threats of charges, expulsion and what not. When I addressed that union that evening it was one of the hardest tasks of the entire trip not to rip that rotten proposition wide open. And nothing under heaven except the serious injury to one who had always been a good friend, who begged me not to, could have stopped me from it.

Now don't imagine for one moment I believe the men who have written asking information would do anything like this. Most emphatically they would not. They are not that kind. The Texas city is, thank heaven, the only example of this sort of thing I have knowledge of. I hope there will never be another. I cite the case as an example of a union used for an extremely bad purpose. Projection in that city is very poor.

Get your law, brothers, but see to it that a competent, honest, non-grafting examining board is provided, and, having done this, keep the union's hands entirely, absolutely and completely off, except insofar as may be necessary to use its power to secure proper administration of the law, remembering always that the law does not and cannot recognize any difference as between union and non-union.

Projection Experience

There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save its purchase price each month.

Buy it Today
$4 the Copy
Postpaid

MOTION PICTURE Handbook
For Managers and Operators
By F. H. RICHARDSON

The recognized standard book on the work of the operator. Complete descriptions and instructions on all leading machines and operating equipment.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Schiller Bldg. Chicago, Ill. | 516 Fifth Avenue New York City | Wright & Callender Bldg. Los Angeles, Cal.
To save time, order from nearest office.

This paper has never been published except in a Union shop, so it makes no difference whether we print the Union Label or not, but at the request of a few of our readers to the editor of this department it is printed herewith.

Motion Picture Photography

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be indorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Tinting and Toning of Eastman Positive Motion Picture Film.

(Standard Methods Worked Out and Recommended by the Eastman Research Laboratories.)

In the production of moving picture film it is becoming more common to vary the color of the film either by toning or tinting or by a combination of the two processes. Toning consists in either wholly or partially replacing the silver image of the positive film by some colored compound, the clear portions or highlights of the image, consisting of plain gelatine, remaining unaffected and colorless. Tinting, on the other hand, consists of immersing the film in a solution of dye which colors the gelatine itself, causing the whole picture on the screen to have a veil of color over it.

In "tinting" the following factors must be taken into consideration:

Dyestuffs are chemically of two different types, acid and basic; so-called acid dyestuffs are the alkali—usually sodium salts of organic acids—whilst basic dyestuffs are the chlorides, sulphates, etc., of organic bases.

For the tinting of film only "acid" dyestuffs should be considered, since "basic" dyestuffs usually enter the gelatine so rapidly that satisfactory control of the dyeing is impossible. Moreover, it is not possible to make a complete selection from basic dyestuffs alone, which would necessitate the use of acid and basic dyestuffs in admixture—a procedure highly undesirable and in many cases impossible.

Any dyestuffs suitable for admixture with others to produce intermediate tints should possess the following properties:

The dye should be inert and not attack the gelatine or support. This is of fundamental importance as the gelatine coating of dyed film in many cases has a tendency to lose its flexibility, giving rise to what is known in the trade as "brittleness."

Several dyestuffs when employed at a concentration of 1% attack gelatine readily at 70 degrees F. and vigorously at 80 degrees F., especially in presence of small amounts of acids, producing a marked softening and often partial solution of the film. The effect is roughly proportional to the concentration of the dye and to the temperature, and varies with each individual dyestuff.

Experience shows that the gelatine coating of film which has softened in this way by the dyestuff becomes "brittle" on subsequent projection.

The actual factors in the production of brittleness are:

1. The hydrolysing action of acid which in many cases is added to assist dyeing. In case a solid acid has been employed the heat encountered during projection will greatly accelerate this hydrolysis.

2. The corrosive action of the dye itself. Dyes vary considerably in this respect according to their particular composition. So far, it has not been possible to make any general classification of dyestuffs in this connection, though nitro compounds appear to be particularly corrosive in their action.

3. The presence of impurities in the dyestuff. These take the form of excessive amounts of loading material such as sodium sulphate or chloride, or small traces of iron, the latter having a tendency to harden the film considerably.

In all the above cases, the physical nature of the gelatine is altered, whereby it loses its property of remaining resilient under normal conditions of temperature and humidity, resulting in "brittleness."

A suitable test as to whether a dyestuff has any propensity to produce brittleness is to incubate a sample of film, half of which has been dyed, for about 48 hours at 100 degrees C. If any difference in brittleness is noticeable between the dyed and undyed portions so treated, the dye is unsuitable for tinting.

Apart from the above, most dyestuffs when used at a concentration of 1% and at 80 degrees F. produce more or less softening of the gelatine, which may be prevented by:

(a) Use of only dilute solutions. Except in very special cases, a dye solution stronger than 0.5% is seldom required, the usual strength employed being about 0.2%, at which concentration no softening usually occurs.

(b) Omission of acid from the dye bath.

(c) By working at temperatures not higher than 70 degrees F.

(d) By slight hardening of the film before dyeing and subsequent softening by glycerine, as described below:

*Copyright, 1918, by the Chalmers Publishing Co.

The dye should not "bleed" to any considerable extent when the film is washed; in other words, the rate of removal of the dye should be slow and be almost imperceptible in a period of say, five minutes.

Generally speaking, basic dyestuffs which are absorbed readily by gelatine do not bleed, whilst most acid dyestuffs which dye gelatine much more slowly bleed considerably, so that the rate of bleeding appears to vary inversely as the affinity between the dye and the gelatine.

In tinting, bleeding is of very considerable importance since, during the period between rinsing after dyeing and the placing of the film on the drying rack any drops of water on the surface of the film becomes more or less saturated with dye, and these after drying remain as spots and irregular markings which are very apparent on the screen.

It is possible only in very few cases to modify this bleeding by an acid "stop bath," and it may be considered a general rule that the bleeding of a dyestuff is a property peculiar to itself. In making a selection of dyes therefore, it is necessary to choose only those whose propensity for bleeding is a minimum.

The rate of dyeing should be only slightly affected by the addition of acid to the dyebath.

In some instances it has been recommended to add a small amount of acid to the dyebath, partly with a view to obtaining more transparent results and partly to increase the rate of dyeing, but we do not recommend the use of acid for the following reasons:

(a) Acid magnifies the effect of temperature both on the rate of dyeing and on the softening of the gelatine.

(b) Acidified dyebaths usually dye too quickly and often produce uneven dyeing around the perforations. Moreover, in many cases the degree of dyeing is very sensitive to changes in acidity, and since the acidity of the bath falls off with use, just as in toning, it is almost impossible to duplicate results systematically.

If acid is used it should be a volatile acid such as acetic acid, as any solid acid is retained in the film after dyeing. In all cases the effect varies with the particular dyestuff employed, and may be considerable even when the acid (acetic) is present only to the extent of .02%.

The dyes should be stable to light and not be "dichroic" or change color on dilution.

Moreover, the wear and tear of the film should not be impaired in any way after dyeing, and even after incubating for 48 hours at 100 degrees C. no difference should be discernible between dyed and undyed films so treated.

The dyestuff should not be affected by "hypo" since any fixing solution left in the film, or accidentally splashed thereon, would destroy the dye immediately.

Examination shows that most dyes fail on the "bleeding" test, whilst others which might otherwise appear entirely suitable, attack the gelatine at higher temperatures or cause "brittleness."

In view of the large number of tints required in commercial work, it is undesirable to keep a separate dye-powder for the preparation of each particular bath, but rather to prepare the same by admixture of three or more dyestuffs. If three only are employed, mixing must be conducted with great precision in order to reproduce any given tint, but this difficulty is removed by the use of intermediate colors.

The following five standard dyes have been chosen as fulfilling the above conditions as nearly as possible, and by suitably mixing solutions of these as indicated in the specimen chart, almost any desired tint may be obtained:

Name used in Formula	Commercial Name	Maufacturer
Cine Red	Chromotrop FB	Hoechst
Cine Orange	Orange GRX	Badische
Cine Yellow	Quinoline Yellow	Badische (Hoechst, Agfa.)
Cine Blue-green	Brilliant Patent Blue	Hoechst Hoechst
Cine Blue	Naphthalmine Blue 12B	Kalle

ABBREVIATIONS

Hoechst is Farbwerke Hoechst Co., 122 Hudson St., New York City.
Badische, Badische Co., 128 Duane St., New York City.
Agfa, Berlin Anilin Works, 213-215 Water St., New York City.
Kalle, Kalle and Co., 530 Canal St., New York City.

The above dyes are the commercial grades as supplied by the various dye makers, and contain on an average about 20% of loading material in the form of sodium chloride or sodium sulphate, which is in no way injurious to the film.

The relative cost of pure dyestuffs compared with commercial samples prohibits their employment commercially.

The amount of impurity in the dyes may vary slightly from batch to batch, but this variation is usually so small as not to materially affect the nature of the tint obtained from any particular formula.

Moreover, dye samples of the same name supplied by different makers may differ considerably in their properties, particularly with respect to "bleeding." In the case of the above dyes all tints have been obtained with dye samples from the makers indicated, so that should dyes of other makers be employed, the proportions stated may require slight modifications.

When matching any given color, view only by artificial light.

(To be continued)

How It Is Done at the Strand

A Discussion of Methods Which Have Actually Been Worked Out Successfully.

By Harold Edel, Managing Director.

THE presentation at the Strand of Mary Garden in "Thais," occasioning the arrangement of a program which received much laudatory comment, some going so far as to say that it was the best bill of entertainment ever offered in a Broadway photoplay theater. If box-office returns may be regarded as an indication of appreciation of merit, then it is safe for me to say that this bill was surely one of the very best ever offered at our theater. In view of this fact then, an analysis of the program is quite in order.

By way of doing things a little different, as mentioned in a previous article, we occasionally precede the overture with an offering of some kind to get away from the customery opening number. The element of surprise is always desirable in an audience and for this reason we merely announced on our programs that Number One on the bill was "Star Spangled Banner." With the rise of the curtain the orchestra and audience rose to its feet as the first bars of the national anthem were played. At the psychological moment in the song the house was thrown into darkness, the screen was raised and there "by the dawn's early light" appeared Fort Sumpter in the distance with the "flag still there." A specially painted drop showing part of the boat with Key peering through the early morning light at the fort in the distance made a thrilling sight, with the rockets gleaming in air, etc. At the conclusion of this number the audience applauded and cheered. The greatest patriotic demonstrations ever witnessed at the Strand were evident during the week this "bit" was presented.

With such a strong start it is readily apparent that special care in the selection and presentation of the overture which followed was necessary. For this number we chose "Roumanian Rhapsody" in A major. As rendered by the Strand orchestra the offering came up to every expectation. Number Three on the program was scenic and educational pictures, including "Picturesque Rivers of France" in natural color. The Strand Topical Review followed with up-to-the minute news pictures and then came a tenor solo by Ernest Davis, "When the Boys Come Home," receiving encores at practically every performance.

Number Six on the bill was the feature attraction, Mary Garden, in "Thais." A special introduction for this film was also staged offering an artistic opening to the photoplay. The lights were lowered after the introductory music and the curtains covering the screen parted. In place of the screen there appeared a beautiful drop showing an evening scene in the desert with an immense sphinx. In the background were the outlines of distant pyramids, from behind one of which a big full moon began to appear. Over the distant horizon came a caravan silhouetted against the blue evening sky which grew lighter as the moon came out from behind the pyramid. Weird music added to the fascination of the scene, and when the last camel appeared at the other end of the horizon and the moon and stars shown full in the desert sky the screen was dropped into place and the photoplay took up the spirit of the introduction with desert scenes, then going into the story. This introduction proved a very appropriate offering and blended into the photplay perfectly, the music of the introduction continuing right into the picture itself. In presenting the musical accompaniment to the photoplay we closely followed the opera, offering various reed as well as violin solos at appropriate moments. By closely following the music of the opera we succeeded in getting the most effectiveness out of the splendid production. Special care was exerted in the preparation of this accompaniment, in which Carl Edourde, Oscar Spirescu and myself spent many hours. I shall be pleased to supply any exhibitor with a copy of our cue sheet on request.

The balance of our bill for this week consisted of a vocal duet from "Rigoletto" by Andre Enrico and Anita Tagel, Zoological pictures, "Nature's Songsters," a comedy cartoon, "Goodrich Dirt and the Duke of De Whatanob." The organ solo between shows, rendered by Ralph H. Brigham and J. Van Cleft Cooper, was "Festival March."

KEYSTONE COMEDIANS ENLIST.

Eddie Gribbon, Triangle-Keystone comedian and brother of Harry Gribbon, just as he is going up in popularity, is going down in reality. After carefully considering the various ways in which he could serve his country Eddie who is a scrapper by nature, joined the submarine division of the U. S. Navy. "Tex" Jordan of the "Keystone Kops" also enlisted in the navy this week and was on the job Monday in his new uniform.

Tucker Strong for Careful Titling

Goldwyn Director Insists Movement of Players Lips Should Square with Lines Put Into Them by Screen.

IN ALL the praise which has greeted the work of Director George Loane Tucker exhibited in America since his return from England last spring, hardly sufficient attention has been paid to one unusually effective element in his productions, the titling. As Director Tucker not only writes his own "continuity," but likewise superintends the physical preparations and printing of his "titles," both spoken and descriptive, it may be guessed that he sets a great deal of store by the character of the matter appearing on the screen between scenes.

"The story's the thing, of course," says Director Tucker. "I am the last man to deny that. But, given a story good or bad, its final perfection or its last hope of salvation lies in the titling of it. One tremendous shortcoming today is the lack of realization, among many directors, of the importance of the title. Since I write my own 'continuities,' you may judge that I am most decidedly in favor of the director assuming a much larger part in the making of a production than many now take; and I feel, that whether a director can write 'continuity' or not he should appreciate the importance of providing for the titles which appear in it or which he may feel, in his rearrangement of the script, are needed.

"One of the saddest sights I know of in any production is the moment when the hero utters (in a title) some large moving sentence like, 'I may indeed be poor, Sir Rufus, but at least Sallie shall never want. I must go now and prepare for my departure'—all without moving his lips. The director must prepare 'entrances' for his titles quite as carefully as Broadway producer ever prepared entrances for his stars.

"After the title is spoken by the character, or, if it is a descriptive title, after it has been definitely settled upon, there is still a great deal that an intelligent director can do to add to its effectiveness. I think that the day of the artwork title is about over. Illustration we must still have in the case of long titles, but it seems to me that photographic illustration is the best. For the title in 'The Manx-Man' I had a number of still photos taken of typical scenes in the Isle of Man. These were in character with the story, and suggestive of the mood of the titles. Yet they were none of them reproductions of the settings or locations used in the actual production. I think that this idea, which was utilized successfully again in Goldwyn 'Thais,' can be pushed still further by the use of impressionistic photographs possessing a genuine art value. The skilled camera artist can catch a mood of nature or architecture to match any mood that may be summoned in a title or episode.

"Personally, I feel sure that the moving picture itself—the still photograph come to life—can be further utilized than any of us have dreamed. In 'The Cinderella Man' I made the experiment, which has seemed to many successful, of bridging a gap of time and emotion by a title in which the head of a violinist, a pair of dancing feet, a bell striking midnight and a short phrase were all used to indicate the passing of a night at a dance. Such titles, it must be admitted, however, are slow and laborious to make. But they are worth it, I am certain."

DIRECTORS ELECT OFFICERS.

At the last meeting of the Motion Picture Directors' Association held at the Studio, 234 West Fifty-fifth street, on Thursday evening, January 3, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Director, J. Searle Dawley; assistant director, Maurice Tourneur; technical director, Edwin Carewe; scenarist, James Vincent; treasurer, Robert G. Vignola; inner guard, Paul Scardon; outer guard, Wally Van; trustee for three years, Travers Vale.

After the meeting luncheon was served and Thomas Bedding, F. R. P. S., gave an interesting and instructive talk on "The Art of the Motion Picture."

The supper and dance which is to be given by the association at the Biltmore on January 26 promises to be one of the finest affairs of its kind ever held in the city.

The tickets are $10 a person and can only be purchased by those receiving an invitation. The rapidity with which the invitations have been accepted during the past week leads the committee to believe the limit of six hundred will soon be reached.

Foreign Trade News

Control and Regulation

The Need of a Protective Association to Prosecute Copyright Infractors in This Country and Abroad.

By F. G. Ortega.

WE HAVE a loquacious friend who is always complaining of the business methods prevalent in Barcelona, where he used to be in the moving picture business. The other day, while airing his views on export in the office of Cine-Mundial, he asked point blank the following question: "Has any old woman the right to sit, for the price of three cents, during three or four hours in a theater, discussing the neighbors and peeling potatoes for her husband's dinner, while pictures of Fairbanks, Chaplin, Mary Pickford and other stars are shown on the screen?"

Being rather democratic, we thought that any lady was entitled to prepare dinner and admire our artists at the same time, but it can be seen at a glance that there must be something wrong with a selling system that allows such state of affairs.

And this brings up again the same old export question.

The position of New York as the center of the moving picture world will be challenged as long as the manufacturers do not control their production. This control can only be attained through close co-operation between the different producing and distributing companies. But as soon as the duping and other illicit practices are eliminated at home, complete regulation abroad would be the logical sequel.

We are doing now some business with France, Italy and Spain direct from New York. It is true that a large percentage of the American pictures shown in these countries are secured in London, but the fact remains that we have begun to ship film direct to the continent on a large scale, relatively speaking. We are also dealing on the same basis with Latin-America, and the most important markets in this territory—Argentine, Chile, Uruguay, Cuba, Porto Rico and Central America—have proved very profitable for the American producers. No doubt the other republics could also be turned into good customers if the manufacturers would get together and investigate the prevailing methods of supplying them with American pictures.

It has been said that Latin-America and other markets that used to buy American and foreign film through European middlemen before the war cannot really afford to purchase direct in New York. We do not care to state in print what we think of any man holding this opinion. Are there any eight million people in Europe in a position to absorb as much brand new merchandise as Argentine? Is there any country in Europe with the per capita expenditure of Uruguay, Chile or Brazil? Are the Cubans unable to buy the best of everything direct from the source of supply? Is there any country on earth with the per capita wealth or expenditure of that wonderful little republic? It will be hard to find a single nation in the Spanish and Portuguese-speaking world, with the possible exception of Paraguay, not capable of purchasing the best. Even Spain, better off at present than any other country in Europe, although not as wealthy as her American offsprings, could also afford and would pay our prices if she had to. The only sufferers would be the old gossips mentioned at the beginning of this article, who would have to put on their Sunday clothes to see a single Fairbanks or Mary Pickford picture instead of getting them wholesale as they do now while turning the theater into a kitchen.

Now, our trade with these countries as well as many other worthwhile foreign markets will be seriously threatened after the war if our manufacturers in general are not able to exert as much control over their production as Pathé in particular, for instance.

New York, representing the source of supply, must control its production to make it profitable for the foreign buyers to deal direct. The interest of the European and other middle markets lie in exactly the opposite direction. Most of their foreign trade in American film has been built on laxity of control. If it were not for the war, even today it would not be profitable to place orders direct in New York. This is a fact. American-made pictures can be bought in Europe cheaper than in the United States. Our sole advantage is that we can guarantee deliveries.

It may be objected that the laws of some countries prevent the producers from safeguarding their rights against infringements. Mexico, for example, affords practically no protection whatever, and the rights on pictures are not recognized by the authorities unless certain impossible conditions are complied with. In Great Britain things are even worse, as far as the foreign motion picture producers are concerned, and, naturally, it would be ridiculous to expect a favorable change in the way of protective legislation until the British producers themselves become more powerful than the British middlemen trading with foreign film.

Difficulties of this nature, however, can be overcome by means of absolute control at home and a thorough understanding of the fact that no matter how good a customer any single market may happen to be, it should never be allowed, for obvious reasons of business policy and others of similar weight that need not be mentioned, to nullify our efforts to introduce our pictures on a sound basis in other countries.

The industry needs, if it cares to maintain and expand its foreign business, a protective association, with good legal advisers and correspondents in all important foreign cities, the function of which should be to prosecute infractors in this country and abroad. An association of this kind would put the export business (and the domestic also) on a sound basis within a very short time. Much of the expense and preliminary work could be eliminated, and many mistakes avoided, by reaching an understanding with some of the mercantile institutions that have already established such legal machinery for similar protective purposes.

In countries where the laws operate against producers, another method can be used with equal success. Dealers in the habit of going outside their territories without authority from the producers, can be boycotted or blacklisted by the whole industry. This system has already been successfully adopted by the Italian and French producers.

Indian Notes

By S. B. Banerjea.

FILM fires are so rare in this country that when they do occur, they cause much excitement. A serious fire broke out in the godown of the Auroria Cinema Co., of Calcutta, recently. Two motor engines from the central fire brigade station were able to extinguish it after one hour's hard struggle. About 200,000 feet of films and a portion of the building were damaged by fire. The loss is estimated at $10,000. It is reported that the films were not insured.

* * *

In Calcutta and other cities in India, bioscope theater proprietors give two shows daily—one at 5:30 p. m., and the other at 9 or 9:30 p. m. On Saturdays and Sundays an extra performance is given at 3:45 p. m. The European-owned theaters close on Xmas and Good Friday only, but remain open during the rest of the year. The native-owned theaters take no holidays whatever. There are Puritans all over the world. Calcutta and the other big cities are no exception to the rule. They agitate for Sunday closing. Unfortunately, nobody listens to them—even the authorities are adamant. But they still hope to succeed in their attempt.

* * *

I have already informed my readers that a cinematograph bill has been introduced into the Imperial Legislative Council. It has been sent to all municipal authorities and private associations of note for opinions. These will be duly considered, and should any suggestion be found worth adopting it will be embodied in the bill. Now, Calcutta and Bombay have the largest number of bioscope theaters, and, naturally, the civic authorities of these cities are interested in the bill. Commissioner Shelton of Calcutta objects to the system of dual control by the corporation and the commissioner of police. On Sabbatarian grounds, he objects to cinema performances on Sundays. He would also have powers to regulate the hours and days on which these exhibitions were to be held. Another commissioner, Mr. Phelps, is against Sunday entertainments and dual control. Dr. Dutt, a Hindu commissioner, wants all cinema theaters to be placed under full municipal control. He is for Sunday performances. Mr. Cohen, a Hebrew commissioner, would like to leave all religious questions to the pulpits. If the religions of the different peoples were taken into account, there would be no performances on Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Mr. Ghose is against Sunday closing. The chairman of the Calcutta municipality believes that the Government of India would never prohibit Sunday closing. At a recent meeting of the Calcutta civic fathers, the bill was discussed and it was decided by a large majority that the local governments should have power to make rules as to the hours at which performances should be allowed. The question of Sunday closing was discussed, and the resolution on the subject was lost by a big majority. Decisions similar to the above have been arrived at by the civic fathers of other cities. Briefly put, the civic fathers are practically unanimous in holding that the cinema theaters should be under the entire control of the police authorities, and that Sunday performances should be allowed. The newspapers of the Puritan type (in India) are very few in number. As may be expected, they are opposed to Sunday performances and greater control of the cinemas. But the major portion of the papers are for Sunday performance. "The Capital," the organ of the European mercantile community in Calcutta, thus observes: "Mr. Shelton's protest might have been effective in some out-of-the-way village in England; it was preposterious in the capital of a country like India, where there is a multitude of religions and where the Government is impartial to all. What we want from cinema proprietors is clean and healthy entertainment and amusement and the better the day, the better the deed." This is the opinion of the Indian organs, too. Truth to say, all cinema proprietors make their largest income on Sundays. The income they make on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays combined equal what they make on Saturdays and Sundays. I mean, of course, the major portion of the cinema theaters. Theaters, like the Elphinstone and the Obijon Grand of Calcutta, or the El Dorado and Excelsior of Bombay, for instance, make good incomes daily; but they derive bigger incomes on Saturdays and Sundays.

* * *

The Elphinstone Picture Palace authorities of Calcutta have been giving an all-comic performance on Fridays. People want something amusing and no wonder the Friday shows are well patronized.

* * *

The Picture House people have begun giving a children's show every Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. There is a uniform admission fee of eight annas (15 cents). As may be expected, the Sunday show has caught on.

* * *

The Presidency theater authorities have been giving a children's show on Sundays at 1 p. m. Their films, however, are not new. To draw crowded houses one must screen new and "taking" films. Because a film is in five or six reels, it must not be supposed that it is bound to draw a crowd. I have seen several five, six and seven reel films which can only be described as "rubbish." No wonder these never drew crowded houses.

* * *

The management of the Theater Royal specialize in American films of late, and it has been giving variety turns. Mona's performances were specially good and formed the topic of conversation at many clubs for days.

In the current (October) number of "The British Trade Journal" there is a suggestion to the effect that American film manufacturers, who use American language in film titles, etc., should use the equivalent of the same in English; otherwise British audiences sometimes find difficulty in understanding what the authors mean. Indian audiences would be glad to have translations in the vernaculars. Unfortunately, their desire cannot be gratified, as the vernaculars are so numerous. Surely, it is not difficult to give English equivalents. "By heck" (in the "House of Scandals," a Mutual film), for instance, will not be understood by any Indian gentleman, however highly educated he may be. I shall not multiply instances. Suffice it to say, the less Americanism, the better for the Indian audiences.

Municipal Theater, Sao Paulo. Another Example of the Magnificent Theaters of Our South American Neighbors.

Eva Gordon in "Under Suspicion"

EVA GORDON, who has played for several motion picture companies in continental Europe, has been engaged to play the prominent role of Mrs. Woolworth in Metro's "Under Suspicion," starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, now under production, with William S. Davis as director. Albert Shelby Le Vino adapted the picture from Hugh Weir's story, "The Woolworth Diamonds."

Eva Gordon.

Miss Gordon is a sister of Bob Herweg, explorer and traveler, and spent several years traveling with him in various parts of the world. She also spent some time at Yokahama, Japan, where she appeared in benefit performances at various celebrations and fetes. For four years she lived at Singapore.

Miss Gordon has been in America for eight months. Previously she worked in war hospitals in Europe since the beginning of the war. She also sang and recited for the patients in over eighty-two hospitals during the time of her war service. It was to recuperate from a breakdown due to her hard work at the war hospitals that Miss Gordon came to the United States.

Miss Gordon is a talented player and an all-around athlete. She delights in horseback riding and daily takes a ride through Central Park, New York. As Mrs. Woolworth, in Metro's "Under Suspicion," Miss Gordon brings a notable talent to the screen.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds"

Large Cast Employed in Five-Part World Production Founded on Story of Hamilton and Burr—June Elvidge in Title Role.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

SAMUEL M. WELLER is the author of a five-part World production which follows closely the story of Hamilton and Burr and shows the infatuation of both men for the wife of Jacob Clingman, the Philadelphia pawnbroker who was bent on bringing about Hamilton's downfall. The title, "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds," has been selected for the picture, but the two statesmen who were so prominently connected with the early history of this country are the most important characters. The romance in the life of Hamilton which made Burr his bitter enemy and only too ready to help Scene from "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds" (World).

Clingman in his plan for revenge is a revelation of human weakness that conveys a strong moral lesson when the brave soldier and brilliant statesman pays with his life for his guilty passion. A cast of twenty-nine characters are used in the picture, most of them historical, and the main incidents are founded on fact. Arthur Ashley, who appears as Aaron Burr, directed the production, which is correct in its essential details, and is acted in a thoroughly competent manner. The subtitles are occasionally written in what reads like modern colloquialisms, but the locations and general atmosphere of the period are faithfully reproduced.

Covering so many incidents in the lives of such a large number of characters, "The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds" follows the novel rather than the drama form of construction. It opens in the year 1777 and shows the beginning of the enmity between Hamilton and Burr, when Margaret Moncrieffe was the object of the attentions of both men. The controversy over compensating all Tories for property confiscated during the war against England is the next important event in the story, the last half being brought down to the time when Hamilton, now secretary of the treasury and married to the daughter of General Philip Schuyler, first meets Mrs. Reynolds and the two become infatuated with each other. The affair is followed closely until Hamilton is forced to make a public acknowledgment of his passion in order to prove his official honesty. The duel with Burr on the Palisades at Weehawken and the suicide of Mrs. Reynolds bring the story to a close.

June Elvidge has both the beauty and the acting ability for the title role. The other prominent members of the proficient cast are Carlyle Blackwell as Hamilton, Arthur Ashley as Burr, Carl Girard as James Reynolds, Hubert Wilke as Jacob Clingman, Evelyn Greeley as Margaret Moncrieffe, Pinna Nesbit as Mrs. Hamilton, Lionel Belmore as General Israel Putnam, George MacQuarrie as George Washington, Rose Tapley as Martha Washington, Albert H. Hart as Thomas Jefferson, Jack Drumier as John Adams, Charles Brandt as James Monroe, and Henry West as John Randolph.

"Madam Spy"

Five-Reel Universal Feature Offering Tells Enjoyable Spy Story—Jack Mulhall and Donna Drew in Cast.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THIS feature number was adapted by Harvey Gates from a story by Lee Morrison, and produced by Douglas Gerrard. hero of the yarn, for, in spite of its spy feature, the narrative runs along in a blithe, comedy style, and is portrayed by Jack Mulhall in characteristic fashion. The heroine, Phyllis Covington, is played by Donna Drew, and the third strongest part, that of Baroness Von Hula, is taken by Claire Du Brey.

There is more of the comedy element in this than of the dramatic, though there is a certain tensity of plot which runs into a sort of thrill at times. The construction is smooth and the action unimpeded, and the combination on the whole is a good one for this type of production.

The story opens with a love episode between Robert Wesley, the hero, and the heroine, Phyllis. He is the son of an admiral and has just failed in his examinations at the naval academy at Annapolis. His father is naturally perturbed over the situation and tells the youth he has disgraced the family name. This sets the hero to thinking and he determines to redeem himself.

His chance for making good comes very quickly, for he discovers that Hanson, his father's butler, is a spy. During a dinner at the admiral's house, the hero oversees Hanson pass over some valuable papers to Count Von Ornstorff, a German agent who conducts secret meetings with numerous others of his kind. Robert learns that they are expecting the Baroness Von Hulda, from abroad, who is to bring sealed orders for themselves and take back the papers. The hero has done female impersonations at college, and he plans to outwit the spies. He accordingly meets the Baroness at the station, whisks her away to a hotel, where he makes her prisoner and, by clever makeup, substitutes himself in her place.

The impersonation of the Baroness passes very nicely and Jack Mulhall manages to get in some very pleasing comedy touches without overdoing it. He attends a secret meeting of the spies, obtains the war map and, later, when the real countess suddenly makes her appearance after escaping from imprisonment, he brings the entire group of spies to justice.

Scene from "Madam Spy" (Universal).

Wadsworth Harris appears as the father, Jean Hersholt as the Count and George Gebhart as Hanson, the butler.

Crisp to Direct Another Reid Picture.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, chief fun dispenser in the Paramount-Arbuckle comedies, is becoming noted as a monologist. In the two months since he arrived at Long Beach, where he has made "A Country Hero," and has just about completed "Out West," Arbuckle has made two personal appearances in Los Angeles and Long Beach, one at Pasadena, and will shortly appear in Riverside and Santa Ana.

"The Price of Folly"

Pathe Releases First Episode of a Short Serial, by Will M. Ritchie, to Run in Eight Instalments.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THE first episode of this series, to run in eight numbers of two reels each, is called "Phantom Fame." It concerns the wife of a hardware merchant in a small town who has literary aspirations. She comes to the city, at the invitation of an editor who has accepted one of her short stories, and is followed by her husband. The latter arrives in time to save his wife an unwelcome entanglement with the editor, who has already ruined the daughter of a laboring man, and is altogether much more villainous than the worst of editors are presumed to be.

Scene from "The Price of Folly" (Pathe).

Ruth Roland is attractive in the leading role, Mrs. Kate Denton. Frank Mayo appears as the husband, and Luke McKee as the editor, Conrad K. Arnold. The other characters are portrayed by Bruce Smith, Jimsy Maye and Neal Hardin.

The story does not grip the interest as closely as might be desired, although the action follows quite swiftly and the continuity is good. The incidents are depicted in a melodramatic way and are not entirely convincing in certain situations. There is a sketchiness about the manner of handling some of the events which keeps them from getting a close hold upon the sympathies, though later numbers may bring out the character work and plot interest more strongly.

In the course of this opening instalment, the ruined daughter of the laboring man commits suicide by jumping from a railroad bridge. Her father, Pete Gale, then joins forces with Alfred Denton in an effort to save the latter's wife from Arnold. They are successful in this, but the wife's disillusionment results in the loss of her mind and she is sent to a sanitarium, with doubt expressed that she will ever recover.

"The Wild Strain"

Five-Part Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature Written by George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester and Featuring Nell Shipman, An Amusing Comedy.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THIS is hardly the day and age to attempt to impress people seriously with a set of noodles whose hobby is worship of ancestry. George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester are probably aware of this fact, and in "The Wild Strain," a five-part Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, they have proceeded to poke fun at the parents f the hero and heroine for setting such store by their family trees. At times the situations and action are carried to the point of burlesque, but taken in the spirit in which it is offered, it is a poor soul that cannot be amused by the story, especially as it is very well acted and produced.

A long string of family portraits is an important feature of the plot. It represents the forbears of the Hollywood family for many generations, but is not complete. One member is missing, and his identity is never revealed until the finish. He was an Italian brigand, and his love of adventure breaks out again in the daughter of the house of Hollywood, and she is continually doing things to shock her parents. Her conduct has the same effect on the father and mother of her fiance, Harold Burton, when these good people come to dine and to inspect their future daughter-in-law. After a series of adventures, that include utterly impossible but highly amusing stunts as a circus rider and the preventing of a bank robbery, Winifred is taken into the good graces of the Burtons. Harold, who has helped to rescue his sweetheart from a roadhouse mob, puts up the liveliest sort of a fight, and is finally rescued himself by the circus crew, who are stampeded into the mix-up by the circus war cry of "Hey Rube!" The hero's cleverness with his fists is explained when his mother is forced to admit that one of her line was a pugilist of note.

Nell Shipman, the new Vitagraph star, is the Winifred of the cast. She is a likable young woman, with a frank and engaging manner, and does her athletic bits quite cleverly. Alfred Whitman as Harold Burton, Ed Alexander as Kingsley Royce, Otto Lederer as John Calvin Hollywood, Mrs. Buskirk as Mrs. Hollywood, R. Bradbury as Colonel Bull and Ruth Handforth as Mrs. Burton complete the cast. William Wolbert directed the production.

"Stolen Honor"

Virginia Pearson and An Able Cast Play a Melodrama That Will Be Found Diverting by Most People.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

IT IS probable that nearly every one in any average audience that has just seen "Stolen Honor," a Fox five-reel melodrama, will say, "Yes, I liked that picture. It is ably carpentered; you can't see how it is going to turn out; you don't get breathlessly excited yet are interested all the time; it doesn't tax your mind; the players are good company and they play easily-understood melodrama not character." In other words it is a popular offering, made to please in a way that is sure to please at any time during the next year or so. It is a good money producer, as they say in the seed catalogues, and I can heartily commend it to exhibitors. The reviewer admired it for continuity, for the clever way it hit the denouement it had chosen, and he admired the players for the way they played up to the action. Virginia Pearson has the leading role.

The place of the story is Washington, D. C. The heroine of the plot (Virginia Pearson) is a rich artist, ward of the assistant secretary of state, and loved by a captain in uniform whom she really loves, but whom she refused for the sake of her career. The captain is loved by the villainess, an Italian countess who has an Italian adventurer as her aid. To get the captain away from Virginia Pearson, she plots to have her suspected of stealing a painting of great value and beauty, owned by the Italian government. The girl has been permitted to make a copy of the picture.

The heroine of the counterplot is the artist's friend, and has married the assistant secretary of state. She is young and her husband is so busy he neglects her. She runs away with an American crook. This happens on the evening when the countess pulls off the trap. Virginia goes to rescue her friend and is out of town. It looks dark for her; but, of caurse, a way is found to bring home the guilt to the guilty, and they are irretrievably disgraced, while Virginia wins more honor and takes the captain.

Scene from "Stolen Honor" (Fox).

"The Birth of Democracy"

Seven-Part Photoplay Presented by Franco-American Films Story of French Revolution, Featuring Lyda Borelli.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE stirring days of 1792, when the French people had succeeded in their struggle for political freedom and were making strenuous efforts to establish a stable form of government, is the period chosen for "The Birth of Democracy," a seven-part photoplay presented by the Franco-American Films through the Export and Import Film Company, Inc. Lyda Borelli, an Italian actress of stately beauty and excellent artistic ability, plays the principal part, and the cast contains a number of well-trained actors. The general production is on a high plane of merit, the ensembles being correct in detail and impressive in effect. A large number of people are used in the mob scenes, and a praiseworthy endeavor is shown all through the picture to make it worthy of its subject.

Judged solely by its entertaining qualities and setting aside its influence as propaganda, "The Birth of Democracy" might have thrown the interest around its heroine into bolder relief to advantage. There is a preponderance of historical incidents and a want of familiar and compelling scenes between the woman whose fate is linked with that strange and savage figure of the Revolution, Robespierre, and the other characters who tell the romance upon which the picture is based. The picture has many fine dramatic moments, however, and the historical side of its story is of especial value at the present time.

Scene from "The Birth of Democracy" (Franco-American).

"The Birth of Democracy" is released on the State Rights plan, the Merit Film Corporation acting as distributors for New York State.

"His Mother's Boy"

Paramount Presents Charles Ray in a Comedy of Character by Rupert Hughes.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

"HIS MOTHER'S BOY" contains a characterization which suits Charles Ray as it it was made for him, bringing out the awkward hesitancy and natal fears of inexperience, such as he has successfully portrayed in other, similar stories. The characterization is clearly indicated in the title. It is that of one of those unformed young men made unfit for the duties and struggles of his sex by an over-affectionate and mollycoddling mother. Some men never get over it, but go through a more-or-less sheltered family life, with neither hardship nor battle to call out the qualities of true manhood. In this case the boy leaves mother to investigate the "leakage" in an oil property exploited by his deceased father, because investors to whom the father sold stock during his lifetime claim they were swindled and want their money back. The boy exhibits some strange contradictions of character in that he does not display ordinary common sense in his general conduct yet has sagacity enough to go directly at the cause of the "leakage" by visiting the oil property in person, setting to work as a common laborer and conducting an investigation which leads to the discovery of theft, a rather pitiful discovery after all, as it is purely accidental.

Scene from "His Mother's Boy" (Paramount).

The mother boy acts like a sissy boy in the oil-well field all of which Charles Ray manages to make very amusing. He is at his best in this sort of impersonation, his revelations of thought and feeling constituting an exceptionally fine example of screen psychology. His experiences wind up in a rough-and-tumble fight with a crooked manager of the oil plant and the discovery that he is a man after all. There is a thread of love story running through the fabric, but the material provided would be very attenuated without Ray's interesting personality. A story whose aim is simply a characterization, neither new nor admirable in any particular respect, is not likely to make a hit. It was well handled, however, by the Paramount company, and through fine quality of interpretation and direction, pleased a packed house at the Rialto.

"Rose of the World"

Artcraft Presents Elsie Ferguson in a Romantic Drama with Artistry of the Highest Order.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

ARTCRAFT'S "Rose of the World" may go on file with those exceptional products which can be shown year after year, the theme immortal, "The only heart that truly loves is that of woman." Men are brave and true—they will die for their ideals—but woman's love, that of the Divine Being, percolating through her heart to all the world, has no peer on earth, once it is surely placed. This motif is strongly impressed from beginning to end, in a story of perfect screen structure by Charles Maigne, adapted from the original of Agnes and Edgerton Castle, directed by Maurice Tourneur, and interpreted by Elsie Ferguson and a fine support. So admirably is it done that a grip on the sympathies is made at the very outset, and it is not allowed to lapse by the intrusion of diverting side issues. It is this sympathetic interest which holds most tightly, for suspense is purposely slackened that the spectator may anticipate a tremendous relief at the end—remarkable story structure.

Scene from "Rose of the World" (Artcraft).

Elsie Ferguson impersonates a young wife, in whose heart love is just beginning to bud for her soldier husband, when he is called away on a dangerous mission. Her grief when a small squad returns with news of the splendid young leader's death is the more pathetic that it is not demonstrative. She has come neither to a full realization of her love nor her loss. This action takes place in British India, where she is led to wed a high official, a governor-general, as a child might depend upon a kind friend, where life drones away until an officer calls who is commissioned to write a history of her first husband. Examination of his effects brings her to a half realization of a great love that has been smouldering in her bosom. She falls ill and is sent to England. She decides to write the history in her first husband's house, where his influence over her grows with tremendous intensity. The arrival of the Governor-General with a native secretary and a group of friends finds her in a state of mental anguish augmented by her environment and by superstitious servants.

In a storm, while her mind is almost trembling on the verge of dissolution, an old Indian servant conjures the presence of the lost soldier and he appears. He is in reality the one she supposed dead, masking as an East Indian until assured that her happiness demands that he disclose his true identity. The sight of him turns her hair white and nearly causes her death, but she is saved to enjoy the love and devotion she has so truly deserved.

This powerful story is pictured with such a wealth of detail and intelligence of handling, with such ardor of interpretation, that it held spellbound a vast audience at the Rivoli.

Mrs. Dane's Defense

Paramount Presents Pauline Frederick in a Screen Version of the Famous Play by Henry Arthur Jones.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

THE Famous Players feature, "Mrs. Dane's Defense," in the stage version, is the story of a wayward woman most cleverly camouflaged in the medium of language, so admirably handled that audience sympathy goes out strongly to the sinning woman, who, having skilfully covered her past, hopes to make amends as a true wife in honorable marriage with a man she sincerely loves. A whispered scandal and a lot of human envy arrange the forces of good socity against her, and her finer aspirations are dashed to the ground when a shrewd lawyer, the foster-father of her intended, insists upon disproving the scandal in public. She makes a game defense, but it crumbles at last under the lawyer's searching examination, and she goes back to obscurity and the care of an illegitimate child.

The problem presented in the stage version is whether a woman who has been more sinned against than sinning, who has profited by her experience, shall be given opportunity to make amends in a normal life in accord with social conventions, or whether she shall be forever discarded for having broken the most sacred of them all. Jones presents the problem with skill and high suspense. The screen version disposes of any mystery at the outset, instead of presenting it to arouse uncertainty and curiosity and gradually unravelling the plot, a change of structure which contributes materially to loss of interest in the outcome. It is a case of a badly written scenario, which pretends to follow the stage version, and which does, except in the prime essential of story interest on the screen—suspense.

Scene from "Mrs. Dane's Defense" (Paramount).

In spite of this destructive blunder, the author's purpose is felt—it is felt rather than seen, and very largely through fine interpretation of the leading role by Pauline Frederick. Supported by a company of very high quality in every role, with admirably chosen and entirely effective backgrounds, Miss Frederick presents the character of the erring woman with both dignity and force, an impersonation of exceptional merit. So tense are the situations devised by the author and offered under skilled Paramount direction that the play was well received by a large audience at the Strand.

Two Moon Comedies

"No Money-No Fun" and "The Bogus Uncle," Both With Gus Pixley Have Fair Entertainment Value, But Are Disappointing.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

TWO Moon Comedies, made by the Sunshine Film Company of New York, and featuring Gus Pixley, were recently shown to newspaper reviewers. They are disappointing. There is something typical in them, not of the best but of the average. There are many pictures made today that are no better, and either of these would be justified in an ordinary program as a lightener; but it is also true that there is no mark of special power in them; no peculiarity that would set them off from the numerous other comedies of their kind. They are plainly not intended to play an ambitious role in the film market. They are not coarse. There is more movement than action in them. There are not many laughs, yet the effect is like that of a lively dance tune. They ought to find a place.

"No Money—No Fun."

Story is of the slightest, but is fresh enough. Gus' uncle won't give him any ready money, but tells him to be comfortable in the house as though it were his. Uncle being away, he rents out rooms for cash. Uncle returns and finds things humming. He is in great need of ready money and so things are easily fixed. The subtitles of both might be improved on.

"The Bogus Uncle."

Story has been used very often and never was especially popular. Nephew and niece have never seen Uncle, who is known to be rich and is coming on a visit. Tramp enters the house, puts on a suit of clothes and is taken for the uncle. The real uncle comes while nephew and his wife are setting the table. He is locked in the closet, but breaks out and is taken for a lunatic. Cop arrests Uncle, but on way to prison they meet the uncle's man. Cop and Uncle come back for the tramp, who has skipped.

"Men Who Have Made Love To Me"

Mary MacLane, America's Much Discussed Woman Writer, Plays the Leading Figure in Six Piquant Love Episodes of Her Life, Written By Herself and Produced By Essanay.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

MY FIRST impulse in writing about "Men Who Have Made Love to Me" is to acknowledge the gripping hold which the screened stories had on me and of the pleasure which their novelty created. It is the first time in my remembrance that I have seen on the screen author and actress concentrated in the same person, and that person acting over again love scenes in her own life with a matter-of-fact realism, which either affect the spectator by their pathos or stir his risibilities by their humor, or excite him to fear by their tragedy. And through it all I can vouch that nothing objectionable to refined taste can be fairly claimed, although it required skillful directorship to avoid offense in the final scene between Mary MacLane and the husband of another.

Mary MacLane has never laid claim to being an actress, and never before risked an appearance before the moving picture camera, yet in my opinion no other woman could take her place in these episodes with either advantage or equality, for the simple reason that the author appears as her very self, being undisturbed by self-consciousness and always governed by the natural demands of the moment and of the scene. True, Mary has no fine stage airs, where she might conveniently employ them, and her stage walk shows perceptibly at times, an inclination to what might be termed a waddle, yet we welcome these seeming defects because they are really part of herself.

Mary MacLane appears in six of her love episodes, these and the introduction requiring seven reels of film for their production. The callow youth, the literary man, the baronet's younger son, the prizefighter, the bank clerk and the husband of another are the types of men who aspire to Mary's hand and heart. Each love experience is filmed in the order given, the men parts being ably sustained by Ralph Graves, R. Paul Harvey, Cliff Worman, Alador Prince, Clarence Derwent and Fred Tiden.

Excessive praise can scarcely be given Director Berthelet for his direction of the players and for the numerous fine interiors of the production. In artistic keeping with the sumptuous settings are the numerous and exquisite gowns, becomingly and gracefully worn by Mary MacLane. The photography throughout is excellent.

Scene from "Men Who Have Made Love to Me" (Essanay).

Release will be made through the George Kleine System some time near the close of January or around Feb. 1.

William E. Shay in "False Faces."

William E. Shay will be seen again as Wertheimer in Herbert Brenon's forthcoming production of "False Faces" or the sequel to "The Lone Wolf," by Louis Joseph Vance.

"Jules of the Strong Heart"

Paramount Picture of North Woods, with George Beban as Canadian Lumberjack Hero—Beautiful Photography Adds to Interesting Picture.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

OPENING with a scene in which a giant pine is felled to the powdery ground of a lumber camp, and with many a wonderful picture of the great woods in sunlight and shadow, calm and storm, the recent Paramount picture, "Jules of the Strong Heart," tells a story of fortitude that will make a marked appeal to audiences at this time. The hero, who is willing to give his life and endure torture rather than forfeit a chance to be true to what is in the final analysis just an errand, is played by George Beban in the character of a Canadian woodman as tender hearted as he is brave. The story is ably directed and has good continuity. Its chief weakness is that the hero, brave and worthy as he is, is hardly the right match for the girl, American daughter of the camp foreman, played by Helen Eddy. She might have been excused for giving her admiration to the hero and her love to the younger clerk, played by Raymond Hatton. Charles Ogle plays the girl's father and Guy Oliver has the villain's part.

Scene from "Jules of the Strong Heart" (Paramount).

Jules comes into camp carrying a baby. The villain is making love to the girl and he is threatened by her father. Jules who has been given a job takes a hand at teaching this rough better manners, and while he no longer troubles the girl he treasures hate in his breast. There's a misunderstanding. A bank has failed and the lumberjacks fear they are going to lose their wages. The foreman tells them the money is at the landing; but a terrible storm has broken and it can not be brought. The men are about to lynch the foreman when Jules volunteers to go for the cash in a boat. He is given an order on the express company. The villain goes, too, and on the way tries to force Jules to give up the paper. He is knocked on the head and tied up; but no torture can make him tell where he has the paper. The girl suspects that something has gone wrong and by chance gets help and a motor boat to go to the rescue. She knows that Jules loves her and tells him that she wants him.

Donald Crisp is the director. The scenario is by W. F. Thew and F. X. Finnegan, from the book by William Merriam Rouse.

"In Bad"

Excellent Five-Part Mutual-American Comedy Featuring William Russell—Plenty of Action and Amusing Situations.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE athletic quality of the Mutual-American comedy, "In Bad," in addition to the skillful direction given it by Edward Sloman, will ensure its popularity. William Russell, in this production, has been provided with a story which fits him exactly; it contains plenty of action and a number of good fights. And, moreover, the action of the play is consistent—the achievements of the hero are always within reason. The story also contains an excellent vein of comedy which cannot fail to be appreciated. There are individual incidents which are worthy of mention as being cleverly accomplished, such as the fall of the hero over the staircase of his aunt's home, landing in the presence of the lady who he afterward makes a desperate endeavor to marry, the fall in the young lady's home, when he accidentally collides with the butler carrying a tray of victuals, and his encounter with the gang of men in the underground treasure house of the Aztecs.

The story treats of the fortunes of a young man who comes east from Arizona to live with his aunt. The aunt, in an endeavor to place him right before her friends gives up in despair, and, after an incident in which he tries to get his trainer, who, by the way, is wanted by the authorities, out of a scrape, he lands in the police court after his pockets have been emptied of various articles of jewelry stolen at the reception by the trainer. While trying to square himself with the girl and gain consent to become a member of an expeditionary party, composed of his aunt, the girl, and her father, to the ruins of the Aztecs, considerable comic business is worked in. He decides to follow in the wake of the party and finally wins his point when he accidentally happens upon the treasure for which they are searching.

Francelia Billington, playing opposite William Russell, does very good work, but it is not provided with her usual opportunities. The production is nicely set and is apparently correct in atmosphere and environment.

"The Kitchen Lady"

Compelling Laugh-Maker in Two Reels—Louise Fazenda, a Good Cast with Pep, the House Cat and a Bear Make a Winner Comic Film.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

THERE are many different things in "The Kitchen Lady," a Paramount Mack Sennett comedy picture in two reels, that insure its giving a royal good time to any spectator who can enjoy fun. Louise Fazenda plays a kitchen slavey of a boarding house, and she is supported by Slim Summerville and Glen Cavender, two boarders, Eva Thatcher, the landlady, mother of Slim, and Alice Maison, a very pretty girl boarder. Pep, a remarkable house cat, a tame fish that bites and doesn't let go, and a black bear who performs out of season, each adds a good deal of unexpected and thoroughly enjoyable amusement. It is an exceptionally good picture to book and will be welcomed by children and others at a theater or any other place.

Trick photography plays a large part in the modern comic film and it is always acceptable. It is used in this film to make old things arrive so unexpectedly that they bring new fun. But new situations are not lacking in this picture, and some of the best of them are furnished by the house cat named Scene from "The Kitchen Lady" (Paramount).

Pep that at one place goes fishing without knowing it and is caught by the tail. A trained bear also adds some truly comic rough play that makes laughter.

The story of the slavey who becomes an heiress is full of possibilities, and they are well made use of here. The picture is one that can be advertised as a "scream."

Caprice Begins New Production.

June Caprice has begun another sparkling comedy drama for the William Fox productions. Bernard Thornton, a recent addition to the Fox forces, is the new leading man. Included in the cast are Joseph Kilgour, the noted actor who appeared in "The Lion and the Mouse" and "The Easiest Way," and George Bunny, a brother of the famous John Bunny, who was one of the most beloved of all players of the shadow stage.

Lee Children Go to Florida.

Members of the company headed by Jane and Katherine Lee, which have been working for several weeks on a new production, left the New Jersey studios last week for Jacksonville, Fla., where additional scenes are being taken.

The production on which the Lee company is working, under the direction of Kenean Buel, is a comedy drama of the "Two Little Imps" type. Many of the scenes are laid in an orphanage, where the young folks make life miserable for the matron and others charged with their care and education.

Two Triangle Five-Reelers

"The Flames of Chance" Up-to-Date Romance, with Margery Wilson Featured, and "Evidence," Photodrama by Jack Cunningham, Starring J. Barney Sherry.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"The Flames of Chance.

THAT seemingly inexhaustible well of plots, "The Saturday Evening Post," is the source of "The Flames of Chance," a five-part romance from a story by Francis Sullivan, scenario by Harvey Gates and Elizabeth Haas. Margery Wilson is the featured player, and Raymond Wells directed the production. The picture uses the present war for a background and has many pleasing qualities. It relates how Jeannette Contreau, a young stenographer, becomes god-mother to three allied soldiers, prisoners in a German camp. Fearing her "boys" will not give her their full confidence if they know her real age, she represents that she is an old, white-haired lady and sends them cheery letters and all sorts of gifts.

Scene from "Flames of Chance" (Triangle).

Harry Ledward, the American soldier, learns that he is to be released and writes to his god-mother that he will pay her a visit as soon as he arrives in New York. Jeannette is greatly disturbed over the prospect of being found out in her deception, and makes up her mind to disguise herself as an old lady. Ledyard calls as promised and keeps on calling, until Jeannette falls so desperately in love with him that she is ready to welcome her arrest when the postal authorities come to the conclusion that her letters to her "boys" are part of a system for conveying information to the enemy. The story ends happily, and Ledyard marries his god-mother. "The Flames of Chance" belongs to the class of fiction that has a serious underlying motive, but loses no opportunity to lighten up the story by taking advantage of every humorous possibility. It is often uncommonly bright and is always enjoyable. The production is equal to its merits, and Margery Wilson as Jeannette is the sort of god-mother that most chaps would be mighty glad to marry. The excellent supporting cast is made up of Jack Mulhall as Harry Ledyard, Anna Dodge as Mrs. Tibbitts, Wilbur Higbee as Frederick Armstrong, Percy Challenger as an old actor, Ben Lewis as John Finch, Eugene Corey as Anatole, and Lee Phelps as Paul. Photographed by Pliny Horn.

"Evidence."

Jack Cunningham, the author of "Evidence," a five-part photodrama starring J. Barney Sherry and directed by Walter Edwards, has written a mystery story that will baffle most spectators until the very finish. It is somewhat deliberate in getting under way, but once it is shown that the wife of John Corbin is carrying on an affair with another man and the interest aroused is sustained to the end. Corbin, returning home unexpectedly, sees this man escaping from his wife's room. He confronts the guilty woman and kills her and is saved from the chair by the plea of insanity. After being confined in an asylum he is released and is a guest at his son's wedding when the boy (the stepson of the murdered woman) is married to the daughter of Dr. Richard Hyde, a close friend of the Corbin family. After the wedding it is revealed why John Corbin had never told the name of the man he saw leaving his wife's room. It was Hyde, and when he asks Corbin if he would recognize the dead woman's accomplice the injured husband replies, "I hope not, for our children's sake."

The theme is not a pleasant one, but it is undeniably dramatic and has been adroitly handled by the author and the producer. J. Barney Sherry is forceful in a quietly effective way, and is well supported by Audelle Higgins as Mrs. Corbin, Howard Davis as Dr. John Hyde, Pauline Starke as Phyllis Hyde, Eugene Corey as John Corbin, Jr., Edwin Jobson as Chief Benton and George Chase as George. C. G. Peterson was the photographer.

"The Devil's Playground"

Vera Michelena Featured in An Interesting Seven-Reel Production Dealing With the Evils of the Public Dance Palaces.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell.

TO STATE Right buyers, Werner and Abrams are offering the Fraternity Films' seven-reel picture, "The Devil's Playground," featuring Vera Michelena. The title is applied to the modern public dansants, and the story interestingly told, is a strong arraignment of the influence for immorality which they are represented as exerting. There are a number of scenes depicting cabarets and afternoon dancing places, some of which are set forth with considerable boldness, and several unpleasant phases, such as a very young girl being met at the door by a "hostess" and introduced to a young man, evidently a frequenter of the place, are shown.

First, there is a story which follows conventional lines, dealing with a girl whose employer uses her fondness for dancing, coupled with the fact that she has a sick mother, to further his own ends; culminating in a road house scene which is unnecessarily bold, and from which the girl escapes by jumping from a window. Then follows the story of the boy, the construction being weakened by the two stories being told separately. The only connection being the fact that the man in the girl's story is the father of the boy.

Fresh from school, the unsophisticated youth, through the medium of the public dancing palace, becomes infatuated with The Woman who is tiring of her present wealthy companion. In a stormy scene, the boy turns his mother down and goes to the woman, whose interest in him begins to wane when his allowance is cut off. To hold her love, he succumbs to temptation and robs the bank in which he is employed. The woman endeavors to save him by returning the money, but he is committed to prison for a year as a warning to others; and the end of the production shows his return to his mother while the woman again welcomes the man of wealth whom she had cast aside.

The story is interpreted by a competent and well-balanced cast. Vera Michelena is excellent and convincing as the woman; while Lillian Cook as the girl and Harry Spingler as the boy, are good types and give fine performances. George S. Trimble handles the more or less unpleasant role of the wealthy man satisfactorily, while William H. Tooker lends dignity to the part of the family lawyer, and Robert Cummings is satisfactory as the father.

Dallas Tyler is responsible for the story, while Harry McRae Webster is the director. In addition to the roadhouse scene, one or the two of the dancing scenes are broad enough to be objectionable. The photography is excellent.

Scene from "The Devil's Playground" (Fraternity).

"The Bride"

Second of the James Montgomery Flagg "Girls You Know" Series Replete with Genuine Humor—Exhibited at Strand.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THERE is something new and refreshing about the James Montgomery Flagg pictures which are being produced by the Edison Company. The second number of the "Girls You Know" series entitled "The Bride," is even better than the first, and was received with large appreciation by Strand theater audiences during the past week. In these pictures old situations are made new, and the most commonplace incidents are so artistically and humorously presented as to be wholly pleasurable.

The story of "The Bride" is the simple old story of the girl who longs to yield to her lover's appeal that they be married at once, but hesitates to break the news to "pa." The elopement is there, too; but "pa" having overheard a certain telephone conversation between the contracting parties, is also on the job. His tactics are quite different, however, from those of the usual moving picture "pa." This particular gentleman merely steps up to the prospective bridegroom waiting in the moonlight beside the taxi, taps him on the arm and suggests they make it a daylight affair—"why not advertise and get the benefit of the wedding presents?"

The suggestion is well taken and a month later an artistically staged wedding takes place, to which a humorous side finds its way by means of skilfully worded subtitles. "The Bride" is most certainly a comedy that will be enjoyed.

"Our Mutual Motor"

Metro-Drew, for Special Rivoli Requirements, Exploits Usefulness of Flivver, with Comic Side Uppermost.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE special Metro-Drew number appearing at the Rivoli during the past week exploits in a comic way the usefulness of our friend the flivver and enlarges on the impositions of neighbors and friends. Those who are the proud possessors of Ford cars will most appreciate the humor of the screened story of the over-worked machine.

It so happens that the couple with whose domestic affairs we have become familiar in Metro-Drews have now purchased a Ford touring car of which they are justly proud. In the generosity which often accompanies pride of newly acquired possessions, they have—or we should say pretty Polly—has invited all friends and neighbors to partake of the pleasure of their new possession. Polly's generosity, which finally gets on Henry's nerves, causes him one evening on his return trip to be encumbered with one immense crate with the area of a good-sized bed and a couple of fair maidens, all of which it was made necessary for him and the car to escort home.

The final straw is added to Henry's load when responding manfully to an appeal in behalf of an old lady of eighty years who has never before ridden in a motor car, he is urged beyond the speed limit by his aged passenger and is served with a summons to appear before the magistrate.

This is a good number and touches a subject of universal appeal.

"For Liberty"

Satisfying Melodrama by Fox Carries from America to Berlin and to the Front—American Boys Go Over the Top to Rescue Heroine.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

THE new Fox melodrama, "For Liberty," works up to an exciting climax, photographed at night amid flares and flashing lights on volumes of rolling smoke and bursting shell. The heroine (Gladys Brockwell), an expatriate who has lived for years in Berlin, has won disgrace for herself all around by trying to aid the American cause. Even the American spy (Charles Clary), for whom she has stolen German plans, misunderstands and despises her as a light of love.

The action has moved right up to the front trenches. The girl, it being midnight, has just stolen the plans. The man comes to get them. He is suspected and they capture him. The girl buys him a chance from the German general. She slips him the plans and the Germans let him start on a run across No Man's Land. He has a white shirt on. It is night, and they begin to shell him. All bloody-faced he reaches the American line. He tells them about the heroine and the regiment goes over with a yell amid rockets, bombs bursting and all the stir of a great battle. The girl is fighting for her honor in a mansion not far away. There's a big shell hole in its walls. The Americans reach the place and someone shoots the general, who stands near the hole. Then the heroine is brought out and conducted away in triumph.

Scene from "For Liberty" (Fox).

It is a satisfying melodrama. There is nothing cheap in the direction or staging. The acting is distinctly good. The action builds up evenly and the climax holds strongly. The photography is adequate. The plot is popular and takes liberties with probability that in the atmosphere of the story are not self-evident enough to spoil the entertainment.

"Woman and Wife"

Select Star Feature Offering Presents Alice Brady in Modernized Version of Jane Eyre.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

A POWERFUL offering of the semi-tragic type, with occasional melodramatic moments, has been evolved in this five-reel number. Charlotte's famous classic. "Jane Eyre," serves as a plot basic, but the story has been thoroughly modernized, both in costuming and settings, and no particular attempt has been made to follow the plot as unfolded in the novel.

Scene from "Woman and Wife" (Select).

There has been a complete rearrangement of incidents which are taken from the book and has also been added and much left out. A certain trace of the austere flavor of the novel remains, but on the whole the photoplay has a warmer and more human note.

Alice Brady plays the part of Jane, the girl whose aunt taught her to believe she was cold and unloving. Miss Brady makes the girl anything but this after she has gone from her aunt to the charity home. Here, in spite of the unpleasant treatment of Mr. Brocklehurst, the principal, she makes herself popular with the other girls and one of the women teachers. She becomes a young woman while at the school, and is then suddenly cast out to make her own living.

Jane enters the employ of Edward Rochester, as governess to his little child. This part of the narrative follows the novel rather closely, but the later events are considerably changed. Rochester, in the present story, believes his insane wife had died some years before. She is suddenly brought to his country home, just before he expects to marry Jane, by his brother-in-law, for purposes of blackmail. Rochester receives his wife and has her placed in the tower. Her mad wanderings about the house at night, during which she attempts to kill Rochester, are realistically staged. Later she escapes from the tower room and interrupts the wedding of Rochester and Jane, the former having determined that he has a right to wed again. In the final scenes the insane wife is drowned and Rochester and Jane face future happiness together.

Eliott Dexter makes rather a younger looking Rochester than a reader of the novel would imagine for the part, but brings considerable strength to the role. Leonora Morgan makes a good deal of her part as the insane wife, which is a repellant one, but at the same time very vital to the story. Others in the cast are Helen Green, Helen Lindroth and Victor Benoit. The production was directed by Edward Jose.

"The Petrova Waltz."

During the presentation of "Daughter of Destiny," starring Olga Petrova at the Rialto theater recently, the occasion was marked by the introduction of "The Petrova Waltz." The composition is the work of the musical director of The Rialto and Rivoli theaters, Hugo Riesenfeld. The number sprang into instantaneous popularity during the week in which Madame Petrova appeared on the screen of The Rialto and many patrons asked at the box office where the song could be purchased. Arrangements have since been made whereby the number is to be standardized and published broadcast through the country. It is proposed to make this special composition a dominant theme for all the musical settings which will accompany the eight starring vehicles of Madame Petrova distributed through the First National Exhibitors' Circuit during the present year.

"Wolves of the Rail"

William S. Hart in Five-Part Melodrama, Presented by Thomas H. Ince, Packed Full of Jump and Ginger—On Artcraft Program.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

WHO was it said that melodrama had gone out of fashion? That's what a true son of the land of the long horn would call "the wrong steer." The healthy mind, regardless of age, will always respond to its red-blooded life, its jump and ginger and strong spice of play-acting which we all love, its unpolished but vigorous romance will remain a part of screen fiction so long as human nature continues to be human. "Wolves of the Rail," a five-part Artcraft picture presented by Thomas H. Ince and starring William S. Hart, is melodrama of the genuine ride fast, shoot quick, fight hard, and die game kind. Contempt of danger is the first article in the creed of all properly minded folk in this class of romance, but the second article beats it for sound, common sense: "Take darn good care of your trigger finger." Both of these laws are given practical application all through "Wolves of the Rail," and train "hold-ups," fights for two and fights for a dozen, a heroine who risks her life for the man she loves, and the triumph of virtue and beauty are all to be found in this same photoplay.

Fortunate Tom Sawyers and Huckleberry Finns of today! No longer must they hide in the haymow or behind the corncrib to read of bandits and their exploits, of train robbers, the hero who conquers them, and other delightful persons equally reckless of their own and their neighbor's lives. The youth of the present can now form one of a family party and see it all reproduced on the screen in a healthful, real outdoor fashion that stirs the blood and leaves the beholder the better for the experience.

The character taken by William S. Hart in "Wolves of the Rail" is known as "Buck" Andrade, and at the opening of the picture he is the leader of a band of train robbers that has concentrated its activities on one particular road so long that the president sends Cassidy, a famous man catcher from New York, to round up the gang. Before he reaches Smoky Gap, "Buck" has had a quarrel with one of his men, Pablo Trilles, and shot him in the hand. A messenger brings the news that "Buck's" mother is dying. The bandit leader starts for her bedside, but Pablo gets there ahead of him, and tells the dying woman that her son is a thief. When "Buck" arrives his mother makes him swear to turn honest.

Returning by train to the scenes of his former activities, "Buck" meets Cassidy. Chance leads to the detective's learning the ex-bandit's identity. There is a fight, and "Buck" wins. He appropriates the detective's clothes, papers and name, presents himself to the chief at division headquarters as Cassidy, and starts in to run down his old companions. He is successful, but not until he performs startling feats by the score, wins a sweetheart, saves thirty thousand dollars of U. S. Army money, boards a run away engine from the back of his horse, kills Pablo in a fair fight, and makes a friend of the president of the road.

Scene from "Wolves of the Rail" (Artcraft).

"Buck" Andrade must be a character after the star's own heart. It gives him a chance to do those things for which he is so greatly admired by his large following, and also to vindicate his right to marry the pretty heroine and ride with her into the sunset at the finish, a fate denied to the bad men of which he has played quite a number in record making manner. His method is as cleancut and incisive as ever, and takes the same firm hold of the imagination.

His support keeps close behind his heels in its general excellence. Vola Vale is the Faith Lawson of the cast, and supplies the grace and grit and sweetness of character demanded of "Buck's" best girl. Billy Elmer, in a character make-up of startling effectiveness, plays Pablo as well as he looks him. Melbourne MacDowell is an impressive railroad president. C. Normand Hammond as Cassidy and Thomas Kurihara as Pasquale are the remaining members of the high grade cast.

"Wolves of the Rail" was written by Denison Clift, and put together by one who knows the game. Its production brings out every possibility in the story, and the director has been more than fortunate in his selection of picturesque locations and his preservation of correct local color.

"Daybreak"

Emily Stevens Well Cast in an Interesting Picture, Based on Play with Same Title—Released by Metro.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell.

AS Edith Frome in "Daybreak," the five-reel Metro release for January 7, Emily Stevens appears in one of the most satisfactory and congenial roles of her screen career. This subject is based on Jane Cowl and Jane Murfin's play of the same title, the adaptation being made by June Mathis and Albert Capellani. The latter also directed the production.

Scene from "Daybreak" (Metro).

Arthur Frome, a successful financier, after promising to abstain from drink, indulges too freely, and pushes a newsboy, who falls under an automobile and is badly injured. Her faith shaken, Edith leaves him, but a few years later is persuaded to return, but gives no account of her absence. Frome, suspicious of the time she spends away from home, has her "shadowed" by the wife of an employee whom he discovers to be a thief. The girl reports that Edith and Dr. Brett, a friend of the family, are visiting a house where there is a baby. When the baby is taken suddenly ill, Dr. Brett phones Edith. When she endeavors to go to the child, Frome seeks to prevent her, insinuates that the child is her own, and that Brett is the father. After the crisis, Edith tells Frome that that baby is his own child, and that she kept its existence secret that it might grow up away from the influence of a drunken father. She then goes away with the child, and Frome is shot by the jealous husband of the girl who tracked Edith; he recovers, however, and through the instrumentality of Dr. Brett everything is cleared up, and a reconciliation takes place.

Emily Stevens' acting is fine and convincing throughout, Julian L'Estrange gives a capable performance as Frome, while Augustus Phillips and Evelyn Brent as Dr. Brett and the girl detective, respectively, are entirely satisfactory. Frank Joyner as the embezzling employee, and Herman Lieb as the lawyer complete the cast. The interest is well sustained throughout, and the action, as a whole, is clear and convincing. The photography is excellent, and the sets, which are almost entirely interiors, are elaborate and in keeping with the story. The audience at the Arena, a neighborhood theater in New York, applauded the picture at the end of its presentation.

JEWEL CHANGES TITLE.

Jewel Productions, Inc., announces that it has decided to change the title of the next release from "K" to "The Doctor and the Woman." This feature, according to Jewel, will be one of the most beautiful productions released this season, and in it Mildred Harris is said to appear to better advantage than ever before. The scenario is an adaptation of the Mary Roberts Rinehart novel, "K," as published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and was directed by Lois Weber.

In point of photography the picture is full of surprising effects, there being considerable night work throughout. The titles are different from any heretofore used in Jewel productions, and for continuity and strength the story is remarkable.

The theme of the picture follows closely that of the original novel and, if anything, its value is enhanced by the splendid production given it by Miss Weber. True Boardman appears as the mysterious doctor, "K," and Miss Harris as the heroine. The exact date of release has not been announced.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

HIS COLLEGE PROXY (Selburn).—In this one-reel number, Neal Burns marries his sweetheart, Gertrude Selby, against the wishes of their parents, and Neal, in order to be near Gertrude, disguises as a butler, hiring the chauffeur to go to college in his place. After several amusing complications arise, the deception is discovered and all ends satisfactory. This is a good number, although the principal situations are familiar.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation.

ROSE OF THE WORLD, January 7.—A powerful story of woman's devoted love, presented with great beauty and force, Elsie Ferguson in a dramatic role of high intensity.

WOLVES OF THE RAIL, January 14.—William S. Hart is the star of this five-part melodrama which is full of the sort of thrills that keeps the interest at white heat. It is skillfully produced. A longer review is printed in this issue.

Christie Film Company.

CUPID'S CAMOUFLAGE (Christie), January.—An amusing number in which a young pair meeting for the first time on the platform of a railway station find on their second meeting that each is occupied in a humble vocation. Later they discover that it is all camouflage and are made happier than ever in the establishing of a proper identity. The picture was reviewed in last week's issue.

ONE GOOD TURN (Christie), January.—A rollicking sort of comedy which will please most audiences. The fun is extracted from a situation which arises from the decision of a young husband to stay downtown on the evening of the first anniversary of his wedding. A full review was published in last week's issue.

Fox Film Corporation.

STOLEN HONOR, December 30.—A five-reel picture featuring Virginia Pearson in a melodramatic story set in Washington, D. C. It is ably put together, has good continuity, hides its denouement and interests all the time. It is simply popular melodrama of the kind that usually goes well and is in demand in most theaters. It is not a great picture. A longer notice will be found on another page of this issue.

DU BARRY (Fox Special Feature), December 30.—Theda Bara plays the noted adventuress in a well-staged picture. There is considerable dramatic interest in those groups of scenes that picture the story's climaxes and the connecting portions keep interest awake through the whole. It is a Theda Bara picture and will please her following. A longer review was printed in Moving Picture World, issue of January 19, page 379.

FOR LIBERTY, January 6—A satisfying melodrama in five reels, with Charles Clary and Gladys Brockwell in the leading roles. The action carries from America to Germany after war has been declared, jumps to the Western front and in a good climax brings the American boys "over the top" to rescue the American heroine who has helped the spy hero escape. It is sure to please. A longer notice will be found on another page of this issue.

SON OF A GUN (Fox Lehrman Comedy), February 3.—A two-reel farce of comic characters, full of dream-like impossible doings that compel laughter through being so impossible. One of the characters is in a room where a bomb is exploded. He is blown up through the chimney, takes a jump from the roof and lands on a horse quietly waiting below and gallops off. The whole story is of this same material.

Franco-American.

THE BIRTH OF DEMOCRACY, January.—The story of the French Revolution is told in this seven-part foreign made picture, Lyda Borelli having the leading female role. The production is excellent in many ways. It is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

Fraternity Films, Inc.

THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND.—A seven-reel state rights production, presenting a scathing arraignment of the alleged immoral influence exerted by afternoon dansants and cabarets in which public dancing is permitted. The story is presented by a competent cast, headed by Vera Michelena, the musical comedy star, and including Lillian Cook, Harry Spingler, Robert Cummings, W. H. Tooker and George S. Trimble. An extended review appears on another page of this issue.

Greater Vitagraph, Inc.

THE WILD STRAIN, January 14.—Nell Shipman is featured in this five-part photoplay, written by George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester. The atmosphere is partly of the circus and it has many amusing moments. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

VENGEANCE—AND THE WOMAN (Vitagraph).—The fifth episode of the Vitagraph serial still finds the heroine and her husband leading the strenuous life and Bessie Blake in the hands of the outlaws. She is put on top of the high rock, and Harry Blake, who has again managed to elude the bandits, tries to reach her by risking his life on some telegraph wires. The finish gives the usual promise of more thrills to follow.

George Kleine System.

THE BRIDE (Edison), January 16.—An enjoyable comedy and one of the James Montgomery Flagg "Girls You Know" series. The picture is based on an old situation which has been given a new face by artistic presentation. The picture is a thoroughly enjoyable one and will be found reviewed at length elsewhere.

MEN WHO MADE LOVE TO ME (Essanay), Sometime around Feb. 1.—These love episodes of Mary MacLane, the widely known writer and author, occupy seven reels, the author playing the part of herself throughout. In each of the six episodes the lover is played by a competent actor. Mary MacLane should make a strong and wide appeal as herself. Pathos, humor and near tragedy mark the run of the love stories. The production has magnificient settings and fine photoplay, and several beautiful dresses are worn by Mary MacLane. See extended review elsewhere in this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation.

OUR MUTUAL MOTOR (Drew), January.—This number of the Drew comedies was presented as a special Drew number at the Rivoli in its second week. It is an extremely funny comedy for those who understand the demands made on the flivver by the friends of their owners. The final straw is added to Henry's load when Polly insists on his taking an old lady of eighty years out for her first ride, and this venerable person probes his injured pride past the speed limit and he is served with a summons to appear before the magistrate.

Mutual Film Corporation.

JERRY ON THE RAILROAD (Cub), August 9.—This number, which was not shown to the press at the time of its release, is not one of the best of the Jerry Comedies. In it Jerry has a dream in which he dreams that he escapes on a hand car from distasteful labor, and discovers a couple of attempts at crime. One of these is the placing of a bomb under a railroad bridge by a half-wit, and the other is the loading of an apple with cynaide of potassium and presenting it to a young girl to eat. A fight between Jerry and the half-wit takes place and finally Jerry wakes up and finds it all a dream.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 3 (Gaumont), Jan. 14.—This issue contains some interesting scenes showing Colonel Bremond being made Commander of the Legion of Honor at Port Said, and the French troops leaving the Suez Canal for Arabian camps. There is also shown the army of Emir Paical in the Oasis of Gidda, allied with the troops of France. Scenes showing winter sport at "Toy Town Tavern," Winchendon, Mass., and skating at the Biltmore Ice Gardens are also interesting.

BURGLARS (Strand), Jan. 15.—A clean comedy for which quite an amusing story has been provided. A middle-aged couple decide to invite the niece of one and the nephew of the other to visit them. Starting late for the depots at which the young people are to arrive a situation around which most of the comedy swings arises. The young people entering the house by windows are thought by each other to be burglars. The police are sent for, both are arrested and are, of course, finally rescued by aunt and uncle. Very good.

IN BAD (American), January 21.—A five-part comedy featuring William Russell with Francelia Billington playing opposite him. This production is a good one, and will be appreciated by any audience. Its story is consistent and pleasing and the picture has been well directed by Edward Sloman. A full review will be found elsewhere.

Paramount Pictures Corporation.

HIS MOTHER'S BOY, December 24.—A comedy of character, picturing a mollycoddle who became a man, with Charles Ray very amsuing in his favorite role.

MRS. DANE'S DEFENSE, January 7.—An effective presentation of the stage drama of the same name by Henry Arthur Jones, with Pauline Frederick superb in the leading role.

MEATLESS DAYS AND SLEEPLESS NIGHTS (Klever Komedy), January 14.—This one-part Victor Moore comedy explains itself by its title. It follows the usual run of humor of this brand and was written by Thomas B. Gray. The scenes are laid partly in a restaurant of which the star is the owner and cook.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

A SLIDE FOR LIFE (Pathe), January 13.—Episode No. 8 of "The Hidden Hand." This instalment opens with the escape of Doris and Ramsey from the fire trap. The two are then lured to a hunting lodge in the Adirondacks, where they are led to believe the missing will is located. Dr. Scarley is discovered in the lodge under curious circumstances, and after his departure the "Hidden Hand" and his men attack the lodge. Doris and Ramsey make a sensational escape by sliding down a long bridge cable. This latter feature provides a pleasing thrill and does much to insure the interest of the number.

JETS OF FLAME (Pathe), January 20.—Episode No. 9 of "The Hidden Hand." The most sensational feature of this instalment is that in which Doris ascends to the top of a high smokestack, which is surrounded by the "Hidden Hand" and his men. They plot to blow it up and the girl lowers herself down the interior of the stack, where she escapes death when the chimney falls. Ramsey comes to her rescue, but is knocked unconscious and Doris is later imprisoned in the furnace room, with burning gas jets all about her. The plot is not greatly advanced in this, but the action is exciting and interesting.

PHANTOM FAME (Pathe), January 20.—Episode No. 1 of a series named "The Price of Folly," to run in eight instalments of two reels each. The same characters will appear in the stories, each complete in itself. In this number Ruth Roland appears as Mrs. Kate Denton, wife of a hardware merchant. She has literary aspirations and is lured to the city by a designing editor, who has already ruined the daughter of a workingman. In the incidents that follow the ruined girl commits suicide and Mrs. Denton is disillusioned. She is sent to a sanitarium with her mind unbalanced. This is melodrama in action and arouses a fairly strong interest.

THE BIG IDEA (Rolin-Pathe), January 20.—A very funny comic number, featuring Harold Lloyd, Harry Pollard and Bebe Daniels. Harold and the girl are clerks in an antique shop and the former circulates a fake telegram, saying that one of the articles in the shop contains ten thousand dollars. This creates an immense increase in business, and it develops much to his disgust that an old vase contains the amount of money mentioned. This has a good idea in it and is worked out in a laughable way.

BRUGES—BEFORE THE WAR (Pathe), January 20.—An interesting half-reel scenic number, giving tinted views of the famous old city of Belgium, all taken prior to the great conflict. This place has been prominent as a commercial center since the twelfth century, and many of its best known points of interest are depicted. The lace making also constitutes a good feature.

IN BLOSSOM TIME (Pathe), January 20.—Tinted views of plum, peach, almond and cherry blossoms in the act of bursting open. This is very beautifully presented and makes a strong subject. It is shown with the above half reel.

Select Pictures Corporation.

GHOSTS OF YESTERDAY (Select).—Made from a stage play by Rupert Hughes, this six-part photoplay gives a strong dual role to Norma Talmadge which she acts in a most effective manner. The scenes are laid in New York and Paris and the entire production is well done. A longer review appeared in the issue of January 19, page 383.

WOMAN AND WIFE (Select).—A five-reel version, in modernized and supplemented form, of Charlotte Bronte's novel, "Jane Eyre." Alice Brady plays the part of Jane, supported by Eliot Dexter as Rochester and Lenora Morgan as the insane wife. The story is treated in rather melodramatic style and is a powerful one of its type. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Sunshine Films, Inc.

NO MONEY—NO FUN (Moon Comedy).—A single reel made by the Sunshine Film Company with Gus Pixley in the leading role. It has an undeveloped plot and while fresh enough, is not a perfectly successful picture when compared with the better class of comics today. A longer notice can be found elsewhere in this issue.

THE BOGUS UNCLE (Moon Comedy).—A one-reel comic with Gus Pixley in the lead. Its plot is old and never was a great success. It is lively and can be used as a lightener of a program. Its best value would be as a follower of some exiciting and nerve racking film of war and destruction. We have noticed it at more length elsewhere in this number.

Triangle Film Corporation.

THE FLAMES OF CHANCE, January 20.—Taken from a Saturday Evening Post story, this five-part photoplay is bright and up-to-date in theme and cleverly played by Margery Wilson and cast. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

EVIDENCE, January 20.—J. Barney Sherry heads the cast in this five-part mystery story which holds the interest to the end. A murder furnishes the principal motive. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

CURRENT EVENTS, NO. 35 (Universal), Jan. 5.—American air activities furnish material for some important scenes in this number. Zero weather, shipping difficulties, incendiary fires and close-up studies of General Pershing are among the other features.

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 6 (Universal), Jan. 9.—Ice boating on the Hudson River, Salvation Army relief work, a munitions plant fire, new England war council, the Lord Mayor's military and naval spectacle in London, and other interesting features are included in this number.

WHO'S TO BLAME? (Nestor), January 21.—A comedy, by Tom Gibson, featuring William Franey, Gale Henry, Milburne Moranti and Lillian Peacock. This contains a good humorous idea. The husband is misled by his wife's charitable work on children's clothes and thinks he is about to become a proud father. The developments are original and laughable.

MADAM SPY (Universal Special), January 21.—A five-reel number, adapted by Harvey Gates from a story by Lee Morrison, with Jack Mulhall, Donna Drew and Claire Du Brey in the leading roles. The hero is the son of an American admiral, who has failed in his examinations, and in order to redeem himself brings a group of German spies to justice. He does this by a clever impersonation of a German countess. The story has good action and is quite dramatic in places; its strongest feature is a pleasing vein of comedy. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

ASHCAN ALLEY (L-KO), January 23.—A two-reel comic which makes an amusing study of alley types, including Grandpop Soapsuds and family, a Chinese laundryman, Sally O'Malley and her lover, and two villains. The banquet, attended in borrowed finery, makes a good feature, and the kidnapping and torture of the hero is funny. There are some laughable knockabout situations and a wild chase at the close.

HELL'S RIDERS (Universal Special), January 26.—Episode No. 15 of "The Red Ace." This continues in a thoroughly exciting manner the flight of the spies, with the platinum, toward the Mexican border. Virginia and Winthrop enlist the aid of some ranchmen and give rapid pursuit. There is a running battle on horseback, excellently staged, during which Virginia recovers the platinum and rides away with the bag. At the last moment one of the spies brings her to the ground with his lariat. A thrilling number.

THE BLACK MASKS (Universal Special), January 28.—Episode No. 9 of "The Mystery Ship." This shows the escape of Betty and Gaston from the gang in Chinatown, San Francisco. Then follows an exciting chase to Los Angeles, Betty and Gaston racing with a train in an automobile. Gaston attends a secret meeting in Los Angeles, is made prisoner and tortured by the Spider and his followers, who are trying to locate the hiding place of the treasure. A characteristic instalment.

World Pictures.

THE BEAUTIFUL MRS. REYNOLDS, January 21.—The Hamilton-Burr feud is the foundation of this historical picture which gives an interesting review of the quarrel between the two statesmen. June Elvidge has the title role. The production is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

BEBAN PLAYS "ONE MORE AMERICAN."

The fact that much of the action of "One More American," George Beban's forthcoming Paramount vehicle, takes place in "Little Italy," New York, and on Ellis Island, where immigrants are landed, made it necessary to secure a large number of extra people suited to the quaint characters that are to be found in those localities.

William De Mille, who not only directed the picture, but also wrote the play, "The Land of the Free," from which the film version was made by Olga Printzlau, succeeded in rounding up an assortment of types which are certain to lend realism to the production.

George Beban himself has an entirely happy role in Luigi Riccardo, the leading figure in the touching story of an alien's experiences in the great metropolis. Helen Jerome Eddy again appears with Mr. Beban in the leading feminine role, while Jack Holt is cast as a New York reporter, a part to which he should do full justice.

"PRICE OF FOLLY" SERIES STARTS JANUARY 20.

Pathe has completed arrangements to release on January 20 a series of eight two-reel dramas under the general title of "The Price of Folly." A pre-release booking has been arranged on the entire series by Marcus Loew for his circuit of theaters in and around New York City beginning December 30.

"The Price of Folly" might best be described as a series of intensely interesting two-reel dramas dealing with the general theme of the payment life exacts from humans when they cast aside their better judgment and let folly dictate their course of action in certain crises that come to everyone.

The first of the series to be released is "The Phantom Fame." It deals with the problem of a young wife who wants to live her own life and have a career apart from her husband. The stories and the scenarios are from the pen of Will M. Ritchey, who has been responsible for many Pathe successes both in the feature and the serial end of the game. Ruth Roland plays the lead in the series. Frank Mayo is the leading man. Among the other actors in the cast are Daniel Gilfether, Molly McConnell, Gordon Sackville, Philo McCullough, Ruth Lackaye, and Edward Jobson.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

Doris Kenyon with De Lux

President Deitrich Secures Mary Robert Rinehart's Story, "The Street of Seven Stars," for Popular Actress.

THE first feature to be presented by the new producing firm, De Luxe Pictures, Inc., starring Doris Kenyon at the head of her own company, will be "The Street of Seven Stars," by Mary Roberts Rinehart. Theodore C. Deitrich, president of De Luxe Pictures, Inc., has concluded negotiations with Mrs. Rinehart for the motion picture rights to the story. It appeared in serial form in the Saturday Evening Post and proved a "best-seller" in book form, attaining a sale of 250,000 copies.

Doris Kenyon.

"The Street of Seven Stars" is Mrs. Rinehart's most widely-known story. By its publication in the Saturday Evening Post and its wide circulation in book form, it is estimated that fully 12,000,000 persons in the United States alone have read "The Street of Seven Stars."

"Miss Kenyon's great beauty, her girlishness, and her personal charm, together with her marked dramatic ability will be important factors in tending to the great success of her appearance as the heroine of 'The Street of Seven Stars'" declared Mrs. Rinehart. "I consider 'The Street of Seven Stars' my most beautiful and artistic story."

The purchase of the rights of "The Street of Seven Stars" follows the announced policy of Mr. Deitrich for presenting Miss Kenyon in clean, wholesome and artistic productions. No expense will be spared in making this feature a de luxe production in every sense. One of the best-known directors in the country will produce the picture and a notable cast will be engaged to support Miss Kenyon.

PICTURES PROCURE FARM LABOR.

Louis Kon, Commissioner of Immigration and Colonization for the Province of Manitoba, has been engaged recently in Chicago in the production of a film for which he drafted the story, showing how Canada, and particularly Manitoba, went about solving the labor shortage problem at harvest time.

"Do Your Bit on the Farm" is a thousand-foot-reel, partly produced in Winnipeg, and partly in the Rothacker studio, Chicago, appealing to city people to spend their vacations on farms. In Winnipeg, last year, one of the large department stores had a Girls' Brigade, composed of young women clerks who volunteered to go into the harvest fields from 4.30 P. M. until dark every day during the harvesting season, and help stock grain. They were allowed to leave the store an hour early, were taken by the motor brigade to farms not too far out from the city, where they worked in their jeans, like soldiers, and had a good time besides.

Mr. Kon relates one incident to prove his assertion that women make better farm hands than men. He says a tall, strong Icelander girl walked into his office one day and demanded a real job as a farm hand. She didn't want any housework—let the men do that—she wanted to go out into the fields, pitch hay, stock the grain and otherwise take a man's job. She said she knew how and she looked as if she meant what she said. So when the Deputy Minister of Agriculture wanted a farm hand for his big place near Winnipeg, Mr. Kon recommended the young women. She got the place and liked it so well that she decided to stay out on the farm all winter instead of going back to her office desk, and the Deputy Minister relates that she was by all odds the best workman he had ever experienced.

The film will be released by Mr. Kon at cost to the State Councils of Defense in the United States, to be used in solving the labor shortage problem here.

STRONG CAST IN "UNDER SUSPICION."

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, the popular co-stars, are supported by a cast of well-known players in the forthcoming Metro Star Series production "Under Suspicion," Albert Shelby Le Vino's screen version of Hugh Weir's story "The Woolworth Diamonds," which is being directed by Will S. Davis.

Hugh Jeffrey, who has long been a Metro favorite, plays the prominent part of Rogers, the valet of Gerry Simpson (Francis X. Bushman). Eva Gordon, who has played for several leading motion picture companies in Continental Europe, makes her American screen debut in the role of the wealthy widow, Mrs. Alice Woolworth. Frank Montgomery, a Metro favorite, plays the part of Sweeney, Chief of the Central Office detectives. Sidney D'Albrook, who registered a hit as the Italian in Metro's great patriotic picture "Draft 258," with Mabel Taliaferro, is cast as Murphy, a plain-clothes man. Arthur Housman, who has appeared in several Metro plays, including "Red, White and Blue Blood," with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, is seen as Red Hogan, a crook. Jack Newton plays the part of Cassidy, a detective, and Franklyn Hanna, who has played in several Metro pictures, plays the Chief of the Detectives.

CO-STARS IN SELBURN COMEDY.

Neal Burns and Gertrude Selby, famed for their work in light screen comedies, make their third successive appearance in a Selburn comedy hit, "Wedding Bells and Lunatics," a General Film release. This is a clean, up-to-date and novel one-reel subject in which the two principals are involved in the blundering net of their playful friends while on their way to the church for their wedding. While one group of friends kidnap the bride, another sets out to find the groom, but they make the mistake of capturing an escaped lunatic. The belated appearance of Neal with the ring prevents the wedding ceremony from degenerating into a riot.

"SUNSHINE NAN" (Paramount).

The production of "Sunshine Nan," Ann Pennington's next picture for the Paramount program, is well under way at the Famous Players-Lasky Studios in New York. The story is of the slums, and contains many human types. Alice Hegan Rice, the author of the book, displayed a keen knowledge of the life of the characters she portrayed, and they have been faithfully brought into being in this Paramount photoplay.

Scene from "Sunshine Nan" (Paramount).

As Nance Molloy, Miss Pennington is introduced as a typical "alley rat," just as ready to plunge into a rough-and-tumble fight as she is to help take care of the neighbor's baby. Her champion, Dan Lewis, is played by John Hines, while the role of McPherson Clark, the son of the rich man who turns out to be the villain, is interpreted by Richard Barthelmess. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, two denizens of the alley who are prominent in the story, are played by Charles Eldridge and Mrs. Lewis McCord.

Pathe Has Four Serials on the Stocks

The First to Be Issued Is "The House of Hate," Featuring Pearl White and Antonio Moreno.

PATHE'S greatly increased activity in the feature field as illustrated by the announcement of the Pathe Plays policy for 1918 is to be accompanied by a correspondingly unprecedented increase in serial producing facilities, according to statement issued last week from the company's offices.

Four serials already are under way, the first of which will be Pearl White in "The House of Hate," with Antonio Moreno, marking the first time these players have appeared together and the first time Mr. Moreno has been seen in a continued photoplay.

Pearl White.

It is stated that this serial will be by far the biggest thing Pathe has ever done in this line, and that it is to be the forerunner of a serial program for 1918, such as has never before been attempted. Pathe has been so successful with its serials since their inception that the company has attained an eminent position as regards this type of picture. It is now revealed that Pathe's plans also call for an unprecedented increase in time, effort and money spent on serials. The purpose of it is to keep their quality up to the new standard set by the Better-Pictures-All-the-Time Policy, which, with the announcement of a continued effort to assure exhibitors reasonable profits is the outstanding feature of Pathe's 1918 statement of ideas and ideals.

The transcontinental trip of J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager, accompanied by a nation-wide investigation of exhibitor conditions in general and as regards Pathe in particular, reveal, it is said, considerable disconteent, which, it is stated, Pathe policies are doing considerable to decrease. Indications as to the future point to a satisfactory adjustment as the logical result of reaction, according to those who are close to the Pathe chief.

An important feature of Pathe's analysis is the fact that good serials are wanted now more than ever before, the future demand, however, pointing to a class of picture which has rarely been seen.

"The making of a good serial is a difficult thing, the secret being so elusive that many companies have tried again and again and found the path anything but strewn with roses," said Sales Manager F. C. Quimby, in discussing the plans of the company to produce the last word in serials. Mr. Quimby went on to quote figures showing the success of past Pathe serials, the facts revealed comprising the following:

Just as big magazines have built immense guaranteed circulations through serials, many theaters have found the continued story the best means of guaranteeing patronage.

Antonio Moreno.

Pearl White is without doubt a great serial star, her popularity with the public being evidenced by the fact that more than $25,000,000 has been paid by the people of the country to see her in "The Perils of Pauline," "The Exploits of Elaine," "The Iron Claw," "Pearl of the Army" and "The Fatal Ring." More than four thousand theaters already have booked the last-named serial despite the comparatively short time it has been out.

Antonio Moreno is one of the most popular male stars. It is reasonable to presume his public also will increase.

"Basing the statement on our long and successful experience in gauging the public taste, Pathe announces 'The House of Hate' as without any doubt far superior to any former serial produced by Pathe," said Mr. Quimby. "Here briefly are the reasons why we make this claim after having seen enough of the picture to make us sure. The cast, Pearl White and Antonio Moreno, who need no supplementary descriptions; Paul Clerget, the most famous pantomime actor in France, who was regarded as a sensation when Winthrop Ames presented him in 'Pierrot the Prodigal' for an entire season on Broadway; Peggy Shaner, a legitimate stage actress, who will reveal an entirely new type of vampire, and J. H. Gilmour, a strong character actor.

"The story: Powerful dramatically; written by Charles Logue and Arthur B. Reeve, creator of the famous detective character, 'Craig Kennedy.'

"Scenario and direction: Directed by George B. Seitz and scenarioized by Bertram Millhouser, respectively director and scenario writer of 'The Fatal Ring.'

"As to settings, there is one set showing an old-time armor hall in a castle about five or six hundred years old. It has an old stone staircase which looks as if it stepped right out of the middle ages, a long hall, at the other end of which is a library. Action takes place here which allows the use of various combinations of rooms, a full set of the whole with action at the far end, and coming down to the camera the scene shot through different light effects which, of course, center on the action. The result is one of the most beautiful things ever seen on the screen. The episodes develop with a strong exposition of dramatic situations leading up to a powerful climax preceded by unprecedented speedy action.

"An element of 'The House of Hate' to which we direct especial attention is that it is an entirely new type of mystery story. In past mystery serials, too often you said when you saw the last eposide that something was deliberately left out of Episode 1 or 2, say, in order to fool the audience.

"'The House of Hate' is not this kind of serial. The mystery is a legitimate one, arising from the drama itself, and it will prove probably the greatest single factor in the success we know this serial will attain."

BLUEBIRDS ARRANGED THREE MONTHS AHEAD.

Definite arrangements for the Bluebird program carry the schedule into the middle of April and provide for two appearances for nearly every star in Bluebird's constellation within that period. Carmel Myers, in "The Wife He Bought," with Kenneth Harlan featured as her leading man, Feb. 4, and Monroe Salisbury and Ruth Clifford, in "Hungry Eyes," Feb. 11, have already been referred to in full detail and the new announcements are listed in the ensuing paragraphs.

Mae Murray will make her third appearance as a Bluebird star week starting Feb. 18, offering H. Sheridan Bicker's story, "The Eternal Columbine," prepared for the screen and directed by Robert Leonard. Miss Murray is again scheduled for March 25, to be seen in Mr. Leonard's production of "The Eleventh Commandment," a story by F. McGrew Willis.

"Breeze Bolton Blows In," starring Franklyn Farnum, will be the Bluebird for Feb. 25, with Juanita Hansen and Fred Montague featured in the support. Joseph F. Poland furnished the story and Joseph De Grasse, who has lately directed all of Mr. Farnum's features, made the production. Charles A. Kenyon, the author of "Kindling," furnished the scenario.

Features starring Carmel Myers will be offered March 4 and April 8, captions being "The Green Seal" and "Bona." The first named attraction resulted from Charles Edmund Walk's story and will introduce Ashton Dearholt as Miss Myers' leading man. "Bona" will have Kenneth Harlan playing opposite the star with Rex Rosselli, Harry Mann, E. A. Warren and Katherine Kirkwood in support. Harvey Gates furnished the story and scenario. Both of these attractions were produced by Stuart Paton, who has abandoned serials at Universal City to direct Miss Myers.

Two features, presenting Monroe Salisbury and Ruth Clifford, will be forthcoming on March 4 and April 15, both following the type of scenic "Westerns" that have made these stars distinctive among Bluebirders. Rupert Julian directed "The Highest Card" and plays an essential role in Elliott J. Clawson's story. "The Heart of the Desert" will be credited to Mr. Salisbury and Miss Clifford's new director, Wildred Lucas, who created the April 15 Bluebird from a story by Honore Willsie, editor of the Delineator.

Dorothy Phillips will present "Her Fling," as the feature for March 28, with William Stowell featured as her leading man. Ida May Park prepared her own scenario and directed Miss Phillips in Katherine Leiser Robbins' magazine story. Juanita Hansen, George Chesebro, seph Girard, Edward Cecil, Claire Du Brey and Sallie Starr will have supporting roles.

"SPURLOCK" DELAYED UNTIL FEBRUARY 3.

Bad weather conditions have interfered with some retakes which Director Carl Harbaugh desired to make in "Jack Spurlock—Prodigal," the date of release of this Fox Special Feature has been changed from Jan. 27 to Feb. 3. The Jan. 27 release will be June Caprice in "The Heart of Romance."

Except for the scenes which it is desired to film again for the purpose of bringing the production in every detail up to the highest standard, the director's work now is practically complete, and cutting and editing are in progress. The scenes which occasioned the greatest trouble in the taking—those in which George Walsh appears as host to an unwelcome bear—have all developed satisfactorily.

Strong Fox Quartet for February

George Walsh, Gladys Brockwell, Jewel Carmen and Tom Mix Will Be the Featured Players.

WILLIAM FOX has announced his Special Features releases for February. George Walsh, Gladys Brockwell, Jewel Carmen and Tom Mix will be the stars featured.

The first release will be the "Jack Spurlock—Prodigal," production, which George Walsh is completing under the direction of Carl Harbaugh. This is down for Feb. 3 and is the picture which the Fox management is advertising as a big extra-special production, made exclusively for those who have contracts for Fox Special Features. The story is taken from the book of the same name written by George Horace Lorimer, and the claim is made that more was paid for it than for any other story purchased by Mr. Fox during 1917.

"The Moral Law," starring Gladys Brockwell, to be released Feb. 10, shows the star in a double role. The two characters are half-sisters of very different dispositions. One is a scheming, self-centered girl, dominated by her vicious and debased mother, and the other of a beautiful young woman characterized by noble-mindedness. Most of the scenes are laid in South America. The picture is being made under the direction of Bertram Bracken.

Jewel Carmen's second picture as a star will be entitled "The Girl with the Champagne Eyes," and will be released Feb. 17. The story is that of a girl who drifts into a life of lawlessness and is reformed through the influence of a man on whom she had brought trouble in her own efforts to escape arrest. Scenes in Alaskan prospecting camps furnish the background for the story which throughout has the atmosphere of the West. C. M. Franklin is directing the production.

The Feb. 24 release will be of a Tom Mix picture, "Six-shooter Andy," which is being made under the direction of S. A. Franklin. The cast includes Enid Markey, Georgia Stone, Buddy Messinger, Lewis Sargent, Virginia Lee Corbin, Violet Radcliffe, Marie Messinger, Bert Woodruff, Sam Degrass, Charles Stevens, Patrick Crysman and Robert Fleming. The story deals with life in a wide-open Western town where the sheriff is in league with the lawless element and principally involves a young man and young woman.

"HIS ROBE OF HONOR" (Paralta).

Following "A Man's Man," in which J. Warren Kerrigan is the star, and "Madam Who?", with Bessie Barriscale in the stellar role, both of which are now showing in the foremost theaters throughout the country, Henry B. Walthall will make his debut as a Paralta star in "His Robe of Honor," written by Ethel and James Dorrance.

Few actors of the screen today hold a more exalted position than does this great delineator of intense types, and it is said by those who have seen his initial Paralta play, that it promises to be the crowning achievement of his brilliant career.

The story of the play is a severe attack on the corruptness of the legal profession in New York. With the character of Julian Randolph, played by Mr. Walthall, who having been a successful but unscrupulous lawyer, becomes a judge through blackmail, has in it the real amount of human interest. His acceptance of a bribe from a traction corporation to appear in no more claims in damages against their clients and his love for the beautiful and accomplished daughter of the senior member of the firm, naturally leads to a collision between selfish professional aims and romantic passions.

Scene from "His Robe of Honor" (Paralta).

After his elevation to the bench, Randolph's noble nature is awakened by the refining influence of Lora Nelson, whose love restores his dormant sense of honor that enables him to rise above the political bosses and become an upright judge of the Supreme Court, dealing out justice without regard as to whom falls his decision.

This production, which will be the third Paralta play which is to be presented for public opinion, will be released through the exchanges of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, of 527 Fifth avenue, New York City.

NEW PRODUCTIONS FOR VIOLA DANA AND EDITH STOREY.

Metro directors, Charles J. Brabin and Frank Reicher, who, until recently have been producing pictures at the company's New York studio, have arrived at the West Coast studios at Hollywood, California, which are under the supervision of B. A. Rolfe, and will shortly begin the direction work of new pictures starring Viola Dana and Edith Storey, to be released in Metro's Star Series.

Director Brabin and his assistant, Edward Biby, are preparing settings and arranging for locations for the production of "Breakers Ahead," an original photoplay written by Brabin in collaboration with H. P. Keeler of the Metro West Coast scenario staff. Viola Dana will be the star of "Breakers Ahead." The cast thus far selected includes Clifford Bruce and Russell Simpson, who appeared with her in "Blue Jeans" and "Weaver of Dreams." A quaint New England fishing village is the locale of the story of "Breakers Ahead," and Brabin is arranging effects new to the screen.

Director Frank Reicher is preparing for the production of the Broadway play, "The Claim," written by Charles Kenyon and Frank Dare, which was adapted for the screen by June Mathis of Metro's Eastern scenario staff. Edith Storey, who excels in Western roles, will be the star of this production. She is completing "Revenge," a screen version of Edward Moffat's novel. "Hearts Steadfast," under the direction of Tod Browning. The members of the cast selected thus far are Wheeler Oakman, who has signed a long-time contract to be Miss Storey's leading man, Marion Skinrer and Paul Weigel.

CAST COMPLETED FOR "BY RIGHT OF PURCHASE."

Casting has been completed for the new Norma Talmadge feature, "By Right of Purchase," on which work was commenced recently at the Talmadge Studio, 318 East Forty-eighth street. The young star's support in this production will include Eugene O'Brien as leading man, Ida Darling, William Courtleigh, Jr., Charles Wellsley and Miss Florence B. Billings. Charles Miller is directing the picture.

Both Mr. O'Brien and Miss Darling are seen in Miss Talmadge's last photoplay, "The Ghost of Yesterday," adapted from the Rupert Hughes drama, "Two Women," and soon to be released. Mr. O'Brien, who is as well known on the screen as he is upon the speaking stage, has been leading man for Miss Talmadge in most of her latest successes, including "Poppy" and "The Moth." He was also partly responsible for the success of "The Country Cousin," which enjoyed a long and popular run at the Gaity theater, New York, a short time ago.

The career of Miss Darling has covered fifteen years on the legitimate stage and screen engagements with such companies as Fox, Lubin, Selznick, Pathe and Famous Players. On the stage she has been seen recently in "Mary's Ankle." Her previous appearances included "Common Clay," "The Lion and the Mouse," "The High Cost of Living," "Ready Money" and "The Land of the Free." Miss Darling is noted principally as a character woman.

William Courtleigh, Jr., is a son of the famous actor of that name, and Mr. Wellsley has played in a number of Vitagraph productions and recently supported Evelyn Nesbit in "Redemption." Miss Billings is a talented actress of considerable experience.

THE "DIVINE SARAH" SEES "THAIS."

"Superb! Marvelous! Exquisite!" Such are the words drawn from the lips of Sarah Bernhardt by the art of Mary Garden, as the great French actress witnessed it at her visit to the Strand theater, New York, to see the screen "Thais."

Mary Garden's screen debut naturally drew record audiences to the Strand. Besides a great outpouring of the general public, distinguished persons in all the arts came in great numbers. Practically all the stars of the Metropolitan passed the brass ticket box during the week, as also, with few exceptions did every stage star appearing in New York. The motion picture studios were represented also, by directors and players.

Herself, no stranger to the screen, Mme. Bernhardt's eagerness to see "Thais" was two-fold. First, to honor Anatole France, the author of "Thais," who is a member of the French Academy, like herself, and to attend the premiere of her friend, Mary Garden.

In order that she might have ample time to rest before appearing for her daily matinee of "Jeanne d'Arc" at the Palace, Mme. Bernhardt asked her representative to arrange for her to attend the earliest showing of the Goldwyn production. Accordingly, seats were reserved for 1 o'clock, and Mme. Bernhardt entered the Strand in her wheel chair, accompanied by M. Deneubourg of her company, a secretary, and Hamilton Revelle, who plays in "Thais." The party attracted little attention, Mme. Bernhardt being veiled, and with no difficulty she was assisted to her seat.

Mme. Bernhardt remained until the end of the picture.

Pathe Releases

Fannie Ward in "Innocent," Two-Reel Drama from "Price of Folly" Series, Stand Out in Program for January 27.

FANNIE WARD in the first of the big new Pathe plays, "Innocent," and Ruth Roland in a two-reel drama from "The Price of Folly" series, are outstanding features of Pathe's program for the week of Jan. 27. "Innocent" marks the first release under Pathe's new two-a-month policy announced this week. It is taken from A. H. Woods' very successful stage play of the same name. It was produced under the direction of George Fitzmaurice with a remarkably high grade of photography and lighting effects so skilfully planned, that pictorially this picture will be a classic. The supporting cast includes John Miltern in the same role he created in the stage production, and Armand Kalitz, the well-known artist of the speaking stage.

The story begins and ends in China and George Fitzmaurice has transferred to the screen all the fascinating lure of the Orient. Miss Ward in the title role is seen as a young girl brought up in the confines of a high-walled Chinese garden. The death of her father leaves her dependent upon the protection of her father's friend, played by John Miltern. The rest of the story deals with the temptations that come to little Innocent in Paris and of her final realization of the true worth of the man who loves her.

Doris Kenyon appears in the tenth episode of "The Hidden Hand," entitled "Cogs of Death"—with Sheldon Lewis, Arline Pretty and Mahlon Hamilton.

The big thrill of this episode comes when Doris, bound by the Hidden Hand, is carried up on an endless chain of buckets in which coal is transferred from the cars to the elevators.

Ruth Roland is starred in "Counterfeit Clues," the second of the series of two-reel dramas, "The Price of Folly," with Frank Mayo.

The strong story of this two-reel drama deals with a beautiful young girl, who, like too many of those you meet in everyday life, thinks only of a good time and never stops to consider the consequence and folly of her flirting. This girl, engaged to an upright young American, thinks that the silver-tongued speeches of a man who turns out to be a counterfeiter are worth more than her fiance's affections. The final result is the death of her real lover and the discovery that the other man is already married and does not care a snap of his fingers for the girl who has given her very soul to him.

This sixth release of the Argus Pictorial contains three "animated articles" of unusual interest. The first is "Copying Nature's Handiwork," showing how models of delicate, tiny creatures are made for exhibition in natural history museums. The work is done by a Japanese artist, and among the examples of microscopic animal life seen are sea horses, tiny animals which, when dried and powdered, are highly esteemed by the Japanese as medicine.

Another article is devoted to interesting laboratory experiments in the forces known as cohesion and adhesion and, bringing this down to everyday terms, the reason for spouts on pitchers is shown.

The Stentor, or trumpet animacule, is the hero of the third article, and under a microscope this little animal appears to be a veritable demon of the deep although really only one-hundredth of an inch in length.

"Our National Parks"—Rainier Park—a one-reel Pathe colored combitone scenic, shows the beautiful glaciers which, like the frozen tentacles of an octopus, steal slowly down from its snow-covered summit of Mount Rainier.

An International cartoon and educational split reel and Hearst-Pathe News, Nos. 10 and 11, complete the program.

Note that "Phantom Fame," the first of "The Price of Folly" series, will be released on the program for the week of January 20. The advertising matter is as follows: one sheet; three sheet; six sheet; lobby displays consisting of eight 11x14 colored and sepia photographs, stock slide, slide for each of the eight episodes and campaign book.

It deals with the problems of a young wife who wants to live her own life and have a career apart from her husband. She is young and beautiful and thinks she is fitted for a literary career. An elderly admirer encourages her in this view and the price she pays for her folly is the wreck of her own life and her husband's, when she brings a just vengeance on the head of the man who lured her from home and husband.

"VAMPING THE VAMP" (Nestor).

Universal's publicity department declares that "Vamping the Vamp," to be released in the Nestor series Jan. 28, is an unusually good comedy, high-speed and logical in its accomplishment. Harry Mann and Kathleen O'Connor are the featured players, with Gertrude Aster playing the role of the vampire. Director Santelle is declared to have made the most of an unusual number of spirited situations in which Miss O'Connor's male impersonations cut a considerable figure. The flirtatious married man is taught an impressive lesson by his self-reliant wife, and the vampire comes in for her share of just punishment with laughable results. "Vamping the Vamp" is a new type of Nestor comedy that may be a forerunner of an effort to get away from the "slap-stick" style of humor in pictures done under this brand.

"MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY" NEARING COMPLETION.

Director William Nigh is rapidly completing the final scenes for the big super production, "My Four Years in Germany," which is being filmed from Ambassador James W. Gerard's book.

The millions who have thrilled to the recital of the story of Germany's plots against America, which was bared in the book which took America by storm—will be thrilled as never before by actual visualization of this tremendous story.

Scene from "My Four Years in Germany."

Ambassador Gerard has been of immense assistance to Mr. Nigh and has given his personal attention and consideration to the filming of the book. The whole gigantic story, beginning with the Zabern incident in Germany, which first aroused the civil against the military power is told in thrilling and rapid sequence.

For weeks before the picture was started, Mr. Nigh searched the country over for types to play the leading roles in this important production. Those who see "My Four Years in Germany" will notice that the Kaiser, the Crown Prince and the entire German staff are evidently at work in the picture. Mr. Gerard has pronounced that the types finally selected, were the most remarkable examples he has ever seen of the duplication of one man's entire appearance by another. The film is full of spectacular incidents and scenes and no expense or pains have been spared to make this not only true historically, but big and impressive as a theatrical production.

As soon as the picture is completed and cut the first presentation will be made in Washington in one of the Government buildings. Important officials of the Government will be present to make this an event in Washington circles, and Mr. Gerard himself will address the gathering.

"HER FLING"—BLUEBIRD—IN MAKING.

Ida May Park, who now is in the first stages of her new production, "Her Fling," has in this picture a popular combination of star and leading man—Dorothy Phillips and William Stowell—which has strongly intrenched itself in the hearts of lovers of the screen drama. "Her Fling" shows Miss Phillips as a stenographer whose whole life becomes changed after she meets a banker, the role of which is in the hands of Mr. Stowell.

The story was originally written by Katherine Leiser Robbins for one of the popular magazines, and Director Park, who has created many stories herself, moulded it into shape for presentation on the screen. Many of the scenes are declared to provide entirely new situations, and the picture concludes with a climax of exciting interest.

During the progress of the story, Miss Phillips rises to affluence and thus has opportunity for the display of new gowns which have been made especially attractive. The story makes numerous changes necessary, and her sartorial presentation is likely to arouse the admiration of feminity when they view the picture. Both Miss Park and Miss Phillips spent many days together with Los Angeles modistes arranging for the wardrobe of "Her Fling," which will not only enhance the star's beauty, but also add to the attractiveness of the scenes in which she wears the gowns.

Director Park's present production calls for elaborate settings and these now are being constructed for her use, the technical art and construction departments devoting especial attention to these settings to make them rank the most substantial and artistic ever put up at Universal City.

Headed by Miss Phillips and Mr. Stowell, the screen adaptation of Katherine Leiser Robbins' story has a cast composed of Juanita Hansen, Claire Du Brey, Joe Girard, Edward Cecil, George Chesebro, Sallie Starr and little Frankie Lee.

Mutual Schedule

William Russell in "In Bad" Tops the List for January 21—.... Other Good Attractions.

WILLIAM RUSSELL, whose feats of valor extraordinary have won him wide popularity with motion picture audiences, is scheduled to appear in another knock-out in his next American production which is to be released Jan. 21 under the title of "In Bad." This picture, which is typically "Russellistic," was produced under the direction of Edward Sloman, who showed that he understands the Russell temperament thoroughly in such features as the uniquely original "New York Luck," "Snap Judgment" and "The Sea Master."

"In Bad" exploits "Big Bill" as Monty, the impetuous nephew of a society woman. Unshackled by conventions and with a decided leaning toward the manly art of fisticuffs, he engages an ex-pugilist with cauliflower ears to help keep his blood in circulation and shock the effete society set. A realistic boxing bout results in Monty being knocked over the balustrade on the second floor of his home and landing in the hall below at the feet of the girl whom his aunts wants him to marry, but who is disgusted with him.

Monty's escapades with his sparring partner lands him in jail. When he gets out he follows the girl and the exploring party she is with to South America, where Monty rescues the whole party from a gang of thugs after a thrilling fight in an Aztec ruin, where he beats up the gang and wins the girl.

The action throughout is speedy, the plot develops situations that give Russell opportunity to expose a brand of comedy distinctly his own, and subtle touches which his admirers did not suspect were in his repertoire. Wholesome comedy, the humor arising from ludicrous situations, in which the chief actor is entirely oblivious of the droll complications which he causes, should make this the most popular of the productions in which "Big Bill" has appeared.

In the cast is the captivating Francelia Billington, who has appeared opposite Russell in all American-Mutual productions; "Bull" Montana, an ex-pugilist and wrestler of note, and Carl Stockdale.

"Their Little Kid" is the title of the Strand comedy, featuring Billie Rhodes, scheduled for release January 22. It is a sprightly little farce built around the dilemma of a young couple who mistake the meaning of a rich uncle's message that he's anxious to see the kid," and make frantic efforts to borrow a baby before he arrives. They finally kidnap one and are almost pinched, when uncle comes to the rescue, explaining that he meant the wife.

Exhibitors are enthusiastic over the striking and timely features of the Mutual Weekly. In the weekly of Jan. 6 were shown some realistic pictures of the European battlefields, portraying graphically the work of the French engineers in restoring the territory reconquered in the battle of the Aisne. How the intensive fighters for our navy are made is shown also in this release, and the sports and different athletic stunts of tars are pictured in an interesting manner.

The weekly of Jan. 21 will keep in touch with significant topics of the day and maintain the high standard established.

Kalem Helped Producers with Frozen Laboratories.

The continued zero weather which broke all records in New York City recently, resulted in many other records being broken also. For the first time in motion picture history numerous producers in Manhattan and vicinity faced the problem of meeting release dates while their laboratories were frozen. Exceptionally well fortified to withstand the extreme weather conditions the Kalem company, on short notice, took over the laboratory work of several producers. The Kalem laboratory on Twenty-third street for some time past has been doing commercial printing and developing and the cold snap found them with important contracts, including several hundred subjects for the Government.

"By putting on a night shift," said William Wright, the Kalem secretary-treasurer, "we were able to handle expeditiously every rush order from producers, and enabled them to meet their schedules.

"No, it is not a trade secret why the efficiency of our laboratory was not impaired, while many of our fellows suffered," continued Mr. Wright. "In enlarging our plant to place it at the service of producers, we safeguarded, we believe, against every factor which could delay rush work. This included assurance of electric current and plenty of coal."

Several of the laboratories which were obliged to shut down during the zero weather report that they had an ample fuel supply, but could not secure sufficient electric current.

DROPS STAGE PLAY FOR SCREEN.

Eugene O'Brien has relinquished his position in the cast of "The Country Cousin," which recently enjoyed a long and successful run at the Gaiety theater, New York City, in order to appear with Norma Talmadge in "By Right of Purchase," the young Select star's newest production, on which work was begun a few days ago at the Talmadge Studio, 318 East Forty-eighth street. Mr. O'Brien played opposite Miss Talmadge in "Poppy," "The Moth," and her forthcoming release, "The Ghost of Yesterday," picturized from the Rupert Hughes' drama "Two Women." Charles Miller is directing "By Right of Purchase," a society photodrama, in which Miss Talmadge appears in the role of a butterfly wife.

Brenon's Successful 1917 Record

Indefatigable Producer Intends Eclipsing for the Coming Year His Splendid Activity of Last Season.

The passing of 1917 leaves Herbert Brenon with no less than four feature pictures to his credit. Each has differed widely from the other, and each has attained success.

Three of them have already been shown on Broadway, and have had special runs of their own before being turned over to the exhibitor. The other two have just been completed at his studios on Hudson Heights. They have been hailed with enthusiasm by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. "The Lone Wolf" was the first of Mr. Brenon's picture of the year to achieve distinction. It was his first melodrama, and is still playing throughout the country. Next came "The Fall of the Romanoffs." It portrayed history in the making, dealing with the striking events that led up to the Russian revolution and the abdication of the Czar. It met with the instantaneous enthusiasm of both press and public and was characterized as "the screen's biggest achievement"—"Brenon's masterpiece." "Empty Pockets," a melodrama of a different type, has recently been turned over to the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," with Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, has also been recently completed. Both of these productions will be seen on Broadway within the next few weeks.

"The Passing of the Third Floor Back," promises to bring an entirely new note into the annals of the screen. It is expected to be a step forward in the highest development of the picture in motion. Brenon has a standard of his own, and it is of the highest. Exhibitors know it.

The trade confidently awaits the 1918 output of Brenon activity. "False Faces" is already in the studio. What comes next?

"CHEATING THE PUBLIC" AT THE LYRIC.

"Cheating the Public," William Fox's 1918 cinemelodrama, with an all-star cast, began a two-week run Jan. 13 at the Lyric theater, New York City. It will be released to exhibitors as a Standard Picture on Jan. 20.

It is the second of Director Richard Stanton's productions to be shown in the Broadway district, "The Spy" having been the first. The other, like "Cheating the Public," was a melodrama, but differs from the new production in being more largely propaganda. There is propaganda material, and much of it, in the new play, but this is overshadowed by the melodramatic features, of which there are ten especially emphasized by the producer.

The cast includes twenty-two persons in important roles. Among these are Ralph Lewis, Bertram Grassby, Tom Wilson, Charles Edler, Enid Markey, Wanda Petit, Fanny Migsley, Frankie Lee, Barbara Conley, Carrie Clark Ward, James Titus, Henry Peal, Edward Peil, Joseph Hartley, James Morgan, Arthur Glynn, Miles McCormack and others.

ESSANAY SCENICS AND COMEDIES.

Just what magic can be achieved by the use of pretty girls is evident in Essanay's one-reel General Film comedy, "Next?", to be released on Jan. 19. Director A. D. Hotaling conceives, in this production, a barber shop run by pretty girls—a whole dozen of 'em, including some highly attractive manicurists. The action centers around the rushing business in the way of shaves and shines accumulated by the drawing power of the pretty barberesses. Comedy is furnished by the Essanay's three-hundred-pound "ingenue." Also, there is a great deal of shoe blacking and shaving cream splashed around.

Essanay's scenic release for Jan. 19 is "Water Powers of Eastern Canada," showing the harnessing of the waters of Niagara, which generates 2,000,000 horse power, and the sluice gates in the Ontario and Quebec provinces capable of generating 160,000 horse power. Both scenics and comedies are building up a faithful clientele among the exhibitors, as they are both distinctive from the general run of such classifications of pictures.

JAXON COMEDIES REARRANGED.

One of the best laughing successes yet produced in the series of Jaxon comedies is found in "The Inspector's Wife," the current release in the sixth series. This is a rollicking comedy in which everyone is involved in a series of amusing mixups which move along in rapid-fire order as though fired from a machine gun. The following new line-up has been announced for the remainder of the new series of Jaxons: "In Wrong," "Anybody s Money," "Her Fatal Shot," "Marooned," "Sherman was Right," "What Will Happen Next?" and "Which was Lucky?".

THANHOUSER JACKSONVILLE STUDIO FOR RENT.

The Thanhouser Film Corporation, New Rochelle, N. Y., announce in this issue that they will consider a short-term lease on their Jacksonville studios, consisting of one outdoor, and one glass-enclosed stage. The Thanhouser plant is the most complete, modern and up-to-date plant in the South, having been erected in 1916. The studio is complete with electric equipment, carpenter shop, stock scenery, etc.

Variety in Goldwyn Year's Opening

Mae Marsh, Mabel Normand and Madge Kennedy Featured in Initial Three Subjects.

GOLDWYN Pictures, having just launched the impressive production, "Thais," starring Mary Garden, is to open the new year with three pictures which present three distinct varieties of star and story-appeal.

Mae Marsh, Goldwyn's first star and premiere player of comedy-drama, is to be seen January 14 in a screen play that calls upon her for that fulness of emotional expression, that quality of pathos shot with wistfulness, for which the young actress is particularly noted. It is "Fields of Honor," made from the popular story by Irvin S. Cobb. In the cast will be seen Vernon Steele and Marguerite Marsh. The director is Ralph Ince.

The second Goldwyn star scheduled is a player in marked contrast to Miss Marsh—Mabel Normand. Her unique personality, long familiar to "fans" through her pioneer work in screen comedy, will be seen once more on Jan. 28, through "Dodging a Million." It displays a Mabel Normand clad in silks and ermine. As a maid in a modiste's shop, Miss Normand learns of a heritage of untold millions which is hers through the death of an unknown Spanish relative. The settings provided by the story include a fashionable restaurant where ice-skating is the vogue, a glimpse of the Russian Ballet at the Metropolitan opera house, a complete Fifth avenue modiste's shop with mannequins and frocks galore, and a battery of express elevators. The director is George Loane Tucker.

The last of the Goldwyn trio, to be seen Feb. 10, is the Goldwyn "discovery," Madge Kennedy. As a contrast to the tense drama, shadowed by war, which is told in "Fields of Honor," and the swiftly moving mixture of comedy, mystery and thrills provided in "Dodging a Million," the newest vehicle for Madge Kennedy will be "Our Little Wife," the famous Broadway play by Avery Hopwood. It revolves about the perplexities of a bride who takes her three rejected lovers on her honeymoon and discovers that she has a violent and jealous husband who doesn't relish the consequent situations in the least. To the comedy of the initial situation is thus added possibilities of wrecked happiness which make the whole story swing back and forth with telling effect between contrasts of farce and genuine drama. Edward Dillon directs. In the cast are Marguerite Marsh, George Forth, Walter Hiers, Kempton Greene and William B. Davidson.

"BLUE BLAZES RAWDEN" IS HART'S NEXT.

William S. Hart will be seen in "Blue Blazes Rawden," an Artcraft picture ideally suited, it is said, to the dramatic talents of the Ince star. Work on the photoplay has already started. In the cast appears Maud George, Gertrude Claire, Hart Hoxie, Robert McKim and Robert Gordon.

The story concerns the adventures of a giant lumberman of the North Woods, who leaves the wilderness in search of the life and lights of the lumber camp saloon. He strikes Timber Cove like an avalanche and finds "Ladyfingers" Hilgarde, a renegade Englishman, who is the big man of the camp. The instant dislike and conflict engendered between the two by virtue of their individual capacity for leadership culminates in a fight wherein Hilgarde loses his life. Dying, he bequeaths to Rawden the task of explaining to his mother and brother, who are on their way from England. Blue Blazes swears the camp to secrecy before they arrive. Meanwhile, Babette, favored of the late leader, has transferred her affections to Rawden and resents the influence of the gentle old Englishwoman over the rough lumberman. The latter, however, puts Babette out of his life, and with the fury of a woman scorned she plans revenge. She tells Hilgarde's brother that Rawden killed "Ladyfingers." Inflamed by liquor the boy accuses Blue Blazes and wounds him with a shot.

Blazes prepares to take the long trail alone. Babette, now repentant, tries to make him take her, but he puts her aside. A changed man, he goes forth to take up a new life.

CRISP DIRECTS ANOTHER REID PICTURE.

When Donald Crisp returned to the Paramount studio from his honeymoon-hunting trip vacation in the San Joaquin Valley he found a telegram advising him that the new Wallace Reid production, to be filmed in New York, demanded his immediate services as director in New York. That meant that Crisp had to leave Los Angeles and duck hunting the day after Christmas.

Donald Crisp became affiliated with the Paramount organization a little over a year ago, and since that time has earned a big reputation as the director of seven George Beban features, also two recent productions starring Julian Eltinge, namely, "The Clever Mrs. Carfax" and "The Countess Charming," and the latest Wallace Reid pictures, "Rimrock Jones." Before he joined the Lasky organization, Mr. Crisp became famous as the director of "Ramona."

Donald Crisp has earned such laurels as a successful director of Paramount productions that the company was eager to retain his services, following the completion of his present contract last month, securing him for the Wallace Reid production, which is to be made in the East. After the completion of that picture in New York, it is entirely possible Mr. Crisp will remain with the Paramount organization to direct either Mr. Reid or other stars in photoplays to be made during 1918.

"THE FIGHTING GRIN" (Bluebird).

Franklyn Farnum makes his regular appearance among Bluebird stars Jan. 28, presenting a speedy comedy, located in Arizona, and carrying the expressive title, "The Fighting Grin." The hero fights and smiles his way to success in a stirring battle for a bride, the situations involving numerous ridiculous episodes exacting laughter through unusual methods.

Joseph De Grasse, who has directed all of Franklyn Farnum's recent Bluebirds, made the production from a scenario furnished by Charles Kenyon. The story was written by R. E. Bradbury and F. H. Clark, and printed in a popular magazine under the title of "The Catamount." The caption was changed for the picture version because it was believed that "The Fighting Grin" was more illuminating and expressive of the nature of the comedy.

Scene from "The Fighting Grin" (Bluebird).

Edith Johnson, who is Mr. Farnum's new leading lady, heads the supporting cast. Charles Hill Mailes, Fred Montague and J. Morris Foster also plays essential roles. The spirited action takes place in locations especially chosen for appropriateness, Director De Grasse taking his company from Universal City to Arizona for the purpose of filming the ranch scenes.

CLAIRE ANDERSON IN DRAMA.

Claire Anderson, well-known ingenue with the Triangle-Keystone comedy forces, has deserted slap-stick for the drama and is now cast with Triangle Director E. Mason Hopper in "The Answer," a gripping screen drama written by E. Magnus Ingleton, which will be released as the seven-reel special feature on the February program.

Miss Anderson's last comedy appearance was with Director H. Edwards in Ray Griffith's picture, "His Double Life." In this comedy Miss Anderson was called on to do one of the most dangerous stunts in her moving picture career, when she leaped from a bridge to the tender of a rapidly moving train twenty-feet below. This leap furnishes one of the big thrills in "His Double Life."

With the consolidation of the Triangle and Triangle-Keystone playing forces at the Culver City, it is probable that the casting directors at the dramatic end of the lot will take advantage of the many new types made available by the removal of Keystone from Hollywood. Miss Anderson is the first of the comedy stars to be drafted for the regular program features.

"THE THING'S THE PLAY" AN O. HENRY.

O. Henry springs a totally unexpected surprise in his story, "The Things the Play," the current release in General Film Company's series of Broadway Star features. For suspense and heart appeal it is one of the best of the forty stories of the famous short-story writer already produced in picture form. Mildred Manning, star in many other two-reel pictures of this series, Jack Crosby and Rex Burnett are the featured players.

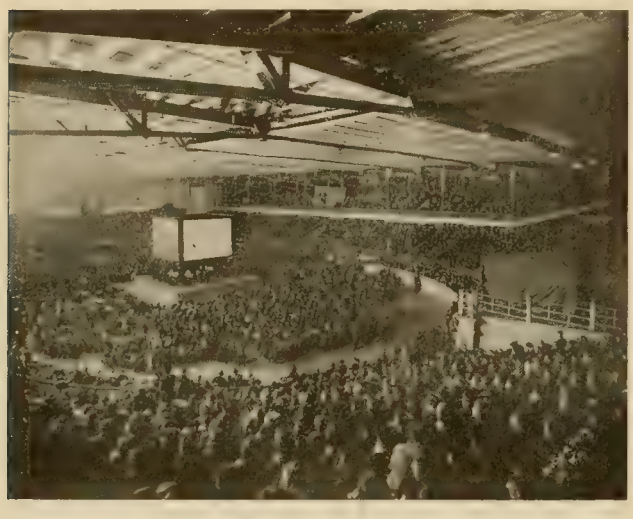
"The Thing's the Play" presents an entirely new plot for the moving picture fan jaded with commonplaces upon the screen, and is guaranteed to conceal the author's big surprise punch until the very last flash. The jealous bridegroom who has discovered his rival kissing his bride's hand in a last farewell leaves in a rage, refusing to listen to explanations. Twenty years pass and Helen, the neglected bride, conducts a neighborhood toy and notion shop and manages a rooming house. Two lodgers arrive, one a bearded violinist and the other a mysterious man with strange haunting eyes. A woman's intuition tells Helen that one of these men is her missing husband, and with unerring choice she makes her selection.

A Novel Picture Show

Powers Cameragraph Projects "Seven Swans" in Quadruplicate at Kansas City.

IN THE Paramount fairy-tale "Seven Swans," featuring Marguerite Clark, which was presented at a Christmas party given by the Kansas City Star, the projection was offered in quadruplicate on a four-sided screen.

There were three performances on Saturday and Sunday, December 29 and 30 respectively; and despite the absence of the star, Miss Clark, the immense Convention Hall was packed to capacity at each performance.



View of Convention Hall, Kansas City.

The projection on the four-sided screen utilized eight Powers 6B Cameragraphs and was supervised by William W. Lewis of the Nicholas Power Company.

The above cuts present a view of the hall, together with the group of operators.

This novel feature was presented without a hitch and the synchronizing was so perfect as to be practically simultaneous.

Group of Operators Who Projected the "Seven Swans" at Convention Hall.

The operators, furnished by the local union, were: F. R. Cessna, W. H. Weston, R. R. Ransdell, Lee Sargent, A. W. Lee, Chas. F. Mehring, W. C. Kress and W. L. Wagner. Their able work, as well as that of Mr. Lewis, is deserving of much praise.

FARNUM STARTS WORK ON BIG SUBJECT.

William Fox announces for forthcoming release a new de luxe production of unusual dramatic strength and intensity, in which William Farnum is starred, and on which the actual photographic work was begun a few days since. The picture bears the tentative title of "Rough and Ready," and is being made under the supervision of Richard Stanton, whose directorial abilities, says a statement from Mr. Fox, assure the photodrama of a splendid mounting.

"Rough and Ready" is laid in the great white wastes of the frozen North and will have a magnificent scenic investiture. The film will be a Standard Picture."

Triangle-Keystoners Make Fast Start

Open Up New Year with Five Comedies Under Way—Long List of Subjects Ready.

WITH three new comedies under way and two undergoing their finishing touches the Triangle-Keystone funmakers opened the new year with a rush. Albert Glassmire, supervisor of comedy direction, has a long list of subjects ready to be put in film form. To meet the big demand which will be made upon the Triangle-Keystone forces within the next twelve months the various companies have been augmented by the acquisition of several well-known performers.

Director Charles Avery, who has completed "A Janitor's Fall," is already busy on a new offering called "A Good Elk." It is replete with novel situations, and the action never falls below the whirlwind pace. In the cast are Joseph Belmont, Ruth Langston, Eugene Corey, Myrtle Reeves, Arthur Moon, Frank Bonn and Marion Torrey.

Director Harry Edwards has begun work on "A Rough Diamond," and has made rapid progress on the filming of some lavish interior sets. Featured in the big cast will be Paddy McGuire and Chris Richards.

Rae Godfrey, one of the Triangle-Keystone beauties of former days, is again back with the Triangle comedy companies, and is also working at Culver City under Director Edwards in "A Rought Diamond."

Director William Beaudine has been engaged for several days with an all-star cast, assisted by a big troupe of extras in picturing exteriors for "Slinging It."

Director Reggie Morris' latest work, "Did She Do Wrong?" has an unusually novel twist to it and is said to be a "scream" from start to finish. Harry Gribbon, Myrtle Lind, Frank Bonn and Milburn Moranti were among the well-known players in the cast. All were imbued with the happy holiday spirit during the filming, resulting in one of the funniest pictures ever released under the Triangle-Keystone banner.

Director Herman Raymaker, whose latest comedy, "A Lady Killer's Doom," was also photographed during the holiday season, was pleasantly remembered by all the members of the cast. Just before the final scenes were "shot" Billy Franey and Dale Fuller, in behalf of the players, presented Raymaker with a silver cigarette case suitably engraved. "A Lady Killer's Doom" is a burlesque on the draft that is brimful of laughable situations and shows the part women are playing along certain war lines. Billy Franey, Dale Fuller and Maud Wayne are among the featured players.

PETROVA AND COMPANY GO SOUTH.

Madame Olga Petrova, accompanied by several members of her production organization, left New York City on Saturday, Jan. 5, for Miami, Florida, at which point the company will take up quarters for the purpose of filming the exteriors in the third Petrova production, "The Life Mask."

The Petrova organization will remain at Miami for three weeks and will work on the magnificent estates of James Deering, occupying several acres in the garden spot of the Southern city. Director Frank Crane was in charge of the company that left with Madame Petrova on Saturday, together with Eddie James, assistant director; George Lane, photographer; Micky Whalen, assistant photographer, and a corps of property men, carpenters and electricians.

Thomas Holding, leading man of the Petrova cast; Edith Hinckle, Jean Burnell and Edward Burns were also in the party and will appear in support of the Polish actress. The trip was made under the special direction of Bobby North, studio manager, who has taken with him M. Goldstein, to assist. The picture star was accompanied by her personal secretary, Miss Cohen, together with three maids.

ARBUCKLE GETS THE INDIAN INTO COMEDY.

Whatever neglect the American Red Man has suffered in the annals of history he is not to be denied a niche in the uproarious ranks of motion picture comedians. Not if "Fatty" Arbuckle knows anything about it.

Friends of the Paramount star have noticed that since his return to California, he has seemed strangely preoccupied at times and inclined to spend many hours alone absorbed in volumes from his library. "Fatty" has been absorbing atmosphere. There is much about the American Red Man that he has learned in the last six weeks.

"Out West" is a two-reel laugh which emanates from the wildest and wooliest portions of the west. There is nothing faked about it and the property man was never called upon to build any life-like reproductions of the California desert within studio walls. The settings for "Out West" are the genuine article.

"THE WOMAN," NEW EDITION OF A CHAPLIN-ESSANAY.

Charlie Chaplin returns to the screen again this month in one of his popular successes which established the reputation he now enjoys, "The Woman." This is the sixth of the new editions of Essanay Chaplins to be released by General Film company, and it is assured of a hearty reception from exhibitors. It remains one of the best comedies ever produced by the great screen humorist. "The Woman" involves Charlie in a rapid-fire series of escapades in which he is forced to masquerade as a woman in order to escape the troubles which have piled up for him.

Universal Schedule to April

Advance Information on Releases of Features Covers the Next Two Months.

FIVE-REELERS to supply exhibitors of Universal's product for the next three months have been scheduled by President and Director General Carl Laemmle of that organization, presenting all of the stars that have lately come into prominence under Universal's auspices. Under the new arrangement, there is no program designation for these attractions, each carrying either name of the star or the producer as the advertising feature of the individual offering.

The releases for February have previously been referred to in detail, the schedule listing Louise Lovely in "Painted Lips," Feb. 4; Ella Hall and Emory Johnson in "New Love for Old," Feb. 11; Herbert Rawlinson in "The Flash of Fate," Feb. 18, and Harry Carey in "Wild Women," Feb. 25. "Nobody's Wife" will be another feature starring Louise Lovely to start the list of March attractions, the schedule running on as follows:

March 11—Ella Hall and Emory Johnson, in "Dona Perfecta," adapted by Elliott J. Clawson from the book by H. Perez Galdos, and produced by Elsie Jane Wilson. Prominent part will be sustained by Ruby La Fayette, Gretchen Lederer, Winter Hall, Maxfield Stanley and Harry Holden.

March 18—"Back to the Right Trail," a Harry Carey production, by Jack Ford, with Molly Malone and Vesta Pegg featured in the support. George Hively prepared the scenario from Frederick R. Bechdolt's story, first published in a popular magazine.

March 25—Louise Lovely, in "The Quest of Joan." The story was written by James Oliver Curwood, prepared for the screen by Doris Schroeder and directed by Edgar Jones. Philo McCullough heads the supporting company, which also includes Charles Hill Mailes, Marc Fenton, William Chester and Gertrude Aster.

April 1—"Little Miss Sherlock" will be a Little Zoe Rae feature directed by Rea Berger, who becomes this clever little girl's screen manager with this issue. Norris Shannon wrote the story and Frank F. Clark made the screen preparations. Claire Du Brey, Charles Hill Mailes and William Carroll will have prominent supporting roles.

April 6—An Ella Hall production, featuring Emory Johnson in a screen version of Lois Zellner's story, "Lady Eldon's Daughter," prepared by Doris Schroeder. The supporting company will be headed by Dave Morris and T. D. Crittenden, with Douglas Gerrard making this his first Ella Hall production.

April 15—A Harry Carey feature, produced by Jack Ford, from Owen Wister's story, "Lin McLean," by the author of "The Virginian." George Hively turned in the scenario. Molly Malone will be featured in the support of Harry Carey, with Vesta Pegg in an essential role.

April 22—"New Clothes" will be a Louise Lovely production, directed by Edgar Jones. Harvey Gates wrote the story and E. B. Lewis provided the scenario. Philo McCullough will be Miss Lovely's leading man, with Edna Maison and Winter Hall in prominent roles.

With these features out of the way, all of Universal's stars and directors are busy on locations preparing attractions to follow. These activities portend a line of attractions that promise to fully sustain the reputation Universal has acquired for consistency in turning out evenly good offerings in its feature department.

PETROVA PHOTOGRAPH IN RIVOLI PROGRAM.

A distinction of unusual degree has been conferred upon Madame Olga Petrova, the famous Polish star, by S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of the Rialto and Rivoli theaters. To the brilliant dramatic artist has been accorded the honor of delivering a message to the thousands of patrons who will visit the new Rivoli theater at Broadway and Forty-ninth street during the forthcoming year. Accompanying the written expression of Madame Petrova will be a photograph of herself personally autographed.

This photograph will be used exclusively for the purpose in question, and in order to insure this arrangement all other copies of the pose have been destroyed. The privilege of using the new Rivoli program as a medium of expression by photoplay stars has been restricted to a chosen few, and Madame Petrova is the second actress to receive this honor, Elsie Ferguson having graced a recent issue with a similar message and picture.

GALE HENRY IS NOW L-KO STAR.

Carrying out his purpose to strengthen the drawing powers of his trade mark by adding comedy stars, President Julius Stern, of L-Ko, has arranged for a transfer of Gale Henry from Nestor comedies, a Universal brand, to head an L-Ko company directed by Archie Mayo. Mr. Stern, who is on a business trip to Hollywood, Cal., where L-Ko's come from, made the arrangements and announces an early release of Miss Henry's first comedy. "The Price She Paid" will be the title, and Hughie Mack will appear with Miss Henry as her featured supporter.

Another engagement that will interest exhibitors of L-Ko's calls for the appearance of Mack ("Ambrose") Swain in a series of comedies directed by W. S. Fredericks. The first of the Ambrose pictures have been released, and "Sherlock Ambrose," a detective comedy, is now in the making.

"MEATLESS DAYS AND SLEEPLESS NIGHTS" (Klever).

Klever Pictures, Inc., will release on Jan. 14 the newest Klever Komedy, called "Meatless Days and Sleepless Nights," a satire on the present-day condition of food economy. Chester M. De Vonde directed the comedy and Thos. J. Gray wrote it.

Scene from "Meatless Days and Sleepless Nights"

This comedy is very timely and makes a good comedy to follow the previous Klever release, "Oh! U-Boat." Moore is supported by a big cast, including D. L. Don, Elizabeth Woodhill, and many pretty girls.

ALICE BRADY FINISHES "THE KNIFE."

Production on "The Knife," Alice Brady's next Select picture, was practically completed this week and the film is now being cut and titled. The play is another of Eugene Walter's phenomenal successes and was used as the attraction for the opening of the New Bijou theater last season. As an offering on the legitimate stage it was a tremendous hit, and in the screen version, which has been made by Charles Maigne, lives up to all previous standards.

The story deals with the life of a young Southern girl who falls into the hands of a gang of white slavers. It is a powerful melodrama and gives Miss Brady a role at once forceful and singularly appealing. In the cast she is supported by Frank Morgan, her leading man, Craufurd Kent, Helen Lackaye, Paul Doucet, Alice Hollister, Jennie Walker and Frank Evans.

A distinctive feature of the screen play will be the lovely Southern settings it contains. These were obtained on the famous Emerson plantation located a few miles from Jacksonville Florida, where Miss Brady with her director, Robert G. Vignola, and her company spent a couple of weeks. The Emerson place is one of the most beautiful homes in the South, and its fine old mansion and spacious grounds provided an ideal background for the scenes in the play.

With "The Knife" completed, Miss Brady is planning to take a short breathing spell before commencing work on the next of her Select productions. She has now finished three of her Select Star Series, "Her Silent Sacrifice" and "Woman and Wife" being the two previous releases, and all three pictures are distributed by Select Pictures Corporation.

"LES MISERABLES" GOES TO PUBLIC FEB. 10.

"Les Miserables," a William Fox de luxe production, will be released to exhibitors on February 10. Announcement to this effect has just been made by William Fox. The production concluded a run of five weeks at the Lyric theater in New York on Saturday night, Jan. 12, it having been necessary to take it off in order to make way for a two-week showing of "Cheating the Public," the Fox 1918 cinemelodrama, which is the second of the series beginning with "The Honor System." "Cheating the Public" is to be released Jan. 20, and it was desired to have its drawing power thoroughly demonstrated by at least one week's New York showing prior to the release.

DESMOND BATTLES BLOODTHIRSTY PIRATES.

The famous Clara Morris wardrobe, one of the treasures of the Triangle Culver City costume department, has been brought to light again and is being used in the filming of "The Sea Panther," a story of swashbuckling pirates in which William Desmond is seen in the title role. When leaving for location work at the harbor, Director Thomas Heffron's company looks like a musical comedy troupe on a day's outing.

The script calls for considerable sword play and "Bill" Desmond and the well-known Triangle villain, Jack Richardson, are now spending their spare moments slashing holes in the atmosphere, preparing for their coming duel.

To Present "Tarzan of the Apes"

William Parsons, President of the Producing Company, Will Offer It at a New York Theater.

AFTER eleven months of arduous effort, and constant attention to the production end, the National Film Corporation of America announces the completion of its big production of Edgar Rice Burrough's amazing fiction document "Tarzan of the Apes," of which intimations have been given out from time to time.

William Parsons, president of the company, reached New York last week and established headquarters at 1604 Broadway, from which base the exploitation, distribution and exhibition of the big production will be conducted. The feature itself is now in the assembling stage and within a few days will arrive in New York and will immediately open on Broadway at a legitimate house for an indefinite run at the theater's regular price scale.

William Parsons.

"Tarzan of the Apes" was picturized from the famous Tarzan books, four of which are on the market, and the sale of which books exceed two million copies, an unheard of accomplishment in so far as fiction is concerned, when it is considered that the first book was issued in 1914. At the time of its publication as a serial in over six thousand papers, the story was referred to as the absolute fiction sensation of American literature.

It told of the marooning on an island near the African Coast of a noble British gentleman and his wife. His wife was about to have issue. After undergoing many hardships, the mother bears a boy and dies. The father, attacked by terrifying animals, foremost of which were huge anthropoid apes, succumbs and a female ape, whose young one had been killed the same day, steals the child from the cradle and adopts him.

The cast, consisting in part of Elmo Lincoln, Enid Markey, True Boardman, George French, Kathleen Kirkham, Gordon Griffith, Bessie Tonor, Thomas Jefferson and Colin Kenny, were selected from the thousands available.

Native villages were erected in the open. Hundreds of types essential to convey the author's idea of tribal races were gathered and transported to the scenes and lions, tigers, wild boars, deer and other jungle beasts purchased and slain before the camera.

Scene from "Tarzan of the Apes" (National).

Just what manner of handling the picture is susceptible to get the bigger results, Mr. Parsons would not suggest. He contemplates opening the picture then following the trend of thought constructed by the production itself.

The circulation department of the New York Evening World has compiled a statement in which they aver that over forty million people read "Tarzan of the Apes" during the year it ran as a serial in the six thousand papers. This accords a circulation of 6,100 readers to each publication and an additional four million for the two million books sold. It is safe to say that no wider distribution was ever given a fiction document in the history of literature.

Marguerite Courtot in "The Unbeliever"

Popular Star Portrays Belgian Refugee in Seven-Part Edison Production.

MARGUERITE COURTOT has found a most effective expression of her exceptionally delicate nature in the creation of Virginie Harbrok in Thomas A. Edison's superfeature, "The Unbeliever." The production is based on Mary Shipman Andrews' war novelette, "The Three Things." Miss Courtot plays a brave little Belgian aristocrat, cradled in refinement, and suddenly humbled to vagabondage by the Germans. She loses her people, barely escapes the following Prussians, yet through all disaster there shines from her an ever-increasing nobility and heroism.

Miss Courtot discussed the requirements of the role with her director, Alan Crosland. They agreed that such a part demands a great deal because it embodies the very spirit of Belgium. The Universal ideal that is woven about the martyrdom of Belgium exacts from its heroes and heroines an absolutely sincere expression and a subtle regard for its significance.

Entirely apart from her ability, Miss Courtot has a personal equipment that few artists have for such a role. Her direct descent from a proud French family, gives Miss Courtot an heritage which she never fails to take advantage of in "The Unbeliever."

Scene from "The Unbeliever" (Edison).

Miss Courtot prizes many evidences of popularity with the boys at the front. Recently she received an urgent letter with many signatures affixed, and she is now the adopted sister of that regiment. Her pet corporal sent her a paper-knife ingeniously wrought from a portion of a shell, a spent bullet and two "Tommy" buttons, all of which were picked up after the battle of the Somme. Her regiment knows that she has been playing the Belgian refugee in "The Unbeliever," for her letters have been full of the war story. She learned from the Thomas A. Edison Studios that the Y. M. C. A. has arranged to show "The Unbeliever" in the training camps of America and also in the Y. M. C. A. stations in France.

The Marine Corp has been deeply interested in the picture and Director Crosland took advantage of this by casting several officers and non-commissioned officers in important "bits." These and the trained manoeuvres of the Marines give to the appearance of the soldiery in "The Unbeliever" a convincing military atmosphere. The cast includes Major Thomas Holcomb, Major Ross E. Roswell, Captain Thomas G. Sterrett, Lieutenant J. F. Rorke, Sergeant M. Gill, Corporal Bob Ryland and the Sixth Battalion.

Manager McChesney, of the Edison Company, received an urgent communication from Major-General Barnett requesting a copy of "The Unbeliever" to be shown at the Quantico Cantonment as the Sixth Battalion was to be sent to France. So the Sixth Battalion saw themselves in action. They reviewed themselves in intimate scenes in the trenches that only a few months before under intensive training, they had dug and built themselves; they say one of their companies beaten back in a Belgian village outnumbered by the enemy, and they saw the reinforcements launch a successful counter-attack and rout the Germans; they saw themselves charge over the top and advance their line three hundred yards under terrific fire; and it is good to feel that the Sixth Battalion will live these victories over again in actuality in the fields and towns of France.

What Paramount Offers for February

Pauline Frederick Starts Off a Strong List with Allegorical Picture, "Madame Jealousy."

PARAMOUNT announces an exceptional list of attractions to be released during February. The releases will start February 4 with a Pauline Frederick picture, "Madame Jealousy," an allegorical feature picture written by George V. Hobart. This is the first time an allegory of this type has ever been presented in pictures, and it is believed it will be one of the most popular features in which the player has appeared. The production was made on a lavish scale under the direction of Robert G. Vignola. Many of the scenes were taken in Florida and the interior sets for "The House of the Heavy Hours" are said to be exceptionally lavish.

On the same date a new picture in which Dorothy Dalton, a Thomas H. Ince star, figures as the headliner, will be released. It is called "'Flare-Up' Sal," a story which takes Miss Dalton into a part for which she is exceptionally well adapted. The scenic effects are said to be among the best.

Vivian Martin will appear February 4 in "A Petticoat Pilot," an adaptation of Joseph K. Lincoln's book, "Mary Gusta." providing a part exceptionally well adapted for an exploitation of Miss Martin's very definite charms.

Enid Bennett's first picture under Paramount, "The Keys of the Righteous," is a release set for February 11.

Wallace Reid's next picture, released February 18, is "The Thing We Love." Patriotism in its highest form, involving self-sacrifice and loyal service to the Government, is the keynote. It was written by Beulah Marie Dix.

One of the most spectacular and interesting photoplays which Paramount is to release in February will appear on the 18th, when "Hidden Pearls," starring Sessue Hayakawa, will be shown to the public. Most of the scenes for this picture were taken at Hawaii, many of them on the edge of the crater of the Kilaua volcano.

Billie Burke's fifth picture for Paramount will be released February 25. It is "Eve's Daughter," an adaptation of the stage play of the same name by Alicia Ramsey, played this season on Broadway by Grace George. In it Miss Burke has a part exactly suited to her. The direction is by James Kirkwood.

Another exceptional feature for the month of February announced by Paramount is "Huck and Tom," in which Jack Pickford is featured. This is an adaptation of part of "Tom Sawyer," and is announced as being even better than the splendid production, "Tom Sawyer," released last month, which has made an exceptional impression all over the country.

George Beban will appear February 25 in William B. De Mille's "One More American," a patriotic subject, and providing a characteristically lovable role for the Paramount character star.

Another release announced for Paramount in February is that of the first episode of "The Son of Democracy," featuring Benjamin Chapin as Abraham Lincoln.

MADALINE TRAVERSE, STAR OF IVAN.

Actress and Dancer of Two Continents Re-engaged by Ivan in Their March Production.

IN THE important part ascribed to Madaline Traverse in Ivan Film Productions' "Sins of Ambition," her artistry stands out pre-eminently. Her role calls for the portrayal of two opposite characteristics of human nature—the one demanding that emotional ability in an actress that can sway crowds of people to do one's bidding, the other, majestic repose which always inspires respect when evidenced before a scrutinizing audience.

Madaline Traverse.

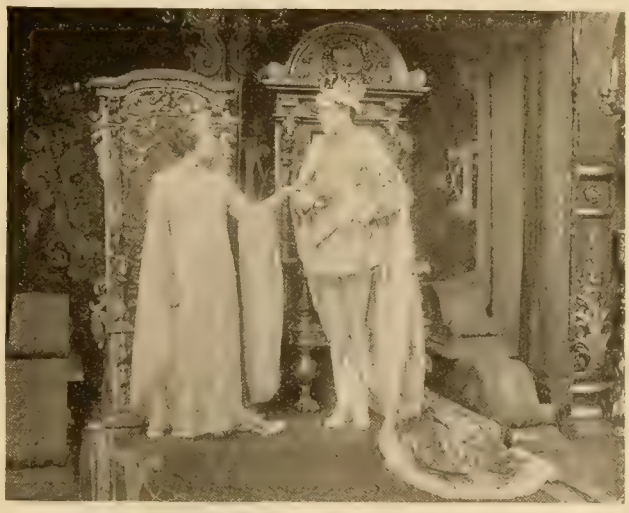
Madaline Traverse, as the wealthy philanthropist, using her position in society to dare espouse the cause of the more unfortunate, is superb in the manner in which she handles the situation. It is more than acting that one sees when beholding Madeline Travers entering the scene of The Grand Bazaar. One is immediately impressed with the grandeur of her bearing; "as born to the purple"—an expression which is hardly safe to use in these democratic days except with poetic license. Nevertheless one feels like taking advantage of the license when describing Madaline Traverse. But for the features of the face it is hardly believable that this accomplished actress is the selfsame person who quells the rioting mobs in a different section of the city. One is carried away with her emotional work there and feels like agreeing with the captain of police, who answers a riot call, that she is an "entire police force" in herself. Suffice it to say that Miss Madaline Traverse has added to the reputation which she enjoys, at once as an accomplished actress both on stage, screen and dancing floor.

She has appeared in a number of American successes, but made her most notable appearance in England. She is the daughter of Richard W. Trellegan, who was the proprietor and manager of repertoire companies which toured the United States and England for a number of years. When she was fifteen years old, she was not only far advanced in her art, but she was doing leading business for him. and was also acting in the capacity of stage director. When she was eighteen years old, Miss Traverse studied music abroad, entering a musical career when she was twenty-one years old. At her father's death she retired from the stage for a few years. but took up her work again with Rose Stahl in the "Chorus Lady," in which play she appeared in London, New York, and toured to the Pacific Coast. On her return to America she was engaged for the original cast of "Joseph and His Brethren," following which she was engaged by Cohan & Harris in "Seven Keys to Baldpate." She has appeared importantly in several productions for the Ivan company, and will portray a feature role in their forthcoming "The Unchastened Woman."

"HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS" (World).

An entirely unusual quantity of comedy contrasts with the numerous exciting moments of "His Royal Highness," the next Carlyle Blackwell-Evelyn Greeley photoplay for World-Pictures Brady-Made, which is to be published next month.

The hero is the star football player of his college, a lighthearted, reckless fellow whose thoughtless manner of plunging into every adventure that presents itself keeps him in hot water most of the time. His chum at the university is a studious young foreigner who is summoned to Paris by cable and invites his friend to go along as his guest.



Scene from "His Royal Highness" (World).

In Paris the two start to explore the night life and incidentally try to rescue the girl of the head Apache, precipitating one of the most vehement up-stairs-and-down battles ever screened. From this it transpires that the foreign friend of our hero is a Prince incognito, now badly wanted to ascend the throne of his principality heretofore usurped.

But the Prince has been badly hurt in the cabaret affair and must remain in the hospital. Won't his American chum impersonate him for the time being? Why, certainly. Nothing easier.

So the college football star starts for his friend's throne determined to get there at the appointed time, which is the day after tomorrow at noon—and the adherents of the former usurper hear that the Prince is coming and set their very finest machinery in motion with the amiable purpose of killing him before he arrives.

Miss Greeley, as may be presumed, plays the princess with whom the college athlete falls in love, and she thinks he is the real prince, because she has seen the two chums on the steamer from New York to Southampton and knows one is her distant kinsman, falling into the final error when she observes the temporary occupant of the near-by throne in his robes of royalty. This makes another misunderstanding the football champion has to square, and quite naturally it is the most difficult of all, for the Princess, as played by Miss Greeley, is very beautiful and very imperious, and it takes a past master in the art of pleading to win her over.

MOTION PICTURE SERIAL NEIGHBORHOOD ATTRACTION.

The popularly accepted theory that the motion picture serial is in demand only at the downtown and transient theater has been proved to be without foundation by the bookings on "The Lost Express," the Mutual-Signal photonovel starring Helen Holmes, which has been shown in scores of high-class neighborhood theaters with exceptional box-office success.

Triangle Program for January 20

J. Barney Sherry in "Evidence," Margery Wilson in "Flames of Chance," A Ladies' Home Journal Story of Enemy Communication Via Red Cross Aid, for Week of the Twentieth.

CAN a man of wealth and influence commit deliberate murder and, by engaging competent counsel, go free, in spite of the fact that he confesses? Such is the assertion often made by prominent attorneys, and it is upon this premise that the Triangle drama, "Evidence," is based.

"Evidence," scheduled as the first release of the week of January 20, was written by Jack Cunningham of the Triangle scenario staff, and is described as a drama of professional life, offering an entirely new theme for a dramatic prouction. The principal characters are John Corbin (J. Barney Sherry), a well-known New York attorney, and his closest friend, Dr. Richard Hoyde (J. Howard Davies). Following Corbin's statement to the doctor that he (Corbin) can kill his wife and go free by employing competent counsel, suspense is maintained throughout the picture. For when Corbin finds a man in his wife's room, he murders his wife, admits his guilt and is acquitted on the ground of insanity. The clearing of the mystery, especially as to the man who was in Mrs. Corbin's room, is held until the last sub-title. Others in the cast, said to make up an excellent supporting body, include Pauline Starke, Eugene Corey and Edwin Jobson. Audelle Higgins, who plays the part of Mrs. Corbin, is new to Triangle features. Walter Edwards directed "Evidence."

Margery Wilson, who did commendable work in "Without Honor," has the leading role in "Flames of Chance," scheduled for release the second part of the week. This story is an adaptation of "Three Godsons of Jeanette Contreau," by Francis W. Sullivan, which recently appeared in The Ladies Home Journal.

In this feature, Miss Wilson plays a dual role, first appearing as Jeanette Contreau, a pretty stenographer, who is desirous of aiding the boys at the front. This she does by writing three soldiers of the allied forces held prisoners in Germany. She sends them all sorts of goodies and acts as a godmother in many ways. Things run smoothly until she hears that one of the soldiers is about to be released and is coming over to America to see the woman who has helped him. Then it is that Miss Wilson resorts to "camouflage" and transforms herself with a wig and old-fashioned clothes from a pretty girl to an old woman. German intrigue is also shown at work in "Flames of Chance," for Miss Contreau's employer takes her letters addressed to the soldiers, and using an invisible ink, writes important data, later to be used by the Germans. The employer professes great interest in the work Jeanette does for the soldiers and gives much money to help. When the postal authorities are informed of the German secret information in these letters, a great deal of confusion arises, and for a while the stenographer faces a prison term, but the spy is brought to justice. Miss Wilson is supported by Jack Mulhall, a recent addition to the Triangle playing forces. Others in the cast are Wilbur Higbee and Anna Dodge. "Flames of Chance" was directed by Raymond Wells.

Gallons of trouble are turned into barrels of laughter in the Keystone comedy, "Courts and Cabarets," also released January 20. There are four sets of triflers in this comedy and they trifle with each other's hearts with such rapidity that they are all landed in court. And it so happens that Max Asher, appearing as the judge, has purchased a bracelet for one of the ladies in court, and Max has to do some explaining before he clears himself.

"Their Indian Uncle" and "The Price of His Head," one-reel Triangle Komedies, complete the week's releases.

"WHISPERING CHORUS" NOW IN MAKING.

"The Whispering Chorus," the new Cecil B. De Mille special production now in the making, is a purely modern story, wherein it differs from the other recent De Mille pictures, but it possesses those same compelling characteristics, the same force and power and appeal in a human way. Perhaps self-sacrifice may be called the dominant theme of the story—at least it is the culminating effect—but the gamut of emotions is run in its course and the interest is unflagging from beginning to end, according to all reports.

The picture is being made at the Lasky Hollywood studios, and for the numerous scenes that admit of studio rendition some most effective sets have been constructed. Infinite care in the minor details will once more prove the advantage of the De Mille method of work.

The cast of "The Whispering Chorus" includes Kathlyn Williams, Raymond Hatton and Elliott Dexter. The photographic work is by Alvin Wyckoff.

HAYAKAWA'S HAWAIIAN STORY COMES FEB. 18.

Flavored by the romance of Hawaii, "Hidden Pearls," the forthcoming Paramount picture starring Sessue Hayakawa, offers patrons of the photoplay something out of the ordinary in film entertainment. It was directed by George H. Melford, and many of the scenes were made in the Hawaiian Islands.

A powerful cast supports Mr. Hayakawa, and from all accounts the picture will prove one of the most attractive in which the Japanese star has as yet appeared under the Paramount banner. The subject will be released February 18.

THE GAUMONT-MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Few persons in this country are aware of the extent of war activities in Arabia, but a subject in the issue of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly, which will be released on Sunday, Jan. 13, will be found most enlightening. French Colon Bremond has been made Commander of the Legion of Honor, at Port Said, and a number of interesting scenes show the French troops leaving the Suez Canal for Arabian camps; the arrival at El Ouedj; the army of Emir Faical in the Oasis of Gidda, allied with the troops of France, and the many wounded Turks and prisoners who have been brought to this camp.

Of great, though contrasted interest, are the many other subjects in this issue of the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly. Two important fires are pictured, one in Kansas, where a quantity of gasoline, which is now so important, was stored, and another in Hoboken, N. J., the American residence of thousands of pro-Germans. In Boston, tugs are shown breaking ice in the harbor during zero weather to release the tied-up shipping, while far away, in sunny Pasadena, 125,000 enthusiastic "native sons" cheer the 28th Annual Tournament of Roses.

That the high cost of living has not affected marriages is shown in the arrival in San Francisco of one hundred picture brides from Nippon; but, a few hundred miles farther up the Pacific Coast, at Eureka, food is so valuable that it is taken in lieu of money for theater tickets.

To relieve as many freight cars as possible, an immense "train" of motor trucks, destined for General Pershing's army in France, has made a record winter trip overland from Detroit to an Atlantic port.

The reel closes with two subjects of the lighter sort: Winter sport at "Toy Town Tavern," at Winchendon, Mass., and the newest winter fashions, which were recently exhibited at the Biltmore Ice Gardens for the benefit of the Red Cross.

"THE PHANTOM RIDERS" (Universal).

The feature to be distributed Jan. 28, through Universal exchanges, will be the first of a series of five-reelers to be produced by Jack Ford with Harry Carey the star, specializing in wild-riding, straight-shooting and the strenuous life of the fast-fading frontier. Troops of horsemen and roughriders will be features of the series, with Harry Carey leading the pack through fast-moving adventures.

Henry McRae, director of productions at Universal City, furnished the story of "The Phantom Riders," and George Hively made the scenario from which Jack Ford directed. Molly Malone will be featured as Harry Carey's leading lady, others prominent in the cast being Vesta Pegg, Bill Gettinger and Buck Connors. Particular care was shown in selecting locations of peculiar fitness, and the scenic reflections promise to add materially to the effectiveness of the offering.

The story deals with a gang of frontier terrorists who mask and cowl themselves like phantoms that they may prey, unrecognized, upon the ranchmen and their herds. That "Cheyenne Harry" (Carey) goes forth alone to combat them and wins out in the end, through the aid of the daughter of one of the phantoms, is shown in a series of episodes that have wild riding and saddle-hazards as sensations.

TRAGEDY OF SARAJEVO IN "FIELDS OF HONOR."

The shot that rang around the world—the murder of the Archduke of Austria—never was more vividly reproduced than in "Fields of Honor," the Goldwyn picturization of Irvin S. Cobb's stirring story, starring wistful Mae Marsh. For realism and fidelity to detail, the scene portraying the assassination of Francis Ferdinand at Sarajevo, Bosnia, has never been approached.

The archduke is seen chatting and laughing in his automobile with his aids, seemingly at peace with all the world. A second later bedlam reigns as the heir to the throne of the dual monarchy is seen to collapse when the smoke of the fatal shot dies away. Hundreds of Bosnians are depicted flocking around the vehicle, the majority of them undecided whether to aid the stricken archduke or join in the mad dash to apprehend his assassin.

"Fields of Honor" is replete with historic scenes, though the tragedy of Sarajevo will perhaps be best appreciated because of its significance in connection with the world war.

NEW THEDA BARA SUPER-PRODUCTION READY.

Theda Bara's next Standard Picture for William Fox, another splendid production, according to an announcement from the Fox offices, will be released under title of "The Forbidden Path," on Jan. 27. The photoplay has just been completed at the Fox studios in Fort Lee, N. J., and is the first film Miss Bara has made since her return from California, where "Cleopatra," "The Rose of Blood" and "Du Barry" were made.

J. Gordon Edwards, who has directed all of the Theda Bara super-productions, was in charge of the new drama. Adrian Johnson was the author of the scenario.

In "The Forbidden Path" Miss Bara has a story particularly well suited to her emotional abilities and to her personality. The picture furnishes her also with an opportunity to demonstrate her versatility. The action in the new feature is vigorous and brisk and is knit into a compactly dramatic and deeply interesting photo-study. The woman Miss Bara portrays is a character complex in the extreme.

B. F. Porter, Projection Expert

The Man Who Installed the Projection Equipment at the Rivoli and Many Other Big Houses.

AN INTERESTING character in the industry and a pioneer in projection engineering is B. F. Porter, of 1482 Broadway, whose name figures so prominently in connection with the Rivoli theater. Since it is S. L. Rothapfel's gospel that nothing is too good for the public, it can readily be imagined that no expense was spared on the projection equipment, the installation of which was in Mr. Porter's charge.

As in the Rialto, which is under the same management, two latest type Simplex projectors are used. Then there are two special Simplex double dissolving combination stereopticon and spotlight machines, mounted in a manner similar to a rapid-fire gun, so constructed that they can be pointed in any direction, and so perfectly balanced that the spot may be easily kept on a moving singer or dancer without any jerking effect. The screen is a Minusa Gold Fibre, specially built according to the specifications of the theater.

The projectors are equipped with time-indicating devices which indicate and register the rate of speed at which the pictures pass through each projector, also the footage of the film, and by means of which the operator is enabled to synchronize the picture with the music of the orchestra, according to a prearranged schedule.

One of the outstanding features of the projection or operating room, aside from its unusually liberal size, is its color scheme, the entire room being finished in a beautiful battleship gray, while the projectors and all the other equipment are enameled to perfectly match. It is indeed refreshing that the projection room, the very heart of the theater, is coming into its own, and is, at least by the shining lights of the industry, given the attention it rightfully deserves. Of course the finish doesn't make the room, it simply shows that after taking infinite pains and sparing no expense to make it the best-equipped projection booth in the world, it was finished in keeping with its contents, which comprise every modern device that can raise the quality of the results on the screen.

Such installations are Mr. Porter's hobby. He got on to that hobby a number of years ago when he became convinced that the projection of motion pictures was not keeping pace with the quality of the pictures. That was about the year 1910, when he was one of the incorporators of the Precision Machine Company, and for several years its manager, during which time he was a member of its board of directors. Nor did he abandon his hobby when he resigned from that company to open a showroom at Broadway and Forty-second street, New York. On the contrary, his very purpose in so doing was not only to push the sale of the Simplex projector, but to render service to exhibitors as a projection expert.

He realized early that it would not do to simply "build a theater and put in projectors," but that the problem was a complicated one, in no two cases alike, and in every case worthy of deep, intelligent study and careful decision, in order that the success of the enterprise might not be jeopardized.

The projection scheme of any theater does indeed present a many-sided problem which cannot be solved by merely putting your finger on a "projection lens table" and ordering projectors with lenses of the focus therein indicated.

By studying and working out in practice all the many details entering into such problems, Mr. Porter soon won the confidence of those who realized that it requires an expert to specify projection equipment and accessories to secure results that pay.

Many exhibitors have engaged him for such work, leaving the selection of complete equipment entirely to his expert judgment, and held him responsible for the performance of the apparatus, with the result that the projection in many theaters has been vastly improved. Among these may be mentioned the first, finest and largest at the time, the Regent, at 116th street and Seventh avenue, New York, of which S. L. Rothapfel was then managing director. The next big theater was the Olympia at 107th street and Broadway; then the Strand, at Forty-seventh street and Broadway soon followed, as well as the great New York Hippodrome and many of the largest theaters in the country, including Poli's 4,000-seat Palace theater at New Haven, Conn.

When big feature pictures were produced and presented at admission prices never before dreamed of, only the utmost in projection would do, so Mr. Porter was engaged to equip the Liberty theater for the first presentation on Broadway of D. W. Griffith's stupendous spectacles, "The Birth of a Nation," and also "Intolerance."

"WHO LOVED HIM BEST" (Mutual).

Miss Edna Goodrich's new Mutual production, "Who Loved Him Best?", is unique in the sense that it is one of the first in which the inner workings of a motion picture studio, involving star, director and supporting company, have been so convincingly portrayed as to literally transport the spectator into the atmosphere and surroundings of Filmdom.

Moreover, in the new Goodrich play the story is so ingeniously constructed that it does not develop its connection with motion picture affairs until a fearful tragedy has taken place, at which juncture, Miss Goodrich, with a smoking pistol in her hand, suddenly emerges from her role of heavy tragedienne and laughingly greets the studio director, who rushes forward, megaphone in hand, to congratulate her on the scene.

The plot has to do with the effort of an unprincipled young sculptor of Greenwich Village, New York's famous art colony, to steal the successful statue of his studio partner, a plan that comes to grief through the vigilance of Doria Dane, the beautiful motion picture star, who has forsaken her chosen profession to become a sculptor's model because she loves the sculptor. A rich widow of the pseudo-Bohemian set is Miss Dane's rival in love and the accomplice of the villain.

The new photoplay is asserted by critics to be one of the best of six produced by Miss Goodrich, including "Reputation," "American Maid," "Queen X," "A Daughter of Maryland" and "Her Second Husband."

"BARBEROUS PLOTS" (L-Ko).

Barber shop comedy with turkish bath adjunct will feature the L-KO to be distributed through Universal exchanges Jan. 30 under the title of "Barberous Plots." Hughie Mack and Bobby Dunn will be the featured comedians, with Gladys Varden heading the supporting company. Bobby Kerr directed the operations of a large coterie of bathing girls and barbershop customers in an exciting arrangement of surprise attacks upon Old George Gloom.

Scene from "Barberous Plots" (L-Ko).

"Barberous Plots" is one of the L-KOs that have been made in Hollywood since President Julius Stern took personal control of operations at the L-KO studio. It represents a speeding-up in the class of offerings that exhibitors may expect in that series from now onward. Hughie Mack lately transferred his activities from Vitagraph, where he gathered unto himself quite a following for his quaint methods as a merrymaker on the screen.

Effie Shannon in "Her Boy"

Another Metro Picture of Great Human Appeal Added to List of Patriotic Productions.

IN ACCORDANCE with the policy of Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictures Corporation, to give all possible aid to the government in its campaign of arousing nation-wide patriotic enthusiasm, Metro has added another to its list of patriotic productions. This new patriotic production is called "Her Boy." It presents the war situation from a new angle, and gives public answer to the silent protest of the mothers who do not want to give their sons up to the nation. The action of David Morrison in "Her Boy" is the only answer a self-respecting youth could make, and his mother, Helen Morrison, is brought to a realization of the patriotism that forgets self in service.

Effie Shannon.

"Her Boy" has been given a superb production, but will be released January 28 in Metro's regular star series. Effie Shannon, the distinguished actress known both here and abroad, has the leading role of Helen Morrison, who rebels against giving her son to the service of his country. Niles Welch, a Metro favorite, plays "her boy," David Morrison.

"Her Boy" is from the pen of H. Carey Wonderly, and has been adapted for the screen by Albert Shelby Le Vino. It has been directed by George Irving, who makes his bok in Metro pictures with this production, and has been produced under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger. Harry B. Harris is the photographer, and Leander de Codova has assisted Mr. Irving in the direction.

The scenes of "Her Boy" are laid in the South. The story is typical of the way in which the news of the war came to the homes of the nation, and of the way in which it affected families. Camp Joseph W. Johnson, at Jacksonville, was the "Location" used for many of the scenes, and soldiers encamped there acted in the picture. There is plenty of action and excitement, but the primary interest in "Her Boy" lies in its intense human appeal. Among the soldiers taking minor parts were: Henry J. Higgins, T. E. Triplett, J. E. Moore, B. B. Maylor, R. W. Welsch, R. H. McDowell, C. D. Daily, Warren Washburn, Witold Markum, Jack Shepard, T. R. Bethea, William Crowley, Raymond Arvin, J. O. Perry, William Dennis and Motorcycle Messengers William Blank, C. J. Wormer, William Lind, J. M. Anchorn and George Purcell.

George V. Massey, of the motion picture service department of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, appeared in a number of scenes and it was through him that permission was received from Colonel Munson to take the camp scenes.

One of the amusing incidents of the picture taking at Camp Johnston happened to Sergeant Prentup. He was designated paymaster by the Metro director, as the soldiers received $2.00 each for their acting efforts. In counting up his men to be paid, he forgot himself, and did not get the money due him for his work. However, later he received his remuneration.

Besides Effie Shannon, who is featured, the cast of Metro's patriotic picture, "Her Boy," includes Pauline Curley, Niles Welch, Pat O'Malley, William A. Eechtel, James T. Galloway, Charles Sutton, George F. Demarest, Robert Chandler, Charles Riegel, Ferike Boros, Anthony Byrd, S. McAlpin, J. C. Bates, Edmund Wright and Baby Violet Axzell.

Effie Shannon is well remembered for her work in David Belasco's production, "Years of Discretion," one of her most important appearances in recent years. She toured the country for many years with her husband, the late Herbert Kelcey, in dramatic productions.

SOUTHERN SOCIETY PLAY FOR BELLE BENNETT.

An entire glass stage was covered by a spacious hotel set at the Triangle studios last week and was used for the opening scenes in Director Gilbert P. Hamilton's latest Triangle picture, featuring Belle Bennett. The working title of this picture is "A Soul in Trust," a story of Southern society life. Supporting Miss Bennett in this picture are Darrel Foss, J. Barney Sherry, Lillian West, Grover Franke, Wilbur Higbee and W. A. Jeffries.

Hodkinson Notes Distributing Success

His Affiliation with General Film Great Aid in Reaching Exhibitors Quickly.

AN EXTRAORDINARY success is reported by W. W. Hodkinson on his plan for using the exchange service of the General Film Company for the physical handling of the Paralta Plays, which he is distributing. It is now four weeks since the arrangement with General was completed, but the reports on bookings of the two Paralta Plays, "A Man's Man," with J. Warren Kerrigan, and "Madam Who," with Bessie Barriscale, are as satisfactory from the viewpoint of salesmanship as could have been obtained in months by a new organization. In addition, the service to exhibitors of prints and supplies has gone forward without a hitch, through the well-oiled channels furnished by the General Film Exchanges.

It has been possible, Mr. Hodkinson states, to give the full value of his discriminating distribution service through the General exchanges. The control of prices is vested in the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, and every contract is approved by its head office sales department before pictures are released under it. The Hodkinson principles of the distributor serving as the balancing factor between producer and exhibitor, and spreading the return on the pictures over a period of time sufficient both to give the producer a full return on his investment and the individual exhibitor a rental charge commensurate with his ability to pay, are becoming well known again throughout the trade.

The sales department of the Hodkinson Corporation is now issuing a series of letters to the General Film sales forces setting forth the basic principles of the Hodkinson distribution plans, as supplementary to the three "Hodkinson Service" conventions which S. R. Kent, general sales manager of the General Film Company, has just held in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

Backing up the definite work being done to open the lines of Hodkinson principles through the General Film exchanges to the exhibitor, the publicity and exhibitor service department of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation has prepared an intensive exhibitor campaign. Direct-by-mail advertising of original but dignified form will be sent out, commencing next week, setting forth the Hodkinson principles and their application to the sale of the Paralta Pictures and other Hodkinson product. A couple of weeks ago the first Hodkinson booklet, "What Shall We Do With the Motion Picture Business?" covering Mr. Hodkinson's views of the industry in concrete form, was published. This was followed by a folder on the "Motion Picture PLUS," the new process larger film which is soon to be seen. These two publications are being sent out free, but only on request.

Next week the first Hodkinson publication to go to the full exhibitor list will go out. This will be headed "Answering Your Questions About Hodkinson," and will be a brief resume of the signed announcements which Mr. Hodkinson issued weekly over a period of eight weeks through the trade press in November and December.

Made at Biograph Studios

"Lest We Forget," Famous "Lusitania" Production Featuring Rita Jolivet, Has Many Elaborate Sets.

TO GAIN an idea of the equipment and facilities available at the Biograph Studios, producers will do well to note the elaborate sets in "Lest We Forget." The sets in this giant spectacle are unusually large—the light effects and photography perfect—and are an example of what producers can do when staging their productions at the Biograph Studios.

The same facilities and service are offered to all producers by the Biograph Studios, which may now be rented by the week or month.

TRIANGLE COMPANY MAKING QUARRY STORY.

Accompanied by some of the huskiest members of the Triangle playing forces, Director Raymond Wells and company are at Colton, Cal., for a week doing the opening scenes of a coming Triangle offering, "The Hard Rock Breed," a screen adaptation of Frederic Bechdolt's magazine story of the same title. Four other drama companies are in various stages of production at the Culver City studios, and four directors, Cliff Smith, Walter Edwards, Jack Dillon and Jack Conway are waiting for new vehicles. All four of these directors will receive new stories within a week.

AMERICA'S OLDEST FORT IN PARAMOUNT "LA TOSCA."

Pauline Frederick and her director, Edward Jose, were recently in Florida with the players appearing in "La Tosca," the famous Sardou play which is being produced for Paramount. The company stopped in Jacksonville, St. Augustine and Fort Marion, where exterior scenes were filmed.

Fort Marion is the first fortress built in America by the Spaniards, and is similar to the ancient European forts, with parapets and a wide moat as well as outer fortifications. In "La Tosca," Mario, the lover, is sentenced to be shot and is killed by the firing squad with his back to the wall. At Fort Marion the wall that was used for executions of this kind still stands, and the jagged bullet holes are mute evidence of the tragedies that have been enacted in the past.

Picture Theaters Projected

SACRAMENTO, CAL.—Charles Rohrer has opened a moving picture theater at 420 K street.

HAVERHILL, MASS.—Frank J. Sites, of Sites-Emerson Company, operating Academy of Music and Lowell opera house, has disposed of his interest to Charles H. Emerson.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—William B. Wright of Chicago has taken charge of the Government theater and Y. M. C. A. auditorium at Camp Custer.

BELLEVILLE, MICH.—New moving picture theater will be opened here.

DETROIT, MICH.—Fred Swirsky & Company have let contracts for a one-story theater building on West Fort street for Louis Smilansky, with seating capacity for 2,000 people.

DETROIT, MICH.—Kenneth M. De Voe, Inc., formerly of Chicago, are having plans prepared for a four-story theater building, to be erected on Grand River avenue, with seating capacity for 1,600 people.

FARMINGTON, MICH.—Homer Eisenlard and Seba Bristol have purchased moving picture theater here.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Colonial theater, at Wealthy and Eastern avenue, has reopened under management of Herman A. Bird.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—New vaudeville and moving picture theater to cost $20,000 will be erected on Division avenue, S., near Franklin street. House will have seating capacity for 850 people and will be conducted under management of C. S. Darland and Daniel H. Collins.

HAMTRAMCK, MICH.—Farnum theater is now being jointly managed by Joseph and Jacob Campau.

MONROE, MICH.—Goldberg & Jackman of Detroit have the contract for decorating new Family theater.

NEGAUNEE, MICH.—A. K. Proksch has the contract to convert Odd Fellows building on West Iron street into a moving picture theater.

NORTH BRANCH, MICH.—G. H. Finkle has leased Columbia theater to J. H. Wandecar and A. H. Leete. James Leete will be manager.

THREE RIVERS, MICH.—Changes are to be made in the management of Rex and Vaudette theaters.

HILLS, MINN.—Nelson Hoar has disposed of his moving picture business to Shellhouse Brothers.

OSAKIS, MINN.—Edward F. Johnson, of Raymond, Minn., has purchased Empress theater from J. A. Hedberg.

OWATONNA, MINN.—United States Theater Corporation has discontinued to operate Palace theater. It is said A. A. Thomas, manager of Metropolitan theater, will be the lessee.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—Columbia theater has been purchased by Hall Kelly of Wymore, Neb.

JOLIET, MONT.—G. A. Richardson has purchased Pastime theater from A. H. Holder.

CHAPPEL, NEB.—B. J. Connor has the contract for a two-story theater, 30 by 100 feet, for S. S. Groves, to cost $22,000.

OSCEOLA, NEB.—Clarence Miller has sold Strand theater to Harry Musselman, manager of Auditorium theater.

YORK, NEB.—Ballenger & Son have leased Sun theater from E. B. Woods.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Charles Cohn will open moving picture theater at 44 Albany street.

RED BANK, N. J.—Majestic theater on Monmouth street has been leased by Mutual Picture Theaters Company of New York.

ELMHURST, N. Y.—Sheers Amusement Enterprise has purchased site on Corona avenue, 60 by 119 feet, for an airdome.

LOCKPORT, N. Y.—Lewis & Hill of Buffalo are preparing plans for proposed two-story theater building, to be erected at Main and Elm streets, to cost $60,000.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., N. Y.—Michael Labrocca and Salvator Santopitor have leased from Tanner-Shea Amusement Company moving picture theater at 142 Vernon avenue.

ROCKAWAY BEACH, L. I., N. Y.—Minerva Theater Corporation, 558 Boulevard, have plans by W. E. Sandifer, for an extension to moving picture theater, 52 by 35 feet, to cost $10,000.

MAYVILLE, N. D.—Moving picture theater and opera house has been purchased by Munro Drug Company.

OVERLY, N. D.—M. S. Gray has disposed of his moving picture business to Charles Snyder.

AKRON, O.—Manager James Dunlevy has opened Bank theater at corner Main and Exchange streets. House has seating capacity for 700 people.

CHILLICOTHE, O.—Hart Operating Company, which controls Southern, Lyceum and Colonial theaters in Columbus, contemplates erection of theater building here.

ELYRIA, O.—Elyria Theaters Company will rebuild opera house. Company also plans to erect and operate theaters in other cities adjacent to Elyria.

LORAIN, O.—Ray Gould has purchased Temple theater from Mary Carson.

MARIETTA, O.—Fire destroyed Hippodrome theater. Manager O. J. Seybert, of C. & M. Amusement theater, owners of building, announces that new theater will be erected to replace one destroyed.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—Gus Sun Amusement Company will erect three-story moving picture theater, with seating capacity for 2,000 people.

BLACKWELL, OKLA.—William Adams has plans by W. L. McAtee, Johnson building, Arkansas City, Okla., to remodel moving picture theater. Improvements will cost about $4,000.

DRUMRIGHT, OKLA.—C. E. Barber, of Muskogee, who recently purchased Pastime theater, will remodel the house.

FREDERICK, OKLA.—L. A. Harrel, who recently purchased Gem theater from F. D. Cauby, has assumed control.

LAWTON, OKLA.—Harold Macklin, 306 First National Bank, Chickasha, Okla., is preparing plans for a one-story theater building, 50 by 140 feet, to cost $40,000.

QUAPAW, OKLA.—W. I. Bingham has opened Palace theater with vaudeville and moving pictures. F. H. Carter, formerly of Electric theater at Joplin, is manager.

TULSA, OKLA.—Old Empress theater will be remodelled and reopened under management of Frank H. Cassil. It will be known as the Rialto.

EAST GREENVILLE, PA.—Liberty theater has been opened by William J. Snyder.

DALLAS, TEX.—Gilsonite Construction Company has the contract to repair and replace theater building at 1501 Elm street.

EAGLE MOUNTAIN, VA.—H. S. Henderson has plans by Charles Henderson for theater to replace structure recently damaged by fire. Building will be 30 by 60 feet, brick and concrete blocks, tar and gravel roof, hardwood floors, to cost $1,500; electric lighting, $250. Construction to begin in early spring.

HOPEWELL, VA.—S. A. Xippas has plans by Blanke & Zink, Equitable building, Baltimore, for a one-story moving picture theater, 40 by 125 feet, to cost $20,000.

BREMERTON, WASH.—Eagle theater has opened under management of L. Mortimer.

WHITE SALMON, WASH.—Alpha opera house has been purchased by C. T. Higdon.

BANGOR, WIS.—Majestic theater has been purchased by Fred S. Darling.

FAIR OAKS, WIS.—Jake Moelk has purchased moving picture house here.

HOLCOMBE, WIS.—Project headed by A. J. Edminster plans to build an opera house.

MARINETTE, WIS.—T. J. Aelick of Chicago succeeds E. R. Saether as manager of the Bijou, Strand and Marinette theaters.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Jackson theater has reopened under management of R. S. Blickman.

RACINE, WIS.—Friedman Company has acquired control of theater now in course of construction on Lake avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It will have seating capacity for 2,000 people.

TWO RIVERS, WIS.—New Simplex moving picture machine has been installed in Gloe-Maidl theater.

Florida Studios For Rent!

OUR JACKSONVILLE STUDIOS—the best and most complete studios in the South—with outdoor and glass enclosed stages—garage, dark rooms, carpenter shop, complete lighting equipment, and stock scenery—can be leased by responsible parties. Price reasonable.

If interested, get in touch with us at once.

THANHOUSER FILM CORPORATION

EDWIN THANHOUSER, President

NEW ROCHELLE NEW YORK

The Genuine Test of

What Is Your Idea of Subscription Values at $3.00 Per Year, as Compared with those at $1.00, or even less?

Here's a characteristic sentiment:

"I had a persistent solicitor here a few weeks ago from another trade paper and to get rid of him I gave him a dollar for a year, which was all he wanted, but I need the old reliable Moving Picture World just the same, so here's my three dollars for another year's renewal."

Tells its own story, does it not?

For Service and Value to Subscribers and Service and Value to Advertisers the Standard Is and Always Has Been the

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Exhibitors Buy It and

Real Service Value

Two More Things About Our Subscriptions:

There are no individuals owning blocks of stock in this paper who are boosting subscriptions for us among their managers and employees.

Neither are we paying—or have we ever paid—fifty and one-hundred per cent commissions on subscriptions which we receive. Old readers are rejoining the ranks and new ones being added daily and each and every one of them at our regular subscription rates.

There is only one reason. People are not paying $3.00 today if the same value is purchasable elsewhere for a dollar or less. Yes, there's a reason—and you only have to read the Moving Picture World every week to realize it!

You need an intelligently edited trade paper and the best is the one for you. The best by test is the

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Exhibitors Read It!

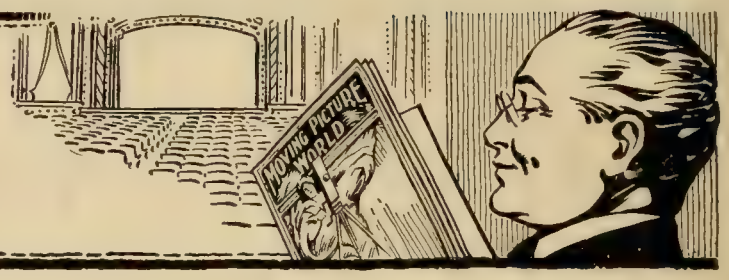
Trade News of the Week



GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Bay State Amusements Must Close at Ten

Order for Early Evening Closing Issued by Massachusetts Fuel Administrator Storrow—Statement as to Reasons Why Drastic Order Is Needed.

By Richard Davis Howe, 80 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

BOSTON, MASS.—Moving picture theaters throughout Massachusetts have received a tremendous blow by the drastic orders issued by James J. Storrow, New England Fuel Administrator, demanding that all theaters, moving picture houses, bars, bowling alleys, billiard halls, public and private dance halls and all places of amusement shall close their doors at 10 p. m., every evening. Massachusetts alone is affected by the comprehensive and sweeping mandate of the Bay State's fuel director. It is expected, however, that it is only a question of time before similar action will be taken with the remainder of the New England states, unless immediate relief comes in the coal crisis, which has become acute in this section.

The sweeping provisions of the Storrow order, which went into effect throughout the state on Monday, January 14, are:

One—All theaters, moving picture houses, bowling alleys, bars, billiard halls, public and private dance halls and all places of amusement shall close in Massachusetts at 10 p. m.

Two—All wholesale, retail and other business houses and stores shall open at 9 o'clock a. m., and close at 5 p. m., except in special instances noted in the order.

Three—Office, banking and other business buildings shall not be heated on Sundays or holidays or on Saturday after 12 noon, or other days after 5 p. m., except sufficiently to prevent freezing.

Four—No elevator service shall be given on Sundays, holidays or between 6 p. m. and 7 a. m.

Five—Every night except Saturday shall be Lightless Night, as defined by the United States Fuel Administrator's order of December 15.

Six—White way and cluster and decorative street lighting is forbidden. A few exceptions pertaining to markets, etc., are omitted here.

Some Recommendations.

It is also recommended that:

Three—Many public institutions desirable under ordinary conditions should be closed and others curtailed.

Four—Schools be put on a one-session basis as far as practicable.

Five—Churches, forums, night schools, clubs and other religious, educational and social organizations consolidate their activities.

Six—All inside and outside lighting and all heating not covered by specific order be reduced to the minimum, so that more drastic orders may be unnecessary.

Seven—Factories should arrange their hours to save daylight and to relieve peak load.

Eight—Salaries and wages should not be reduced on account of these orders and recommendations.

Statement by the Administrator.

The order was accompanied by the following statement by Fuel Administrator Storrow sent to all local fuel committees:

"In the opinion of the State Fuel Administration the present shortage of coal requires the observance of certain rules as to the hours of closing business buildings and places of amusement. While at the first glance these rules may appear to be drastic, we believe that they must be strictly followed, otherwise a certain stopping of the work in some of our most necessary industries and institutions will make it much more inconvenient for the public than the present changes, which involve to a great extent merely a change in habit.

"In European countries under war regulations the hours of closing places of public amusement and of public congregation have been so arranged that there is a maximum use during the hours of daylight with a sparing use of those hours when artificial light, heat and power are required.

"From our investigations and conferences with those best qualified to advise us we find that such changes as are here outlined redound to the benefit of the mass of people, with comparatively small inconvenience to the few. We doubt if anybody will suffer seriously during the next few months from the changes recommended.

"We have deemed it advisable to rule that office buildings, wholesale and retail business houses, markets, stores, theaters, motion picture houses, saloons, bowling alleys, pool and billiard rooms and public and private dancing halls close at 10 o'clock at night, except Saturday be 'lightless night,' within the limitations herein outlined. To bring about other desirable observances, such as the ending of the business day at 5 o'clock, putting schools on the one-session basis, etc., we make certain recommendations which we are certain, in view of past experiences, will be universally observed."

Boston Managers Protest.

The vigorous protest by local theater managers against the 10 P. M. closing regulations which was issued by New England Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow, Wednesday, January 9, and which went into effect on Monday, January 14, has resulted in the fuel administration's granting a hearing to the theatrical men. The conference will be held at the State House here.

The theater men of Boston received the sweeping and comprehensive mandate with an outburst of unrestrained condemnation. Leading in the condemnation are the legitimate houses, while the moving picture and vaudeville theaters are backing them up, and adding to the weight of a most determined protest are the theatrical employees.

Indignation Meeting of Managers.

The wave of protest reached a climax in an indignation meeting of the Boston Theatrical Managers' Association, held in the office of John B. Schoeffel, manager of the Tremont theater in this city and head of the organization.

The report of Edward D. Smith and Charles J. Rich, managers of six of the leading theaters in this city, who composed a delegation which went to the State House to consult with the fuel administrator, declared the aim of Mr. Storrow to be "to close up the town at 10 o'clock." This explanation of the way in which the coal-saving movement was to work came chiefly from Mr. Storrow's secretary, the delegates said. They have been unable to meet the fuel administrator himself.

Don't Expect Earlier Shows to Save Coal.

The delegates also quoted the fuel administrator's secretary to the effect that no coal saving was expected through the early closing of the regular theaters, the order assuming that the performances would be set forward and carried through.

England Recalled a Like Order.

John B. Schoeffel pointed out that the Imperial German Government compels the Berlin theaters to keep open and that public protest in England lifted the government's attempt to make London theaters close early. "This is the most drastic rule I ever heard of," he said. "They haven't dared to put such a rule into effect in New York, and they have a coal shortage there, too."

Mr. Schoeffel declared that the 10 o'clock closing edict would force every theater in this city to close up within a month. He also pointed out that while the theatrical business would be ruined the saving in coal would not amount to ten tons a year.

Olympia Theaters, Inc., Sued.

Boston, Mass.—A suit for $200,000 against Nathan H. Gordon and Max Shoolman, of this city, both of whom are identified with the Olympia Theaters, Inc., which controls a chain of Olympia theaters throughout Massachusetts, has been filed in the Essex Superior Court at Salem, by three stockholders in the corporation. The plaintiffs are Frank J. Howard, of Brookline, who is connected with the Atlas Film Company of Boston; Ernest H. Horstmann, president of the Massachusetts Branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, and Arthur E. Lord, of Lynn.

The plaintiffs declare that there was misrepresentation in sale of stock in the Olympia corporation. They say that in 1913 they bought 2,600 shares of stock at par value of $100, and that its value was misrepresented.

Previous to this transaction, the plaintiffs say, they were identified with Gordon and Shoolman in the Olympia theater, on Washington street, this city.

Howard was also president of a company operating the Olympia theater in Lynn, with Horstmann as treasurer and Lord as chief stockholder.

The suit covers stock only in the Olympia theaters on Washington street and Scollay square, in this city.

Ellis Levenson Waits Call.

Boston, Mass.—Ellis Levenson, assistant manager of the Boston Photoplay Company, of this city, has passed his examinations for the United States Aviation Corps and is now awaiting the call to colors.

Business Notes of Interest.

Philadelphia, Pa.—F. E. Samuels, manager of the local General Film exchange, is busy confirming contracts, a majority of which are for the Paralta plays. Business prospects for the New Year look very promising, and big business is anticipated by Mr. Samuels for the coming season.

B. R. Tolmas, formerly manager of the Philadelphia Mutual exchange, and who, after resigning from that post, became the special representative of "Charlie Chaplin Specials" department for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit in Washington, has arrived in town. Mr. Tolmas has become associated with the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation.

Handsome mounted souvenirs of all of the favorite film stars were presented last week to the patrons of the Nixon, Locust, Coliseum, Cedar, Belmont and Jumbo theaters in Philadelphia. These are in color, and include Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, Billie Burke, George M. Cohan, Elsie Ferguson, Marguerite Clarke, Vivian Martin, Pauline Frederick, Virginia Pearson, and other famous film stars. They were mounted for framing and were secured for the patrons of these theaters by Fred G. Nixon Nirdlinger.

Philadelphia Pathe Enters New Office

Manager M. W. Pierce Takes His Staff Into New Home in the Belmont Building—Arrangement of the Different Offices—Comfort and Elegance.

By F. V. Armato, 144 North Salford St., Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Shortly following on the heels of the New Year, the local Pathe exchange will have removed to a large and up-to-date new headquarters in the New Belmont building, at 211-213 N. 13th street, where it will occupy the entire second floor consisting of 10,000 square feet of space.

A visit to the new offices revealed the future home of the Pathe forces with all of its well laid plans to take care of each department. Upon entering the exchange a comfortably furnished reception room for the convenience of the exhibitors is seen. Looking down a long aisle the general offices are located on one side, while the salesmen's quarters are directly opposite.

The offices are all partitioned with wood paneled walls and art glass, and have been arranged in the following order: The first inclosed office will be for the stenographers, the second will be occupied by Manager H. M. Osborne, the third by the cashiers, the fourth by the booking department, and the fifth by the assistant manager, M. W. Pierce. The salesmen's quarters have been arranged for the staff composed of L. Berman, C. W. Martin, S. E. Applegate, F. Sulzback, S. Hockfelt, Joe Levy, and G. E. Maillard, who will have individual and private enclosures.

A special projection room, with highly polished golden oak paneled walls, also with Spanish leather and upholstered opera chairs, is conveniently located. A gold fiber screen and a Simplex machine has been installed, while the booth will contain an independent ventilator reaching to the roof of the building. Then there is the carefully planned advertising department in the charge of J. T. Stiles, and also the shipping department under the direction of Pete Ryan.

Front and back elevators will supply ample service for both passenger and freight. Two specially constructed vaults, with ventilators reaching to the roof and having doors with time locks, as used in banking establishments, will be one of the innovations.

The entire scheme is golden oak with white walls and ceiling, the ceiling being also equipped with the new fire regulating sprinkling system. Taken all together, the new Pathe exchange will be found to be one of the most thoroughly equipped and modern exchanges in the country.

Filmaom Doings in Baltimore Last Week

City Has Made Good Use of Advertising Motion Pictures—Changes in Management of Several Local Theaters—Many Patriotic Benefits.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, MD.—That the motion picture may be used in advertising the attractive features of a large or small city has been proven by a letter recently received by Mayor James Harry Preston, of Baltimore, from St. Paul, Minn., which says:

"I understand that your city has had signal success in using moving pictures to advertise your city.

"Since I am gathering material on the use of moving pictures in community advertising I shall greatly appreciate knowing all about your experiences in this connection. May I please have a reply at your earliest convenience."

Wilbur F. Coyle, City Librarian of Baltimore, has charge of the motion picture propaganda in the Monumental City and is reported to have stated that Baltimore has a number of reels, many of which have been widely circulated, not only in this country, but throughout South America, which cover such subjects as building the sewerage system, the filtration plant, showing the commercial activities of Baltimore, the harbor, street scenes, conventions, improvements, etc.

Arthur Barron Has Charge of Two Houses.

Baltimore, Md.—Arthur Barron, who, since the opening of the McHenry, has acted as the resident manager, has now been placed in charge of the Wizard and Strand theaters, which come under Mr. Depkin's supervision. Mr. Barron is well versed in film ways and it is felt that he is equal to his new responsibility.

C. E. Thropp Will Manage the McHenry.

Baltimore, Md.—Charles E. Thropp, who has acted as manager of Nixon's Victoria theater, 415 East Baltimore street, since it was opened under the jurisdiction of the Nixon-Nirdlinger interests, has now severed his connection with that theater and has been appointed manager of the McHenry theater, Light street, at Cross, by Bernard Depkin, Jr., supervising manager of the Parkway Theater Company interests.

New Lobby for Picture Garden.

Baltimore, Md.—Quite a surprise awaited the patrons of the Picture Garden, 31 West Lexington street, on Saturday morning, January 5, for when they arrived to see the show the lobby had been rearranged in such a manner that instead of having the front all open as formerly, it has now been built in with a frame-work of ornamental wood and glass. Joseph Blechman, the manager of this house, is always endeavoring to look after the interests of his patrons.

New Picture Theater Planned.

Baltimore, Md.—It is now announced that in the near future the northwestern section of Baltimore may see the erection of another moving picture theater. Plans will be drawn up by Architect E. H. Glidden, it is reported, who has been commissioned by Herbert M. Hartman, for a one-story structure which will measure 60 by 14 feet and be built of ornamental brick.

Benefits Still Continue in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md.—On Sunday, January 6, the following benefits were given, through the courtesy of the several managers.

The New theater, 210 West Lexington street, was loaned by L. A. DeHoff, the manager, for a benefit performance for the members of Company A, 313 Infantry, at Camp Meade, under the auspices of the Local Exemption Board No. 1. An appropriate program was arranged in which a few of the members of the company took part. News weeklies and the feature "Draft 258" were shown. The amount of the collection was $255.

Harry Cluster, manager of the Crystal theater, 526-30 North Gay street, gave a benefit performance in this house from 2 to 10 p. m., for the boys of the 313 Infantry.

Charles S. Anderson came to the front with a big minstrel and vaudeville show at his large playhouse, the Grand theater, in Highlandtown, which was given for the benefit of the drafted men of the Eastern suburbs. The theater was loaned through the courtesy of the owners and Mr. Anderson superintended the affair. The attendance numbered more than 2,000.

At the Nixon-Victoria theater, 415 East Baltimore street, Charles E. Thropp, manager, a meeting was held by the Baltimore members of the Amalgamated Cloth ing Workers of America for the purpose of obtaining funds for the Jewish sufferers from the war, and it is understood that about $15,000 was raised.

Six Lightless Nights Gladly Accepted.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Six instead of two lightless nights and the alternate use of wood and coal for heating purposes has been voluntarily adopted at the many local moving picture houses controlled by the Stanley Company as a means of assisting in the conservation of Philadelphia's limited or lessening fuel supply.

This announcement was made by Stanley V. Mastbaum, manager-director of the Stanley Company, on Friday, January 4. Mr. Mastbaum explained that only on Saturday nights would attraction or illuminated signs be burned in front of the Stanley houses, while all other non-essential lights would be turned off.

Experiments made by the direction of Mr. Mastbaum have already demonstrated that wood burned in the furnaces of his theater gives even more heat than coal, and provides a most comfortable degree of warmth for their patrons and employees alike.

The new policy of six lightless nights will be inaugurated beginning Monday, January 7, while the regular use of wood as a substitute for coal will be started next week. Large quantities of wood are being collected for the Stanley houses.

Records Made by Recent Features.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Thais," Goldwyn feature at the Stanley during the week of January 7, was received with great favor and played to capacity house at each performance. Mary Garden, who appeared as the star, displayed her fine artistic interpretation of the role with which she has been associated in the world of opera.

Elsie Ferguson in "The Rose of the World," a newly released Artcraft feature, which made its debut at the Arcadia, has made new records for herself and increased her popularity many times as a result of her latest production.

"The Whip," seen here several years ago in the spoken drama, was given a screen showing at the Victoria, Monday, January 7. It rarely happens that a photoplay is better than the real production, but this offering proved the exception.

Aluminum Company Builds Perfect Theater

Badin, the Big Over-Night Aluminum City, Is to Have a Splendid Theater—Will Be Built by Company That Owns the Plant There.

By D. M. Bain, Wilmington, N. C.

BADIN, N. C.—The finest theater in the South will be opened early in February in the obscure "village" of Badin, North Carolina, a place which the closest observer has never seen on a map or in a tabulation of population figures. For Badin grew over-night from a flag station of one hundred inhabitants into a thriving commercial city of thirty thousand population when the American Aluminum Works, in quest of suitable water power to run the biggest aluminum plant in the world, found what they wanted there on the banks of the Yadkin River, thirty-four miles from Salisbury, North Carolina, on the Southern Railway.

The entire city is owned by the aluminum people, and they have their own personally conducted municipal government and everything that pertains to the modern city. They have developed the greatest water power there in the world, outside of, possibly, Niagara Falls, and employ the entire city.

When the question of providing amusement for their population came up one of New York's largest theatrical architects was called in, and prepared plans for a Strand theater which will compare favorably with any theater of that or any other name in the United States. When he presented an estimate of the cost as around one hundred thousand dollars, officials of the company did not hesitate to O. K. the plans, and work has since been progressing to the end that Badin's inhabitants early in February will possess a genuine novelty which will amaze the metropolitan dweller who chances to pass that way.

There is every adjunct of the biggest city theaters, including commodious ladies' and gentlemen's parlors, smoking rooms, etc., and the building will seat around twenty-five hundred people. Pictures will be the main attraction, and it is announced that prices as high as fifty cents will be charged for admission. By the way, an orchestra of twenty solo musicians will interpret the musical scores in this theater, and it is said that a second "Roxy" Rothapfel will manage it.

The theater at present operating at Badin, a small wooden structure, is in itself a novelty, being a combined theater, lodge room, and church. Three nights have been given over to picture shows, one night for lodge meetings, one for the Ladies' Aid Society, one night for prayer meetings, and on Sundays the theater is used as a church.

Theater Will House Congregation.

Fayetteville, N. C.—While the First Presbyterian Church here is closed for installation of a new heating plant, Sunday services for the congregation of that church are being held each week at the Strand theater, Manager H. T. Drake having donated the use of the theater for this purpose. The conduct of church services in Mr. Drake's theater is somewhat of a novelty, and speaks in the highest terms of the manner in which the theater is conducted. The Strand is enjoying phenomenal business.

Exhibitor's Lobby Bank Doing Business.

Raleigh, N. C.—The New City Bank has opened for business, this being the "freak" bank built into the lobby of the Superba theater here, mention of which was made some time ago in the World. Mr. R. G. Allen, owner of the Superba, is president of the minature banking establishment, which is of the "all-night" dime savings variety, and the novelty is acting as a big advertisement for the theater, and is doing big business. The president's office and vaults are located in the basement owing to the fact that the main floor only occupies about five feet square.

"Draft 258" Drawing Record Houses.

Wilmington, N. C.—"Draft 258," Metro's great patriotic propaganda picture, is playing at the Grand theater here this week to the biggest business in the history of that theater. Members of the local draft exemption board have petitioned the management of the theater to return the picture for another showing at an early date on account of the valuable work it is doing to stimulate recruiting and lessening opposition to the draft.

Wallace Walthall Traveling for Universal

Charlotte, N. C.—Wallace Walthall, a brother of the noted screen star, Henry B. Walthall, formerly connected with Atlanta Kleine branch, has accepted a road position with the local Universal exchange to cover the Virginia territory, and is making his initial trip this week. The local Universal exchange is putting in an up-to-date system for handling their productions under the new open booking policy, and, as Mr. Walthall has had varied experience in this line, he is proving of invaluable aid to Mr. Darine in getting the office end systematized.

Maritime Provinces Letter

From Alice Fairweather.

Delays in Film Delivery Cause Much Loss.

ST JOHN, N. B.—The exchanges and exhibitors in this part of the world have been suffering very severely from transportation difficulties due to the coal shortage, the severe cold, and the recent storms. It has been impossible for the exchanges to ship regularly, and in several instances this has caused great inconvenience. Many of the specials are booked up so closely that allowance is not made for delays, and it is a great loss to a manager when he has spent a large amount of money on advertising to have to substitute some other picture for the one expected. The exchange managers do all they can, but it is a condition of affairs which only time will remedy.

Superfeatures Film Opens Exchange.

St. John, N. B.—Another new exchange has opened in the city, that of the Superfeatures Film Company, with E. A. Brown as manager. The company has taken over the former offices of the Globe Film Co. (which has merged with the Regal), and are ready for business, having already booked "The Whip" at the Lyric theater for a week beginning January 21. They expect to screen some of their big productions here soon, including "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," "The Barrier," and others. Mr. Brown was formerly with the L. J. Selznick as his representative for New Jersey.

Rise in Prices at St. John Opera House.

St. John, N. B.—Beginning on January 8, the St. John opera house has decided to raise its prices for the program of vaudeville with one serial. This program has been most popular, and large crowds attend, but owing to the increased cost the management has raised the price. The highest admission used to be twenty-five cents, and this is now raised to thirty, with the other prices in proportion.

Personal and Business Notes.

F. G. Spencer is leaving St. John within a week to spend the winter in California.

The Lyric theater, St. John, shows the Universal Special, "Come Through," for the first three days of this week, with "Parentage" the last three days. They did very well on the "Fall of the Romanoffs" considering the frightful cold weather which prevailed and the blizzard of last Thursday, January 4.

A. B. Farmer, St. John, who has been ill, is able to be out again, and his friends are all pleased to see him.

Crandall Tells of New Theater's Details

Metropolitan Theater Will Seat 2,200—Has Novel Balcony Arrangement—Special Features of the Building—Other Details.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A formal announcement has just been made by Harry M. Crandall of the purchase by himself with his associates, Harry Bulkley and R. W. Bulkley, of all interests in Crandall's Metropolitan theater, now in the course of construction at Tenth and F streets, Northwest, and there follows a further announcement that the house will be completed and opened to Washington's moving picture fans about the second week in February.

The theater will occupy approximately 10,000 square feet of land. It will have its entrance on F street. The lobby will extend back about thirty feet to a rotunda promenade leading directly to the auditorium proper.

A Novel Balcony Idea.

The auditorium, running at right angles to the promenade, occupies the remaining section of floor space to Tenth street. The lay-out adopted gives an immense area on the first floor, making possible the installation of 1,200 seats on the orchestra level alone. Extending over half of this space is hung the cantilever balcony and mezzanine. Private boxes and loge seats will occupy the entire mezzanine. The arrangement of the balcony is novel in that it consists of a series of rises reached by a system of ornamental fireproof tunnels or promenades. This is declared by the management to be utilizing such a type of balcony approaches for the first time in theater construction in the United States.

The mezzanine floor will have a seating capacity of more than 300, while approximately 700 more patrons will be able to secure accommodations in the balcony, the entire theater being equipped with 2,200, making the Metropolitan the largest house in the city.

Some of Theater's Special Features.

On each floor of the theater will be a broad spacious promenade, handsomely appointed and lavishly furnished. A novel innovation in Washington's theater activities will be the establishment proposed of a nursery, for the management states that for the convenience of ladies attending the matinee performances the Metropolitan theater will maintain a large and roomy nursery playroom, with toys and other amusements for the little folks that will occupy the time while the mothers enjoy the performance in the auditorium. These plans contemplate the employment of an experienced and registered kindergarten and playground official to be in charge of this playroom.

Three semi-eliptical stages will be placed at the southwestern end of the building, and the screen will be visible from every section of the theater. A very large orchestra will occupy a sunken Italian garden just in front of the stage and separated from the orchestra floor by a long, low marble balustrade.

Lighting and ventilation plans will be most modern in every particular. The house will be equipped with a very elaborate set of dimmers, making all sorts of electrical displays possible. The seats on the first floor and balcony will be equipped with a newly patented hooded light, and the steps leading to the balcony tunnels and promenades will be of lumunious construction. These seats are of the heavy ballbearing type. Hangings and draperies will be in harmony with the general color scheme of the interior of the theater.

How the House Will Look.

The theater is of fireproof construction throughout, and the general lines and architectural plan are of the Adam period. The front of the house on F street is of Pompeian art brick, with Tennessee limestone trimmings. The foyer and rotunda promenade are of highly polished grey-veined Vermont marble finished with carved ornamental New Hampshire granite. The interior will be in rich tones of old rose and mediaeval ivory heightened with gold. Over the front of the F street entrance will be the executive offices of the Crandall Theater Company.

The Metropolitan was designed by Reginald W. Geare, who also designed the Knickerbocker theater, which was opened last fall by this same group of men. Frank L. Wagner, the builder, erected both houses.

The plans for the opening of the house have not yet been completed, and an announcement of these will be made at a future date.

Cincinnati News Letter

By Kenneth C. Crain, 307 First National Bank, Cincinnati)

L. W. Greenstein Honored by Associates.

CINCINNATI, O.—One of the most enjoable get-together meetings of moving picture people which has taken place in Cincinnati in a long time was the farewell dinner tendered recently to L. W. Greenstein, manager of the Standard office in Cincinnati, on the occasion of his departure to take up his duties in the Quartermaster's Department, in which he has enlisted.

The affair was held at the Cuvier Press Club, widely known as a meeting place for newspaper men and others of the Bohemian sort in Cincinnati, and H. Serkowich, secretary of the exhibitors and the exchange men, presided as toastmaster in graceful style. Over forty exhibitors and exchange men were present to give Mr. Greenstein a good send-off, and such funmakers as "Luke McLuke," or J. S. Hastings, the famous column-writer of the Cincinnati Enquirer; Gus Muller, of Selznick, Inc., and others, were there in their best vein. The dinner and what came after lasted until a late hour, and Mr. Greenstein carried away with him to army life a bright picture of his business associates in Cincinnati. Mr. Wilson is now in charge of the Standard offices in Cincinnati.

Schools May Have Picture Shows.

Cincinnati, O.—A legal opinion rendered by the city attorney of Cincinnati for the local school board indicates that local exhibitors are to have some keen competition in the coming months. The lawyers of the city administration were asked whether it was proper and legal for the schools to have regular moving picture exhibitions, and the reply was that there was no reason why this should not be done, provided proper safeguards against fire, complying with the regulations applying to theaters, were provided. Booths will have to be installed, as required for the ordinary moving picture house; but if only educational pictures are shown and no admission is charged it is held that no license can be required and that no tax will have to be paid. The Social Center Council of Cincinnati, which is behind the move, contemplates holding exhibitions of educational pictures in the various school building regularly.

Miami Exhibitors and Footage War Tax

Are Wondering Why Some Exchanges Can Afford to Pass Up the Fifteen-Cent Tax While Others Must Exact It—Some Local Examples.

By P. G. G., Dayton Correspondent of Moving Picture World.

DAYTON, O.—There has been a general howl through the Miami Valley over the handling of the reel tax by the Cincinnati exchanges. Actual observations show that the different exchanges are handling the matter in a seemingly strange way. All of the Dayton exhibitors, members of the league here, refused to pay the fifteen cents war tax, and quite a few of them had contracts cancelled because of this action. This caused a rush for many of the companies who did not impose the tax. At least one of the companies who had no first run account in Dayton made no attempt to play Dayton strong for business, the salesman saying that he would wait till the excitement died down to push business and then go after it with a vengeance.

If Some Exchanges Can Pass Tax, Why Can't All?

Being in close touch with the most prominent exhibitors of the Miami Valley, I know that there is a great difference in the way the several exchanges do business. In one instance an exhibitor had his service canceled through a refusal to pay the tax, and the theater in question did not use this particular service for six weeks. A few days ago a representative of the exchange called on this manager and asked him to renew his contract. This the exhibitor refused to do. The salesman said it was necessary for his company to collect the tax, and the exhibitor in no mild tones informed the salesman that he could get any amount of film on which the tax was not charged. After an hour's argument and a compromise arrangement the exhibitor renewed the contract. The new contract provided that the war tax should be paid by the theater, but the rental price was made one dollar cheaper on each five reels of film. Therefore, after having paid the tax on five reels of film, this manager was exactly twenty-five cents to the good.

There are other managers who were approached by this salesman with a proposition that would make it good business for the theater to pay the war tax—if the price of the service was cheapened. If this system were established exhibitors could well afford to pay the war tax, but, strange to say, not all of the companies come forth with this offer.

To "The Chronicler" of Dayton Daily News.

The first article in the Moving Picture section of the Dayton News of last Sunday carried quite a bit of praise for the Moving Picture World, which shows that the Dayton department is appreciated by other than exhibitors and my friend, the "Chronicler," Dramatic Editor of the "News," is surely one of these and I take this chance to thank him for "Them Kind Remarks." He states that the Moving Picture World, through its local correspondent, is helping to spread the screen name of Dayton abroad as well as in Canada and South America. This is one of the most prominent testimonials the writer has received and it comes from Dayton's first paper, The Dayton Daily News, owned by Governor James M. Cox.

Gossipy Bits Caught Here and There in Dayton.

We hereby warn the fellow who shuffles from the bottom at the League rooms that his movements are being watched and that if this is not ended startling revelations are promised within the next week. A word to the wise is sufficent.

Theodore Chifos comes out with the announcement that he thinks the "World" the best trade paper today—we know it, Teddy.

Fred Gunning, who has not been seen around these parts for some time, stopped off at Chillicothe, Ohio, a few days last week for a chat with Martin G. Chandler. Fred is on his way to the Coast and hopes to be in San Francisco soon. While at the Hartmann theater, Columbus, Ohio, with Martin G. Chandler, watching the legitimate production, "Ben Hur," Fred recognized Bob Frazier, one of the cast, who was formerly with the Eclair when Fred managed the old Eclair Bulletin. The meeting was indeed a happy one for these two who had not seen each other for years.

After seeing "The Rose of Blood" at the Apollo we can see no reason for Major Funkhouser's terrible remarks.

Theodore Chifos is using clever teaser ads for Mary Garden in "Thais."

Dayton is still waiting to see "Parentage," Hobart Henley's great production.

The Ideal continues with the Metro program and I have failed to see a poor house there for the last two weeks.

Among those whose registration numbers in the selective draft are getting closer every day, we might mention John Lyons at the Orpheum, George Oxrider at the Peoples, Gus Kinsler with Kleine System, and Robert Hirsch at the Old Glory theater in South Park.

As R. H. Haines, who was formerly manager of the Mutual exchange at Cincinnati, is now with the U. S. Exhibitors Booking Corporation, it is rumored that our old friend, Harry Shaw, is to be made manager of the Mutual branch in Cincinnati. We sincerely hope this is so, for Harry deserves it and a better man could not be picked.

Al. Kinsler left here a few days last week on a trip to Cincinnati.

A Wedding in Film Circles.

Cincinnati, O.—A wedding of more than ordinary interest in moving picture circles was that of Miss Sylvia Frankel, daughter of I. Frankel, well known as an exhibitor, and Moses Wilchins, a New York exhibitor. The ceremony was solemnized in the parlors of the Hotel Sinton, which is highly popular for exclusive social events, and a number of out-of-town guests attended the wedding and the subsequent festivities, following which Mr. and Mrs. Wilchins left for a Florida honeymoon.

Star Theater Begins Three a Week.

Cincinnati, O.—The success of the policy adopted several months ago at the Star by Manager Tom Corby, of showing features under a ten-cent charge, instead of a small program for five cents, has been pronounced, the excellent location of the theater on Fountain Square being much in its favor. Manager Corby has just placed in effect another change, however, putting on three programs a week instead of two, the regular clientele of the house demanding a more frequent change.

I. Libson Finds Return Films Profitable.

Cincinnati, O.—Manager I. Libson has found it very much worth while to feature return engagements of popular stars in films which did well on their initial runs. He tried this out with some return engagements of films featuring Marguerite Clarke, and this proved so successful at the Strand, that he is now planning to bring back several films in which Clara Kimball Young, another popular star, appears. A Select release featuring the latter star, "Shirley Kaye," ran recently at the Family, and was brought back for another run a short time ago, with equal success.

Fuel Problem Not Pressing Near Forests

Wood Can Be Had in Lockport, N. Y., at $3 a Cord—Adirondack Theaters Also Fortunate—Little Coal Now in Buffalo.

By Joseph McGuire, 152 N. Elmwood Str eet, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—As a rule Buffalo exhibitors are closely observing the new instructions about six lightless nights, ordered by the fuel administrator. In front of a few of the smaller houses, however, the lights "blazed in all their glory" until the owners were notified that they were disobeying the law.

If the exhibitors of Lockport, N. Y., run out of coal they can buy wood from the city at $3 a cord. If necessary, wood will also be provided for the theaters in the Adirondacks region, where state rangers will supply cord wood stumpage at a reasonable rate.

The shortage of coal in Dunkirk, Niagara Falls and other points in this territory is acute. In Buffalo and other places exhibitors may have to follow the popular home plan of using oil stoves to heat their theaters.

Buffalo Finds Itself Growing Fast.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Despite vexing problems, such as the war tax, coal shortage, etc., Buffalo exhibitors see in this city's remarkable growth a ray of hope "that good times are coming." A few years ago the exhibitors were patiently waiting for this city's population to go over the 400,000 mark. They knew that the steady influx of thousands of new citizens here on account of Buffalo's industrial growth meant a corresponding number of new moving picture patrons. According to the latest official estimates, Buffalo's population has now reached 531,609. One optimist in the local film business therefore says he sees written across the sky of 1918 the word prosperity in large letters.

Local 233 Elects Officers.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The following officers have been elected by the Moving Picture Machine Operators' local, 233, of Buffalo: President, Henry de Verneuil; vice-president, Walter Matchette; recording secretary, Clarence Snyder; financial secretary, Michael Diller; treasurer, M. Ostrowsky; business representative, De Witt Martin.

Flower Theater Damaged By Fire.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Fire in the Flower moving picture theater at 842 Broadway, Buffalo, at an early hour recently did $1,500 damage, which was covered by insurance. A citizen passing saw smoke coming out of the side entrance and turned in the alarm.

New York State's Bit Shown in Film.

Buffalo, N. Y.—City Clerk Sweeney, of Buffalo, has been informed by the state defense council at Albany that a moving picture, produced under state auspices and showing wartime activities, will be shown here shortly. The Vitagraph Co. is producing the play without any expense to the state. Robert W. Chambers wrote the scenario voluntarily as one of his contributions to the war. The picture will show what the State of New York is doing to carry out its part in the successful prosecution of the war.

Pickpockets Have Been at Work.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Pickpockets have been operating lately in some of Buffalo's downtown theaters. One patron who was unfortunate enough to have $50 in his pocket at the time, was releaved of that amount.

Watch for Spurious Nickels.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Exhibitors have been warned to be on the lookout for counterfeit "Buffalo nickels," which are being circulated here. Many of these spurious coins are also being passed in Rochester, according to John A. Adams, in charge of the Buffalo office of the U. S. secret service. Concerning the issue recently by the treasury of a new twenty-five cent piece, Mr. Adams announces that the fact that some coins have larger stars on their reverse sides than others is not an indication of their being counterfeit. Some of the exhibitors have made inquiries on this subject.

Notes from Binghamton, N.Y.

By L. D. Brown, Sharp Block, Binghamton, N. Y.

Propose Union Picture Shows to Save Coal.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—On account of the shortage of coal the picture theaters are planing to combine and hold union shows. One house may be selected in the center of the city.

Operator Edward Davis Weds.

Edward Davis, business agent of the Moving Picture Operators' Union, of Binghamton, also operator in the Grand theater, was married on New Year's Day, and is receiving the congratulations of his friends.

Fred Gladde, He's Glad, Too.

Fred Gladde, of this city, operator at the Laurel theater, also is a benedict, as he was married on the 25th day of November. Miss Ethel Heathermann was the bride. Say, Mr. Gladde and Mr. Davis, the boys naturally expected the cigars at the union meeting January 6 (Sunday).

It Has Been Mighty Cold in Binghamton.

The movies have fallen off in the past week due to the cold weather. The attendance was good till the below zero weather. The war tax has made little difference in this territory.

The new Temple theater on Water street is reported to be doing a nice business. The place has been renovated and every thing made new.

Cleveland Screen Club Turns a New Leaf

Hasn't Been Run on the Right Plan—Special Meeting Called to Reorganize on Basis Better Suited to Local Requirements.

From M. A. Malaney, 218 Columbia Building, Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The end of the Cleveland Screen Club is in sight—that is, as far as its present officers, rules and by-laws are concerned. But——

A new club is to spring up from the remnants of the old organization which will be conducted along new lines and with new officers.

A notice sent out by Secretary S. A. Gerson says that a special meeting will be held shortly for this purpose. The officers all will resign and a committee will be appointed to draft new rules of organization and to fix up a slate of officers who will give their pledge to work unceasingly for the new club.

The reason for the club's disintregation is laid to many causes. First of all, it had fitted out club rooms which were seldom used. Yet this was a monthly expense which drained the treasury and naturally was a constant call for money upon the members the interest lagged.

The rooms were finally given up and new officers elected, but two of these officers evidently thought their jobs were a myth, for the records were not kept nor were other of their duties performed. President E. N. Downs then called for their resignations, which were immediately forthcoming. After that many efforts were made to keep the club alive, but they failed.

Now the officers think that a complete cleaning-out and a reorganization will result in a new club. Dues are to be lower and membership of exchange and theater employees other than managers will be sought.

Censor Report Shows Broader Ideas.

Columbus, O.—Wholesale eliminations in film plays by the Ohio Board of Censors is a thing of the past. At least the censor's reports for the last few weeks indicate this. Eliminations used to run from 25 to 60 per week, but the reports of December are very different. For instance, for the week ending December 22 the censors looked at 128 reels and made eliminations in only 8. The preceding week, ending December 15, showed that out of 168 reels viewed eliminations were made in but 19.

There seems to be much co-operation with film companies and distributors during the last few months. Members of the board, realizing that the producers can do much to prevent mutilating of their pictures by censoring, have written producers in a spirit of co-operation.

The new member of the board, Maurice Hague, did not take long to get the details of the job. Mr. Hague is a retired artist and looks at the pictures from a common sense viewpoint, as do the other members. He would rather look at a picture twice than mutilate it.

The censors continue to cut the comedies. For instance, their reports show that dancing and wiggling girls and men are still taboo, while scenes showing a girl in a man's lap also are taboo.

New Exhibitors' Circuit Franchises.

Cleveland, O.—The First National Exhibitors' Circuit of Ohio, through its headquarters in the Sloan building, Cleveland, has issued an announcement giving the names of several of the more important towns of the state which have been franchised. These are as follows:

Cincinnati—I. Lisbon and John B. Harris, of the Family and Walnut theaters. Youngstown—Fred Ullman and Max Schragin, of the Strand theater. Sandusky—George Schade, of Schade's theater Marion—G. H. Faster, of the Marion theater. Bucyrus—G. H. Foster, of the Southern theater. Fremont—Frank Yegeres, of the Opera House. Tiffin—Stoffer & Sennett, of the Opera House. Alliance—Louis G. Mantho, New American theater.

The First National also states that within a week or so it will have other important cities franchised, including Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Akron and Dayton.

D. L. Martin Booking "The Warrior."

Cleveland, O.—D. L. Martin has arrived in Cleveland from New York and is booking "The Warrior." His present headquarters is at 404 Sincere building.

Watching for Tax Evading Theaters.

Cleveland, O.—That the Government is going after the exhibitor slackers is indicated by the action of Internal Revenue Collector Weiss of the Cleveland district, in receiving applications for position as theater tax inspectors.

Mr. Wertz stated that he had received word of some exhibitors who were making efforts to evade the tax and he pointed out that the law provides a penalty of $1,000 or imprisonment for such offenses.

The inspectors will make their reports direct to the district attorney.

Toronto's Three Downtown Exclusive Picture Houses.

Toronto, Ont.—In the Moving Picture World of December 29, page 1952, a description of the new Allen theater, of Toronto, was published. The heading for this article was rather ambiguous, and reflected somewhat upon the status of the several other fine downtown moving picture theaters of the city. The statement in question was a declaration that the new Allen was the "First of the large downtown houses to be devoted exclusively to pictures." This would have been more to the point if the words "built exclusively for pictures" had been used.

Both the Regent and Strand theaters, Toronto, as well as the Allen, are exclusively moving picture theaters, but the Allen is the first large house to be constructed from the excavations to roof for the purpose of picture projection. The Strand was originally a vaudeville theater, while the Regent was formerly a theater of the spoken drama and vaudeville until it was reconstructed in the summer of 1915 for film purposes. The seating arrangement, interior decoration, and street front were entirely changed at that time. It happens that both the Regent and Strand are larger than the Allen by several hundred seats each, while the policies of the three are quite different.

The above explanation is due all three theaters, which constitute the leading downtown moving picture theaters of Toronto.

John Smythe Managing Rialto.

Montreal, Que.—As a result of the absorption of Griffin Pictures by Superfeatures, John Smythe, former Montreal manager for the Griffin interests, has become manager of the Rialto theater, Montreal, for George Gladianos.

Globe Films to Be Holding Company.

Toronto, Ont.—Announcement is made that Globe Films, Limited, whose film renting business has been acquired by Regal Films, Limited, will not pass entirely out of existence. The Globe company will continue to act as a purchasing and holding company, but all releases will be handled through the Regal across Canada.

Two New Regal Salesmen.

Toronto, Ont.—Sammy Glazer, formerly traveller of the Globe, is now on the road for the Regal. Harry Kauffman of Montreal, formerly branch manager there of the Globe and brother of Phil Kauffman, new general sales manager of the Regal, has also entered the employ of the Regal. He is slated to go to the Winnipeg office of the company.

Charles Berman to Go in For Himself.

Toronto, Ont.—Charles Berman, formerly distributor of World subjects in the Dominion, has resigned from the Regal. Berman joined the Regal when the latter company took over the World franchise for Canada. Berman plans to go into the exchange business on his own account once more, with headquarters in Montreal probably.

Another Loew Theater in Toronto.

Toronto, Ont.—Announcement has been made in Toronto building circles that the Marcus Loew Syndicate will erect another theater in Toronto this year. The site for the new building is reported to be near the important uptown intersection of Bloor and Yonge streets. Loew now has a two-in-one theater in Toronto, consisting of a large ground-floor auditorium topped by a large roof garden. Architect Lamb of New York now has the plans in hand for the second local structure, which is to cost $200,000.

Says 800-Seat House Should Net $6,000

Bud Lennon, Assistant General Manager of the Canadian Universal, Testifies That Medium Sized Community Theater Should Net Over $6,000 a Year.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard St., E., Toronto, Ontario.

TORONTO, ONT.—The Teck Amusement Company, Toronto, is the applicant for damages in a case before the Arbitration Board because the building of a subway to facilitate the entrance of a railway into Toronto necessitated the shortening of a moving picture theater on Yonge street which it controls. An insight into film theater conditions was given by Mr. Bud Lennon, assistant general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, at the hearing of this case before the Board. Mr. Lennon, who was called as an expert, testified that the bottom fell out of the theater business in the fall of 1914 but that conditions had been better during 1917, generally, than ever before. The theaters would probably continue to be prosperous, he believed. From his own experience in the management of an 800-seat community theater, a clear profit of between $6,000 and $7,000 a year could be made with a house of fair size. The applicants wanted damages because the seating capacity of the theater in question had been materially reduced on account of the subway encroachment.

Rita Jolivet and Gail Kane at Loew Opening.

Hamilton, Ont.—Two film stars, Rita Jolivet and Gail Kane, graced the opening of the new Loew theater in Hamilton, Ontario, on New Year's Eve, in addition to Kitty Gordon, whose presence was widely advertised. The permanent manager of the new palace in Hamilton has been named as Mr. N. T. Granlund.

M. Maker Opens New Theater.

Napanee, Ont.—M. Maker has opened a brand new moving picture theater in Napanee, Ontario. The house is described as one of the most up-to-date and completely finished theaters in any small town in Canada.

Theater for Soldier-Settlers.

Kapuskasing, Ont. — The war has brought several novel features to the moving picture theater business in Canada. One of the innovations has been the establishment of a chain of theaters across the country by the Military Hospitals Commission for the exclusive use of returned convalescent soldiers. The very latest development, however, has been the establishment of a moving picture theater at Kapuskasing, in the far North section of Ontario, where it is so cold now that thermometers are of no use in showing the temperature. The North Country is a rich agricultural district and a colony of returned soldiers has been placed there. Amusements have been lacking, however, and with the aid of various donations the Government has been erecting a moving picture theater for the soldier-settlers. A unique point is that the Government has undertaken to supply the film service from its own exchange, which is officially known as the Moving Picture Distribution Bureau. The Ontario Government has secured hundreds of reels of pictures dealing with a wide variety of subjects, but mainly of direct interest to farmers and rural residents, and is going into the moving picture business extensively.

Madam Melba Sees Garden in "Thais."

Toronto, Ont.—Goldwyn's "Thais" was the talk of Toronto during the week that it was played at the Regent theater. Manager Mitchell declared that it was the biggest week in every respect that he had experienced since assuming charge of the house. One of the unusual incidents of the week was the attendance of a party from the Government House on the afternoon of Thursday, January 3. One lady in this party was Madame Melba, the great singer, who expressed a desire to see Mary Garden on the screen. Melba had been spending the holidays with Sir John and Lady Hendrie at the official residence. Lady Hendrie introduced Melba to Manager Mitchell by her real name, which also happens to be Mitchell. The manager went one better by declaring that his second name is Griffith.

An elaborate stage setting was used at the Regent for the presentation of "Thais," and the method employed to obtain atmosphere for the story was novel. Mr. Garton, first violinist of the Regent's fifteen-piece orchestra, made his appearance in this layout which consisted of a monastery scene. Garbed as a Franciscan monk, he played the "Meditation from Thais," and as the closing bars were reached the lights faded down and the picture was on.

"Birth of a Nation" Makes New Record.

Toronto, Ont.—A record for theatrical productions of any kind in Toronto has been established by the Griffith masterpiece, "The Birth of a Nation," which is controlled in Canada by William J. Cranston of Toronto. This picture has played six engagements in the Ontario Capital as a road show with twenty-four piece orchestra and special effects. Its final engagement closed at Massey Hall on Saturday night, January 5, after a two weeks' run, during which the large auditorium was crowded two and sometimes three times a day. The number of performances in Toronto alone totals one hundred and forty-four. In view of the success of the recent run, Cranston plans to stage it still once more here after it has played a circuit in Ontario and Quebec. Two prints of the picture have been working continuously in Canada for the several years and Cranston declares that more people in the Dominion have seen this feature than have viewed any other presentation, either film or speaking.

R. S. Marvin Now in New York.

Toronto, Ont.—R. S. Marvin, formerly manager of the Strand theater, Toronto, and later producer of the Canadian Topical Review, has returned permanently to New York, where he is engaged in a new enterprise.

Archie Laurie Also An Artist.

Montreal, Ont.—Archie Laurie, who has succeeded Morris Kashin as manager of the Midway theater, Montreal, is rapidly earning fame as a lobby dresser of merit—thus truly becoming a successor to Kashin, who is now exploiting the Kashin Lobby Displays in the United States.

Two Benefit Performances at the Russell

Ottawa, Ont.—Two benefit performances of Fox's "Jack and the Beanstalk" were staged at the Russell theater, Ottawa, during the week's run of the feature at that house starting December 31. One was a special matinee for children of various charitable institutions and the second was for the wives and children of soldiers now overseas.

H. Jennings Managing Theater in Ottawa

Ottawa—Herb Jennings, formerly manager of the Mary Pickford theater, Toronto, left for Ottawa on December 26 to assume the management of the Flower theater which was recently sold by F. Carling to the interests associated with the Regent, Toronto, the St. Denis, Montreal, and other houses. Jennings has also had theaters in Jamestown, N. Y., and Los Angeles.

Nashville Public Demands Sunday Pictures

Since Local Theaters Ran Sabbath Shows for Charity Sentiment Among People for Seven-Day Pictures Has Shown Marked Increase.

By J. L. Ray, Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—Since moving picture shows ran for charity on Christmas Eve the agitation has been steadily increasing on the part of the general public toward making Sunday pictures a permanent feature in Nashville. Although theater men have steadfastly maintained that it was not their purpose to creat a favorable sentiment toward Sunday shows by running on that day, the insistent demand and growing realization that Sunday pictures offer such a splendid form of diversion for the Sabbath, coupled with the fact that the shows would not interfere in any way with church services, has tended to interest city officials, moving picture managers and newspaper men alike.

In regard to the Sunday moving picture situation the Commercial Daily writes a lengthy editorial, which is given in part: "A scant ten per cent. of the residents of Nashville attend church on Sunday morning. This condition has been the case for two decades and is not improving. To obviate the necessity of having so many houses of worship open, union services are held to offset the small attendance. We do not favor the opening of the moving picture houses or any other place at such times as would offer an excuse or counter attraction to church attendance. The one question for us to discuss is the manner of spending four or five hours on Sunday afternoon that neither the church or society has provided for. The right of any government, national or local, to appropriate the time of an individual on Sunday, except in army service, is purely negative. . . . There are still some intellects so dwarfed that they cannot see the difference in reading a story in a Sunday paper and seeing that same story portrayed on the screen the same day.

"In recent years when the temperance people and woman suffrage enthusiasts wished to gather a crowd on the Sabbath they were wise enough not to use the churches, but to engage local theaters where people seemed to feel more at home and appeared more willing to go. If those using these same places were wise they advertised "illustrated talks" or "stereopticon slides" and got by, much to the delight and with the hearty applause of those who are shocked to the center of their nervous center when one mentions the opening of these places of amusement as a solution to the Sunday afternoon hours of idleness.

"We do not think it was Shakespeare, but some other wiseacre that gave vent to the thought of an idle brain being the Devil's workshop. He may have been rich in experience or a close observer. Anyway he hit it. We would be glad if the moving pictures of Nashville would open one month, and let the police blotter settle the controversy."

Typhoon Cooling Man Visits.

Nashville, Tenn.—Paul E. Elder, superintendent of the Typhoon Cooling System, Chattanooga, was in the city last week looking over the local houses. He is figuring with the Crystal for the installation of some typhoon fans.

Sudekum's Big War Tax Check.

Nashville, Tenn.—The United States Government will shortly receive a check from the Crescent Amusement Company of this city for the sum of approximately $4,800, as war tax for November from the five moving pictures houses of the company, the Fifth Avenue, Rex, Crescent, Elite and Alhambra, and from the other houses owned by the company outside this city.

Figured on this basis, the Crescent Amusement Company's contribution to the war on the admission tax alone will approximate $57,000 annually, which speaks well for the business of the company.

Nashville Theater Has Fire.

Nashville, Tenn.—Fire broke out in the operating room of the Central, a north Nashville moving picture house, recently and damaged the building considerably. A "pay day night" crowd which packed the theater made a wild scene by scrambling for the exits and several minor injuries were received. The projecting machine was badly damaged, several reels of film burned and the walls and other parts of the building damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars. Only the prompt work of the fire department saved Manager Harry Meuson's theater from complete destruction.

Cutting Down Annual Passes.

Nashville, Tenn.—W. H. Wassman, manager of the Knickerbocker and Crystal theaters, is the latest exponent of lessness in annual passes to his show houses. One Nashville company discontinued the practice of issuing annuals several years ago, and Mr. Wassman's move toward eliminating the paper shortage follows with the general inclination in Nashville to do the same. Newspaper men are furnished with book tickets to be used at their pleasure, but the distribution of passes to everybody at random has been checked considerably within the past few months. All Nashville shows are strict in their observance of the government's rule in charging the customary war tax on passes.

Illinois News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 622 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Blue Sky Law Now Operative in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Moving picture stock may not be sold in Illinois without a license from the secretary of state under the operation of a "Blue Sky Law" which became effective January 1.

The law provides that "no dealer, agent, salesman, individual, corporation, association or company will be permitted to sell, invite offers or inquiries about stocks, bonds, debentures or other securities by personal solicitation, letters, circulars or otherwise without first being licensed."

The act provides a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, or imprisonment for not less than one year, or both fine and imprisonment. All sales or contracts for the sale of any securities made in controvention of the provisions of the act are absolutely void. This, however, does not relieve the person or persons disposing of such securities from criminal liability.

Notes About New Incorporations.

Springfield, Ill.—Certificate of incorporation has been issued to the Cohn-Erber Theater company, of Belleville, its capital stock being $25,000.

The State Lake Theater and Realty company, of Chicago, has increased its capital stock from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Schaefer Bros. Theater company, of Chicago, has increased its capital stock from $6,000 to $600,000.

Illinois Theater Notes.

Tinley Park, Ill.—Funk & Vogt, who recently opened a moving picture show in Saenger hall, were compelled to close it because no coal was available for heating and local coal dealers would not supply coal to heat amusement places.

Pekin, Ill.—Robert Kennedy, of Morton, has purchased the Court theater from G. W. Hill, of Minier, who acquired it but a short time ago from Gilbert Wiley.

Oakford, Ill.—J. D. Casteel has purchased the Star theater.

Weldon, Ill.—Mrs. Minnie Colescott has moved her moving picture theater here to a new location.

Charleston, Ill.—The Lyman H. Howe motion pictures were shown as a number of a lecture course at the Illinois State Normal school.

Among Michigan Exhibitors.

Houghton, Mich.—James C. Flynn, of Laurium, formerly connected with the Lyman H. Howe as orchestra leader, has taken over the lease on the Lyric theater from Bourbonnias Bros.

Charlotte, Mich.—Horton Davis, who took over the management of the old American theater, has changed the name to the Garden theater.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—The Soo Amusement company, whose opera house was destroyed by fire, plans to erect a new structure seating 1,500 near the old location.

Calumet, Mich.—James Cruse and Louis King have sold the Royal theater on Sixth street to William Madigan, of Calumet.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compete with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Detroit News Letter

By Jacob Smith, 718 Free Press Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

Colonial Reopens with W. L. Kal in Charge.

DETROIT, MICH.—The Colonial theater, Detroit, Woodward and Sibley Sts., has reopened this time with an exclusive picture policy. Frank Farrington is the new lessee, and he is a theater builder of national repute. He has appointed W. L. Kal as house manager. The policy of the Colonial is big features only, showing from 1 to 11 p. m., prices 10 and 15 cents. The house seats nearly 1,700, and is a beautiful new theater.

Several Exchanges Warned by Fire Marshal.

Detroit, Mich.—The State Fire Marshal's department has notified a number of Detroit exchange managers that they must look for new quarters not later than the first of February, inasmuch as their present quarters are not up to the state law governing "inflammable liquids."

Battle Creek Theaters Increase Capital.

Battle Creek, Mich.—The Rex Theater Co., Battle Creek, has increased its capital stock to $10,000. The Flint Palace Theater Co., Flint, has increased its capital stock to $300,000. The Battle Creek Strand theater has increased its capital stock to $35,000.

Casino Feature Exchange Moves.

Detroit, Mich.—The Casino Feature Film Co. will move to the fifth floor of 73 Broadway on or about January 10.

Must Follow Lightless Regulation.

Detroit, Mich.—King Perry, the business agent of the Detroit branch of the American Exhibitors' Association, has been calling on no less than a half dozen exhibitors every night, impressing upon them the importance, from a patriotic as well as conservation standpoint, and the necessity of living up to the new government ruling that no lights outside the theater must be burned on Thursday and Sunday nights. Some exhibitors have felt they should have a few lights burning outside, but Mr. Perry, after consulting with the state fuel administrator, has been informed that the ruling means exactly what it says—no lights whatever.

C. G. Kingsley Will Also Manage Jewel.

Detroit, Mich.—C. G. Kingsley, recently appointed Bluebird manager in Detroit, is now given the added responsibility of also looking after Jewel pictures in this territory. Neil is able to do this in a most efficient manner, as he has built around him a splendid organization to handle the detail work inside and do the selling outside. Ira Aronson, former Jewel manager, has been appointed special representative for the Jewel, and for a while will remain in Michigan later going to other parts of the country for Jewel. The change is one that will prove beneficial to Jewel and Bluebird, as well as to Messrs. Kingsley and Aronson.

Phil Gleichman Joins A. E. A.

Detroit, Mich.—Phil Gleichman, general manager of the Broadway-Strand theater, Detroit, has joined the Detroit branch of the A. E. A., putting his "John Hancock" on the dotted line after due consideration.

Nat Lefkowitz Back on the Job.

Detroit, Mich.—Nat Lefkowitz, salesman for the Standard Film Service, Detroit, is out of the hospital after ten days of treatment for appendicitis.

A. S. Hyman Gets Two Live Film Men.

Detroit, Mich.—A. S. Hyman, of the Dawn Masterplay Co., controlling "Redemption," "The Whip," "I Believe," "Wrath of the Gods," "Persuasive Peggy," and "Raffles" for Michigan, and with offices at 501 Owen building, Detroit, announces that on January 15 two of the best known film men in Michigan will be annexed to his sales organization—Arthur Hoganson and Larry Hayes. Mr. Hoganson (who recently became a proud papa) has been booker and house manager for the Rialto theater, Detroit; was formerly booker and house manager of the Majestic gardens in Grand Rapids, and for many months was manager of the Garden theater, Detroit. He has also been with several film companies. Larry Hayes, a successful showman and publicity man, has been assistant manager of the Majestic-Colonial in Jackson, and is very well liked in Michigan.

Jack Loranger Leaves for Coast.

Detroit, Mich.—Jack Loranger, recently with Fox in Detroit, and former local manager of the Paramount office, has gone to California, where he will likely connect with one of the film exchanges. Jack says he is "off" the damp climate of Michigan during the winter months.

State Health Board's Code for Theaters

Wisconsin Issues Instructions on Keeping Amusement Places Clean and Wholesome—Specifies Care of Every Part of the House.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

MADISON, WIS.—The Wisconsin state board of health has issued the following instructions regarding moving picture theaters:

Theaters, moving picture theaters and public halls should be kept clean and free from dust.

The floors, when covered with wood, tile, stone, concrete, linoleum or other washable material, should be mopped or scrubbed with water or swept with moisture, or by some other dustless method, at least once daily, and should be scrubbed with water and soap at least once weekly

Carpets, rugs and other fabric floor coverings should be cleaned at least once daily by means of suction, beating or dustless sweeping.

Curtains and draperies should be cleaned at least once monthly by suction, beating or washing.

Cornices, walls and other dust-holding places should be kept free from dust by washing or moist wiping.

The wood and metal parts of all seats should be kept clean.

Fabric upholstering of seats and railings and other fixed fabrics should be cleaned by suction or other dustless methods, at least once monthly.

It is the duty of the owner, lessee or manager of theaters, motion picture theaters or public halls to display, in a conspicuous place, signs prohibiting spitting.

It is unlawful for any owner, lessee or manager of theaters, motion picture theaters or public halls to allow public drinking cups or public towels. In their place they should furnish individual drinking cups and towels.

No person or persons who have whooping cough, tuberculosis or other infectious disease shall be allowed to enter any theater, motion picture theater or public hall, and it is the duty of the owner, lessee or manager of said theater or public hall to deny them admission.

Retiring rooms and toilets should be kept in a sanitary condition at all times and should be scrubbed at least daily, or oftener if deemed necessary.

Every theater, motion picture theater and public hall shall be ventilated as required by the state building code.

Must File Program Week in Advance.

Green Bay, Wis.—The city council passed a resolution that theaters in the city shall file in the office of the mayor on Thursdays a complete list of the plays, acts and films which will be shown during the week to follow. The list of the films shall carry the name of the producer. The council also has appointed the five members of the board of censors as special policemen.

Ringlings Give Theater to Baraboo.

Baraboo, Wis.—The Al. Ringling theater, which has played a number of big pictures, was presented to the city as a Christmas gift by Ringling Bros. The gift has been accepted by the city council subject to the approval of the taxpayers.

Wisconsin Theater Notes and Changes.

North Kaukaunna, Wis.—Fire originating in the operating room destroyed the Bijou theater, owned by William A. Nugent. The loss was about $6,000, with $3,000 insurance. The fire occurred while a show was in progress, and although the 200 spectators were moderately orderly in their exit one boy was knocked down and slightly injured. The operator jumped from the booth into the auditorium. In addition to being burned about his hands and face he was slightly injured by the fall.

Ontario, Wis.—The Opera House, owned by Mike Cates, was destroyed by fire.

Manawa, Wis.—Fire swept the business district of the village, but by hard work the Gem theater was saved.

Highland, Wis.—Clarence Peters has opened a moving picture show in the city hall.

Clear Lake, Wis.—L. E. Joppa has sold the Rex theater to A. H. Steindorn.

Milkauwee, Wis.—The Strand theater, Fifth and Grand avenue, was closed for several days for extensive remodeling and redecoration. In connection with the beautifying a new policy was announced as follows: "Courtesy to all, polite service, better pictures, more congenial surroundings. In short, everything that will go to make the Strand the leading photoplay theater in the city."

Milwaukee, Wis.—When "Jack and the Beanstalk" was shown at the Butterfly theater the Milwaukee Sentinel conducted an essay contest which was participated in by sixty-six children. A prize of $25 was offered.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Pupils of the Detroit street school, most of whom are of Italian parentage, had a half holiday to see "The Italian Battlefront" at the Whitehouse theater through the co-operation of Columbia Chapter, Loyal League.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compete with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs $4.80 less.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....

Please fill in the name of your Theatre.....
Cut Out and Mail To-day—Now!

Rebuilding Palms Theater at Indianapolis

Edward G. Sourbier Will Enlarge and Beautify Theater Near the Traction Depot—Has a Large Noon-Hour Patronage.

By Indiana Trade News Service, 861 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Plans have just been completed for the enlargement of the Palms theater, 136-138 North Illinois street, one of the few surviving five-cent motion picture houses in the city of Indianapolis. Edward G. Sourbier, treasurer of Marion county, the owner of the Palms, has announced that the new arrangement will increase the seating capacity from 300 to 650. No change will be made in the price of admission.

As a result of an arrangement with the Fermor S. Cannon Company, which will make the improvements, the regular performances at the theater will not be interfered with, as most of the work will be performed at night. The improvements will cost about $10,000, and in addition to them a new $5,000 Wurlitzer unit organ will be installed.

One of the rooms in the building in which the theater is located is used as a baggage room by the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal Company, but this room is to be vacated at once, and will be used in the enlargement of the theater. The built-in screen of the theater will be placed at the end of the building about forty feet back of the present screen, and the seats in the room now used for baggage will be placed diagonally to the position of the other seats, giving an excellent view of the screen from any part of the house.

The wall back of the present screen will be removed, and the interior of the house redecorated and remodeled throughout. The seats to be used are the ones formerly used in the Alhambra theater at Illinois and Washington streets, which was remodeled and redecorated last summer.

The architects have planned a new system of ventilation which will be used in the theater, drawing air into the house from apertures on the roof.

Interesting Comment on Patronage.

Harry Keene, manager of the Palms and Keystone theaters, both owned by Mr. Sourbier, and himself owner of the Bijou theater, 130 East Washington street, says the average weekly patronage at the Palms is about 20,000. He says there are about 1,200 persons, practically all employed in the downtown district, who visit the theater every day during their noon hour. The rest of the patronage, he added, is made up of transients or persons who do not care to sit through long bills.

The Palms is situated just across from the Traction station, the terminal for all electric lines, and the passengers find it an excellent means of killing time while waiting for cars. Through Mr. Sourbier's keen business management the Palms has become widely known as one of the best five-cent theaters in the country.

A. F. Brentlinger Will Manage New Theater in Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Albert F. Brentlinger, known among the motion picture men of the state as "Buck," who was engaged in the theater business in Terre Haute until three or four years ago, is going to be the manager of the handsome new motion picture theater that is now in the course of construction at Wabash avenue and Eighth street.

Mr. Brentlinger embarked in the theater business in this city ten or twelve years ago, and from a small hole in the wall—which he then called a theater—he purchased one theater after another until he owned the very best in the city. About three years ago he built the Orpheum at Fort Wayne, Ind., and soon had the people standing out on the sidewalk waiting to get in to see the show.

About a year ago, Mr. Brentlinger sold the Orpheum to the Bankers' and Merchants' Theaters Company, a company organized to own a chain of well located theaters in exceptional manufacturing towns, and he is now the general manager for this company. Inasmuch as the Terre Haute Theaters Company, which is erecting the new theater, is a subsidiary company he is going to remain here and take charge of the theater at least for a few months. He predicts an excellent business for the new theater.

Government Gets More Than Expected from Theater Tax.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Attaches of the internal revenue collectors office in this city have been busy this week collecting war tax from the theaters in this territory for the month of November.

"Although the limit has been extended on the time for reports from theaters we have received enough to justify the statement that the Government's expectations from this source have been more than realized," said Isaac M. Strouse, collector for this district.

The returns from the Terre Haute theaters, both motion picture and otherwise, Mr. Strouse says, are far beyond expectations. From the 330 theaters in the district he has received some astounding data, which he will give out soon, he says. From one town of not more than 2,500 inhabitants, he said, he got a report from a small motion picture theater that $70 was realized from 1-cent tariff on admissions during the month of November. Many tickets at this house were sold at 5 cents, he said, which means that the attendance was even larger.

Fort Wayne Theaters Contribute $3,000 a Week.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—Motion picture fans and theater patrons of Fort Wayne, although they probably do not realize it, are heavy contributors to Uncle Sam's war fund. The war tax now being collected by local theaters aggregates a grand total of approximately $3,000 a week paid in one, two, three, and five-cent contributions.

One local theater last Sunday took in $167 in war tax, and another large motion picture house collected between $200 and $250 in war taxes during the week. Few of the downtown theaters, it is said, are receiving less than $100 a week in war tax, and several of them report a total of not less than $150. One motion picture theater in the residential district reported an average weekly collection of war tax amounting to $135.

Seat sales at the various theaters have not diminished because of the war tax, according to reports received at the office of the collector of internal revenue for the Fort Wayne district. No complaints have been received of any attempt by Fort Wayne exhibitors to charge greatly increased prices and use the war tax as an excuse for doing so, Collector Thumma said, and none are expected.

Tax Takes Comfort Out of Seat?

Evansville, Ind.—A. J. Merrill, manager of the Princess theater of this city, is somewhat of a humorist, as well as a successful exhibitor.

"I'm afraid I'm losing all of my business," remarked Mr. Merrill to one of his friends the other day.

"Why is that?" questioned the friend who had heard that the exhibitors are having a pretty hard row to hoe just now.

"Well, you see the seats are not as comfortable as they were before the Government put the tax on them," answered Mr. Merrill.

Film Men Dine Newspaper Friends.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Benjamin V. Barton and Charles M. Olson, owners of the Lyric, Isis, and Alhambra theaters, were hosts at a dinner at the Claypool hotel, Wednesday night, January 2, to about thirty of their friends in the newspaper offices and members of their theater staffs. The dinner was enlivened by cabaret acts that continued from beginning to end. Singers, dancers, a juggler, accordian players, and an orchestra were included in the list of entertainment manufacturers.

Henry K. Burton, publicity agent and generalissimo for Messrs. Burton and Olson, was in general charge. In compliment to Mr. Burton, who once resided in Martinsville, Ind., and who recently jumped into the poetic spotlight by composing a touching ballad entitled "The Fire Chief Who Couldn't Find His Axe," was presented with a helmet, axe, and trumpet as a compliment to his ability.

Kansas City News Letter

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City, Mo.

J. L. Shipley Heads Standard Film.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—John L. Shipley has been made manager of the Kansas City office of the Standard Film, to succeed L. D. (Pep.) Balsley, who resigned to accept the position of creative advertising service director with the Union Bank Note company. Mr. Shipley was formerly general representative of the Kansas City Goldwyn office. Previous to this he was advertising manager for the A. H. Blank interests in Des Moines and Omaha. Mr. Shipley went into his new office Jan. 4. Mart E. Williams, a traveler for the company, was temporary manager pending the appointment of Mr. Shipley.

B. A. Lucas Now United Booking Manager.

Kansas City, Mo.—B. A. Lucas has been installed as manager of the Kansas City office of the United States Booking Corporation, sharing the office of the Hoffman interests. Before coming to Kansas City Mr. Lucas was manager of the Chicago Triangle office. He was also with the Triangle company in Omaha and Kansas City, and with Paramount in Chicago. He reports remarkable success with the picture, "The Zeppelin's Last Raid," which recently ran a week with great success at the Twelfth Street theater here. Mr. Lucas also reports first-run contracts in all the big cities in the Western territory.

Bluebirds Selected by School Superintendent.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Kansas City Bluebird office recently landed a contract that was not characterized by costly expenses of a film salesman. This contract is for a year, two days a week, with the Iris theater at Topeka, Kansas. The superintendent of that city arranged with that theater to show good, wholesome, clean pictures on Friday and Saturday for the benefit of the school children of the city. For doing so, he was to make announcement through the schools of the programs on those days of the Iris; and it was he, who, after a study of the different pictures, that selected Bluebirds as the desired pictures.

H. G. Robertson Covering Iowa for Goldwyn.

Kansas City, Mo.—Howard G. Robertson, formerly a traveler out of the Kansas City Goldwyn office and later cashier, has been put on the road again. He will work the state of Iowa, the state where a good portion of the Kansas City Goldwyn office business is located.

F. A. Flader Comes to K. C. Bluebird Exchange.

Kansas City, Mo.—F. A. Flader, recently a salesman out of the New York Bluebird office, has been added to the salesforce of the Kansas City office of that company. He will have the western half of Missouri for his territory. Mr. Flader is the third Bluebird salesman, working with Frank Cass, who has northern Kansas, and William G. Parsons, who has southern Kansas.

O. W. Slater Is Goldwyn Representative.

Kansas City, Mo.—O. W. Slater, formerly bookkeeper and cashier of the World Film office in Kansas City, has been made general representative of the local Goldwyn office to succeed John L. Shipley, who resigned to become manager of the Kansas City office of the Standard Film Corporation.

C. A. Maddux Joins Foursquare.

Kansas City, Mo.—C. A. Maddux, formerly with the Kansas City Feature Film, has been added to the salesforce of the Hoffman Foursquare office here. He was formerly Missouri representative for the local Paramount office. He will work Iowa and Nebraska for the Hoffman interests.

Ed. Lappey Traveling in Oklahoma.

Kansas City, Mo.—Ed Lappey, formerly of the old Mid-West Film Corporation, and later with the Select Pictures Corporation, will work Oklahoma for the Hoffman Foursquare company here. He has already taken charge of his new territory.

Middle West Theater Notes.

Leeds, Ia.—J. F. Durfey has sold his moving picture theater to James Burgenstein of Sioux City.

Malvern, Ia.—A. O. Harney has opened his moving picture show.

Elgin, N. D.—Jacob Balliet has bought the moving picture theater from James J. Stasck.

Dickinson, N. D.—Mr. Nicodeme has bought the moving picture show here.

Clinton, Okla.—Construction will start soon on the new building for the Lyric theater. The building is to be 25-120 and will be modern in every respect.

Houston, Tex.—The Texas moving picture theater suffered a heavy water damage in a recent fire. A. Schulman, proprietor.

Wichita, Kan.—Contract will be let soon for a new theater building at 308-310 East Douglas street. The building will have a frontage of fifty feet, and it is said will be one of the finest theaters in Wichita. J. H. Cooper of Topeka is one of the men interested in the theater.

Omaha, Neb.—The walls are now up for the new Rialto theater, Callaway, Neb. W. H. McCulloch has leased the Star theater from C. W. Wright.

Kansas City Business Notes.

The Kansas City Jewel office announces that prints have been received on the big picture, "The Price of a Good Time." The office also announced that the Twelfth Street theater had booked "The Sirens of the Sea" for the week of Jan. 13.

Phil J. Ryan, Kansas City sales manager of the Standard Film, recently went to New York City to buy new pictures. He returned by way of Chicago, visiting the Standard office there.

D. J. Sullivan, of the St. Louis Mutual office, was a visitor in Kansas City during the last week.

A. Frankel and C. Taft, exhibitors of Des Moines, Iowa, were visitors in Kansas City recently. These men are going to open a new theater there to be called the Rialto, about March 1.

Filmdom Doings in Twin Cities Last Week

J. R. Levy, World Film Manager, Is to Go to New York and E. A. Eschmann Will Succeed Him—New Men Added to Local Sales Staffs—Business Notes.

By John L. Johnston, 719 Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. — Minneapolis pulled through the past week without a change in exchange managers, but the news that next week will see a new manager at the helm of the local World office was brought to the fore by the exchange heralds. J. R. Levy, for over a year (this is a real accomplishment) manager of the local World branch, is to go to New York shortly, we are informed, to take up work in the directing offices of the organization. His successor is to be E. A. Eschmann, former World manager at Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Levy has not stated just what his New York duties will be, but judging from the success he has made while in Minneapolis the jolly bachelor president of the exchangemen's club should get something pretty nice.

New Men on Sales Staffs.

A few additions to exchange sales staffs were made during the past few days. Newton Davis, former manager of the Minneapolis Bluebird exchange, joined the Universal exchange as Twin City salesman. I. S. Mistachen, formerly connected with the Brunswick Amusement Co. and Zelda theater at Duluth, Minn., was added to the General staff, and W. E. Bradley returned to the Laemmle exchange as Northern Minnesota roadman.

Sometimes an Operator Plays Havoc with Show.

St. Paul, Minn.—Following a big week in Milwaukee, William Fox's "Cleopatra" began a week's run at the Metropolitan opera house here, Sunday, January 6, to good business, but in a manner more humorous than was scheduled. The World scout was a part of the opening performance's audiences, and noted the following peculiarities:

Scheduled to start at 8:15, the picture was thrown on the screen by 9:05; the orchestra came in at 8:30, played one overture, waited ten minutes for the picture, and played the overture over again, while the audience mumbled in the darkness. Once the film started, Theda Bara, or "Cleo," rather, began to talk politics or something with Caesar, and when that gent was just about to kiss "Cleo's" ruby lips the film broke, and the audience thought perhaps the Board of Censors was up in the booth. However, after futilely looking for the film stretchers, the operator pinned the film together, and the show was on. Only one other slip-up happened, and that was when the operator completed the first half of the show and disregarded the title, which read, "Seven Minutes Intermission," and kept right on grinding. When the house lights went on the operator dropped his knitting and cut his film. The remainder of the performance was enjoyable from a serious standpoint. "Cleopatra" and, very likely, a new operator will begin a three-day showing at the Minneapolis Metropolitan in a week.

Strand and Alhambra Get "Uneasy Money."

Minneapolis, Minn.—Many have been wondering what theaters would land first Minneapolis and St. Paul runs on the Taylor Holmes' feature, "Uneasy Money," advertised on local billboards for a month. Manager Harry Graham, of the K-E-S-E exchange, announced that the Minneapolis Strand and the St. Paul Alhambra had secured first runs and the benefits of a gratis advertising campaign. Mr. Graham gave a special showing of Hazel Daly's first Selig production, "Brown of Harvard," at the New Palace theater, Minneapolis, Friday, January 4.

Played Single Reel of Minnesota Boys to Good Purpose.

St. Paul, Minn.—Theodore L. Hays, manager of the New Garrick theater here, displayed the one-reeler, "Minnesota Boys of the Rainbow Division," in addition to "Shirley Kaye" the week beginning January 6, and had a special stage setting with light effects to correspond with the "Rainbow's" presentation. This is the first time, Mr. Hays believes, "so much fuss has been made over a single-reeler in these parts."

C. H. Christie Guest of Honor at Dinner.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Charles H. Christie, general manager of the Christie Comedy Co., Los Angeles, spent a day in Minneapolis on his way from New York to the Pacific slope. While in the city, Mr. Christie was the guest at a dinner given by S. A. Louis and S. N. Robinson.

B. N. Judell Opens Office in Film Building.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Benjamin N. Judell, former Laemmle manager in Minneapolis, has organized a new state rights exchange to be known as the B. N. Judell, Inc., exchange, located in the Film Exchange building. The new exchange is a closed corporation, with a capital stock of $50,000.

On the Twin Cities' Screens.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Three downtown theaters here ran Hart releases this week, bringing the number of Hart pictures played in local downtown houses in the past three weeks up to an even dozen. "The Cold Deck," played at the New Garden four days beginning January 6, and "A Square Deal" and "Between Men" were running at the New Aster and New Unique, respectively, at the same time. Local nwspaper layouts for the past three weeks have looked like heralds on various Hart releases, every pose the Western actor was ever photographed in having been brought into use.

"Vengeance and the Woman," Vitagraph serial featuring William Duncan and Carol Halloway, has been booked for first run in the Hippodrome theater, St. Paul, and the New Grand theater, Minneapolis. "The Mystery Ship" will begin first runs at the New Palace, St. Paul, and New Palace, Minneapolis, shortly.

Manager Lowell V. Calvert, of the New Garrick theater, Minneapolis, has begun running the James Montgomery Flagg series of Edison pictures entitled "Girls You Know."

Manager James A. Keough, of the New Lyric, Minneapolis, and Manager Bert Goldman, of the New Princess, St. Paul, Minn., will display the First National Exhibitors' Circuit picture, "Alimony," shortly.

With the Exchangemen in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager E. A. Westcott, of the Fox-Standard exchange, Minneapolis, is on a tour of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota.

Manager Louis H. Coen, of the Metro exchange, Minneapolis, is in Duluth and Northern Minnesota on a short business trip.

A baby daughter arrived at the home of Minneapolis' K-E-S-E manager, Harry Graham, recently.

Dinners and Frolics Open New Orleans Year

Saenger Amusement Gives Party to Over 200 Employees—Other Dinners by Saenger Company—Frolic for the Mutual Film Staff.

By N. E. Thatcher, 3801 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—The most notable event of the holiday period in motion picture circles in New Orleans was the annual banquet of the Saenger Amusement Company, which occurred on Tuesday night, January 1, 1918. It is the custom of the Saenger Amusement Company to each year give a banquet to all of its employees and its intimate friends in every city in which one of its many enterprises is located.

The company is now operating more than forty theaters in various locations in the South, and it can be seen by this that these banquets assume the proportions of important affairs. At the New Orleans function, President Julian Saenger and Director General E. V. Richards, Jr., graced the head of the banquet board and other of the more important members of the organization were seated about them. Al G. Shear, the irrepressible wit and spontaneous wag, acted as toastmaster, and that means that there was not a dull moment during the entire evening. The entire second floor of the Kolb restaurant had been reserved for the guests who numbered more than 200, and a bounteous repast was served, interspersed with music, dancing, and timely speeches.

Director General Richards, in outlining the accomplishments and purposes of the company, pointed out the material progress that has already been made in providing the people of the South with the highest class of motion picture entertainment as presented in the forty houses already in operation and declared that the company is yet in its infancy as regards the expansion that is under contemplation. He expressed his full realization of the difficulties and occasional disappointments that are to be encounted in the building of such an institution, but asserted that these obstacles only made their determination the stronger. He noted the permanent progress that had been made, and paid a high tribute to the intelligence and loyalty of the personnel of the entire Saenger organization. He attributed a large measure of the success already attained to the absolute democracy of the organization, and expressed his abhorence for anything that approached snobbishness either on the part of the head of a department or an employee. In this connection he announced the action of the company in increasing the salaries of all employees from 3 per cent. to 10 per cent., based upon the period of service. This announcement was greeted with vociferous applause. President Saenger, Maurice F. Barr, manager of the Houston, Texas; Saenger enterprices, N. E. Thatcher, amusement editor of the Times-Picayune, and others were among the speakers.

Coincident with the celebration in New Orleans, Saenger banquets were held in Houston and Texarkana, Texas; Jacksonville, Fla.; Jackson, Miss.; Shreveport, La., and Memphis, Tenn., and telegrams from these places and also from individuals all over the country felicitated the Saenger Amusement Company upon its success and its enterprise.

D. L. Cornelius Heads Saenger Publicity.

New Orleans, La.—D. L. Cornelius, who has been resident manager of the Strand theater, has been relieved of that position by the Saenger Amusement Company and placed at the head of a newly created publicity bureau which will handle all of the newspaper and other advertising of the concern for all of the Saenger enterprises in the South. Last year the Saenger Amusement Company expended over $75,000 in newspaper advertising in this territory, and the appropriations for 1918 are expected to go well beyond $100.000. Naturally the outlay of this amount of cash requires the most careful consideration, and Mr. Cornelius is eminently fitted to administer the fund. He knows the show business, and he is a good copy writer. Best of all he is immensely popular with the newspaper men, and can get about what he wants because he never asks anything unreasonable and never tries to "put one over" on them. It is a notable fact that the Saenger Amusement Company confines its advertising almost exclusively to the newspapers, their experience with bill-boards and other forms of publicity having demonstrated that a direct appeal taken into the homes is the only effective manner of calling attention to any particular screen production.

Maurice F. Barr Will Manage the Strand

Mr. Cornelius has been succeeded as manager of the Strand theater by Maurice F. Barr, who has recently accomplished remarkable results in the management of the Saenger interests at Houston, Texas. Manager Barr is also an old newspaper man, and all the boys like him. It appears to be the policy of the Saenger organization to place newspaper men in all of the responsible positions.

District Manager Stephens Gives a Frolic.

New Orleans, La.—District Manager Stephens, of the Mutual Film for the Southern territory, was host to all of the employees of the local film exchange and a large number of his friends at the annual New Year frolic at the Stephens residence. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens always make these affairs exceptionally pleasent for their guests, and invitations to them are eagerly sought. The evening was spent in singing, dancing, and the enjoyment of bounteous refreshments.

Atlanta News Letter

By Alfred M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Avenue, Atlanta Ga.

New Liberty Theater at Camp Gordon Open.

ATLANTA, GA.—The New Liberty theater at Camp Gordon, which has a seating capacity of more than 3,000, and is one of the handsomest and best equipped playhouses erected for the entertainment of select men in the United States, was opened on New Year's day with two performances.

"Birth of Nation" Coming Back.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Criterion theater has had so many requests for a showing of "The Birth of a Nation" that they will show it in the week beginning January 21. This makes the fourth time this picture has been shown in Atlanta, always to crowded house, and this engagement will be no exception.

Geo. H. Hickman Leaves Wells Interest.

Atlanta, Ga.—George H. Hickman, manager of the Lyric theater, and former manager of the Forsyth theater, has resigned and severed his connection with the theatrical interests of Jake Wells.

Mr. Hickman has not announced his plans for the future, except that he intends for the time being to remain in Atlanta.

Savoy Becomes 5-Cent Theater.

Atlanta, Ga.—A decided change of policy, and one welcomed by the thousands of picture-goers of Atlanta, is announced by the management of the Savoy theater. Beginning Monday, January 7, the admission price will be five cents to all performances. It is also the intention of the management to present at this popular admission price some of the biggest photoplay features that has ever been produced, and many that has never been offered at less than twenty-five cents.

Features That Have Made a Hit.

Atlanta, Ga.—Hundreds of Marguerite Clark's Atlanta admirers greeted her on the screen at the Forsyth theater Monday when she returned in her most delightful role, that of the fairy princess in "The Seven Swans."

Mary Garden in her first appearance before the screen, in a picturization of the great opera, "Thais," with a vehicle, a cast and a scenic investure, which ranks with the best in the photoplay line, and this production scored a decided hit with Atlanta theater patrons this week at the Strand theater. The theater was crowded all week.

Miss Betty Lee, Atlanta's young star who has recently entered the moving picture field, where she is meeting with pronounced success, was head waitress on Friday at a dinner given by the Daughters of the Confederacy, and was assisted by a levy of charming girls and young matrons.

Hugh L. Cardoza Will Direct Lyric.

Atlanta, Ga.—Hugh L. Cardoza, who has been in charge of the Wells interests in Atlanta for some time past, will take over the active management of the Lyric in addition to his other duties as general manager for Mr. Wells several motion picture houses.

Louisville News Letter

By Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starks Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

Suburban Houses Cut Premium Giving.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—General increase in cost of doing business has resulted in most of the picture theaters doing away with all premium-giving in the suburban districts for the present, especially as patronage has been slack.

December business with the Louisville picture theaters represented the very worst business that the local exhibitors have ever known, as the city has experienced the hardest winter on record to date. There has not been a time during the past four or five weeks that there has not been a good snow-blanket on the ground, and snow after snow has been experienced, resulting in bad traffic conditions and in a general falling off of patronage. Keeping the theaters warm has also been quite a job.

January is generally the worst month of the winter in Louisville, and February weather is often bad. Under these conditions the local exhibitors are not looking for any big business before March 1. The war tax has also resulted in cutting down patronage, and good weather is badly needed to bring business up to normal.

However, the general outlook for spring business is considered good, as Louisville is in a healthy and prosperous condition at the present time. A number of large concerns have big war orders, and the local cantonment has increased the population of the district materially. That Louisville is prosperous was shown on December 26, when bank clearings went over the billion dollar mark for the first time in the history of the city, while the year's clearings ran a billion and thirteen million. All factories are busy and labor scarce, while the highest wages on record are being paid to both male and female workers in all lines. At the present time an effort is being made to enlarge the city boundaries so as to increase the population of Louisville to about 300,000.

Wife Left Husband for Screen Career.

Louisville, Ky.—Richard M. Arnold, Jr., of Louisville, husband of Mrs. Helen Prettyman Arnold, a screen star who won one of the prize try-outs in the William

A. Brady "Beauty and Brains" contest a few seasons back, has filed suit for divorce against his wife, alleging abandonment since July, 1916. Mr. Arnold stated that they were married in April, 1910, at Jeffersonville, Ind., both being residents of Louisville. The petition stated that Mrs. Arnold is at present in Naples, Italy, with a troop employed by the Poli Film Co., to make an Italian picture. Mrs. Arnold appeared in several American productions, including "One Law for Both," "Two Men and a Woman," and "The Witching Hour.' Mrs. Arnold is without doubt one of the most beautiful women that has been produced by Kentucky, which state has a reputation for handsome women.

Short Change Man Fleeced Theaters.

Paducah, Ky.—Confidence men recently took the Arcade and Star theaters into camp for $10 each, on a short change gag, but fell down at the Kazy theater and then slipped out of town, after having worked a few drug stores and other concerns. The work was very crude, however and could not possibly have been put over on anyone that was on the alert.

Fire in Theater at Winchester.

Winchester, Ky.—Damage of $350 was done to the engine room and electrical equipment of the Pastime theater when fire broke out in the engine room, where the company makes its own power and heat. The theater was plunged into darkness during the evening show, but the people quietly filed out without anyone being hurt.

Somerset Star Closes.

Somerset, Ky.—The Star theater has been temporarily closed while the floor is inclined and other improvements made. The theater has booked "The Mystery Ship," a serial, to start with the reopening of the house.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compete with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

NOTES FROM DALLAS, TEXAS.

Records of Recent Films.

Dallas, Tex.—Mary Garden in the Goldwyn "Thais" is reported to have broken all records at the Grecian theater, El Paso, and the Zoe, Houston, during the second week in January, with "Freedom of the World" duplicating the performance at Pollard's Oklahoma City.

"Come Through," the second Jewel to be shown in Dallas, was a big week's run feature for the Washington theater, Dallas. It has been pronounced by local critics really the best thing shown here in months. Immediately following it, Manager Bissinger, of the Wadhington, offered "The Co-Respondent," which got away to an excellent start.

"Seven Swans" did an excellent business at the Old Mill, and "Spreading Dawn," with Jane Cowl, followed with record attendance on its first day's run. The Fairbanks' "Modern Musketeer" followed the Goldwyn offering for mid-week on January 10.

Dustin Farnum in "The Spy" had a big run at the Jefferson for the week beginning January 6, and the Hippodrome put on "The Warrior," with Maciste, the big "Cabiria" giant, for a week's run. This theater had coming for January 13, Taylor Holmes in "Uneasy Money," for which a lot of people have been looking.

Picture Theater Problems in Border Towns

Manager Samuel Schwartz of Aztec Theater at Eagle Pass Tells Why Certain Films Must Not Be Shown—Wrong Impressions of Mexicans.

By Douglas Hawley, Times-Herald, Dallas, Texas.

DALLAS, TEX.—There's one sure solution of the c. o. d. problem, and Samuel Schwartz, of the Aztec theater, Eagle Pass, Tex., knows it. You simply pay your c. o. d. bill six months in advance. That's what Mr. Schwartz did at the Paramount branch late in January, when he came to town. Manager H. M. Owen is still a little bit aghast, but he stood for the revolutionizing.

Mr. Schwartz declares business on the border is bully, but a fellow still has to be careful. "We've got to watch our pictures like hawks," he said. "Should a border town house run a film which in the least reflects upon the Mexican people he's immediately in trouble. And the feeling is but natural. We are loyal to our own flag—we are proud of ourselves as Americans. The Mexicans are as truly Americans as we are, and are entitled to be equally proud of their nativity.

The trouble is the average American has a wrong impression of the average Mexican. He has formed his impression from reading newspaper accounts of border raids and the things that go with them. We who live among Mexicans and who number among our friends, the men who are the real representatives of the people, know better. Your high caste Mexican is a gentleman as polished and as polite as any Parisian, and a whole lot more honorable in his business dealings than a lot of Americans." Mr. Schwartz believes Mexico is working out her internal political problems as rapidly as could be expected under the circumstances, and that before many more moons political peace and commercial prosperity will again be her portion.

Blue Texas Skies Fine for Picture Making.

Dallas, Tex.—California has nothing on the Eagle Pass country of Texas from the standpoint of making moving pictures, and a well known Eastern moving picture director admits it. Also he says he is going to make some more pictures under the blue of Texas skies and the brightness of Texas sun.

This is the message brought to Dallas by Sam Schwartz, picture theater proprietor at Eagle Pass, Tex., who called at the Dallas branch of the Vitagraph during the second week in January. Mr. Schwartz, in addition to being a theater proprietor, has had the satisfaction of being an actor as well. He appeared in the making of Rex Beach's "Heart of the Sunset," which Director Frank Powell is now completing at Eagle Pass. A number of interiors are now being finished up at San Antonio in the studios of the Shamrock Company.

"Mr. Powell is carried away with the Texas climate," said Mr. Schwartz. "There has been plenty of sunshine and plenty of blue sky.

"The picture makers have been able to work every day, and Powell declares he expects to make more pictures in Texas. We really expect a big development in the border country in the scening of film productions, particularly those in which 'soldier' and 'cowboy stuff' occurs."

The Texas-made picture is a Goldwyn, with Anna K. Neilson in leading role.

H. B. Hearne Comes to Manage Old Mill.

Dallas, Tex.—Morris F. Baer has gone back to New Orleans as manager of the Strand theater, known as the handsomest in the South. Mr. Baer for the last several months has been at Houston in charge of the Isis theater, another Saenger Amusement Company house, and his methods "put it on the map" in more ways than one. He made many friends ruring his stay in Texas.

H. B. Hearne has been made manager of the Old Mill theater, the Hulsey house at Dallas. Mr. Hearne comes to Dallas from Philadelphia, and is a well known and very successful theatrical and film man. He calls Wilmington his native town.

First Hodkinson Picture at Old Mill.

Dallas, Tex.—New Hodkinson "Motion Picture Plus" will make its first Texas appearance in the Old Mill theater, Dallas, according to present anticipations. The Hulsey organization has secured the first-run rights to the newer and bigger picture, and all required changes in the way of additional screen space and the like will be made in ample time for its appearance and proper showing. There is the keenest interest in the first real big forward step in picture making shown by Texas fans. The daily papers as well as the trade journals have carried full publicity on the Hodkinson development.

Dead Heads Cut to Minimum.

Dallas, Tex.—Pass holders are among the "less" things in Texas. With the taking up of 1917 passes at the close of the year picture theater managers and proprietors have shown a change that in the light of the way some people rode their gift horses to death serves them right. In Dallas the free list has been cut fully fifty per cent. It had come to be no common thing for many of these people to enter a theater as many as half a dozen times a day, each time with a different companion. The passholder, conscience not entirely dead, stepped inside the door and right out again, leaving the companion in each instance. "Enough is too much," the managers say, and they're correct.

Notes and Changes in Texas Theaters.

Austin, Tex.—A charter alteration filed at Austin by the Southwestern Art Dramas, Inc., changes name of the concern to the Southwestern Film Corporation.

Houston, Tex.—The Texas theater, Houston, A. Schulzman proprietor, was burned during the second week in January, with a loss of about $20,000. No announcement has yet been made as to rebuilding plans.

Galveston, Tex.—The Palace theater, Galveston, operated for the last year by W. F. Berney, has been taken over by George Bell, Jr.

Dallas, Tex.—L. C. House, of the Wigwam theater, Coal Gate, and C. C. Harkins, of the Grand at Lehigh, were two Oklahoma managers who called on Dallas branch managers during the second week in January. Each reported business excellent, with outlook equally so.

Brownsville, Tex.—Dave Young, of the Dreamland, Brownsville, a well known state's right buyer, was a Dallas visitor recently. Mr. Young has opened an office at Oklahoma City.

D. C. Feagles, of the Rex, Ft. Worth, says his town is still the best in the state, and that things are humming with all the soldiers and aviators that are training there.

Dallas, Tex.—Manager J. B. Dugger, of the Dallas Vitagraph branch, has organized the Vitagraph War Savings Society, with every employee on the force enrolled. Each employee was started off with a 25-cent stamp, and the office has pledged itself to save $2,000 within the year.

First Nat. Circuit Opens St. Louis Office

William Sievers Is Engaging Roadmen and Managing Distribution—New Grand Central Theater Will Show the Pictures in City.

By Mary Moore, 6035 Kingsbury, St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The First National Exhibitors' Circuit is ready for business in St. Louis with William "Billy" Sievers, a stockholder in the corporation (as agent for Edmond Koeln), directing the local end of the game.

Manager Sievers' theater, the new Grand Central, will show the Exhibitors' Circuit pictures here while Sievers himself will direct the road men in nearby territory. He has opened offices of the company and has selected some of his staff.

The first road man signed up is Harry Thayer, who was recruited from the outgoing forces of the Goldwyn offices here. Sievers grabbed Thayer, following the latter's resignation from Goldwyn. Thayer left Goldwyn when Floyd Lewis, local manager of Goldwyn, resigned to go into the state rights business.

Standard Exchange Passes First Year

St. Louis, Mo.—The Standard Film, handling Billy West comedies and re-issues, has rounded out a successful first year of operations in St. Louis, and under the direction of Barney Fegen has excellent prospects in this line of film business for the coming twelve months.

The Standard started in St. Louis in March, 1917, with J. Irwin Dodson as manager. From the first the exhibitors took kindly to the Mutt & Jeff comedies, but there has been considerable expansion under Manager Fegen, who took charge last August. The William Hart re-issues did much to increase the Standard business.

Fegen attributes some of the success of the short-sized films to the saving on war tax, but says that an added stimulus to both his business and that of other exchanges is found in the recently organized Southern Illinois Exhibitors' League, which has materially aided the growing closer relationship between the St. Louis film managers and the small town exhibitors in southern Illinois.

Results of Big Patriotic Benefit.

St. Louis, Mo.—A report of the moving picture benefit given on Dec. 20 for the benefit of soldiers shows the following receipts: New Grand Central theater, $66.50; Delmar theater, $31, and Liberty theater, $6.

The following sums were turned in by the film managers: D. M. Thomas, Fox, $41.25; Jack Weil, World, $32.25; General Film, $17.25; Standard, $8; Foursquare, $5; Metro, Charles Werner, $24.25; Unicorn, Sam Werner, $2.75; Vitagraph (Boswell), $5.75; Paramount, G. McKean, $8.75; Pathe, D. K. Evans, $20.50; Triangle, Ed Carr, $2.75; Mutual, Fred Keller, $2.75; Select, Ed Dustin, $2.75; Goldwyn, Floyd Lewis, $12.75; Universal, Barney Rosenthal, $37; Bluebird, G. Hennesy, $5; U. S. Exchange, Joe Desberger, $5. The total expense was $14.75, leaving a benefit total for the soldiers of $319.25.

Lew Bent Signs Up With Select.

St. Louis, Mo.—There were a few changes of interest in the film offices here this week. Lew Bent, who, with Harry Thayer, left Goldwyn with Floyd Lewis, when the latter resigned as local manager, has signed up with Select Picture under Edward Dustin.

Personal Notes in St. Louis.

D. E. Boswell, manager of the Vitagraph office in St. Louis, was married during the week. Not the first venture, however.

Tom McKean, manager of the Royal theater, and son of George McKean, resident manager for Paramount, is awaiting 24-hour notice to appear at camp for aviation service training.

Spiros Skouris, manager of the Pageant theater, one of the largest in St. Louis, has passed the aviation division examinations and will go to Texas to train. He will sell the Pageant, and has been offered three times as much for it as he paid for it less than a year and a half ago.

Hunter Bennett, division manager for the Foursquare company, has been here a week directing some new expansion work for his company. Sid Baker, former manager here and now in Kansas City, was here in conference with Bennett.

Des Moines News Letter

By Dorothy Day, Register-Tribune, Des Moines, Ia.

First Negro Theater West of Chicago Ready.

DES MOINES, IA.—The first negro-owned and negro-operated theater, especially for negroes, west of Chicago, is in process of rebuilding at Tenth and Center streets in Des Moines. In view of the fact that there are about 800 Alabama negroes at the Camp Dodge Cantonment, the colored settlement in Des Moines is constantly thronged with negro troopers. No amusement is offered to them aside from the downtown amusement houses, where, in most cases, a reservation is made for colored people. A picture house in this district, then, can not help but be most popular. The new theater will seat 450 people and work has already started on the rebuilding of a selected frame building. The colored citizens have donated $5,000, and a corporation of influential negroes are backing the concern.

Theater Notes Over Iowa.

Ottumwa, Ia.—David Prior has quit the motion picture game by selling the Mystic theater in South Ottumwa to Fred Wellington. Mr. Prior has been managing picture shows for several years. He has owned and operated houses in Fayette, Farmington, and lastly in Ottumwa. He has not announced what business he will take up.

Maxwell, Ia.—C. A. Braley has sold the Star theater in Maxwell to C. C. Couch. Mr. Braley is going back to farming.

Roland, Ia.—Manager Stote has sold the Lyric to H. O. Hibbard.

Radcliffe, Ia.—The firm of Ertel and Raymond of Radcliffe have dissolved partnership, Mr. Raymond having decided to go back into the vaudeville business. Mr. Ertel will manage the two houses, the Opera House in Radcliffe and the Star in McCallsburg.

Iowa Business Notes.

James Denton, pioneer exhibitor of Iowa, who manages the Virginia theater in Boone, Ia., was in Des Moines last week. Mr. Denton was the first exhibitor in Iowa or Nebraska to sign for the Metro Service and he has used every picture that that company has made since. It has been his custom to change every day, but the increased demand for the better Metro pictures has caused him to break his ruling and he has arranged for a two-days' run on the New All-Star features.

A party of Des Moines film men went to Kansas City for the holidays. Stanley J. Mayer, manager of the Yale Photoplay office in this city; W. F. Coleman, assistant manager of the K. C. Feature Film office in this city; Roy L. White, salesman for the local Metro exchange, and John L. Shipley, assistant manager of the Goldwyn Pictures office in Kansas City, made up the party.

A. S. Miller, Iowa representative of the Vitagraph films, was in Des Moines a couple of days last week.

Manager Ballantyne, manager of the Des Moines Mutual exchange, was in Chicago a couple of days last week. In spite of the rumors of changes Ballantyne goes around with mouth tightly closed and a shrewd smile on his face and explains the large amount of shipping out of the office, as merely "clearing-house junk."

Mr. Hatfield, formerly general manager of the Wharton Bros., Inc., was in Des Moines last week with "The Black Stork." He gave a private showing of the feature at the Royal on New Year's day.

E. E. McVicker, for a long time popular salesman with the Des Moines Pathe exchange, has decided that he needs a long rest, especially since there's a tidy sum of money coming to him this month from an inheritance. He has left the Pathe employ and is taking life easy around town taking in all the movies and visiting his friends at the different exchanges. Jake Cohen, who but recently joined the Pathe force, took his territory in northeastern Iowa. Mr. Cohen is making a big success in the short time he has been with Pathe, according to Manager Sheridan.

M. R. Angel, of the Angel Brothers, who operated and owned the first chain of picture houses in the Middle West, was a caller at the Pathe exchange in Des Moines last week. Mr. Angel and his brother owned the famous Angel Bros.' Orpheum circuit and opened houses in Oskaloosa, Keokuk, Cedar Rapids, Savannah, Ill., and Galesburg, Ill. He says that ever since he has been operating the Orpheum in Ottumwa he has used only the products of the Universal, including serials and weeklies, as well as feature pictures. His booking of some of the Pathe serials was his first deviation from this set rule.

Jottings From the A. H. Blank Office.

Des Moines, Ia.—The A. H. Blank office force is jubilant over the way in which the first of Petrova pictures went over in Des Moines and other cities in Iowa. Every one who saw "A Daughter of Destiny" was enthusiastic.

Fred R. Martin, salesman for this office, has just returned from a Christmas vacation and is starting out over his territory Monday. H. L. Wallick, the other representative of the Blank Enterprises, is down in St. Louis and has been for the past two weeks in that territory. He is enthusiastic over the way in which "The Cold Deck" is booking and pleasing.

San Francisco Jottings.

C. J. Martin is now acting as manager of the Vicksburg and Acme theaters.

Fred Dahnken, Jr., president of the Turner & Dahnken circuit, has left for the East to attend a meeting of the directors of the First National Exhibitors Association.

"The Auction Block" has been brought back to the Tivoli opera house for a return engagement.

D. K. Reed, formerly booker for the Progressive exchange, is now with the Atlas Educational Film company.

The United Theater exchange recently effected the sale of the Empire theater, San Jose, Cal., from E. Jones to M. R. Elstun and M. McAlpine, as well as the transfer of the Regent theater of this city from Goldie McDonald to Agnes Burgland.

Sam Sax, of the Princess theater, Portland, Ore., was here over the holidays.

Charles E. Bray, assistant general manager of the Orpheum circuit, has returned from a visit to all the houses. Mr. Bray visits Europe each year, but on his 1917 trip went no further than London and Paris.

Irving Lesser, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the All-Star Feature Distributors, Inc., was a visitor here during the holidays and on the last day of the year was married at Oakland to Miss Ruth Gaynor.

Northern California Notes.

San Jose, Cal.—Nick Turner has resigned as manager of the T. & D. theater to take charge of the theater recently purchased by himself and C. Howard at Grass Valley.

Stockton, Cal.—Tom South, formerly of Portland, Ore., has been made manager of the T. & D. theater.

Crescent City, Cal.—B. C. Endert, of Endert's theater, is now in training at American Lake.

Willows, Cal.—F. N. Burgi has purchased the Willows opera house from W. R. Claman and will operate it in conjunction with the Fairyland theater.

Eureka, Cal.—Sheehan & Lurie, of San Francisco, are understood to have taken a lease on a portion of the First National Bank building, now in course of erection, for the purpose of opening a new theater.

Soledad, Cal.—Wescott & Dyer have taken over the Dreamland theater.

Eureka, Cal.—A. C. Stuckey has opened the Portola theater.

Special Children's Program Proves a Big Success.

Oakland, Cal.—Emil Kehrlein, of the Kinema theater, has made a whirlwind success with the children's Saturday morning matinee inaugurated by him a few months ago, and this is now a firmly fixed feature of this house. The Edison Conquest pictures have been used since the matinees were started, and the entire series of twelve has been shown. So much interest has been taken in these that they have been re-booked and will all be presented again.

The Oakland School Department has finally taken notice of the educational work inaugurated by Mr. Kehrlein and is now assisting by announcing the program at the various schools and urging the children to attend. No profit is made by these morning performances, the price of admission being 5 cents straight, but the management feels encouraged to continue then on account of their value to school folks and the encouragement received from parents.

The accompanying illustration shows a typical Saturday morning crowd when a subject of more than ordinary interest to Boy Scouts is to be shown.

Youngsters Gathered at Saturday Morning Matinee at Oakland Kinema Theater.

Film Exchange Board of Trade Reorganized

San Francisco Body Had Been Out of Existence for Nearly a Year—Present Need of It Felt—New Officers Chosen at Meeting on January 3.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—The Film Exchange Board of Trade of San Francisco which did such excellent work a few years ago in placing the moving picture business on a firmer basis, and which has many splendid constructive reforms to its credit, has been reorganized, after having been out of existence for about a year. Of late many problems connected with the distribution of films have sprung up and trade abuses have crept in that threaten to become serious. Some exhibitors are charged with having adopted the practice of sending films back to exchanges with charges collect, others with needlessly delaying shipments and misusing posters and other advertising matter. Transportation problems are cropping up and for some time there has been a feeling that an organization was again needed to cope with these questions. At the call of Sol L. Lesser the film exchange men of the city met on January 3 at Tait's Cafe and the Film Exchange Board of Trade was reorganized.

New Officers Elected.

At this gathering it was decided to use the old by-laws and to operate along the same lines as formerly. The officers chosen were: President, M. J. Cohen, manager of the local interests of the George Kleine System; vice-president, Louis Hyman, of the All-Star Feature Distributors, Inc.; secretary and manager, Sam Davis, of Davis Bros., and treasurer, H. H. Hicks, manager of the Select Pictures Corporation. The Board of Directors consists of M. L. Markowitz, manager of the California Film Exchange; Sol L. Lesser, head of the All-Star Feature, and E. H. Emmick, of the Peerless Film. A membership committee was named, this consisting of J. H. Allen, of the Progressive; Ralph Quive, of the Greater Vitagraph, and Newton Levi, of the Mutual. This committee will shortly make a report on the advisability of inviting the supply men to join the organization. The firms affiliated with the Board of Trade include: the General Film, the Mutual, the Pathe, the Select, Western Feature, All-Star, California Film, The M. & R. Feature, the Turner & Dahnken, George Kleine, Reuben Cohen, Consolidated Film, Peerless, Davis Bros., Foursquare, Triangle, Metro Corporation, Fox, Progressive, World Film, Goldwyn and the Greater Vitagraph.

Theaters Change Hands.

San Francisco, Cal.—Sam Levine has sold the Haight Street theater, seating about 1,200, and the Sunset theater, seating about 600, to Harry Sack, W. H. Godfrey and Oscar Atkerson, and in turn has purchased the Grand theater at Twenty-second and Mission streets, one of the oldest moving picture theaters in the city. Mr. Godfrew and Mr. Atkerson were formerly owners of the Lincoln theater, which was sold about a month ago, and are interested respectively in houses at Vacaville and Concord. Mr. Sack is well known here, owning an interest in the Lyric theater on Fillmore street.

Imperial Manager Visits New York.

San Francisco, Cal.—J. L. Partington, manager of the Imperial theater, is making a business and pleasure trip to New York, and before returning will visit some of the finest moving picture theaters in the country to pick up ideas that may be used to advantage in the local house.

Brief Progressive Notes.

San Francisco, Cal.—R. A. Churton, formerly with Frederick Stearns & Co., has succeeded D. K. Shanks as chief accountant and auditor of the Progressive Motion Picture Co., who has left for Victoria, B. C., to join the Canadian army. He has already taken examinations for a commission.

G. B. Hellings has assumed his position of salesman at the local office and is specializing on short subjects.

Vernon R. Moore, formerly of the publicity department, but now salesman for the Progressive, was here over the holidays, after having been on the road for about twelve weeks.

W. W. Drummond Now With Kleine.

San Francisco, Cal.—W. W. Drummond, former manager of the local Mutual office, has returned to this city following a lengthy stay in the East, and is now acting as a special representative out of the local George Kleine office. H. Von Emmel, formerly with this exchange, has resigned to accept a position with the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation.

Leon Trotsky Formerly An Exhibitor

San Francisco, Cal.—According to Miss Ludmila Pomerenko of this city, Leon Trotzky, Russian minister of foreign affairs under the Bolsheviki regime, once conducted a moving picture house in the North Beach district, but was compelled to close because of the fact that he failed to comply with local regulations. It is stated that he then started a film exchange on McAllister street, but lost his stock in a fire and then visited Chicago and New York, later taking several film productions to the Orient.

Films for Export to Be Censored.

San Francisco, Cal.—Collector of Customs J. O. Davis has notified all local film exchanges that he has been ordered to censor all moving picture films exported through this port, the films to be shown at the expense of the exporter. Nothing inimicable to the interests of the United States will be permitted to leave the country.

Arbuckle Shakes Hands with Thousands.

Riverside, Cal.—"Fatty" Arbuckle recently paid a personal visit to the Orpheum and Regent theaters in Riverside, and it is estimated that he shook hands with 2,000 people.

"Fatty" went on the Orpheum stage following his picture, and never was a public or professional man given such a warm welcome. His monologue was cleverly put over. The audience was in a good humor, and the big comedian's efforts were spontaneously received.

Seattle's Coliseum Gives Red Cross Frolic

On New Year's Night the Big Jensen and Von Harberg Theater Housed Benefit Frolic—Alexander Pantages Also Aided with the Program.

By S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, WASH.—It is getting to be a habit of the people of Seattle to spend New Year's night at the Coliseum theater, and it is getting to be a habit of Jensen and Von Herberg, managers of the Greater Theaters Company, to turn over the big photoplay house to the Red Cross on special occasions.

On New Year's night last year, the first in the history of the theater, the management gave a midnight frolic after the show, and it was a big success. There was every reason to believe that a similar carnival this year would have meant even bigger box office receipts for the company, but the Red Cross habit for the company, formed by the managers, and when some one suggested that the society give a New Year's frolic from which all the profits should be devoted to Red Cross work, Jensen and Von Herberg, in the name of the Greater Theaters Company, offered their largest house. The affair was advertised for a week in advance, and two days before New Year's every seat in the house was sold. Box seats brought two dollars per. Alexander Pantages, of the vaudeville circuit which bears his name, took charge of the entertainment, donating several of his best acts. The Wilkes Players, a stock company of Seattle, gave an act, and there were several other specials. The society girls of Seattle, who had mare a tremendous success of the Seattle Girls' War Relief Bazaar during the week preceding, sold confetti and streamers and candy. Everybody who could crowd into the theater went, and it was even a bigger financial success than last year's Coliseum frolic.

Leon Bories Will Head U. S. Exhibitors Booking.

Seattle, Wash.—Joseph Partridge, general manager of the United States Exhibitors' Booking Association, returned to Seattle this week and spent several days in the office of the DeLuxe Feature Film Company, from which office the releases of the Association will be handled. Mr. Partridge announced that Leon Bories would be manager of the Northwest territory for the association instead of O. A. Woody, as formerly announced. The selling organization of the association is now completed, according to Mr. Partridge, Seattle being the last point on his route.

Washington Flood Continues to Rise.

Seattle, Wash.—The transportation situation out of Seattle is worse now than it was two weeks ago owing to the collapse of two or three big bridges on the railroads to the east and north of the city. The continued rains and warm weather have melted the snow on the mountains to such an extent that all the rivers in this vicinity fed by mountain streams have overflowed their banks and are daily rising. The only way for the exchanges to ship film out of Seattle to points east of the mountains is to send them first to Portland, then east, then back north, and, if the point to be reached is just the other side of the mountains, they must turn back west again. This is causing about twelve hours delay in shipping film to the vicinity of Ellensburg, for one instance.

North of Seattle the floods have even covered the streets in many towns. The motion picture theaters are closed. An exhibitor of Burlington wrote to an exchange in Seattle that his house is flooded, and that people were traveling about the town only in row boats. In Mount Vernon and its vicinity similor conditions are reported.

Service has been discontinued on the Great Northern all the way from Seattle to the Canadian border, and also on the four lines leading east out of Seattle.

Seattle Operators Choose Officers.

Seattle, Wash.—At the yearly elections of the Seattle Operators' Union last month the following officers were elected:

Harry Clark, president; George Smith, vice-president; W. W. Ladd, financial and recording secretary; H. F. Lampman, business secretary; W. M. Hartford, press representative. Meetings are held on the first and third Tuesdays in each month.

At one of their recent meetings the operators took up the matter of furnishing picture shows to the inmates of the tubercular hospital at the Firlands. The different members agreed to donate their services alternately every other Friday evening, and the matter of furnishing films was taken up with the exchanges. Several of them agreed to lend the institution shows on those nights, and the picture show has now become a weekly event looked forward to with the greatest interest by the tubercular patients. The doctors, in expressing their appreciation to the operators and film men, say that the anticipation of seeing the shows each week is doing their patients more good than all the medicine they could give them.

Exchange Notes from Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—C. W. Bunn, who has just been promoted from the managership of the Pathe Chicago office to the post of special representative, is in Seattle this week on a tour of inspection.

J. S. Woody, manager of the Northwest territory for Select Pictures, has just left to renew his old acquaintances among the exhibitors in Montana.

W. A. Mead, assistant manager of the Northwest territory for Fox, is ill with chickenpox.

Al. Rosenberg, secretary of the De Luxe Feature Film, left this week for an extended visit to San Francisco and Los Angeles. While in the latter city, he will watch some of the big features in the making. Immediately upon his return he will go into training for the hospital corps which he has joined.

Exhibitors Visiting Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—C. S. Jensen, of the firm of Jensen & Von Herberg, managers of the Greater Theaters Company, came with his family to Seattle to spend the Christmas holidays. Mr. Jensen left this city last March to become the active manager of the company's new Rialto theater in Butte.

Few exhibitors were in Seattle this week, because of the cutting off of trains by the floods. F. L. Stannard, of Wenatchee, however, would not let floods interfere with his plans. He took the train east to Spokane, then southwest to Portland, then north to Seattle. The trip, which ordinarily costs three dollars, cost him this time $17.

Praire State News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

No Canopies Over Fargo Sidewalks.

FARGO, N. D.—When Manager William C. Clavier, of the Savoy theater, on Broadway, planned to remodel his house, he ran afoul of an ordinance prohibiting canopies over the sidewalk. He asked the city council to make a change in the building measure. Clavier planned to put in a new front with canopy, new ventilation, chairs and two new projectors.

North Dakota Theater Jottings.

Anamoose, N. D.—S. M. Isaak has remodeled the Northwestern hotel, which he purchased, into a moving picture theater, which he will operate.

Grand Forks, N. D.—S. Cornish purchased the Rex theater from A. L. Zacherl.

Sturgis, S. D.—Robert Muckler has purchased the interest of Burt Burton in the Majestic theater.

Elgin, N. D.—James J. Stasek has sold the moving picture theater to Jacob Balliet.

Wahpeton, N. D.—George Dancey, who operates the Grand theater, has leased the Orpheum theater and will conduct both houses.

Dickinson, N. D.—F. M. Nicodemus, manager of the new Rialto theater, will use vaudeville one night a week in connection with his picture program. He plans to install an orchestra later.

About Nebraska Theaters.

Callaway, Neb.—W. H. McCulloch, who previously operated the moving picture show here, has leased the theater from E. W. Wright.

Emery, Neb.—C. A. Diemers, of Emery, has purchased the C-B theater at Manson, Ia., from E. R. Coffin.

Brainard, Neb.—John Rech has purchased the moving picture theater from E. Novak.

Ravenna, Neb.—The Pastime theater has been leased to Dr. Gehrke.

Falls City, Neb.—F. S. Nesbitt has opened a moving picture show at Tarkio, Mo. The pipe organ which was in use in the theater here was moved to Tarkio.

Spokane News Letter

By S. Clark Patchin, E 1811 Eleventh Ave. Spokane, Wash.

New Titan Feature Officers.

SPOKANE, WASH.—New officers chosen for the Titan Feature Photoplay Company follows: J. Don Alexander, president; Eugene DeSmeth, vice-president; R. E. Musser, treasurer; H. G. Twomey, secretary, and C. L. Mayo, trustee and underwriter.

"The Titan Feature Photoplay Company, which was incorporated here recently, is on the lookout for suitable sites for the studio and plant," said J. Don Alexander, president of the company. "It is considering several at present and will build as soon as a site has been purchased. The company has been formed to feature the Inland Empire scenery and will produce films running from five to eight reels in length."

Work Begun on Washington Studio.

Spokane, Wash.—Plans for the Washington Motion Picture Corporation's studio, which represents Spokane's newest big industry are ready and the plant is now under construction at Minnehaha Park.

"The present buildings, which are the first two of the group, will be utilized in connection with a new building and the out-door stage for the production of the photoplays, starring Tyrone Power," said General Manager C. J. Ward.

Spokane Girl in "Little Princess."

Spokane, Wash.—Appearing in the company supporting Mary Pickford in "The Little Princess," at the Christmas week offering at the Clemmer theater, is a Spokane girl, Miss Ruth Corwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Corwin, W 404 Park place. She has been playing in moving pictures in the south since last February and is spending the holidays here with her family.

Miss Corwin is a graduate of the North Central High school of the class of June, 1916, and played the lead in the class play that year. She was also prominent in school operas and is a former apple show princess. In the south she appeared with a number of the big picture stars, including Julian Eltinge, Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, also in a number of Keystone comedies and special features.

L. A. Todd Visits to Boost Paralta.

Spokane, Wash.—L. A. Todd, the first film exchange manager to open an office in Spokane, and now the Seattle manager of the General Film, with supervision over the four northwestern states, was a Spokane visitor during the holidays. Mr. Todd is trying to interest Spokane exhibitors in the new Paralta feature pictures, which W. W. Hodkinson is distributing through out the United States. Paralta, according to Mr. Todd, will release 24 pictures a year, starring Henry Walthall, Bessie Barriscale and J. Warren Kerrigan in eight features each. Miss Barriscale in "Madame Who," and Kerrigan in "A Man's Man," are already completed and are being booked.

Many Splendid Holiday Shows.

Spokane, Wash.—The mythical person who has never seen a moving picture should have spent Christmas week in Spokane, where in profusion seldom equaled, the great stars of shadowland were on local screens throughout the seven days.

"Intolerance," which formerly played to capacity houses at the Auditorium, was at the Liberty theater all week at the regular prices. At the Clemmer was found Mary Pickford in her latest Artcraft picture, "The Little Princess"; at the Casino William Farnum in "When a Man Sees Red"; at the Lyric "Down to Earth," starring Douglas Fairbanks, and "Wolf Lowry," starring Will S. Hart. Anita King was at the Hippodrome in "The Girl Angle"; Robert Warwick in "The Family Honor," and Mollie King in "The Seven Pearls."

Short Items of the Trade.

Spokane, Wash.—More than an hour before the scheduled time for the performance of "Santa's Circus" Wednesday afternoon, December 26, the entrance of the American theater was filled with youngsters waiting for the doors to open.

Each of the employees of the Casino, Class A, Rex and Unique theaters received from their employer, C. E. Stilwell, a Christmas gift of $5 gold pieces.

Manager Sam W. B. Cohn of the Liberty theater also gave each of his employees $5 for Christmas.

The Lyric had packed houses Sunday, December 23, to see two stellar attractions—Will S. Hart in "Hell's Hinges," and Charlie Chaplin in "A Jitney Elopement." The Hart film had the usual thrills and escapades which the crack gunman delights in, and Chaplinesque incidents

Oregon Exhibitors' Random Shots.

Portland, Oregon.—C. S. Jensen, of Jensen & Von Herberg, was in Portland about New Year's time inspecting the company's interests here. His next visit will be Butte.

Vancouver, Wash.—J. P. Kiggins donated the Liberty and U. S. A. theaters for benefits on New Year's Eve. The employees of the houses handled the shows gratis and the receipts will be used in helping needy families in Vancouver.

Portland, Oregon.—Guy Robinson has installed additional projecting equipment in the Yeager theater and has put the house in first-class condition.

Mill City, Oregon.—M. Bragg, manager of the Opera House, has enlisted in the army and the house is being managed by E. C. Mason.

Portland, Oregon.—J. Sullivan, of the Powell theater, has gone to California for a two months' tour of the studios.

Portland, Oregon.—Recent visitors on film row were: Art Kolstadt, Hood River; J. B. Sparks, Heppner; J. P. Cotter, Baker; C. C. Ferguson, Newburg; E. T. Hettum, Kalama, Wash.; George Bligh, Salem.

Portland Oregon Suffers Film Delays

Oregon Exhibitors Again at Mercy of Seattle When Government Curtails Express Service—Argument for Exchanges in Portland.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Building, Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, OREGON.—Another strong argument in favor of establishing film exchanges in Portland to serve the Pacific Northwest territory presented itself when the government recently took over the direction of the railroads and pooled the express and other shipments.

There are now but two express trains between Portland and Seattle, one each way every day. The train leaves Portland for Seattle about ten at night, too early for film shipments after shows that night. The express arrives in the morning, usually about ten, the time, of late, having been so uncertain that shows have been delayed where Seattle film companies counted on close connections. In order to assure Portland theaters that their shows will be in on time for the first morning performance, it is necessary for Seattle to ship one day earlier than usual, also the shows shipped back to Seattle must be held over in Portland 24 hours longer than formerly on account of the early departure of the express train.

By reason of the pooling of service, the express cars that were formerly carried on the O. W. R. & N., Great Northern and Northern Pacific, are now all in one train.

The express service between Portland and Seattle is the only one which has been seriously affected by the Government order. The express service from Portland to Southern Oregon and east into Washington, Idaho and Eastern Oregon, is about normal. An example of the rapidity with which shipments between Portland exchanges and exhibitors in the Eastern Oregon territory are handled was recited at a local exchange which at noon received a can of film from Caldwell, Idaho, that had been shipped at eleven o'clock the night before.

Majestic Puts Over "Freedom of the World."

Portland, Oregon.—The Majestic theater, J. J. Parker, manager, conducted an extensive advertising campaign in conjunction with the showing of "For the Freedom of the World" during the week of January 5. House Manager H. D. Green and Publicity Expert Chas. E. Couche stayed up late nights thinking out ideas with the result that the picture was put over in good style.

One advertising novelty was a "tank" which traveled on the streets and attracted much attention. The "tank" was from the implement house of R. M. Wade and was a miniature tractor with camouflaged sides. Completely equipped, it was 27 feet long and 10 feet high.

An advance showing was held to the officers of the British recruiting station in Portland, who indorsed the picture as an excellent one to encourage recruiting. Officers of the United States Marine corps stated that the picture was one which all Americans ought to see, and these sentiments were taken advantage of in the advertising. A somewhat unusual stunt was to provide passes to the British recruiting office and making the public announcement that all British male subjects who called at the office would be given admission to the show. Most of the able-bodied Britishers who lived in Portland have already joined the colors and the slackers stayed away from the recruiting office, so no loss of revenue resulted.

The Majestic lobby was decorated with flags of the Allies and set with war relics, including an aerial torpedo, which attracted much attention.

Theater at Yacolt, Wash., Burns.

Portland, Oregon.—Exchanges have been advised that the Peoples theater at Yacolt, Wash., was destroyed by fire Sunday, December 30, at 10 A. M. The entire building was burned, the seats and piano being a total loss. Manager H. C. Murphy saved the projecting machines. The cause of the fire is a mystery, although it is conclusive that it was not a film fire. There were no films destroyed.

Clinton Theater Has House Organ.

Portland, Oregon.—The Clinton theatre, O. E. Sunderstrom, manager, is the latest theater to add a house organ to its advertising mediums. Manager Suderstrom gets out a neat little sheet each week with a list of his shows on it and reports excellent results. He says business is better this year by far than it was last, and that the increase is undoubtedly accounted for to some extent at least by his advertising.

The Alhambra, Sunnyside, Gay, Victoria and Union Avenue theaters are among those in the suburbs to use house organs.

S. C. Ayres Back in Portland.

Portland, Oregon.—S. C. Ayres, formerly an exhibitor in Albany, Oregon, and for several years in the distributing end of the industry, has been a visitor in Portland in the interests of the Western Civilization company, with which he has been affiliated for some time. "Civilization" has about been run through the territory and the company, of which Alex Pantages is president, has acquired other features for distribution.

New Year's Matinees Popular.

Portland, Oregon.—New Year's matinees were very well patronized this year and nearly every downtown house held one. Some of them advertised special stunts and the Liberty raised the admission price to 25 cents and did exceptional business. The Majestic provided New Year's entertainment in addition to its regular show and did a mop-up business at the usual admission price.

W. A. Long, at the Star theater, Oregon City, reported a successful midnight show, the receipts being better than last year.

With Oregon Road Men.

Portland, Oregon.—This is stock taking season in the exchanges and therefore several of the road men have been staying close to home. Harry Hunter and B. J. Sperry, representatives of Paramount, have been confining their activities to Portland and vicinity but expect to get out soon.

Fred Simonton, with the General Film Company and Paralta Plays, recently went into Eastern Oregon, taking some of the latter productions with him, and has written to the office that he is having excellent success in getting the contracts. Manager C. E. Waite, of the General, is devoting considerable time with the new productions, and if the atmosphere that pervades the General office counts for anything, his efforts are being rewarded with success.

Joe Dietch, with K-E-S-E, is another live wire in the territory. He made a recent trip to Seattle, covering the towns between there and Portland en route. He reports good business, but that exhibitors are suffering somewhat because of delayed train service that is having a general effect on business.

Ted Johnson, with Mutual, recently returned from Eastern Oregon territory, where he acquitted himself in such fine manner that Manager George Jackson is exceptionally proud of his road man.

Vern Schuback, travelling for Universal, emphatically denies the report that he is or was with Metro. If business getting ability counts for anything, Universal is not going to let him get away.

E. R. Simpson, formerly with Goldwyn, has been employed by Pathe and will make his headquarters in Portland.

Addresses of Film Exchanges

Up-to Date Lists of the Larger Groups of Film Distributors Arranged in Alphabetical Order

FOR the convenience of our readers and subscribers we are publishing herewith up-to-date lists of the head offices and branch exchanges of all the larger groups of film renters. The lists are arranged alphabetically by companies and also by cities. The film brands handled by each group are also listed alphabetically at the beginning of each list. Exhibitors are requested to file this copy for future use, as we will only be able to publish the lists at intervals on account of the space required. Time will usually be saved by corresponding with the nearest branch office, but matters may be taken up with the head office direct when desired. In all your correspondence with any of these offices, kindly refer to the Moving Picture World.

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation releases the following productions: Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Elsie Ferguson, George M. Cohan, Geraldine Farrar, Cecil B. De Mille, D. W. Griffith and William S. Hart photoplays.

Executive Offices.

485 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

With exchanges under the name of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, as follows:

Atlanta, Ga. .....51 Luckie Street
Boston, Mass.....10 Shawmut Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....145 Franklin Street
Butte, Mont.....403 S. Main Street
Chicago, Ill.....220 So. State Street
Cincinnati, Ohio .....107 West 3rd Street
Cleveland, Ohio.....811 Prospect Avenue
Dallas, Texas .....1902 Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....1747 Walton Street
Des Moines, Iowa.....Utica Bldg.
Detroit, Mich...278 East Jefferson Avenue
Kansas City, Mo.....2024 Broadway
Los Angeles, Cal.....Marsh-Strong Bldg.
Minneapolis, Minn....608 First Avenue, N.
New Haven, Conn.....128 Meadow Street
New Orleans, La.....814 Perdido St.
New York City, N. Y..729 Seventh Avenue
Omaha, Neb.....208 So. Thirteenth Street
Philadelphia, Pa. .....1219 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa. .....Penn Ave. & 12th St.
Portland, Me.....85 Market Street
Portland, Ore.....9th & Burnside
St. Louis, Mo.....14th and Locust Streets
Salt Lake City, Utah..133 E 2nd So. Street
San Francisco, Cal.....645 Pacific Bldg.
Seattle, Wash.....1200 Fourth Street
Washington, D. C.421 Tenth Street, N. W.

CANADA.

Famous Players Film Service, Ltd.,
Calgary, Alta.....Elma Block
Famous Players Film Service, Ltd.
Montreal, Que..198 St. Catherine St. West
Famous Players Film Service, Ltd.,
Toronto, Ont.....12 Queen St. East
Famous Players Film Service, Ltd.,
Winnipeg, Manitoba.....447 Main Street
Famous Players Film Service, Ltd.,
Vancouver, B. C.....Orpheum Theater
Famous Players Film Service, Ltd.,
St. John, N. B.....167 Prince William St.

AUSTRALIA.

Feature Films, Ltd.,
Sydney, N. S. W.....302 Pitt Street

ENGLAND.

Famous Players Film Co., Ltd.,
London.....170 Wardour Street

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Art Dramas, Inc., releases the following brands: Apollo, Erbograph, Horsley, U. S. Amusement Corporation, Van Dyke.
Executive Offices:

1400 Broadway, New York.

With branch offices as follows:

E. & H. Film Distributing Co.,
Atlanta, Ga.....65 Walton Street
Boston Photoplay Company,
Boston, Mass.....195 Pleasant Street
Standard Film Corporation,
Chicago, Ill.....207 South Wabash Street
Southwestern Art Dramas, Inc.,
Dallas, Tex.....1818 Main Street
Standard Film Corporation,
Des Moines, Iowa.....702 Mulberry Street
Standard Film Corporation,
Kansas City, Mo.....1305 Walnut Street
Sol Lesser,
Los Angeles, Cal...514 West Eighth Street
Standard Film Corporation,
Minneapolis, Minn...406 Film Exch. Bldg.
Southern Art Dramas Film Exchange,
New Orleans, La.....608 Canal Street
Modern Feature Photoplays, Inc,
New York City.....729 Seventh Avenue
Standard Film Corporation,
Omaha, Neb.....1417 Farnham Street
Electric Theater Supply Company,
Philadelphia, Pa.....1321 Vine Street
Liberty Film Renting Company,
Pittsburgh, Pa.....938 Penn Avenue
Sol Lesser,
San Francisco, Cal...191 Golden Gate Ave.
Standard Film Corporation,
St. Louis, Mo...304 Empress Theater Bldg.

CANADA.

Independent Film and Theater Supply Co.,
Montreal, Quebec.....7 Phillips Square

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT.

EXECUTIVE OFFICES:

18 East 41st Street, New York City.
First National Exchanges and Territorial Divisions.

ALASKA, WASHINGTON, OREGON, MONTANA, IDAHO.
1200 4th Avenue, Seattle, Washington.
All of Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Montana—All counties in Idaho north of and including Idaho County.

ARIZONA and SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA
833 So. Broadway, Los Angeles, California.
Southern California, including counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern, San Bernardino, and all south thereof. All of Arizona.

AUSTRALIA.
New York Office—Australasian Films, 729 7th Avenue.
Australian Office—Film House, Sydney. All of Australasia.

CALIFORNIA, NEVADA, HAWAII.
134 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco.
California north of counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern and San Bernardino; all of Nevada and Hawaii.

CANADA (Western).
1318 Standard Bank Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.
All Canada west of and including Fort William and Port Arthur.

CANADA (Eastern).
Imperial Theater, Ottawa, Canada.
All Canada east of but not including Fort William and Port Arthur.

COLORADO, NEW MEXICO, UTAH, WYOMING and PART OF IDAHO.
All counties in Idaho south of Idaho County.
1744 Curtis St., Denver, Colo.

GEORGIA, FLORIDA, ALABAMA and SOUTH CAROLINA.
146 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga.

ILLINOIS.
110 S. State Street, Chicago, Ill.

INDIANA.
24 W. Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind.

IOWA, KANSAS and NEBRASKA.
Garden Theater, Des Moines, Iowa.

KENTUCKY and TENNESSEE.
Rex Theater, Louisville, Ky.

LOUISIANA and MISSISSIPPI.
Strand Theater, New Orleans, La.

MICHIGAN.
73 Broadway, Detroit, Michigan.

MINNESOTA, NORTH and SOUTH DAKOTA.
717 Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

MISSOURI.
New Grand Central Theater, St. Louis, Mo.

MARYLAND, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA and DELAWARE.
Garden Theater, Washington, D. C.

NEW ENGLAND STATES.
20 Winchester Street, Boston, Mass.

NEW YORK.
509 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

NEW JERSEY.
509 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

OHIO.
302 Sloan Bldg., Prospect Ave., Cleveland.

PENNSYLVANIA (Eastern) and SO. NEW JERSEY.
1339 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
All counties in Pennsylvania east of Fulton, Huntington, Center, Clinton and Potter.

TEXAS, OKLAHOMA and ARKANSAS.
1920 Main Street, Dallas, Texas.

WEST VIRGINIA and WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA.
300 Westinghouse Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.
All of Pennsylvania counties west of and including Fulton, Huntington, Center, Clinton and Potter.

VIRGINIA and NORTH CAROLINA.
420 9th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WISCONSIN.
Toy Bldg., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

The Fox Film Corporation releases the following brands: Fox Sunshine Comedies, Fox Special Features, Standard Pictures.

Executive Offices,
130 West 46th Street, New York City,
With branch offices as follows:

Atlanta, Ga.....111 Walton Street
Boston, Mass.....54-56-58 Piedmont Street
Chicago, Ill.....Mallers Building
Cleveland, Ohio.....750 Prospect Avenue
Cincinnati, Ohio.....412 Vine Street
Dallas, Texas .....1907 Commerce Street
Detroit, Mich.....Mack Building
Denver, Colo.....1442 Welton Street
Indianapolis, Ind.....232 N. Illinois Street
Kansas City, Mo.....928 Main Street
Los Angeles, Cal...734 South Olive Street
Minneapolis, Minn....627 First Avenue N.
New York, N. Y.....130 West 46th Street
New Orleans, La.....832 Common Street
Omaha, Neb.....315 South 16th Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1333 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....121 Fourth Avenue
Salt Lake City, Utah...McIntyre Building
San Francisco, Cal..243 Golden Gate Ave.
Seattle, Wash.....2006 Third Avenue
St. Louis, Mo.....3632 Olive Street
Syracuse, N. Y.....445 S. Warren Street
Washington, D. C....305 Ninth St., N. W.

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Montreal, Que....322 S. Catherine St. W.
Toronto, Ont.....15 Wilton Avenue
St. John, N. B.....19 Market Square
Vancouver, B. C.,
508-9-10 Orpheum Theater Building
Winnipeg, Man.....115 Phoenix Block

UNITED KINGDOM.

London, Eng....74-76 Old Compton Street
Liverpool, Eng.....15 Manchester Street
Manchester, Eng.,
28 Deansgate Arcade, Deansgate, E.
Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng..20 Westgate Rd.
Leeds, Eng.....29 Albion Place
Birmingham, Eng.1-3 Temple St., New St.
Cardiff, Wales.....9 and 9-A Wharton St.
Glasgow, Scotland.....73 Dunlop Street
Dublin, Ireland,
Dame House, 24-26 Dame Street

CUBA.

Guantanamo.....Pablo Rafel, Agent

AUSTRALIA.

Sydney, N. S. W.Symond Bldg., 194 Pitt St.
Melbourne, Victoria,
Elizabeth and Little Collins Streets
Adelaide .....Peel Street
Brisbane .....Kodack Building

INDIA.

Bombay.....Krishnados & Bros, Agent

NEW ZEALAND.

Wellington, N. Z.....65 Willis Street

SOUTH AMERICA.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil....Rua Sao Jose 64
Sao Paulo, Brazil.Rua Santa Ephigenia 77
Buenos Aires, Argentine,
951 Calle Corrientes
Rosario, Argentine.....San Lorenzo 912
Montevideo, Uruguay.....1413 Rio Negro
Lima, Peru (for Chili, Peru, Bolivia).
Empresa de Cinemas y Teatros, Ltd., Agt.

SPAIN AND PORTUGAL.

Barcelona,
Julian Ajuria, Agent, Consejo Ciento 369

SCANDINAVIA AND RUSSIA.

Stockholm, Sweden,
Metropolitan, 3 Hollandaregat
Christiania, Norway.....4 Startingsgade

FOURSQUARE PICTURES.

Releasing all Foursquare Pictures.

Executive Offices:

729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

With branch offices known as Foursquare exchanges as follows:

Atlanta, Ga.....73 Walton Street
Boston, Mass.....16 Piedmont Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....47 West Swan Street
Chicago, Ill....207 South Wabash Avenue
Cincinnati, Ohio..301 Strand Theater Bldg.
Cleveland, Ohio.....Sloan Building
Dallas, Tex.....1911½ Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....1735 Welton Street
Detroit, Mich.....304 Joseph Mack Bldg.
Kansas City, Mo.....1120 Walnut Street
Los Angeles, Cal..514 West Eighth Street
Minneapolis, Minn....16 N. Fourth Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1325 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....127 Fourth Avenue
St. Louis, Mo..301 Empress Theater Bldg.
San Francisco, Cal....191 Golden Gate Ave.
Seattle, Wash.....2014 Third Ave.

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Montreal, Quebec.8 McGill College Avenue
St. John, N. B.....87 Union Street
Toronto, Ont.....63 Yonge Street

GENERAL FILM CO., INC.

The General Film Company, Inc., releases the following brands: Broadway Star Features (the O. Henry Series), Essanay (Black Cat Feature, George Ade "Fables in Slang" and Chaplins), Falcon Features, Kalem (series and comedies), George Kleine (George Bickel comedies), Jaxon Comedies (Pokes and Jabs), Selig (short subjects) and Selig World Library, Ray Comedies, Sparkle and Commonwealth Comedies, American War News Weekly, Paralta Plays.

Executive Offices,

440 Fourth Avenue, New York City,

With branch offices as follows:

Albany, N. Y.....48 Howard Street
Atlanta, Ga.....111 Walton Street
Bangor, Me.....123 Franklin Street
Boston, Mass.....28 Ferdinand Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....122 Pearl Street
Chicago, Ill.....139 North Clark Street
Cincinnati, Ohio.....514 Elm Street
Cleveland, Ohio.....809 Prospect Avenue
Columbus O.....26 West Naughton Street
Dallas, Texas.....2017 Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....533 Welton Street
Detroit, Mich.....59 E. Elizabeth Street
Indianapolis, Ind.122 W. New York Street
Kansas City, Mo.....921 Walnut Street
Los Angeles, Cal....738 South Olive Street
Minneapolis, Minn.....909 Hennepin Ave.
Memphis, Tenn.....302 Mulberry Street
New Haven, Conn.....126 Meadow Street
New Orleans, La.....343 Baronne Street
New York, N. Y.....71 West 23d Street
Omaha, Neb.....1508 Howard Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1308 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....1201 Liberty Avenue
Portland, Ore.....390 Burnside Avenue
St. Louis, Mo.....3610 Olive Street
San Francisco, Cal..255 Golden Gate Ave.
Seattle, Wash.....819 Third Avenue
Washington, D. C...7th and E Sts., N. W.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa.....50 E. Market Street

CANADIAN OFFICES.

GENERAL FILM COMPANY, LTD.

Executive Office:

243 Bleury Street, Montreal, Quebec.

With branch offices as follows:

St. John, N. B.....122 German Street
Toronto, Ont.....172 King Street W.
Vancouver, B. C.....440 Pender Street W.
Winnipeg, Man.....220 Phoenix Block

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM.

George Kleine System release the following brands: Edison (Conquest Program and multiple Reel Features), Essanay (Multiple Reel Features and "Do Children Count?" Series), Selig (Multiple Reel Features and Hoyt Comedies).

Executive Offices:

63 East Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

With branch offices as follows:

Atlanta, Ga. .....71 Walton Street
Boston, Mass.....14 Piedmont Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....Palace Theater Bldg.
Chicago, Ill. .....207 So. Wabash Avenue
Cincinnati, O.....111 E. Seventh Street
Cleveland, O. .....2077 E. 4th Street
Dallas, Tex. .....1812½ Commerce Street
Denver Colo.....729 18th Street
Detroit, Mich.....Film Exchange Building
Indianapolis, Ind. ....Lyric Theater Bldg.
Kansas City, Mo.....Ozark Bldg.
Los Angeles, Cal.....642 So. Olive Street
Minneapolis, Minn.....16 No. 4th Street
New Orleans, La.....714 Poydras Street
New York, N. Y.....729 7th Avenue
Philadelphia, Pa. .....1309 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa. .....123 4th Avenue
St. Louis, Mo.....3315 Olive Street
Salt Lake City, Utah..127 E. 2nd South St.
San Francisco, Cal..183 Golden Gate Ave.
Seattle, Wash.....2012 Third Avenue
Washington, D. C.....6th & F Sts. N. W.

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Toronto, Ont., Canada..39 Adelaide St. W.
Montreal, Que., Canada,
6 McGill College Avenue

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION.

Releasing all Goldwyn Productions and Distributing Special Productions.

Executive Offices:

16 East Forty-second Street.

With branch offices as follows:

Atlanta, Ga.....75 Walton Street
Boston, Mass.....40-44 Piedmont Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....200 Pearl Street
Chicago, Ill.....207 South Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati, O.....217 East Fifth Street
Cleveland, O..403 Standard Theater Bldg.
Dallas, Tex.....1922 Main Street
Denver, Colo.....1440 Welton Street
Detroit, Mich.....Film Exchange Bldg.
Kansas City, Mo.....1120 Walnut Street
Los Angeles, Cal....912 South Olive Street
Minneapolis, Minn..16-18 N. Fourth Street
New York, N. Y.....509 Fifth Avenue
Philadelphia, Pa...Cor. 13th and Vine Sts.
Pittsburgh, Pa.....1201 Liberty Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.....985 Market Street
St. Louis, Mo.....3312 Lindell Blvd.
Seattle, Wash.....2018 Third Avenue
Washington, D. C..714 Eleventh St.., N. W.

CANADIAN OFFICES.

GOLDWYN PICTURES, LTD., OF CANADA

Executive Office:

21 Adelaide St., W., Toronto, Ont.

With branch offices as follows:

Calgary.....315 MacLean Street
Montreal, Quebec...31 McGill College Ave.
St. John, N. B.....19 Market Square
Toronto, Ont.....21 Adelaide St., W.
Vancouver, B. C.....304 Orpheum Block
Winnipeg, Manitoba.....445 Main Street

GREATER VITAGRAPH, INC.

Greater Vitagraph, Inc., releases the following: Big V Comedies, a Bobby Connelly series release, two Favorite Film Features, a two-reel episode of "The Fighting Trail" and a Multiple Reel Feature.

Executive Offices:

1600 Broadway, New York City.

With branch offices as follows:

Atlanta, Ga.....111 Walton Street
Boston, Mass.....67 Church Street
Chicago, Ill...Adams St. and Wabash Ave.
Cincinnati, O....N. W. Cor. 7th & Main St.
Cleveland, O.....2077 East Fourth Street
Dallas, Tex.....1900 Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....1433 Champa Street
Detroit, Mich.....John R & Elizabeth Sts.
Kansas City, Mo.....12th and Walnut Sts.
Los Angeles, Cal....643 South Olive Street
Milwaukee.....Third and Grand Avenues
Minneapolis, Minn....608 North First Ave.
New Orleans, La....347 Carondelet Street
New York City.....1600 Broadway
Omaha, Neb.....1111 Farnum Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....229 North 12th Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....117 Fourth Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.....985 Market Street
Salt Lake City, Utah....62 Exchange Pl.
St. Louis, Mo.....3310 Lindell Boulevard
Seattle, Wash.....415 Olive Street
Syracuse, N. Y.....117 Walton Street
Washington, D. C.....710 Eleventh Street

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Montreal, Canada.....401 Bleury Street
St. Johns, N. B...167 Prince William Street
Toronto, Ont.....21 Dundas Street, E.
Winnipeg.....114 Phoenix Block

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Releasing All Jewel Productions.
Executive Offices:

1600 Broadway, New York City.

With Branch Offices as Follows:

Atlanta, Ga.....916 Healey Building
Boston, Mass.....60 Church Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....35 Church Street
Butte, Mont.....52 East Broadway
Cleveland, Ohio.....812 Columbia Bldg.
Chicago, Ill.....222 So. State Street
Cincinnati, Ohio...401 Strand Theater Building
Dallas, Texas.....1900 Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....1422 Welton Street
Detroit, Mich.....59 East Elizabeth Street
Des Moines, Iowa.....918 Locust Street
Indianapolis, Ind.....113 West Georgia Street
Kansas City, Mo.....12th and Walnut Streets
Los Angeles, Cal.....822 So. Olive Street
Minneapolis, Minn.....717 Hennepin Avenue
Memphis, Tenn.....226 Union Avenue
New Orleans, La.....914 Gravier Street
Oklahoma City, Okla...116 West Second Street
Omaha, Neb.....1122 Farnum Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1304 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....1201 Liberty Avenue
Phoenix, Ariz.....117 No. Second Street

Portland, Ore.....405 Davis Street
Salt Lake City, Utah.....56 Exchange Place
San Francisco, Cal.....121 Golden Gate Avenue
Washington, D. C.....307 9th Street, N. W.

Branch Offices in Canada.

Calgary, Alta.....407 Eighth Avenue
Montreal, Quebec.....296 St. Catherine Street
St. John, N. B.....87 Union Street
Toronto, Ont.....106 Richmond Street
Vancouver, B. C.....711 Dunsmuir Avenue
Winnipeg, Man.....40 Atkins Building

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION.

The Metro Pictures Corporation releases the following brands: Metro, Metro-Rolfe, Metro-Yorke, Metro-Drew.

Executive offices:

1476 Broadway, New York City.

With branch offices as follows:

Metro Pictures Corp.,
Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta Street
Metro Pictures Corporation of N. E.,
Boston, Mass.....60 Church Street
N. Y. Metro Film Service,
Albany, N. Y.....Broadway and Clinton St.
N. Y. Metro Film Service,
Buffalo, N. Y.....Palace Theater
Metro Picture Service,
Chicago, Ill.....5 S. Wabash Avenue
Metro Film Service, Inc.,
Cincinnati, O.....7th and Main Streets
Metro Pictures Corp.,
Dallas, Tex.....1905½ Commerce Street
Metro Pictures Corp.,
Denver, Colo.....1721 California Street
Metro Pictures Service,
Des Moines, Ia.....920 Walnut Street
Metro Pictures Service,
Detroit, Mich.....75 Broadway
Metro Pictures Service,
Escanaba, Mich.....517 Ludington Street
Metro Pictures Service,
Kansas City, Mo.....928 Main Street
Metro Pictures Corp.,
Los Angeles, Cal.....820 Olive Street
Metro Pictures Service,
Minneapolis, Minn.....Produce Exch.
Metro Pictures Corp.,
Milwaukee, Wis.....Toy Bldg.
Southern Metro Pictures Corp.,
New Orleans, La.....712 Paydros Street
N. Y. Metro Film Service,
New York, N. Y.....729 Seventh Avenue
N. J. Metro Film Service,
New York, N. Y.....11 West 23d Street
Metro Film Exchange,
Philadelphia, Pa.....1321 Vine Street
Metro Pictures Service,
Pittsburgh, Pa.....938 Penn Avenue
Metro Pictures Service,
St. Louis, Mo.....3618 Olive Street
Metro Pictures Corp.,
San Francisco, Cal.....55 Jones Street
Metro Pictures Corporation,
Salt Lake City.....14 Post Office Place
Metro Pictures Corp.,
Seattle, Wash.....2002 Third Avenue
Metro Pictures Service,
Washington, D. C....9th and D Sts., N. W.

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Metro Pictures Service,
Montreal, Canada..8 McGill College Avenue
Metro Pictures Service,
Toronto.....163 Yonge Street
Western Metro Service,
Vancouver, B. C.....Orpheum Theater

GREAT BRITAIN.

Ruffells Exclusive, Ltd.,
London, England.....9 Long Acre

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION.

The Mutual Film Corporation releases the following brands: Chas. Frohman's Successes in Moving Pictures, Cub, Gaumont, La Salle, Monmouth ("Jimmie Dale alias the Grey Seal" serial), Monogram ("The Shorty Hamilton" series), Mutual Chaplin, Mutual Special ("The Great Stanley Secret" serial), Mutual Star Production, Mutual Weekly, Niagara ("The Perils of Our Girl Reporter" series), Signal Producing Company ("The Lost Express" serial), Strand Comedy and Vogue Comedy.

Executive offices:

220 South State street, Chicago, Ill.

With branch offices as follows:

Albany, N. Y.....733 Broadway
Atlanta, Ga.....146 Marietta Street
Baltimore, Md.....413 E. Baltimore
Boston, Mass.....39 Church Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....106 Pearl Street
Chicago, Ill.....Consumers Building
Cincinnati, O.....224 E. 7th Street
Cleveland, O....750 Prospect Avenue, S. E.
Dallas, Tex.....1807 Main Street
Denver, Colo.....1724 Welton Street
Detroit, Mich.....Film Exchange Bldg.,
Elizabeth & John R Streets
Indianapolis, Ind..150 North Illinois Street
Kansas City, Mo.....928 Main Street
Los Angeles, Cal....825 South Olive Street
Milwaukee, Wis...301 Enterprise Building
Minneapolis, Minn...22 North Sixth Street
New Orleans, La.....816 Perdido Street
New York City, Mutual Film Exchange,
1600 Broadway
Oklahoma City...Box 978, 7-15 Walker St.
Omaha, Neb.....1306 Farnham Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1219 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....420 Penn Avenue
Portland, Ore.....9th and Davis Street
Salt Lake City, Utah....123 E. 2d South St.
San Francisco, Cal.....177 Golden Gate
St. Louis, Mo.....1311 Pine Street
Seattle, Wash.....1933 Third Avenue
Washington, D. C.....419 Ninth St., N. W.

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Toronto, Canada.....21 Dundas St., East
Calgary, Canada.....7th and 4th Sts., W.
Montreal, Canada.....345 Bleury Street
St. John, Canada.....39 Waterloo Street
Vancouver, Canada....263 Granville Street
Winnipeg, Canada,
26 Aiken Building, McDermott Avenue

PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORPORATION.

The Paramount Pictures Corporation releases the following brands: Arbuckle Comedies, Black Diamond Comedy, J. Stuart Blackton Photoplays, Burton Holmes Travelogue, Bray Pictographs, Famous Players, Thomas H. Ince Photoplays, Klever Comedy, Lasky, Morosco, Pallas, Mack-Sennett Comedies.

Executive Offices:

485 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

With branch offices as follows:

(For Exchanges handling all Paramount Productions see list of Offices under Artcraft Pictures Corporation.)

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.

Pathe Exchange, Inc., releases the following brands: Astra, Hearst-Pathe News, Interantional, Lasalida, Rolin, Thanhouser.

Executive Offices

25 W. 45th St., New York City.

With branch offices as follows:

Albany, N. Y.....398 Broadway
Atlanta, Ga.....111 Walton Street
Boston, Mass.....7 Isabella Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....269 Main Street
Charlotte, N. C.....2 S. Graham Street
Chicago, Ill.....220 South State Street
Cincinnati, O.....124 East Seventh Street
Cleveland, O.....750 Prospect Avenue, S. E.
Dallas, Texas.....2012½ Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....1229 16th Street
Des Moines, Iowa..316 West Locust Street
Detroit, Mich.....63 East Elizabeth Street
Indianapolis, Ind.....224 N. Meidian St.
Kansas City, Mo.....928 Main Street
Los Angeles, Cal.....732 South Olive St.
Milwaukee, Wis.....174 Second Street
Minneapolis, Minn.....608 First Ave. N.
Newark, N. J.....6 Mechanic Street
New Orleans, La.....836 Common Street
New York, N. Y.....1600 Broadway
Oklahoma City, Okla....109 W. Second St.
Omaha, Neb.....1417 Harney Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1235 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....938 Penn Avenue
Salt Lake City, Utah....68 S. Main Street
San Francisco, Cal....985 Market Street
Seattle, Wash.....810 Third Avenue
St. Louis, Mo.....3210 Locust Street
Spokane, Wash..12 S. Washington Street
Washington, D. C.....601 F Street, N. W.

CANADIAN OFFICES, PATHE BRANDS.

SPECIALTY FILM IMPORT, Ltd.

Executive Offices
313 Bleury Street, Montreal, Quebec.

Calgary, Alberta..Leeson & Lineham Blk.
St. John, N. B.....167 Prince William
Toronto, Ontario.....56 King Street W.
Winnipeg, Man.....382 Donald Street
Vancouver, B. C.....553 Granville Street

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION.

Releasing All Select Pictures.

Executive Offices 729 Seventh Avenue,
New York City,

With Branch Offices as Follows:

Atlanta, Ga.....61 Walton Street
Boston, Mass.....69 Church Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....176 Franklin Street
Chicago, Ill.....220 South State Street
Cincinnati, O.....302 Strand Theater Bldg.
Cleveland, O.....Columbia Building
Dallas, Tex.....1919 Main Street
Denver, Colo.....1541 Welton Street
Detroit, Mich.....Film Exchange Bldg.,
Elizabeth & John R Streets
Kansas City, Mo.....920 Main Street
Los Angeles, Cal....736 South Olive Street
Minneapolis, Minn..Film Exchange Bldg.
Omaha, Neb.....1512 Howard Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1335 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....1201 Liberty Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.....985 Market Street
Seattle, Wash.....308 Virginia Street
St. Louis, Mo.....3313 Olive Street
Washington, D. C...525 13th Street, N. W.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORP.

The Triangle Distributing Corporation releases the following brands: Triangle-Plays, Triangle Komedies, Keystone Comedies.

Executive Offices

1457 Broadway, New York City,

With branch offices as follows:

Atlanta, Ga.....51 Luckie Street
Boston, Mass.....48-50 Melrose Street
Chicago, Ill.....5 South Wabash Avenue
Cincinnati, Ohio.....215 East 5th Street
Cleveland, Ohio.....704 Sincere Bldg.
Dallas, Texas.....1814 Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....1435 Champa Street
Detroit, Mich.....71-75 Broadway
Kansas City, Mo...22nd St. and Grand Ave.
Los Angeles, Cal....643 South Olive Street
Milwaukee, Wis...172 Toy Bldg., 2d Street
Minneapolis, Minn.....16-18 N. 4th Street
New Orleans, La....340 Carondelet Street
New York, N. Y.....1457 Broadway
New Haven, Conn.....130 Meadow Street
Omaha, Neb.....13th and Harney Streets
Philadelphia, Pa.....1227 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....414 Penn Avenue
St. Louis, Mo.....3320 Lindell Boulevard
Salt Lake City, Utah..58 Exchange Place
San Francisco, Cal..111 Golden Gate Ave.
Seattle, Wash.....2010 Third Ave.
Washington, D. C.....712 13th St., N. W.

UNIVERSAL FILM EXCHANGES.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company releases the following brands: Animated Weekly, L-Ko, Nestor, Universal Current Events, Universal Screen Magazine, Special Attractions.

Executive Offices,

1600 Broadway, New York City.

With branch offices as follows:

Consolidated Film & Supply Co.,
Atlanta, Ga.....916 Healy Bldg.
New England Universal,
Boston, Mass.....13-19 Stanhope Street
Victor Film Service,
Buffalo, N. Y.....35 Church Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Butte, Mont.....52 East Broadway
Universal Film Exchange,
Charlotte, N. C....307 West Trade Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Chicago, Ill.....220 South State Street
Cincinnati-Buckeye Co.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.....531 Walnut Street
Universal Supply Company,
Cairo, Ill.....8th & Washington Aves.
Victor Film Service,
Cleveland, Ohio.....Prospect & Huron Sts.
Consolidated Film Supply Co.,
Dallas, Texas.....1900 Commerce Street

Universal Film Exchange,
Denver, Col.....1422 Welton Street
Laemmle Film Exchange,
Des Moines, Ia. .....918 Locust Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Detroit, Mich. .....101 West Fort Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Escanaba, Mich.
Universal Film & Supply Co.,
Fort Smith, Ark.
Consolidated Film Supply Co.,
Jacksonville, Fla. ....330 Forsythe Street
Central Film Service,
Indianapolis, Ind....113 West Georgia St.
Universal Film & Supply,
Kansas City, Mo.....214 East 12th Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Harrisburg, Pa. .....5 So. 4th Street
Consolidated Film & Supply Co.,
Houston, Tex. .....801 Franklin Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Milwaukee, Wis. .....133 Second Street
Consolidated Film Supply Co.,
Memphis, Tenn. .....226 Union Avenue
Laemmle Film Service,
Minneapolis, Minn....717 Hennepin Avenue
Universal Film Exchange,
New Haven, Conn. ....229 Meadow Street
Consolidated Film & Supply Co.,
New Orleans, La.....914 Gravier Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Newark, N. J.....25 Branford Place
Universal Film Exchange,
New York City.....1600 Broadway
Universal Film & Supply Co.,
Oklahoma City, Okla..116 West 2nd Street
Laemmle Film Service,
Omaha, Neb. .....1122 Farnum Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Grand Rapids, Mich.....5 Hawkins Bldg.
California Film Exchange,
Los Angeles, Cal.....736 So. Olive Street
Interstate Film & Supply Co.,
Philadelphia, Pa. .....1304 Vine Street
Eagle Projection Co.,
Philadelphia, Pa. .....1304 Vine Street
Philadelphia Film Exchange,
Philadelphia, Pa.....223 West 13th Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Phoenix, Ariz.....117 No. 2nd Street
Independent Film Exchange,
Pittsburgh, Pa. .....938 Penn Avenue
Film Supply Co.,
Portland, Ore. .....401 Davis Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Salt Lake City, Utah...56 Exchange Place
California Film Exchange,
San Francisco, Cal..121 Golden Gate Ave.
Film Supply Co.,
Seattle, Wash.....217 Virginia Street
Universal Film Supply Co.,
Spokane, Wash...16 So. Washington Street
Universal Film Exchange,
Springfield, Mass.....326 Dwight Street
Universal Film & Supply Co.,
St. Louis, Mo.....2116 Locust Street
Toledo Film Exchange,
Toledo, Ohio.....439 Huron Street
Washington Film Supply Co.,
Washington, D. C....419 9th Street N. W.
Universal Film Exchange,
Wichita, Kan.....209 East 1st Street
Exhibitors Film Service,
Wilkes-Barre, Pa. .....61 So. Penn Street

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Canadian Film Exchange,
Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada,
40 Aikens Bldg.
Canadian Film Exchange,
St. Johns, N. B., Canada...87 Union Street
Canadian Film Exchange,
Calgary, Alta., Canada..407 Eighth Avenue
Canadian Film Exchange,
Vancouver, B. C., Canada...711 Dunsmuir
Canadian Universal Film Co.,
Montreal, Canada..295 St. Catherine Street
Canadian Universal Film Co.,
Toronto, Canada.....106 Richmond Street

FOREIGN OFFICES.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
Tokio, Japan,
14 Sanchome, Minamidenmacho, Kiobashi
Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
Bombay, India,
Heera House, Sandhurst Rd., Girguam
Excelsior,
Buenos Aires, Argentina.....Lima 691
E. Martinez y Gunche,
Buenos Aires, Argentina.....Bogota 2879
Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
Manila, P. I.....206 Roxas Bldg
Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
Singapore, S. S.....62 Orchard Road
Agencia Cinematographica Universal,
Rio de Janeiro.....25 Rua Treze de Maio
Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
San Juan, P. R.....6½ Tetuan Street
Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
Bandoeng, Java .....Z. W. 37 Pasirkliki
Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
Havana, Cuba.....Edificio Campoamor
Universal Film Mfg. Co.,
Mexico City, Mexico.....102 Uruguay

WORLD FILM CORPORATION.

The World Film Corporation releases the following brands: Brady-International, World Pictures-Brady Made.

Executive Offices:
130 West 46th Street, New York City.

With branch offices as follows:
Atlanta, Ga.....148 Marietta Street
Boston, Mass.....147 Pleasant Street
Buffalo, N. Y.....269 Main Street
Chicago, Ill.....207 South Wabash Avenue
Cincinnati, O..N. W. Cor 7th and Main Sts.
Cleveland, Ohio.....Belmont Building
Dallas, Texas.....1905 Commerce Street
Denver, Colo.....1753 Welton Street
Detroit, Mich.Cor. John R & Elizabeth Sts.
Indianapolis, Ind.....234 N. Illinois Street
Kansas City, Mo.....928 Main Street
Los Angeles, Cal.....818 S. Olive Street
Minneapolis, Minn.....6th St. & 1st Ave.
New Orleans, La.....815 Union Street
New York, N. Y.....130 W. 46th Street
Omaha, Neb.....1508 Harney Street
Philadelphia, Pa.....1317 Vine Street
Pittsburgh, Pa.....938 Penn Avenue
St. Louis, Mo.....3626 Olive Street
Salt Lake City, Utah..135 E. 2nd South St.
San Francisco, Cal...104 Golden Gate Ave.
Seattle, Wash.....1301 Fifth Avenue
Washington, D. C.....1004 E St., N. W.

CANADIAN OFFICES.

Regal Films, Ltd.,
37 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ont.

Order Now!

The Latest Issue
of the
BOUND VOLUMES
OF THE
MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Comprising All the Issues of October, November and December, 1917

Substantially Bound in Cloth
PRICE
$1.50
Transportation Charges Additional

Ready January 15, 1918

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 516 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending January 26 and February 2, 1918

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 582, 584, 586, 588.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1918.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL PRODUCTION—Madame Spy (Five Parts—Drama)	02855
NESTOR—Who's to Blame (Comedy)	02856

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1918.

L-KO—Ashcan Alley (Two Parts—Comedy)	02857
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Issue No. 8 (Topical)	02858

SATURDAY, JANUARY 26, 1918.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 55 (Educational)	02859
UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS—Issue No. 37 (Topical)	02860
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Red Ace (Episode No. 15—"Hell's Riders"—Two Parts—Drama)	02861
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 9—"The Black Masks"—Two Parts—Drama)	02862
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—The Finley Nature Pictures (One Reel—Educational)	02863

MONDAY, JANUARY 28, 1918.

UNIVERSAL PRODUCTION—The Phantom Riders (Five Parts—Drama)	02865
NESTOR—Vamping the Vamp (Comedy)	02866

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1918.

L-KO—Barberous Plots (Two Parts—Comedy)	02867
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Issue No. 9 (Topical)	02868

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1918.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 56 (Educational)	02869
UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS—Issue No. 38 (Topical)	02870
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—The Red Ace (Sixteenth and Final Episode "Virginia's Triumph"—Two Parts—Drama)	02871
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 10 "The Rescue"—Two Parts—Drama)	02872
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Finley Nature Studies No. 3 "Bears of the Yellowstone" and "The Long White Trail" (Scenic—Split Reel)	02873

Mutual Film Corporation

MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1918.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—In Bad (American—Five Parts—Drama)	4FR5
MUTUAL WEEKLY—Issue 4 (Topical)	4W1

TUESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1918.

STRAND—Their Little Kid (Comedy)	4CSTI

MONDAY, JANUARY 28, 1918.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Beauty and the Rogue (American—Five Parts—Drama)	5FM5
MUTUAL WEEKLY—Issue No. 5 (Topical)	5W1

TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1918.

STRAND—Somebody's Widow (Comedy)	5CST1

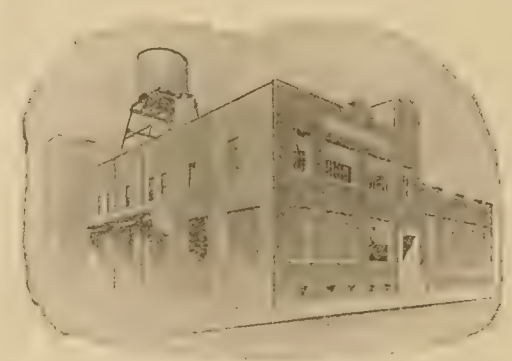
If your newsdealer cannot or will not supply you every week with a copy of this paper, send your subscription direct for one year or six months to address below. You cannot afford to miss a single issue.

See Title Page for Rates.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. City



LABORATORIES and STUDIO

ERBOGRAPH COMPANY

LUDWIG G. B. ERB, President

Producers of

MOTION PICTURE FILMS

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPING and PRINTING

Telephone Audubon 3716

203 to 211 West 146th St., New York City

The First National Exhibitors Circuit looked us over very carefully before we were awarded the contract to do all their developing and printing.

The fact that we have the very best Laboratory-Studio in America and an unblemished reputation extending over a period of more than seven years, naturally had something to do with their decision.

If you are interested in securing quality prints, combined with satisfying service, it will pay you to communicate with us.

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

Advertising Aids for Busy Managers

COMPILED BY THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD'S STAFF

BROADWAY LOVE.

Bluebird Presents Dorothy Phillips in Ida May Park's Adaptation of W. Carey Wonderly's Romance in Snappy Stories.

Cast.

Midge O'Hara.....Dorothy Phillips
Cherry Blow.....Juanita Hansen
Mrs. Watkins.....Gladys Tennyson
Henry Rockwell.....William Stowell
Elmer Watkins.....Lon Chaney
Jack Chalvey.....Harry von Meter

Directed by Ida May Park.

The Story: Not all screen stories of the stage are anything like the real life, but W. Carey Wonderly knows his Broadway clear to the back streets where the chorus girls live, and he has drawn a graphic picture that is as accurate as it is colorful. Not all chorus girls are Midge O'Haras, but there are Midge O'Haras in every chorus.

For the Program: The lighted way and lighter way.

Klondyke gold buys Broadway pleasures.

Advertising Phrases: Leaped from Taxi into matrimony.

A ballad of Broadway and the Boardwalk.

Feature These Players: Dorothy Phillips as the country girl making her way upon the stage.

William Stowell as the miner.

Lon Chaney as the country lover.

Stunt Suggestions: For your lobby make a solid black oblong on a frame card. Letter it, "This is a picture of New York's Broadway on a 'lightless night.' 'Broadway Love,' the Newest Bluebird, was made while it was still the Great White Way. See the difference (date)." For a window display let the toes of a pair of pink stockings protrude from a bowl of soapy and rather dirty water, being careful that the fabric does not come so far over the edge as to siphon off the water. Use with a card reading, "Midge O'Hara laundered her tights in the washbowl, and she eat at the Automat when she had no party on, but she stayed straight and was getting ahead until she met 'Broadway Love.' See it at the (house and date). A Snappy Stories prize novel made real upon the screen."

Advertising Aids: One style each one, three and six-sheets. Stock one-sheet of star. Colored and black and white lobby displays. Slide. Player cuts in three sizes. Scene cuts in one and two columns. Heralds. Press sheet. Ideas sheet.

Released Jan. 21.

BROWN OF HARVARD.

William N. Selig Presents Hazel Daly and Tom Moore in a Six-Part Adaptation of the Play by Rida Johnson Young and Gilbert P. Coleman.

Cast.

Tom Brown.....Tom Moore
Claxton Madden.....Warner Richmond
Evelyn Ames.....Hazel Daly
Wilton Ames.....Kempton Greene
Victor Colton.....Sidney Ainsworth

Directed by Harry Beaumont.

The Story: Evelyn breaks her engagement to Tom because she finds Marion Thorne hidden in his apartments when she and her mother visit him. Tom cannot explain without involving Evelyn's brother, who has become entangled with Marion. From this false start a chain of disasters grow until Tom, after rowing his crew to victory, is denounced on the float as the betrayer of Marion by her infuriated brother, but there is still a spark of manhood left in young Ames, and he clears up the misunderstandings.

For the Program: The most famous play of college life.

A stage success that still endures.

Advertising Phrases: See the tremendous boat race scenes.

The truest picture of college life.

Feature These Players: Hazel Daly as Evelyn Ames.

Tom Moore as the college oarsman.

Stunt Suggestions: The Harvard crimson will lend itself to lobby decoration, together with pennants of all colleges, sculls, etc. If there is a local rowing organization arrange for a display of their trophies in some store window with a card to hook up your attraction. Invite the crew to the theater. If there is no local crew get hold of any set of trophies. Work in with dealers in sporting goods for window displays. It might be possible to plan the window demonstraction of a rowing machine.

Advertising Aids: Not stated.

THE BEAUTIFUL MRS. REYNOLDS.

William A. Brady Presents a Fascinating Page from Our Early History, Made to Live Again Through the Clever Adaptation of Samuel M. Weller.

Cast.

Aaron Burr.....Arthur Ashley
Alexander Hamilton....Carlyle Blackwell
Maria Reynolds.....June Elvidge
James Reynolds.....Carl Girard
Jacob Clingman.....Hubert Wilke
Margaret Moncrieffe.....Evelyn Greeley

Directed by Arthur Ashley.

The Story: No fabricated romance can excell for intensity the life-long enmity between Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton that started when, as young men, Burr believed Hamilton had prevented his marriage to the beautiful Margaret Moncrieffe and ended only with the death of Hamilton in the famous duel, Mr. Weller has made a thrilling, pulsing story of the love affair between Hamilton and the lovely Maria Reynolds. Few modern stories can equal it for absorbing interest.

For the Program: History made human.

Based upon facts, but exceeding fiction.

Advertising Phrases: The most powerful love story of American history.

Love ended only at the grave.

Feature These Players: Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge, Evelyn Greeley, and Arthur Ashley are featured in this production, but a notable cast is employed to give adequate personation to the many famous characters of history who form this story.

Stunt Suggestions: Study closely and follow the suggestions in the press sheet. If you can locate a pair of old dueling pistols these will make a good display in the lobby. Borrow a small show-case in which to display them. Do not offer them as the original weapons, but as like the originals, explaining that the originals are used in the picture. Get the local stationer to display the latest novels along with a couple of American histories, and a card reading, "There are more thrilling stories in history than in all the recent fiction, but it is only occasionally that history is made human. See the story of the Burr-Hamilton duel in 'The Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds' at (house and dae), but get the rest of your fiction here."

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheet posters. Free advance poster. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14, and 22x28. Cuts (2) one-column and (1) two-column. Two-color heralds. Press sheet. Slides.

Released January 21.

THE EYES OF MYSTERY.

B. A. Rolfe Presents Edith Storey in June Mathis' Five-Part Adaptation of The House in the Mist, by Octavus Roy Cohen and J. U. Giesey.

Cast.

Carma Carmichael.....Edith Storey
Jack Carrington.....Bradley Barker
Roger Carmichael.....Harry S. Northrup
Quincy Carmichael.....Frank Andrews
Steve Graham.....Kampton Greene
Seth Megget.....Frank Fisher Bennett

Directed by Tod Browning.

The Story: Carma Carmichael is kidnapped from her uncle's home by her own father and taken to his Southern plantation near the mysterious House in the Mist. Her uncle apparently takes no heed, but presently his death is announced, with Jack Carrington as his heir. Jack must, however, gain the codicil, which is hidden in the House in the Mist. Carma, hurt at her uncle's apparent abandonment, joins with her father in seeking to prevent Jack from gaining the codicil, but love proves stronger than loyalty, and in the end love wins.

For the Program: An ingenious story of a man who knew women.

Adventure makes the heart grow fonder.

Advertising Phrases: Kidnapped by her own father.

Is a woman's first duty due her father or the man she loves?

Feature These Players: Edith Storey as Carma.

Bradley Barker as the man she loves.

Stunt Suggestions: Mount on cloth a portrait one-sheet of Miss Storey or any other woman in which the eyes look directly at the spectator. Cut out the eyes and paint out any lettering. Stretch over a shallow box, and on the back of the box letter, "Edith Storey in a story of adventure, 'The Eyes of Mystery' (date). See what she saw through the portrait's eyes." Light the sign, and above the portrait place the invitation, "See what you can see through 'The Eyes of Mystery'." For a wagon sign use, "One woman, plus one man, plus one adventure equals one marriage. To prove the sum see 'The Eyes of Mystery' (house and date)." Use the plus and equal signs instead of the words. This might be repeated on toy blackboards in shops where these blackboards are sold.

Advertising Aids: One style each one, three and six-sheets. Press sheet. Filler sheet. Ten minute novel for newspapers. Slide. Herald. Lobby sheet. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14, and 22x28. Mats and cuts.

Released January 21.

CUPID'S ROUND-UP.

•William Fox Presents the Death-Defying Tom Mix in a Comedy of the West with Thrills and Surprises in Abundance.

Cast.

Larry Kelly.....Tom Mix
James Kelly (Larry's father).E. B. Tilton
Helen Baldwin.....Wanda Petit
Buckland.....Roy Watson
Peggy Blair.....Verne Mesereau
Jim Cocksey.....Al Padgett
McGinnis.....Fred Clark

Directed by Edward J. LeSaint.

The Story: James Kelly and Tom Baldwin, young prospectors, made their millions together in the Black Hills. They betroth their infant children, and when they grow up the children, who have never met, place filial obedience before their happiness and prepare to complete the contract. But imagine Larry's huge delight when he finds that Helen has already won his heart!

For the Program: A red-blood romance of the range.
They didn't want to marry, but they did.

Advertising Phrases: Sometimes it's safe to let Dad pick out your wife.
Trouble was his second best friend.

Feature These Players: Tom Mix in his first William Fox play.
Wanda Petit, his energetic leading woman.

Stunt Suggestions: Obtain or make a revolver target. "Shoot" the bullseye out with a drive punch. Put on a card lettered, "Tom Mix hits the bullseye whether it's paper or photoplays. See him ring the dead centre in 'Cupid's Round-Up' (date)." Give a cowboy matinee, with free admissions for all children under twelve in wild-west suits. Play up talk on this costume feature.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Lobby display 8x10, 11x14, and 22x28. Slide. Mats. Press sheet.
Released January 13.

DODGING A MILLION.

Goldwyn Presents Mabel Normand in a Mystery Drama of Love, Thrills and Laughter by Edgar Selwyn and A. M. Kennedy.

Cast.

Arabella Flynn.....Mabel Normand
Jack Forsythe.....Tom Moore
Signor Rodrigues.....J. Herbert Frank
Forelady.....Shirley Aubert
Luella.....Rita Dane
Luella's Friend.....Norah Sprague
Lawyer's Clerk.....Bruce Biddle

Directed by George Loane Tucker.

The Story: Arabella Flynn, a dresser in a modiste's shop, is suddenly told that she has inherited a fortune from a wealthy aunt who lived in Guatamala. She is given a check for $800, but she cannot spend it, for all the tradesmen are anxious to do business on credit with the new heiress. But the lawyer's clerk makes frantic efforts to recover the check, and succeeds in alarming the creditors who drive Arabella to suicide before he can explain he wants to change it from $800 to $800,000—though it all comes out nicely in the end.

For the Program: Mabel Normand in a play that fits her to a T.
All the fascinating mystery of a detective story without the sordid crime.

Advertising Phrases: Mabel Normand in a play you can't help liking.
Return to the screen of the famous favorite.

Feature These Players: Mabel Normand, who makes her bow under the Goldwyn banner.
Tom Moore as the son of the corset manufacturer.

Stunt Suggestions: Use a South American in a palm beach suit for street work, with a sign on his back, "I am Mabel Normand's good angel in 'Dodging a Million.' See me at (house and date)." For lobby work set portrait of Miss Normand or one of the 22x28s in a shadow box in the lobby. To the back of the box fasten a number of fake greenbacks by short black threads. Put an electric fan behind the picture to keep the bills blowing about.

Advertising Aids: Rotogravure one-sheet. One-sheet in colors. Two three-sheets. One 24-sheet. Two double-column scene cuts, and three singles; also one and two-column cuts and mats of star. Lobby displays 8x10,-11x24, 22x28. Press sheet.
Released January 28.

THE FLAME OF CHANCE.

Triangle Presents the Timely Story of a Prussian Spy and a Little French Girl Who Had Three Soldier "Godsons." Story by Francis Sullivan.

Cast.

Jeannette Gontreau.....Margery Wilson
Harry Ledyard.....Jack Mulhall
Mrs. Tibbits.....Anna Dodge
Frederick Armstrong.....Wilbur Higbee
Character Man.....Percy Chellenger
John Finch.....Ben Lewis
Anatole.....Eugene Corey
Paul.....Lee Phelps

Directed by Raymond Wells.

The Story: Jeannette Gontreau selects from the Red Cross list the names of three soldiers confined in a German prison camp to whom, with the aid of her employer, Armstrong, she sends goodies and letters. Then Harry Ledyard announces his release and return to America, and Jeannette is in a panic, for his letters have been growing increasingly personal. She poses as an old woman. Harry tells the authorities that he has found by chance that Jeannette's letters bear secret messages in sympathetic ink, but when she is charged with the offense he carries the blame until he can place it where it rightfully belongs.

For the Program: An exciting tale of a war-godmother and her charge.
She adopted a soldier and was charged with espionage.

Advertising Phrases: Returning soldier defeats Prussian spy plot.
Flames of chance reveal Prussian plot.

Feature These Players: Margery Wilson as the war-godmother.
Jack Mulhall as one of her charges.

Stunt Suggestions: If you are willing to go to a little trouble get your druggist to make you some sympathetic ink that will develop with heat. Print up cards reading, "If you want to see how German spies send messages, heat this card (space). Compliments of (house name)." In the blank space have written, "See 'Flames of Chance' (date)." Practically none of these will be thrown away. If you have a flasher for lobby work write an advertisement in black on a sheet of glass. Over this place smoothly a sheet of white paper lettered, "See the spy's device for sending news to Germany in (the 'Flames of Chance' by using sympathetic ink). Showing (date)." The portion in brackets is written on the glass, and shows through only when the light is on. Use a deep shadow box for day display.

Advertising Aids: Two styles one-sheets, one each, three and six-sheets. Rotogravure heralds. Slides. Lobby display 11x14 and 22x28. Press sheets. Cuts and mats.
Released January 20.

THE GERMAN CURSE IN RUSSIA.

Pathe Presents Capt. Donald C. Thompson's Wonderful Five-Reel Picture of the Russian Situation as It Is Today. Direct from the Strand Theater, New York.

The Story: Millions of words have been written and printed about the present Russian situation, but could these miles of newspaper columns be condensed into a single story they would fail to give the same vivid and understandable survey of the Russian situation as can be had from this five-part picture; the most vital portions of some 125,000 feet of negative made by Captain Thompson since the outbreak of the war. It not only presents some of the most striking battle pictures ever thrown upon the screen, but as a historical document it exceeds them all in value. It is the real story of the Russian revolution and its nullification through insidious German influence, the only influence in Russia at present thoroughly organized and directed.

For the Program: The Russian situation at a glance.
Don't read about Russia. Visit the country with Thompson.

Advertising Phrases: The most vital war pictures ever shown.
The real Russia accurately recorded.

Stunt Suggestions: If possible give a free morning performance for school children only. In small towns it may be possible to arrange with the Board of Education to close the morning session an hour earlier to permit the children to attend under their teachers. Work up newspaper interest as far ahead as possible. Get the editor interested, and he will do the rest. Drape the lobby with American and Russian flags. Keep a street wagon out. You cannot overvalue the importance of this picture in your advertising.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Otherwise same heralds, mats, ad-cuts, etc., as on other five-reel subjects.
Released January 13.

I LOVE YOU.

Triangle Presents Alma Rubens in a Seven-Part Original Story of Love Transcendant, by Catherine Carr.

Cast.

Felice.....Alma Rubens
Ravello.....John Lince
Jules Mardon.....Francis McDonald
Armande de Gautier....Wheeler Oakman
Prince del Chinay.....Frederick Vroom
Princess del Chinay.....Lillian Langdon
Boy.....Peaches Jackson

Directed by Walter Edwards.

The Story: Jules Mardon, a French artist, seeks renewed health in Italy. He finds there Felice, whose rare beauty has brought her the name of the Passion Flower. Mardon paints her, and betrays her trust. He does not keep his promise to return, but his painting of her in the Paris salon attracts the attention of Armande de Gautier, who seeks her out and wins her hand. With the birth of their baby comes perfect peace, but soon Mardon again crosses her path, and by force takes her with him. She escapes to find her husband believes that she deserted her child when it was stricken with the plague. With the plague germs upon her lips, she returns to Mardon and showers him with kisses that bring death, but she lives to regain the happiness she thought lost forever.

For the Program: Death lurked on the petals of the Passion Flower.
She went to him with death upon her lips.

Advertising Phrases: Poisoned lips lured betrayer to death.
She feared not death that brought revenge.

Feature These Players: Alma Rubens as the Passion Flower.
Francis McDonald as the artist.
Wheeler Oakman as the man she marries.

Stunt Suggestions: It may be possible to obtain some artificial passion flowers from the milliner or dry goods store with which to decorate a lobby frame. If not obtainable get some woman to heavily rouge her lips and press them against a card. Seal this under glass, and use as the centre of a frame stating, "This is an imprint of the lips of Felice, 'The Passion Flower.' It bears several thousand plague germs. Such a kiss avenged the wrong done her honor and her happiness in 'I Love You.' A seven-part Alma Rubens feature. (Date.)" A window display (preferably in a drug store) might be worked up with medical books opened at illustrations of germs, with a card reading, "In 'I Love You,' Felice carries the germs of the plague from the lips of her dying son to those of the man who had doubly wronged her. See the kiss of death in the seven-part Alma Rubens feature at (house and date). Books from the library of Dr. ....."

Advertising Aids: Two styles of one-sheets, one each, three and six-sheets. Heralds in rotogravure. Slides. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Press sheets. Electros and mats.

Released January 13.

A HEART'S REVENGE.

William Fox Presents the Distinguished Russian Actress, Sonia Markova, in a Play of Society Life in Washington, by George Scarborough.

Cast.

Vera Sabouroff.....Sonia Markova
Jim Harding, U. S. A.....David Herblin
Baron Eugene Drako...Frank Goldsmith
Count Alexis Sabouroff.....Eric Magne
Dr. Wu Ching.....Bradley Barker
Wu-Soy-Fa, daughter of Dr. Wu, Helen Long
Capt. Nils.....Stanley Heck
Capt. Mills, U. S. A.....Fred Ratcliffe
Lieut. Crossby.....J. Alling

Directed by O. A. C. Lund.

The Story: To win Vera, Baron Drako conspires with a Chinese physician to administer to Jim Harding, her fiance, a Chinese drug that will rob its victim of all initiative. Jim is given the drug and shipped to China, but Vera penetrates the Baron's secret and goes to her sweetheart's rescue, while Wu-Soy-Fa, having acted against the religion of Buddha in disobeying her parent, makes expiation by death.

For the Program: A fascinating drama of the diplomatic corps.

Russ and Chinese conspire against an American aviator.

For the Program: Russian actress with Chinese support.

The diplomatic melting pot of nations.

Feature These Players: Sonia Markova as the daughter of the Russian ambassador.

Helen Long, a real Chinese girl, as her maid.

David Herblin as her sweetheart.

Stunt Suggestions: Use the Chinese lobby ballyhoo from the press sheet. Also display the Russian and Chinese flags and the sign, "'A Heart's Revenge,' a play of three nationalities (date)." For window work show a hypodermic outfit and a small bottle of some thick, yellowish fluid, with a sign, "A few drops of this in the blood causes a clot on the brain that deadens the initiative. It is an old Chinese discovery used by a Russian Baron, with the connivance of a Chinese physician upon an American aviator in 'A Heart's Revenge' at (house and date)." Play up the motorboat pursuit in a special card at the local boat club, if there is boating, or at the repair shops.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14, and 22x28. Slides. Mats. Press sheet.

Released January 20.

EVIDENCE.

Triangle Presents J. Barney Sherry in an Amazing Story of a Man Who Did Murder and Escaped Unscathed. Story by Jack Cunningham.

Cast.

Mrs. John Corbin.....Audelle Higgins
John Corbin.....J. Barney Sherry
Dr. Richard Hyde.....Howard Davis
Wyllis Hyde.....Pauline Starke
John Corbin, Jr.....Eugene Corey

Directed by Walter Edwards.

The Story: John Corbin denounces the insanity plea in murder cases, and declares that he could, with impunity, kill his own wife, confess, and go free. He little thought that a few hours later, making an unexpected return to his home, he would find his wife with another man and kill her. Dr. Hyde, on the stand, recalls their talk, and declares that his wife's death must have temporarily deranged his friend. Corbin is placed in an asylum to be released in time to be present at the wedding of his son to the doctor's daughter, and he never tells that the man whom he saw leaving his wife's room was the very man whose evidence later saves him.

For the program: A curious tale of legal quirks.

A tragic story of truth unbelieved.

Advertising Phrases: Murder is a luxury of the rich.

Self-confessed wife slayer goes unpunished.

Feature These Players: J. Barney Sherry as Corbin.

Howard Davis as the guilty physician.

Stunt Suggestions: For street work use a wagon lettered, "Is there anyone you want to kill? See 'Evidence.' (House and date.)" If you can borrow a straightjacket, display in the lobby beside a noose and a black cap, with a sign, "Which would your own choice be if you killed a person? See 'Evidence.' (House and date.)" Try and get some legal friend to work up a correspondence in the papers. He will take the side of the law for the sake of the free advertising he will get, and most papers welcome an interest-exciting controversy.

Advertising Aids: Two styles of one-sheets, one each, three and six-sheets. Herald in rotogravure. Slides. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Press sheet. Electros and mats.

Released January 20.

JULES OF THE STRONG HEART.

Jesse L. Lasky Presents George Beban in a Story of Hudson Bay, by William Merriam Rouse, Originally Published in Collier's Magazine.

Cast.

Jules Lemaire.....George Beban
Joy Farnsworth.....Helen Eddy
Tom, her father.....Charles Ogle
Ted Kendall.....Raymond Hatton
Jim Burgess.....Guy Oliver
Jack Liggitt.....Ernest Joy
Louis, the "Red Fox".....H. B. Carpenter
Head of the Hudson Bay Trapping Colony.....Edward Martin

Directed by Donald Crisp.

The Story: Jules Lemaire comes singing through the woods into the camp of the Nemo Lumber Company, and is engaged as a chopper. He laughingly refuses to explain the year-old child he carries. A three-cornered rivalry develops between himself and Kendall and Burgess for the favor of Joy, daughter of Farnsworth, the foreman, but he and Kendall unite to save her from the uncouth advances of Burgess. Jules volunteers to cross the river in a storm to fetch the pay roll, and Burgess goes to watch him. Burgess plans to steal the money, but cannot find it, and Jules refuses to give up his secret under torture, but aid comes in time, and with it the heart of Joy.

For the Program: Another forcefully drawn character study in the Beban album.

Beban and a baby.

Advertising Phrases: One of the real men of "God's Country."

An epic of primal passions.

Feature These Players: George Beban, the foremost delineator of the Latin types.

Helen Eddy, his leading woman.

Guy Oliver as Burgess.

Stunt Suggestions: Get a stout canvas bag eighteen or twenty inches long, well filled, and suspend in the lobby with a card, "Could you hide this in a small sail boat so well that a twenty-four-hour search would not reveal it? See 'Jules of the Strong Heart' (date) and see how it was done. George Beban's latest triumph." For a window display letter a card with former Beban play titles. Letter "Jules of the Strong Heart" on a special strip, and have a painted hand or glove model adding this to the list. Below letter, "The newest addition to the Beban Gallery (house and date)."

Advertising Aids: Two each one, three and six-sheets. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14, and 22x28. Rotogravure. Slides. Ten cuts each on star and production, one to three columns wide. Cartoon cut. Advertising layout mats.

Released January 14.

THE LEGION OF DEATH.

Metro Presents the Seven-Part Feature de Luxe by June Mathis With Edith Storey and a Cast of Unusual Distinction.

Cast.

Princess Marya.....Edith Storey
Capt. Rodney Willard..Philo McCullough
Grand Duke Paul.....Fred Malatesta
Grand Duke Orloff.....Charles Gerard
Dmitri.....Pomeroy Cannon
Draya.....Nexma Nichols
Czar.....R. O. Pennell
Czarina.....Grace Aide
Kerensky.....H. L. Swisher
Czarevitch.....Francis Marion
Makar.....Harry Meody

Directed by Tod Browing.

The Story: The Princess Marya and her brother, the Grand Duke Paul, are in America studying American institutions when word comes to them that the death of Rasputin will be a signal to them to return to Russia. Paul is seized by Russian secret service men, but released by Capt. Willard, to whom Mary appeals. Later the three come together in Russia, where Marya is now one of the Revolutionaries and Willard one of the Allied Commission. Marya forms the Legion of Death among the peasant women to offset the disaffection of the men due to German gold. The legion is captured. Marya is unable to use the poison she has provided in the event of defeat, and is claimed as his reward by the treacherous Russian General, but after a series of thrilling experiences is saved from worse than death.

For the Program: An intimate view of the Russia of now.

A war picture unlike all others.

Advertising Phrases: The famous women's battalion made real.

You've read of the legion. Now see it.

Feature These Players: Edith Storey and a generally excellent cast.

Stunt Suggestions: Try to hook up your advertising with the stories of the Legion of Death. Get as many clippings about the legion as you can and paste these in the lobby on a bulletin board before announcing the coming of the play. Most interest can be aroused through the playing up of this news value followed by plenty of paper, a 24-sheet stand being added to the usual list of accessories.

Advertising Aids: Two each one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet. Press sheet, filler sheet. Ten-minute novel. Slide. Herald. Lobby sheet. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14, and 22x28. Mats and cuts.

Released in January.

THE MENACE.

Greater Vitagraph Presents Corinne Griffith With Evart Overton in Original Story of Forceful Theme by Rex Taylor.

Cast.

Richard Burnell.....Evart Overton
Virginia Denton.....Corinne Griffith
Dr. Burnell.....Herbert Pryor
Morgan.....Ned Finlay

Directed by John Robertson.

The Story: Owing a twenty-year jail sentence to Dr. Burnell, Morgan returns after serving his term to find his son has been adopted by the Burnells. Dick is engaged to Virginia Denton, and to keep his secret from her he permits Morgan to make him his accomplice in a series of robberies. They are caught in the Denton home by Virginia, herself, who is heartbroken to discover that her fiance is a thief, but the discovery leads to a fresh complication and extrication from a seemingly impossible situation.

For the Program: Was forced to rob his sweetheart's home.
An amazing series of surprise situations.

Advertising Phrases: Adopted son finds his own father a thief.
Robbed his sweetheart to keep his father's secret.

Feature These Players: Corinne Griffith as Virginia.
Evart Overton as the adopted son.

Stunt Suggestions: Mount on a lobby card halftones of famous country estates clipped from country life magazines. In the centre letter, "These are some of the most famous country homes in America. 'The Menace' was made on the Long Island estate of a famous vaudeville magnate (playing date)." For a street wagon use, "Before you adopt a child see 'The Menace' at (house and date). See it anyway. It's worth while."

Advertising Aids: One style each one, three and six-sheets. Window cards. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Slide. Herald. Plan book. Press sheet. Released January 21.

PARENTAGE.

Frank J. Seng Presents Hobart Henley's Thought Film of Real Life With Anna Lehr, Hobart Henley and Barbara Castleton.

Cast.

John Brown.....William Welsh
Mrs. Brown.....Anna Lehr
Robert Smith.....Bert Busby
Mrs. Smith.....Mary Grey
Horace Brown.....Master Matty Roubert
Horace Brown.....Gilbert Rooney
Robert Smith, Jr...Master Frank Goyette
Agnes Melton.....Alois Alexander
Agnes Melton.....Barbara Castleton
Samuel Melton.....W. DeShields
Mrs. Melton.....Alice Wilson
Robert Smith, Jr.....Hobart Henley

Directed by Hobart Henley.

The Story: This is not a propaganda with a thread of story. It is a living, gripping, vital story of two small-town boys, and the story tells the moral; the moral does not form the story. Two baby boys are born in Owentown. One is an unwanted child, offspring of an avaricious grasping father. He grows to an evil manhood, and loses his one chance of real happiness to the play-fellow whose parents have met their responsibilities.

For the Program: Food for thought in most attractive guise.
A heart-interest story without a vampire.

Advertising Phrases: A story as real as "The Old Homestead."
The story with an even greater theme than love.

Feature These Players: Hobart Henley, the author, as the younger Smith.
Anna Lehr as Mrs. Brown.
Barbara Castleton as the girl both men love.

Stunt Suggestions: The monthly plan book carries scores of good stunts, including the tested schemes of other exhibitors. Get these booklets.

Advertising Aids: Three styles of one-sheets, two styles each three and 24-sheets. One one-sheet. Window card. Lobby displays. Five oil paintings. Photo-gelatines 8x10, 11x14, and 22x28. Slides (2 styles). Heralds in rotogravure. Thumbnail and one and two-column cuts of stars. One, two and three-column advertising cuts. Mats for all.
State rights.

THE LAW'S OUTLAW.

Triangle Presents Roy Stewart in a Stirring Story of the West by Ethel and James Dorrance, Involving An Unusual Situation.

Cast.

Charles Easton.....Roy Stewart
Rose Davison.....Fritzie Ridgway
Oscar Davison.....Harry Rattenberry
Ethan Ransford.....Norbert Cills

Directed by Cliff Smith.

The Story: Three men ride into the desert in pursuit of the assailants of Oscar Davidson. One of them is Charles Easton, defeated candidate for Sheriff. The other is Ethan Ransford, his successful rival. Both of them love the daughter of the injured man, and each is eager to capture the offenders. At the end of the day's ride, Easton picks a quarrel with the new sheriff and shoots him in cold blood. He escapes to the Hawks' Nest, a bandit retreat, while the authorities set a price upon his head. Easton is welcomed by the other outlaws, and soon gets at the facts. Presently he comes back to town with the two guilty men, and Ransford reappears and explains that the shooting was merely a subterfuge to get Easton into the outlaws' stronghold unsuspected. He is big enough to give his rival not only the girl, but the office he rightfully won.

For the Program: Rivals in love and politics fight in the desert.
Became an outlaw to prevent outlawry.

Advertising Phrases: The "nesters" and the cattle kings.
Faced murder charge to see justice done.

Feature These Players: Roy Stewart as the unsuccessful candidate.
Norbert Cills as his rival.
Fritzi Ridgway as the girl.

Stunt Suggestions: Use a "$1,000 Reward" poster for Charles Easton, dead or alive, for the killing of Sheriff Ransford, and in the small type run into "for further details see 'The Law's Outlaw' at (house and date)." Post these lavishly, following the local style of public notice if there is any. For a lobby display centre one of the bills in a lobby frame under the huge red, "Wanted for Murder."

Advertising Aids: Two styles one-sheets. One each three and six-sheets. Herald in rotogravure. Slides. Lobby displays 11x14 and 22x28. Press sheet. Electros and mats.
Released January 13.

THOSE WHO PAY.

Thomas H. Ince Presents Bessie Barriscale and Howard Hickman in C. Gardner Sullivan's Absorbing Story of a Man and Two Women.

Cast.

Dorothy Warner.....Bessie Barriscale
George W. Graham.....Howard Hickman
Mrs. Graham.....Dorcas Matthews
Steve McNutt.....Melbourne McDowell

Directed by Raymond B. West.

The Story: She was alone in the world save for her little sister, and little sister was dying. She wanted a doll for Christmas and Dorothy had no money. She stole one and three persons paid a heavy price for the tiny toy.

For the Program: A gripping story told with splendid artistry.
The doll for a dying child cost three wounded hearts.

Advertising Phrases: Can sin be measured by the yardstick of the law?
Whose fault when women fall?

Feature These Players: Bessie Barriscale as the girl who stole for her dying sister.
Howard Hickman as the lawyer who defended her.
Melbourne McDowell as the crooked politician.

Stunt Suggestions: The most dramatic feature of the play is the wrecking of lives that followed the stealing of the doll. This can be played up as "These dolls range in price from five cents to $15. The doll that figures in 'Those Who Pay' at (house and date) cost the happiness of three persons. It's cheaper to buy them here." Collect old dolls for some children's hospital or have a doll sale for the Red Cross or for a smoke fund, working with the local paper if practicable. Offer an unusually fine doll to the little girl selling the largest number of tickets. Dress the lobby with dolls.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one and three-sheets. One style each six and 24-sheet. Photos 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Herald 8x10. Slides. Press sheet.
State rights.

WOLVES OF THE RAIL.

Thomas H. Ince Presents William S. Hart in the Sumptuous Artcraft Production from Mr. Hart's Own Idea Adapted by Denison Cliff.

Cast.

"Buck" Andrade.....William S. Hart
Faith Lawson.....Vola Vale
David Cassidy.....C. Normand Hammond
Murray Lemantier.Melbourne MacDowell
Pablo Trilles.....Billy Elmer
Pasquale Trilles.....Thomas Kurihara

The Story: For three years Bill Hart has been playing a constant succession of bad-man characters, but in this story, adapted from his own idea, he is seen as a bandit leader who reforms and turns detective to prevent the commission of crime by the very men whom he used to lead upon their raids on the railroad. A play replete with thrilling situations and dominated by a tender love interest.

For the Program: The most famous bad man turns to law and order.
Thief sets himself to catch his fellow thieves.

Advertising Phrases: Kidnapped a detective to serve the law.
Grimly guards Government gold.

Feature These Players: William S. Hart, for once on the side of the law.
Vola Vale, the "tower girl."

Stunt Suggestions: For the lobby try the money-bag suggestion from the press sheet. Get the leading toy shop to lay out an extensive display of mechanical railroads with signals and a tower. For the card, "An entire railroad station was constructed for the leading scenes of 'Wolves of the Rail' at (house and date). William S. Hart's greatest sensation." If you can borrow any kind of a special officer's badge, mount it on a card against a velvet background and letter the card: "Bill Hart's new badge. He is tired of playing Bad Men and in 'Wolves of the Rail' he turns to the side of law and order—but he had to kidnap a detective to get the badge. See the play at (house and date)."

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Eight-by-ten photos of star. Eight cuts and mats of star, ten on production. Rotogravure one-sheet. Heralds. Slides. Press book.
Released Jan. 14.

WOMAN AND WIFE.

Select Pictures Presents Alice Brady in a New Screen Arrangement Based Upon Charlotte Bronte's Novel Jane Eyre.

Cast.

Jane Eyre.....Alice Brady
Rochester.....Eliott Dexter
Therese.....Helen Green
Grace Poole.....Helen Lindroth
Raoul Daquin.....Victor Benoit
Valerie.....Leonora Morgan

Directed by Edward Jose.

The Story: An admirable adaptation of the ever-popular "Jane Eyre," the story does not depart markedly from the original, but it shows the skillful touches of

(Continued on Page 576.)

He's Always on the Job

In Every Important Theatre in the East Where the Projection is a Feature Porter Has Been on the Job

THE other day a chap whose business keeps him in close touch with motion picture theatres throughout the country—and more particularly, with theatres in the course of construction or alteration—remarked: "I've noticed this fellow B. F. Porter and the success he is making of his business. He's winning out by 'making good.' He's 'always on the job!'"

Were the violet in business, it couldn't afford to shrink.

B. F. Porter is engaged in the business of helping all those who exhibit motion pictures to get the best results known to modern science.

He started out to master the extremely big subject of Perfect Projection and since the very beginning has kept himself abreast of the times. Every new device intended to help projection and each improvment in the already established methods of the business—and there are many such from day to day—receives his immediate and careful attention. He knows the requirements of the business and is prepared to fulfill them.

—And Mr. Porter has carefully avoided the sale of "conversation." While operating as a Projection Engineer and frequently employed in an advisory capacity, it has constantly been his aim to be "always on the job." Problems submitted to him are not solved until the promised results are visible on the screen or in the operator's booth—and until these results are obtained, Mr. Porter does not feel that his commission has been executed and there is no relaxation in his efforts in behalf of his client.

If you're building a new theatre—
If you're remodeling your present one—
If you're dissatisfied with your screen results—
YOU NEED MR. PORTER'S SERVICES!

What he has done for big theatres in the East, notably the Rivoli, the Rialto, and the Strand in New York City, proves conclusively that he can do splendid work for you.

Write him today. Tell him your troubles.
Ask him to help you!

Exclusive N. Y. and N. J. Distributor for

Simplex TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Projectors

Minusa Gold Fibre Projection Screens

Speed Indicators and Transverters

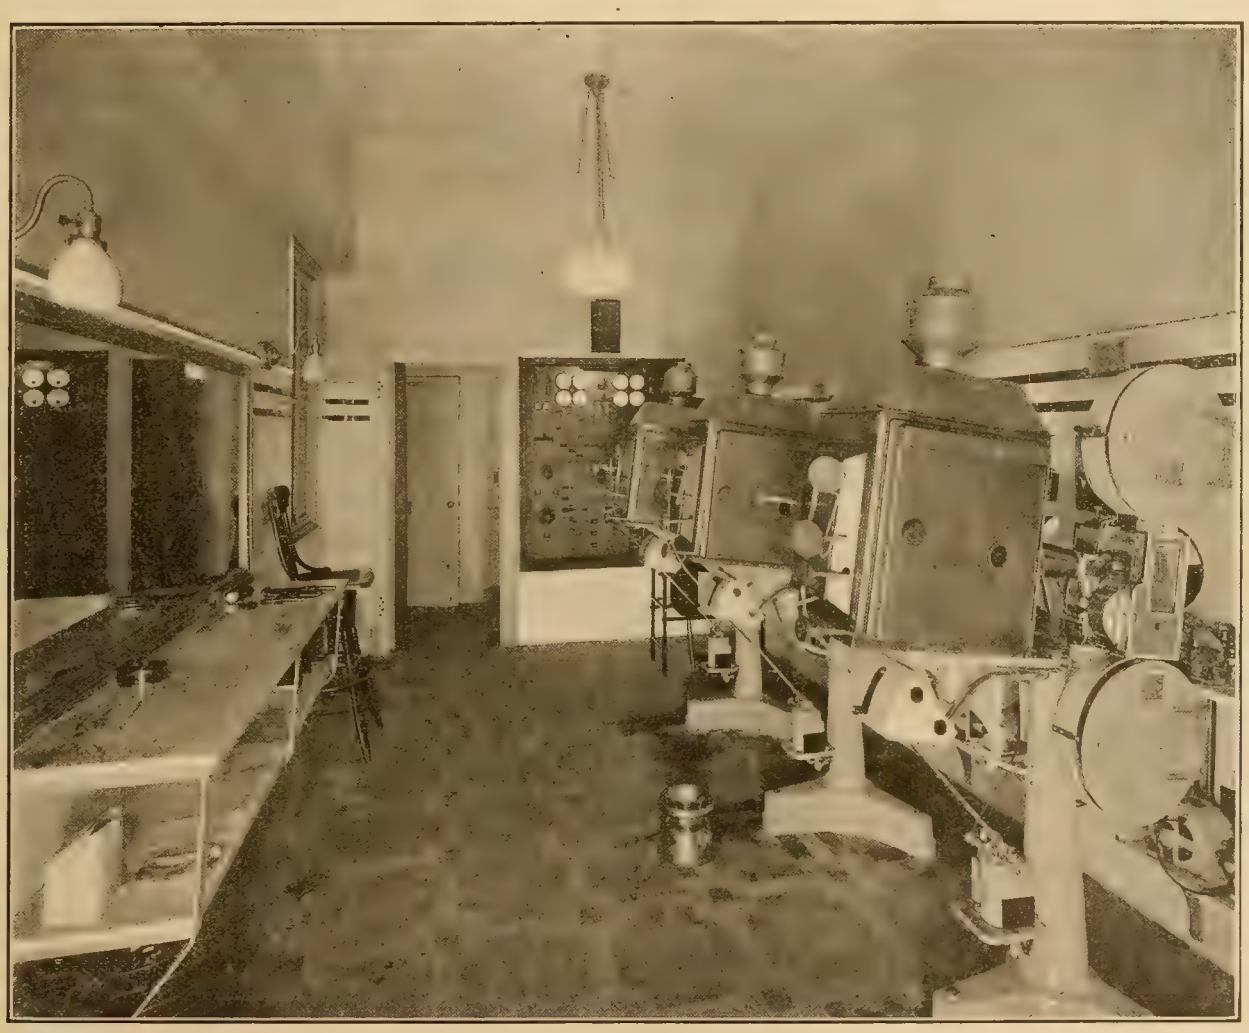
Distributor for National Carbons and Supplies of the Best Quality

B. F. Porter
Motion Picture Projection Engineer
1482 BROADWAY,
NEW YORK CITY

Simplex

Do not be misled

Lately we have told you of some Simplex installations in the best Theatres of the East; but please don't let this give you the idea that there is anything local about this preference for the Simplex.



Just now we are thinking of three San Francisco Houses—the Progress, the New Mission, and the New Fillmore, of the Kahn & Greenfield Circuit, under the management of Mr. Louis Greenfield—and all Simplex-equipped.

Here we show the Operating Room of the last-named theatre, pronounced by Mr. F. H. Richardson, the Projection Expert, as the finest he had seen.

It is further evidence that Exhibitors everywhere appreciate that Permanently Perfect Projection Pulls the People and the Profits.

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

(Continued from Page 573.)

a master directing hand in strengthening weak points and bringing the story more nearly into a more modern form.

For the Program: Alice Brady in a new version of a beloved story.

Love won when Love seemed hardest pressed.

Advertising Phrases: A tale of boundless love and infinite courage.

A story that never grows old.

Feature These Players: Alice Brady as Jane.

Eliott Dexter as Rochester.

Stunt Suggestions: Get the book stores to offer popular-priced copies of the book. Work the library. Work with window cards announcing it as an adaptation from Jane Eyre. Use a pictorial display for the lobby.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one and three-sheets. One each six and 24-sheets. Window cards. Heralds. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Production cuts. Two each one and two columns. One three-column. Star cuts one-half, one and two-column widths.

Released in January.

THE STRONG WAY.

William A. Brady Presents June Elvidge in the Story of a Woman Who Went Straight and Found Happiness, With John Bowers.

Cast.

Adele Torrence.....June Elvidge
Dick Chadwick.....John Bowers
Mrs. Torrence.....Isabel Berwin
Geoffrey Farrow.....Joe Herbert
Martha .....Rosina Henley
Stenographer .....Grace Williams
Dan Carter.....Hubert Wilke

Directed by George Kelson.

The Story: Adele Torrence loves Dick Chadwick, but when her mother forces her into a money-marriage with Geoffrey Farrow she plays fair and puts Dick aside, but Farrow's jealousy is aroused and he schemes with his associate to have Dick visit them in the hope that he will invest his small funds in a wild-cat stock scheme. Instead, Dick rescues Eunice from the insults of Farrow's henchman and is saved from a murder charge only on Adele's confession that he has spent the evening in her room—a strong way that eventually leads to happiness.

For the Program: The man she loved was dearer than reputation.

She played fair, but it didn't seem to pay.

Advertising Phrases: Glimpes of New York's night life.

She married for money, but she played fair until——.

Feature These Players: June Elvidge as Adele.

John Bowers as Dick.

Stunt Suggestions: Borrow a door and frame and set up in the lobby. On the closed door place a sign: "Behind this closet door stood the man she loved. Before it were her husband and the police, looking for a murderer. She took The Strong Way. What was it? Now playing." For street work use a wagon lettered "Tonight. Dine at the Golden Glades, New York's most famous cabaret entertainment. See the famous ice ballet. (House and date.)" The house and date should be in smaller display than the rest that the eye may first be caught by the cabaret announcement.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Free advance poster. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Two one-column and one two-column cuts. Two-color heralds. Slides. Press sheet.

Released Jan. 14.

THE WORLD FOR SALE.

J. Stuart Blackton Presents Another of Sir Gilbert Parker's Thrilling Stories of the Great Northwest.

Cast.

Ingolby .....Conway Tearle
Fleda Druse.....Ann Little
Gabriel Druse.....W. W. Bittner
Jethro Fawe.....Norbert Wicki
Tekewani .....Crazy Thunder
Marchand .....Escarmillo Fernandez
Jowett .....Joseph Donohue
Summer Song.....Maude Scofield

Directed by J. Stuart Blackton.

The Story: Other men may know the Canadian Northwest as does Sir Gilbert Parker, but none writes of that vivid land with greater skill, and his picture of the two towns "united only by a bridge," which Ingolby vainly tries to combine, is the story of more than one settlement in the days when it was all the Northwest Territory.

For the Program: The most picturesque period of the great Northwest Territory.

History lives again in light and shade.

Advertising Phrases: Three men loved a gypsy girl; the best man won.

A play of hot blood and tempestuous love.

Feature These Players: Conway Tearle as Ingolby.

Ann Little as the gypsy girl.

Norbert Wicki as the gypsy lover.

Stunt Suggestions: Get book stores to display globes or maps with a card, "We have the world for sale, but 'The World for Sale' is at (house and date)." Also get them to run the Parker novels. A larger globe, if it can be had, may be used for the lobby with "We Have the World for Sale (date)."

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Rotogravure. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Ten cuts each for star and production, one to three columns. Advertising layout mats. Slides. Press book.

Released Jan. 21.

THE ZEPPELIN'S LAST RAID.

Thomas H. Ince Presents in Spectacular Action and Stupendously Sensational Scenes a Prophecy of the End of the War and the Birth of Democracy.

Cast.

The Commander.....Howard Hickman
The Girl.....Enid Markey

Directed by Thomas H. Ince.

The Story: Made as a companion picture to "Civilization," a protest against war, this intensely absorbing story deals with the ending of the war through the growth and establishmen of democracy as the German people throw off the Prussian yoke of militarism and again take their places in the sun. It is, however, more of a story than a propaganda, with intimate camera studies of the little known Zeppelin type of air raider.

For the Program: The secrets of the Zeppelins exposed.

The fiction that is tomorrow's fact.

Advertising Phrases: War secrets of the Huns laid bare in photoplay.

More thrillingly spectacular than "Civilization."

Feature These Players: Howard Hickman, as the commander of the Zeppelin, who destroys his craft in the cause of liberty.

Enid Markey as the girl he loves.

Stunt Suggestions: If you have seen the earlier form of this picture it is well to remember that a rearrangement of the story has entirely eliminated its earlier pacifist tone. It will be comparatively easy to construct a small model Zeppelin. Make one that can be suspended in the lobby or used on a street wagon and keep in the lobby when not on the streets. Similar Zeps may be suspended across the main street. Arrange it on a trolley and arrange to drop a "bomb" of throwaways now and then. If some of these throwaways are rubber-stamped for free admissions the interest will be heightened. Do plenty of window and billboard work, and play up newspaper specials.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and 24-sheets. One style six-sheet. Photos 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Heralds in 8x10 and 17x21. Slides. Cuts, Campaign sheets.

State rights.

THE SPIRIT OF '17.

Jesse L. Lasky Presents Jack Pickford in a Timely Story of Prussian Spies and Labor Troubles, By Judge Willis Brown.

Cast.

Davy Glidden.....Jack Pickford
Adjt. Glidden.....G. H. Geldert
Mrs. Glidden.....Edythe Chapman
Capt. Jerico Norton.....L. N. Wells
John Edwards.....Charles Arling
Mrs. Edwards.....Virginia Ware
Flora Edwards.....Katherine McDonald
Carl Bender.....James Farley
Frank Schmale.....Seymour Hastings
Tom Brand.....William Chester
Susan Brand.....Helen Eddy
Thomas Lee.....John Burton
Randall Lee.....Ashton Dearholt
Corporal Trimble.....Tom Bates
Private Butler.....J. W. Johnson

Directed by William D. Taylor.

The Story: Davy Glidden's daddy is Adjutant of a soldier's home and Davy worships the old heroes, making Capt. Jerico Norton his particular idol. The veterans have to take a back seat to the soldiers of '17, but when Davy and the old-timers avert a strike, prevent the blowing up of a mine and capture two Prussian spies the boy-scout becomes a hero in his own right along with his pals.

For the Program: The boy scout and the boys of '61.

Too young to enlist, he did his bit.

Advertising Phrases: Boy upsets plans of Prussian spies.

Jack leads the Vets to victory.

Feature These Players: Jack Pickford as the thirteen-year-old hero.

Katherine McDonald, his new leading woman.

Stunt Suggestions: This story will appeal particularly to the boy scouts and to G. A. R. men. Work to those organizations. Offer a special performance free or for a nominal admission. Parade the boys to the theatre with the veterans in carriages. Use a stand of colors in the lobby with a boy scout and a veteran as color guard. Let the boy scouts sell tickets on commission for the benefit of the scout fund, if this is permitted. A cutout of the six-sheet showing the two men and the boy could be used to good

SPECIAL Roll Tickets
PRICES
Five Thousand..... $1.25
Ten Thousand..... 2.50
Fifteen Thousand..... 3.75
Twenty-five Thousand..... 5.50
Fifty Thousand..... 7.50
One Hundred Thousand... 10.00
Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.
National Ticket Co., Shamokin, Pa.

effect. Stores handling scout material will probably be glad to co-operate on displays.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Eight by ten photos of star. Photogravure. Ten cuts each, for star and production, one to three columns wide. Mats for same. Advertising layout mats. Press books. Slides.

Released Jan. 14.

THE WOLF AND HIS MATE.

Universal Presents Louise Lovely and a Selected Cast in Julia Maier's Story of the Land Where Strength Was Above the Law.

Cast.

Donald Bayne.....Hart Hoxie
Steve Nolan.....George R. Odell
Bess Nolan.....Louise Lovely
Vida Burns.....Betty Schade
Rose Nolan.....Georgia French
"Snaky" Burns.....Hector Dion

The Story: Donald Bayne was known in the North Country as the Wolf, for what he wished he took. But Steve Nolan took his cabin by right of law and held it by main strength. Then Steve is killed by the accidental discharge of his gun and the Wolf got credit for the deed. When he came back to his cabin he found Bess in possession. He could not well turn her out, but he camped before the place in silent protest, and when he realized that his action had compromised her, he married her by force; but all came out well in the end in spite of this cave-man procedure.

For the Program: A wooing in the woods.
The love epic of a Knight of the Northwest.

Advertising Phrases: Forced wedding follows strange siege.
When the Wolf wanted a mate he took her.

Feature These Players: Louise Lovely as Bess.
Hart Hoxie as Donald, the Wolf.

Stunt Suggestions: With a little trouble you can build a profile twig log hut on a sheet of card the size of one of your lobby frames. To one side of this erect a tent of white cloth. Sketch in a background, if you are able or can enlist the aid of some local artist. Letter the sign: "When the Wolf came home to find her in possession of his cabin, he pitched his tent before her door and married her by force when he found his action had compromised her. See all about it in 'The Wolf and His Mate' (date) with Louise Lovely." For street work use a roughly clad man in boots and mackinaw, with a large pack on his back. From the pack suspend the sign, "The Wolf came home to find the girl in his cabin. See what happened then in 'The Wolf and His Mate' (house and date)."

Advertising Aids: One style each one, three and six-sheets. One-sheet of star. Black and white lobby displays. Slide. Heralds. Player cuts. Press book.

Released Jan. 7.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compete with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

CLUNE FILM PRODUCING CO.
Los Angeles, California
Producers of "RAMONA" (8½ reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (6½ reels)
Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced.
Available for state rights.

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

We lead; let those that can, follow.
DEVELOPING—PRINTING TITLES—TINTING—TONING
MANUFACTURERS AND SPECIALISTS IN MOTION PICTURE PHOTOGRAPHY
GUNBY BROS, INC.
145 West 45th Street New York City

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe
THE KINEMATOGRAPH
& LANTERN WEEKLY
The Foremost Trade Organ of Great Britain, covering the whole of the British Film Market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters; Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world) —and every section devoted to the Kinematograph Periodical. Special Export Numbers in French, Italian, Dutch, Spanish, and Portuguese. Specimen copy on application to Kinematograph Publications, Ltd.
92 Long Acre, London, W.C., 2, England

WAR PRICES—Going Down
The well-known "Orpheum Collection" consists of melodramatic music almost exclusively, and is one of the best collections of agitatos, hurries, mysteriosos, short plaintives, etc., on the market. Particularly useful in serial pictures for bringing out the dramatic points. My last edition is printed from the same plates as the first, on a good quality of paper, and sells for these reduced prices: Piano (solo), 1st, 2d or 3d series, 35 cents each; Violin (1st, 2d or 3d series), 25 cents each; Cornet (1st, 2d or 3d series), 20 cents each; Flute, Clarinet, Trombone, Drums (1st or 2d series), 20 cents each.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace St. Chicago, Ill.

RIMROCK JONES.

Jesse L. Lasky Presents Wallace Reid in An Adaptation of Dane Coolidge's Novel of the Same Title. Screen Version of Harvey Thew and Frank X. Finnegan.

Cast.

Rimrock Jones.....Wallace Reid
Mary Fortune.....Ann Little
H. Hicks.....Charles Ogle
Ike Bray.....Paul Hurst
Andrew McBain.....Guy Oliver
Leon Lockhart.....Fred Huntley
Hazel Hardesty.....Edna Mae Cooper
Juan Soto.....Toto Ducrow
Stoddard.....Gustave Von Seyffertitz
Jepson.....Ernest Joy

Directed by Donald Crisp.

The Story: A rattling story of the mining camps, crooked operators and a true-hearted girl. McBain digs up a forgotten mining law and steals Jones' mine. Nothing daunted Jones, backed by Mary Fortune, develops another and sells 49 per cent. to an Eastern speculator. Once more it looks as though Jones would get the worst of it, but the loyal Mary goes to his rescue, and Jones is some fighter himself. Mr. and Mrs. Rimrock Jones make a combination impossible to beat.

For the Program: When they stole his mine Jones found another but they could not steal his girl.
Wall Street was poison to Rimrock Jones.

Advertising Phrases: He was careless about mines, but girls were different.
Rimrock was quicker on triggers than on figures.

Feature These Players: Wallace Reid, who was last featured in "Nan of Music Mountain."
Ann Little as the little stenographer.

Stunt Suggestions: Get the newsdealers to display the current "Popular" magazine with a card reading, "Rimrock Jones is the newest 'Popular' story to be filmed. You can see it at (house and date). Read the stories in this issue and see them filmed later on." If your streets are torn up for local repairs, "locate" the prospect holes by Rimrock Jones, as "This is my prospect hole. Rimrock Jones (house name)." If you can get a supply of new pennies, announce that "Handsome copper souvenirs from Rimrock Jones' mine" will be given all the ladies on the date of showing. These should be enclosed in small "pay" or "prescription" envelopes.

Advertising Aids: Two styles each one, three and six-sheets. Lobby displays 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Also 8x10 photos of star. Ten cuts each for star and production from one to three columns wide. Advertising layouts. Mats. Press book. Slides.

Released Jan. 21.

TO EXHIBITORS.

If you are doing something new and interesting at your theater let our correspondent know about it. It may help others and help you as well.

Helpfully yours,

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

La Cinematografia Italiana ed Estera
Official Organ of the Italian Cinematograph Union
PUBLISHED ON THE 15th AND 30th OF EACH MONTH
Foreign Subscription: 20 francs. per annum
Editorial and Business Offices: Via Cumiana, 31, Turin, Italy

PERFECTION IN PROJECTION Gold King Screen
10 Days' Trial
No. 1 Grade, 75c.; No. 2 Grade, 50c.—Stretchers included
Try before you buy. Sold by all the leading supply dealers throughout the country.
Factory, ALTUS, OKLAHOMA

Film Stories

General Film Company, Inc.

JAXON FILM CORP.

A DAUGHTER OF UNCLE SAM (Episode No. 1—One Reel)—The cast: Jessie Emerson (Jane Vance); Captain Leonard Taylor (William Sorelle); Henry Von Prague (Henry Carleton); Lieutenant Blake (Lewis Dayton).

Jessie Emerson, a young American society belle with a serious turn of mind, has adopted wireless telegraphy as a hobby. While experimenting she is visited by Von Prague, a social adventurer, who is really the chief of America's enemies within, although posing as a loyal citizen of his adopted country. A code message picked up by the young woman operator attracts his attention and he suggests that she copy it and turn it over to Lieutenant Blake, an inventor who has been working upon a marvelous invention which promises to overthrow the traditional methods of warfare. Securing the confidence of Jessie, Von Prague copies the message and then directs one of his agents to steal the secret code used by the government.

That night a group of plotters meet at the Von Prague home and, with the aid of a map, enter into a detailed discussion of spy and intrigue activities in the United States, such as I. W. W. agitations in the West, the destruction of munitions factories in the East and the inauguration of pro-German propaganda in the Middle West. The code message stolen by Von Prague proves to be from the War Department ordering Captain Taylor to begin the work of hunting down spies and plotters.

In the meantime one of the plotters, disguised as a workman, plants a bomb which destroys a factory with loss of life, and escapes. Captain Taylor meets Jessie, who offers her aid in tracking down the enemies of her country. Captain Taylor obtains for her a position in a private wireless station where she will be able to intercept suspicious messages. She reports for duty at a time when the air is filled with mysterious code messages flashing across the seas and over the continent.

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

THE HIDING OF BLACK BILL (One of the O. Henry Series—Two Parts).—The cast: Black Bill (W. L. Rodgers); Henry Ogden (Chet Ryan). Directed by David Smith.

The taller of the two tramps tells his companion of an incident that happened in Texas the year before. It seems that just after the sensational robbery of the Katy Flier by Black Bill, when $15,000 in currency of the Espinosa Bank was stolen, he had obtained employment at the Rancho Chiquito. The owner, who had only been in possession a month, was a man of refinement, characteristic of the more skilled criminals. Over a hand of poker the ranchman discussed the train-robbery with the tramp herder, remarking that the trail of Espinosa bills was leading the chase towards his ranch. The herder, looking his employer in the eye, remarked significantly that if Black Bill had by any chance bought a lonely ranch with the purpose of staying there until the trouble was over, he would have nothing to fear from his herder, at which the ranchman rose, angrily, but calmed down, thanked the tramp, and resumed the game.

Not long afterward a posse rode up and the sheriff, after satisfying himself that the tramp was a genuine herder, questioned him concerning the owner. The herder bargained for his share of the reward, and upon receipt of one hundred dollars led the way to the sleeping Ogden. Wakened by cold steel, the ranchman fought, protesting his innocence, but the production of a wad of Espinosa bills from his pocket silenced him. The posse and its prisoner started for town, while the tramp resumed his wanderings. The man to whom the story is told turns on his narrator a look of disgust, saying "To hand over a man whose saleratus you have ate was never like you." The tall man assured him that Ogden had proven his innocence.

"What about the bills?" asks the other. "Oh," says the tall tramp, "I put them there when I saw the posse coming. You see, I was Black Bill."

JUDGE BROWN STORIES.

CHOCOLATE OF THE GANG (Two Parts).—The cast: Chocolate (Thomas Bellamy); The Heiress (Ruth Hampton).

Thomas Bellamy, a small colored boy, is denied membership in the P. D. Q. Club, a secret organization composed of white boys, because of his color, but this does not dampen his ardor. The members of the club keep close watch upon all who approach the vicinity of their unique club room with the aid of a cleverly constructed periscope, and one day notice a negro man in the act of storing pigeons in the loft of his barn. The boys learn that a reward is offered for the return of four stolen pigeons, and determine to take the pigeons and claim the reward. They are followed by the colored lad, who arrives in time to receive the pigeons as they are tossed to the ground from the window above, but the owner of the barn and a policeman arrive upon the scene in time to accuse the negro boy of the theft. He is taken to court to answer the charge and the P. D. Q. members, who have escaped by means of the back door, follow the accused boy and tell the court that he is guilty of stealing the pigeons. The conscience stricken members of the gang bring the young woman owner of the lost pigeons to court, and a clever test is made to determine the real owner of the prize birds. They fly out of the window to their former home, thus resulting in the arrest of the negro man for their theft. The members of the P. D. Q. "square things" by inviting the colored boy to become a member of their secret order for trying to live up to the oath of "never snitching."

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

L-KO.

HOME RUN AMBROSE (Two Parts—Jan. 16).—The cast: Ambrose (Mack Swain); Nell (Rae Godfrey). Directed by W. S. Frederick. Supervised by J. G. Blystone.

Home Run Ambrose, besides weighing 300 pounds, was over the draft age, but mother still fashioned the child-prodigy to suit her whims. Now, this child was in love with Nell, the village bell, who made up her mind to marry a college man, so mamma mortgaged her bakery shop to send Ambrose to Cornyell College. When Ambrose was conducted to his room by the boys he felt like a million dollars, but during the night, when he was awakened by the shrill cry of a woman in distress he felt more like two cents. It was the president's wife—she saw Ambrose reposing on her bed, and proceeded to "ventilate" her emotions.

At a reception given by the Eta Bita Pie Society, Ambrose "borrowed" Cherry Blossom's dress-suit. "That's my suit—take it off," growled Cherry Blossom, one of We boys, to Ambrose, just as Ambrose was about to kiss Nell. This enraged Ambrose beyond repair, and he swore vengeance against the sassy gink, so that the next day at the baseball tournament Ambrose hit the bean-ball right square into a paste-board sign, enabling him to walk home several times, and winning for himself the enmity of Cherry Blossom, the love of his sweetheart and the $500 reward which he used to yank the mortgage off the old homestead. The wedding bells will ring yet.

NESTOR.

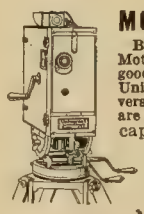
MAIMED IN THE HOSPITAL (Jan. 14).—The cast: Sterling Pest (Max Asher); Silver Pest (Dave Morris); Nurse (Gladys Tennyson). Written and directed by Craig Hutchinson.

Sterling and Silver were park pests. Both were in love with Gladiola, the nurse. Sterling was most anxious to get into the hospital, so he sprawled himself out at the front gate in full view of the guard, who ordered him taken to the softest room in the house, the room with padded walls. Silver met with less success, so he hiked over to the park where a girl caught his eye, arousing the jealousy of her escort, who introduced Silver to a couple of wallops which were returned with interest. But even this didn't admit him into the hospital. When Silver witnessed a bold flirtation

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

SWAAB
Complete
Picture Theatre Equipment
CARBONS AND SUPPLIES
Dept. M., 1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe. For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.
For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read
THE BIOSCOPE
The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.
Specimen on Application



MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS
BASS TESTED AND GUARANTEED
Motion Picture Cameras are the acme of good value. Whether you purchase a new Universal at a big saving or a used Universal at prices from $195 to $225, you are obtaining a camera of undoubted capabilities. USED MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS ALWAYS ON HAND
BASS CAMERA COMPANY
111 N. Dearborn St., CHICAGO, ILL.
M. P. CAMERA DEPT.

PHOTO-GRAVURE PROGRAM
4 pages, size, 8½ inches long and 5½ inches in width. Picture covers nearly entire front page. 35 BIG NAMES. Write for specimens, $2.50 per thousand in any quantity desired.
New Colored Catalogue Now Ready

The Photo-gravure program is a real souvenir and will bring you more patrons
LARGE HANDCOLORED PICTURES
Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player.....75c. each
FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed.
THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players.
PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.
LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.
GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, $10 per thousand.
SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 50c. each.
KRAUS MFG. CO.
220 West 42d Street, New York
12th Floor, Candler Building

WE NEVER DISAPPOINT
TELEPHONE BRYANT 5576
CROMLOW FILM LABORATORIES
INCORPORATED
220 WEST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK
ALLAN A. LOWNES
GEN. MGR.

with the sign "No flirting allowed" staring him in the face, he thought it the surest way to the hospital.

After the victim was removed from the love scene in an ambulance, Silver horned in. "Leave the darling alone; I love him," said the fair flirt to the policemen, when he attempted to encore his act with a new leading man; but that afternoon, when he got in front of a target board, he won for himself the much-sought-for opportunity. An operation of the most delicate sort was required to save Silver's life. Everything was set for the removal act, when he beheld his first encounter staring him in the face. Silver then found that it was easier to get into the hospital than to get out.

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS.

ISSUE NO. 35 (Jan. 12).

B-r-r-r! Old King Cold Has No Terrors for Mummers.—Zero weather and the war fail to halt march of merrymakers in fantastic and gorgeous costumes, led by the "Sauerkraut" band—Philadelphia, Pa. No monarch ever boasted more gorgeous train than this. Curiosity kills the cold.

Fires Set by Spies Do Millions in Damage to Norfolk, Great War Base.—Firemen of several cities, aided by "Jackies" of Norfolk Navy Yard, fight flames—martial law proclaimed and streets patrolled by troops—Norfolk, Va. Subtitles: Monticello Hotel wrapped in flames. Spies, working in fire-bug bands, set blaze to widely separated parts of the city.

Shipping Blockaded by Ice Fields in Boston Harbor.—Naval tugs break ice pack, releasing fishing vessels frozen to their piers—Boston, Mass. Subtitle: Sea gulls get the first opportunity to dine in the wake of the ice breakers.

France Rushes Aid to Hard-pressed Italy.—Fast supplies are shipped by auto train over the Alps, along the route of Napoleon's first invasion, to the heroic troops of King Victor. (Official French War Pictures.) Subtitles: Along the Aisne the famous 75s maintain an incessant pounding of the Hun "Pill-boxes." A shell a second with the compliments of the Poilus. Bringing in the empty shell cases. The noon whistle in the trenches. Good or bad roads may spell victory or defeat. One Hun raider who has dropped his last bomb.

America's Gasoline Eagles to Rout German Vulture from the Skies of Freedom.—"Win the war in the air!" is the slogan of Uncle Sam's birdmen in France, and they are prepared to do it (Official War Pictures of the U. S. Expeditionary Forces in France, photographed by the Photographic Section, U. S. Army Signal Corps, and released by the Committee on Public Information through the American Red Cross). Subtitles: French "Aces of the Air" show Pershing's flyers the fine points of the game. Bagging the observer, "the man behind," is the first object of the enemy. Anti-aircraft practice. The American Eagle, one of the highest-powered twin-motor air-scouts makes an aerial call on Fritz. The deadly hand grenade, revived from the middle ages, must be learned in detail before practice begins. Five seconds after leaving the hand these fearful missiles explode with murderous effect. When the officers whistles send them into No Man's Land.

Just One Year Ago.—Brigadier-General Pershing returns from Mexico, unheralded and unhailed, at the head of the United States Punitive Expedition, to shortly after become America's Man of the Hour. Subtitles: The fighting face of "Black Jack" Pershing. TODAY—John J. Pershing, now a full-fledged General, heads Democracy's forces, facing in France the hordes of the mad Emperor Wilhelm.

Cartoons from the world's greatest newspapers. Subtitles: "The Race," by Morris in the N. Y. Evening Mail. "The Old Oaken Bucket," by Brown in the Chicago Daily News.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

THE RED ACE (Episode No. 14—"Fugitives"—Two Parts—Jan. 19).—The cast: Virginia Dixon (Marie Walcamp); Constable Winthrop (Lawrence Peyton); Dr. Hirtzman (Harry Archer); Steele Heffern (Chas. Brindley); Bertha Schweir (Nellie Allen); President Powder Co. (Mark Fenton).

Virginia and Winthrop had been captured the platinum taken from them, and they were left prisoners in an old building which was set on fire. Virginia manages to get free, and jumping from the window, hurries for aid, first untying Winthrop, who later jumps into a fire net which Virginia had besought the firemen to hold for them.

MOTIOGRAPH SERVICE
Pronounced by every user
THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. CO.
574 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.
Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

WE have for sale A NUMBER OF SINGLE AND TWO-REEL COMEDIES AND DRAMAS, in excellent condition, with paper. Also 3, 4, 5 and 6-reel Features. Our prices are very reasonable.
H. & B. FILM SERVICE CORP.
729 Seventh Avenue (Room 607) NEW YORK

EXHIBITORS SUPPLY CO., Inc.
Mallers Building, CHICAGO, ILL.
Exclusive Distributors
Simplex Machines
Illinois Indiana Wisconsin

We do not CUT prices but quote SENSIBLE prices for DEVELOPING—PRINTING
TITLES—TINTING
CAMERAMEN FURNISHED
ALL WORK GUARANTEED
Standard Motion Picture Co.
1620-21 Mallers Bldg., Chicago

FOR SALE
Mailing Lists
MOVING PICTURE THEATRES
Every State — Total 24,000
Price, $3.50 per M.
1400 Film Exchanges $4.00
200 Manufacturers and Studios $1.50
225 Picture Machine and Supply Dealers $1.50
Particulars.
A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
and
LOW Price
CAST IRON

Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.
STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

Hirtzman and his confederates, with the platinum, hire an auto to take them to the border, where arrangements have been made to smuggle them across and help them to reach a waiting vessel some distance down the coast.

Virginia and Winthrop get a line on the spies through an officer, who knows the driver who took them out. They get him to follow the fugitives to the place where he took them. Before the driver returns, however, they visit the president of the powder company. He is in despair, as the failure of the platinum shipments holds up the entire plant. He promises to telegraph to the officers on the border while the two pursue the spies.

Hirtzman and his party are met by Letner, a countryman, and he tells them that the plans are all complete. Virginia and Winthrop arrive. The surprise is mutual, but the spies far outnumber the auto party, and the car turns sharply to the right going like lightning down a new road. Unfortunately, it leads right over a cliff. The car makes a leap and with its occupants goes crashing down to the river bed below. The driver is killed, but the Canadian constable and the brave American girl are only stunned. Winthrop picks Virginia up in his arms and starts to find a hiding-place from the pursuit he knows will be started at once.

THE MYSTERY SHIP (Episode No. 8, "Hidden Hands"—Two Parts—Jan. 19).—The cast: Miles Gaston, Jr. (Ben Wilson); Betty Lee (Neva Gerber); Jack Fay (Kingsley Benedict); Harry Russell (Duke Worne).

The gang of which Harry Russell, formerly Betty Lee's fiancee is chief, determines to dispose of the treasure, not knowing that Betty had secreted herself in the treasure chest, hiding the treasure in a panel in the wall of the room in which she was held prisoner. Miles Gaston and Jack Fay, reaching the dock, crash into the automobile in which Betty is hidden, pushing it into the water. She is just about to sink when the Mystery Man, an enigmatic character, whose powers are unlimited, intervenes and places her safely ashore. "We'll take the treasure to Frisco and then to Chinatown where we can sell it," said Russell, not knowing that Betty was within hearing distance. Jack and Gaston part, the former to go aboard the ship and the latter to go by train to Frisco. Once aboard, Betty informs him of her fate, and Jack, in turn, wires the news to Gaston, who reaches Chinatown and falls victim to a scheme which Russell invented, to get Gaston out of the way. Gaston is then imprisoned in a room with wild animals and Betty, who changes places with a little Chinese girl who was sent to deliver her food, is about to make a getaway when she is thwarted by the gang. The picture ends just as she is about to be stabbed by the Chinese henchmen.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

ISSUE NO. 54 (Jan. 19).

Bee culture is the opening subject of this release. To those who know them it seems a mighty safe and easy job to handle. But just the same, it isn't going to increase undue familiarity with these well-armed little busybodies and sweet-tooth experts. United States Signal Troops are experimenting with a new scout—a dictagraph. The magazine shows the way in which it is planted and operated and camouflaged to spy on enemy lines. A scene on the Maine post road built of bituminous macadam is shown as an example of thoroughly up-to-date paving. The Screen Magazine also invites you to have a date in California, and the white-uniformed handlers make the invitation an extremely attractive one. Millions of dates are being raised in California since foreign markets have been largely cut off. Willie Hopkins' Miracle in Mud this week is entitled "Take a Chance."

Mutual Film Corp.

STRAND.

THEIR LITTLE KID (One-reel Comedy—Jan. 22).—Billie and Jack have been married for two years and are happy in their married life and also in the expectation that Jack's rich uncle, who lives in the West, will leave them a nice bunch of money some day.

Uncle wires that he's coming on the next train, and is anxious to "see the kid." Jack thinks he means a baby, which has not yet been added to their establishment. Fearful of disappointing uncle, they make frantic efforts to borrow, beg or steal a baby to pass off to uncle as their own.

TYPHOON COOLING SYSTEM
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

A book-agent happens in and Jack mistakes him for his uncle whom he hasn't seen for many years. Billie in the meantime is out trying to round up an infant, finally succeeding in borrowing one from a nurse in the park, which is handed to the supposed uncle as his niece. As they treat the book-agent royally, he decides to carry out the part imposed on him.

Enter the father and mother of the baby, who create an awful scene, during which the real uncle arrives. Billie and Jack are dumbfounded until uncle explains that he meant Jack's wife, and all is serene.

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

ISSUE NO. 3 (Jan 14).

Junction City, Kan.—Oil station goes up in smoke. 15,000 gallons of gasoline destroyed.

Boston, Mass.—Zero weather congeals harbor. Tugs break ice to release fishing fleet.

Eureka, Cal.—Food is medium of exchange at this theater. Vegetable matinee for children nets many good dinners for city's poor.

New York City—Newest winter fashions exhibited at Biltmore Ice Gardens for benefit of the Red Cross.

Tacoma, Wash.—This city is flood swept. The Puyallup River runs rampant, causing loss of life and property.

Winchendon, Mass.—Winter sport at Toy Town Tavern.

Pasadena, Cal.—125,000 cheer 28th annual Tournament of Roses. War spirit reflected in features of floral fete. National colors mingle with roses.

Everywhere-in-America.—Save your automobile tires. Under-inflation causes damage. A new instrument which gives the air pressure in your tire at all times.

San Francisco, Cal.—The war and the H. C. of L. has not affected marriages. So say 100 picture brides from Nippon who arrived at this port to meet their future husbands for the first time.

Hoboken, N. J.—Sailors and soldiers help firemen fight blaze in zero weather. Big paper warehouse causes $150,000 conflagration. Subtitle: Zero weather hampered the firemen.

From Detroit to France—Motor-truck train for Pershing break's World's record winter overland trip.

The War in Arabia. At Port Said—Col. Bremond is made Commander of the Legion of Honor. Subtitles: French troops leave Suez for Arabia. The arrival at El Ouedj, Arabia. The army of Emir Faical in the Oasis of Gidda. The tent of the Emir. The flag of Hedjaz. Wounded Turks and prisoners are brought to the camp.

PARAMOUNT.

THE KITCHEN LADY (Two Parts—Jan. 15—Mack Sennett Comedy).—Louise is sentimentally inclined. However, her passion is unrequited. She loves best of all Slim, the landlady's long and handsome son, and next to him Glen, the lion tamer. Both these gentlemen, sadly enough, love Alice, the pretty star boarder.

But when it is rumored that Louise is to be an heiress, things change. Both the triflers declare their affection and things seem to be looking up for Louise. This is too good to last, however, and before long she is sent back to the kitchen in a hurry—alone and unloved. At the last, though, she does get the money and then has the satisfaction of spurning both her recreant lovers.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS NO. 3 (Jan. 5).

Norfolk, Va.—Two blocks in the heart of the city are destroyed by fire, suspected as being part of a plot to raze this important base. Subtitles: Soldiers and sailors from nearby camps aid the firemen. The cold weather covers the buildings with a mantle of ice.

An Atlantic Port.—Successfully completing the first lap on their run to Berlin, thirty army trucks arrive here after a 600-mile overland trip. Subtitles: Wagons and men ready for the second lap to "somewhere over there."

Fort Riley, Kan.—A real, hair-raising Rodeo is given at Camp Funston by the National Army Boys who hail from the wild and woolly West. Subtitles: A tug-of-war and a push-ball match are hotly contested. To wind up the affair, Sioux Indians, now in the National Army, "attack" the camp supply-train.

Coney Island, N. Y.—Eskimos are not the only ones who enjoy frigid weather, for the Polar Bears, too, come out when mercury hovers near "o." Subtitle: Now for a dip and then a real rubdown.

With the Stars and Stripes Abroad (Official U. S. War Films Released by the Committee on Public Information Through the American Red Cross). Subtitles: French chasseurs in the training school back of the firing line, teach their American comrades the art of bombing. First the grenade is prepared. A grenade ready to be thrown. Uncle Sam's boys are apt pupils and learn their lessons easily. Bombing from a trench; this is the way most raids are stopped. A mopping-up lesson. Troops entering an enemy trench advance slowly and hurl grenades into all nooks, to drive out hidden foes. Official war pictures of the activities of the U. S. Army in France will be shown regularly in the Hearst-Pathe News.

On to Italy.—Quick to respond to Italy's appeal for aid, the Allies rush hundreds of auto trucks over the Alps with supplies and men. Subtitles: Winding their way round the precipitous cliffs. With this Allied aid, Italy's brave troops will stem the invasion of the Huns.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Ten thousand Mummers usher in the New Year auspiciously with a gorgeous procession and their annual gay festivities. Subtitles: Year in and year out—the spirit that will live forever.

Gary, Ill.—With the arrival of heavy snow, skiers from all over the country come here to practice for the national tournament. Subtitle: Even the best of them take a mighty fall at times.

New York City.—The shortage in coal and other necessities grows acute when the harbor is frozen over and traffic difficulties increased. Subtitles: Coal barges carrying relief to the freezing city are caught in the ice-jam. Tugs try to open channels through the ice-field.

New York City (Local).—Mayor-elect John F. Hylan at City Hall, ready to take up his duties as the head of the nation's largest metropolis. Subtitle: Frederick A. Bugher, the new Commissioner of Police.

POWER'S MACHINES
SUPPLIES AND PARTS
CARBONS TICKETS
LEONARD'S MOTOR GREASE
Quick Service Repairing by Experts
MOVING PICTURE MACHINE COMPANY
Binghamton, N. Y.

THE Automatic TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF
AUTOMATICKET MACHINES
and all kinds of Theatre Tickets
USED UNIVERSALLY
1735 BROADWAY N.Y. CITY

HE'S gone across—
YOU "come across"!

Adopt a SOLDIER and Supply him with "SMOKES" for the Duration of the WAR!

YOU know that our fighting men are begging for tobacco. Tobacco cheers them. They need it. "Send more cigarettes." "We can't get half enough smokes over here." "A cigarette is the first thing a wounded man asks for." Almost every mail brings many thousands of such requests.

$1.00 a Month Keeps a Soldier Supplied—Will YOU Be a "BIG BROTHER" or a "BIG SISTER" to a Lonely Fighting Man?

Every dollar sends four 45c. packages of tobacco. Mail the money and coupon right now.

"OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"
19 West 44th Street, New York City
Depository: Irving National Bank, New York

"I wish you all possible success in your admirable effort to get our boys in France tobacco."
—THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Endorsed by

The Secretary of War	Lyman Abbott
The Secretary of the Navy	Rabbi Wise
	Gertrude Atherton
The American Red Cross	Theodore Roosevelt
	Alton B. Parker
Cardinal Gibbons	And the Entire Nation

"OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"
19 West 44th Street, New York

GENTLEMEN: I want to do my part to help the American soldiers who are fighting my battle in France. If tobacco will do it, I'm for tobacco. (Check below how you desire to contribute.)

I enclose $1.00. I will adopt a soldier and send you $1.00 a month to supply him with "smokes" for the duration of the war.

I send you herewith ....., my contribution towards the purchase of tobacco for American soldiers. This does not obligate me to contribute more.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

We have for sale Twenty Million Dollar Mystery, 22 reels; Zudora, 18 reels; and Million Dollar Mystery, 46 reels. We also have a large stock of new and commercial film in all lengths for all parts of the globe.
Established 1908
THE FILM EXCHANGE
329 7th Avenue, New York City

THEATRE MANAGERS
Look for our New Department "ADVERTISING AIDS FOR BUSY MANAGERS" Every Week You Can Use It and You Should.

Search no Farther
EVANS' DEVELOPING and PRINTING SERVICE offers that personal interest factor that you seek.
This, supported by experience and known reputation, can be relied on to secure the results you demand.
EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., New York City Telephone St. Nicholas 3443

Classified Advertisements NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

RELIABLE, aggressive manager, six years' experience in pictures; expert on booking, publicity and organization. Salary and percentage proposition preferred. Best of references. B. L. J., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

WANTED, position as manager of moving picture theater, in small city, not over twenty thousand population. In either New York State or Pennsylvania. Have had four years' experience. W. E. Currie, Youngsville, Pa.

CAMERAMAN wishes to make change; five years' experience; thoroughly familiar with laboratory work. Address F., care M. P. World, Chicago, Ill.

HELP WANTED.

FIRST-CLASS motion picture cameraman with production experience, capable of taking charge of laboratory in large manufacturing concern. Only high-class man wanted. Must have reference that will bear thorough investigation. G., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAMERAMEN, attention! See ad on page 583 regarding new and important weekly. Community Motion Picture Bureau.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

STUDIO for rent for three months while owner is in California. A motion picture studio fully equipped with Cooper-Hewitts and latest style arc lamps. Floor space, 50x80, ten dressing rooms, everything ready for immediate use, including services of expert staff and crew. Blackton Productions, Inc., 423 Classon Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

THEATERS WANTED.

LEWIS of Buffalo sells everywhere. List your movie now. 580 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

WOULD a movie interest you that clears $100 per week, after paying all expenses, including manager at $28 per week? This house is located at Newport, R. I.; capacity, 587; admission, 5 and 10 cents (not open Sundays); good lease; price, $8,000. This is without a doubt one of the best propositions ever offered. Lewis, Moving Picture Broker, 580 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR RENT—Centrally located theater in Milwaukee, Wis. Excellent location for burlesque, vaudeville, or moving pictures. Seating capacity, 579 on first floor, 457 in balcony and 281 in gallery, total 1,317. For terms, inquire New Jersey Theater Co., 215 Galena St., Milwaukee, Wis.

FOR SALE, moving picture house, 335 seats, city 35,000, southern Wisconsin. Will sell for $2,000 cash, rent very reasonable. Reason for selling, ill-health in family. Don't answer unless you mean business. X. Z., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

EXHIBITORS—OPERATORS — PROJECTION EXPERT F. H. RICHARDSON SAYS "INSTALL 'AMBERLUX' LENS FILTERS." IMPROVE PROJECTION 100%. RESULTS GUARANTEED. PRICE, WITH ADVERTISING SLIDE, $3.50. PARCELS POST PREPAID. W. D. WARNER, 8 EAST BROAD ST., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 75c up. Serviceable goods guaranteed, cut prices on new chairs. Three asbestos booths. Send for list of dropped patterns and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE, one Dayton Coin Register in perfect condition; records and counts nickles, dimes, pennies; accurate check on receipts without ticket taker for small theater. Also one 50-ampere Westinghouse Mercury Arc Rectifier as good as new. Half price to quick buyer. Y. M. C. A., Coatesville, Pa.

FOR SALE—Motiograph machine, rheostat, double automatic ticket machine, Lemon arc regulator, 235 chairs. First-class condition. Fred Longnecker, Cayuga, Ill.

$125 TAKES 46" ventillating fan, with belt and five horsepower 22 volt, 60 cycle motor. This outfit is just like new; cost new $300. Complete Simplex picture machine $115. Complete Power's No. 6 moving picture machine $65. Fort Wayne, 110 volts, 60 cycle compensarc, used six months, $30. H. Davids, 711 S. Kedzie Ave., Chicago, Ill.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Ernemann, model B, 400-foot camera, tripod, carrying case, extra magazines; perfect condition. F. M., 981-A Union Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

GET IN TOUCH WITH BASS CAMERA COMPANY. America's most reliable center for REAL BARGAINS in MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS. We practice and preach QUALITY—VALUE—SERVICE. Special list of unusual bargains NOW READY shows best offers in guaranteed and tested new and used apparatus. Don't wait, but write for it today. Mr. Merl LaVoy, world-renowned war cameraman, now in Europe writes, "I SHALL REMEMBER YOUR GOOD TREATMENT WITH PLEASURE." You, too, will be pleased with our honest, conscientious service. Distributors for Universal cameras; AMERICAN PROJECTOSCOPE, $175, and VICTOR PORTABLE PROJECTOR, $165. The world's best portable projectors. Catalogue free. BASS SERVICE IS WORTH MONEY TO YOU. BASS CAMERA COMPANY, Charles Bass, Pres., 109 No. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

USED M. P. CAMERAS————ROCK-BOTTOM PRICES————200-FT. Ernemann Model A, regular and trick crank, F: 3.5 lens, 50 M.M. focus, $90. MANY OTHERS————WRITE OR WIRE FOR OUR COMPLETE LIST OF NEW AND USED MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS, TRIPODS AND ACCESSORIES. DAVID STERN COMPANY, 1027R MADISON, CHICAGO, ILL.

FILMS WANTED.

FIRE, Chinatown pictures in three or four reels with good paper. Also want a few good single-reel comedies with paper in good condition. Address Sigma, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

WANTED, negative and positive film of Indian Battle with Soldiers and Settlers. Cherokee Film Co., 224 Central National Bank Bldg., Tulsa, Okla.

FILMS FOR SALE.

PENDLETON ROUND-UP films, new. One used print World's Greatest Frontier Exhibition. Hauck Feature Film Co., 294 East 56th St., Portland, Ore.

200 single reels of film. New condition. Full reels, $2.50 each. Send money order for trial order. Mahmarian, 440 West 23d St., N. Y. City.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

AEOLIAN Orchestrelle, softer tone than pipe organ, suitable picture theater or church. $1,500 instrument $450. Hauck, 294 East 56th St., Portland, Ore.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TOM BRET—Titles and scenarios. Room 616, 220 West 42d St., N. Y. City. Phone Bryant 8419.

EXHIBITORS in or near Philadelphia. Let me get out your weekly program. I'll arrange and design it and deliver it complete. Ask Sargent; he knows. Walter H. Brooks, Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, Coatesville, Pa.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

You Need Them in Your Business!

Each issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD represents the fruit of studied effort on the part of experts to provide just what the average reader of trade publications in the moving picture field can use to best advantage in his business.

Since this is true, the bound volumes of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, each comprising the complete issues printed during a period of three months, take immediate standing as

The Reliable Reference Book of the Trade The Record of Moving Picture History in the Making

NOW READY—VOL. 33.—JULY TO SEPTEMBER, 1917

WE HAVE AT YOUR DISPOSAL

Bound Volumes for the years 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1916. Four volumes each year. Shipped as per your instructions at $1.50 per volume—transportation charges additional.

INVEST $34.50

and have at your hand for ready reference every issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD which has been printed since January 1, 1912. These issues are in bound volume form, and are invaluable to the wide-awake moving picture man.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 516 Fifth Ave., New York City

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM, PATHE AND PARAMOUNT PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 568.)

General Film Company, Inc.

(Note—Pictures given below are listed in the order of their release. Additions are made from week to week in the order of release.)

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

The Fourth in Salvador (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
The Clarion Call (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).
The Hiding of Black Bill (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).
The Count and the Wedding Guest (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Comedy-Dr.).
The Thing's the Play (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).
The Fifth Wheel (One of the O. Henry Series—Two parts—Drama).

CHAPLIN COMEDIES.

By the Sea (One reel—Comedy).
In the Park (One reel—Comedy).
Work (Two parts—Comedy).
A Woman (Two parts—Comedy).

ESSSANAY COMEDIES.

A Depot Romeo.
Make Your Eyes Behave.
Lunch.
Nut Stuff.
He Loved Her So.
One Night.
Next.

ESSANAY SCENICS.

Banff National Park.
The Great National Industries of Canada.
Water Powers of Western Canada.
Through Canada from Coast to Coast.
How Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising.
Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada.
The Bay of Fundy.

FALCON FEATURES.

Feet of Clay (Four Parts—Drama).
Brand's Daughter (Four parts—Drama).
His Old-Fashioned Dad (Four Parts—Drama).
Zollenstein (Four parts—Drama).

HANOVER FILM COMPANY.

Camille (Helen Hesperia—Six Parts—Drama).
The Marvelous Maciste (Six parts—Drama).

JAXON COMEDIES.

(Sixth Series.)

Out and In (Finn & Haddie).
The Inspector's Wife.
In Wrong (Finn & Haddie).
Anybody's Money.
Her Fatal Shot.
Marooned.
Sherman Was Right.
What Will Happen Next?
Which Was Lucky?

JAXON FILM CORPORATION.

"A Daughter of Uncle Sam" (A One-Reel Episode of this Patriotic Serial released each week).

JUDGE BROWN STORIES.

Bud's Recruit (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
Chocolate of the Gang (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
The Lost Lie (Two parts—Drama).
The Accusing Toe (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTOPLAY CO.

Physical Culture Magazine (Monthly).

RAY COMEDIES.

A Peaceful Flat.
Cheating His Wife.
A Bathtub Marriage.

SELIG.

Selig World Library No. 22 (Educational).
Selig-World Library No. 23 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 24 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 25 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 26 (Educational).
Selig World Library No. 27 (Edu.).

SELBURN COMEDIES.

(Piedmont Pictures Corporation)

Hubby's Holiday (Two parts—Comedy).
Too Much Elephant (One part—Comedy).
Wedding Bells and Lunatics (One part—Com.).
His College Proxy (One part—Comedy).

SPARKLE COMEDIES.

(Fifth Series.)

On the Love Line.
The Detective.
Smashing the Plot.
After the Matinee.
Double Cross.
The Best of a Bargain.

THREE C COMEDIES.

His Watery Waterloo.
Fat and Foolish.
A Harem Romance.
His Winning Way.
A Boarding House Battle.
Stealing a Sweetheart.
A Hash House Romance.
The Mod Carrier's Million.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF JANUARY 6, 1918.

Convict 993 (Five parts—Drama—Astra).
The Hidden Hand (Episode No. 7—"The Fire Trap"—Two parts—Drama—Pathe).
The Tip (One reel—Comedy—Rolin).
Picturesque Rivers of France, the Tarn and Its Gorges (Colored—Travel—Pathe) and Here and There in Keswick, Cumberland, England (Colored—Travel—Pathe) (Split reel).
Katzenjammer Kids—"Der Captain's Birthday" (Cartoon Comedy—Half reel) and War Bibles (Educational—Half reel) (International split reel).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 4 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 5 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF JAN. 13, 1918.

The German Curse in Russia (Five parts—War Film—Donald C. Thompson).
The Hidden Hand (Episode No. 8—"The Slide for Life"—Two parts—Drama).
Argus Pictorial No. 5 (One reel—Educational—Argus Laboratories).
Our National Park, Yellowstone Park—Its Wonders and Oddities (One Reel—Travel—Ralph Earle).
The Movie Dummy (Two parts—Comedy—Rolin).
Happy Hooligan—Hearts and Horses (Half reel—Cartoon) and My Lady's Furs (Half reel—Educational) (International Split Reel).
Hearst Pathe News No. 6 (Topical).
Hearst Pathe News No. 7 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF JAN. 20, 1918.

The Cloven Tongue (Five parts—Drama—Russian Art).
The Hidden Hand (Episode No. 9—"The Jets of Flame"—Two parts—Drama—Pathe).
The Price of Folly (Episode No. 1—"Phantom Fame"—Two parts—Drama—Balboa).
The Big Idea (One Reel—Comedy—Rolin).
Bruges—Before the War, Belgium (Half Reel—Travel Colored Pathe) and In Blossom Time (Half Reel—Educational—Pathe).
Katzenjammer Kids—"Rub-a-dud-dud" (Half Reel—Cartoon) and Making Linoleum (Half Reel—Educational) (International Split Reel).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 8 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathe News No. 9 (Topical)

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Oct. 7—Susie Slips One Over.
Oct. 15—Nearly a Baker.
Nov. 12—A Society Scrimmage.

KLEVER KOMEDY.

Nov. 19—Nutty Knitters.
Dec. 3—Toothaches and Heartaches.
Dec. 17—The Installment Plan.
Dec. 31—O. U. Boat.
Jan. 14—Meatless Days and Sleepless Nights.
Jan. 28—He Got His.

PARAMOUNT MACK SENNET COMEDIES

Dec. 30—Taming Target Center (Two parts).
Jan. 13—The Kitchen Lady (Two parts).
Jan. 27—His Hidden Purpose (Two parts).
Feb. 3—Watch Your Neighbor (Two parts).
Feb. 10—Sheriff Nell's Tussle (Two parts).

PARAMOUNT ARBUCKLE COMEDIES.

Sept. 30—Oh, Doctor! (Two parts).
Oct. 29—Fatty at Coney Island.
Dec. 10—A Country Hero.
Jan. 20—Out West (Two parts).

PARAMOUNT FEATURES.

Dec. 17—The Fair Barbarian (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Love Letters (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—His Mother's Boy (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—The Seven Swans (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—Mrs. Dane's Defense (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Jules of Strong Heart (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Spirit of '17 (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 21—Rimrock Jones (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The World for Sale (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—The Widow's Might (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—The Hired Man (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Flare-Up Sal (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Madame Jealousy (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 4—A Petticoat Pilot (Five parts—Dr.).

PARAMOUNT SERIAL.

Dec. 17—Who Is Number 1? (Episode No. 8—"Walls of Gas"—Two Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—Who Is No. 1? (Episode No. 9—"Struck Down"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Who is No. 1? (Episode No. 10—"Wires of Wrath"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 11—"The Rail Raiders"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 12—"The Show Down"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 13—"Cornered"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 14—"No Surrender"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Who Is Number One? (Episode No. 15—"The Round Up"—Two parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Jan. 7—Sydney, the Antipodean Metropolis (Scenic).
Jan. 14—A Trip to the Jenolan Caves of Australia (Scenic).
Jan. 21—Melbourne the Magnificent (Scenic).
Jan. 28—Round About Melbourne (Scenic).
Feb. 4—Adelaide, Capital of South Australia (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS.

Dec. 23—A Dog Chauffeur on Fifth Avenue; Binding Uncle Sam's Harvest; Goodrich Dirt and the $1,000 Reward.
Dec. 30—No. 100—Knit Your Bit; War Dogs; Bobby Bumps' Tank.
Jan. 6—No. 101—The New Art of Dress; Destructive Power of T. N. T.; Goodrich Dirt and Duke de Whatanob.
Jan. 12—No. 102—The Panama Canal; Evolution of the Dance; Flour from Potatoes.

EASTMAN FILM

The result of highest grade materials and painstaking manufacture is shown in the results on the screen.

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" on the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

TO THE EXHIBITORS
of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia

When we decided to incorporate our holdings with the Exhibitors of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, we felt that we would prove our contention that films could be purchased with the Exhibitors and sold to them at reasonable money-making prices. But we could hardly realize that we would be enabled to purchase attractions like "Lust of the Ages," "Babbling Tongues," "Grain of Dust," "Sins of Ambition" and "Submarine Eye" and that the Exhibitors would compliment us and come in with us without much comment or urging on our part. To date, we have been enabled to reach nearly fifty per cent. of our minimum quota.

We offer you

LILLIAN WALKER

The Darling of the Screen

Well and pleasingly known by millions of Moving Picture Fans

in

"LUST OF THE AGES"

To which the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors have requested to be added the words, "GOLD—OR." This subject in seven short parts, is of surpassing beauty and excellence. Directed by Harry Revier.

By arrangement of the OGDEN PICTURES CORPORATION — Book by AARON HOFFMAN

Released by the Crest Pictures Corporation

Is open to the Exhibitors in our territory, irrespective of whether or not you wish to join us.

BEAUTIFUL—LILLIAN WALKER—VIVACIOUS

is a star that will pack your theatre.

Cost about $100,000 to produce. Ready for release in February.

"SUBMARINE EYE"

has proven itself a tremendous success.

"BABBLING TONGUES"

Ivan, I. E. Chadwick, General Manager is a beautiful story that will prove a surpassing box-office attraction.

Directed by William Humphries

"A GRAIN OF DUST,"

with LILLIAN WALKER

Has no peer as a story, as an attraction, or a more beautiful or talented star.

Released by Carle Carlton, Crest Pictures Corporation
By arrangement with Lester Parke

"SINS OF AMBITION"

Another Ivan Production. Is a credit to any theatre.

And with these productions as a base for our new corporation, you can feel assured we will have the attractions you will need FOR THE NEW YEAR.

We wish to urge upon all exhibitors, everywhere, to arrange for co-operation everywhere and stand ready to aid in a national organization for mutual benefit and profit. Tear yourself away from the losing high prices service. You have allowed yourself to join. Write to us. We'll help you.

LIBERTY FILM RENTING CO.

MAYER SILVERMAN

6th Floor, 938-940 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

To
Camera Men and Owners of Negative
The World To-day In Motion Pictures

is a new weekly, issued by the Community Motion Picture Bureau, in co-operation with the Young Men's Christian Association, and under the supervision of the Commission on Training Camp Activities of the War Department, for exhibition primarily to men in the service.

We want live, interesting subjects that will appeal to men in the camps, and in the navy. Most of the material used will be related to the war; but other first-rate subjects will not be unacceptable. Short subjects showing home folks and home scenes will sometimes be used.

Submit your negative either developed, or undeveloped, marking the can plainly. We will pay promptly for accepted subjects. Special inducements to camera men who furnish extra-good material.

Community Motion Picture Bureau
46 West 24th St., New York City, N. Y.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL, GOLDWYN, METRO AND TRIANGLE PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 568.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Dec. 19—Number 3 (Topical).
Dec. 26—Number 4 (Topical).
Jan. 2—Number 5 (Topical).
Jan. 9—Number 6 (Topical).
Jan. 16—Number 7 (Topical).
Jan. 23—Number 8 (Topical).

GOLD SEAL.

Oct. 8—The Ninth Day (Three Parts—Drama).
Oct. 15—The Taming of Lucy (Three Parts—Drama).
Oct. 22—The End of the Run (Three Parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—The Mysterious Iron Ring (An episode of "The Perils of the Secret Service"—Three parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Oct. 1—Her Naughty Choice (Comedy).
Oct. 1—The Masked Marvels (Comedy).
Oct. 8—The Wart on the Wire (Comedy).
Oct. 8—Rainstorms and Brainstorms (Comedy).
Oct. 15—The Magic Jazz-Bo (Comedy).
Oct. 15—Who Done It? (Comedy).
Oct. 22—The Tight Wad (Comedy).
Oct. 22—A Wise Dummy (Comedy).
Oct. 29—I Quit (Comedy).

L-KO.

Nov. 28—Kid Snatchers (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 5—A Hero for a Minute (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 12—Deep Seas and Desperate Deeds (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 19—Bullets and Boneheads (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—Ambrose's Icy Love (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 2—Carnivals and Cannibals (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 9—Torpedo Pirates (Two parts—Com.).
Jan. 16—Home-Run Ambrose (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 23—Ashcan Alley (Two parts—Comedy).

NESTOR.

Nov. 5—Caught in the Draft (Comedy).
Nov. 12—The Shame of the Bulicon (Comedy).
Nov. 19—Strike One (Comedy).
Nov. 26—Water On the Brain (Comedy).
Dec. 3—The Other Stocking (Comedy).
Dec. 10—A Munition Worker's Curse (Com.).
Dec. 17—Secret Servants (Comedy).
Dec. 24—The Guy and the Guyser (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Busted Hearts and Buttermilk (Com.).
Jan. 7—Cave Man Stuff (Comedy).
Jan. 14—Maimed in a Hospital (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Who's to Blame? (Comedy).

SPECIAL PRODUCTION.

Nov. 5—John Ermine of Yellowstone (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—The Cricket (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 19—The Man from Montana (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 26—Fear Not (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—Fighting Mad (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Silent Lady (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—Beloved Jim (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Bucking Broadway (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 31—The High Sign (Herbert Rawlinson Production—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—The Wolf and His Mate (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Hell's Crater (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Madame Spy (Five parts—Drama).

VICTOR.

Oct. 1—Kicked in the Kitchen (Comedy).
Oct. 8—A Walloping Time (Comedy).
Oct. 15—When Liz Lets Loose (Comedy).
Oct. 22—What'll We Do With Uncle? (Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCEEN MAGAZINE.

Nov. 23—Issue No. 46 (Educational).
Nov. 30—Issue No. 47 (Educational).
Dec. 7—Issue No. 48 (Educational).
Dec. 15—Issue No. 49 (Educational).
Dec. 22—Issue No. 50 (Educational).
Dec. 29—Issue No. 51 (Educational).
Jan. 5—Issue No. 52 (Educational).
Jan. 12—Issue No. 53 (Educational).
Jan. 19—Issue No. 54 (Educational).
Jan. 26—Issue No. 55 (Educational).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Dec. 15—The Red Ace (Episode No. 9—"A Voice from the Past"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 15—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 3—"Adrift"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Red Ace (Episode No. 10—"Hearts of Steel"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 22—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 4—"The Secret of the Tomb"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 29—The Red Ace (Episode No. 11—"The Burning Span"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 29—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 5—"The Fire God"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 5—The Red Ace (Episode No. 12—"Overboard"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 5—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 6—"Treachery"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—The Red Ace (Episode No. 13—"New Enemies"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 7—"One Minute to Live"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Red Ace (Episode No. 14—"The Fugitives"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 8)—"Hidden Hands"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 26—The Red Ace (Episode No. 15—"Hell's Riders"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 26—The Mystery Ship (Episode No. 9—"The Black Masks"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 26—The Finley Nature Pictures (One Reel—Educational).

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS.

Nov. 23—Issue No. 28 (Topical).
Nov. 30—Issue No. 29 (Topical).
Dec. 7—Issue No. 30 (Topical).
Dec. 15—Issue No. 31 (Topical).
Dec. 22—Issue No. 32 (Topical).
Dec. 29—Issue No. 33 (Topical).
Jan. 5—Issue No. 34 (Topical).
Jan. 12—Issue No. 35 (Topical).
Jan. 19—Issue No. 36 (Topical).
Jan. 26—Issue No. 37 (Topical).

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

GOLDWYN FEATURES.

Sept. 23—Baby Mine (Six parts—Comedy).
Oct. 7—Fighting Odds (Six parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—The Spreading Dawn (Six parts—Drama).
Nov. 4—Sunshine Alley (Six parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—Nearly Married (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 2—The Auction Block (Eight parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Cinderella Man (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).
Dec. 30—Thais (Six parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Fields of Honor (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 28—Dodging a Million (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).
Feb. 10—Our Little Wife (Six parts—Comedy-Drama).

GOLDWYN SPECIALS.

The Manx-Man (Seven parts—Drama).
For the Freedom of the World (Seven parts—Drama).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

Dec. 10—Alias Mrs. Jessop (Five parts—Dr.)
Dec. 17—An American Widow (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Red, White, and Blue Blood (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Avenging Trail (Yorke Film Corp.—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Daybreak (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Winding Trail (Rolfe—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Eyes of Mystery (Rolfe—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Her Boy (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Under Suspicion (Five parts—Dr.).

METRO SPECIALS.

October—The Slacker (Eight parts—Drama).
Nov. 15—Draft 258 (Seven parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Blue Jeans (Seven parts—Drama).
January—The Legion of Death (Rolfe—Seven parts—Drama).
January—Revelation (Seven parts—Drama).

METRO COMEDIES.

Nov. 19—A Close Resemblance (Drew).
Nov. 26—As Others See Us (Drew).
Dec. 3—Too Much Henry (Drew).
Dec. 10—Wages No Object (Drew).
Dec. 15—The Spirit of Merry Christmas (Drew).
Dec. 24—The Unmarried Look (Drew).
Dec. 31—Shadowing Henry (Drew).
Jan. 7—Their Mutual Motor (Drew).
Jan. 14—Why Henry Left Home (Drew).
Jan. 21—Their First Love (Drew).
Jan. 28—Under the Influence (Drew).

Triangle Film Corporation.

TRIANGLE PRODUCTIONS.

Dec. 23—Without Honor (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—Until They Get Me (Five Parts—Dr.).
Dec. 30—The Gown of Destiny (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Framing Framers (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 6—Betty Takes a Hand (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—Man Above the Law (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—I Love You (Seven Parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—Laws Outlaw (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Evidence (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Flames of Chance (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 27—The Gun Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 27—Her American Husband (Five parts—Drama).

TRIANGLE KOMEDY.

Dec. 16—His Bad Policy.
Dec. 16—A Discordant Note.
Dec. 23—A Counterfeit Scent.
Dec. 23—A Birthday Blunder.
Dec. 30—In Wrong Right.
Dec. 30—His Double Flivver.
Jan. 6—Matrominial Breaker.
Jan. 6—His Day of Doom.
Jan. 13—A Straight Crook.
Jan. 13—A Marriage Not.
Jan. 20—Their Indian Uncle.
Jan. 20—The Price of His Head.
Jan. 27—A Butler Bust-Up.
Jan. 27—Too Many Husbands.

KEYSTONE COMEDY.

Dec. 2—An Ice Man's Bride (Two parts).
Dec. 9—The Grave Undertaking (Two parts).
Dec. 16—A Sanitarium Scandal (Two parts).
Dec. 23—Afraid to Be False (Two parts).
Dec. 30—Welcome Home (Two parts).
Jan. 6—His Hidden Shame (Two parts).
Jan. 13—His Punctured Reputation (Two parts).
Jan. 20—Dimples and Dangers (Two parts).

Producers.—Kindly Furnish Titles and Dates of All New Releases Before Saturday.

A Poor Lens Can Spoil the Best Film

The better the film, the greater is the need for a high-grade projection lens. Give your audience the full benefit of fine films, by employing

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

A single good house will pay the cost, several times over—and you'll reap rich dividends of clearer pictures and increased patronage.

Write and tell us of your conditions, and let us quote on your requirements. Free booklet on request.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
566 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.
New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons), Microscopes, Stereo Prism Binoculars and other high-grade Optical Products.

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 230 Pages
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Verdicts are Formed after Evidence and Convincing Facts Have Been Submitted

Speer Alterno Carbons
FOR A.C. WORK

and

Speer Hold-Ark Carbons
FOR D.C. WORK

Produce Incomparable Results—results mould operators' opinions—opinions determine the verdicts—verdicts establish the reputation. The operators' "stamp of approval" places Speer Projector Carbons in that exclusive class of motion picture supplies most essential to improved projection.

PARAMOUNT FEATURES
ALTERNO CARBONS

Perfect Projection—Wanderless Arc.
Noiseless Operation—Brilliant Illumination.
Bright, Flickerless, Eye-Resting Light.
No Change Required in Booth Equipment.

ESSENTIAL ADVANTAGES
HOLD-ARK CARBONS

Permanent Arc — Longer Life
Perfect Crater — Minimum Adjustment
Hard Core and Metal Coating
Elimination of Projection Difficulties

When ordering specify whether for alternating or direct current. Each style has a special duty to perform. Substitutions or attempted alterations are costly.

Write today for descriptive literature

"THE CARBONS WITH A GUARANTEE"

SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

List of Current Film Release Dates

MUTUAL PROGRAM AND MISCELLANEOUS FEATURES

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 568.)

Mutual Film Corp.

CUB.

Nov. 1—Jerry's Lucky Day (Comedy).
Nov. 7—Jerry and the Vampire (Comedy).
Nov. 15—Jerry's Running Fight (Comedy).
Nov. 22—Jerry's Victory (Comedy).
Nov. 29—Jerry and the Burglars (Comedy).
Dec. 6—Jerry Takes Gas (Comedy).
Dec. 12—Jerry's Boarding House (Comedy).
Dec. 20—Jerry's Double Cross (Comedy).
Dec. 26—Jerry's Best Friend (Comedy).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Nov. 25—Number 152 (Topical).
Dec. 2—Number 153 (Topical).
Dec. 9—Number 154 (Topical).
Dec. 16—Number 155 (Topical).
Dec. 23—Number 156 (Topical).
Dec. 31—Number 1 (Topical).
Jan. 7—Number 2 (Topical).
Jan. 14—Number 3 (Topical).
Jan. 21—Number 4 (Topical).

STRAND.

Oct. 23—And Along Came Mary.
Oct. 30—A Two-Cylinder Courtship.
Nov. 6—Mary's Merry Mixup (Comedy).
Nov. 13—That Dog Gone Dog (Comedy).
Nov. 20—A Maid to Order.
Nov. 27—Tom, Dick and Harry (Comedy).
Dec. 4—Just Kidding (Comedy).
Dec. 11—Putting One Over.
Dec. 18—Little Miss Fixer (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Mary's Boomerang (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Her Awful Fix (Comedy).
Jan. 8—A Peach and a Pill (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Burglars (Comedy).
Jan. 22—Their Little Kid (Comedy).

MUTUAL SPECIALS.

Oct. 22—The Adventurer (Charlie Chaplin Picture No. 12—Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 12—The Planter (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

Nov. 26—The Mate of the Sally Ann (American—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—The American Maid (Goodrich—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Miss Jackie of the Army (American—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—New York Luck (American—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Her Sister (Frohman—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Her Second Husband (Goodrich—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Molly Go Get 'Em (American—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Impostor (Frohman—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—In Bad (American—Five parts—Dr.).

SIGNAL.

Nov. 14—The Lost Express (Episode No. 9, "The Looters—Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 22—The Lost Express (Episode No. 10—"The Secret of the Mine"—Two parts—drama).
Nov. 29—The Lost Express (Episode No. 11—"A Fight for a Million"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 6—The Lost Express (Episode No. 12—"Daring Death"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 12—The Lost Express (Episode No. 13—"The Escape"—Two parts—Dr.).
Dec. 19—The Lost Express (Episode No. 14—"Unmasked"—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 26—The Lost Express (Episode No. 15—"The Return of the Lost Express"—Two Parts—Drama).

Feature Releases

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 26—The Silent Man (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 17—The Devil Stone (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—A Modern Musketeer (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Rose of the World (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 14—Wolves of the Rail (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 21—Stella Maris (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Song of Songs (Five parts—Dr.).

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

Dec. 10—The Door Between (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 17—My Little Boy (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—The Scarlet Car (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—The Girl by the Roadside (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—My Unmarried Wife (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Face Value (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Broadway Love (Five parts).
Jan. 28—The Fighting Grin (Five parts).
Feb. 4—The Wife He Bought (Five parts—Drama).

BRIND EDUCATIONAL MOVING PICTURES.

All About Bees (Approx. 725 feet).
Beautiful Goldfish (Approx. 467 feet).
My Friend the Ant (Approx. 671 feet).
The Freshwater Aquarium (Approx. 522 feet).
The Infinitely Small (Approx. 732 feet).
Denizens of the Deep, No. 1 (Approx. 616 feet).
Denizens of the Deep, No. 2 (Approx. 532 feet).

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION.

Dec. 17—Nature's Weavers (Ditmar's Living Book of Nature).
Dec. 19—Flying Trip Through Japan No. 2.
Dec. 24—Nature's Songsters (Ditmar's Living Book of Nature).
Dec. 26—Beside the Glimmer Glass.
Dec. 31—Animals in Mid-Summer (Ditmar's Living Book of Nature).

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT

On Trial.
Alimony.
Daughter of Destiny.
Empty Pockets.
Charlie Chaplin's Forthcoming Comedies.
The Sign Invisible.

FOX SPECIAL FEATURES.

Dec. 9—The Pride of New York (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—Unknown 274 (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Kingdom of Love (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Stolen Honor (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—For Liberty (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—Cupid's Round-Up (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 20—A Heart's Revenge (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 27—The Heart of Romance (Five parts—Drama).

FOX STANDARD PICTURES.

Nov. 4—The Rose of Blood (Six parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—Treasure Island (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 2—A Daughter of the Gods (Eight parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—Troublemakers (Seven parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Heart of a Lion (Six parts—Dr.).
Dec. 30—Du Barry (Seven parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Cheating the Public (Seven parts—Drama).

FOX SUNSHINE COMEDIES.

Nov. 25—A Milk-Fed Vamp (Two parts).
Dec. 9—Smashed in the Career (Two parts).
Dec. 23—Damaged—No Goods (Two parts).
Jan. 6—Shadows of Her Pest (Two parts).
Jan. 13—Are Married Policemen Safe? (Two Parts).
Feb. 3—Son of a Gun (Two parts).

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

Dec. 24—When Men are Tempted (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Vengeance—and the Woman (Episode No. 1—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Dummies and Deceptions (Comedy).
Dec. 31—His Own People (Five parts—Comedy).
Dec. 31—Stowaways and Strategy (Comedy).
Dec. 31—Vengeance—and the Woman (Episode No. 2—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—The Blind Adventure (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Wild Strain (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 21—The Menace (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—A Mother's Sin (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—The Other Man (Five parts—Dr.).

W. W. HODKINSON CORP.

(Paralta Plays.)

Dec. 15—A Man's Man (Seven parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Madam Who? (Seven parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—His Robe of Honor (Seven parts—Dr.).

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Come Through (Seven parts—Drama).
Pay Me (Five parts—Drama).
Sirens of the Sea (Six parts—Drama).
The Man Without a Country (Six parts—Dr.).
The Co-Respondent (Six parts—Drama).
The Price of a Good Time (Seven parts—Dr.).
The Grand Passion (Seven parts—Drama).
K (Seven parts—Drama).

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM.

Dec. 3—Small Town Guy (Essanay-Perfection Picture—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Dream Doll (Essanay-Perfection Picture—Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 24—Sadie Goes to Heaven (Essanay Perfection Picture—Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 2—Girls You Know ("The Screen Fan"—First Release of the James Montgomery Flagg Series—One Reel—Comedy — Edison Perfection Picture.)
Jan. 16—Girls You Know ("The Bride"—Second Release of the James Montgomery Flag Series—One Reel—Comedy—Edison Perfection Picture).
Jan. 30—Girls You Know ("The Superstitious Girl"—Third Release of the James Montgomery Flagg Series — One Reel — Comedy — Edison Perfection Picture).

SELECT PICTURES CORP.

Oct.—Scandal (Five parts).
Oct.—The Wild Girl (Five parts).
Oct.—Over There (Six parts).
Nov.—Her Silent Sacrifice (Five parts).
Nov.—Secret of the Storm Country (Five parts).
Nov.—The Barrier (Seven parts).
Nov.—The Lone Wolf (Six parts).
Nov.—Public Be Damned (Six parts).
Dec.—Shirley Kaye (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—The Honeymoon (Five parts—Drama).
Jan.—Woman and Wife.
Jan.—Ghosts of Yesterday.
Jan.—The Marionettes.
Jan.—The Studio Girl.
February—By Right of Purchase.
February—The Shuttle.

WHOLESOME FILMS CORPORATION.

His Awful Downfall (One Reel Comedy).
Little Red Riding Hood (Four parts—Juvenile).

WORLD PICTURES.

Nov. 26—Her Hour (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 3—The Awakening (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—The Good for Nothing (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 17—The Tenth Case (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 24—The Volunteer (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 31—Diamonds and Pearls (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 7—Stolen Hours (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—The Strong Way (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Beautiful Mrs. Reynolds (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Gates of Gladness (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 4—Divine Sacrifice (Five parts—Drama).

U. S. EXHIBITORS' BOOKING CORP.

The Zeppelin's Last Raid.
Those Who Pay.
The Belgian (Sidney Olcott Players, Inc.).

Producers.—Kindly Furnish Titles and Dates of All New Releases Before Saturday.

RICHARDSON'S
MOTION PICTURE
HAND BOOK
FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS
Published by
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

A carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

An invaluable help to every individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

Over 680 Pages of Text. Illustrations include detail diagrams of the leading makes of projection machines.

Snbstan ally Bound in Red Cloth, $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

516 Fifth Ave. New York City | 917 Schüler Bldg. Chicago, Ill. | Wright & Callender Bldg. Los Angeles, Cal.

THE "AISLELITE"

is the most recent addition to the list of necessary equipment. It is being installed by many theatres.

Ask for our Illustrated Circular

THE BROOKINS CO.

Euclid and East 18th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

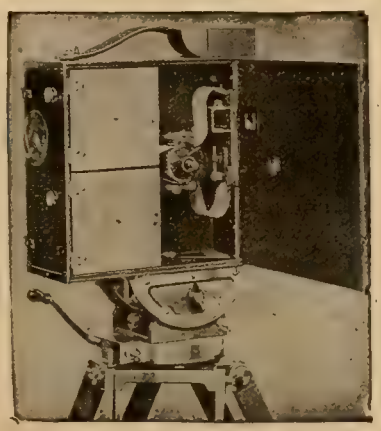
BIG ADVANCE IN M. P. PHOTOGRAPHY

Six great scientific improvements make the Universal Motion Picture Camera the choice of expert cameramen everywhere. Wonder-value at less than half standard motion picture camera prices! You want it.

UNIVERSAL MOTION PICTURE CAMERA

See how it increases your speed, improves framing, film transmission, focusing, eliminates static, etc. New automatic dissolve ready.

WRITE FOR CATALOG



Burke & James, Inc.
240 East Ontario St.
Chicago

Makers of Rexo M. P. Film

Cremona

Solo Theatre Orchestra-Organs

SOLO STYLE "O"

The instrument with the human voices.
Unsurpassed for manual playing.
Plays all 88 note player rolls.
Instantaneous change.
Continuous music.
Does not require an operator with our special 134-note reproducing solo roll.
Single or duplex music roll systems.
Instruments suitable for every theatre.

The Marquette Piano Co.

General Offices and Factory:
1608-24 South Canal St., Chicago

List of State Rights Pictures

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Page 568.)

Note—For further information regarding pictures listed on this page, address State Rights Department, Moving Picture World, and same will be gladly furnished.

ADVANCED M. P. CORP.
The Woman Eternal (Seven parts—Drama).

AMERICAN-JAPAN PICTURES CORP.
The Land of the Rising Sun (10,000 feet—Issued complete or in series of 2,000 or 5,000 feet).

ARROW FILM CORPORATION.
The Eyes of the World.
Ramona.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.
The Eagle's Wings.
Hell Morgan's Girl.
Mother O' Mine.

BRENON PRODUCTIONS.
Fall of the Romanoffs (Eight Parts).
Kismet.

JULES BURNSTEIN.
December—Shame (Produced by Duplex Films, Inc—Seven parts—Drama).

CENTURY COMEDIES.
Nov. 1—Neptune's Naughty Daughter (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 1—Her Bareback Career (Two parts—Comedy).

BENJAMIN CHAPIN-PARAMOUNT SERIES.
My Mother (Two parts).
My Father (Two parts).
The Call to Arms (Two parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.
Betty Wakes Up.
Their Seaside Tangle (Comedy).
One Good Turn (Comedy).
Thirty Days.
Nearly a Papa.
Cupid's Camouflage.

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOFILM CO.
Denny from Ireland (First Release of the Shorty Hamilton Series—Five parts—Drama).
The Snail (Second of the Shorty Hamilton Series—Five parts).

COMMONWEALTH PICTURES CORP.
The Frozen Warning (Drama).

COSMOFOTOFILM, INC.
I Believe (Seven parts—Drama).

CREST PICTURES CORP.
The Lust of the Ages.
A Grain of Dust.

CRYSTAL PHOTOPLAYS CORP.
Mother Love and The Law (Drama).

EBONY FILM CORP.
Wrong All Around (One Reel—Comedy).
Some Baby (One Reel—Comedy).
Ghosts (One Reel—Comedy).
The Porters (One Reel—Comedy).

M. S. EPSTEIN.
Kerensky in the Russian Revolution of 1917.

EXHIBITORS' OPERATING CORP.
The City of Purple Dreams (Seven parts—Drama—Selig Production).

FORT PITT CORPORATION.
The Italian Battlefront.
The Italian Stand on the Piave.

FRANCE FILMS, INC.
The Natural Law (Seven parts—Drama).

FRATERNITY FILMS, INC.
Devil's Playground (Nine parts—Drama).

FRIEDMAN ENTERPRISES.
A Mormon Maid (Six parts—Drama).

FUN-ART FILMS, INC.
A Rag, a Bone and a Hank of Hair (Two parts—Comedy).

GENERAL ENTERPRISES, INC.
Mother (Six ports—Drama—McClure Picture).
The Warrior (Seven parts—Drama—McClure Picture).
The Liar (Six parts—Drama—General Enterprise Feature).
Crucible of Life (Drama).

GRAPHIC FILM CORP.
Moral Suicide (Seven parts—Drama).

HILLER & WILK, INC.
He Did and He Didn't (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
The Other Man (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Bright Lights (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Bucking Society (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
The Snow Cure (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
The Village Scandal (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Saved by Wireless (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Fatty and the Broadway Stars (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Dizzy Heights and Darling Hearts (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
His Wild Oats (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Waiters' Ball (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
His First False Step (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).
Ambrose Cup of Woe (Keystone-Mack Sennet Comedy).

HIGH CLASS FILM PRODUCTIONS.
The Struggle Everlasting (Seven parts—Dr.).

HOFFMAN-FOURSQUARE PICTURES.
Should She Obey.
The Great White Trail.
Madame Sherry.
One Hour (Six Parts—Drama).
The Fringe of Society (Seven Parts—Drama).

LYMAN H. HOWE PICTURES CO.
The U. S. Navy.

IVAN FILM PRODUCTION.
August—Babbling Tongues (Six parts—Dr.).
Married in Name Only (Six Parts—Drama).
Sins of Ambition.

KING BEE FILMS CORP.
Nov. 15—The Pest (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 1—The Bandmaster (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 15—The Slave (Two Parts—Comedy).
Jan. 1—The Stranger (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 15—The Barber (Two parts—Drama).

MAYFAIR FILM CORP.
Persuasive Peggy (Drama).

NATIONAL FILM CORP. OF AMERICA.
Tarzan of the Apes.

ORO PICTURES CORP.
Who Knows? (Six parts—Drama).
Loyalty (Drama).

OVERLAND FILM CO.
The Russian Revolution.

PATHE EXCHANGE, INC.
To-Day (Seven parts—Drama).
Mad Lover (Six parts—Drama).

PYRAMID COMEDIES.
In and Out (Two parts).
Love and Lunch (Two parts).
Beach Birds (Two parts).
Beauties and Bombs (Two parts).

RANKIN-LEE, INC.
Nov.—A Modern Lorelei.

HARRY RAVER.
The Hand of the Hun (Four parts—Novelty).

RENOWNED PICTURES CORP.
A Soul for Sale (Six parts—Drama).
Weavers of Life (Drama).
The Public Defender.
Naked Hands (Five parts—Drama).

WILLIAM N. SELIG.
April—The Garden of Allah.
May—Beware of Strangers (Eight parts—Dr.).
Who Shall Take My Life? (Seven parts—Dr.).

FRANK J. SENG.
May—Parentage (Drama).

S. & S. PHOTOPLAYS, INC.
Redemption (Six Parts—Drama).
Disillusioned.
Just a Woman.

STERLING PICTURES CORPORATION.
Peg o' the Sea (Six parts—Drama).
A Mute Appeal (Five parts—Drama).
The Lash of Destiny (Five parts—Drama).
Her Good Name (Five parts—Drama).
Rosie O'Grady (Five parts—Drama).
The Cloud (Five parts—Drama).
The God of Little Children (Five parts—Dr.).
A Mother's Ordeal (Five parts—Drama).
Pride and the Devil (Six parts—Drama).
Miss Deception (Five parts—Drama).
The Law That Failed (Five parts—Drama).
Great Bradley Mystery (Five parts—Drama).
The Mystic Hour (Six parts—Drama).
When You and I Were Young (Five parts—Drama).
The Golden God (Five parts—Drama).

(The Following Are Cartoon Comedies, Each 500 Feet in Length.)

She Was a Dangerous Girl.
Zippy the Fireman.
Zippy in a Sanatorium.
Zippy Buys a Pet Pup.
Slick and Tricky.
Doctor Bunny's Zoo.
The Old Forty-Niner.
Mr. Coon.
Mose Is Cured.
Zippy's Insurance.
Zippy's Pets.
The Unknown.
Peg of the Sea (Drama).

TWEDE COMEDY CO.
The Recruit.

ULTRA FILMS, INC.
A Day at West Point (Educational).
West Is West.
Rustlers' Frame-Up at Big Horn.

VENUS FILMS.
The Triumph of Venus.

WESTERN IMPORT FILM CO.
Mickey (Seven parts).

W. H. PRODUCTIONS.
(TheFollowing Are Multiple Reel W. S. Hart Subjects, Released in Order Listed.)

The Bargain (Six parts—Drama).
The Bandit and the Preacher (Five parts—Drama).
The Hell Hound of Alaska (Five parts—Dr.).

(The following Are Two-Reel Hart Productions. Released in Order Listed.)

Dakota Dan.
Double Crossed.
The Last Card.
A Knight of the Trail.
A Square Deal.
Horns and Hoofs.
The Bad Man.
The Fugitive.
A Gentleman from Blue Gulch.
The Silent Stranger.
The Marked Deck.

Producers.—Kindly Furnish Titles and Dates of All New Releases Before Saturday.

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

Expert Developing, Printing and Coloring

CAMERA OUTFITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED

CAMERA MEN SENT ANYWHERE

985 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

THE CINEMA

NEWS AND PROPERTY GAZETTE

30 Gerrard Street, W. I. London, England

Has the quality circulation of the trade in Great Britain and the Dominions. All Official Notices and News from the ASSOCIATION to its members are published exclusively in this journal.

Yearly Rate—Postpaid, Weekly, $7.25
Sample copy and advertising rates on request

Appointed by Agreement Dated 7/8/14 THE OFFICIAL ORGAN of THE CINEMATOGRAPH EXHIBITORS' ASSOCIATION OF GREAT BRITAIN & IRELAND, LTD

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone—3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Thirty-five Years' Practical Experience

Foreign and Domestic Stained Glass

for Theatres, Public Buildings, Churches, etc.

Estimates and Special Designs furnished on application on Leaded Lights for Doors, Halls, Staircases, Skylights or any stained glass effect desired in your theatre.

Benjamin Sellers & Sons

79-84 Bible House, New York City

Send For Our

New Theatre Catalog

Eighty full-page illustrations—many in colors—of theatres we have ornamented.

BROADWAY-STRAND THEATRE, CHICAGO
MARSHFIELD AMUS. CO., OWNERS.—LOBBY VIEW.

Our new catalog will give you many valuable ideas of theatre design and arrangement.

Send Plans for Special Designs of

Ornamental Plaster Decorations

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Ave. and Leo St. CHICAGO, ILL.

REBUILT MACHINES

We have on hand a number of rebuilt machines which we guarantee to be in A-1 adjustment, all worn parts having been replaced by NEW PARTS. All orders subject to prior sale.

POWERS, NO. 6A—Complete, with lenses and Rheostat, hand drive	$175.00
POWERS, NO. 6A—Motor Drive	$200.00
MOTIOGRAPH—1908, Complete, with lenses and Rheostat	$50.00
MOTIOGRAPH—1909, Complete, with lenses and Rheostat	$75.00
EDISON—Exh. Model, Complete, with lenses and Rheostat	$50.00
STANDARD—1915 Model, Complete, with lenses and Rheostat	$75.00
POWERS NO. 5—Complete, with lenses and Rheostat	$50.00

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the Moving Picture Trade

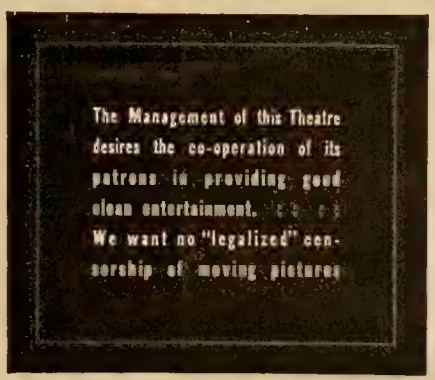
Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Edison and Standard machines. Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers, and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatre.

Third Floor, Mallers Building
Cor. Madison St. and Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Educate Your Audience to Help Fight Censorship!

Introducing a bill providing for the Censorship of Moving Pictures is a favorite indoor pastime in legislative halls throughout the country. Eternal vigilance is the price of the Exhibitor's mere safety if not his success.

Presented in the proper manner, the Censorship of Moving Pictures is just as obnoxious to the Exhibitor's audiences as it is to the Exhibitor. And public opinion aroused in behalf of moving pictures and against their unfair and discriminatory control is the surest weapon to defeat Censorship.



The Management of this Theatre desires the co-operation of its patrons in providing good clean entertainment.
We want no "legalized" censorship of moving pictures

We have prepared a series of nine different stereopticon slides which crystallize the argument against Censorship; one of the slides is shown herewith.

These slides shown repeatedly in any theatre cannot fail to influence public opinion in that locality against Censorship. They will line up the general public on the side of the Exhibitor.

You Ought to Be Showing Them Now! Legislatures Everywhere Are Convening

Set of Nine Slides, carefully packed, will be sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

516 Fifth Avenue, New York City

The Advance of Alternating Current Projection

Operators using

WHITE A. C. SPECIAL CARBONS

are taking advantage of the latest and greatest advance in alternating current projection.

Lamps trimmed with these carbons give satisfactory, inexpensive operation, together with a quiet penetrating white light and even screen illumination.

IT COSTS BUT LITTLE TO TRY THESE CARBONS AND BE CONVINCED.

No changes in the lamp house are necessary, but simply trim with the new A. C. Carbons. You will find the results entirely different than with the old style cored carbons.

FOR DIRECT CURRENT PROJECTION

Use the National-Silvertip Combination

This combination is a tested product that is giving satisfaction everywhere. The Silvertip is a heavily plated carbon, capable of carrying any strength of current used in projection.

Let us send you our booklets describing both of these carbons.

National Carbon Company, Inc.

Cleveland, Ohio

TOMO II, NO. XII
DICIEMBRE, 1917
CINE-MUNDIAL
EDICION ESPAÑOLA DEL MOVING PICTURE WORLD
REVISTA MENSUAL ILUSTRADA
ORGANO DE LA INDUSTRIA CINEMATOGRAFICA
CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
La célebre primera actriz acaba de obtener un nuevo triunfo en la interpretación de "MAGDA"
CASA EDITORIAL DE CHALMERS
516 Fifth Avenue, Nueva York

THE January issue of Cine Mundial was read by a larger number of people in the film business in the Central and South American Republics and other Spanish Speaking Countries than any previous issue. It is now the best known and most eagerly read Spanish moving picture paper printed anywhere. It is producing export business for American manufacturers every month.

Forms for February issue close on January Fifteenth

Cine-Mundial

Spanish Edition of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD

516 Fifth Avenue

New York City

United Theatre Equipment Corporation

Possesses the Greatest and Most Experienced Force of PROJECTION EXPERTS IN THE WORLD!

OUR SERVICE BEGINS WITH THE PLANS FOR YOUR THEATRE AND NEVER STOPS

WE KNOW HOW TO EQUIP M. P. THEATRES

WE DO NOT EXPERIMENT AT YOUR EXPENSE

WE HAVE SELECTED ONLY THE BEST APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES

WE GUARANTEE RESULTS! TRY US!

HALLBERG MOTOR-GENERATOR—The Light Producer

POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH—The Projector

VELVET GOLD FIBRE SCREEN—The Projection Surface

EDISON MAZDA "C" LAMP—The Efficient Illuminant

"FULCO" SPECIALTIES—The Money-Saving Product

NATIONAL CARBONS—The Whitest Light Producer

ACME PORTABLE PROJECTOR

—The Satisfactory Small Projector

Lenses, Condensers, Film Cement, Film Splicers, Rewinders, Reels, Supplies, HALLBERG A. C. Economizers, Incandescent Projector Lamp Regulators and Electric Plants

"EVERYTHING FOR THE M. P. THEATRE EXCEPT THE FILM"

BRANCH OFFICES:

New York, N. Y.—729 Seventh Ave.
Boston, Mass.—28 Piedmont St.
Philadelphia, Pa.—1233 Vine St.
Pittsburgh, Pa.—940 Penn Ave.
Cincinnati, O.—115 W. 7th St.
Detroit, Mich.—57 E. Elizabeth St.
Omaha, Neb.—13th and Harney Sts.
Minneapolis, Minn.—16 N. 7th St.
Cleveland, O.—Columbia Bldg.
Chicago, Ill.—154 W. Lake St.

U. T. E. SALES AGENTS:

Kansas City, Mo.—K. C. Machine & Supply Co., Inc., 813 Walnut St.
Des Moines, Ia.—K. C. Machine & Supply Co., Inc., Utica Building

United Theatre Equipment Corporation

H. T. EDWARDS, Pres. J. H. HALLBERG, Vice-Pres.

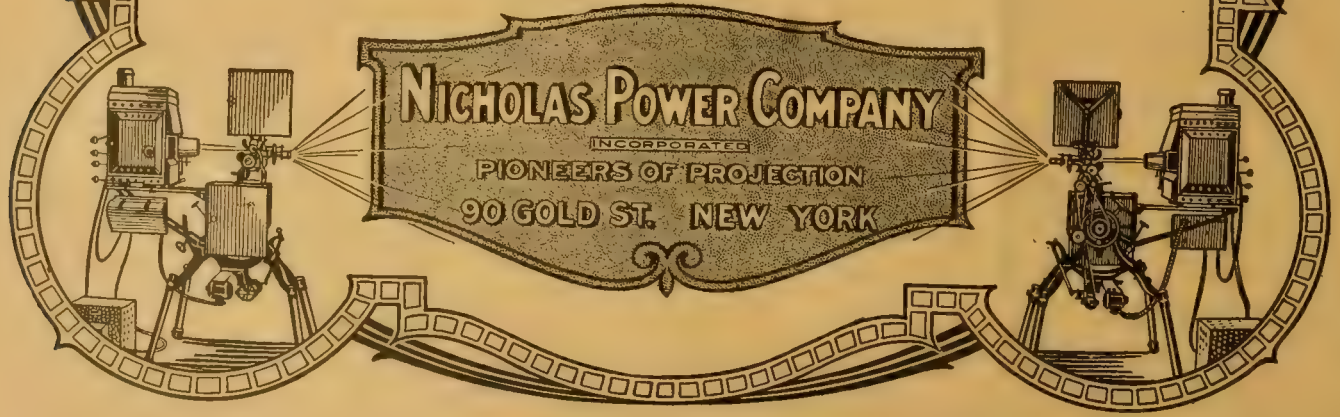
Executive Offices: 1604 Broadway, New York

EXCELITE

A combination of a high wattage incandescent lamp, a powerful reflector and a condenser system which assures economy, convenience, and excellence in the projection of motion pictures up to 10x13 feet in size at an eighty-foot throw or less.

Saves 25% in Operating Cost
Eliminates Continuous Lamp Adjustment
Can Be Used With Your Present Equipment

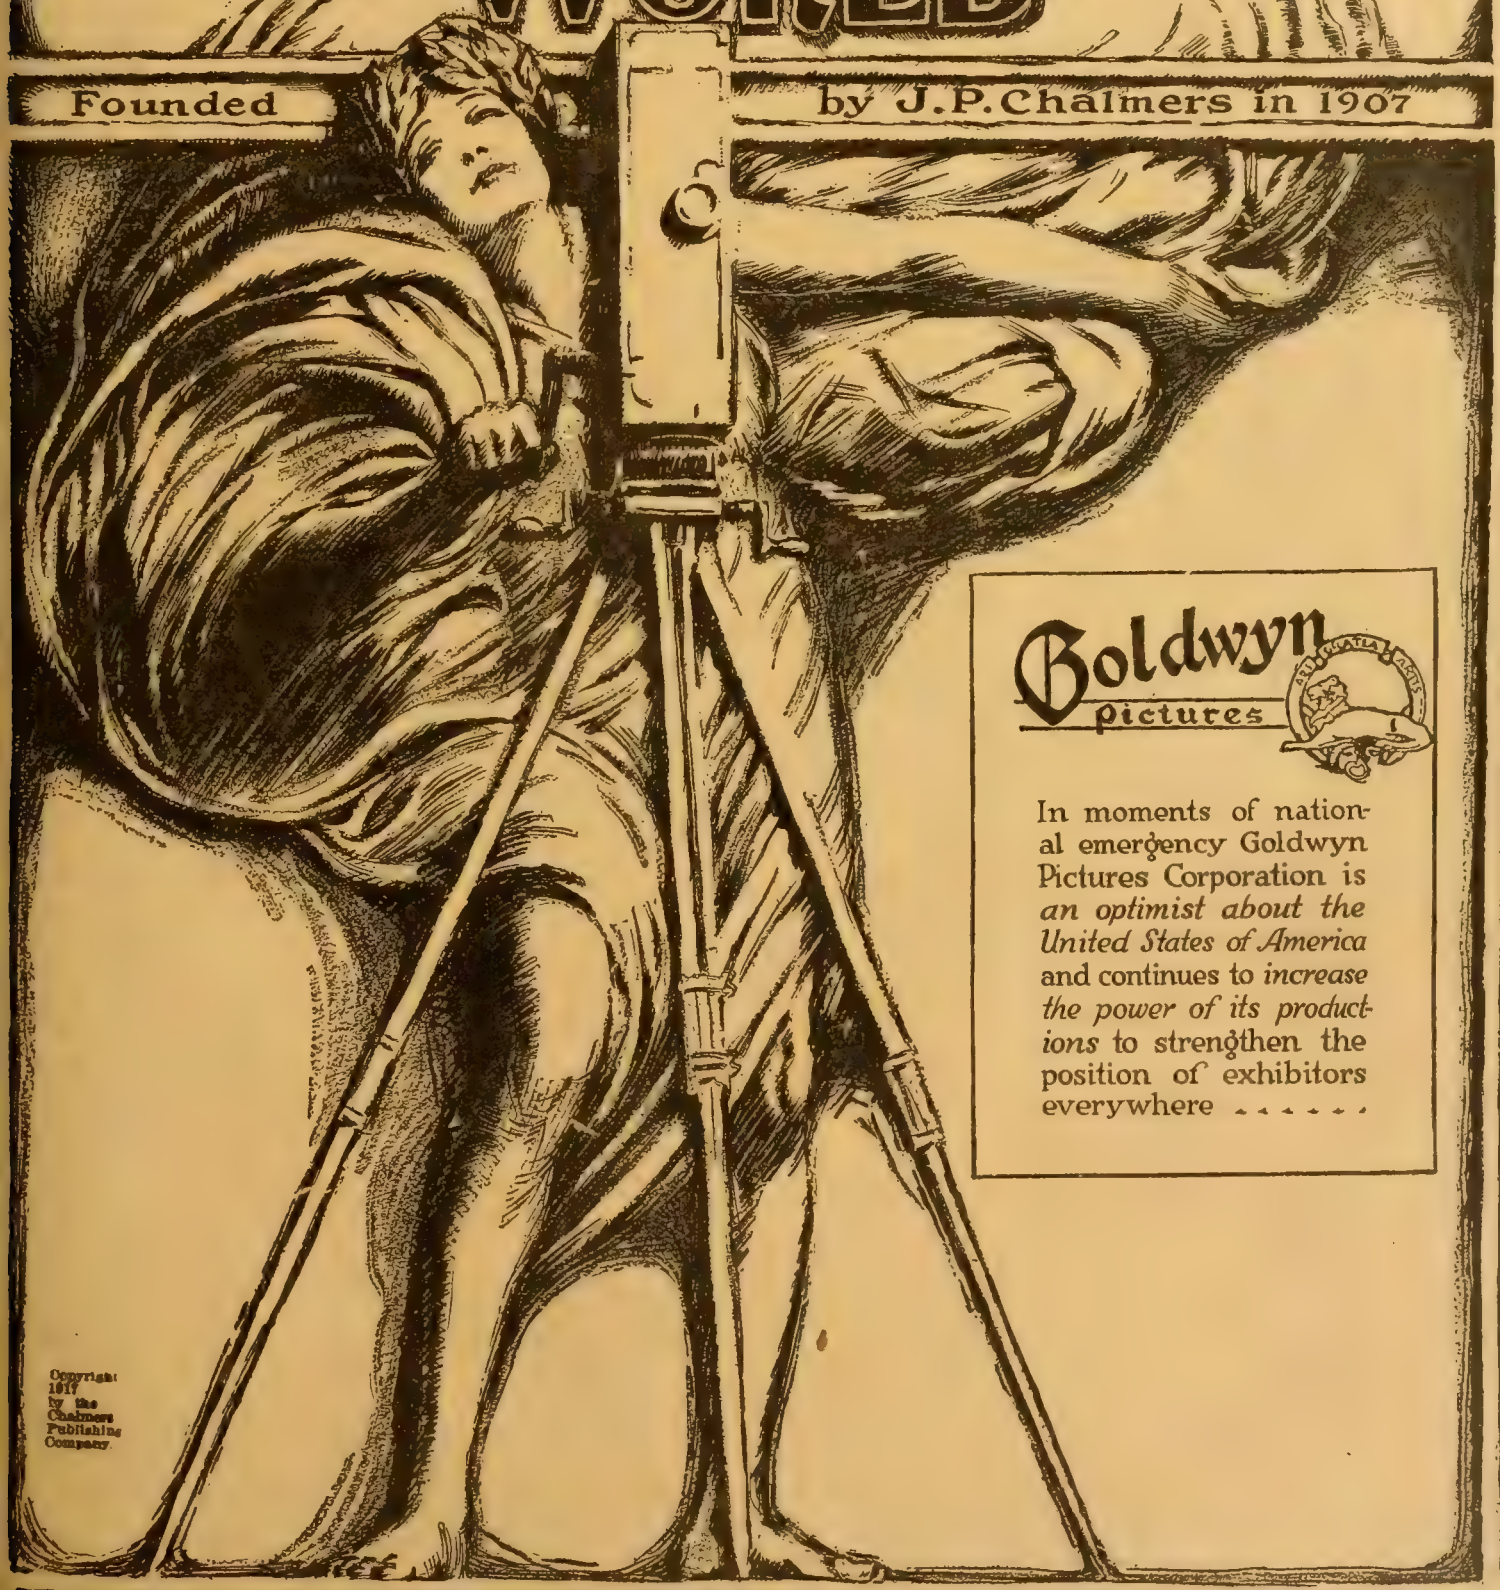
Write for Descriptive Booklet



Vol. 35, No 5 February 2, 1918 Price 15 Cents

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Founded by J.P.Chalmers in 1907



Goldwyn pictures

In moments of national emergency Goldwyn Pictures Corporation is an optimist about the United States of America and continues to increase the power of its productions to strengthen the position of exhibitors everywhere . . . . . .

Copyright 1917 by the Chalmers Publishing Company

Chalmers Publishing Company 516 Fifth Ave. New York

established

Universal Animated Weekly
Universal Current Events
Universal Screen Magazine

FOR MANY YEARS the News Service of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company has been—as it is today —the best in the land.

This News Service is a standard article. Established financially — favored commercially — recognized the world around as the most efficient of all news-picture gathering organizations. No one else has the Universal's world-covering corps of expert camera-men. No one else screens the news so quickly.

Originally, it was only the Universal Animated Weekly. Next, the demand doubled it with the Universal Current Events. Today, the Universal Screen Magazine has come to treble it in size. For tomorrow, a fourth member is already looming up.

Every twenty-four hours enough news passes through our hands to make a full reel a day. Years of doing have taught us how to pick out only the cream of this world-news.

You know well enough how huge interest in news pictures has grown and you know just as well our brand of goods. You must have some kind of News Service. Make use of the biggest film manufacturing concern in the universe!

3 a-week news service

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange or communicate with the UNIVERSAL FILM MN'FG. CO.

Largest Film Manufacturing Co. in the Universe
CARL LAEMMLE, President
1600 Broadway, New York

Universal Animated Weekly
Universal Current Events
Universal Screen Magazine

George K. Spoor presents

MARY MacLANE

IN

Men Who Have Made Love To Me

AT ALL FIRST CLASS PICTURE THEATRES—Ask When!

ASK YOUR WIFE!

An exhibitor asked, "Who Is Mary MacLane?"

We answered, "Ask Your Wife."

He did, then booked her photoplay, "MEN WHO HAVE MADE LOVE TO ME," for a week.

If YOU haven't heard of Mary MacLane, ask your wife, then write to the nearest Kleine office for open dates.

Backed by the Greatest National Billboard Advertising Campaign Ever Given an Individual Star

Essanay

Distributed By George Kleine System Throughout The United States

Perfection Pictures

UNIVERSAL
SERIAL
BOX-OFFICE
WINNER
THE BU
Featuring
EDDIE POLO
"Hercules of the Films"
with Dainty, Charming VIVIAN REED
FREE TO EXHIBITORS
Get a copy of the big colored ad Camp
Book on "THE BULL'S EYE" at your nearest U Exchange

IN several western cities, Exhibitors have actually fought with each other to secure the favored booking on "THE BULL'S EYE" with Eddie Polo, Hercules of the films, and dainty Vivian Reed.

Yes, fought, in spite of the fact that there are half a dozen serials of other producers on the market. Next week, we will print the wire that came in telling about this "free-for-all" scramble to get first booking on "THE BULL'S EYE." And why the mad scramble?—Because—— ——the very minute these Western Exhibitors saw the action of the opening episodes, they immediately forsesaw a capacity crowd-pulling 18-week serial. It's the serial with the hair-raising thrills that reckless Eddie Polo alone can and will perform. There is NO serial on the market that can in any way compare with it in pulling power and results to Exhibitors. Take our tip and BOOK NOW. Someone may beat you to it when you want it most.

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange or communicate with the UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO., 1600 Broadway, New York

Largest Film Manufacturing Company in the Universe, CARL LAEMMLE, President

"PAINTED LIPS"

a Louise Lovely Production

with an all Star Cast.

Another smashing Life Story by the forceful Writer, Charles Kenyon, author of Margaret Illington's sensational stage Success "Kindling."

"Painted Lips"—the play with the electrifying title--the magic title--the real old bang-in-the-pocket-book title. Best of all you net real big money after the title has brought 'em in. Because right along with the talented, beautiful nationally popular star and a really great story you get this play at a figure that lets you boost your bank roll skyhigh instead of fining yourself with a high-rental production and an overpaid lead. Put the two words "Painted Lips" on your poster-board and watch them stop--look--and come in. COME IN NOW!

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange or communicate with the

UNIVERSAL FILM MN'FG CO. 1600 Broadway, New York

Largest Film Mn'fg Co. in the Universe. CARL LAEMMLE, President

Mary Pickford

More than a star---she's an institution

The new Mary Pickford picture is "Stella Maris" (Star of the Sea), from the famous novel by William J. Locke.

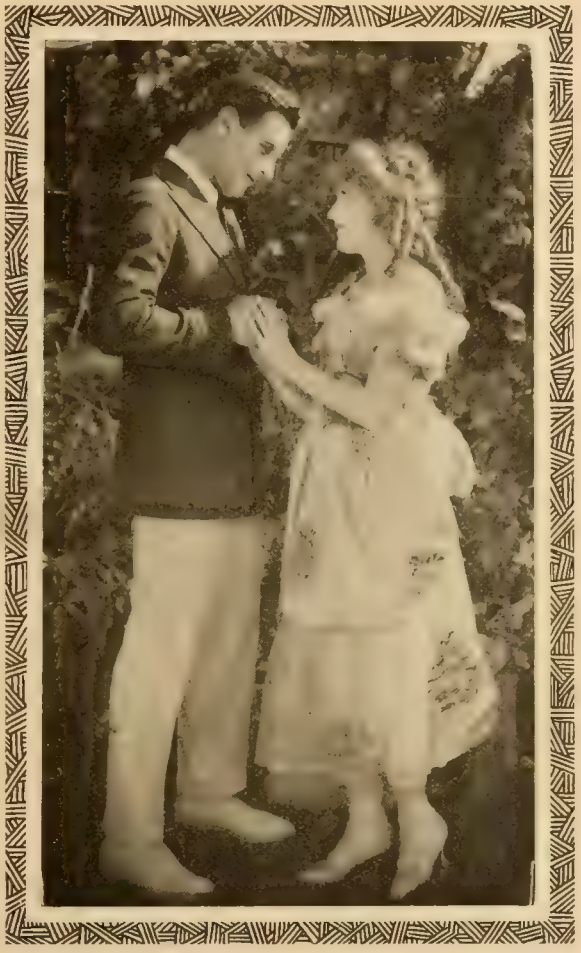
If you are really serving your patrons, you're ready to book it now.

Mary Pickford in "Stella Maris" is a little orphan—but what an orphan! One worth millions of dollars!

For a time she's an ugly duckling—Mary Pickford so homely your patrons will laugh delightedly at her artful awkwardness.

But most of the time she's Mary Pickford, herself—dear, sweet "Stella Maris," just as William J. Locke imagined her.

You don't need to be told of the publicity power of a new Mary Pickford picture.



Mary Pickford
IN
"Stella Maris"

By William J. Locke
Scenario by Frances Marion
Directed by Marshall Neilan

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

An ARTCRAFT Picture

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

George Beban

One of the Greatest Artists in Motion Pictures

Jesse L. Lasky
presents
George Beban
in
"Jules of the Strong Heart"
By William Merriam Rouse; Scenario by Harvey F. Thaw and Frank X. Finnegan; Directed by Donald Crisp.

Are you reaching the discerning patron? George Beban's pictures add to your regulars—the hundreds of discerning patrons who appreciate the keen artistry, the distinct charm, the pathos and humor of this splendid actor. They're different, these George Beban pictures—and they're seized upon eagerly by the wise exhibitor who knows how to present a varied program.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

A Paramount Picture

"The SON of DEMOCRACY"

The Work of a Great Showman

THE appeal of "The Son of Democracy" is mighty. It is a series for all who have eyes to see and emotions that respond to humor and pathos.

America will laugh and weep over Benjamin Chapin's productions, for they're "great shows." The kids and their mothers, the professors and the day laborers—they'll all come to see every chapter of "The Son of Democracy."

Paramount's advertising on "The Son of Democracy" is making your patrons talk about the Chapin Pictures.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
Presents

Benjamin Chapin

in

A series of dramatic film stories of America in the making. Written, directed and produced by Benjamin Chapin.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres JESSE L LASKY Vice Pres CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

A Paramount Series

Paramount Pictures

"The Guilty Man"

A. H. WOODS
presents
HIS BROADWAY SUCCESS

"The Guilty Man"

By Ruth Helen Davis and Charles Klein
Irvin V. Willat, Director
Supervision Thomas H. Ince

This photoplay will be the talk of your town.

"THE GUILTY MAN" is a tense emotional drama, attacking the double standard of morality.

The picture that helps your house most is the one that does more than merely entertain—it is the picture that is so vivid that your patrons remember it, talk about it and recommend it to their friends.

That's the kind of picture "The Guilty Man" is.

Released by Paramount Pictures Corporation

Paramount-Arbuckle Comedies

"Out West"

"FATTY" has a knock-out in this new Paramount-Arbuckle Comedy. These two-reelers are piling up business for the crafty exhibitor who books them.

The crowds will thank you for showing "Out West" and will ask you to hurry and get more like it.

In this one, "Fatty," stranded in a desert, subdues the bad men in "Mad Dog Gulch" and with the help of a pretty girl reforms them all.

JOS. M. SCHENCK

Presents

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle

in

"Out West"

Produced by Comique Film Corporation

Released exclusively through Paramount Pictures Corporation

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

SELECT SP PICTURES

HENRY SIEGEL

M. MILDER

"Stars to Sell Stars"

Select Pictures are now furnished to the trade through the twenty Select Exchanges listed below. In command of these branch offices of the Select Pictures Corporation are men who have been chosen for their supreme fitness to furnish the Exhibitors of these territories the highest grade of service in distributing Select Pictures.

LOUIS B. MAYER

C.R. ROGERS

V. P. WHITAKER

HARVEY, B. DAY

SAM E. MORRIS

A.M. MULLER

W. D. WARD

FRED C. AIKEN

Select Exchanges

New York
Henry Siegel, Mgr.
729 Seventh Avenue

Philadelphia
M. Milder, Mgr.
1335 Vine Street

Boston
Louis B. Mayer, Mgr.
69 Church Street

Buffalo
C. R. Rogers, Mgr.
86 Exchange Street

Washington
V. P. Whitaker, Mgr.
5[illegible] Thirteenth Street, N. W.

Pittsburgh
Harvey B. Day, Mgr.
1201 Liberty Avenue

Cleveland
Sam E. Morris, Mgr.
Columbia Building

Cincinnati
A. M. Muller, Mgr.
302 Strand Theatre Building

Detroit
W. D. Ward, Mgr.
Joseph Mack Building, Corner
Elizabeth and John R.

Chicago
Fred C. Aiken, Mgr.
220 South State Street

St. Louis
E. W. Dustin, Mgr.
3313 Olive Street

Omaha
C. W. Taylor, Mgr.
1512 Howard Street

Kansas City
W. H. Bell, Mgr
920 Main Street

Minneapolis
H. A. Rathner, Mgr.
Film Exchange Building

Atlanta
Walter J. Price, Mgr.
61 Walton Street

Dallas
C. C. Ezell, Mgr.
1919 Main Street

Denver
H. L. Knappen, Mgr.
1541 Welton Street

Los Angeles
B. E. Loper, Mgr.
736 South Olive Street

San Francisco
H. H. Hicks, Mgr.
985 Market Street

Seattle
J. S. Woody, Mgr.
308 Virginia Street

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

E. W. DUSTIN

W. H. BELL

WALTER J. PRICE

C.C. EZELL

H. A. RATHNER

C. W. TAYLOR

H. L. KNAPPEN

B. E. LOPER

H. H. HICKS

J. S. WOODY

SELECT SP PICTURES

Unaware of her charm---
the country mouse

An Orchid of the Screen!

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

AND HER OWN COMPANY

appear in an exquisite screen version of Pierre Wolff's celebrated play of love's vagaries

"THE MARIONETTES"

under the direction of
EMILE CHAUTARD

Clara Kimball Young's brilliant gifts as a comedienne show to splendid advantage in this drama wherein love's poignant passions are brilliantly relieved by flashes of merriment screened with consummate art.

"The Marionettes" is different and----beautiful!

The butterfly emerges---
Fernande transformed

Neglected, the Bride marshals her forces

Distributed by
SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

Goldwyn Pictures

THE TRIUMPHANT RETURN OF AN INTERNATIONAL FAVORITE

RE-APPEARING after a year's absence from the screen, she finds that her admirers have increased by millions; that she is more popular than ever before. Her world-wide audience has remembered her beauty and charm, her wonderful fun-making—and clamors for her again.

And now, to reap new profits for all exhibitors, Goldwyn has produced, and the brilliant genius, George Loane Tucker, has directed the most appealing production of her career for

MABEL NORMAND in Dodging A Million

By Edgar Selwyn & A.M. Kennedy

This unusual mystery-drama reveals "the new Mabel Normand" —as beautiful and lovely as ever; still the glorious comedienne and also a dramatic actress of power, of emotional range and infinite pathos. This is the first big box-office event of 1918.

Released everywhere: January 28.

Goldwyn Pictures

THIS BEARDED MAN OF MYSTERY

DELIVERS the trunks of gowns and jewels; the letters of warning and instruction from the rich old "Aunt Bettina" and the vial of gray powder for the final deed of desperation, to beautiful Arabella Flynn, who is suddenly and magically lifted from poverty to plenty.

You can guess, of course, that Mabel Normand is "Arabella Flynn," but there's not a chance in the world of guessing or anticipating the things that happen through the interference of the bearded stranger.

This splendid production contains the vitally necessary dollar value for every exhibitor and the plot, thrills, situations, pathos, laughs, disappointments and triumphs that the great amusement public demands on the screen.

Goldwyn places its guarantee behind Mabel Normand in "Dodging A Million" because it will be an assured profit-maker throughout the world.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President — EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President — MARGARET MAYO, Editorial Director

16 East 42d Street New York City

"We pay the Tax"

"First National" Release Dates

Now Released

Mme. Petrova's "Daughter of Destiny"

First Petrova Picture

"Alimony," the Sensational Divorce Drama

Herbert Brenon's "Empty Pockets"

NEXT, (Approx. Feb. 1st)

Mme. Petrova

in her second Petrova Picture

"The Light Within"

The Romance of a beautiful girl's escape from a mistaken marriage

---

Booking now at all "First National" Exchanges

FIRST NATIONAL EXCHANGES

AND TERRITORIAL DIVISIONS

ALASKA, WASHINGTON, OREGON, MONTANA, IDAHO
1200 Fourth Ave., Seattle, Wash.
All of Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Montana
All counties in Idaho north of and including Idaho County

ARIZONA and SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA
833 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.
Southern California, including counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern, San Bernardino and all south thereeof
All of Arizona

AUSTRALIA
New York Office—Australasian Films, 729 Seventh Ave.
Australian Office—Film House, Sydney
All of Australasia

CALIFORNIA, NEVADA, HAWAII
134 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.
California, north of counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern and San Bernardino
All of Nevada and Hawaii

CANADA (Western)
1318 Standard Bank Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.
All Canada west of and including Fort William and Port Arthur

CANADA (Eastern)
8 McGill College Ave., Montreal, Que., Can.
All Canada east of, but not including, Fort William and Port Arthur

COLORADO, NEW MEXICO, UTAH, WYOMING and PART OF IDAHO
All counties in Idaho south of Idaho County
1744 Curtis St., Denver, Colo.

GEORGIA, FLORIDA, ALABAMA and SOUTH CAROLINA
146 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga.

ILLINOIS
110 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.

INDIANA
24 W. Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind.

IOWA, KANSAS and NEBRASKA
Garden Theatre, Des Moines, Iowa

KENTUCKY and TENNESSEE
Rex Theatre, Louisville, Ky.

LOUISIANA and MISSISSIPPI
712 Poydras St., New Orleans, La.

MICHIGAN
73 Broadway, Detroit, Mich.

MINNESOTA, NORTH and SOUTH DAKOTA
717 Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

MISSOURI
New Grand Central Theatre, St. Louis, Mo.

MARYLAND, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA and DELAWARE
Garden Theatre, Washington, D. C.

NEW ENGLAND STATES
20 Winchester St., Boston, Mass.

NEW YORK
509 Fifth Ave., New York City

NEW JERSEY
509 Fifth Ave., New York City

OHIO
302 Sloan Bldg., Prospect Ave., Cleveland, O.

PENNSYLVANIA (Eastern) and SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY
1339 Vine St., Philadelphia, Pa.
All counties in Pennsylvania east of Fulton, Huntington Center, Clinton and Potter

TEXAS, OKLAHOMA and ARKANSAS
1920 Main St., Dallas, Tex.

WEST VIRGINIA and WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA
300 Westinghouse Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.
All of Pennsylvania counties west of and including Fulton, Huntington, Center, Clinton and Potter

VIRGINIA and NORTH CAROLINA
420 9th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

WISCONSIN
Toy Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.

The First National Exhibitor's Circuit, Inc.

18 EAST 41st STREET, NEW YORK CITY

Little, But Oh My!

"Yo - ho - - - - - - - hum!"

Charlie's rest is over.

He has started on his first "Signature Protected" Comedy.

First release date positively will be late in February.

The public will be taught to look for this signature on posters and films:

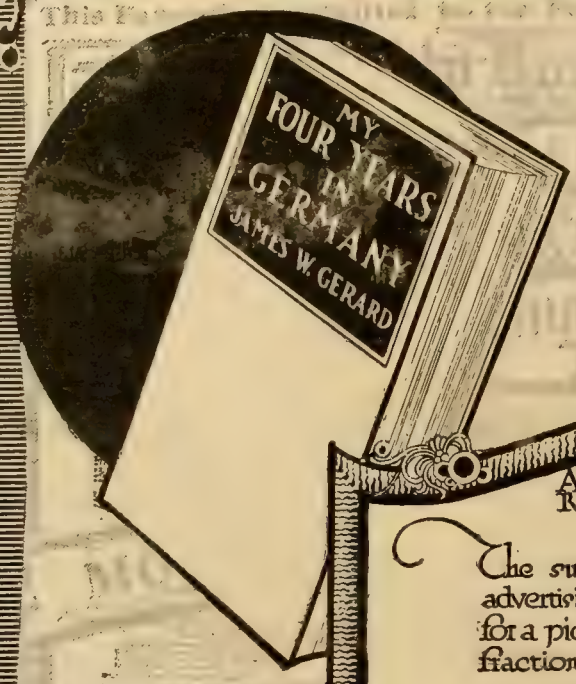
Charles Chaplin

First Come, First Served! on Bookings.

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

A "First National" Attraction

Foreign rights controlled by Wm. Vogel Productions, Inc.
Longacre Bldg., New York City



ADVERTISED EVERYWHERE
READ EVERYWHERE

The sum total of the greatest advertising campaign ever planned for a picture would be but a fraction of the PUBLICITY given to

AMBASSADOR
JAMES W. GERARD'S
MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY

in America's greatest Newspapers & Magazines

Directed by WILLIAM NIGH
Adapted for the screen by Chas A Logue

MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY I...
601 CANDLER BLDG N.Y.

PATHÉ

ANTONIO MORENO ... and DORALDINA ... IN The NAULAHKA ..

EIGHT PARTS

BY RUDYARD KIPLING and WOLCOTT BALESTIER ..... PRODUCED BY ASTRA ..... DIRECTED BY GEORGE FITZMAURICE

KIPLING'S INDIA — MAGNIFICENTLY AND FAITHFULLY REPRODUCED, WITH SETS OF ORIENTAL GORGEOUSNESS, WITH STIRRING ADVENTURE AND ... APPEALING ROMANCE! Two Americans, a young man and a girl, find that the ways of the East are unchanging and that he who would change them is playing with fire.

A WONDERFUL PICTURE — COMING SOON!

The MOTION PICTURE NEWS SAYS - ORIGINAL AND HIGHLY AMUSING
The MOVING PICTURE WORLD SAYS "EXTREMELY FUNNY"
The DRAMATIC MIRROR SAYS "AN IMMEDIATE SUCCESS"
"The MOVIE DUMMY"
TWO PARTS
NOW READY
"The JUNK MAN"
TWO PARTS
RELEASED ···· FEB. 10
PRODUCED BY ROLIN
LOOK AT HIM!! The SPIRIT OF FUN SEEMS TO DWELL WITHIN HIM. HIS VERY APPEARANCE IS THE SIGNAL FOR A ROAR. AND WHEN HE BEGINS HIS PRANKS.— OH MAN! BUT THE PEOPLE LAUGH UNTIL THEY FAIRLY GASP FOR BREATH. HE IS TOTO
SCREEN COMEDIAN EXTRAORDINARY

Ascher Brothers KNOW!

That's why They Have Booked PATHE PLAYS

ASCHER BROTHERS of Chicago have arranged to show Pathe Plays in all of their theatres. We accept this latest acknowledgement of our policy of Big Star Pictures at Reasonable Box Office Prices with deep gratification.

Ascher Brothers KNOW! So do Lubliner & Trinz of Chicago, Tom Moore of Washington and many other leading exhibitors of the country who have declared that the day of "suicide prices" is at an end.

Nathan Asher strikes the keynote in this statement:—

> "I am mighty glad to note your policy of reasonable rentals. The class of productions you are releasing insures the exhibitor of returns in proportion to the cost. I am arranging for Pathe Plays in all my theatres.

Pathe Plays are released beginning January 27th. Fannie Ward in "INNOCENT" is the first.

See it and you will know why the country's greatest exhibitors are booking Pathe Plays.

PATHE EXCHANGE
INCORPORATED

Pathé

A LETTER AND A PICTURE—

THEY TELL YOU VOLUMES ABOUT THE GREATEST WAR PICTURE EVER SHOWN

The GERMAN CURSE in RUSSIA

FIVE PARTS

.....photographed by DONALD C. THOMPSON ..... OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPHER FOR LESLIES WEEKLY .....

.... NOW READY .....

A NATIONAL INSTITUTION

STRAND THEATRE OF NEW YORK

OFFICE OF HAROLD EDEL, MANAGING DIRECTOR — MITCHELL H. MARK, PRES. AND GEN. MGR.

January 7th, 1918

Pathe Exchange, Inc.,
25 West 45th Street.
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:-

I want to congratulate you on securing Donald Thompson's wonderful Russian war pictures, "THE GERMAN CURSE IN RUSSIA". I ran this picture at the Strand Theatre for a full week in New York's worst weather to capacity business, and never have we shown a picture that created such enthusiasm.

It is not only thrilling, but the "WOMAN'S BATTALION OF DEATH" was one of the strongest features we have ever shown. It appealed to my audience in a most marvelous patriotic way. I am sure you will have a tremendous success all over the country with this picture, for if it has an appeal in New York, it is bound to do much better throughout the country.

Hoping you will give me the first opportunity of securing your next feature of this kind, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

H. Edel.

HE-E MANAGING DIRECTOR.

"THE WORLD PLAN"
For the Period of the War

Exhibitors:

Until further notice we will give you absolutely free each week bookings equal in number to those regularly contracted for.

Our enormous library is open for your selection. Any World picture released before November 1, 1917, and prior to your weekly contracted show and not in service on the day or days you wish it, is yours for the asking.

To help you succeed now, we freely give this help. No further advertisement of this announcement will be published.

Ask for catalogue, make your selections, and name your dates.

WORLD FILM CORPORATION.

To Film Distributors:

Here is an efficient way to help your customers. You are invited to adopt it. While the upkeep, repair and handling charges to you will be large, it is really time to do something practical to help. ACT NOW !

New York,
January 17, 1918.

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

THE FIRST 1918 GIFT From the Service That Gave You "MOTHERS OF FRANCE" and "RASPUTIN" ON THE PROGRAM

MONTAGU LOVE
IN
"The Cross Bearer"

In offering you this special production on The Program, World-Pictures again demonstrates its fairness of policy and positive intent to make you more money.

"The Cross Bearer," directed by George Archainbaud, is a picture about the war, but not a "war picture"---a story of the great churchman whose name is now a household word that appeals to every one of every religion---a drama of today interwoven with the romance of a wonderful love story.

"The Cross Bearer" is a great big picture, the kind that "stands them out" at every performance.

Write or wire our nearest branch NOW.

TRIANGLE

THE TOWER OF BABEL

Do you remember the story of the Tower of Babel?

Races of all the world came together and started work on a tower that was to reach to the sky. It was to touch the stars. It was to solve the problem of getting to Heaven by the easiest route.

But when the workers got about half of the tower completed, they found that they were building on quicksand; that their plans were not scientifically based; and that they could not even understand each other. The result was a terrific quarrel in three or four hundred different languages and the abandonment of the project as impractical.

So it is with many schemes, plans and ideas for cornering the business of the motion picture exhibitor.

The exhibitor sees a beautiful and impractical tower of profits raised before his eyes with uncertain services, excessive rentals and enormous overhead expenses. Each producer speaks in a different tongue to the exhibitor raising a Tower of Babel before his confused and weary eyes, and dinning his ears with the old, old story.

Then the tower collapses and a lot of exhibitors hit the sorry trail of experience—sadder and poorer men.

TRIANGLE

Triangle is attempting to build no Tower of Babel. We are not aiming to build the Triangle structure into the skies until it reaches the heavens. We don't want a monopoly and we are not trying to make all of our profit in a day.

We have planned the Triangle structure four square to the winds. It is built on the policy of the square deal to the exhibitor. Our first consideration is always the exhibitor. He must make his profit and we must help him. He must meet his overhead without worry or fear. He must show pictures that will bring credit to his theatre and add to his patronage. He must be successful. His success will mean our success.

Any Triangle Exchange Manager is willing to help you, to advise you, frankly and honestly. He is reserved in his representations, helpful in his attitude, instructed to avoid exaggeration or misstatement and to aid you in building up your business. His attitude is a Triangle attitude, four square to the wind.

Build on enduring Triangle principles. Write the Triangle exchange nearest you.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1457 Broadway, New York

S. A. LYNCH
President

R. W. LYNCH
Vice-President

FRED KENT
Treasurer

Y. F. FREEMAN
Gen. Mgr.

ANOTHER EXTRAORDINARY FEATURE FOR FIRST CLASS THEATRES

Thos. H. Ince SPECIAL PRODUCTION "

Bessie Barriscale in THOSE WHO PAY

Written by C. GARDNER SULLIVAN
Directed by RAYMOND B. WEST

THE STAGES MOST POWERFUL EMOTIONAL ACTRESS IN A DRAMATIC THUNDERBOLT.

THE MOST GRIPPING — THE MOST ABSORBING —
THE MOST THRILLING STORY EVER TOLD IN PICTURES

ESPECIALLY DESIGNED TO BOOST THE BUSINESS OF PROGRAM-INFECTED BOX-OFFICES...

U. S. EXHIBITORS' BOOKING CORPORATION

FRANK G. HALL, Pres.

TOP O' THE TIMES BLDG., NEW YORK

BOOK THROUGH THE FOLLOWING EXCHANGES:

FOURSQUARE

NEW YORK	729 Seventh Ave.
BUFFALO	47 W. Swan St.
CHICAGO	207 S. Wabash Ave.
DETROIT	304 Jos. Mack Bldg.
DENVER	1735 Welton St.
SEATTLE	2014 Third Ave.
PITTSBURGH	127 Fourth Ave.
LOS ANGELES	514 W. 8th St.
PHILADELPHIA	1325 Vine St.
CINCINNATI	301 Strand Theatre Bldg.
ST. LOUIS	301 Empress Theatre Bldg.
CLEVELAND	310 Sloan Bldg.
WASHINGTON	8 E St., Northwest
KANSAS CITY	1120 Walnut St.
SAN FRANCISCO	191 Golden Gate Ave.
MINNEAPOLIS	206 Film Exchange Bldg.

SOUTHERN STATES FILM CO.

ATLANTA	114 Walton St.
DALLAS	1900 Commerce St.

GLOBE FEATURE FILM CO.

NEW ENGLAND	20 Winchester, Boston, Mass.

FRANK GERSTEN, Inc.

NEW JERSEY	220 W. 42nd St., New York City

FOREIGN RIGHTS: Robertson-Cole Co., 23rd Floor, Times Bldg., New York City

MARY MILES MINTER

Dainty damsel of girlish graces—blue eyed fairy of the screen in

"BEAUTY and the ROGUE"

In which wide-eyed innocence
disarms a callous crook.

SURE PROFIT AT THE TICKET WINDOW

Released by American Film Company Inc.-
Available January 28 at all Exchanges of the Mutual Film Corporation——

There's a barrel of money in the

NEW BOOKING PLAN

under which is offered the series of

CHAPLIN-MUTUAL SPECIALS

Twelve knockout comedies—Screen tested and profit proven ——

Ask the Manager of the nearest MUTUAL FILM EXCHANGE to tell you about it ——

"CLASS"

is the word for BILLIE RHODES
in Strand-Comedies

She has no competition in the big houses and with the discriminating trade

One reel a week is available at exchanges of
Mutual Film Corporation

MUTUAL PAYS THE WAR TAX

An Advertisement
by
W. W. Hodkinson

TEN PARALTA PLAYS ARE READY

Back of every contract which the exhibitor is offered today,

Back of every partnership with exhibitors who are to share three-quarters of the profits of our organization,

Are these plays
finished and ready for release:

"A MAN'S MAN" (Kerrigan) Issued
"MADAM WHO?" (Barriscale) Issued
"HIS ROBE OF HONOR" (Walthall) Issued
"TURN OF A CARD" (Kerrigan)
"ROSE OF PARADISE" (Barriscale)
"WITHIN THE CUP" (Barriscale)
"BLINDFOLDED" (Barriscale)
"PATRIOTISM" (Barriscale)
"HUMDRUM BROWN" (Walthall)
"WITH HOOPS OF STEEL" (Walthall)

All these plays mean SOLIDITY

They mean that when you sign the Hodkinson contracts for Paralta Plays the Hodkinson plans and policies have already provided that you are guaranteed by the foresight of our producers a continuous product, studied and perfected at leisure to those high standards which the trade has already recognized as a new brand of

CONSISTENCY IN MOTION PICTURES

For prices, bookings and dates, address:

"Hodkinson Service" at your nearest General Film Exchange

For information, booklets and aid in your film problems, in connection with our product or any other, address the home office:

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

527 Fifth Avenue, New York

Telephone: Murray Hill 2123

PARALTA PLAYS
PICK OF THE PICTURES

Bessie Barriscale in

Directed by
REGINALD BARKER

"Madam Who?"

Written by
HAROLD MacGRATH

ROBERT BRUNTON, Manager of Productions

A PARALTA-BARRISCALE-PLAY

The three big facts
that cause you to read our ads are:
That they are backed up
by great pictures;
and you want them
because You make money
by selling them to the Public
who wants them.
That's plain!

NOW BOOKING

J. Warren Kerrigan in
"A Man's Man"
By Peter B. Kyne Direction, Oscar Apfel

Henry B. Walthall in
"His Robe of Honor"
By Ethel and James Dorrance Direction, Rex Ingram

Coming! The Motion Picture Plus (?)

PARALTA PLAYS, Inc.

729 SEVENTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY

Foreign Distributor: Inter-Ocean Film Corporation.
Canadian Distributor: Globe Films Ltd.

DISTRIBUTED BY
W.W. HODKINSON CORPORATION

THE THEREFO
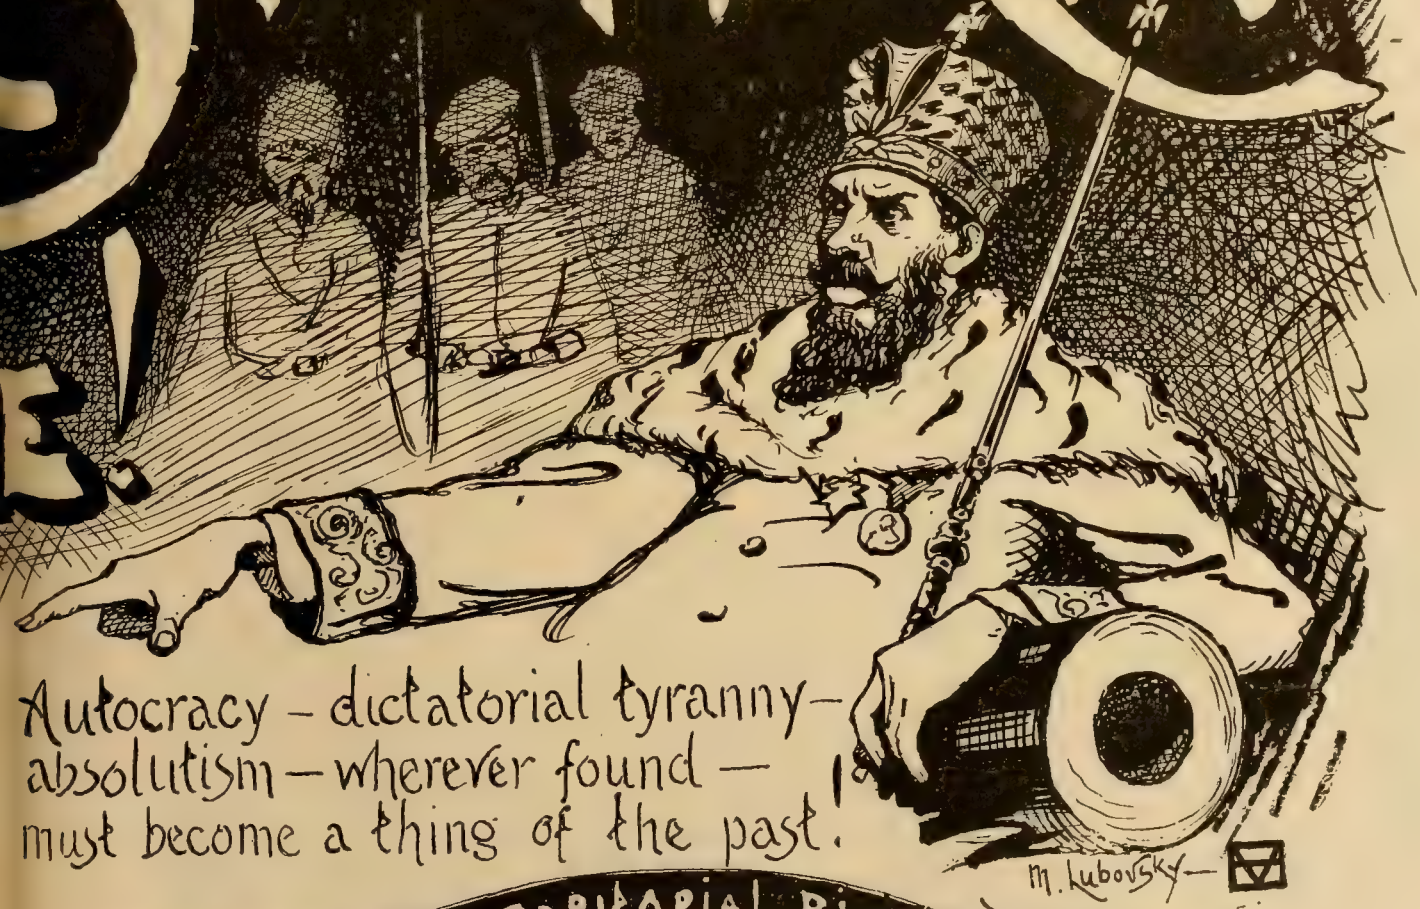
Intoxicated with the insolent spirit of autocracy oppressive power exercised its will, smearing the pages of history with the blood dripping heel of the Cossack, entering into the secret privacies of family life, coveting and ravishing the treasures that others held dear, trampling under foot the most sacred Rights of mankind
N.Y State and northern NEW JERSEY distributors
MERIT Film CORP. 126 W. 46th St. N.Y.C.

Who knows what the morrow may bring forth??
The world in judgement will damn or bless!

SHEVKI



Autocracy – dictatorial tyranny – absolutism – wherever found – must become a thing of the past!

M. Lubovsky

FOR TERRITORIAL RIGHTS

EXPORT & IMPORT FILM CO. INC

729 SEVENTH AVE. – NEW YORK CITY

WILLIAM FOX PRESENTS

The 1918 CINEMELODRAMA

CHEATING The PUBLIC

THE SENSATION OF NEW YORK

LYRIC THEATRE B'WAY AND 42ND ST.

STANDARD PICTURES

42,000
people witnessed
CHEATING the PUBLIC during it's first week's run

TURNING THOUSANDS AWAY
LYRIC THEATRE BROADWAY
AND 42nd. STREET NEW YORK
PRICES 25 cents TO $1.00

FOX FILM CORPORATION

WILLIAM FOX PRESENTS
JEWEL CARMEN
in
"The GIRL WITH THE CHAMPAGNE EYES."
BY BERNARD McCONVILLE : STAGED BY C.M.FRANKLIN

FEBRUARY RELEASE : CONTRACT NOW

FOX FILM CORPORATION

shackle breakers

To Mr. First Run Exhibitor:

¶ With these METRO productions you can absolutely satisfy your patrons, cash in at your box office and continue to own your own theatre.

¶ Each is a tremendous production offered at a price the exhibitor can afford to pay.

¶ These are first run productions of the first magnitude. They can play a week in any theatre. An open house will let you run your own business.

METRO

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

The Great

NAZIMOVA in

A METRO Special de Luxe Production for long runs and box office success.

Directed by George D. Baker

Maxwell Karger, Manager of Productions –

METRO

No greater Production in the world of photo dramas

REVELATION

From Mabel Wagnall's famous novel "A Rose Bush of a Thousand Years"

a shackle breaker

for first, second and third run theatres -

METRO

METRO presents

The Screen Novelty of all Novelties.

MR. and MRS.

SIDNEY

D R E W

in an extraordinary feature production in 5 parts in which are laid bare the deep and devilish secrets of a demon in evening dress.

A melter drayma, done with all its devious devisements, unto a durable delight.

This sinful entertainment is called and is builded on the stage success of the same name.

P A Y D A Y

Now booking as a special feature

M E T R O

Now released

The Spectacular Special Production de Luxe

A Box Office Attraction with Amazing Advertising Power

EDITH STOREY in The LEGION of DEATH

by June Mathis

Women fighting in the trenches.
Intimate revelations of high life in America and the Russia of today

SEVEN BIG ACTS ▷ Directed by Tod Browning

M E T R O

Immortalizing the sinking of the Lusitania and Charles Frohman's words "Why fear death - it is life's most beautiful adventure"

RITA JOLIVET

The International star and heroine of the Lusitania supported by a cast of 3,000 people in the $250,000 production

METRO

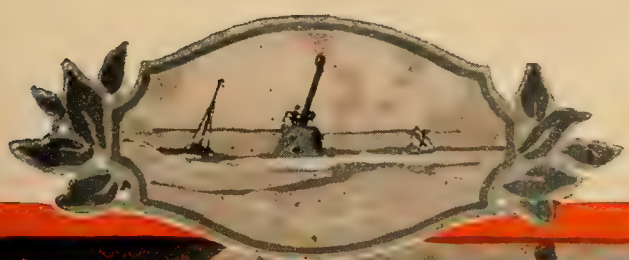
"What her eyes have seen, your eyes shall see"

More magnificent than the mightiest spectacle in the Circus Maximus

LEST WE FORGET

Directed by Leonce Perret
Assembled under the personal direction of Charles A. Taylor

Under the auspices of Count de Cippico and J. L. Kempner



METRO

Special Engagement
Now showing to capacity
Lyric Theatre, New York

First of the Edith Storey All Star Series Productions

B.A. ROLFE presents

EDITH STOREY

in the drama supreme

The EYES of MYSTERY

By June Mathis from "The House in the Mist," a big People's Magazine success by Octavus Roy Cohen and J.U. Giesy - Directed by Tod Browning -

Released JANUARY 21st by

METRO

A Bargain -not a Bait!

A Money-maker -not a Club!

Let's stop for a minute in the tremendous rush on "The Price of a Good Time" and call your attention to a mighty important point.

"The PRICE of a GOOD TIME"

Created by Lois Weber, the Belasco of the Screen, and featuring Mildred Harris.

In spite of being the biggest money-maker of 1918—in spite of being even bigger than the famous "Where Are My Children," created by that same master hand—"The Price of a Good Time" can be booked alone—without strings—rebates—or conditions.

Jewel Productions, Inc., will not use the huge earning powers of "The Price of a Good Time" to force you to take, in addition, some production not yet proven. We will not use "The Price of a Good Time" as a bait—we will not use it as a club to force a weaker picture on you.

Jewel Productions, Inc., wants you to make—and keep—every dollar you can possibly get out of this wonderful Lois Weber Play. We will not ask you to hand back part of these earnings in the form of rental on an additional picture you never heard of and don't want.

"The Price of a Good Time"—the gold mine of 1918—comes to you and every other Exhibitor without conditions—without strings—without drawbacks.

"The Price of a Good Time" stands alone and sells alone. All you make you keep.

THE FIVE OTHER BOX-OFFICE JEWELS ARE

"The Man Without a Country" "The Co-Respondent" "Pay Me"
"Sirens of the Sea" "Come Through"

JEWEL
PRODUCTIONS
INC.
1600 Broadway. New York

THE SPY MENACE

From the New York Times

"The German spy, as the Allies know him, is not only an assassin and an incendiary, but a man who gets his tentacles into labor unions—foments strikes.
"Chief Flynn some months ago . . . discovered plots which called for the burning of Western wheat and corn crops, the fomenting of strikes in mining and oil regions of the West, and the commission of acts of sabotage in all kinds of factories. . . . It was a result of Flynn's work that more than 150 notorious I. W. W. leaders in the country were indicted for conspiracy to obstruct American war operations.
"All this deviltry was planned when the United States was at peace with Germany.
"There is no greater problem in the United States AT THE PRESENT MOMENT."

"THE EAGLE'S EYE"

By

WILLIAM J. FLYNN

Recently Retired

CHIEF OF THE U. S. SECRET SERVICE

Is the story of the Imperial German Government's spies and plots in America. It is a twenty-episode serial of facts. Into its revelations of how the Kaiser's proposed reign of terror in America was prevented has been written a story of thrilling, heart-stirring romance.

"The Eagle's Eye" is the supreme serial effort. It has no equal in appeal in public interest, in the international importance and prominence of its story. It is a box office value too big to be figured from precedents.

Produced by THE WHARTONS

With the popular stars KING BAGGOT and MARGUERITE SNOW

Distributed by FOURSQUARE EXCHANGES

BOOKING OFFICES IN PRINCIPAL CITIES

Mr. STATE RIGHTS BUYER !!!

WE HAVE SOLD OUR TWO BIG MONEY MAKERS

"THE WARRIOR" and "MOTHER"

OUR POLICY OF SMALL PROFITS AND QUICK SALES IS A PROVEN SUCCESS.

NOW

WE OFFER YOU OUR THIRD
SUREFIRE BOX OFFICE SPECIAL

The Crucible of Life

A HIGH CLASS MELODRAMA IN SEVEN REELS WITH THRILLS - SUSPENSE - BEAUTY - ACTION.
EVERY SCENE GOES ZIM-BANG-ZIP. AND THERE ARE FOUR HUNDRED SCENES

STATE RIGHTS ONLY

"The Crucible of Life" is adapted from Bartley Campbell's successful play "Fairfax"
"The Crucible of Life" features Grace Darmond, the Dramatic Beauty of the Screen
"The Crucible of Life" has an all star cast including Frank O'Connor & Jack Sherrill
"The Crucible of Life" is produced by Authors' Film Company
"The Crucible of Life" is now for sale by

GENERAL ENTERPRISES INC.
1476 BROADWAY
NEW YORK

HERBERT LUBIN A.H.SAWYER

To State Rights
Buyers

Only a few territories are still open on the following—

WILLIAM S. HART

Super-features

1. "The TWO-GUN MAN" in "The BARGAIN"
(6 Reels)

2. "The BANDIT and the PREACHER"
(5 Reels)

3. "The HELL-HOUND of ALASKA"
(5 Reels)

This Applies Also to Our 28 Selected

MACK SENNETT
KEYSTONE
Comedies

To Exhibitors

THESE PRODUCTIONS WILL BRING BIG PROFITS TO YOUR BOX OFFICE

BOOK THEM NOW!

W. H. PRODUCTIONS CO.
71 West 23rd Street New York City
Phone Gramercy 3027

This IS Success

WHAT THE AUDIENCE SAID:

"A wonderful production which takes rank second to none and which undoubtedly will inspire the people of the world to the most wild patriotic enthusiasm . . . . IT IS THE MOTION PICTURE CLASSIC"

2718 People at the Rivoli Theatre
Thursday, January 17, 1918

THE EPIC MOTION PICTURE

MY OWN UNITED STATES

WITH

THE PRE-EMINENT ACTOR

MR. ARNOLD DALY

ANTHONY PAUL KELLY, Author
JOHN W. NOBLE, - - - Director

For Particulars of Distribution, address

THE FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, PRESIDENT
TIMES BUILDING, NEW YORK CITY

TO PRODUCERS

Did You Suffer from the Fuel Administrator's Order?

We have one of the Best Equipped Laboratories in the East

And can

Guarantee the following:

SPEED QUALITY
PRICE

Let us figure on your requirements.
We know we can prove our claim.

GAUMONT COMPANY

FLUSHING, LONG ISLAND
NEW YORK

"Thirty Minutes from Times Square"

Exhibitors in every important city in the United States are playing Taylor Holmes in "Uneasy Money" to capacity houses for a week's run. Try to get a booking date at once.

This Picture is Backed by a National Billboard Advertising Campaign With 24 Sheets Like the Above

Paramount

Distributed by George Kleine System Throughout the United States

Perfection Pictures

GENERAL FILM COMPANY

GEORGE K. SPOOR presents

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

in

"A Woman"

THE FILMS THAT MADE HIM FAMOUS

An Essanay-Chaplin Every Month

"WORK"
"IN THE PARK"
"BY THE SEA"
"A JITNEY ELOPEMENT"
"THE CHAMPION"

* * *

BRAND NEW COMEDIES ONE EACH WEEK KEEP YOUR PATRONS LAUGHING

"The Soup and Fish Ball"—Jan. 26
"Next"—Jan. 19
"One Night"—Jan. 12
"He Loved Her So"—Jan. 5
"Nutt Stuff"
"Lunch"
"Make Your Eyes Behave"
"A Depot Romeo"

GEORGE K. SPOOR presents

WONDERS OF NATURE and SCIENCE

Scenics Supreme!

ONE EVERY WEEK WILL MAKE YOUR PROGRAM

"Salmon Fishing in New Brunswick"
"Lake Louise"
"Banff National Park"
"The Great Natural Industries of Canada"
"Water Powers of Western Canada"
"Through Canada from Coast to Coast"
"How Canada and the Farmer Cooperate in Grain Raising"
"Agricultural Opportunities in Western Canada"
"The Water Powers of Eastern Canada"
"A Romance of Rails and Power," with Virginia Valli
"The Grand Canyon of Arizona and Canyon de Chelly"

Screen Time, 15 Minutes

Essanay
1333 Argyle Street, Chicago

Distributed Exclusively by General Film Company

GENERAL FILM COMPANY.

Patricia Palmer, W. L. Rodgers and Charles Wheelock in "The Fifth Wheel"

An Automobile Tire, a Clairvoyant, a Happy-Go-Lucky Coachman, and a Girl Are the Principal Ingredients in this Dashing O. Henry Romance of City Life. Humor, Pathos, a Clever Touch of Romance, and a Last Minute Punch Help to Make This an Ideal Subject for any Program Featuring BETTER PICTURES.

Eight Current O. Henry Successes

"The Thing's the Play"
Mildred Manning, Jack Crosby and Rex Burnett

"One Dollar's Worth"
Chet Ryan and Frances Parks

"The Last Leaf"
Mildred Manning, Patsy Deforrest and Bernard Siegel

"Two Renegades"
Chet Ryan and W. L. Rodgers

"Whistling Dick's Christmas Stocking"
Adele DeGarde and George Cooper

"The Fourth in Salvador"
Chet Ryan and W. L. Rodgers

"The Count and the Wedding Guest"
Jean Paige and Webster Campbell

"The Clarion Call"
Walter McGrail, Alice Terry and Bernard Randall

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES

Distributed Exclusively by General Film Company

General Film company is the great service organization which has taken the initiative in cutting out the extravagance and duplication of overhead in the merchandising of motion pictures, with direct benefit to the exhibitor.

TO CONTENTS

Advertising Aids for Busy Managers..... 717
Advertising for Exhibitors..... 667

Blizzard Spoils Sunday for Many Theaters. 708
British Notes. 682
"Broadway Love" (Bluebird)..... 687

Careless Operators Misuse Films..... 680
Casual Thoughts on Sunday Closing..... 640
Calendar of Daily Program Releases..... 720
Capital City Exhibitors on Anxious Seat.. 704
Catalog of Educational Pictures Released Between October 1 and December 31, 1917. 659
Chaplin Studio Opened for Business..... 677
"Cheating the Public" (Fox)..... 684
Chicago News Letter..... 645
Comments on the Films..... 689
"Count and the Wedding Guest, The" (General Film) 686
"Cupid's Round-Up" (Fox)..... 683

Dallas' New Queen Theater to Reopen..... 712

"Eagle's Eye, The" (Wharton)..... 688
Exhibitors Watch New Kentucky Legislature. 710

Facts and Comments..... 637
"Fields of Honor" (Goldwyn)..... 684
Film Stories. 724
Filmdom Doings in Pittsburgh Last Week.. 711
Films to Fill Dark Time at Spokane Lyric. 713
"Fourth in Salvador, The" (General Film). 686
Fuel Administration Permits One Lamp.. 706

"Gates of Gladness" (World)..... 686
Grinding the Crank..... 666
"Gun Woman, The" (Triangle)..... 684

Happenings in Kansas City Film Circles.. 709
"Her American Husband" (Triangle).... 684
"His Robe of Honor" (Paralta)..... 685
How War Affects Pictures..... 648
Housewarming, A. 644
How It Is Done at the Strand..... 679

"Imposter, The" (Mutual)..... 686
"In Bad" (Mutual)..... 685
"Innocent" (Pathe) 683

"Jules of the Strong Heart" (Paramount). 683

List of Current Film Release Dates, 728, 730, 732, 734
Lustig Wants Action..... 643

Manufacturers' Advance Notes..... 691
"Menace, The" (Vitagraph)..... 687
Midwinter Convention of Michigan Exhibitors. 642
Michigan Theaters Closes Monday and Tuesday. 716
Motion Picture and the War, The..... 678
Motion Picture Educator..... 659
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The..... 642
Motion Picture Photography..... 674
Music for the Picture..... 675
"My Own United States" (Frohman)..... 685

Nashville Jubilant Over Great Factory.... 712
New England Theaters Are Closing Early.. 703
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity..... 647
Not a Combination, Says Berst..... 677
Notes of the Film Trade in San Francisco.. 713

Our National Parks Pictured..... 680
"Out West" (Paramount)..... 688

Pathe Cuts Production in Two..... 665
Pennsylvania Censor Says Films Are Good. 705
Photoplaywright, The. 670
Picture Theaters Projected..... 701
Portland Exhibiting Conditions to Change.. 714
President Persuades Theater Men..... 641
Projection Department. 671

Quality Regardless of Cost..... 639

Repeal of Maryland Censor Law Has Chance 643
Reviews of Current Productions..... 683
"Rimrock Jones" (Paramount..... 686
Rocky Mountain Screen Club's New Officers. 707
Rogers, David C., Boosting League on Coast 642
Roth, Eugene H., in New York..... 644
Russian Art Films, The..... 640

Sales of the Week..... 657
Shipping to Switzerland..... 646
Solving Problems of a Neighborhood House 715
"Spirit of '17, The" (Paramount)..... 687
State Rights List..... 649
State Rights Department..... 649

Ton Wise and Tons Foolish, A..... 639
Trade News of the Week..... 703
Tribute to St. Louis Film Men, A..... 681

Universal Will Back Government..... 646

When Tinting and Toning Is Effective..... 679
"Why Henry Left Home" (Metro)..... 687
Why the Falling Off?..... 639
"Winding Trail, The" (Metro)..... 684
World Film Magnanimous..... 679

"Zongar", (Physical Culture)..... 688

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Speer Carbon Co..... 736

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
Du Pont Fabrikoid Co..... 738
Steel Furniture Co..... 726

ELECTRICAL AND MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
Amusement Supply Co..... 737
Cushman Motor Wks..... 735
Exhibitors' Supply Co..... 726
Moving Picture Machine Co..... 725
Northwestern Electric Co..... 733
Porter, B. F..... 729
Swaab, Lewis M..... 725
Typhoon Fan Co..... 733
Universal Motor Co..... 737
United Theater Equipment Corp..... 739

FILM EXCHANGES.
Film Exchange, The..... 726

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Gundlach-Manhattan Co. 738

LOBBY DISPLAY.
Kraus Mfg. Co..... 727
Newman Mfg. Co..... 737

MANUFACTURERS OF INDUSTRIAL PICTURES.
Cromlow Studios. 727
Duhem M. P. Co..... 733
Erbograph Co. 720
Evans Film Mfg. Co..... 733
Gunby Bros. 726
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co..... 727

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
Broadway Star Features..... 635
Clune Producing Co..... 725
Dintenfass, Mark. 610
Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....595, 633-34
Export & Import Film Co.....622-23
First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc..608-09
Fox Film Corp.....624-26
Frohman Amusement Co..... 631
General Enterprises, Inc..... 629
Goldwyn Pictures Corp.....606-07
Hodkinson, W. W., Corp..... 620
Jester Comedy Co..... 733
Jewl Productions, Inc..... 594
Metro Pictures Corp.....Colored Insert
Mutual Film Corp..... 619
Paralta Pictures Corp..... 621
Paramount Pictures Corp.....599, 600-03
Pathe Exchange, Inc., The.....611-12
Select Pictures Corp.....604-05
Triangle Distrib. Corp.....616-17
Universal Film Mfg. Co.....596-98
U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corp..... 618
Whatron Releasing Corp..... 628
W. H. Production Co..... 630
World Film Corp.....613-15

MISCELLANEOUS
Anti-Censorship Slides. 737
Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co..... 725
Bioscope, The. 726
Bound Volumes. 738
Brookins Co., The..... 733
Cine Mundial. 735
Cinema, The. 737
Classified Advertisements. 729
Eastman Kodak Co..... 736
Far Eastern Cinema Exchange, Inc..... 736
Gaumont Co. 632
Kinematograph Weekly, The..... 735
La Cinematografia Italiana..... 735
Moore, Wm. N..... 725
M. P. Directory Co..... 737
M. P. World Circulation Coupon..... 729
M. P. World Publications..... 731
National Ticket Co..... 724
Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund..... 725
Producer, c/o M. P. World..... 733
Sellers, Benjamin, & Sons..... 736

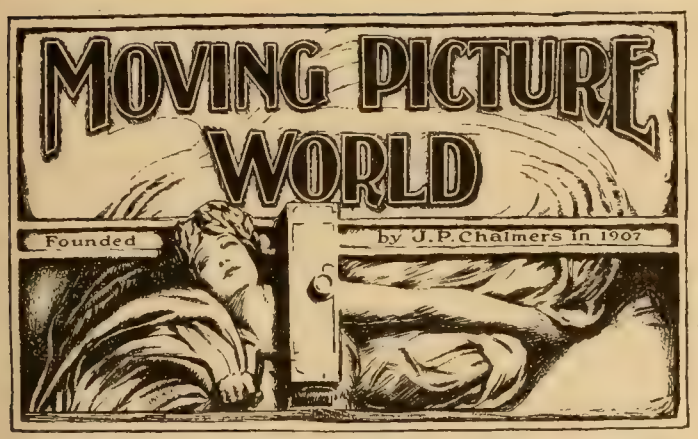
MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Burke & James, Inc..... 727
Bass Camera Co..... 726

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photoplayer Co..... 727
Marquette Piano Co..... 726
Sinn, Clarence E..... 726

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
De Vry Corp., The..... 735
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co..... 725
Power, Nicholas Co..... 740
Precision Machine Co..... 721

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Gold King Screen Co..... 735

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
Decorators' Supply Co..... 737



Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

516 FIFTH AVENUE, AT 43D STREET, NEW YORK CITY

(Telephone, Murray Hill, 1610, 1611, 1612, 1613.)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
James L. Hoff.....Managing Editor
A. MacArthur, Jr.....Advertising Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—610-611 Wright and Callender Building, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4640.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Cuba, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands.....$3.00 per year
Canada ..... 3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid)..... 4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time should be allowed for change.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 516 Fifth Avenue, at Forty-third Street, New York, and not to individuals.

CINE-MUNDIAL, the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 516 Fifth Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American and Spanish-speaking market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, February 2, 1918

Facts and Comments

COMMENT as we may—and will—upon the unusual order of the Federal Fuel Administrator the fact remains that the order will stand as originally issued, with possibly a few exemptions, and with President Wilson standing squarely back of it, assuming full responsibility. This is what he says:

I have every confidence that the result of action of this sort will justify it and that the people of the country will loyally and patriotically respond to necessities of this kind as they have to every other sacrifice involved in the war. We are upon a war footing and I am confident that the people of the United States are willing to observe the same sort of discipline that might be involved in the actual conflict itself.

As much as the several million individuals who constitute this great country of ours may feel the inconvenience the order incurs this is no time for criticism. Remember that we are at war, and war is all that Sherman is reputed to have said it is. Knowing this why should we squirm and squeal at the first bite?

*

What an opportunity the situation offers the sharp witted newspaper writer with a hair trigger pen to rush into print and say a lot of smart things; to lash poor Doctor Garfield with the whip of editorial sarcasm, and what use some of them are making of that opportunity! Were we less modest or less appreciative of the fact that there may be, and probably is, behind this notable order a necessity of greater moment than any of us, not properly informed, suspect or can even comprehend, we might turn loose our trenchant typewriter and—make a silly ass of ourselves.

*

But we are not going to do any such thing. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD is for anything that President Wilson tells us is good for us and is calculated to help win this war for democracy. Speaking for the industry it represents, THE WORLD believes that all thinking motion picture men feel the same way. So far the Government of the United States has demanded few sacrifices beyond those which an ordinarily patriotic citizen would willingly agree to comply with. The time for real sacrifice is yet to come. If we are unable to endure a little personal discomfort, a little derangement of our several businesses, what will we do when the casualties begin to come in? There is something for us to think about. Are we real men, able to stand the gaff, or a lot of doddering, fault finding old pantaloons?

*

Since the foregoing was written President Wilson has given further evidence of his sympathy with the public in these trying times by modifying the Fuel order to permit the opening of theaters on Monday and changing the closing day to Tuesdays.

* * *

THE National Association of the Motion Picture Industry came to a wise conclusion when it decided to postpone the holding of an exposition at this particular time. For various reasons the motion picture business is in somewhat of a turmoil; purely psychological it is true, but nevertheless greatly disturbed. On top of that condition comes the order of the Fuel Administrator which has further disarranged business for the time being. Hence, the proposal to postpone the exposition until next fall seems to be the most feasible action that could have been taken.

NOTICE TO THE TRADE.

Commencing Monday, January 28, the offices of the Moving Picture World will be closed on that and each Monday thereafter up to and including Monday, March 25, in accord with the order of the Federal Fuel Administrator.

As a consequence thereof the Moving Picture World will close its forms on Tuesday of each week during that embargo, circulating in the mails and on the newsstands one day later than usual.

Exhibitors Demand the Truth

By Louis Reeves Harrison

THE policy of jollying exhibitors in one column and lying to them in another may fool some of them part of the time, but not all of them some of the time, nor some of them all the time, and there is no sound reason why it should be attempted. There are weakling trade papers which constitute themselves adjuncts of the publicity department of any producer, or any group of producers, who will make it worth while by methods either open or underhanded, but all this is destructive to the best interests of the whole business. Leading producers of today have bright and interesting mediums of their own, giving the exhibitor exhaustive information in very attractive form. It is perilous for trade papers to supplement that work to an extent that undue praise spells favoritism.

Favoritism benefits no one in the long run. It may win a few pages of advertisements today and lose many more tomorrow among those not favored. While it may not always be intentionally crooked, simply an unsound policy, there is really nothing on the level about booming this or that concern, or this or that individual, unless generally recognized high merit has brought them into undeniable prominence. Is is a bore to the reader unless delightfully written, and if it becomes essential to fill the paper it should be relieved of any appearance of using reading columns for advertising purposes, or of a private handout.

The founder of the Moving Picture World had a clear vision far extended into the future when he established his policy of sturdy independence, justice to all, a fair field with no favor. He realized that the entire business depends upon the dimes and quarters received by the exhibitor, and that the exhibitor had to get those dimes and quarters through the quality of what he was exhibiting, that his livelihood, his success, his prosperity was closely identified with the right sort of production.

The idea that exhibitors don't know is not in accord with the facts. Time and again they have cancelled contracts for much-boomed pictures, though it must be admitted that they are often stung from lack of adequate warning from those very papers who pretend to guard the exhibitor's interests first, foremost and all the time. The paper which deceives him strikes straight at his pocket and against the popularity of moving pictures as well, against the large interest of this new art itself.

I do not think any intelligent exhibitor expects a paper to be infallible in its judgments, especially when those judgments are obviously intelligent, uninspired by private interest and wholly sincere. That mistakes can be made has put a little piece of rubber on the end of most lead pencils. The main idea is to aim straight at the truth, hit the target as often as possible and make an occasional bullseye. This is the only sane business policy, the loss of subscriber's confidence meaning a decay of value as an advertising medium.

Let it be understood, however, that all this is not so easy as it may appear. Just as there has been a rapid improvement in public taste there has been a tremendous increase in the cost of production. The cost of putting out a fine play in beautiful style with every role adequately typed is almost immediately doubled when a high-priced star is added. Producers reason that they are doing their best for all concerned when they expend a large sum of money on a picture, and they are right to a certain extent, but audiences do not count the cost of a story if it interests them—why should we?

Let us repeat that in the form of a direct question, "If audiences do not count the cost of a story, why should we?" It can be illustrated that they do not, and audience opinion is so puzzling at times that it takes keen observation to understand why an expensive picture fails and a cheap one succeeds. Take two notable instances based on a lack of religious fervor in front, though not a lack of religious faith—there is a great difference between the two.

A feature costing not one-fifth as much as the average modern production of the same size ran to crowded houses for a year or more, and is going yet, which was so poorly handled that people laughed at its tawdry weaknesses, but the story had an element which powerfully appealed to human sympathy and sense of right, the refusal of a bigoted clergyman to baptize a perfectly innocent little baby whose parents were not joined in wedlock. The definite aim of the story drove straight for the mark, showing up the hypocrisy of denying an innocent child in order to punish the parents; for God made the baby.

Another feature showed an impossible result from a woman's prayer. It seemed to fall flat on the average audience for no other reason. The story, apart from that one detail, was intensely interesting; the direction was without flaw; the star was lovely, sympathetic and effective; the settings were beautiful and must have cost a small fortune. I am sure all intelligent people in front enjoyed the artistry of this presentation, but defective logic stifled their entire approval. It will be seen from these instances that one must look deep into a play, especially into its meaning before formulating an opinion of its future success.

Audiences did not count the cost of either story—what did count was the truth involved in both cases. "It requires," said an eminent scientist, "the combined labors of many thinkers for a full century to reach a truth which it may take only a few minutes to master under the right sort of circumstances." Those right sort of circumstances may easily be the presentation of truth in our moving pictures. It seems to go with the average audience as a rule.

In one of the cases cited the injustice of visiting the sins of parents on the children had enough force of its own to give a young star exceptional opportunity and carry the play to success. We are broad enough today to believe that the pure little human flower born into the world should be kept pure and good, not go through life burdened with the stigma of illegitimacy. In the other case we discredited an improbable answer to a prayer. It is contrary to experience, so much so that most of us have quit asking heaven for things, though we may hope for them and hustle for them the best we can. The daily struggle for people in front is one of effect, courage and faith. Those people in front want to know the truth quite as well as the exhibitor.

Beyond keeping faith with the exhibitor and his public, is the necessity of bending all our efforts toward making moving pictures an attractive and dependable medium for what should be told of ourselves and the world we live in. Crooks spring up like weeds in the path of our progress toward greater happiness, but they die like weeds and are forgotten. It is for every honest paper and every honest exhibitor to see that moving pictures go far ahead of literature, straight to the hearts and minds of our millions of people.

Why the Falling Off? By Sam Spedon

REPORTS received are convincing evidence of a considerable falling off in attendance at many of the motion picture theaters here and there in smaller communities throughout the country. An old lady who became somewhat deaf went to a physician to find out the cause of her deafness. He gave her his opinion, using some scientific and technical terms and the old lady went home just as wise as she was before. She asked her old man if he knew why she was deaf and he said: "Because you is." Various reasons are given for this falling off in attendance but the fact remains, there is. We could give you our reasons but they would only be second hand, so we will give them to you first hand, just as they were told to us.

Individual Reasons.

Here is a real reason. "The weather has been so cold. We have had to close our theater almost entirely for the past two weeks."

Another of the same kind: "We haven't had any coal."

This one is different: "So many young men have gone to the war, we have a noticeable decrease in the attendance of young people."

This is practically the same: "Young women have joined the Red Cross and taken positions in the employ of the Government, they are conspicuous by their absence."

Still another very similar: "Old and young women are so absorbed in knitting we see them "nit," or very much less than we did."

This is most original and unique: "The advance publication of picture stories in magazines forestalls our attendance at our theatres. People read them and say they know all about them, so they don't have to see them."

We have heard this before: "Too many big features. They cost too much money, we can't afford it. People want shorter runs of two and three reels. They are coming back to them in smaller places and would rather spend an hour than two of their evenings."

The Exhibitor's Claim.

The exhibitor makes this his chief claim: "Too many and too high war taxes in face of all the aforementioned reasons brought on by conditions of war." In addition, he says: "People are curtailing their pleasures to invest in Liberty Bonds, Saving Stamps, to contribute to the Red Cross and to meet the high cost of living." Most of their reasons are good. The question is: "How are we going to meet them? It would be idle prattle for us to tell you what we think. Some of the exhibitors are up against it and we are not, although we are aware what effects one branch of the industry affects all. We have a sneaking opinion that we would be governed by circumstances and hold out as best, and as long as we could. No matter how much the distributor would like to assist the exhibitor, we all know that he is affected by the same conditions and if he sells his goods without a fair profit he will go to the wall. It looks to us as if we were all in the same boat and it will require a staunch craft, some careful navigation and endurance to weather the seas that we are navigating just now.

Not All Are Affected.

The reasons we quote are those of individuals affected by them. Not all exhibitors are, for we hear of exhibitors in some localities doing a flourishing business, running the same and better than ever. We rejoice with the fortunate ones, but we are concerned by the less fortunate. We quite agree with all those who prophesy good times after the war. We know all the exhibitors will come back strong, if they can pull through now.

Every Little Bit Helps.

There is, notwithstanding all that is said, an increased interest in motion pictures on the part of the Government in propaganda, industrial and educational films which may make up for the falling off in the manufacture of productions for the direct theatrical field. The deficiency may be made up to the reputable manufacturers in the increase of pictures in demand in the entertainment of cantonments through the Y. M. C. A. in the furtherance of their work.

Quality Regardless of Cost

By Sam Spedon

Regardless of the salaries the "stars," directors or anybody else may receive in the making of moving pictures, we are convinced that the public demand quality. It has been given them and they have learned the good, bad and indifferent in pictures. The better they come the better they like them. Regardless of how short or how long the pictures and the prominence of the players that make them, the pictures will be the things that count from this time on.

Not Too Much, Just Enough.

We will take it partly back. The salaries paid in making pictures, if they be excessive or fictitious, will greatly lessen the possibilities of manufacture. We have got to be sane in our demands or find ways and means to become so. The recent slump in the industry has brought every branch of it to realization of the artificial and "brainstorm" methods employed in production and distribution. There are hundreds thrown out of employment here and we are informed thousands on the coast, who are now willing to work at fair compensation for services rendered. We are also informed that those now employed are willing to conform to an equitable adjustment of their compensation.

A Ton Wise and Tons Foolish

By Sam Spedon

THESE uncontrovertible facts were presented to Albert H. Wiggin, New York State Fuel Administrator, and to National Fuel Administrator Garfield, as well as direct to Secretary McAdoo.

One hundred and eighteen theaters in the city of New York by shutting down, would save 163 tons of coal a day and the loss in taxes would be $11,800 for each day's closing, with possibility of even greater losses. About 15,000 persons would be thrown out of work. The testimony of an expert engineer showed that if the theaters were closed three days a week it would be necssary for the managers to burn 50 per cent. more coal to reheat them, besides the cost of repairing the damage by freezing of water pipes and sprinkler systems. He further stated that the fuel necessary to provide warmth and light for persons assembled in theaters would be only a fraction of the amount they would use in their own heating apparatus if they remained at home. It would also be well to take into consideration the great loss to the Government of the propaganda of fuel-saving, food conservation and other direct appeals to the public which have been and must be accomplished through the motion picture screen.

The Russian Art Films

By Robert C. McElravy

IT is pleasing to note that the American public is giving evidence of a growing appreciation of the Russian photoplays brought to this country by N. S. and Madame Kaplan, in which are featured Ivan Mozukin and other prominent actors and actresses of the Moscow Art Theater.

The general artistry of these productions was apparent with the very first release, named "The Painted Doll," and has been maintained in three subsequent features. There is no reason to doubt that the same high standard has been maintained throughout the entire group of features brought to this country by the Kaplans, which will be reviewed individually, as heretofore, in this publication as they appear from time to time. It is clearly evident that the best of Russian literature and dramatic ability has been drawn upon in the making of these photoplays.

As was pointed out in the first commendatory review of these films in the MOVING PICTURE WORLD, the tragic note is frequently sounded; this in marked contrast with prevailing American methods. The Russian films, in other words, incline to what has been termed "the inevitable ending" rather than idealized or happy ending. This was the thing that gave the reviewer some slight shivers of apprehension as to the reception that might be accorded these films by our own public. Would it welcome the profound realism of these stories, the simple, direct treatment of intensely dramatic situations, which fascinate and at the same time rather horrify the observer? The answer is now at hand, and numerous exhibitors not only report a successful showing of the first releases, but are asking for more.

It requires no very prolonged analysis to get something of an idea as to why our public should accept Russian tragedy with approval, when it might regard the same element in American made films as unpleasant or depressing. It is because the somber note is indigenous to Russian art and literature. These photoplays are cut off the same piece of cloth with the writing of Gógol, Tolstoy, Turgúeneff, Púshkin and the numerous lesser lights of Russian literature. In fact a number of the present releases are by Púshkin. They reflect with truth and conviction the life of an intense, passionate people, held for centuries in abject serfdom; a people whose sole weapon against overwhelming oppression was art. How gloriously they learned to wield this weapon! How magnificently Russian hopes and aspirations shone through the outward gloom of their books and plays, until at length when the moment came to throw off the shackles, the whole vast domain made its grasp for freedom, without a dissenting voice.

Through the medium of the film it is now being made possible to get a further understanding of Russian life and conditions prior to the revolution. Several of the film stories thus far released have been adaptations of the work of Alexander Púshkin, the brilliant, erratic genius often referred to as the Russian Byron. One of these is "The Queen of Spades," which was the sensation of all Russia at the time of its original appearance, and was afterward adapted in operatic form, "Madame Pique." As a photoplay this is a striking success, introducing as it does, Ivan Mosukin, who scored in "The Painted Doll," as the gambler; Mademoiselle Orlova as the girl, and Mademoiselle Duvan as the countess. The latter, portraying the aged grande dame who loses her life while guarding a three-card gambling secret, proves a figure not easily forgotten. Equally interesting is the work of Tanya Fetner as the wife in "The Painted Doll," and of Vera Colodnaya in "Her Sister's Rival." "The Cloven Tongue," another Púshkin adaptation, is a slighter and less tragic subject, but provides good opportunities for Nadya Lesienka as the charming but unscrupulous Circassian woman.

The chief virtue of these features for American observers is that while they are tragic, they are not morbid. The brilliant character of their dramatic structure transcends and justifies the intensity of their subject matter. Then, too, there is an irresistible appeal in the authoritative scenes from Russian court life, of princes and nobles at the gaming tables, and of serfs and peasants and country gentry at their accustomed occupations.

Casual Thoughts on Sunday Closing

By SAM SPEDON

RUMORS to the contrary notwithstanding, we are going to have a repetition of the attempt to close motion picture theaters on Sunday. Be prepared. Do not be taken by surprise. We present these casual thoughts for your consideration rather than an analytical treatise on the subject. David slew Goliath with a pebble. Put these in your collection, they may come in handy. Every little bit helps.

By closing motion picture theaters on Sunday, we open up various channels of dissipation. The number of persons, young and old without libraries and other diversions at home to beguile their leisure moments, become restless and their minds turn to demoralizing thoughts. We have known overworked husbands and wives to spend their spare time at home on Sunday, bewailing their hard lots and lack of pleasures. They have nothing else to do but express their dissatisfaction with life and themselves, to the demoralization of the rest of the family, while their wealthy townspeople beguile their spare moments in golfing and automobiling. Motion pictures have proven family peacemakers. They give the toilers a pleasure they should not be deprived of, which makes up for the privations of the six days of toil; they bring the family closer together, giving them a chance to share a common enjoyment in each other's company, affording them new thoughts of an interesting, elevating and educational character.

From Another Angle.

Judging from the gloom in the faces of the "long-haired men" and the "short-haired women" no wonder so many side step the theories they preach.

Close the "movies" Sundays and you furnish Satan with more mischief for idle minds to do.

To many persons Sunday is the longest and gloomiest day of the week. Motion pictures have made it shorter and brighter for them.

Motion pictures have helped make life more cheery for the boys in the cantonments and at the front. Why deprive theanx ious ones at home of their diversion?

THOMAS BARBIN DIES.

Thomas Barbin, a well-known Pittsburgh exhibitor and a prominent figure in organization work there, died on January 11, after a lingering illness. He was thirty-six years old. Mr. Barbin conducted the Reliable theater, Millvale, a suburb of Pittsburgh. He was a charter member and the first secretary of the Exhibitors' League of Pittsburgh. The deceased is survived by his widow and four children, three girls and a boy.

President Persuades Theater Men

By C. L. Linz

Delegation Meets Mr. Wilson at the White House and Comes Away Convinced That He Is Right—All Theaters Will Close Tuesdays

THE magnetic personality of President Woodrow Wilson won to the Administration the continued support of the theatrical and motion picture industries. Headed by Marc Klaw, a group of men went to Washington Thursday, January 17, for the purpose of appealing to President Wilson against the ruling of fuel administration officers to close the theaters. The theater men requested that Tuesday be substituted for Monday as the closing day for their industry. Their appeal was successful. Without intimating that he would do so, the President later requested Dr. Garfield to make the change and formal notice of the shift to Tuesday was issued on Saturday.

They met the President by appointment shortly before four o'clock in the afternoon. They were accompanied from the executive offices to the Blue Room, where the President received them, by Joseph P. Tumulty, the White House secretary. Mr. Wilson greeted each member of the delegation most cordially and Mr. Klaw thereupon explained the position of the theater men very briefly. The President replied; there followed a brief discussion of the situation, and ten minutes later the delegation emerged from the White House wreathed in smiles, hypnotized by the President.

The theatrical and motion picture men declined to make any statement as to what had taken place within the White House, nor was any statement forthcoming from Secretary Tumulty. However, the delegation was quickly surrounded by the White House newspaper correspondents who endeavored to interview Mr. Klaw, he having been selected by the delegation as its spokesman.

Mr. Klaw proved very reticent and in a polite way informed the "boys" he considered it would be unwise to make any statement whatsoever, and the party left Washington at 5.35 p. m., without having made known what had been taken up or accomplished. Later, David Belasco, another member of the party, was prevailed upon to give his impressions of the meeting. "It was the first time that I had met President Wilson at close range and he made a very wonderful impression upon me," said Mr. Belasco, to the Moving Picture World correspondent, following the interview. "He had come to the opening of some of my plays; I had seen him at a Gridiron Club dinner, but it was not until I saw him at close range, standing as close as I am to you, and in action today, that I caught a real insight into the intellectual and personal genius of the President.

"I cannot get away from the impression that we were in the presence of a really great man today; a man whose acts and words ring with greatness. Make no mistake about it, Woodrow Wilson, the man and the President, knows exactly what he is doing; he knows what is going on—the country is safe in his hands. He is not only a man of big brain, but of great heart and human interest; one whom we found very sympathetic today, but who proved also that he has a big grip on big things."

The speaker observed the proprieties of White House visits in declining to retail what had been said by visitors or visited. In all probability these men had told to them many of the facts that are outlined in the statement issued that night by Dr. Garfield.

"The most urgent thing to be done is to send to the American forces abroad and to the Allies the food and war supplies which they vitally need," declares Dr. Garfield. "War munitions, food, manufactured articles of every description lie at our Atlantic ports in tens of thousands of tons, while literally hundreds of ships, waiting loaded with war goods for our men and the Allies, cannot take the seas because their bunkers are empty of coal. The coal to send them on their way is waiting behind the congested freight that has jammed all terminals.

"It is worse than useless to bend our energies to more manufacturing when what we have already manufactured lies at tidewater congesting terminal facilities, jamming the railroad yards and sidetracks for long distances back into the country. No power on earth can move this freight into the war zone where it is needed until we supply the ships with fuel.

"Once the docks are cleared of the valuable freight for which our men and associates in the war now wait in vain, then again our energies and power may be turned to manufacturing, more efficient than ever, so that a steady and uninterrupted stream of vital supplies may be this Nation's answer to the Allies' cry for help.

"It has been excess of production, in our wartime speeding up, that has done so much to cause congestion on our railroads; that has filled the freight yards to overflowing; that has cluttered the docks of our Atlantic ports with goods waiting to go abroad. At tidewater the flood of freight has stopped. The ships were unable to complete the journey from our factories to the war depots behind the firing line.

"Added to this has been the difficulty of transporting coal for our own domestic needs. On top of these difficulties has come one of the most terribly severe winters we have known in years. The wheels were choked and stopped; zero weather and snowbound trains; terminals congested; harbors with shipping frozen in; rivers and canals impassable—it was useless to continue manufacturing and pile confusion on top of confusion.

"A clear line from the manufacturing establishments to the seaboard and beyond—that was the imperative need. It was like soldiers marching to the front. The men in the foremost ranks must have room to move.

"More than a shock was needed to make a way through the congestion at the terminals and on the docks so that the aid so vitally needed by the Allies could get through.

"The incidental effect of this transportation situation on coal production has been disastrous. There is and always has been plenty of coal, but it cannot be moved to those places where it is so badly needed while railroad lines and terminals are choked. Throughout the coal fields scores, even hundreds, of mines are lying idle because of railroad inability to supply the cars to carry away their product. Coal mines cannot operate without cars. Cars cannot be supplied while the railroads are crippled by the present freight congestion, which keeps idle cars lying useless in the freight yards.

"In the past week the production of coal has been disastrously reduced. Reports in some cases have shown ninety per cent. of the mines in certain fields closed completely for lack of cars.

"This is war. Whatever the cost we must pay it so that in the face of the enemy there can never be the reproach that we held back from doing our full share. Those ships laden with our supplies of food for men and food for guns must have coal and put to sea."

Section 4 of the new regulations provided that "on each Monday beginning January 21, 1918, and continuing up to and including Monday, March 25, 1918, no fuel shall be burned (except to such extent as is essential to prevent injury to property from freezing), for the purpose of supplying heat for * * * (c) theaters, moving picture houses, bowling alleys, billiard rooms, private or public dance halls, or any other place of public amusement."

The motion picture interests were represented at the conference with the President by Adolph Zukor. Others present were George M. Cohan, Sam Harris, Jospeh Rhinock, E. F. Albee, of the Keith interests; Milton Lackaye, and Edward Ziegler.

A. M. P. A. EATS BEEFSTEAK.

A beefsteak dinner was given by the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers at Mouquin's, Fulton street, New York, on Thursday evening, January 17. The following were in attendance: P. A. Parsons, J. N. McCord, J. R. Thomas, H. A. Gillespie, Nat. H. Spitzer, E. Rosenbaum, Jr., Captain Arthur James, in uniform; C. C. Burr, Charles E. Moyer, Paul N. Lazarus, Sam Spedon, Pete J. Schmid, R. W. Vandervert, Captain Merritt Crawford, in uniform; Vic Johnson, A. S. Kane, Al Lichtman, James Koppstein, R. P. Freeman, Charles W. Barrell and Randolph Bartlett. Nineteen sat at the mess table and two at the officers' table. The usual repast was indulged in. The customary brew was dispensed to all but the uniformed officers; with an added zest of popular songs by professional talent interspersed with many felicitous remarks. Distribution of the "A. M. P. A. Farmers' Almanac for the year 1918," containing many personal and otherwise humorous references to its members, was made and the joyous occasion was brought to a close.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

Midwinter Convention of Michigan Exhibitors

Michigan and Detroit Charters Amalgamated in American Exhibitors' Association of Michigan—Producers Panned for Footage Tax and High Salaries to Stars.

THE midwinter convention of Michigan exhibitors was held at the Majestic Theater, Jackson, January 7 and 8. It was a very important convention, because one of the things it accomplished was the amalgamation of the Detroit and state charters and the changing the name to the American Exhibitors' Association of Michigan. The attendance was small, owing to the poor train facilities caused by the storms. Many exhibitors wanted to get there, but were simply unable to do so, most of the roads being impassable. Nevertheless, those who did attend enjoyed the business sessions and were very much interested in all the discussions.

A resolution was passed disapproving the film tax; disapproving the exorbitant salaries paid to the film stars, and reducing the annual dues from $24 to $12 per year.

Monday was registration and get-together day. A few of the convention routine matters were gone over and in the evening the exhibitors were guests at the local theaters. Tuesday was the big day, about thirty exhibitors coming over from Detroit in a special car contributed by some of the exchanges. Frank Rembusch, secretary of the American Exhibitors' Association, was one of the principal speakers, and he urged greater co-operation with the national organization to bring about much-needed reforms.

Considerable time was devoted to discussing the coal situation and it was unanimously agreed that the association lend its every support to the State Fuel Administration in the conservation of coal. However, it seemed to be the prevailing opinion that there would be little gained by closing theaters, as the government would lose in film taxes. President S. A. Moran said that in many cities exhibitors were getting together and agreeing among themselves to close down on certain nights while the coal situation is so serious.

The association also went on record as supporting the State Fuel Administrator in the matter of cutting out front lights on Thursdays and Sundays. Recent investigations have proven that the exhibitors are complying with this new ruling better than most other lines of trade.

Footage Tax and High Salaries for Stars.

The 15-cent film tax was discussed, but no action was taken, other than to "pan" the producers for passing the tax. Many exhibitors said they were paying the tax under protest and that they were forced to pay it to keep their houses open even though they felt it was unjust.

A motion was passed disapproving of the present enormous salaries paid to film stars on the ground that it was the cause of high film rentals. One thousand per week to any film star was considered high enough.

Tom Lynch, of the Catherine Theater, Detroit, urged the appointment of a good legislative committee and he favored a law which would make it a criminal offense for any one to cut the wires of a theater and otherwise damage the property of the exhibitor.

Tuesday evening the exhibitors went to the Orpheum Theater as guests of O. L. Elser, and later were entertained with a smoker, lunch and good time at the Moose Temple.

All future conventions of the American Exhibitors' Association of Michigan will most likely be held in Detroit. It has been found that the convention attendance is larger when held in Detroit.

Detroit Meeting January 17.

The Detroit and state exhibitors met in Detroit on January 17 at the Board of Commerce and took final action resulting in the amalgamation of both state and city charters into the American Exhibitors' Association of Michigan. Next week will be given a complete report of this meeting.

David G. Rodgers Boosting League on Coast

National Organizer of M. P. E. L. Calls Meeting in San Francisco—Alameda County League Considers Joining National Body.

EXHIBITORS in San Francisco and suburban cities were recently favored by a visit from David G. Rodgers, of Minneapolis, national organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. Mr. Rodgers arrived during the holiday season and spent some time looking over the local situation and enjoying the fine weather before seeking to secure a gathering of theater owners and managers to address on the subject of organization work.

No Local League Formed.

A meeting was finally called for January 8, at Photoplayer Hall, but the attendance was very disappointing. Those present were treated, however, to a very illuminating talk by Mr. Rodgers on the war tax problem and the music tax question. No effort was made to organize a local league, so few representative exhibitors being present, and past efforts along this line having been fruitless. The speaker was informed, however, that there is an organization of exhibitors and film exchange men known as the United Motion Picture Industry of Northern California, which is accomplishing much good work.

Alameda County Local May Join National League.

Later during the day Mr. Rodgers crossed the bay to Oakland and attended a special meeting of the Alameda County local. Here he found a good crowd and met with a very cordial reception. Following the talk of the national organizer this organization decided to give the matter of joining the national body its early attention and tentatively made an application for a charter. In his talk here Mr. Rodgers dwelt at considerable length on the music tax question, with

Coming League and Other Exhibitors' Conventions

(Secretaries Are Requested to Send Dates and Particulars Promptly)

Massachusetts and Rhode Island Branches, M. P. E. L., at Quincy House, Boston. January 22

which the Alameda County exhibitors were not very familiar, and as a result of this the representatives of twenty theaters each donated three dollars to the fund to fight this tax. The theaters contributing to the fund were as follows: Oakland houses—Fruitvale, Fremont, Franklin, Golden Gate, American, Dimond, Gem Glenn, Park, Kinema, Piedmont, T. & D., Chimes, Claremont, Majestic. Berkeley Theaters—Strand, Lorin and T. & D. Alameda was represented by one theater, the Park.

Alameda League Fighting Footage Tax.

President H. L. Beach presided at this meeting and considerable of the business period was devoted to a report of the committee appointed to obtain redress from film exchanges in the matter of the reel tax. The local is fighting this tax and has taken the matter up with Federal officials who have asked for proofs in the form of bills and cancelled checks. This organization of exhibitors takes the stand that film exchanges levying a reel tax on pictures released before last October are obtaining money under false pretenses.

The annual meeting of the Alameda County local will be held on the third Thursday in February, when officers will be chosen.

Lustig Wants Action

Has No Use for League Members Who Do Not Take An Interest.

IN ACCEPTING office as president of the Exhibitors' League of Cleveland, Ohio, Henry Lustig made it emphatic that there would be an entirely different administration than the body has had for several years, or he would not head it.

The attendance and interest in league meetings have been very irregular. When something unusually big, that might hit the exhibitors' pocketbooks, came up, there would be a gathering of from sixty to seventy theater managers, but at other times, twenty-five was the average attendance.

Mr. Lustig pointed this out and also the apparent lack of co-operation whenever the league undertook to do something. Only when a matter like operators' wages or war taxes came up was there real co-operation.

"It has come to a point where the league must wake up, and wake up quick," he said. "There are many so-called members who forget their dues and the league entirely except upon extraordinary occasions. We must weed these out. I would rather have twenty-five bona fide members, than a hundred of the other sort. Of course, I need the support of all the exhibitors in Cleveland, but since it is impossible to get it, we will have to bend our efforts toward weeding out the stale timber and do business with a solid organization. This is not a challenge to such members as I mentioned to get out, but it means that they will have to pay up or retire."

The league passed a resolution naming a committee of three, headed by E. Mandelbaum, to give support, financially and otherwise, to the Allied Exhibitors' Legislative Committee, which is conducting a fight against unjust war taxes at Washington.

A committee was appointed to go into further details with several New York producers, who sought to sell their films to the exhibitors direct.

The other new officers elected were R. H. Gray, vice-president; Joe Lefkowich, secretary, while A. Mahrer was re-elected treasurer.

Mr. Lustig succeeds William J. Slimm, who has headed the organization for several terms, while Mr. Lefkowich succeeds Walter Horsey, who has been secretary for many years.

BROOKLYN EXHIBITORS BACK GARFIELD.

The exhibitors of Brooklyn, New York, under the auspices of the Associated Motion Picture Exhibitors of Brooklyn, held a mass meeting at the Brooklyn Auditorium, on Thursday morning, January 17. The object of the meeting was to voice its views of the proposed closing and holidays in the conservation of coal by Dr. H. A. Garfield, Federal Fuel Administrator. A resolution was passed that the exhibitors would stand back of the Government in whatever restrictions it saw fit to institute to help win the war, but it most emphatically objected to the motion picture theaters being classed among billiard and pool parlors or saloons, claiming that motion pictures are a positive essential and not one of the unessentials.

Moving picture theaters are needed to keep the public posted and educated in the things they should know, what the Government is doing to win the war, from a military and economic standpoint. It also pointed out that motion pictures are the universal language through which all nationalities are enlightened. Russia, for instance, would have gained a full knowledge of what the United States is doing for democracy had motion pictures showing our activities been circulated in that country.

A copy of the resolution was sent to Dr. Garfield as well as to all the Senators and Congressmen of Brooklyn.

Repeal of Maryland Censor Law Has Chance

Maryland Exhibitors' League Giving Earnest Attention to the Fight Against Censorship and Find Many Favorable Indications—Many of Clergy Do Not Want Censors.

ACCORDING to information which has come to light it appears that the position on the Censor Board in Maryland made vacant in September by the death of Wm. F. Stone, has been kept dangling before the eyes of many would-be office-seekers, so that they should, according to reports, follow the inclination of Governor Harrington as to political measures.

On the evening of Sunday, January 13, a meeting of the Maryland Exhibitors' League was called by President Frank A. Hornig, and those members who assembled frankly discussed the censorship measure and other matters of importance. On Wednesday, Jack Connolly, who is managing for the League the campaign to repeal the censor law, and President Hornig were interviewed by the Moving Picture World Correspondent at headquarters, 210 W. Lexington street.

Few Religious Associations Want Censors.

Few of the religious associations of Baltimore appear to be opposed to the repealing of the censorship law or are opposing the League in its fight. The majority of the clergy of Baltimore and Maryland are opposed to censorship of motion pictures and probably this is because so many of the exhibitors are known personally to them. Not only are the exhibitors known to the clergy, but the clergy have trust in the moving picture exhibitors, realizing that they, as a majority, aim only to show upon their screens the highest class of pictures which have a tendency to uplift, rather than to demoralize. Attention must also be called to the many patriotic and other benefits given by the exhibitors in Baltimore and throughout Maryland.

The Legislature at Annapolis has been convassed to see where the exhibitors stand with the members and it has been found that a large majority of them are, in reality, moving picture fans. In this canvass sixty-four members of the assembly were willing to pledge themselves to kill censorship in Maryland and did so.

As to the political side of the question, it seems that the vacancy on the Censor Board has been in active influence. In the first place it is understood that Attorney General Albert C. Ritchie is making a fight against the Maryland Exhibitors' League. The question might be asked in this regard: Is it because Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison, one of the censors, is a sister-in-law to Mr. Ritchie? And is he making this opposition owing to selfish motives?

From an authentic source, it has also been learned that twenty Republicans were given to understand that the vacancy would be theirs and according to the informant, this was done in order that certain measures would be passed. So according to men well versed in the doings at Annapolis the twenty Republicans began to compare notes and consequently they asked for a show down.

It is thought that not only has the Governor given much thought to the matter of the censorship question, but that he has begun to realize just what a factor the moving picture screen can prove to be in an election, and this conclusion is based on the idea that he has seen what it did for Governor Whitman, when it was used in his favor in New York.

Maryland League Is Strong.

Then again when we take into consideration what a complete organization the exhibitors of Maryland have formed by their league, and how closely knitted together they are becoming in this fight, it seems doubtful whether the Governor will antagonize them. There are over two hundred theaters in Maryland and at least 100,000 people attend shows in these theaters every day.

Again, it is understood that organized labor in the State of Maryland and Baltimore City will take up the cudgel to repeal the censorship law. According to latest advices, the Motion Picture Operators' Union, Local 181, through their president, G. Kingston Howard, will confer with President Ferguson of the Baltimore Federation of Labor and the matter will be decided as to just how they will proceed in the matter.

Bodies That Want Censorship.

Action opposed to the repeal of the censorship law includes the following: On Monday night, January 14, the Sodality Union of the Arch-Diocese of Baltimore, in session, adopted a resolution that this body unite with the Holy Name Society to stand with the latter in order that the censorship of motion pictures may be retained. When the bill is introduced at Annapolis, the representative delegation from the organization will go to that city. On Friday night, January 11, the annual meeting of the Maryland Institute (Art School of Baltimore) Alumni Association was held and a resolution written by Walter R. Gale, the retiring president of the association was adopted protesting against the abolishing of the Board of Motion Picture Censors of Maryland.

A bill was introduced by Senator Frick at Annapolis on the evening of Tuesday, January 15, which had been prepared by the attorney general to amend the law creating the Board of Motion Picture Censors and proposing to have all fees of this board turned into the treasury and that the salaries be paid as are all others, regardless of fees.

BLIZZARD SPOILS ST. LOUIS LEAGUE MEETING.

A meeting of the St. Louis Exhibitors' League, called for Friday afternoon, January 11, at league headquarters in the Knights of Columbus building, was adjourned without action when fewer than five members showed up on account of the blizzard.

Eugene H. Roth in New York

The Guiding Genius of the California Theater, San Francisco, Is Among Us Cheerfully Sharing the East's Discomforts.

AFTER a transcontinental journey which provided for stop-overs in Denver, Omaha, Detroit and Buffalo, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Roth, he whose capacity and activity made possible the greatest of all motion picture theaters on the Pacific coast—the California Theater in San Francisco—arrived in New York and located at the Hotel Knickerbocker on January 13, for a brief stay. In the midst of his personal interviews with the representative exponents of the industry, among others, Adolph Zukor, Samuel Goldfish, Hiram Abrams, Lewis J. Selznick, Walter E. Greene, Samuel Rothapfel and Harold Edel, Mr. Roth made a visit to the new offices of the Moving Picture World. Although some of the staff had previously never enjoyed the pleasure of his acquaintance, it was readily admitted by all that they fully understood why a man of his force, thoroughness and ability should be the leader of the exhibiting end of the motion picture industry that he is. Gifted with a personality that radiates the same cheeriness and sunshine that abounds in the splendor of California, Mr. Roth proved a welcome and popular guest, much in demand.

He spoke with enthusiasm of his latest achievement—the California Theater—which cost more than a million and a quarter dollars to construct and which seats in absolute comfort an audience of 2,780, with all conveniences and improvements of the palace of a modern Solomon, but never a word of self-mention—a trait which characterizes the man who does big things and can be counted on to achieve still more. He communicated upon the hysteria affecting the industrial situation in the East, and was grateful to observe that his fears that the center of the motion picture world was all too willing to be misled by the idle pessimists who constitute the lesser figures of the business were entirely without foundation. No feature of his visit was as comforting to him as this experience of the really representative men of the trade talking in direct contradiction to the weak and fearsome trend of vaporing that he had been led to believe held the manufacturers in its spell. He cites as an instance of sound judgment the material reductions that have been put in force in the Pacific producing forces and encourages any and all further conservations that may be practiced in behalf of sound reasoning. To men of his breadth, moves of this kind are usual and logical and have no claim for any other interpretation.

Eugene Roth is an exponent of the theory that a judicious exhibitor is never overcharged for service. He is of the type that never dickers for a bargain; he knows what price is consistent and is prepared to graduate his outlays for service in accord with the quality and suitability of the productions he engages for his two theaters, for it is almost redundant to state that he and his associates also control the Portola Theater which, as far back as 1911, when he and his confreres took possession of its management, began to reveal the sagacity and capacity of its owners and proved "the hen that laid the golden California." He attributes the success of the parent theater to his undeviating policy of booking sterling features only, and his willingness to pay the required prices consistent with quality. It is a matter of history that though the Roth interests have usually placed an Artcraft, Paramount, Goldwyn or Select picture on their screens, nevertheless there has always been room for a standard production of another make, even though a picture already booked may have to lay idle for the given week. In other words, he has at all times matched up to the natural progress of the business—the California Theater proves how well this is true. And what is a matter of interest to such of us Easterners as are not due for a trip to San Francisco, is the showing that Mr. Roth promises before he leaves of his 1,000-foot reel showing the California both exteriorly and interiorly. At this writing the reel has not yet arrived, but when it does arrive and is shown, it should prove a most popular one-reeler.

The management of the Strand Theater came in for special mention, it being Mr. Roth's observation that the Edel house gave the best show that he has yet seen while in Manhattan. He praised Mae Marsh's work in "Fields of Honor" and the way that the picture was presented; and lauded, with special emphasis, the rendition of the condensed operatic score from The Mikado as superior to anything he had heard or seen elsewhere in the country. He willingly admits that it gave birth to a new idea for him, which he will carry back for his Pacific coast audiences.

A man who has risen as has Eugene H. Roth could be expected to have assumed responsible undertakings in the past before invading the cinematographic domain. This assumption is very easily sustained. For a period of twelve years he served as contracting freight agent of the Santa Fe with headquarters in Los Angeles, when that town was unthought of as the home for motion picture studios. This work he left to invest in and take charge of a mine in Mexico. This duty became so precarious after five years' time, for civil strife was then already eating the vitals out of the all-too-bellicose republic, that he returned to California, only to make the felicitous investment in the Portola.

Mr. Roth has not been in New York since early 1916, when he and his architect toured the country in order to learn of every improvement in theater construction that then existed. To him we have but this to say—"May your next visit be less deferred!"

A "Housewarming"

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation Gives "House Party" to Office Employees.

THE Famous Players-Lasky Corporation on Saturday evening, January 12, gave its office employees a "house party" in the new wing of the floor at 485 Fifth avenue, New York, taken over recently to handle the increased activities of this company. The affair was attended by everyone from president to office boys, and was a genuine get-together gathering. Dance music furnished by a Jazz Band proved one of the popular features of the evening.

Refreshments were served in true "house party" style and entertainment was supplied by "home talent." Among the popular offerings during the evening were songs by Edward Grossman, a novelty ball-room dance by Joe Finkelstein and Helen Glick, recitations by Rose Tapley, sleight-of-hand tricks by Charles Moyer, a black-face act by Charles Burr and B. P. Fineman, classic songs by Miss Friedman accompanied on the piano by Miss Sallie Brody, an interesting review of humorous experiences as a newspaper reporter by Charles Kenmore Ulrich, and a juggling act by A. Barnett, formerly a professional on the stage. Various other "specialties," too numerous to mention, were presented during the course of the evening.

Congratulations were extended to the various committees for the effectiveness of their work. Miss L. S. Wicker was chairman of all committees, assisted chiefly by Norris Wilcox, John C. Flinn, Charles Moyer and Harry A. Nadel, comprising the arrangement committee. Henrietta Cohn and Rose Tapley had charge of the invitations; Charles Burr, the printing; Louis Loeb the finances, and Pete Schmid the publicity. The floor committee consisted of Carl H. Pierce and Rose Tapley, chairmen, assisted by the Misses Figeroff, Michaels, Werner, Williams, O'Neill, Caldwell and McCull and Messrs. Grossman, Schmid, Gage, Fineman, Burger, Thorne, Taub and Eugene Zukor. Various officials and stars of the company dropped in during the course of the evening, including Adolph Zukor, Walter E. Greene, Hiram Abrams Al Lichtman, Ben Schulberg, Marguerite Clark, Pauline Frederick, John C. Flinn, H. Witman Bennett, Emil Shauer, Arthur Friend, Elek Ludvigh, Jack Pickford, Ralph Cohn, William E. Allen, Wallace Reid, Ann Pennington, Billie Burke, Ann Little, Elsie Ferguson and Thomas Meighan.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

Chicago Film Men Back U. S. Fuel Order

Although the Provisions Will Work Hardship on All Branches of the Trade, It Is Held That the Government Knows the Situation Best.

THE order of the United States fuel administrator, so far as it affects the moving picture business in Chicago, came with a numbing effect. This order enjoins that, beginning January 21, and every Monday thereafter, up to and including March 25, no fuel shall be burned for heating moving picture theaters or other places of amusement, business offices also being included on the prohibited list.

The order was published in the Chicago morning papers Thursday, January 17, and while exhibitors generally were bewildered by the announcement, Joseph Hopp, president of Chicago Local, M. P. E. L. of A., got busy with the phone and sent out numerous calls to exhibitors and exchange managers to attend a hurry-up meeting in the Masonic Temple. The meeting was called to order at 11.30 A. M., about sixty exhibitors, irrespective of affiliation with the League, and a dozen exchange managers being present.

After considerable discussion, the concensus of opinion was that, unless the Illinois state order is modified, the fuel order constitutes a national moratorium so far as it affects film service and employees' salaries on the Mondays specified, including operators, musicians, etc.

As the order affects only theaters east of the Mississippi, it was pointed out by President Hopp that the order would be discriminative and work an inequality. He cited for examples that theaters in East St. Louis would be closed on the prohibited days, while those in St. Louis, across the river, would be permitted to run. Similar conditions would exist in the case of Davenport, Ia., on the west side of the river and Rock Island and Moline on the east, as well as in many other cases along the course of the river. In each case the theaters on the east side would be closed and their patrons could cross the river and attend theaters there. Furthermore, it was stated that State Fuel Administrator Williams had been quoted in the daily press as saying that the coal taken out of the Illinois mines was used by the states of Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri.

It was finally decided at the meeting that Chicago exhibitors should get in touch with the National Allied Exhibitors' Legislative committee at Washington and New York to learn what, if anything, had been done by the members in connection with the fuel order. Efforts were made to reach the points mentioned by long-distance phone, but they failed. Telegrams were afterwards sent to Henry Varner, chairman of the committee referred to, at Washington, D. C., and Lee Ochs, a member of the committee, New York, but no reply was received up to late Thursday. Adjournment was then taken until 11 o'clock Friday morning.

Those present at the meeting, while strong in their expressions of loyalty and devotion to the government, felt that the order as it stands would work great injury to the business of many exhibitors, who are already in a critical financial condition.

The widely differing announcements of the fuel order, as given out in different cities in the middle west, have caused much wonderment among people in the film business here. A wire from Indianapolis, dated January 15, to an exchange here, reads: "All Indianapolis theaters, clubs, lodges, dance halls, poolrooms, churches and schools closed on account of fuel shortage. Expect other cities in the state to follow."

Another from Detroit, on January 16, stated: "Official order covering entire state, effective tomorrow, closes all theaters entire twenty-four hours on Mondays and Tuesdays. Other days of week open five hours only. Serious situation necessitates credit, cancellation and reduced rentals. Exhibitors working to have order modified."

From Pittsburgh came the news that in moving picture theaters only two presentations, matinee and evening, will be allowed each day.

A later dispatch from Detroit gave the information that office buildings will be permitted to run elevators only nine hours per day. This, however, was only tentative and not fully determined upon at the time the dispatch was sent. In case it went into effect, the order would seriously affect the night shipments of films to customers in outlying points.

These orders, it is understood, have been given out in each case by the state fuel administrator, and the absence of uniformity shows the lack of co-ordination with the U. S. fuel order.

I have learned from a number of distributing exchanges, during discussions of the closing of business offices on Mondays, for the period already mentioned, that they have claimed a decrease in the rental charges for premises occupied by them equal in amount to the rental for the normal business days which may be declared closed by the government, on account of fuel shortage. This would be only an equitable arrangement, and I understand that the owners and agents of buildings are favorably disposed to allow a day's rental for each closed business day.

In my rounds I have been impressed by the ready willingness of men in the trade to support the government in every possible way. Many, while they do not clearly understand the fuel order, are of the opinion that the government knows the inside of the question thoroughly and must meet it in the most effective way, for the good of all and the national honor. Every man in the trade, in Chicago, fully endorses the following statement made by Samuel Insull, chairman of the Illinois State Council of Defense, on the coal situation, on Thursday, January 17:

> The coal situation in serious, else the fuel administration would not have issued the orders it has sent out. No individual in the ordinary business of the country is qualified to pass on the necessity of the order. Only the fuel administration has the full information upon which intelligent judgment can be based.
>
> The public's duty in the matter is plain: Obey instructions. This duty lies upon all—manufacturers, merchants, laboring men and the men and women of all industries.
>
> All should remember that the country is at war and the fuel administration order is a war order. The manner of its acceptance is a test of the morale of the public. The Government tells us we are in a bad situation. We should all work together to pull ourselves and our country out of it.

Herbert Brenon Addresses the Chicago Censor Board.

Herbert Brenon arrived in the city Sunday morning, January 13, to see Major Funkhouser and the Chicago censor board concerning his six-reel feature, "Empty Pockets," the story of which has been adapted from Rupert Hughes' novel of that name. Mr. Brenon was a whole day late in arriving, as he had promised to meet Major Funkhouser on the Saturday previous. On Monday morning he visited Chicago's chief censor of pictures and spent an hour in consultation with him. He afterwards was introduced by the Major to the censor board in a body, and delivered an address, which follows in part.

"I am here for one reason only. No longer do I wish to be a printed title to you only. I want you to think of me as a sincere man with an avowed purpose. I have not come here to upbraid you and I shall be content if you view my picture, "Empty Pockets," with the firm conviction that I have been sincere in producing it. I am not going to court to force you to pass this picture, but I only ask you to give me an opportunity, personally, to make changes that you deem necessary.

I have just come from producing "The Third Floor Back," in which the spiritual reincarnation of the Lord visits a lodging house beset with bigotry and malice and brings sunshine and contentment to the people therein. It cost me $110,000 to produce that picture, and I shall probably sell it at a loss.

"Empty Pockets" was produced for much less money and the story was sold to me at a $20,000 profit before I put it in picture form.

"Please no longer think of me as a printed bit of celluloid, but kindly remember when viewing my production that I am not opposed to criticism in its right sense, and that I will always be open to the right kind of advice."

"Empty Pockets" was given a pink permit on Tuesday, January 15, which means that only adults can see it in this city. This feature was made for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

Chicago Film Brevities.

Max Glucksmann, who has a circuit of theaters in Argentine, Chile, Paraguay and Uruguay, has written the American Film Company that Mary Miles Minter is very popular in South America. He states that when a Minter subject is run, his theaters are packed, while competitors who are showing pictures in which other world-famous stars appear are not quite so full. "Everybody drops in for a Minter picture," writes Mr. Glucksmann.

* * *

F. C. Frederickson, recently assistant manager of Pathe's Kansas City branch and at one time manager of "Ramona" (handled by the Elliott & Sherman organization), arrived in the city last week and will remain several days.

* * *

At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, the following directors were nominated and unanimously elected for the year 1918: Watterson R. Rothacker, David Beaton, Jr., A. A. Rothacker, H. J. Aldous and John Hahn.

* * *

J. A. Berst, vice-president of Pathe Exchange, Inc., spent a few hours in the city Monday, January 14, on his way from California to New York. Mr. Berst had planned to spend several days in Chicago, but the delay caused by the snow storms on his way from the Coast to this point compelled him to depart immediately for New York.

* * *

Helen Ferguson, who has been a member of the Essanay playing forces for some time past, has resigned and left for New York last week. It will be remembered that she played opposite roles to Bryant Washburn and Taylor Holmes in some of their big productions. She will be remembered best by her work in the "Gift o' Gab," in which she played leading woman with Jack Gardner.

* * *

Mrs. Emma Cohen, manager of the Casino theater, 58 W. Madison street, this city, averted a fire panic when the basement under the theater caught fire Thursday evening, January 10. On learning the fact, Mrs. Cohen requested the operator and pianist to keep on with their duties, while she quieted the audience by assuring them there was little danger and requesting them to go out quietly through the doors to the alley. As the people went out, the firemen got control of the fire. The loss was about $1,000. Mrs. Cohen advised this office that everything was in readiness to resume business the next day.

* * *

Ike Van Ronkel, one of the oldest and most successful exchange managers in the business in this city, if not in the country, who for the past two and a half years has been with the Universal Film Manufacturing Company as manager of the Chicago offices of Bluebird, Jewel and Longacre productions, tendered his resignation to Carl Laemmle, Monday, January 14. At the time of writing, Mr. Van Ronkel had not disclosed his future connections in the business.

Shipping to Switzerland

Notice to Shippers in Connection with Applications for Export License.

THE War Trade Board announces that a trade agreement has been drawn up between the War Trade Board and the Swiss Government, covering the issuance of licenses for shipments to Switzerland, and announces the following rules and regulations, effective immediately, in connection therewith:

Applicants must first procure an S. S. S. permit and show the number of same on their application. Applications should be sent by the applicants to the Legation of Switzerland, 2013 Hillyer Place, Washington, D. C., who will check up the S. S. S. permit number with their records, and upon their endorsing the application it will be forwarded by the Legation to Switzerland to the War Trade Board.

Licenses when granted by the War Trade Board will be sent to the Legation of Switzerland, who will in turn notify the applicant and ultimately deliver the license to him. Should applications be refused by the War Trade Board, the Swiss Legation and the applicant will both be notified.

Licenses will not be given to the applicant until there is definite information lodged with the Swiss consul in New York or with the Swiss Legation in Washington as to the steamer on which the commodities are to go forward.

Universal Will Back Government

President Laemmle Announces That It Will Comply With All Orders from Washington—Instructs Employees to Drop Criticism.

SETTING a good example before the trade that might well be emulated by every motion picture company, the Universal Film Manufacturing Company issued an order to its employees everywhere to the effect that it was in full accord with every act adopted by President Wilson and his confreres in the conduct of the war and cautioned its employees to refrain from all criticism and comment unfavorable to the government. A copy of the order was sent to Washington. It reads as follows:

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company is entirely out of sympathy with the committees from the various industries which are flying toward Washington to protest against the new order of the fuel administrator.

The fact that this order has the approval of President Wilson is quite enough for us.

This company, like every other company in the country, has pledged its resources to aid the Government in a successful prosecution of the war.

And now, for the first time, we are put to the test to see whether such pledges were empty phrases or if they really carried a meaning. If we have a grain of real patriotism we will grin and bear whatever burden the Government may be compelled to impose upon us during these times of ordeal.

We request employees of this company to refrain from making unfavorable comment on the action of the Government. Let us look at the doughnut, not at the hole. Let us remember how little we are sacrificing in comparison with the young men of the nation who are offering their lives where we are asked to offer only our dollars. If we are stripped of every dollar we possess, if we are reduced to the extremest poverty, we will still have life.

Let us show the Kaiser and his crew that our pledge of support to our Government was not made merely to be withdrawn at the first real pinch of war. Let us be ready in our minds to drop everything else, if necessary, and devote our hearts and souls to the one great object of making the world a fit place to live in.

Standing by the President means standing by the President. It does not mean arguing, protesting or quibbling. The President has the most terrific task that was ever imposed upon a single human being in the history of the world. Let's make his burden as light as possible and not participate in anything that will tend to confuse his mind or swerve him a hair's breadth from the great purpose he outlined in his recent message to the world.

If we are patriotic now is the time to prove it.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFATCURING COMPANY,
By Carl Laemmle, President.

Freuler Announces the Screen Telegram

Mutual to Release Its News Reel Twice Each Week—Will Cover Foreign Field as Well as Domestic.

THE Screen Telegram, a twice a week news reel, of a new type, is announced by John R. Freuler of the Mutual Film Corporation and various allied film enterprises. This release is to be available at Mutual exchanges beginning the week of March 4, according to Mr. Freuler's announced plans. It will follow up and supplant the Mutual Weekly, which is one of the oldest and long established news reels in the film trade.

"We have laid elaborate and promising plans for the production and assembling of the Screen Telegram," said Mr. Freuler, discussing the new release at his New York offices. "We have arranged for an extensive system of foreign camera correspondence with a war news service from some new angles which we expect will give an unusual attractiveness to the reel.

"I have been giving the news reels particular attention for a long period and I have come to the conclusion it has been a rather neglected field among the film producers. Improvements in this field have been very slow to come. Yet the enduring success of the Mutual Weekly and some of its better competitors and their obvious value to the best theaters prove the permanence of demand.

"The mechanical work of the Screen Telegram will be handled at the excellent laboratories and printing plant of the American Film Company, Inc., which is, I hold, a guaranty of a film product as near technical perfection as the market affords."

The Mutual from its Chicago offices is conducting negotiations with cameramen in a number of points yet to be covered by the Screen Telegram. This detail of the organization is being handled through the office of Terry Ramsaye, the Mutual director of publicity.

JACK GILBERT RETURNS TO TRIANGLE FOLD.

Jack Gilbert, well-known juvenile, who appeared in several Triangle feature productions, is back at the Culver City studios after an absence of several weeks and is cast in Director Jack Dillon's latest subject, "Betty Comes Home," Gilbert supporting Myrtle Lind, formerly of the comedy beauties, who has the title role.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. HARLEMAN

Edith Roberts Again with Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran.

A NEW-OLD addition has been made to the Lyons-Moran comedy company at Universal. Miss Edith Roberts, who was formerly the leading woman for that team of laughmakers, has rejoined. She arrived from New York after having been separated from "the boys" for four months, part of which time she worked in a couple of Bluebird photoplays. She will appear in a series of de luxe comedies.

Miss Roberts is busy on "Other People's Money," by C. B. ("Pop") Hoadley, another old stand-by of the comedy team, formerly head of the comedy end of the Universal scenario department, and who was engaged to write exclusively for Lyons and Moran upon their recent return from a vacation spent in the east.

Mary Miles Minter Has Two Directors.

To insure the best results Mary Miles Minter, the American Film Company's star, will hereafter make her pictures under the two-director system. To collaborate with Henry King Director Edward Sloman has been assigned to supervise the making of the next feature following the completion of "Extra! Extra!" a newspaper story by Will M. Ritchey, the new head of the American's scenario department.

Mr. Sloman, who recently signed a contract with the American, has just completed a series of twelve successful photoplays in which William Russell was the featured player.

Los Angeles Brevities.

Mal (Slim) St. Clair, who has become famous for his delineation of beanpole characterizations in Triangle-Keystone comedies, has resigned from that organization in order to take a long vacation while considering several offers for his future services.

* * *

Harry Snyder, well known in Los Angeles photoplay circles as a scenario writer, has taken the position of writer at the local Metro studios formerly occupied by H. Keeler. Previous to this affiliation Mr. Snyder was on the scenario staff of the Signal Film Corporation.

* * *

Miss Gladys Brockwell has completed the making of a brilliant and unusual photoplay for William Fox at the Los Angeles studios. Miss Brockwell plays the dual role of two sisters who are utterly unlike in every way except looks. In the cast are Colin Chase, Bertram Grassby, Joseph Singleton, Cora Rankin Drew and Nancy Caswell. The play was directed by Bertram Bracken.

* * *

Bert Ensminger, who has been assisting Howard M. Mitchell in the direction of the Anita King company, will have entire charge of the next King picture, owing to the fact that Mitchell is engaged in directing Miss Sophye Barnard.

* * *

Tom Mix is nearing the completion of a drama for William Fox. The story has to do with the early pioneer days and presents a piece of history that has for some strange cause up to the time escaped the screen and the printed page. The character portrayed is romantic and vivid. Enid Markey plays opposite to Mix, and she is the big sister to eight youngsters played by George Stone, Lewis Sargent, Buddie Messinger, Raymond Lee, Virginia Lee Corbin, Violet Radcliffe, Marie Messenger, Buelah Burns and Vivian Plank. Others in the cast are Sam De Grasse, Pat Christmas, Jack Plank and Charles Stevens. S. A. Franklin directs.

* * *

Bob Brotherton, chief of the Balboa studio laboratory, who is also considerable of an oil painter, recently presented two of his canvasses to the Red Cross.

* * *

Things are humming in the scenario department at the Triangle Culver City studios. Several well-known magazine stories are being picturized and three new men have been added to the department. The new faces include Charles Mortimer Peck, well-known scenario editor and special writer, who is picturizing Norman Sherbrook's magazine story, "Smoke"; Frank Condon, magazine writer and continuity expert, who is picturizing "The Veil," also by Norman Sherbrook, and Charles Wilson, who is making the screen adaptation of W. Carey Wonderley's magazine story "Another Foolish Virgin." Jack Cunningham is finishing the picturization of "The Siren in the House," also a magazine story by W. Carey Wonderley. Catherine Carr and George Elwood Jenks.

* * *

Alexander Ritz, a former jockey who once rode with Tod Sloan and who has since worked well up in the motion picture industry, is again an assistant to Howard M. Mitchell at Balboa. Years ago Mitchell and Ritz worked together in Thanhouser productions.

* * *

Gloria Swanson, who has appeared in Keystone comedies in the past, has returned to the fold and will begin work at once at the Culver City studios in one and two-reel Triangle-Keystone comedies.

* * *

The picturization of Larry Evans' widely-read story, "His Own Home Town," which Thomas H. Ince has just produced for Paramount, with Charles Ray in the stellar role, will afford newspaper men of the present generation a good idea of what a newspaper office in a typical small town looked like a score of years ago—and what many of the "print shops" in some villages and towns still resemble. In making the story into a screen production much care was taken to retain all of the principal characters.

* * *

Texas Guinan, former Winter Garden favorite, who made a flying trip to New York, has returned to the Triangle studio.

* * *

Dorothy Dalton will again be seen in a role that has the big Canadian Northwest country for its background.

* * *

Two more writers have been added to the American's scenario department this week in William Parker and Karl Coolidge. Both were members of the American's staff some time ago. Mr. Parker returns after a year's work at the Universal, Fox and Metro studios, while Mr. Coolidge has been connected with various picture companies in the capacity of continuity writer. Mr. Parker is the author of more than two hundred successful screen stories.

* * *

Enid Bennett will be a very happy young woman next week. Miss Bennett is an Australian actress who has been associated with Mr. Ince for the last year. During her American career she has had the company of her younger sister, Marjories, who also has attained some success in filmdom. Soon Miss Bennett is to be joined by her mother, her twenty-year-old brother, and another sister to help her pass the hours when away from the studio.

* * *

Margarita Fischer and her American company, directed by Lloyd Ingraham, has been in Los Angeles taking exterior scenes of a girl's private school for the production of "Ann's Finish," the fourth of a new line of comedy dramas written by Beatrice Van and adapted to the screen by Elizabeth Mahoney. Jack Mower plays the leading masculine role opposite Miss Fischer, and the supporting cast consists of David Howard, John Gough, Robert Klein, Perry Banks and Adelaide Elliott.

* * *

Anita King, Balboa star, will be featured in a story by Captain Leslie T. Peacocke, as a fifth in the series of six to be released by Mutual. Work will be started soon under the direction of Robert Ensminger. Percy S. Pembroke will be leading man and Patrick Calhoun will be the "heavy." A strong supporting cast includes Daniel Gilfether, Corenne Grant, Gordon Sackville and Bruce Smith.

Roscoe Arbuckle returned to his old home town to a great reception. Santa Ana was the place and three overflow theater crowds preceded the party given the comedian. Fatty revived tales of the old swimming hole to the grown-ups, and Santa Ana to a man remembered the stories of his antics as a growing boy around the town. Fatty is proving a great attraction in the California cities, Riverside giving him the same sort of receptions when he made his personal appearance. He also contributed his bit by appearing at the Huntington Park Red Cross benefit.

* * *

Considerable damage was done by the heavy windstorm which swept Los Angeles and vicinity two days. Several sets on one of the old open stages of the Paralta studios were blown down. A few walls in a Western town and a part of a big set for a new picture were also leveled. The storm also caused considerable damage at the Fox studios, where a set collapsed, burying two workmen, who were slightly injured. Some damage was done to the open air theater at Denishawn.

* * *

The Hollywood Community Theater on its third offering to its members and friends, January 21, 22, 24 and 25, presented five new modern one-act plays each evening. They were all written by William C. De Mille, an active member of the theater association. Among those to appear in the plays were Louise Huff, in "In 1999"; Theodore Roberts, in "The Man Higher Up"; Bertram Grassby, in "The Land of the Free"; Wharton Jones and Harrison Ford, in "Noblesse Oblige," and others in "The Martyrs."

* * *

A meeting of the Monrovia Feature Film Company's stockholders was held on Saturday, January 5, in an effort to untangle the legal snarl in which three corporations, "The Argonauts," "Daughter of the Don," and the Monrovia Feature Film Company, have been entwined. A sub-committee, consisting of L. E. Frye and C. T. Renaker, was named by the chair as a receiving committee for funds provided the stockholders decide to assess themselves 10 per cent. with which to pay off their debts and protect their assets. Another meeting will be held soon.

* * *

Irving Lesser, Los Angeles manager of the All-Star Feature Film Distributors, has joined the ranks of the benedicts. He went to San Francisco to celebrate the holidays with his folks. On New Year's Eve he was married and returned to Los Angeles with his charming wife.

* * *

To help increase the sardine pack of Southern California, which canners are shipping to the Allies, H. M. Horkheimer, president of Balboa, is arranging to take his entire working force on fishing expeditions every Sunday during the sardine run. Notices posted on the studio bulletin boards for volunteer fishermen are meeting with ready response.

* * *

No airdomes may be operated in any portion of Los Angeles, the board of public works has ruled. Upon recommendation of J. J. Backus, chief building inspector, the board denied an application from a San Pedro exhibitor for permission to operate in a tent near the waterfront. Building Inspector Backus called the attention of the board to the fact that the theater ordinance calls for brick walls for all amusement houses.

* * *

Jack Gilbert, who appeared in several Triangle feature productions, is back at the Culver City studio after an absence of several weeks and is cast in Director Jack Dillon's latest subject, 'Betty Comes Home." Gilbert is supporting Myrtle Lind, who has the title role.

* * *

Mae Murray has started work on her fifth Bluebird. Her production is entitled "Forgive Me," and is directed by Robert Leonard, who also is the author of the story and who co-operated with F. McGrew Willis on the screen arrangement. Philo McCullough is playing opposite Miss Murray.

* * *

Tom Forman, formerly of the Lasky Company, who since the outbreak of the war has been stationed with the Coast Artillery at San Pedro, is now training in the officers' school at Camp Kearney.

* * *

Director Stuart Paton has under production at the Bluebird studios a five-reel drama entitled "The Other Thing." Carmel Myers is the star, with Harry Carter as her principal support. The photoplay was taken from the magazine story written by Blair Hall and prepared for the screen by Harvey Gates.

* * *

Edgar Lewis, independent producer, director of "The Barrier" and other successful features, has arrived in Los Angeles for the first time. It is understood that Mr. Lewis' next production will be made here. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lewis and their young daughter.

How War Affects Pictures

Board of Review Recapitulates Work of Manufacturers Since War Was Declared.

THE war affected the production of motion pictures in 1917 in two ways," said Cranston Brenton, Chairman of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures of New York City, yesterday, while discussing the relation of the war and motion pictures. "First there was a marked reduction. The number of reels passed upon by the National Board of Review, which reviews more than ninety-nine per cent. of all photoplays exhibited in this country, was 8,436. This number is fewer by 744 reels than the number passed upon in 1916. The number of different pictures or subjects was 3,114, as compared with 4,113 in the year 1916. These figures reflect the effect of the war upon the making of pictures and the demand of the public regarding the type of pictures.

"The chief falling off in production was in the month just before the declaration of war and the following two months. Evidently at that time, the producers were uncertain as to what the effect of the war would be upon the demand for motion picture entertainments. Since July, the production has followed the general trend of that of the previous year, the number released, however, being somewhat smaller, with an upward tendency in December.

"The demand for single-reel pictures has greatly fallen off in the course of the year. The feature picture, usually five reels in length, is taking the place of the one-reeler. In some months as many five-reel features as one-reel subjects were released. The general tendency in this respect is indicated by the fact that the average length of pictures in 1915 was 1.65; in 1916, 2.23; and in 1917, 2.77 reels. In December the average length was 3.28 reels as compared with 2.28 for the corresponding months of 1916.

"In the second place, the year was marked by the large number of subjects produced relating to the war. These were photoplays with a war twist, European war pictures and propaganda for various war measures, such as the stimulation of enlistments, the sale of war bonds, the Red Cross campaigns for funds and memberships and the conservation of food. The Government has taken a marked interest in motion pictures, not only in these respects, but as a means of entertainment for soldiers and sailors in the training camps, on board ship, and at the front in France. The American Cinema Commission was appointed to carry the propaganda of democracy to Europe by means of motion pictures. The War Department believes in the usefulness of the motion picture as a means of preserving the civil and military morale. The great value of the motion picture as a medium of expression of opinion has therefore been clearly demonstrated. Many successful books and plays have been used as the basis of scenarios for photoplays. The action of the National Board of Review in eliminating the nude from motion pictures, and refusing to pass white slave pictures of the commercialized type, has affected the character of the pictures made. This action followed an expression of opinion secured by means of a questionnaire sent to exhibitors and others in all parts of the country and evidently represented public opinion in every part of the country.

"A study of motion pictures from the moral point of view was carried on in Great Britain by a Cinema Commission headed by the Bishop of Winchester. The results of this injuiry indicated that photoplays as a rule proved to those who patronized them to be educative, morally healthful and pleasure-giving and instrumental in reducing intemperance. The Commission also found that in England little juvenile delinquency was traceable to motion pictures despite the fact that since the war began this class of delinquency has been on the increase. It expressed the opinion that motion picture theaters were a much better place for young people than the street. This report is of interest because the United States is now entering a war and may look for social conditions in large cities somewhat similar to those produced in the large cities of England.

State Rights Department

Conducted by A. K. GREENLAND

Where to Get Them

A Complete List of State Right Subjects and Distributors Arranged Alphabetically According to Territory.

This is a detailed list of independent productions, either currently being offered or else standard because of popularity and still in vogue, arranged according to each state in the United States and also Canada. By referring to page 734 of this issue, it will be equally possible to determine the name of the manufacturer or selling agent on any production herebelow listed.

This list is as complete and correct as constant and untiring observation on the part of The Moving Picture World's staff will allow. We will appreciate, however, to be notified of any changes or additions to this list. It is our object to carry this list every six months for the convenience of our subscribers.

Kindly file this compendium carefully for future reference.

ALABAMA.

Babbling Tongues—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Bargain, The—Jake Wells, Richmond, Va.
Belgian, The—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Civilization—All Star Features, Jacksonville.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Crisis, The—Big Feature Rights Co., Louisville, Ky.
Deemster, The—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
Garden of Allah—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man—J. A. Cressy Interest, Dallas.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Humility—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
King-Bee Comedies—E. & H. Film Distributing Corporation, Atlanta, Ga.
Loyalty—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
Married in Name Only—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
One Law for Both—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Raffles—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Sins of Ambition—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Souls Redeemed—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
Submarine Eye—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Two Men and a Woman—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Warrior, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Whip, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.

ARIZONA.

Babbling Tongues—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Bargain, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Denver.
Beware of Strangers—Magner Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Birth of Democracy, The—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis.
Christie Comedies—Peerless Film Exchange, Los Angeles, Cal.
Civilization—All Star Feature Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Cold Deck, The—All Star Feature Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Crisis, The—P. Franklin, 107 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World—Clune Film Exchange, Los Angeles, Cal.
Garden of Allah—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—All Star Feature Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Her Fighting Chance—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
I Believe—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Intolerance—All Star Features Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
King-Bee Comedies—All Star Features Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Libertine, The—All Star Features Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Lust of the Ages—Turner & Dahnken, San Francisco, Cal.
Married in Name Only—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Mad Lover, The—All Star Features Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Modern Lorelei, A—M. Philip Hansen, Los Angeles, Cal.
One Law for Both—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Ramona—Eliott Sherman Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Sins of Ambition—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
To-Day—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.—Eliott Sherman Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Two Men and a Woman—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Whither Thou Goest—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Whip, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.

ARKANSAS.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—William Politzer, San Antonio, Texas.
Bargain, The—Screen Favorite Features Co., Dallas, Texas.
Belgian, The—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Beware of Strangers—E. H. Hulsey, Dallas.
Christie Comedies—R. D. Lewis, Campbell Building, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Civilization—Mignon Features, Ardmore, Okla.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Dallas, Texas.
Crisis, The—Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Deemster, The—Liberty Feature Film Co., Shreveport, La.
Garden of Allah—All Star Feature Film Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—William Politzer, San Antonio, Texas.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Human Orchid, The—Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Humility—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
King-Bee Comedies—Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Loyalty—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
Lust of the Ages—Peter C. Crown, Dallas, Texas.
Mother—Grainger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Ramona—Eliott Sherman Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption—Trice Sneed, Dallas.
Souls Redeemed—Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Warrior, The—Grainger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Zeppelin's Last Raid, The—Southern State Film Co., Dallas, Texas.

CALIFORNIA.

Babbling Tongues—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Bargain, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Beware of Strangers—Magner Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Birth of Democracy—M. & R. Film Exchange, San Francisco.
Birth of a Nation—Clune Film Co., Los Angeles, Cal.
Christie Comedies (southern part)—Peerless Film Exchange, Los Angeles, Cal.
Christie Comedies (northern part)—Peerless Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Cold Deck, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Civilization—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Crisis, The—P. Franklin, 107 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World—Clune Film Exchange, Los Angeles, Cal.
Garden of Allah—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
I Believe—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Intolerance—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
King-Bee Comedies—All Star Features Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Libertine, The—All Star Features Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Lust of the Ages—Turner & Dahnken, San Francisco, Cal.
Married in Name Only—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Mad Lover, The—All Star Features Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Modern Lorelei, A—M. Philip Hansen, Los Angeles, Cal.
One Law for Both—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Ramona—Eliott Sherman Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption—All Star Features Corp., San Francisco, Cal.
Sins of Ambition—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
To-Day—All Star Features Corp., San Francisco, Cal.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Two Men and a Woman—M. & R. Feature Film Exchange, San Francisco, Cal.
Whip, The—All Star Features, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Zeppelin's Last Raid, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.

CANADA.

Babbling Tongues—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Bargain, The—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto.
Belgian, The—Superfeatures, Ltd., Toronto.
Beware of Strangers—Famous Players, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Birth of a Nation—Basil Corp., Toronto, Can.
Cold Deck, The—Royal Enterprises, Inc., New York City.
Eyes of the World—A. J. Small Theaters, Ltd., Toronto.
Garden of Allah—Famous Players, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
God's Man—Perkin's Electric Co., Montreal.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
I Believe—Superfeatures, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Intolerance—Basil Corp., Toronto, Can.
Libertine, The—Regal Film, Ltd., Toronto.
Lust of the Ages—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto.
Married in Name Only—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Can.

One Law for Both—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Parentage—Famous Players, Ltd., Toronto.
Public Defender, The—Independent Film & Supply Co., Montreal.
Ramona—A. J. Small Theaters, Ltd., Toronto.
Sins of Ambition—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Those Who Pay—Superfeatures, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Jules Verne's 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Two Men and a Woman—Regal Films, Ltd., Toronto, Can.
Zeppelin's Last Raid, The—Superfeatures, Ltd., Toronto.

COLORADO

Bandit and the Preacher, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Bargain, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Beware of Strangers—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis.
Christie Comedies—Consolidated Feature Film Co., Denver.
Civilization—Mid-West Civilization Co., Denver, Colo.
Cold Deck, The—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World, The—Deseret Film Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Denver, Colo.
I Believe—Deseret Film Co, Salt Lake City.
Libertine, The—Supreme Photoplays Corp., Denver, Colo.
Lust of the Ages—Ogden Film Co. Exchange, Ogden, Utah.
Ramona—Eliott Sherman Corp., Mineapolis.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Exchange, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Denver, Colo.
Warrior, The—Midwest Civilization Co., Denver, Colo.
Whip, The—Supreme Photoplay Co., Denver.
Whither Thou Goest—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver.

DELAWARE.

Babbling Tongues—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Tom Moore, Washington, D. C.
Bargain, The—Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.
Beware of Strangers—Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Christie Comedies—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Civilization—Fontana Productions, Inc., New York City.
Cold Deck, The—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Crisis, The—Masterpiece Film Attraction, Philadelphia, Pa.
Deemster, The—Masterpiece Film Attraction, Philadelphia, Pa.
Garden of Allah—Hy-Arts Masterplays Co., Washington, D. C.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Tom Moore, Washington, D. C.
Humility—Super Film Attraction, Washington, D. C.
I Believe—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington.
Land of the Rising Sun—Peerless Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
King Bee Comedies—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Loyalty—Super Film Attraction, Washington,
Lust of the Ages—Manuel Lazowick, 239 S. 3d St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Married in Name Only—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
One Law for Both—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Parentage—Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C.
Persuasive Peggy—Peerless Feature Film Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Redemption — Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Sins of Ambition—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Things People Should Know—Philadelphia-Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia Pa.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Peerless Film Exchange., Philadelphia, Pa.
Two Men and a Woman—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Warrior, The—Manuel Lazowick, Philadelphia, Pa.
Whip, The—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington.
Zeppelin's Last Raid, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

(Identical for Maryland)

Babbling Tongues—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Tom Moore, Washington, D. C.
Bargain, The—Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Beware of Strangers—Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Christie Comedies—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Civilization—Fontana Productions, Inc., New York City.
Cold Deck, The—Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Crisis, The—Masterpiece Film Attraction, Philadelphia, Pa.
Deemster, The—Masterpiece Film Attraction, Philadelphia, Pa.
Garden of Allah—Hy Art Masterplays Co., Washington, D. C.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Tom Moore, Washington, D. C.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Humility—Super Film Attraction, Washington, D. C.
I Believe—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
King-Bee Comedies—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Land of the Rising Sun—Peerless Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Loyalty—Super Film Attraction, Washington.
Lust of the Ages—Manuel Lazowick, 239 S. 3d St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Married in Name Only—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
One Law for Both—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Parentage—Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C.
Peg o' the Sea—America Photoplay Co., Philadelphia.
Persuasive Peggy—Peerless Feature Film Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Redemption — Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Sins of Ambition—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Things People Should Know—Philadelphia-Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Two Men and a Woman—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Warrior, The—Manuel Lazowick, Philadelphia.
Whip, The—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington.
Zeppelin's Last Raid, The—Foursquare Exchange, Washington, D. C.

FLORIDA.

Babbling Tongues—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Bargain, The—Jake Wells, Richmond, Va.
Belgian, The—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Civilization—All Star Features, Inc., Jacksonville, Fla.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Atlanta, Go.
Crisis, The—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Deemster, The—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Garden of Allah—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
King-Bee Comedies—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Married in Name Only—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
One Law for Both—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Raffles—Special Feature Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Sins of Ambition—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Souls Redeemed—All Star Features Corp., Jacksonville, Fla.
Submarine Eye—E. & H. Sothern Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Twenty Thousand League Under the Sea—Consoldated Film Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Two Men and a Woman—E. H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Warrior, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Whip, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.

GEORGIA.

Babbling Tongues—E. &. H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Bargain, The—Jake Wells, Richmond, Va.
Belgian, The—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Civilization—All Star Features, Inc., Jacksonville, Fla.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.,
Crisis, The—Big Feature Rights, Louisville.
Deemster, The—All Star Fetures Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Garden of Allah—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man, J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
King-Bee Comedies—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Married in Name Only—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
One Law for Both—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Raffles—Special Features Co., Knoxville.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Sins of Ambition—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Souls Redeemed—All Star Features Corp., Jacksonville, Fla.
Submarine Eye—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Twenty Thousand League Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Two Men and a Woman—E. H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Warrior, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Whip, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.

IDAHO.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Bargain, The—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Beware of Strangers—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Greater Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Civilization—Western Civilization Co., Seattle,
Cold Deck, The—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corp, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World, The—Deseret Film Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Garden of Allah—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
I Believe—Deseret Film Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Intolerance—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle.
King-Bee Comedies—De Luxe Features Corp., Seattle, Wash.
Land of the Rising Sun—D. M. Palley Features, Seattle, Wash.
Lust of the Ages—Western Civilization Co., Seattle Wash.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Modern Lorelei, A—M. Philip Hansen, Los Angeles, Cal.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Parentage—L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, Seattle, Wash.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Ramona—Eliott Sherman Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Universal Film Exchange, Portland, Ore.
Warrior, The—Jordan Brewster Film Corp., Seattle, Wash.
Whip, The—De Luxe Features Corp., Seattle, Wash.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Zeppelin's Last Raid, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.

ILLINOIS.

Babbling Tongues—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Beware of Strangers—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Christie Comedies—Celebrated Players Film Service, Chicago, Ill.
Civilization—Harper Film Corp., Times Bldg., Chicago, Ill. (Chicago Loop Section only), Amalgamated Theaters, Chicago, Ill.
Cold Deck, The—Doll-Van Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Crisis, The—Jones, Linick & Schaeffer, Chicago, Ill.
Deemster, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Eyes of the World, The—Spence C. Rogers, Chicago, Ill.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Frozen Warning, The—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corp., Chicago.
God's Man—Sam'l Van Ronkel, Chicago, Ill.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Humility—Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
I Believe—Unity Photoplay Co., Chicago, Ill.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Libertine, The—Unity Photoplays Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Loyalty—Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Lust of the Ages—Griever & Herz, Chicago
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Mad Lover, The—Doll-Van Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Married in Name Only—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Mother—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
One Law for Both—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Redemption—Jones, Linick & Schaeffer, Chicago, Ill.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Sins of Ambition—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Souls Redeemed—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Submarine Eye—Central Film Co., Chicago.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Today—Doll-van Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Trooper 44—Greiver & Herz, Chicago, Ill.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Two Men and a Woman—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Warrior, The—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Whither Thou Goest—Griever & Herz, Chicago.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

INDIANA.

Babbling Tongnes—V. H. Hodupp, Indianapolis, Ind.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Beware of Strangers—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Christie Comedies—Celebrated Players Film Service, Chicago.
Cold Deck, The—Doll-Van Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Crisis, The—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Deemster, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Garden of Allah—First National Exhibitors Circuit, Indianapolis, Ind.
God's Man—Samuel Van Ronkel, Chicago, Ill.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Humility—Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
I Believe—Unity Photoplays Corp., Chicago,
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Chicago, Ill.
Land of the Rising Sun—First National Exhibitors Circuit, Indianapolis, Ind.
Libertine, The—Unity Photoplays Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Loyalty—Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago,
Lust of the Ages—Griever & Herz, Chicago,
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Mad Lover, The—Doll-Van Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Married in Name Only—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Mother—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
One Law for Both—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Redemption—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Sins of Ambition—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Submarine Eye—H. J. Garfield, Columbia Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Today—Doll-Van Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Two Men and a Woman—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Whip, The—H. Lieber Co., Indianapolis, Ind.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

IOWA.

Babbling Tongues—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Iowa.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corp., Omaha, Neb.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corp., Omaha,
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Beware of Strangers—Yale Film Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis,
Christie Comedies—Standard Film Corp., Omaha, Neb.
Civilization—Supreme Feature Film Corp., No. Minneapolis, Minn.
Cold Deck, The—Midwest Photoplay Corp., Des Moines, Iowa.
Deemster, The—Midwest Photoplay Corp., Des Moines, Iowa.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corp., Chicago,
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corp., Omaha, Neb.
Humility—Fontanelle Feature Film Co., Omaha, Neb.
Intolerance—Westcott Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service, Omaha, Neb.
Land of the Rising Sun—Yale Photoplay Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Loyalty—Fontanelle Feature Film Co., Omaha,
Lust of the Ages—Griever & Herz, Chicago,
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Married in Name Only—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Iowa.
Mother—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
One Law for Both—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Iowa.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Sins of Ambition—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Iowa.
Submarine Eye—Mid-West Photoplay Corp., Kansas City, Mo.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Two Men and a Woman—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Iowa.
Warrior, The—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The—A. D. Flinton, Kansas City, Mo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS.

Babbling Tongues—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corp., Kansas City, Mo.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corp., Kansas City, Mo.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Beware of Strangers—Yale Film Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis,
Christie Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Civilization—Mignon Features, Ardmore, Okla.
Cold Deck, The—A H. Blank, Des Moines.
Deemster, The—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corp., Chicago.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corp., Kansas City, Mo.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Humility—Fontanelle Feature Film Co., Omaha, Neb.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Land of the Rising Sun—Yale Photoplay Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Loyalty—Fontanelle Feature Film Co., Omaha,
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Married in Name Only—V. H. Hodupp, St. Louis, Mo.
Mother—Grainger Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Kan.
One Law for Both—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., St Louis, Mo.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Sins of Ambition—Allen Film Corp., Chicago,
Submarine Eye—Mid-West Photoplay Corp., Kansas City, Mo.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Trooper 44—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Universal Film Exchange, St. Louis, Mo.
Two Men and a Woman—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Warrior, The—Grainger Film Corp., Chicago,
Whip, The—A. D. Flintom, Kansas City, Mo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Kansas City, Mo.

KENTUCKY.

Babbling Tongues—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Peerless Photoplays Co., Omaha, Neb.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Christie Comedies—Standard Film Service, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Civilization—A. G. Fontana Productions, 1476 Broadway, New York.
Cold Deck, The—Doll-Van Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Crisis, The—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Deemster, The—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Garden of Allah—Robert Lieber, Indianapolis,
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Peerless Photoplays Co., Omaho, Neb.
King-Bee Comedies—Central Film Service, Indianapolis, Ind.
Land of the Rising Sun—Robert Liever, Indianapolis, Ind.
Lust of the Ages—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Cleveland, Ohio.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Mad Lover, The—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Married in Name Only—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
One Law for Both—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Sins of Ambition—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Submarine Eye—H. J. Garfield, Columbia Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Today—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville,
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Central Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Two Men and a Woman—Big Feature Rights Corp., Louisville, Ky.
Whip, The—H. Lieber Co., Indianapolis, Ind
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.

LOUISIANA.

Babbling Tongues—True Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
Belgian, The—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
Beware of Strangers—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Tex.

Civilization—All Star Features Corp., Jacksonville, Fla.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, New Orleans, La.
Crisis, The—A. B. Cook, Jackson, Miss.
Deemster, The—Liberty Feature Film Co., Shreveport, La.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Tex.
Garden of Allah—All Star Feature Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas, Tex.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Tex.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
Human Orchid—Southwestern Art Dramas, Dallas, Tex.
Humility — Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
King-Bee Comedies—Bugbee Special Feature Attractions, New Orleans, La.
Loyalty—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
Lust of the Ages—Peter C. Crown, Dallas, Tex.
Madame Sherry—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
Married in Name Only—True Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
One Hour—Foursquare Film Exchange, Dallas, Tex.
One Law for Both—True Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Tex.
Sins of Ambition—True Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
Souls Redeemed—Pearce & Son, New Orleans, La.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Exchange, Dallas, Tex.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Two Men and a Woman—True Film Co., Dallas, Tex.
Whip, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Exchange, Dallas, Tex.

MAINE.

(See under New England)

MARYLAND.

(See under District of Columbia)

MASSACHUSETTS.

(See under New England)

MICHIGAN.

Babbling Tongues—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Peerless Photoplays Co., Omaha, Neb.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Detroit, Mich.
Beware of Strangers—Strand Features, Detroit, Mich.
Christie Comedies—Standard Film Service Corp., Detroit, Mich.
Civilization—W. S. Butterfield, Detroit, Mich.
Cold Deck, The—H. I. Garson Productions, Detroit, Mich.
Crisis, The—Casino Feature Film Co., Detroit, Mich.
Deemster, The—State Film Co., Detroit, Mich.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Peerless Photoplays Co., Omaha, Neb.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Detroit, Mich.
I Believe—Dawn Masterplays Co., Detroit.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Detroit, Mich.
Libertine, The—State Film Co., Detroit, Mich.
Lust of the Ages—John H. Kunsky, Detroit, Mich.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Detroit, Mich.
Married in Name Only—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Mother—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Detroit, Mich.
One Law for Both—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Persuasive Peggy—Dawn Masterplays Co., Detroit, Mich.
Raffles — Dawn Masterplays Co., Detroit, Mich.
Redemption—Dawn Masterplays Co., Detroit, Mich.
Should She Obey—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Detroit, Mich.
Sins of Ambition—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Souls Redeemed—Tri-State Film Exchange, Detroit, Mich.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Detroit, Mich.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Bert Barnett, Cleveland, Ohio.
Two Men and a Woman—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Warrior, The—Allen Film Corp., Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The—Dawn Masterplays Co., Detroit, Mich.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Detroit, Mich.

MINNESOTA.

Babbling Tongues—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Beware of Strangers—Thos. Saxe Enterprises, Milwaukee, Wis.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—The Film Library & Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Civilization—Supreme Feature Film Co., No. Minneapolis, Minn.
Cold Deck, The—Barnett Film Attractions, Minneapolis, Minn.
Crisis, The—Sherman Elliott Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Deemster, The—American Maid Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Garden of Allah—Sherman Eliott Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
Her Fighting Chance—M H Hoffman, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
I Believe—American Maid Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Intolerance—Westcott Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service, Minneapolis, Minn.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Mad Lover, The—Supreme Feature Film Co., Minenapolis, Minn.
Married in Name Only—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Mother—Westcott Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
One Law for Both—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Ramona—Sherman Eliott Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Sins of Ambition—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Today—Supreme Feature Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Jas. V. Bryson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Two Men and a Woman—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Whip, The—Friedman Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.

MISSISSIPPI.

Babbling Tongues—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Dallas, Texas.
Bargain, The—Jake Wells, Richmond, Va.
Belgian, The—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Civilization—All Star Features, Jacksonville, Fla.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, New Orleans, La.
Crisis, The—A. B. Cook, Jackson, Miss.
Deemster, The—All Star Features, Inc., Jacksonville, Fla.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Garden of Allah, The—All Star Features, Inc., Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas, Texas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Humility—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
King-Bee Comedies—Bug Bee Special Feature Attractions, New Orleans, La.
Loyalty—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Married in Name Only—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Dallas, Texas.
One Hour — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
One Law for Both—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Dallas, Texas.
Should She Obey? — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Sins of Ambition—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Dallas, Texas.
Souls Redeemed—All Star Features Corporation, Jacksonville, Fla.
Submarine Eye—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Two Men and a Woman—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Dallas, Texas.
Whip, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., New Orleans, La.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.

MISSOURI.

Babbling Tongues—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Beware of Strangers—Grand Central Film Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Christie Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Civilization—Mignon Features, Ardmore, Okla.
Cold Deck, The—A. H. Blank, Des Moines, Ia.
Crisis, The—New Grand Central Theater Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Deemster, The—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Humility — Fontanelle Feature Film Co., Omaha, Neb.
I Believe—John L. Sweeney, care Central Theater, St. Louis, Mo.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Land of the Rising Sun—D. M. Palley Features, Seattle, Wash.
Loyalty—Fontanelle Feature Film Co., Omaha, Neb.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Married in Name Only—V. H. Hodupp, St. Louis, Mo.
Mother—Greinger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
One Law for Both—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Sins of Ambition—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Souls Redeemed—Mid-West Photoplay Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Trooper 44—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Universal Film Exchange, St. Louis, Mo.
Two Men and a Woman—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Warrior, The—Grainger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The—A. D. Flintom, Kansas City, Mo.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., St. Louis, Mo.

MONTANA.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Bargain, The—De Luxe Feature, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Beware of Strangers—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Film Library & Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Cold Deck, The—De Luxe Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Garden of Allah—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Intolerance—De Luxe Features, Seattle, Wash.

King-Bee Comedies—De Luxe Features Co., Seattle, Wash.
Land of the Rising Sun—D. M. Palley Features, Seattle, Wash.
Lust of the Ages—Western Civilization Co., Seattle, Wash.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Modern Lorelei, A—M. Philip Hansen, Los Angeles, Cal.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Parentage—L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, Seattle, Wash.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Ramona—Elliott Sherman Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption—De Luxe Features Co., Seattle, Wash.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—James V. Bryson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Whip, The—De Luxe Features Co., Seattle, Wash.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.

NEBRASKA.

Babbling Tongues—Quality Feature Co., Sioux City, Ia.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corporation, Omaha, Neb.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corporation, Omaha, Neb.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Beware of Strangers—Yale Film Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Standard Film Corporation, Omaha, Neb.
Cold Deck, The—A. H. Blank, Des Moines, Ia.
Deemster, The—A. H. Blank, Des Moines, Ia.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corporation, Omaha, Neb.
Humility — Fontenelle Feature Film Co., Omaha, Neb.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Omaha, Neb.
Loyalty—Fontenelle Feature Film Co., Omaha, Neb.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Married in Name Only—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Ia.
Mother—Allen Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
One Law for Both—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Ia.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Sins of Ambition—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Ia.
Submarine Eye—Mid-West Photoplay Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Universal Film Exchange, St. Louis, Mo.
Two Men and a Woman—Quality Feature Film Co., Sioux City, Ia.
Warrior, The—Allen Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The—A. D. Flintom, Kansas City, Mo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.

NEVADA.

Babbling Tongues—M. & R. Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Bargain, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Beware of Strangers—Magner Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Peerless Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Civilization—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Cold Deck, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Crisis, The—P. Franklin, 107 Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco, Cal.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World, The—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Garden of Allah—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, San Francisco, Cal.
I Believe, Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City.
Intolerance—All Star Feature Film Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
King-Bee Comedies—All Star Feature Film Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Libertine, The—All Star Feature Film Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.
Lust of the Ages—Turner & Dahnken, San Francisco, Cal.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Mad Lover, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Married in Name Only—M. & R. Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Modern Lorelei, A—M. Philip Hansen, Los Angeles, Cal.
One Hour—Foursquare Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
One Law for Both—M. & R. Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Shorty Hamilton Series—N. Gordon, Boston.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
Sins of Ambition—M. & R. Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.
To-Day—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Two Men and a Woman—M. & R. Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Whip, The—All Star Feature Film Co., San Francisco, Cal.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, San Francisco, Cal.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., San Francisco, Cal.

NEW ENGLAND.

(Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.)

Babbling Tongues—Eastern Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Belgian, The—Globe Feature Film Co., Boston Mass.
Beware of Strangers—Metro Pictures Corp., Boston, Mass.
Birth of a Nation—A. M. Greenblatt, Boston.
Christie Comedies—Boston Photoplay Co., Boston, Mass.
Cold Deck, The—American Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Crisis, The—A. Rose, 330 Old South Bldg., Boston, Mass.
Deemster, The—American Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Boston, Mass.
Garden of Allah—R. D. Mason, Inc., Boston, Mass.
God's Man—Globe Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Boston, Mass.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Boston, Mass.
Human Orchid, The—Globe Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Humility—Boston Photoplay Co., Boston, Mass.
King-Bee Comedies—Globe Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Land of the Rising Sun—Hub Pictures Corp., Boston, Mass.
Loyalty—Boston Photoplay Co., Boston, Mass.
Lust of the Ages—Globe Feature Corp., Boston, Mass.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Boston, Mass.
Married in Name Only—Eastern Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Modern Lorelei, A—Grandun Film Co., Boston, Mass.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Boston, Mass.
One Law for Both—Eastern Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Parentage—United Film Service, Boston, Mass.
Persuasive Peggy—R. D. Marson, Inc., Boston,
Public Defender, The—Boston Photoplay Co., Boston, Mass.
Redemption—Paramount Film Exchange, Boston, Mass.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Boston, Mass.
Sins of Ambition—Eastern Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Souls Redeemed—Globe Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Those Who Pay—Globe Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Trooper 44—Globe Feature Film Co., Boston.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Boston Photoplay Co., Boston, Mass.
Two Men and a Woman—Eastern Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Warrior, The—Eastern Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Weavers of Life—N. H. Gordon Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Whip, The—American Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Globe Feature Film Co., Boston, Mass.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

(See under New England.)

NEW JERSEY.

Babbling Tongues (Northern Part)—Mammoth Film Corporation, New York City.
Babbling Tongues (Southern Part)—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York.
Beware of Strangers (Northern Part)—J. Frank Hatch, Newark, N. J.
Christie Comedies—Reiben Film Co., N. Y.
Civilization—Civilization Film Co., Newark.
Cold Deck, The (Southern Part)—Security Real Estate Investment Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Cold Deck, The (Northern Part)—Civilization Film Corporation, Newark, N. J.
Crisis, The—Adler, Faulker & Schaeffer, Newark, N. J.
Deemster, The—Dreadnought Pictures, Inc., New York City.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York.
Garden of Allah—Civilization Film Corporation, Newark, N. J.
God's Man (Northern Part)—Dreadnought Pictures, Inc., New York City.
God's Man (Southern Part)—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York.
Her Fighting Chance—A. L. Messer, Newark.
Human Orchid, The (Northern Part)—Pioneer Civilization Co., New York City.
Human Orchid, The (Southern Part)—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia, Pa.
Humility (Southern Part)—Philadelphia Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Humility (Northern Part)—Modern Feature Photoplays, New York City.
I Believe—Frank Gersten, Inc., New York.
King-Bee Comedies—Pioneer Film Co., New York.
Land of the Rising Sun, The (Northern Part)—Pioneer Film Corporation, New York City.
Land of the Rising Sun, The (Southern Part)—Peerless Film Exchange, New York City.
Libertine, The—Mammoth Film Co., New York.
Loyalty (Northern Part)—Modern Feature Photoplays, New York City.
Loyalty (Southern Part)—Philadelphia Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Lust of the Ages—Manuel Lazowick, 239 S. 3d street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York.
Married in Name Only (Northern Part)—Mammoth Film Corporation, New York City.
Married in Name Only (Southern Part)—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Modern Lorelei, A—Civilization Film Corporation, Newark, N. J.
Mother—Martin Wohlfarth, Lakewood, N. J.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York.
One Law for Both (Northern Part)—Mammoth Film Corporation, New York City.
One Law for Both (Southern Part)—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Parentage (Northern Part)—Frank Gersten, Inc., New York City.
Parentage (Southern Part)—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Persuasive Peggy—Civilization Feature Film Co., Newark, N. J.
Public Defender, The—Stanley Booking Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.
Redemption (Northern Part)—Pioneer Film Corporation, New York.
Redemption (Southern Part)—Stanley Booking Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.
Shame—Pioneer Film Corp., New York.
Should She Obey?—
Sins of Ambition (Northern Part)—Mammoth Film Corporation, New York City.
Sins of Ambition (Southern Part)—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Souls Redeemed—Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Things People Should Know—Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York.
Trooper 44 (Northern Part)—Warner Bros., New York City.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Two Men and a Woman (Northern Part)—

Mammoth Film Corporation, New York City.
Two Men and a Woman (Southern Part)—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Warrior, The—Civilization Film Corporation, Newark, N. J.
Whip, The—J. Frank Hatch, Newark, N. J.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York.

NEW MEXICO.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Bargain, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Beware of Strangers—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Consolidated Feature Film Co., Denver, Colo.
Civilization—Mid-West Civilization Co., Denver, Colo.
Cold Deck, The—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Deemster, The—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Eyes of the World—Clune Film Exchange, Los Angeles, Cal.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Her Fighting Chance—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
I Believe—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Libertine, The—Supreme Photoplays Corporation, Denver, Colo.
Lust of the Ages—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott, Minneapolis, Minn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Denver, Colo.
Warrior, The—Mid-West Civilization Co., Denver, Colo.
Whip, The—Supreme Photoplay Corporation, Denver, Colo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.

NEW YORK.

Babbling Tongues (State, Except New York City)—Super Film Attractions Co., Syracuse, N. Y.
Babbling Tongues (Greater New York City only)—Merit Film Corporation, New York City.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.
Beware of Strangers—Metro Film Service, New York City.
Christie Comedies—Reiben Film Exchange, New York City.
Cold Deck, The—Pioneer Film Corporation, New York City.
Crisis, The—Nathan Gros, 145 West 45th street, New York City.
Deemster, The—L. J. Selznick Productions Inc., New York City.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.
Garden of Allah—Pioneer Film Corporation, New York City.
God's Man—Harry Samwick, New York City.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., New York City.
Human Orchid, The (New York City only)—Pioneer Civilization Co., New York City.
Humility—Modern Feature Photoplays, New York City.
King-Bee Comedies—Bee-Hive Film Exchange, New York City.
Land of the Living Sun, The—Pioneer Film Corporation, New York City.
Libertine, The—Mammoth Film Corporation, New York City.
Loyalty—Modern Feature Photoplays, New York City.
Lust of the Ages—Harry Samwick, 729 Seventh avenue, New York City.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.
Married in Name Only (State, Except New York City)—Super Film Attractions Co., Syracuse, N. Y.
Modern Lorelei, A (Greater New York City only)—Merit Film Corporation, New York City.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.
One Law for Both (State, Except New York City)—Super Film Attractions Co., Syracuse, N. Y.
Parentage (State, Except New York City)—Veribest Pictures, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.
Parentage (New York City only)—Select Pictures Corporation, New York City.
Persuasive Peggy—Mammoth Film Corporation, New York City.
Public Defender, The—Modern Feature Photoplays, Inc., New York City.
Redemption—Pioneer Feature Film Co., New York City.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.
Sins of Ambition (Greater New York City only)—Merit Film Corporation, New York City.
Souls Redeemed—Elk Photoplays Co., New York.
Submarine Eye—Pioneer Feature Film Co., New York City.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.
To-Day—Pioneer Feature Film Co., New York City.
Trooper 44—Warner Bros., New York City.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—L. J. Selznick Productions, Inc., New York City.
Two Men and a Woman (State, Except New York City)—Super Film Attractions Co., Syracuse, N. Y.
Warrior, The—Metro Film Service, New York City.
Whip, The—Marcus Loew, Inc., New York City.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., New York City.

NORTH DAKOTA.

(See Also South Dakota.)

Babbling Tongues—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Bargain, The—Standard Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Standard Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Beware of Strangers—Thomas Saxe Enterprises, Milwaukee, Wis.
Birth of a Nation, The—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Film Library and Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Civilization—Supreme Feature Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Cold Deck, The—Barnett Film Attractions, Minneapolis, Minn.
Crisis, The—Sherman Elliott Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Deemster, The—American Maid Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Garden of Allah—Sherman Elliott Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Standard Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
I Believe—American Maid Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Intolerance—Westcott Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Mad Lover, The—Supreme Feature Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Married in Name Only—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Mother—Westcott Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
One Hour—Foursquare Film Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
One Law for Both—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
Sins of Ambition—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
To-Day—Supreme Feature Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—J. V. Bryson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Two Men and a Woman—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Warrior, The—Westcott Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Whip, The—Friedman Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Babbling Tongues—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Bargain, The—Exhibitors Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Christie Comedies—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Cold Deck, The—Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C.
Deemster, The—All-Star Features Company, Jacksonville, Fla.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Garden of Allah, The—Hy Art Masterplays Co., Washington, D. C.
God's Man—J. A. Cressy Interests, Dallas, Texas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Humility—Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C.
I Believe—Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C.
King-Bee Comedies—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Loyalty—Super Film Attractions, Washington.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Married in Name Only—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
One Law for Both—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Redemption—Exhibitors' Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Should She Obey—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Sins of Ambition—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Souls Redeemed—All-Star Features Corp., Jacksonville, Fla.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Two Men and a Woman—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Warrior, The—Civilization Film Corp., Newark, N. J.
Whip, The—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.

OHIO.

Babbling Tongues—Ivan Film Distr. Company, Cleveland, Ohio.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Masterpiece Film Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Bargain, The—Masterpiece Film Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Beware of Strangers—Masterpiece Film Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Christie Comedies—Standard Film Service Co., Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio.
Civilization—A. G. Fontana Productions, New York City.
Cold Deck, The—Masterpiece Film Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Crisis, The—Masterpiece Film Corporation, Cleveland, Ohio.
Deemster, The—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Garden of Allah—Masterpiece Film Company, Cleveland, Ohio.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Masterpiece Film Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service, Cleveland, Ohio.
Libertine, The—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Cleveland, Ohio.
Lust of the Ages—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Cleveland, Ohio.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.
Mad Lover, The—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Married in Name Only—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Mother—Allen Film Corporation, Chicago.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.
One Law for Both—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Peg o' the Sea—Standard Film Service, Cleveland.
Persuasive Peggy—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Redemption—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Cleveland, Ohio.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Sins of Ambition—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Souls Redeemed—Tri-State Film Exchange, Detroit, Mich.
Submarine Eye—H. J. Garfield, Columbia Building, Cleveland, Ohio.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio.
To-Day—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Bert Barnett, Cleveland, Ohio.
Two Men and a Woman—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Warrior, The—Ohio Ivan Film Distributing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
Whip, The—J. Frank Hatch, Newark, N. J.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Cleveland, Ohio.

OKLAHOMA.

Babbling Tongues—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—William Politzer, San Antonio, Texas.
Bargain, The—Favorite Features Co., Brownsville, Texas.
Belgian, The — Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Beware of Strangers—Yale Film Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Christie Comedies—R. D. Lewis, Campbell Building, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Civilization—Mignon Features, Ardmore, Okla.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Dallas, Texas.
Crisis, The—Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Deemster, The—Liberty Feature Film Co., Shreveport, La.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas Texas.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas, Texas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—William Politzer, San Antonio, Texas.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Human Orchid, The — Southerwestern Art Dramas, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
King-Bee Comedies—Southwestern Film Co., New Orleans, La.
Land of the Rising Sun—Yale Film Co., Shreveport, La.
Lust of the Ages—Peter C. Crown, Dallas, Texas.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Married in Name Only—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Mother—Grainger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
One Law for Both—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption—Trice Sneed, Dallas, Texas.
Should She Obey? — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Sins of Ambition—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Two Men and a Woman—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Warrior, The—Grainger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The — Yale Photoplay Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.

OREGON.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—De Luxe Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Bargain, The—De Luxe Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Greater Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Civilization—Western Civilization Co., Seattle, Wash.
Cold Deck, The—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World—George E. Hale, Seattle, Wash.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Garden of Allah—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—De Luxe Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Her Fighting Chance—Foursquare Film Exchange, Seattle, Wash.
I Believe—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Intolerance—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
King-Bee Comedies—De Luxe Features Co., Seattle, Wash.
Land of the Rising Sun—D. M. Palley Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Modern Lorelei, A — Philip Hansen, Los Angeles, Cal.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Parentage—L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, Seattle, Wash.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Ramona—Elliott Sherman Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption — De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Universal Film Exchange, Portland, Ore.
Warrior, The—Jordan Brewster Film Corporation, Seattle, Wash.
Whip, The—De Luxe Features Corporation, Seattle, Wash.
Whither Thou Goest—Foursquare Film Exchange, Seattle, Wash.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Babbling Tongues (Western Part)—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Belgian, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Pa.
Christie Comedies (Western Part)—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Christie Comedies (Eastern Part)—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Civilization—A. G. Fontana Productions, New York.
Cold Deck, The (Eastern Part)—Security Real Estate Investment Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Cold Deck, The (Western Part)—Supreme Photoplay Productions, Tyrone, Pa.
Crisis, The—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia, Pa.
Deemster, The (Western Part)—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Deemster, The (Eastern Part)—Peerless Feature Film Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Pa.
Garden of Allah (Eastern Part)—A. G. Fontana Productions, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
God's Man (Western Part)—George C. Wilson, Tyrone, Pa.
God's Man (Eastern Part)—Peerless Film Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.
Great White Trail, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.
Her Fighting Chance (Eastern Part)—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Pa.
Human Orchid, The (Eastern Part)—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia, Pa.
Humility (Eastern Part)—Philadelphia Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
King-Bee Comedies (Western Part)—Quality Film Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
King-Bee Comedies (Eastern Part)—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia, Pa.
Land of the Rising Sun, The (Eastern Part)—Peerless Film Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.
Loyalty (Eastern Part)—Philadelphia Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Lust of the Ages—Manuel Lazowick, 239 S. 3d street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, Pa.
Mad Lover, The (Western Part)—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Married in Name Only (Western Part)—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Married in Name Only (Eastern Part)—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Modern Lorelei, A (Eastern Part)—Theis Producing Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Mother (Western Part—First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Pittsburgh, Pa.
One Law for Both (Eastern Part)—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
One Law for Both (Western Part)—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Pa.
Parentage (Eastern Part) — Peerless Film Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.
Persuasive Peggy (Western Part)—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa .
Persuasive Peggy (Eastern Part)—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Public Defender (Eastern Part) — Stanley Booking Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.
Redemption (Eastern Part)—Stanley Booking Corporation, Philadelphia, Pa.
Redemption (Western Part)—Supreme Photoplay Corporation, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, Pa.
Sins of Ambition (Western Part)—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Souls Redeemed (Eastern Part)—Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Things People Should Know (Eastern Part)—Ideal Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, Pa.
To-Day (Western Part)—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea (Eastern Part)—Peerless Feature Film Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Two Men and a Woman (Western Part)—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Warrior, The (Western Part)—First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Warrior, The (Eastern Part)—Manual Lazowick, Philadelphia, Pa.
Whip, The—J. Frank Hatch Film Co., Newark, N. J.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, Pa.

RHODE ISLAND.

(See New England.)

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Babbling Tongues—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Bargain, The—Jake Wells, Richmond, Ga.
Belgian, The—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Civilization—All Star Features, Jacksonville, Fla.
Crisis, The—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Deemster, The—All Star Features Company, Jacksonville, Fla.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Garden of Allah—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas, Texas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
King-Bee Comedies—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Married in Name Only—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
One Hour — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
One Law for Both—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Sins of Ambition—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Souls Redeemed—All Star Features Corporation, Jacksonville, Fla.
Submarine Eye—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Those Who Pay—Southern Feature Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Two Men and a Woman—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Warrior, The—Eltabran Film Co., Charlotte, N. C.
Whip, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern Feature Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

(See North Dakota.)

TENNESSEE.

Babbling Tongues—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Bargain, The—Jake Wells, Richmond, Va.
Belgian, The — Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Crisis, The—A. B. Cook, Jackson, Miss.
Deemster, The—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Garden of Allah—All Star Features, Jacksonville, Fla.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas, Texas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Humility—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
King-Bee Comedies—Boehringer Amusement Co., New Orleans, La.
Land of the Rising Sun—H. Lieber Co., Indianapolis, Ind.
Loyalty—Kaufman Specials, Memphis, Tenn.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Mad Lover, The—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Married in Name Only—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
One Hour — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
One Law for Both—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Raffles—Special Features Corporation, Knoxville, Tenn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.

Sins of Ambition—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Souls Redeemed—All Star Features Corporation, Jacksonville, Fla.
Submarine Eye—E. & H. Film Distributing Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.
To-Day — Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea Consolidated Film Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Two Men and a Woman—Big Feature Rights Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
Warrior, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Whip, The—Special Features Co., Knoxville, Tenn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TEXAS.

Babbling Tongues—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Bandit and the Preacher, The — William Politzer, San Antonio, Texas.
Bargain, The—Favorite Features Co., Brownsville, Texas.
Belgian, The — Southern States Film Co., Dalals, Texas.
Beware of Strangers—E. H. Hulsey, Dallas, Texas.
Christie Comedies—R. D. Lewis, Campbell Building, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Civilization—Mignon Features, Ardmore, Okla.
Cold Deck, The—S. A. Lynch Enterprises, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Crisis, The—Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Deemster, The—Liberty Feature Film Co., Shreveport, La.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Garden of Allah—Allen Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
God's Man—J. A. Cressey Interests, Dallas, Texas.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—William Politzer, San Antonio, Texas.
Her Fighting Chance—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Human Orchid, The — Southerwestern Art Dramas, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
King-Bee Comedies—Southern Film Co., New Orleans, La.
Lust of the Ages—Peter C. Crown, Dallas, Texas.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Married in Name Only—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Mother—Grainger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
One Law for Both—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Redemption—Trice Sneed, Dallas, Texas.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Sins of Ambition—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Souls Redeemed—Southwestern Film Corporation, Dallas, Texas.
Those Who Pay—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidated Film Supply Co., Dallas, Texas.
Two Men and a Woman—True Film Co., Dallas, Texas.
Warrior, The—Grainger Film Corporation, Chicago, Ill.
Whip, The — Yale Photoplay Corporation, Texas.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Southern States Film Co., Dallas, Texas.

UTAH.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Bargain, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Beware of Strangers—Consolidated Features Film Co., Denver, Colo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Consolidated Feature Film Co., Denver, Colo.
Civilization—Mid-West Civilization Co., Denver, Colo.
Cold Deck, The—Consolidated Features Film Co., Denver, Colo.
Deemster, The — Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Her Fighting Chance—Foursquare Film Exchange, Denver, Colo.
I Believe—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Libertine, The—Supreme Photoplays Corporation, Denver, Colo.
Lust of the Ages—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Persuasive Peggy — Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Consolidation Film Supply Co., Denver, Colo.
Warrior, The — Mid-West Civilization Co., Denver, Colo.
Whip, The—Supreme Photoplay Corporation, Denver, Colo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.

VERMONT.

(See New England.)

VIRGINIA.

Babbling Tongues—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Tom Moore, Washington, D. C.
Bargain, The — Exhibitors' Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Belgian, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Beware of Strangers—Exhibitors' Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Christie Comedies—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Civilization—All Star Features Co., Jacksonville, Fla.
Cold Deck, The—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Crisis, The — Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia, Pa.
Deemster, The—Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia, Pa.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The — Tom Moore, Washington, D. C.
I Believe—Super Feature Attractions, Washington, D. C.
King-Bee Comedies—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Land of the Rising Sun—Peerless Feature Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Lust of the Ages—Manuel Lazowick, 239 S. 3d street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Married in Name Only — Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
One Law for Both—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Parentage—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Redemption — Exhibitors' Film Exchange, Washington, D. C.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Sins of Ambition—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Souls Redeemed—All Star Features Corporation, Jacksonville, Fla.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Two Men and a Woman—Electric Theater Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.
Whip, The—Sidney B. Lust, Inc., Washington, D. C.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—De Luxe Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Bargain, The—De Luxe Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Belgian, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies—Greater Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Civilization—Western Civilization Co., Seattle, Wash.
Cold Deck, The—De Luxe Features Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Deemster, The — Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World—George E. Hale, Seattle, Wash.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursqare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Garden of Allah—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—De Luxe Features, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Her Fighting Chance—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
I Believe—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Intolerance — De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
King-Bee Comedies—De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Land of the Rising Sun, The—D. M. Palley Features, Seattle, Wash.
Lust of the Ages—Western Civilization Co., Seattle, Wash.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Modern Lorelei, A—Mr. Philip Hansen, Los Angeles, Cal.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Parentage—L. J. Schlaifer Attractions, Seattle, Wash.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Redemption — De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Universal Film Exchange, Portland, Ore.
Warrior, The—Jordan-Brewster Film Corporation, Seattle, Wash.
Whip, The — De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash.
Whither Thou Goest—M. H. Hoffman, Inc., Seattle, Wash.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Seattle, Wash.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Belgian, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Beware of Strangers—Metro Film Exchange, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Christie Comedies—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Civilization—A. G. Fontana Productions, Inc., New York.
Crisis, The — Masterpiece Film Attractions, Philadelphia, Pa.
Deemster, The—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Garden of Allah—A. G. Fontana Productions, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
God's Man—George C. Wilson, Tyrone, Pa.
Great White Trail, The — Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Humility—Super Film Attractions, Washington, D. C.
King-Bee Comedies—Quality Film Co., Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Loyalty—Super Fine Attractions, Washington, D. C.
Lust of the Ages—Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Mad Lover, The—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Mother—First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Pittsburgh, Pa.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Persuasive Peggy—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Redemption—Supreme Photoplay Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.
To-Day—H. P. Wolfberg Attractions, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—Peerless Film Exchange, Philadelphia, Pa.
Warrior, The—First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Whip, The—J. Frank Hatch Film Co., Newark, N. J.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

WISCONSIN.

Babbling Tongues (Northern Part)—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Bandit and the Preacher, The—Wisconsin Film Corporation, Milwaukee, Wis.
Bargain, The—Wisconsin Film Corporation, Milwaukee, Wis.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Beware of Strangers—Thomas Saxe Enterprises, Milwaukee, Wis.
Birth of a Nation—Wisconsin Film Corporation, Milwaukee, Wis.
Christie Comedies—Film Library & Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.
Cold Deck, The—Barnett Film Attractions, Minneapolis, Minn.
Crisis, The—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Deemster, The—Standard Film Service, Chicago, Ill.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Garden of Allah—Sherman Elliott Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
God's Man—Samuel Van Ronkel, Chicago, Ill.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Wisconsin Film Corp., Milwaukee, Wis.
Humility—Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Intolerance—Westcott Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
King-Bee Comedies—Standard Film Service, Co., Chicago, Ill.
Loyalty—Celebrated Players Film Co., Chicago, Ill.
Lust of the Ages—Griever & Herz, Chicago, Illinois.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Mad Lover, The—Supreme Feature Film Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Married in Name Only—(Southern Part)—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Married in Name Only—(Northern Part)—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Mother—Westcott Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
One Hour—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
One Law for Both—(Northern Part)—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
One Law for Both—(Southern Part)—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Parentage—(Southern Part)—Central Films Co., Chicago, Ill.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Sins of Ambition—(Southern Part)—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Sins of Ambition—(Northern Part)—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.
Two Men and a Woman—(Southern Part)—Unity Photoplays Co., Chicago, Ill.
Two Men and a Woman—(Northern Part)—V. H. Hodupp, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.
Warrior, The—Westcott Film Corp, Minneapolis, Minn.
Whip, The—Friedman Film Corp., Minneapolis, Minn.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

WYOMING.

Bandit and the Preacher, The—Foursquare Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Bargain, The—Foursquare Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Belgian, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Beware of Strangers—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Birth of a Nation—A. E. Nelson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Christie Comedies Consolidated Feature Film Co., Denver, Colo.
Civilization—Mid-West Civilization Co., Denver, Colo.
Cold Deck, The—Consolidated Features Film, Denver, Colo.
Crisis, The—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Deemster, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Eyes of the World, The—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Fringe of Society, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
God's Man—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Great White Trail, The—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Hell Hound of Alaska, The—Foursquare Exchange, Denver, Colo.
Her Fighting Chance—Foursquare Exchange, Denver, Colo.
I Believe—Deseret Film Corporation, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Libertine, The—Supreme Photoplay Corporation, Denver, Colo.
Lust of the Ages—Deseret Film Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Madame Sherry—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
One Hour Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Persuasive Peggy—Deseret Film Corporation, Denver, Colo.
Ramona—Sherman Elliott Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn.
Should She Obey?—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Those Who Pay—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.
Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—James V. Bryson, Minneapolis, Minn.
Warrior, The—Mid-West Civilization Co, Denver, Colo.
Whip, The—Supreme Photoplays Corporation, Denver, Colo.
Zeppelin's Last Raid—Foursquare Exchange, Inc., Denver, Colo.

Sales of the Week.

A Compendium of the Activities Recorded in the State Right Market During the Past Seven Days.

THE EDWARD WARREN Production, "Weavers of Life," has been sold to Franklyn E. Backer, president of the Mammoth Film Corp., for the states of New York and New Jersey.

* * *

Nathan Hirsch, of the Pioneer Film Exchange, announces the acquisition of the two Selig productions exploited by the Co-operative Exhibitors Corp., namely "Who Shall Take My Life" and "City of Purple Dreams" for New York State and New Jersey. The Pioneer corporation has also acquired the rights for the same territory on Jack W. Noble's "Shame," which features Zena Keefe.

* * *

Joseph Golden, president of the Triumph Film Corp., reports the disposition of the Evelyn Nesbit feature "Redemption" to Trice Sneed, Dallas, for the states of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

* * *

The Crest Pictures Corporation reports the sale of its latest Lillian Walker production, "The Grain of Dust," to Mayer Silverman, president of the Liberty Film Renting Co., Pittsburgh, for Western Pennsylvania.

* * *

Ernest Shipman announces the sale of the Shorty Hamilton series (W. H. Clifford Productions Co) for the six states of New England to the Nathan Gordon interests of Boston.

* * *

Details appear elsewhere in the section of the sale of "Mother" by the General Enterprises, Inc., to the Atlantic Film Exchange, New York City, for the state of New Jersey.

* * *

W. H. Productions Company announces the following sales: The rights to Wm. S. Hart as "The Two-Gun Man" in "The Bargain," in six reels, to Phil Goldstone, Omaha, Neb., for Michigan and Kentucky; also the rights to W. H. Productions Company twenty-eight two-reel Keystone comedies to L. C. Baxley, Matinee Film Co., Dallas, Texas, for Texas and Arkansas.

* * *

Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin report the sale of "The Warrior," for the states of Louisiana and Mississippi.

The purchaser for these territories is James R. Grainger, of the Allen Film Corporation of Chicago, Ill. The executives of General Enterprises, Inc., also stated that Mr. Grainger had contracted for the George Loane Tucker production, "Mother," for Louisiana and Mississippi.

Following the deal Mr. Grainger announced that he had completed affiliations with the Midwest Civilization Company of Denver, Colo., the consummation of which gives his organization control over Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Wyoming.

* * *

The National Film B'k'g Service, Pittsburgh, has acquired the western Pennsylvania and West Virginia rights to the "Submarine Eye."

Miss Edna Williams, New York representative of the Robertson-Cole Co., London, announces the sale of the "Zeppelin's Last Raid," "Those Who Pay" and "The Belgian" for Paraguay, Uraguay and Argentine. The African rights of the same pictures have been sold to the African Film Trust, Ltd.

* * *

Carle E. Carlton, president of the Crest Pictures, announces the sale of the rights for Great Britain on "The Lust of the Ages." The transaction was closed by Robertson & Cole through Grands, Ltd., London.

Mr. Carlton has likewise closed the rights with the Monet Film Company of Paris for "The Lust of the Ages," which will place the Lillian Walker feature in France and Spain.

* * *

M. S. Epstin, traveling representative of the Cinema Distributing Corporation has returned from Chicago and reports the sale of "The 13th Labor of Hercules" (the twelve-reel series of the Panama Pacific Exposition) to Celebrated Players Film Company of Chicago for the State of Illinois. Immediately after the sale was made the entire series were booked over the Asher Brothers theater circuit.

The Inter-Ocean Film Corporation reports the sale of "Enlighten Thy Daughter" through their Paris office for the following territory: France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Egypt, Spain, Portugal, Greece and the Balkan countries.

* * *

Details of the Shallenberger and Priest transaction whereby the A. J. Small Theatrical Circuit of Canada acquired the W. H. Clune spectacles, "Ramona" and "The Eyes of the World," for the Dominion, is reported elsewhere in this department of this issue.

NEW NEW JERSEY STATE RIGHTS EXCHANGE.

Martin Wohlforth and A. H. Westfall have entered into the state rights field in New Jersey. The Atlantic Film Company is the name of the new organization, with offices on the eleventh floor of the Leavitt building, 126 West Forty-sixth street, New York City. Mr. Wohlforth is the owner of the Atlantic theater at Spring Lake, N. J., while Mr. Westfall is well known among local exhibitors throughout the state, having long been associated with several of the big releasing companies as a traveling salesman.

Their first big offering will be the McClure picture, "Mother" with Elizabeth Risdon in the title role, made by Geo. Loane Tucker, who also is credited with "I Believe" and "The Manxman."

WATKINS IN NEW YORK FOR SEVERAL MONTHS.

M. G. Watkins, prominent in Chicago film circles, where, in addition to his business interests, he found time to serve the Chicago Screen Club for several years as its treasurer, arrived in New York Wednesday, Jan. 16, and will remain in this city during the exploitation of the France Film Co.'s state rights production, "The Natural Law," featuring Marguerite Courtot, as Mr. Watkins in interested in the company. He is also a part owner of the W. A. Baier Film Exchange, Milwaukee, one of this Wisconsin city's live-wire independent exchanges.

"Mickey" Coming Soon

The Mabel Normand-Mack Sennett Feature Much Awaited by State Right Investors.

The Western Import Company will give Mabel Normand, in "Mickey," a Broadway showing very shortly, and "Mickey" will, no doubt, shine on Broadway for a long time.

In the showing of the Mabel Normand seven-reel comedy will be demonstrated the fact that it is possible to produce a picture that can go into a theater and remain successfully for an indefinite period of time, the same as a big, successful legitimate show.

This production is different from any other production and will stand by itself for a long time to come, according to the claims of its exploiters. It runs the gauntlet of every human emotion, and although Mabel Normand will appear in other productions she will never be able to come up to the standard established in "Mickey," because her success in this production is attributed not only to her own personality and genius, but the happy medium of the combination of the star, Mack Sennett, the story, the cast and the general harmonious conditions prevailing in the production of "Mickey."

ETHEL BURTON RETURNS TO "KING-BEE."

Ethel Marie Burton, who played opposite Billy West in the first four releases of Billy West-King-Bee comedies, has arrived at Hollywood, California, and will again become a player in the King-Bee comedies.

Ethel Marie Burton was born in New York City, and is of American parentage. She is just five and one-half feet tall, and weighs about one hundred and eighteen pounds. She has blonde hair, and blue eyes. She has been playing in pictures for the past two years, and was a member of the "Vitagraph," "World," and "Vim" companies.

Miss Burton keeps in fine physical trim, and no "dare-devil" ever gets a job substituting for her in risky parts.

In the next release of the Billy West-King-Bee comedies it is said that Miss Burton will be seen making a fourteen-foot jump.

KIRKWOOD NOW CASTING FOR KEENEY FILM.

Pending the completion of its own studios, the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation has obtained the use of the Biograph studios, New York, under lease extending from February. 1. At that time the corporation will begin the production of its first feature, with Catherine Calvert as star.

The title of the picture as just announced is "The Girl Who Saw Life." The scenario is by Ben Kutler, formerly scenario editor for Augustus Thomas and Famous Plays and Players, and author of numerous screen successes. James Kirkwood is now assembling the cast. The scenario is especially written around Miss Calvert and presents as its heroine a winsome type of simple and pure-minded girlhood which she is peculiarly qualified to express. James Kirkwood is now assembling the cast.

SHALLENBERGER CLOSES IMPORTANT DEAL.

W. E. Shallenberger, of the firm of Shallenberger and Priest (Arrow Film Corporation), has arranged the biggest deal of the week in the independent market, when he closed with Charles Haystead for the entire Dominion of Canada for the W. H. Clune productions, "Ramona" and "The Eyes of the World." The importance of the deal becomes apparent when it is explained that Mr. Haystead represents the A. J. Small circuit of theaters throughout Canada, he having been traveling representative for the Small interests for the last eighteen years.

It is the intention of the Canadian circuit to follow out the same exploitation in Canada that Mr. Clune did in the United States; namely, by playing both productions at standard houses in the various metropolitan centers of population in the way that a regular legitimate show is presented, and to follow out this system by covering the rest of the country with road shows. Of course, Robert Priest did his part in bringing the negotiations to a successful issue.

SAWYER AND LUBIN IN BOSTON.

Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, of General Enterprises, Inc., left New York and are now in Boston, where they intend to secure a first-run booking for the George Loane Tucker production, "Mother," at one of Boston's large photoplay houses. After its run has established it as a box-office attraction the executives of General Enterprises, Inc., plan to dispose of the New England territory to one of the leading buyers.

The heads of General Enterprises, Inc., expect to return to New York in time for the special presentation to be given for their latest feature offering, "The Crucible of Life," the seven-part production starring Grace D'Armond and Jack Sherrill.

FRANK HALL PROPOSES PUBLICITY BOOM.

An advertising and publicity campaign, nation wide in scope and embracing the use of billboards, magazines, daily newspapers, trade publications and special circularization, is being arranged by Frank Hall, president and general manager of the U. S. Exhibitors' Booking Corporation, as an exhibitorial aid in the exploitation of "The Zeppelin's Last Raid," "Those Who Pay" and "The Belgian." It is the intention of the booking company to bombard the populace from billboards for a period of three months, but the other advertising will continue indefinitely, and will cover the United States and Canada.

W. H. PRODUCTIONS GOING STRONG.

W. H. Productions Company have not only made a remarkable record in the sales of the Hart productions, but have also been successful in disposing of a great number of territories on the series of twenty-eight two-reel Mack Sennett produced comedies, including three Charlie Chaplins. These comedies will be released commencing February 1, at the rate of one a week.

The first six subjects have already been prepared and are as follows: "A Small Town Bully," with Mabel Normand, Mack Sennett, Roscoe Arbuckle and Owen Moore; "Friendly Enemies," with Syd Chaplin and Chester Conklin; "A Polished Villain," with Al. St. John, Charles Arling and Mae Bush; "His Diving Beauty," with Mabel Normand, Roscoe Arbuckle and Mack Swain; "His Bitter Half," with Polly Moran and Charles Murray; "The Dynamiter," with Chester Conklin.

The advertising matter on each one of these productions will consist of a lobby display of 8x10 and 11x14 photographs, very attractive one, three and six-sheet posters and special novelty heralds.

LATEST RULING WILL NOT AFFECT SHORTY HAMILTON SALES.

Producing in their own plant in California, and with the first series of pictures completed and enough under way to insure delivery up to June, 1918, the W. H. Clifford Photoplay Company is in position to keep faith with all state rights buyers and release on schedule for the United States and Canadian exhibitors.

Realizing that when the bookings are arranged for the first release the work is practically done for the year the keenest and most prominent buyers are contracting for the entire series.

Nathan H. Gordon, Globe Film Co., Boston, and manager of the Olympic Theater Circuit, has purchased the rights for New England, and will open in his Boston houses.

Other buyers are doing likewise, and over practically sixty per cent. of the territory is now sold. The list will shortly be announced for the benefit of exhibitors everywhere.

Ernest Shipman, who is handling the sales, says:

"We are in no particular hurry to dispose of these franchises, as the more the buyers realize the demand for these Shorty Hamilton five-reel stories the more thoroughly will they do business, and as there is but one price to all alike we will wait to close the remainder of the territory with the best organized organizations."

DOING EXCELLENT WORK FOR OUR BOYS.

W. H. Productions Company are doing "their bit" to promote better moral conditions in the training and recreation camps of the American soldiers in France. They are providing, in co-operation with The Community Motion Picture Bureau and The National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Association, thousands of feet of film simply for the cost of printing.

The Community Motion Picture Bureau Service is a non-commercial one, devoid of profit, and is the medium through which this distribution and showing of film is made. W. H. Productions Company desires to make an appeal to other distributors to do as much as they possibly can to help this good work along.

"JESTER COMEDIES" HEAD ON TOUR.

William Steiner, president of the Jester Corporation, left last week on a selling trip that will take him to the west coast before he returns. Messrs. Shallenberger & Priest (Arrow Film Corporation) have acquired the foreign rights to the Twede-Dan series.

CAST ENGAGED FOR "MORAL SUICIDE."

Ivan Abramson, president, general manager and directing head of the Graphic Film Corporation, is at present in the Biograph studios in the Bronx, directing the interiors of his forthcoming seven-part production, "Moral Suicide," which features John Mason and Anne Luther in the leading roles. In support of these two favorites Mr. Abramson has chosen Leah Baird, Claire Whitney, Alan Hale, Sidney Mason, William Lampe and Jack McLean.

WHARTONS ADD ANOTHER STAR TO FLAG.

Another star has been added to the Wharton, Inc., service flag, by the enlistment of Marshall de Francisco, head of the developing and printing departments of their Ithaca plant. Mr. de Francisco has joined the photographic department of the army.

Mr. de Francisco was in the employ of the Wharton studios for several years. From the "boy of all work" he rose to the important position he occupied when he left to do his "bit."

"LIFE OR HONOR."

It is claimed that the best role ever assigned to James Morrison is the one ascribed to him in the next Ivan release, "Life or Honor." James Morrison dominates the screen throughout the picture. This is made easier by the fact that he is portrtaying two different characters.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

Catalogue of Educational and Selected Pictures

Released Between October 1 and December 31, 1917.

Compiled by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THIS list of films released between October 1 and December 31, 1917, contains the names of educational pictures which have been produced during that period and includes others which have not been previously recorded. It also contains a number of pictures of mixed character suggested for the family group, children's matinees and Sunday exhibitions. It does not, however, include the various News Pictorials, such as the Hearst-Pathe News, the Mutual Weekly, the Animated Weekly and Universal Current Events. A list of the headquarters of the different manufacturing companies or exchanges herein referred to will be found attached.

AGRICULTURE.

Canada and the Farmer Co-operate in Grain Raising, How—General Film-Essanay—Dec.
Cattle, Texas—Lincoln and Parker.
Farm Where the Food Comes From, On the—Paramount-Holmes—Dec. 24.
Hop Fields of Kent, England, The—General Film-Selig—(World Library No. 23).
Old and New—(Farming in North Carolina)—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 50)—Dec. 18.
Pig Club Work, Uncle Sam's—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 51)—Dec. 29.
Potato Skyscraper, A—Paramount-Bray—Pictograph—Oct. 23—(Showing how to raise potatoes in layers on six-foot plot of ground.)
Rice Culture in Java—General Film-Selig—(World Library No. 3).
Rice, Indians Harvesting—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 49)—Dec. 14.
Wheat, Raising, Modern—Lincoln & Parker.

ART.

Arts, Most Beautiful of Far Eastern—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 98)—Dec. 16—(Showing the Japanese method of preserving flowers).
Comic Section, Making the—Pathe-International—Dec.
Romeo and Juliet—Educational—(Clay Figure Work by Helena Smith Dayton.)
Rotagravure Section, The—Pathe—Dec.
Stenciling—Pathe—(Argus Pictograph No. 2)—Nov.

CULINARY.

Butter, Substitute for Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 98) -Dec 16.
Kneadless Bread—Universal -(Screen Magazine No. 41)—Oct. 15 -(Lesson by Mrs. A. Louise Andrea.)
Scientific Sweetmeats Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 97)—Dec.

ECONOMICS.

Drying Surplus Fruits and Vegetables—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 42)—Oct. 22.
Eggs, How to Preserve—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 98)—Dec. 16.
Food Munition Brigade—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 42)—(Showing the methods of drying food at home.)
Soap Making at Home Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 88) Oct. 8.
Substitute for Butter, A—Paramount-Bray -(Pictograph No. 98)—Dec. 16.
Substituting Meats With Vegetables—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 90)—(Cornell Domestic Science Dept. shows how to compound vegetable ingredients properly.)

EDUCATION.

Violin, New Method of Teaching—Universal -(Screen Magazine No. 44)—Nov. 9—(Dr. Mitchell of the New York University Summer School demonstrates.)

ENGINEERING AND MINING.

Canada, Water Powers of Western—General Film-Essanay—Dec.
Coal Mining, Anthracite—Lincoln & Parker.
Copper Mine, A Lake Superior—Lincoln & Parker.
Gold Mining—Lincoln & Parker.
Handling Iron Ore—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 47)—Nov. 20—(Showing the rapidity with which iron ore can be unloaded by means of the Hulett unloader—shows transportation of iron ore from the Mesaba, Minnesota, ranges.)
Limestone, Indiana—Pathe—Dec.
New York's New Waterworks—Universal.

FASHIONS.

Paris to Peru for Fashions—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 50)—Dec. 22—(Showing the copying of designs from gowns 2,000 years old.)

GEOLOGY.

Pot Holes—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 41)—(Illustrating the effeet of water washing over boulders in river beds.)
Twenty-five Million Year Old Sea Lillies—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 47).

GYMNASTICS AND DANCING.

Denishawn Entertainment—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 87) Oct. 1—(Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and their pupils.)
Physical Culture Screen Magazine—General Film-Physical Culture—(Periodical).
Womanly Art of Self-Defense, The—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 97)—Dec. 9—(Boxing).

HISTORY.

Cleopatra—Fox—Nov.—(10 parts).
Historic Detroit—American Cinema Commission.
Kerensky in the Russian Revolution, 1917—M. S. Epstein.
Legion of Death, The—Metro—(Production based on Russian Revolution).
Russian Revolution, The—J. Frank Brockliss, Inc.—(3 Parts).
Russian Revolution, The—(Thompson Pictures)—Paramount.
Ssarlet Pimpernel, The—Fox—Nov.—(5 part story of French Revolution)).
Woman God Forgot, The Arteraft—Nov. (5 part story of Aztec period).

HORTICULTURE.

Dahlia Farm, Bessie Boston's—Prizma.
Japanese Dwarf Plants—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No 75)—Oct. 4.

INDUSTRIES.

Apple Industry, The—American Cinema Commission.
Argentina, Important Industries of—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No. 77)—Oct. 25.
Banana Industry, The—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No. 77)—Oct. 25.
Bee, How Doth the Little Busy—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 98)—Dec. 10.
Canada, The Great Industries of—General Film-Essanay—Dec.
Candy, Making a Box of—America Cinema Commission.
Cantaloupes of the Imperial Valley, Cal.—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No. 75)—Oct. 4.
Chicago Stock Yards—Lincoln & Parker Co.
Coral Rocks, Utilizing—Pathe—(Argus Pictograph No. 3)—Dec.
Cord to Bind Uncle Sam's Harvest, Making—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 99)—Dec. 23.
Corset, Evolution of the—(Screen Magazine No. 47)—Nov. 30.
Cotton Manufacture—Lincoln & Parker.
Cotton in the U. S., Raising—Lincoln & Parker.
Deep Sea Fishing—Lincoln & Parker.
Diamonds 57 Sides, Cutting a -Universal (Screen Magazine No. 44)—Nov. 9.
Eels in Winter, Spearing—Pathe -(Argus Pictorial No. 2)—Nov.
Feather Pillow, The Visual Education.
Fertilizer, The Manufacture of Bowker's—American Agricultural Chemical Co.
Fishing in Japan—Pathe—Dec.
Ford Factory—American Cinema Commission.
Ford Tractor American Cinema Commission.
Fur, Farming for—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 93)—(Foxes).
Doing Their Bit—Pathe-International—Oct. 28—(American Women Munition Workers).
Goldfish Ranch, A (Southern California) -Universal (Screen Magazine No. 42)—Oct. 26.
Homespun, How Uncle Sam Has Outgrown—Visual Education.
Humpback Whaling on the Pacific—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 90)—Oct. 27.
Ice, Mining for—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 42)—Oct. 26.
Lace Making—Pathe—Nov. 11.
Lumbering in the Big Timber Country of the West—Lincoln & Parker.
Lumbering in Winter—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 92)—Sept. 20.
Maple Sugar Industry, The—Lincoln & Parker.
Miller Has Changed to Meet Modern Conditions, How the—Visual Education.
Motorcycle, Manufacture of a—E. I. S.
Olive Industry, The—American Cinema Commission
Orange Industry, The—American Cinema Commission.

Oyster Industry, The—Lincoln & Parker.
Paper Making—Lincoln & Parker.
Pipe Organ Building—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No. 80)—Nov. 8.
Pottery Making—American Cinema Commission.
Pottery, the Making of—Lincoln & Parker.
Rifles for the Government, Making—Pathe-International—Oct. 28.
Salmon Fishing—Lincoln & Parker.
Saws, Manufacturing Hand—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 49)—Dec. 14.
Saw Mill in the Big Timber Country, A—Lincoln & Parker.
Shells, Making Big—Pathe—Dec.
Shoe Industry, The—Lincoln & Parker.
Shrapnel for the U. S. Army, Making—Pathe-International—Nov.
Soap, Story of a Cake of—American Cinema Commission.
Sponge Industry, The—Lincoln & Parker.
Sponge Industry in South America, The—General Film—(World Library No. 21).
Steel Rails for the Allies, Making—Pathe.
Tree to Mill, From—Pathe-International—Oct. 7.
Watch Habit, The—Visual Education.
Weavers of the Tropics, Straw—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 94)—Nov.
Wheat, Story of a Grain—American Cinema Commission.
Yarn (Manufacture of) and Woolens—Lincoln & Parker—(2 parts).

LITERATURE.

ADAMS (James W.).

Fibbers, The—(with Bryant Washburn)—Kleine-Essanay—Oct 15—(5 parts).

ARTHUR (Joseph).

Blue Jeans—(with Viola Dana)—Metro-Rolfe—Dec.—(7 parts).

BEACH (Rex).

Auction Block, The (with Florence Deschon and Tom Powers)—Goldwyn—Dec. 2—(6 parts).

BIGGERS (Earl Derr).

Gown of Destiny, The—(with Herrera Tejedde, Alma Reubens and Ellen Sears)—Triangle—Dec. 30—(5 parts).

BRAND (Max).

Adopted Son, The—(with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne)—Metro—Oct. 29—(6 parts).

BURNETT (Frances Hodgson).

Fair Barbarian, The—(with Vivian Martin)—Paramount—Dec. 17—(5 parts).
Little Princess, The—(with Mary Pickford)—Artcraft—Nov. 5—(5 parts).

CAIN (George).

Best Man, The—(with William Ehfe and Margaret Landis)—General Film-Falcon—(4 parts).

CHAMBERS (Kellett).

An American Widow—(with Ethel Barrymore)—Metro—Dec. 17—(5 parts).

CHAMBERS (Robert W.)

Fettered Woman, The—(with Alice Joyce)—Greater Vitagraph—Nov. 5—(5 parts).
Who Goes There?—(with Harry Morey and Corrine Griffith)—Greater Vitagraph—Nov. 26—(5 parts).

CHAPIN (Frederick).

Antics of Ann, The—(with Ann Pennington)—Paramount—Nov. 12—(5 parts).

CLAWSON (Elliott J.)

Savage, The—(with Clifford Moore and Munroe Salisbury)—Bluebird—Nov. 19 (5 parts).

(COOK (William A.).

49-17—(with Joseph Girard)—Universal-Butterfly—Oct. 15—(5 parts).

CONNOR (Ralph).

Doctor, The—("The Heart of a Lion")—(with William Farnum)—Fox—Dec. 16—(6 parts).

CULLUM (Ridgwell).

Son of His Father, The—(with Charles Ray)—Paramount—Oct. 22—(5 parts).

DAM (Henry J. W.).

Red Mouse, The—("Her Silent Sacrifice")—(with Alice Brady)—Select—(5 parts).

DAVIS (M. E. M.).

Little Chevalier, The—Kleine-Edison—Aug. 11—(4 parts).

DAVIS (Richard Harding).

Scarlet Car, The—(with Franklin Farnum)—Bluebird—Dec. 24—(5 parts).

DUMAS.

Camille—(with Helen Hesperia)—General Film—Hanover—(6 parts).

EVANS (Larry).

Cassidy—(with Dick Rosson)—Triangle—Oct. 21—(5 parts).
When a Man Sees Red—(with William Farnum)—Fox-Standard—Oct. 7 (7 parts).

FOOTNER (Hulbert).

Shirley Kaye—(with Clara Kimball Young)—Select—(5 parts).

FRANCE (Anatole).

Thais—(with Mary Garden)—Goldwyn—Dec. 30—(6 parts).

GIBBS (George).

Paradise Garden—(with Harold Lockwood)—Metro-Yorke—Oct. 5 (7 parts).

HAGGARD (Rider).

She—(with Valeska Suratt)—Fox—April 23—(5 parts).

HALL (Blair).

Alias Mrs. Jessop—(with Emily Stevens)—Metro—Dec. 10 (5 parts).

HALL (Howard).

Natural Law, The—(with Marguerite Courtot)—France Films, Inc.—(7 parts).

HAMILTON (Cosmo).

Scandal—(with Constance Talmadge)—Select—(5 parts).

HARWOOD (H. M.).

Please Help Emily—(with Ann Murdock)—Mutual-Empire—Nov. 7—(5 parts).

HARRIS (Kennett).

Talismans—("Fools for Luck")—(with Taylor Holmes)—Kleine-Essanay—Oct. 8—(5 parts).

HENRY (O.).

Dollar's Worth, The—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 parts).
Duplicity of the Hargraves—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 parts).
Enchanted Kiss, The—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 parts).
Indian Summer of Dry Valley Johnson, The—General Film-Broadway Star—(4 parts).
Last of the Troubadors, The—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 parts).
Last Leaf, The—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 parts).
Law and Order—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 parts).
Night in New Arabia, A—General Film-Broadway Star—(4 parts).
Renaissance of Charleroi, The—General Film-Broadway Star—(4 parts).
Skylight Room, The—General Film-Broadway Star—(4 parts).
Two Renegades, The—General Film-Broadway Star—Dec.—(2 parts).
Whistling Dick's Christmas Stocking—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 parts).

HORNUNG (E. W.).

Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman—(with John Barrymore)—Hiller & Wilk—(7 parts).

HUGHES (Rupert).

Empty Pockets—(with Bert Lytell)—First National Exhibitors—Brenon—(7 parts).
When Life Is Marked Down—("His Mother's Boy")—(with Charles Ray)—Paramount—Dec. 24—(5 parts).

HUGO (Victor).

Les Miserables—(with William Farnum)—Fox—(10 parts).

JOHNSON (Gladys E. Johnson).

Two Bit Seats—(with Taylor Holmes)—Kleine-Essanay—Nov. 5—(5 parts).

KENYON (Charles).

Silent Man, The—(with William S. Hart)—Artcraft—Nov. 26 (5 parts).

KING (Basil).

Spreading Dawn, The—(with Jane Cowl)—Goldwyn—Oct. 14—(6 parts).

LAMOTHE (Julian Louis).

Calendar Girl, The—(with Juliette Day)—Mutual-American—Oct. 15—(5 parts).

LEWIS (Alfred Henry).

Tenderfoot, The—(with William Duncan and Carol Halloway)—Greater Vitagraph—Dec. 3—(5 parts).
Wolfville Stories—("Dead Shot Baker")—(with William Duncan)—Greater Vitagraph—Oct. 15—(5 parts).

LEWIS (Ray).

Loyalty—(with Betty Brice)—Oro Film Productions—(6 parts).

LINCOLN (Joseph C.).

Cy Whittaker's Ward—(with Shirley Mason)—Kleine-Edison—Oct. 22—(5 parts).

LYNDE (Francis).

Stranded in Arcady—(with Mrs. Vernon Castle)—Pathe-Astra—Oct. 14—(5 parts).

MacGRATH (Harold).

Madam Who?—(with Bessie Barriscale)—Paralta—(7 parts).

McCALL (Frank).

Red Horse Hill—("The Eternal Mother")—(with Ethel Barrymore)—Metro—Nov. 26—(5 parts).

McMACKIN (Archer).

Winged Mystery, The—(with Franklin Farnum)—Bluebird—Nov. 26—(5 parts).

MARSHALL (Robert).

Unforseen, The—(with Olive Tell)—Mutual-Empire—Oct. 22—(6 parts).

MAUGHAM (William Somerset).

Land of Promise, The—(with Billie Burke)—Paramount—Dec. 10—(5 parts).

MEGRUE (Roi Cooper, With Irvin S. Cobb).

Fighting Odds—(with Maxine Elliott)—Goldwyn—Oct. 7—(6 parts).

MERWIN (Samuel).

Anthony, the Absolute—("The Door Between")—(with Munroe Salisbury)—Bluebird—(5 parts).

MOROSCO (John A.).

Vengeance is Mine—(with Irene Castle)—Pathe-Astra—Dec. 16—(5 parts).

MOSES (Barr).

Clean Gun, The—General Film-Falcon—(4 parts).

OPPENHEIM (E. Phillips).

In the Balance—(with Earle Williams)—Greater Vitagraph—Dec. 17—(5 parts).
Sleeping Memory—(with Emily Stevens)—Metro—Oct. 15.—(5 parts).

ORCUTT (William Dana).

Moth, The—(with Norma Talmadge)—Select—Oct.—(7 parts).

ORCZY (Baroness).

Scarlet Pimpernel, The—(with Dustin Farnum)—Fox—Oct. 28—(5 parts).

ORTH (Marion).

Whim, The—("The Price of a Good Time")—(with Mildred Harris)—Jewel—(5 parts).

PARKER (Sir Gilbert).

Judgment House, The—(with Wilfred Lucas, Conway Tearle and Violet Heming)—Paramount—Nov. 19—(5 parts).

PECK (Charles Mortimer).

Young Mother Hubbard—(with Mary McAlister)—Kleine-Essanay—Oct. 29—(5 parts).
Kill Joy, The—(with Mary McAlister)—Kleine-Essanay—Nov. 19—(5 parts).

PHILLIPS (Adolph).

Corner Grocer, The—(with Madge Evans)—World-Peerless—Oct. 1—(5 parts).

PHILLIPS (David Graham).

Grain of Dust, A—(with Lillian Walker)—Crest Pictures.

PHILPOTTS (Eden).

Mother of the Man, The—("Mother")—(with Elizabeth Risdon)—General Enterprise, Inc.-McClure—Dec.—(5 parts).

POLLOCK (Alice Leal).

Co-respondent, The—(with Elaine Hammerstein)—Jewel—(5 parts).

PUSHKIN.

Painted Doll, The—(with Mozukin)—Pathe—Oct. 21—(5 parts).

PULVER (Mary Brecht).

Man Hater, The—(with Winifred Allen)—Triangle—Oct. 28—(5 parts).

RHODES (Eugene Manlove).

Desire of the Moth, The—(with Munroe Salisbury)—Bluebird—Oct. 22—(5 parts).

RIDER (Mary).

Sunshine Alley—(with Mae Marsh)—Goldwyn—Nov. 4—(6 parts).

RINEHART (Mary Roberts).

Bab's Burglar—(with Marguerite Clark)—Paramount—Oct. 29—(5 parts).

RITCHIE (John B.).

Price Mark, The—(with Dorothy Dalton)—Paramount—Nov.—(5 parts).

ROYLE (Edwin Milton).

Struggle Everlasting, The—(with Florence Reed, Milton Sills, Irving Cummins, etc.)—Hy Class Film Productions—(7 parts).

SARVER (Charles).

Shall We Forgive Her—(with June Elvidge and Arthur Ashley)—World-Peerless—Oct. 15—(5 parts).

SEGUROLA ((Andres de).

Flaming Omen, The—(with Mary Anderson)—Greater Vitagraph—Oct. 29—(5 parts).

SELWYN (Edgar).

Nearly Married—(with Madge Kennedy)—Goldwyn—Nov. 18—(6 parts).

SHUMATE (Harry).

Fighting Back—(with Claire McDowell)—Triangle—Nov. 4—(5 parts).

SPEARMAN (Frank H.).

Nan of Music Mountain—(with Anna Little)—Paramount—Dec. 17—(5 parts).

STEVENSON (Robert Louis).

Treasure Island—(with Francis Carpenter, Virginia Corbin, Violet Radcliff, etc.)—Fox—Nov. 18—(6 parts).

TILDEN (Freeman).

Small-Town Guy, The—(with Taylor Holmes)—Kleine-Essanay—Dec. 3—(5 parts).

TRENT (Paul).

Wife by Purchase—("God's Law and Man's")—(with Viola Dana)—Metro-Columbia—April 23—(5 parts).

TWAIN (Mark).

Tom Sawyer—(with Jack Pickford)—Paramount—Dec. 10—(5 parts).

VANARDY (Varick).

Girl Beside the Roadside, The—(with Violet Mersereau)—Bluebird—Dec. 31—(5 parts).

VANCE (Louis Joseph).

Outsider, The—(with Emmy Wehlen)—Metro—Nov. 5—(6 parts).

WAGNALL (Mabel).

Rose-Bush of a Thousand Years Ago, A—("The Revelation")—(with Nazimova)—Metro—(7 parts).

WALTERS (Eugene).

Just a Woman—(with Charlotte Walker)—S. & S.—Dec.—(7 parts).

WATTS (Mary S.).

Rise of Jennie Cushing, The—(with Elsie Ferguson)—Artcraft—Nov. 19—(5 parts).

WELLS (Carolyn).

Mark of Cain, The—(with Mrs. Vernon Castle)—Pathe-Astra—Nov. 4—(5 parts).

WESTON (George).

Apple-Tree Girl, The—(with Shirley Mason)—Kleine-Edison—Oct. 1—(5 parts).

WHITE (Grace Miller).

Secret of the Storm Country, The—(with Norma Talmadge)—Select—(5 parts).

WHITCOMB (Daniel F.).

Game of Wits, A—(with Gail Kane)—Mutual-American—Nov. 5—(5 parts).

WODEHOUSE (P. G.).

Uneasy Money—(with Taylor Holmes)—Kleine-Essanay—Jan. 1—(6 parts).

MILITARY.

Aeroplane Gun, The Operation of an—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 90)—Oct. 22.
Ballooning for Boches—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 50)—Dec. 22.
Birds of War—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 43)—Nov. 2—(Showing carrier pigeons in army service.)
Cavalryman, Making a—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 42)—Oct. 22.
Dogs of War—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No. 75)—Oct. 4.
Feeding an Army—Pathe-International—Sept. 30.
For the Freedom of the World—Goldwyn—(8-part patriotic drama).
France in Arms—Pathe—(5 parts)—Nov. 11.
Italian Stand on the Piave, The—Fort Pitt Corporation—Dec.
Judgment House, The—Paramount—Nov. 19—(5 parts drama of Boer war).
Keeping the Camp Clean—Pathe-International—Dec. 16.
Making an Infantryman—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 44)—Nov. 9.
Navy, Our—Prizma—(12 reels).
Navy, The U. S.—J. Frank Brockliss, Inc.—(5 parts).
Over Here—World Film—(shows activities at cantonments)—(2 parts).
Over the Jumps With the Tractors—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 94).
Over There—Select—(6-part drama).
Pride of New York, The—Fox—Dec. 9—(5 part military drama of the present war.)
Rally Round the Flag—Universal—(8 parts).
Ready to March—Pathe—Dec. 2.
Soldiers of the Sea—Kleine-Edison—Aug. 11.
Training Our Kahki Clad Heroes—General Film-Selig—(2 parts).
Under the Stars and Stripes in France—Pathe—(2 parts).
Upton, With the Boys at Camp—Pathe—(Hearst-Pathe News)—Nov.
U. S. Ambulance Corps at Work—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 86)—Sept. 25.
U. S. Military Academy at West Point—Lincoln & Parker.
Visualized Text Book on Army Instruction—Paragon—(11 parts).
War Dogs—Paramount-Bray—(Pitograph No. 100)—Dec. 30.
West Point, A Day at—Ultra—Dec.
Zeppelin's Last Raid, The—U. S. Exhibitors'-Ince—Nov.—(5-part military novelty.)

PATRIOTIC.

Draft 258—Metro—Dec.—(7 parts).

RELIGION.

Victim, The—Catholic Art Association—(multiple reel drama).

SCENIC AND TRAVEL.

(Including People and Customs.)

Adirondack Trails, On—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 91)—Sept. 23.
Alaska and the Yukon—Prizma.
Arizona, Grand Canyon of—Lincoln & Parker.
Arizona, Grand Canyon of—American Cinema Commission.
Blackfeet Indians, The—Prizma.
Brittany, Belle Isle,—("The Pearl of the Atlantic")—Pathe—Dec.
Canada, Banff National Park—General Film-Essanay—Dec.
Canada From Coast to Coast—General Film-Essanay—Dec.
Canada, Lake Louise—General Film-Essanay—Dec.
Canadian Rockies, The—Lincoln & Parker.
Canadian Rockies, Through the—Educational.
Chain Gang, The—Educational—Dec.
China and Japan—Prizma.
Detroit, Historic—American Cinema Commission.
England, Tonic Towns of—Pathe—Nov.
Fading of Local Color—Educational—(New Mexico and Arizona).
Florida, Historical Scenes in—Lincoln & Parker.
France, A Corner of the Moravan, L'Yonne—Pathe—(colored)—Oct. 31.

France, Biaritz—Pathe—Oct. 14.
France, Around Central Auvergne—Pathe—Nov.
Germany, Oberammergau—Paramount-Holmes—Dec. 10.
Germany, Oberammergau—Famous Players of the Passion Play—Paramount-Holmes—Dec. 17.
Glimmer-Glass, Beside the—Educational—Dec. 26.
Glacier National Park, In—Paramount-Holmes—Dec. 17.
Glacier National Park, Going to the Sun in—Paramount-Holmes—Dec. 24.
Glacier Park—(St. Mary's Lake and Big Bear Lake)—Pathe—Oct. 7.
Hawaii, Flying Trip Through—Educational—Oct.—(2 parts).
Hawaiian Islands, The—(2 reels)—American Cinema Commission.
Hawaiian Islands—Prizma.
Japan, Around Fujiyama—Paramount-Holmes—Nov. 12.
Japan, A Flying Trip Through—Educational—Dec.—(series).
Japan, In Snow, Nikko—Paramount-Holmes—Oct. 29.
Japan, Kyoto, the Ancient Capital of—Paramount-Holmes—Nov. 19.
Japan, Osaka to Nagasaki—Paramount-Holmes—Dec. 3.
Japan, the Land of Madam Butterfly—Paramount-Holmes—Nov. 5.
Japan, Three Marvelous Matsuris—Paramount-Holmes—Nov. 26.
Japan, Tokio, the Metropolis of—Paramount-Holmes—Oct. 22.
Japan, Under Snow—Pathe—Nov. 11.
Korea and Manchuria—Paramount-Holmes—Oct. 1.
Korea, Queer Customs of—Paramount-Holmes—Oct. 15.
Korea, Singular City of Seoul—Paramount-Holmes—Oct. 8.
Kilauea Volcano—(Hawaii)—Prizma.
Manchuria, Across to Korea—Oct.—Paramount-Holmes.
Me and My Dog—Educational Bruce—Dec.
Mississippi River, Scenes on the—Lincoln & Parker.
New York City—American Cinema Commission.
New York City—Lincoln & Parker.
New York With My Mayor, Seeing—Universal—Oct. 15.
Niagara Falls—Educational.
Niagara Falls—Prizma.
Portugal, Along the Tagus River—Pathe—Dec.
Puebla Indians Lincoln & Parker.
Riviera, Springtime in the—Pathe—Oct. 28.
Rocky Mountain Jay, The—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No. 79)—Nov 1.
Rocky Mountain Park—Pathe—Combitone—Dec.
Spain, Here and There in -Pathe -Dec.
Temples of China—General Film Co.-Selig—(World Library No. 21).
Tinklebottom Passes Through—Educational—Bruce—(Showing old landmarks of New Orleans).
Turkey, Along the Vardar River—Pathe—Dec.
Venice, Picturesque—General Film-Selig—(World Library No. 31).
Washington—American Cinema Commission.
World of Dreams, A—Educational-Bruce—Dec.
Yellowstone National Park—Lincoln & Parker.
Yosemite and Yellowstone Parks—Prizma.
Yosemite National Park—Lincoln & Parker.
Yosemite Valley—("The Land of Enchantment")—Educational—Dec.
Yosemite—Educational.

SCIENCE.

Crystallization, Studies in—Pathe—Dec. -(Argus Pictograph No. 3).
Filtering a Water Supply Lincoln & Parker.
Gasoline Engine, The Paramount-Bray (Pictograph No. 95)—Nov. 25.
Irrigation—Lincoln & Parker.
Lightning, Chained—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 43) Nov. 2 (Showing largest high-voltage electric coil in the world.)
Reclaiming the Desert of Arizona—Prizma.
Seismograph, The Universal -(Screen Magazine No. 48)—Dec. 7.
Stenciling Pathe (Argus Pictograph No. 2)—Nov.
Sulphur in Liquid and Crystalized Form Pathe—Nov. 18 (Argus Pictorial No. 1).
Utilizing a Volcano—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 93)—Nov. 11.
Water, Story of a Drop of Mutual-Gaumont (Reel Life No. 80).
X-Ray on the Teeth, An—Paramount-Bray -(Pictograph No. 96)—Dec. 2.

SPORTS AND HUNTING.

Angling for Steel Head Trout—Prizma.
Eighth Annual Roundup at Pendleton, Ore.—Pathe—Dec.- (3 parts).
Fastest Thing on Four Legs, The—Paramount-Bray (Pictograph No. 97) Dec. 9 (Development of whippet from greyhound).
Fishing for Fish—Educational-Bruce Dec.
Fox Hunt, A Virginia Pathe (Argus Pictorial No. 4) -Dec. 30.
Skating ("The Frozen Warning")—Commonwealth—Dec.—(5 parts)—(Drama Featuring Charlotte famous skater).
Skating at Colorado Springs Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 98).—Dec. 13.
Skating, the Sport of Sports Universal -(Screen Magazine No. 51) -Dec. 29.
Southland Deer Hunt A Paramount-Bray (Pictograph No. 88) Oct. 8—(In the Carolinas).

SOCIOLOGY.

Baby's Home at Porcefontaine Pathe
Best Man, The General Film-Falcon—Nov. (14 parts) (Temperance drama).
Case at Law A—Triangle (5 part temperance drama of force).
Children's House, The Pathe (Montessori system of training children).
Eternal Mother The—Metro (5 parts) -(Child Labor).
Fanatics Triangle (5 parts)—(Labor story).
Girl Who Won Out, The—Universal-Butterfly—(Story of two orphans).
Les Miserables—Fox—Dec.—(10 parts).
Magda—Select—(5 parts).
Mother of Men—(Ordinary woman suffrage picture)—Robard Players—(5 parts).
Public Defender, The—Raver—(6 parts)—Oct.
Shame—Duplex—Nov.—(7 parts).
Who Shall Take My Wife?—Selig—(7 parts)—Dec.

TOPICAL.

Babies, Better—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 48)—Dec. 7.
Behind the Scenes in a Big Hotel—American Cinema Commission.
Chinese Telephone Exchange, San Francisco—Pathe—(Weekly).
"Constitution," The Frigate—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 48)—Dec. 7.
Dining on Wheels—Mutual-Gaumont—(Reel Life No. 78) -(Dining Car Kitchen and Dining Room Management).
Eye Hazards in Industrial Occupations—Visual Education.
Fire Rookies, Training -Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 50)—Dec. 22.
Food for the Front—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 45)—Nov. 16—(Showing new automobile truck which carries complete kitchen unit.)
High Cost of Hurry, The—Katherine D. Carter.
High Education for Our Army Cooks—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 87)—Oct. 1—(Shows instructions being received by the army boys in the Domestic Science Department of the Pratt Institute).
Horses, Training Police—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 51)—Dec. 29.
Jewelry and Personality—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 91)—Oct. 23—(Selecting Jewelry to Suit Personality.)
Merchant Marine, New—Pathe-International—Oct. 14.
Police, The World's Greatest Mounted—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 95)—Nov. 25.
Potato Printing—Pathe—(Argus Pictograph No. 1)—Nov. 18.
Presidents of the United States and the Story of Old Glory American Cinema Commission.
Safe Guarding Our National Resources—(Universal Screen Magazine No. 47)—Nov. 30.
Safety First—Universal -(Screen Magazine No. 43)—Nov. 2—(Dealing principally with driving of motor cars, showing results of careless driving, boozing, etc.).
School for Motormen—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 41)—Oct. 22.
Stenciling Pathe (Argus Pictograph No. 2)—Nov.
Timber Resources, Protecting Our—Pathe—(Argus Pictorial No. 2)—Nov.
Trench Stoves and Candles for the Boys in the Trenches—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 51)—Dec. 29.
Trench Torches—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 95)—Nov. 25.
Wood Chopping Contest in New Zealand—Paramount-Bray—(Pictograph No. 88)—Oct. 8.

ZOOLOGY.

Animals of Australia—Educational.
Animals in Mid-Summer—Educational-Ditmars—Oct. 22.
Ant, My Friend, the—Brind.
Aquarium, The Fresh Water—Brind.
Bees, All About Brind.
Bird Island—Prizma—(Showing petrel, gull, murre, cormorant, etc.)
Birds Feed Their Young, How—Pathe—Dec.
Butterfly, The—Prizma.
Cricket, The Mole—Pathe—Oct. 28.
Denizens of the Deep—Brind -(2 parts) Nov.
Denizens of a Metropolitan Jungle—Paramount-Bray -(Pictograph No. 87)—Oct. 1.
Enemies of the Garden -Educational—(Showing destructiveness of cut worm, wire worm and cabbage worm and methods of extermination.)
Game, Our Vanishing Educational-Ditmars—Oct. 1.
Garden Monsters Pathe (Argus Pictorial No. 4) Dec. 30.
Goldfish, Beautiful—Brind.
Infinitely Small, The -(Animalculae)—Brind.
Kangaroos—Educational—Ditmar's.
Many Leagues Below the Sea—Universal—(Screen Magazine No. 44) -Nov. 9 (Showing varieties of sea fish).
Nature's Songsters—Educational-Ditmars Oct. 15.
Nature's Weavers—(Spiders) Educational-Ditmars—Dec. 10.
Our Game Birds—(The Wild Duck)—Pathe—Oct. 31—(colored).
Pelicans and Seals in Their Native Haunts—Educational—Oct.
Seals and Pelicans in Their Native Haunts—Educational—Oct. 15.
Smaller Monkeys, The Educational.
Star-Fish—Pathe -(Argus Pictograph No. 1)—Nov. 18.
Strange Fresh Water Insects Pathe -Dec.
Tropical Birds, Rare Prizma.
Vanishing Game—(Buffalo) Educational-Ditmars—Dec. 10.
Warblers of France—(colored)—Pathe—Oct. 14.

FILMS SUITABLE FOR THE FAMILY GROUP.

Adventurer, The Mutual-Chaplin -Oct. 22—(2 part farce comedy).
Adventures of Carol, The -World Film—(5 part drama)—Nov. 12.
All Aboard—Pathe-Rolin Nov. 25 -(farce comedy).
Antics of Ann—Paramount—Nov. 12—(5 part comedy).
Arms and the Girl—Paramount -Oct. 8—(5 part comedy-drama).
As Others See Us Metro-Drew Nov. 26—(Comedy).
Bab's Burglar—Paramount—Oct. 29 (5 part comedy).
Bab's Diary—Paramount -Sept. 24.
Belgian, The U. S. Exhibitors-Olcott—Nov.—(8 part drama).
Beloved Jim—Universal Special—Dec.—(5 part Christmas Story).
Bobby and Company -Vitagraph (Comedy)—Nov.
Bobby's Country Adventure Vitagraph—Nov. 12 (Comedy).
Bobby's Fairy—Vitagraph -Nov.
Bobby of the Home Defenders—Vitagraph Nov.—(Drama).

Bobby Takes a Wife—Vitagraph—Nov. 19—Comedy).
Bobby, the Magician—Vitagraph—Dec. (Comedy).
Brown of Harvard—Kleine-Essanay—Jan.—(6 part comedy).
Bucking Broadway—Universal—Dec. 24—(5 part comedy).
Case at Law, A—Triangle—Nov. 18—(5 part temperance drama).
Caught in the Draft—Universal-Nestor—Nov. 5—(comedy).
Cinderella Man, The—Goldwyn—Dec. 16—(6 part comedy-drama).
Close Resemblance, A—Metro-Drew—Nov. 19—(comedy).
Country Hero, A—Paramount—Dec. 10—(2 part farce comedy).
Courage of the Commonplace, The—Kleine-Perfection—Nov. 12—(5 part drama of college life).
Cricket, The—Universal-Butterfly—Nov. 22—(5 part juvenile drama).
Damaged, No Goods—Fox-Sunshine—Dec. 23—(2 part farce comedy).
Daughter of Maryland, A—Mutual—Oct 29—(5 part drama).
Desire of the Moth, The—Bluebird—Oct. 22—(5 part Western drama).
Devil Stone, The—Artcraft—Dec. 17—(5 part drama).
Draft 258—Metro—Nov. 15—(7 part patriotic drama).
Dream Doll, The—Kleine-Essanay—Dec. 19—(5 part doll comedy).
Eternal Mother, The—Metro—Nov. 26—(5 part child labor story).
Fair Barbarian, The—Paramount—Dec. 17—(5 part comedy).
Firefly of Tough Luck, The—Triangle—Oct. 21—(5 part Western).
Flaming Omen, The—Vitagraph—Oct. 29—(5 part drama).
For Valour—Triangle—Nov. 25—(5 part war drama).
Game of Wits, A—Mutual—American—Nov. 5—(5 part comedy).
Ghost House, The—Paramount—Oct. 1—(5 part comedy-drama).
Gift o' Gab—Kleine-Essanay—Nov. 26—(5 part comedy).
Grell Mystery, The—Vitagraph—Nov. 19—(5 part detective drama).
Hand of the Hun, The—Raver—Dec.—(4 part novelty—Boy's dream of toy soldiers coming to life).
Helping Hand, The—Vitagraph—Oct. 1—(Bobby Connelly drama).
Indian Summer of Dry Valley oJhnson, The—General Film-Broadway-Star—Dec.—(4 part drama).
Jack and Jill—Paramount—Nov. 12—(5 part comedy).
John Ermine of the Yellowtsone—Universal-Butterfly—Nov. 5—(5 part drama of Frontier Days).
Joy of Freedom, The—Metro-Drew—Oct. 1—(Comedy).
Judgment House, The—Paramount—Nov. 19—(5 part drama of Boer War).
Just a Woman—S. & S. Photoplays, Inc.—(7 part drama).
Kid Snatchers—Universal-L-KO—Nov. 28—(Juvenile comedy).
Kill Joy, The—Kleine-Essanay—Nov. 19—(5 part drama).
Lady in the Library, The—General Film-Falcon—Nov.—(4 part drama).
Law and Order—General Film-Broadway Star—(2 part Western O. Henry Story)—Nov.
Learnin' of Jim Benton, The—Triangle—Dec. 9—(5 part drama).
Les Miserables—Fox—Dec.—(10 part drama).
Little Patriot, A—Pathe—Dec. 2—(5 part juvenile drama).
Little Princess, The—Artcraft—Nov. 5—(5 part comedy-drama).
Love, Laughs and Lather—Pathe—Nov. 4—(Farce comedy).
Madam Who?—Paralta—Jan.—(7 part drama).
Man from Painted Post, The—Artcraft—Oct. 1—(5 part Western comedy-drama).
Marked Man, A—Universal-Butterfly—Oct. 29—(5 part Western drama).
Mary's Merry Mix-Up—Mutual-Strand—Nov. 6—(Comedy).
Mate of the Sally Ann, The—Mutual-American—Nov. 26—(5 part comedy-drama).
Medicine Man, The—Triangle—Nov. 11—(5 part Western drama).
Miss U. S. A.—Fox—Nov. 4—(5 part patriotic drama).
Molly Entangled—Paramount—Nov. 19—(5 part Irish drama).
More Haste Less Speed—Christie—Nov.—(Comedy).
Mother—McClure—Dec.—(6 part drama).
Move On—Pathe-Rolin—Dec. 9—(Farce comedy).
My Little Boy—Bluebird—Dec.—(5 part Christmas story).
Nan of Music Mountain—Paramount—Dec. 17—(5 part drama).
Narrow Trail, The—Artcraft—Oct. 15—(5 part Western drama).
Nearly Married—Goldwyn—Nov. 18—(6 part comedy).
New York Luck—Mutual—Dec. 17—(5 part comedy).
Night in New Arabia, A—General Film—Broadway Star—Nov.—(4 part drama).
Nutty Knitters, The—Paramount-Klever—Nov. 19—(Comedy).
One Shot Ross—Triangle—Oct. 14—(5 part Western melodrama).
Over the Hill—Pathe-Astra—Dec. 30—(5 part drama).
Peggy Leads the Way—Mutual-American—Oct. 29—(5 part comedy-drama).
Please Help Emily—Mutual-American—Nov. 7—(5 part comedy).
Pride of New York, The—Fox—Dec. 9—(5 part drama).
Roping Her Romeo—Paramount-Sennett—Oct. 21—(2 part farce comedy).
Sadie Goes to Heaven—Kleine-Essanay—Dec. 24—(5 part comedy-drama).
Scarlet Pimpernel, The—Fox—Oct. 28—(5 part drama of period of French Revolution).
Secret Game, The—Paramount—Dec. 3—(5 part drama).
Secret of the Storm Country, The—Select—(5 part drama).
Shirley Kaye—Select—Dec.—(5 part drama).
Silent Lady, The—Universal Special—Dec. 10—(5 part drama).
Skylight Room, The—General Film—Broadway Star—Dec.—(4 part drama).
Small-Town Guy, The—Kleine-Essanay—Dec. 3—(5 part comedy).
Spreading Dawn, The—Goldwyn—Oct. 21—(6 part drama).
Square Deceiver, The—Metro-Yorke—Dec. 3—(5 part comedy-drama).
Sudden Gentleman, The—Triangle—Dec. 2—(5 part comedy).
Sunshine Alley—Goldwyn—Nov. 4—(6 part comedy-drama).
Tenderfoot, The—Vitagraph—Dec. 3—(5 part comedy-drama).
This is the Life—Fox—Oct. 21—(5 part comedy).
Tom Sawyer—Paramount—Dec. 10—(5 part comedy).
Trouble Buster, The—Paramount—Oct. 8—(5 part comedy).
Uneasy Money—Kleine-Essanay—Jan. 1—(5 part comedy-drama).
Unknown 274—Fox—Dec. 16—(5 part drama).
Unmarried Look, The—Metro-Drew—Dec. 24—(Comedy).
Until They Get Me—Triangle—Dec. 23—(5 part Western drama).
Up or Down?—Triangle—Nov. 4—(5 part Western comedy).
Volunteer, The—World—Dec. 24—(5 part drama).
Wages No Object—Metro-Drew—Dec. 10—(Comedy).
Whistling Dick's Christmas Stocking—General Film—Broadway Star—Dec.—(2 part O. Henry Christmas story).
Who Shall Take My Life?—Selig—Dec.—(7 parts anti-capital punishment drama).
Young Mother Hubbard—Kleine-Essanay—Oct. 29—(4 part drama).
Zeppelin's Last Raid—U. S. Exhibtors-Ince—(5 part military drama).

ADDRESSES OF MANUFACTURING COMPANIES AND EXCHANGES REFERRED TO.

American Agricultural Chemical Company, 2 Rector Street, New York City.
American Cinema Commission—235 W. 23d Street, New York City.
Artcraft Pictures Corporation—485 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.—1600 Broadway, New York City.
Brockliss, J. Frank—729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Carter, Katherine F.—220 W. 42d Street, New York City.
Catholic Art Association—949 Broadway, New York City.
Christie Film Company—Sunset Boulevard and Gower Street, Los Angeles, Cal.
Commonwealth Pictures Corporation—220 South State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Crest Pictures—Times Building, New York City.
Duplex—729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Educational Films Corporation of America—729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
E. I. S. Motion Picture Corporation—203 W. 40th Street, New York City.
Exhibitors' Circuit, First National—18 E. 41st Street, New York City.
Exhibitors' Corporation, U. S.—Times Building, New York City.
Fort Pitt Theater Corporation—Times Building, New York City.
Fox Film Corporation—126 W. 46th Street, New York City.
France Films, Inc.—107 W 47th Street, New York City.
General Enterprises, Inc—1476 Broadway, New York City.
General Film Company—440 Fourth Avenue, New York City.
Goldwyn Pictures Corporation—16 E. 42d Street, New York City.
Hiller and Wilk—1476 Broadway, New York City.
High Class Film Productions—Palace Theater Building, New York City.
Jewel Productions, Inc.—1600 Broadway, New York City.
Kleine System, George—729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Lincoln and Parker Company, Inc.—Worcester, Mass.
Metro Pictures Corporation—1485 Broadway, New York City.
Mutual Film Corporation—222 South State Street, Chicago, Ill.
Oro Film Productions—729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Paragon Films, Inc.—126 W. 46th Street, New York City.
Paralta Plays, Inc.—729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Paramount Pictures Corporation—485 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
Pathe Exchange, Inc—25 W. 45th Street, New York City.
Prizma, Inc.—11 E. 14th Street, New York City.
Raver, Harry—1400 Broadway, New York City.
S. & S. Photoplays, Inc.—1476 Broadway, New York City.
Selig Polyscope Company—58 East Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Select Pictures Corporation—729 Seventh Avenue, New York City.
Triangle Pictures Corporation—1457 Broadway, New York City.
Universal Film Manufacturing Company—1600 Broadway, New York City.
Visual Education Company—67 Irving Place, New York City.
Vitagraph, Greater—1600 Broadway, New York City.
World Film Corporation—126 W. 46th Street, New York City.

Pictures to Help Win the War

Moving Pictures an Important Feature in Bagdad—British Officers Conduct Moving Picture Center for Educational and Entertainment Purposes.

By Rev. W. H. Jackson.

BAGDAD is one of the world's central points. In recent times it has become the objective of an unrighteous and unbridled ambition under the slogan of "From Berlin to Bagdad." For the purpose for which this ambition was aimed it has happily been frustrated, or no one can imagine what selfish restrictions might have fallen to the lot of moving pictures.

As it is, Bagdad is a world center for the development of pictures, in which the American makers will undoubtedly have no small interest. It is of striking importance that along with the latest news coming from that famous city concerning its relationship to the world conflict, is the statement that moving pictures are at once an important feature of the day. The British military authorities have established a moving picture center conducted exclusively by officers, primarily for military educational purposes, and in the second place for entertainment.

Pictures a Part of War Equipment.

It is at once a singular and complimentary fact that the moving picture has now become an integral part of the equipment of all military purposes either at home or abroad; the only lamentable feature is that they are so badly provided with pictures of the better kind; it may be that to point out this fact may in some way help to remedy the defect; we know that all moving picture people are desirous that only the best shall be provided where it is most needed, and efforts shall be made towards that end. One of the greatest helps which has come to the American armies is the combination of the Y. M. C. A. and the moving picture, which have made tolerable the life which otherwise would have been a distressing burden. In Bagdad American films are sought since the war has cut off the manufacture of British and other films; now that the British are in occupation it will prove easier to secure the use of the desired films of American make.

Pictures a Part of the Soldier's Education.

Full justice is being accorded to the moving picture by the officers in the camps and cantonments throughout the United States and abroad. The leading magazines are constantly illustrating their pages with examples of the uses of the pictures in teaching the intricacies of gun practice and aviation, and, indeed, all branches of scientific possibilities; the writer has been assured officially that not only have the pictures made teaching more thorough and of wider scope, but they have also given more and greater results in a minimum of time, and the enlisted men have been helped not only in an untold degree but in a way absolutely otherwise impossible; therefore, it is not going too far to refer to the adoptation of a well-known attribute of "winning the war" to the pictures as it is to meat and wheat.

Winning the War With Moving Pictures. ..

To so many causes there has been rightly ascribed the possibility of "winning the war" that each is right in its place, to the list must be added the moving picture. An authority gives the following ways in which the pictures are in the "winning-the-war" list. First, as already shown in the instructive powers in all phases of military work. Second, in strengthening the morale of the troops, they impart an inspiration to such an extent that regret is expressed that there are not more pictures of this class to give heart and backbone o the men. Third, they are of a great moral help; the Y. M. C. A. confess that without them more than half of their ability to deal with so great a company of men would be nullified. Augmenting this is the "home feeling" which they impart to the men, thereby removing one of the former chief causes of distress. Lastly, as an entertainer they are supreme and complete in every possible way, their versatility covering all needs; there is no one thing, neither is there a combination of things that can fill the place occupied by the pictures, so that they are easily and well entitled to the right, with more superior materials, to have ascribed to them their large place in the winning of the war.

The World Today in Motion Pictures

Weekly Review of Events at Home and Abroad Issued by Community Motion Picture Bureau for Camp Service.

INTENDED not alone as a matter of entertainment, but to stimulate interest in matters military outside of individual camps, the new weekly release of the Community Motion Picture Bureau, of 46 West 24th street, New York City, is apparently fulfilling its mission, if one can judge by the material of which the various numbers are being composed.

The Community Motion Picture Bureau has been working for some time in co-operation with the Y. M. C. A. and the War Work Council. In fact, the entire responsibility of supplying films for the camps was turned over by the Y. M. C. A. to this organization, which within the past few months has expanded astonishingly. Or perhaps we should say that the ever-increasing requirements of the camps has forced it to a top limit of speed. And no greater proof of its tireless quest for good material can be found than that presented in the two-reel weekly being compiled by them and entitled, "The World Today in Motion Pictures." Two of these weeklies were viewed by the writer, namely, Nos. 3 and 5. In them can be seen the methods of photographing by means of kites and balloons; the Flanders troops going to the beach, the cutting of peat for trench-fire fuel, mass in a ruined cathedral, and methods of communication. There are some very interesting scenes in which the carrier pigeon figures, and others in which wig-wagging forms the main feature. Other methods of signalling are shown, including the heliograph and wireless telegraphy, panel signals for communication with aeroplanes, and signalling by rocket. Scenes showing the inactive life of the Austrian navy during its bottled-up period are interesting. Taking this weekly all in all, it appears to be well managed and made of the right kind of material to place before the prospective soldier. The Community Motion Picture Bureau, in compiling this weekly, is not trying to compete with other news weeklies, nor is it striving for first-hand news scenes. The keeping of the soldier in touch with the technique, and, in fact, all phases of that life of which he himself has become a part, is an important matter. It is interesting to these men in the camps, for instance, to see something of life in other camps, or in the camps abroad; and it is also interesting and necessary for them to have some intimate knowledge of the various branches of the work of waging a successful war against the common enemy. "The World Today in Motion Pictures" is a development of the motion picture in its service in the camps. Accompanying each weekly when space allows is an interesting cartoon.

Interesting Educationals

Three Zoological Subjects, One Industrial, One Scenic, One Military, One Topical and One Engineering.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"A Study in Pelicans" (Paramount-Bray).

THE PHOTOGRAPHING of the family affairs of the pelican has been accomplished by the Bray camera man with good success. Near the mouth of the Indian River in Florida lies a small island where the pelicans flock and build their nests. Here they are seen in the act of rearing their young. One of the nests shown had eggs not yet hatched out, from which Mrs. Pelican obligingly steps while we view her prospective brood. About two thousand of these birds are said to congregate on this island, and the panorama of this immense flock is an interesting sight. "A Study in Pelicans" will be found in Pictograph 103.

"Animal Drolleries" (Coronet).

An amusing reel of film, in which various animals are shown in peculiar situations. Ferrets are the first to gain attention. They strive with grotesque motions to reach a piece of paper hung on the end of a string just out of their reach; and one of the most interesting ferret studies shows them conveying their young from one place to another as a cat does her kittens. A young wild cat being fed from a bottle provides considerable amusement, especially when the flow of milk is momentarily withheld. An otter trying to take a bath in an ordinary wash basin, which it finally manages to knock over and break, is also entertaining. A kitten cautiously worrying a snake which is playing dead, and another kitten playing with a parrot are interesting and extremely funny sights.

"Birdland Studies" (Coronet).

An interesting group of views entitled, "Birdland Studies," were evidently photographed somewhere in Northern Europe. Among the birds seen in these views are the grebe, the puffin, the cormorant and the sea gull. The pictures include some good close-ups of these birds, as well as panoramic views of their flocking ground.

"Women in the World of Work" (Paramount-Bray).

In the first of a series of pictures entltled, "Women in the World of Work," and which will be found in the 103rd release of Pictograph, the making of fine perfumes is the subject dealt with. In this picture can be seen Anne Haviland, a Southern woman, who had studied the production of perfumes in France, at work extracting the sweetness from various fragrant blossoms. Miss Haviland apparently anticipated that ere long there would be a shortage of the rare extracts for which France and the Orient were largely responsible before the war, and was prepared and willing to enter this pleasant vocation. The picture shows the petals of flowers passing through the processes which finally cause them to relinquish their fragrance.

"Ranier Park" (Pathe).

Another of the interesting series of Combitone pictures devoted to "Our National Parks." Ranier park lies in the heart of the Cascade mountains in Washington, a bleak, rugged country containing some spots of rare beauty. A glacier, in which the crevices are a thousand feet deep in places, numerous rivers, waterfalls and cascades, and many other features of special interest are included. Views of mountain climbing are a special attraction. The reel closes with the tired party approaching Paradise Inn.

"The Making of An American Officer" (Educational).

The scenes in this picture were photographed at Plattsburg and are of special interest. They show the men answering the 5.30 A. M. call, equipped with their towels and other toilet articles. Then we see them in the performance of their daily duties and the work of learning all the various branches of their profession. Every detail in the training of an officer is clearly shown in this picture.

"Messengers of Mercy" (Universal).

In the 56th issue of the Universal Screen Magazine will be found a series of views showing how members of the Red Cross employed in succoring the wounded on the battlefield carry on their work of mercy. The various methods of conveying the wounded to safety are an interesting part of this picture, which gives fine illustrations of the one-arm carry for narrow places such as the trenches, the coat-tail carry, and the tunic carry. These different methods of one-man transportation are made necessary by certain conditions of the person being carried. For instance, a man who is lame can be most easily carried by using his arms as pack straps; rescuing under fire makes it necessary to tie the hands of the wounded man and place them over the rescuer's head, the latter advancing cautiously on all fours with the wounded man on his back. These pictures are intensely interesting. The release date on this is February 1.

"Coal Economy" (Universal).

In the 57th issue of the Screen Magazine, which will be released February 8, is some interesting information regarding the building of the proposed dam and power plant at Niagara Falls, which, should such a thing really occur, would prove a saving of millions of tons of coal each year. Some excellent views of the Niagara River, with figures as to length, width, etc., are given. It also points out the cities which would come within the 500-mile radius which would be effected by the concentration of the energy of Niagara. This is an instructive subject and as presented is of value in a geographical way.

Items of Interest.

The distribution of the Finley Nature Series of fish, bird and wild animal nature studies, through Universal exchanges, began January 14 with "Wild Birds and Animals at Home." These pictures will be carried in one-reel form whenever the length will permit, and in other instances the reel will be split with selected scenic. The arrangements for these pictures at present announced are as follows: "Taming Wild Birds," with a scenic, "Glimpses of Yosemite National Park," January 21; "The Bears of the Yellowstone," and a scenic, "The Long White Trail," January 28; "Sea Birds and Animals," with a scenic, "Gems of the Adriatic," February 4; and "The Salmon Fisheries of the Columbia," February 11.

* * *

The following is a list of available sources of informational pictures which will doubtless be of interest to our readers:

1. The Committee on Public Information, 10 Jackson Place, Washington, D. C., maintains a Motion Picture Department under the direction of Mr. Mack. Pictures dealing with the activities of the Government in the different departments can be obtained by correspondence with him.
2. The American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., has some motion pictures dealing with its activities. Information will be furnished on request.
3. The Commission on Food Administration, Washington, D. C., can give information about films dealing directly with its work.
4. Industrial and Economic Films—Henry Disston & Sons, Philadelphia, Pa., issue a list of manufacturers having motion picture films of educational value. Correspond with the Educational Department for this list. Some of the films are valuable for such entertainments.
5. The Bureau of Commercial Economics, Washington, D. C., has a list of industrial, economic and Government films which are loaned directly from Washington or through exchanges which they have established in other cities. Write to director for complete information.

AUBREY M. KENNEDY RESIGNS.

Aubrey M. Kennedy has resigned as manager of productions of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation and is understood to have completed plans to assume the personal direction of Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese screen star, in an organization of his own to be known as the Master Picture Corporation. No plans are announced for the distribution of the Hayakawa pictures.

Mr. Kennedy has been with Goldwyn almost from its inception, having first been manager of the Fort Lee studios and later advanced to manager of productions. In addition to his executive activities, he has at different times taken personal charge of the editing, cutting and titling of several of the company's popular releases. He is also co-author with Edgar Selwyn, of "Dodging a Million," Mabel Normand's first Goldwyn production, to be released in a few days.

Pathe Cuts Production In Two

Will Release Pathe Plays One Every Fortnight Hereafter—Lists First Few Subjects.

ONE of the most important developments of the new year is the announcement that owing to the overproduction in the industry the new big Pathe Plays will be released one every two weeks instead of one every week, the policy being quality rather than quantity, and the news comes at the same time that the first four Pathe Plays under this plan and their release dates will be: Fannie Ward in "Innocent," January 27; Frank Keenan in "Loaded Dice," February 10; Bryant Washburn in "Kidder and Ko," February 24, and Bessie Love in "Spring of the Year," March 10.

"The Pathe idea in accordance with which Mr. Berst is now on the coast," said Sales Manager F. C. Quimby, "is in a nutshell highest class production with the advantages of the star system and without its evils. Pathe believes it has been the extravagant overuse of the star idea that has brought the terrific increase in rental prices. We know also that stars are necessary at the present time and we think that our policy of twenty-six quality features a year will meet with favor. The tendency in the business must be to better and fewer features and longer runs. It is in line with this thought that we are acting with all the great resources of Pathe behind us."

Fannie Ward, one of the best known stars of the American stage, having appeared in many hits both in America and abroad. The part afforded here in "Innocent" is said to be an unusually strong one.

Frank Keenan gained stage fame in David Belasco's production of "The Warrens of Virginia." In the picture which he made under Thomas Ince he established himself in the affections of the screen public. "Loaded Dice" gives him the strongest role he has ever played on the screen.

Bryant Washburn gained added popularity when "Skinner's Dress Suit" was released. "Kidder & Ko" is the best thing he has done yet, the picture having been created for and built around him.

Little Bessie Love has had the advantage of learning her art under the direction of D. W. Griffith. Some of the pictures in which she has played have owed their popularity to her work. There is a charm about this young girl that makes her irresistible, and "Spring of the Year" proves a fine vehicle for her.

"Innocent" is from the successful stage play of the same name, a play that has made much money for its producers. It was directed by George Fitzmaurice. On it money has been spent lavishly. The big cast includes John Miltern and Armand Kalitz.

"Loaded Dice" is a powerful story produced under the direction of Herbert Blache. The picture is based upon the novel of Hilary A. Clark and the scenario is by Gilson Willetts, himself author of many books. The story deals with food profiteering and the character played by the star is that of a man who takes a fifty-fifty chance that there is no God. Remarkable night photography and unusually large studio sets mark this production.

"Spring of the Year" is by one of America's best known authors, Henry Kitchell Webster, the scenario having been done by Agnes C. Johnston, and the production having been made under the direction of Mme. Alice Blache, with a big cast, including Donald Hall, Chester Barnett and Florence Short. It is a delightful comedy drama of the type most popular at the present time.

"These four pictures will stand against any four released consecutively by any company," said Mr. Quimby. "I am confident that from now on Pathe will be one of the very biggest factors in the feature end of the business. I want it distinctly understood that these pictures cannot be classed with any Pathe has released in the past.

"This new two a month twenty-six a year policy of quality rather than quantity means Pathe pictures in the best theaters in the country. We want to see the motion picture business go ahead and we know that there are too many pictures being produced today. We know we can produce twenty-six features a year that are up to the standard set by 'Innocent' and 'Loaded Dice.'"

FONTAINE TO MANAGE PATHE DISTRICT OFFICE.

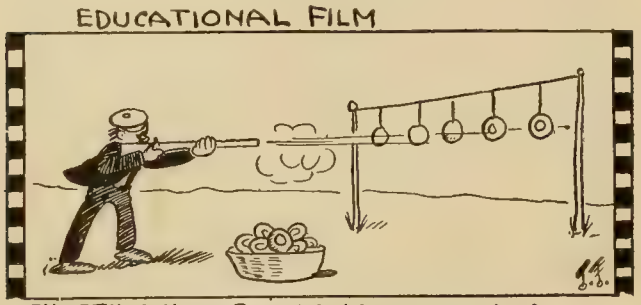
J. E. Fontaine has been appointed to the managership of Pathe's Detroit office, in line with the company's policy of promoting deserving members of the organization to the higher positions.

Grinding the Crank

With Thornton Fisher

TERRY RAMSAYE blew into New York recently "Blew" is right, for about the time Terry landed here the wind was howling like a cow that's lost her calf and the thermometer was so low that its chin scraped the ground. Terry was accompanied by his pet cigarette holder.

* * *



SHOOTING HOLES IN DOUGHNUTS ON A DOUGHNUT PRESERVE.

Some of the movie managers in these parts are breaking their vest fronts with palpitation of the heart due to the coal supply dying a fast death. Coal is as scarce as icicles in Africa.

* * *

Another thing! An exhibitor who showed travel pictures of Eskimos at play in the frozen north while the mercury was "doing a brodie" outside was as popular as the Kaiser.

* * *

The telephone buzzed.
"Hello!" says we.
"Hello!" says he.
"What's new?" says we.
"Oh, nothing,' says he, "only we're going to make a picture in Florida and I've just called up to say good bye!"
"You've got a nerve taking our valuable time, we don't care where you go. Why tell us?" says we as we shivered three shivers and pulled the old coat up around our neck again.

There was a line of people stretched half way around the block trying to get into a moving picture theatre near us recently. We scanned the menu card of pictures in the lobby featuring—and—and says to ourselves, "This must be some picture to pull a gang out on a night like this." So we dug into our jeans for a couple of jits and waited our turn to extract two admissions from the lady at the box office. Inside the theatre we inquired for standing room and the usher told us the only room we might squeeze into was the hat room. They were jammed. They were crammed. A publicity man witnessing this mob scene would have declared that the millenium had come and then expired on the spot. We turned our head to a man who was resting his ear on our cheek and asked if the picture had been considerably advertised to attract such attention. "Pictures!" quoth he, "Pictures my eye. All the apartment houses in this neighborhood have run out of coal and this is the only warm place in the vicinity!"

* * *

Kid McCoy is going to appear in a picture. It ought to be a "knock-out."

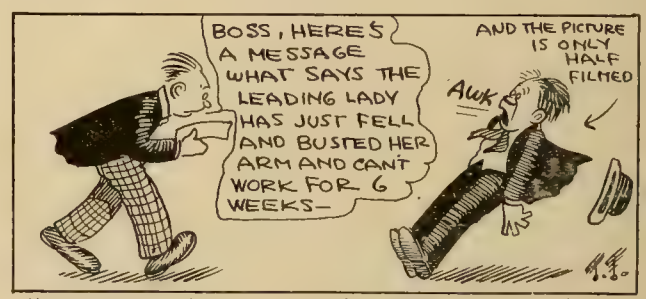
* * *

Joe Brandt, the human dynamo, has been promoted to general something-or-other again. About the only thing Joe hasn't done up at the Universal plant is run the elevator.

* * *

"Every knock's a boost," they say, but you ought to hear a movie actor kick when he gets a camouflaged boost of that kind handed to him by an honest critic.

* * *



BOSS, HERE'S A MESSAGE WHAT SAYS THE LEADING LADY HAS JUST FELL AND BUSTED HER ARM AND CAN'T WORK FOR 6 WEEKS—AND THE PICTURE IS ONLY HALF FILMED AWK!

INCIDENTS THAT TAKE THE JOY OUT OF LIFE.

We can think of six good jobs we'd rather have than that of villain in a plot in which Bill Farnum is the hero.

* * *

Went to a theater the other night. The music was so loud we couldn't see the picture.

* * *

Let's go!

I WOULDN'T WORRY, EDGAR IT ONLY SHOWS THAT YOU'VE GOT TO HAVE INFLUENCE TO GET YOUR WORK ACCEPTED!
I WOULDN'T CARE ONLY AFTER SEEING WHAT THEY DO USE ON THE SCREEN THAT'S NO GOOD IT MAKES ME SORE!
IT'S ONLY A TRICK OF THEIRS, EDGAR! THEY STEAL YOUR IDEAS AND SEND THE STORY BACK TO YOU SAYIN' THEY CAN'T USE IT!
I RECKON NOW, YOU WON'T BE ABLE TO BUY THAT NEW SUIT YOU WAS FIGURIN', ON, ED!
RETURNED AS "THE EDITOR FINDS IT UNAVAILABLE FOR PRESENT USE" (HANDING HIM THE WALLOP AS EASY AS POSSIBLE
THORNTON FISHER

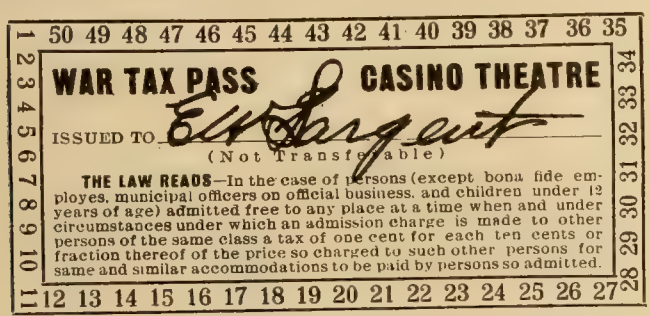
WHAT THE SCRIPT EDITOR DOESN'T SEE WHEN HE SENDS A SCENARIO BACK TO A YOUNG AUTHOR

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Making It Pay.

PROBABLY nothing is more characteristic of managerial methods than the reports on the war tax on admissions. Many complain that they have lost money; a few say that it makes no difference, and a still smaller percentage have actually profited by the tax. These last are they who have been at some pains to hammer upon the patriotic aspect. They have not told of the tax with the air of one breaking bad news. They have told that here was another chance for the patriot to do his bit. They have refused to regard it in the light of a tax, but rather assume to look upon it as an opportunity to do good. Since the tax had to be this was the only attitude that good management suggests. It was not, and will not, be possible to educate the amusement seeker to revolt and obtain the revocation of the tax. The next best thing is to make the best of it. Everything else has gone up in price. There is no particular reason why amusements should be exempted. Instead of regretting the tax in apologetic language the shrewd manager assumed an air of approval. Here was a good thing that he was going to help along, and that, of course, his patrons wanted to help along. Those houses have been hurt the least by the change. The houses that worked best were those who got out some form of tax-paid card or ticket. Perhaps the best up to date is that got out by Steve Farrar, of the Colonial, Eldorado, Ill.



1 50 49 48 47 46 45 44 43 42 41 40 39 38 37 36 35
WAR TAX PASS
CASINO THEATRE ISSUED TO
(Not Transferable)
THE LAW READS—In the case of persons (except bona fide employes, municipal officers on official business, and children under 12 years of age) admitted free to any place at a time when and under circumstances under which an admission charge is made to other persons of the same class a tax of one cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof of the price so charged to such other persons for same and similar accommodations to be paid by persons so admitted.
12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27

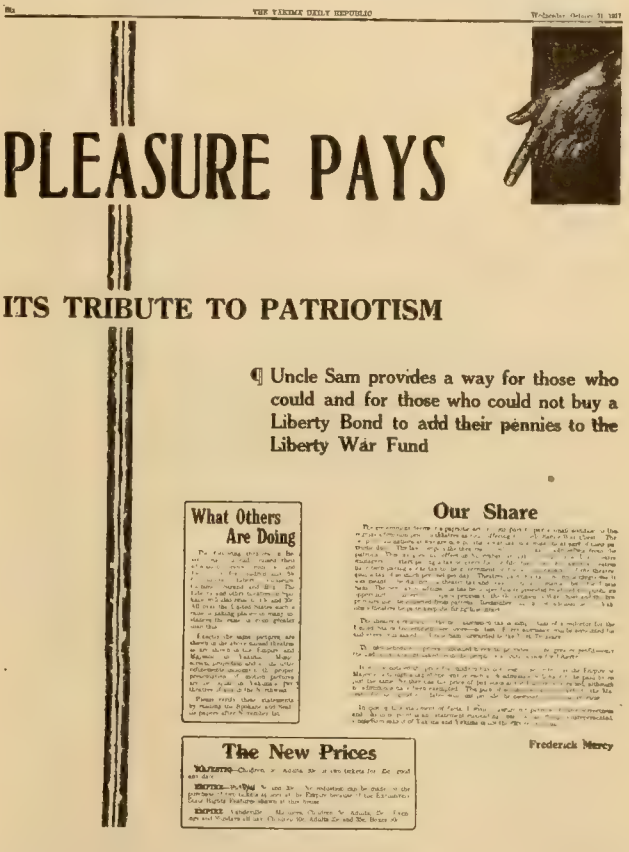
It is no more than the old meal ticket idea, but it works well; better than the coupon book in that it saves elaborate printing with perforating rule work. The card is sold for fifty cents and has fifty spaces for punching. One hole is punched for a ten-cent admission and two for a fifteen or twenty cent ticket. On ten-and-fifteen cent days Steve pays the tax himself, the ticket being used for regular ten-cent days. It might have been better to have made the card at a quarter, but it is going to be a lot easier to get fifty cents out of a patron once than to get a penny from him fifty times. He lets go the half dollar and then he fells himself upon the old basis during the life of the ticket. The money has been spent and forgotten. To build up he uses such lines as "Do your fighting a penny at a time" and "Every time you attend the Casino you are helping the Government win the war. We are paying a tax on admissions, a tax on seats, a tax on film and a tax on war profits. The extra admissions that we have added go to help win the war. Do your bit cheerfully!" Do your own bit cheerfully. Maintain the ruling, print arguments along these lines. Argue without heat with your patrons who object. They pay more for food, for clothes, for rent, for everything, why shouldn't they pay a little more for amusement? They will soon get used to the tax and pay it cheerfully. Help them to get used to it instead of aiding them in maintaining their grouches by admitting that the tax is an imposition. Get out tax-paid cards, and help them to forget the tax. Get an empty shell case with a pasteboard projectile and drop the tax coins in that. Put a card on the case, reading "Fill this with tax pennies and pay for shooting a real shell at the enemy." Novelty stores have these shells in paper for as little as ten cents, or your tinsmith can make one from brass tube for a dollar or two. Probably not one of your patrons has stopped smoking or drinking because of the tax. A tax on face powder would not cut down the number of artificial complexions. As soon as the public gets used to the tax they will come as frequently as before and take the tax as a matter of course if you will accept it as a matter of course and help them to get used to it.

Likes It Himself.

H. A. Gillespie, of the Frederick Mercy Enterprises, North Yakima, Wash., writes:

> It's been a long time since I shot you copy or proof of an ad, so here goes. Please understand the delay has not been because we have not had ads of which I have been rather proud, but solely because I have been too darn busy.
>
> The inclosed ad hits me about right, at least as to layout. Type styles and print may leave something to be desired, but I think the text listens good and the whole thing sort of hits a fellow in the eye.
>
> That's my opinion. But then, you see I wrote it, so there is an excuse for me liking it. Now fly at it and pick it to pieces and I'll profit thereby and write a better one next time—perhaps.

The advertisement is a full page from the local paper, and we can't blame Mr. Gillespie for being proud of its layout. It looks well and is easy to read, the two arguments are well separated and may be



PLEASURE PAYS
ITS TRIBUTE TO PATRIOTISM
¶ Uncle Sam provides a way for those who could and for those who could not buy a Liberty Bond to add their pennies to the Liberty War Fund
What Others Are Doing
Our Share
The New Prices
Frederick Mercy

read without difficulty and the box giving the new prices is clear and distinct. It's a good model to preserve against the time you might want to run a full page.

Try Tokens.

If the shortage in pennies continues try tokens. If the tax is two cents and a dime is proffered, offer a nickel and three tokens, good at later visits. It will lead to the use of punch tickets, and that will help a lot.

Get Ready Now.

February sees two anniversaries, those of the birth of George Washington and Abraham Linclon. Both will be good for business if they are played up properly, but make a special event of each. If you decorate the lobby with American flags and a picture of Lincoln, do not use the same decorations and a picture of Washington. Use the same flags, if you will, but change their arrangement to mark a new celebration. Both of these days lend themselves to the prize composition idea, but use this suggestion for only one of the two days. Try and co-operate with the local schools, even to the point of offering your house for a morning celebration, with speaking and singing and one or two reels of special film. Then follow with a special pay matinee and you'll hold most of the audience, but do it tactfully and prevent the suggestion that the celebration is merely the ballyhoo for the special show. Make the special a continuation of the celebration.

Good and Bad.

We show two more examples of the advertising of the Piper Opera House, Virginia City, Nev. One of them is nicely done, but the other is too ornate. Boxes are good, but when the entire advertisement is paneled then panels lose their appeal and become confusing. This advertisement for June Caprice contains the germ of a good idea, but the compositor has overplayed, and fails to get the prominence he desires. The other example is a well-set display, not always good for newspaper work where there is hard composition, but well suited to the smaller papers where the display is not so heavy and where this will stand out nicely.

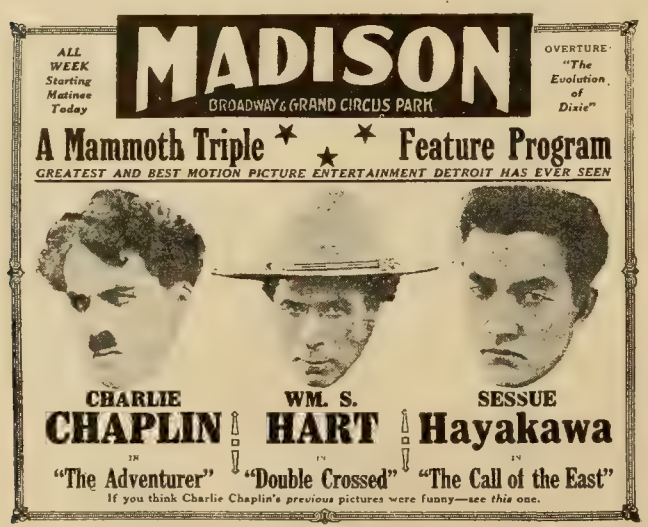
Cut Placement.

A friend in Detroit sends in some samples of the work of the Madison theater which form an excellent series of studies in cut placement. The Madison, which is one of the Kunsky houses, runs not a a little to a three-column advertisement five or six inches deep. They work well in the paper and show to advantage alongside larger spaces taken by other houses. Perhaps the prettiest specimen is that showing Chaplin, Hart and Hayakawa on one bill. A stronger combination



ALL WEEK Starting Matinee Today
MADISON
BROADWAY & GRAND CIRCUS PARK
OVERTURE "The Evolution of Dixie"
A Mammoth Triple ★ ★ ★ Feature Program
GREATEST AND BEST MOTION PICTURE ENTERTAINMENT DETROIT HAS EVER SEEN
CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN "The Adventurer"
WM. S. HART IN "Double Crossed"
SESSUE Hayakawa IN "The Call of the East"
If you think Charlie Chaplin's previous pictures were funny—see this one.

could not well be imagined. It will be noticed that while all three cuts are about the same height, the picture of Hart is about half that, and by placing him in the centre, the advertisement balances better than would a display with Hart and Hayakawa on the outside. This form works up well in the paper, as is shown in the reproduction of the lower half of a Sunday issue. This is a different advertisement, but on the same lines, and here the balance is preserved by putting Hart in the centre. It might also be noticed that the two women are facing him. A different arrangement would have shown them with their backs turned and would have hurt the display. The space works to advantage even in competition with a single picture advertisement of much the same design, and overshadows the rest of the space at a cost of but fifteen inches. Another example of good make-up gives Jack Pickford in the Varmint. Here, by dropping the cut to the bottom it helps to hold the type to the heading. This is because there is a solid line at the bottom while the top is routed out. Had the same cut been used at the top of the space, with the house name appearing below, the cut would have been isolated from the rest of the advertisement as completely as though a cut-off rule had been employed. This is an all too common error in make-up. The mere fact that the cut is held in with rule does not help much. The bottom line of the cut is more solid than the rule and serves as its own cut-off rule. In the next example there are shown two similar advertisements. In the one on the right the effect is not so good as that for Harold Lockwood, because the characters have their backs turned to the text. Neither is as good as the first example, as reference to the half-page introduction will show. There is more type talk, and in a way this might be regarded as an advantage, but type is scarcely needed for the other players, and here description will help to get attention. The line "He had never seen a girl," for the Lockwood advertisement, is excellent, and Miss Kennedy is still new enough to the screen to need some introduction. Two examples of an upright make up are given. That for Miss Marsh is better than the double bill because the type is placed between the two points of interest in the cut and must be regarded as a whole. It is a more costly make-up, however, since the cut must be paid for and then mortised at an additional cost, but it is worth the extra money, in this case, to get the type where it will show to the greater advantage. These are all examples of careful placement, and show how a little study will improve the results. In all cases the reverse cut holds up the house name, and that gives no trouble. In the Lockwood space, it will be noted, the corner of the cut has been routed to let the portrait in. Evidently there is a stock two-column cut used that works with either make-up. A generous supply of house name cuts is essential to good make-up. Get a standard form and never vary, and if you use it regularly you will find that the cut will save you several inches of display in the average advertisement, since it makes itself known through its form rather than through the space taken.

Minneapolis Press Work.

"They can do those things in the small towns. Our city is too big." That's a favorite alibi with the city Exhibitor when it is suggested that he go against the newspapers, but it is not always a good defense. Lately the Jewel production of The Man Without a Country was given a free showing at the Strand theater, Minneapolis, and the Starland, St. Paul. These free matinee performances were ostensibly engineered by the Minneapolis Journal and the St. Paul Pioneer-Press-Dispatch as a lesson in patriotism to the younger generation. Probably the stunt was arranged by the Jewel Exchange and the two Exhibitors. We show the folder gotten out by the exchange which gives a part of the advertising given to the two houses—and the film. According to this folder, with but a single exception, the advertising was all three-eights or better, it cost the two houses only the expense of opening for a special showing. Two thousand children were present in Minneapolis alone. Of course this stunt cannot be pulled with every film. It must have either a patriotic basis or be educational, except that any good picture can be run as a Christmas or anniversary treat. About a year ago Snow White was shown to thousands under the auspices of the Kansas City Star and the film was then booked around town for a clean-up. If you are adroit, you can work in with the newspaper and the exchange and get your film free, but even if you had to pay double rental, it would pay you to get in with the newspaper. It has an effect that continues long beyond the showing, but even if it did not, the value of being hooked up with the local paper for a week or ten days is something that could not be purchased with money. In working for these stunts it is better to seek to deal with the Business Manager or with him through the Photoplay Editor, if there is one. It classes as a circulation scheme and is not handled by the news department. Watch for likely looking stuff and get a few hundred dollars' worth of advertising and many more hundreds in prestige at a cost so small that you are almost ashamed not to have spent more. If you make it a wholly free performance, at which no tickets of any sort are sold, it is probable that no war tax need be paid, but it would be better to first get the opinion of your own official rather than to trust to luck or a general ruling. We think, however, that a free performance would not be taxed. And on the subject of Minneapolis advertising, here are a couple of samples of the advertising of the Strand and the New Garden. Both sets suggest that the management has great faith in plenty of ink. The first pair are both heavily bordered in black. They lay in the form as shown in the reproduction. In both the hand lettering is clear and easy to read. Both show enough of a design to get the eye, and both tell their story briefly. In the second example the Strand uses only part cut and makes the rest type. The New Garden uses a full cut, though type would have done as well for the upper portion of the space and would have saved engraving costs while gaining clearness. The design is odd, but the setting of a title one letter below the other does not make for quick reading and should not be employed where the title is shown but once. Even

NEW GARDEN
COMMENCING TODAY—
PREMIER NORTHWEST SHOWING of the Bluebird Special Feature Monroe Salisbury and Ruth Clifford
in
"The SAVAGE"
FULL of GRIPPING ACTION
BEAUTIFUL NATURAL SETTINGS
The STRAND
The Playhouse of Minneapolis
COMMENCING TODAY
Elaine Hammerstein
supported by Wilfred Lucas and a strong cast in Ralph W Ince's great cinedramma entitled
"The Co-Respondent"
Also the second installment of the official French war film entitled
"France in Arms"
See an actual air battle between German and French planes and the destruction of the former craft.
Special music by Strand Orchestra, Dick Long, Director; "Shanty" House, Organist.
COMING—Nov. 25—"The Bar Sinister" staggered letters would have been better. Staggered letters would run one below the other, but each a little to the right of its predecessor, so that the eye could read it with a natural movement from left to right. Trick composition is better in house programs than in newspaper work, and it should have small place anywhere, save as a decoration to emphasize the plainly printed title.

Junk and Then Some.

Don't take it for granted that your patrons are fools and willing to swallow anything that comes along. Here is a paragraph we clipped from a house story, worked by the company press stuff:

> One scene in this thrilling story shows a close-up of a man cutting the glass pane of a French window with a diamond. The action necessarily had to be filmed and it was utterly impossible to "fake" the scene in any way.
>
> After much trouble Director Paul Scardon was successful in securing the loan of a precious diamond inserted in an instrument which is used for this purpose and preparations were made to complete this scene in the morning and return the stone to the owners.
>
> It was an exterior scene, however, and as the sun did not appear until noon they were unable to film it until much later than they expected and, therefore it was necessary to keep it at the studio all night.
>
> The next day it was returned safely, but all concerned spent a sleepless night for fear that some harm might come to it.

Too many know that glazier's diamonds range in price from $3 to about $15. To try to get a thrill out of the idea of keeping it at the studio all night to the loss of sleep of the entire crowd is plain rot. That sort of thing is all right for press books, perhaps, but keep it out of your program and your newspapers.

Raffles for the Ring.

The Butler Theater, Tonopah, Nev., used the "Raffles" idea for Pearl White in "The Fatal Ring" To nook the idea to the serial, the girl was put on the streets, and if detected was to be approached with the query, "Are you the girl with the Fatal Ring?" Naturally the entire town was out looking for the fatal ringer. She visited the theater three nights, was at the post-office every day, and visited the various stores. Any town of ten thousand or under can still be stood upon its head with the Raffles stunt, and this was worked nicely. Another idea new to us is found on the reverse side of the program folder. At the top of the page is the query, "Who's the girl on the other side?" making certain that both sides of the sheet are read. It's a little thing, but it's clever and shows thought. The best ideas are not always the most expensive. Sometimes all that is required is a little thought and care. The entire program matter is original copy and not clip synopsis, and that is what usually sells the show best. We wish the Butler would put us on their mailing list. They are worth watching. Tarleton Winchester sent this in.

HELP FOR THEATRE MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World

A TEXT BOOK and a HAND BOOK. It tells all about advertising, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, posters or throw-aways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. Practical plans that have helped others and will help you.

By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 516 Fifth Avenue, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. — Wright & Callender Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing adressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses by critized, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

Knowing Plots.

"I'VE done those hundred plots you are fond of telling us to write," admits a correspondent, "and they are so rotten that I have not got the heart to write another hundred, as you also suggest. It seems to me that if I cannot write one decent plot out of my first hundred, it is about time I gave it up and tried something else. What do you think?" And we told him that the fact his plots seemed poor was the best argument in favor of his continuing.

There is hope for the man who knows that his work is imperfect. He has at least gained a standard of comparison and does not think that his work must be good because it is his own work. That is one reason we suggest writing a hundred plots. Ten might seem good, but no one can write a hundred plots and not find some better than others. If he writes a hundred and finds them all poor, then he has made a still further advance. Many of those plots, very probably, are the plots that practically every author thinks of. Very probably ninety-five per cent. of all men and women writers have had to get out of their systems the story of the little child who brought its parents together and that other that reunited its parents and grandparents. It is no disgrace to have written this idea. The best of them do. The disgrace lies in persistenly thinking the idea novel in the fact of all similar ideas to be seen upon the screen. In the same way most persons think up the idea of the physician who is called upon to render professional aid to the man he knows to be his rival in love. The idea is bound to suggest itself. It is one of the standard plots, and something is wrong with the man who does not try to write that at some time in his early career. He who does not is either a genius or a fool, and probably the latter. But the idea is used every month by some concern and now and then one of these developments offers a really novel treatment.

Always the doctor is a man. Why not a woman physician? The basis of the idea is the same, but by changing the sex of the practitioner a fund of new psychology is developed. Women are called upon to face the same problems as the masculine physicians, but they face them from different angles. Suppose that a woman physician finds herself called upon to treat the woman who has led her brother astray. She loves her brother dearly. She knows that he worships the other woman's beauty—and her beauty alone. She can preserve the beauty of the siren or she can so dress the hurts that she will bear scars through life. She knows the woman to be of an evil disposition. Is she justified in saving her brother—and perhaps other men—from the wiles of the vampire?

The Enoch Arden basis has been used time and again, and yet there is the foundation for a comedy in the idea of a second husband who suspects that a stranger in town is his wife's first husband and who seeks to make the man admit the fact that he may have his own marriage declared void. Let the wife think the same thing and keep silent lest she be charged with bigamy. Let it turn out that the stranger is the missing husband's twin brother looking for his brother's widow to turn over his brother's share of a legacy, and we have a story that in no way suggests Enoch Arden and yet which is built from that idea.

Then we have the theme of the girl who seeks to save her sister from shame yet who hesitates to reveal her own shame as an object lesson. Replace this situation with a duplicate in which the thing to be concealed is humorous—perhaps a wig or a set of false teeth—and the tense tragedy becomes a comedy.

The thing to do is to get the bromidic stories out of your system first. Come to be able to realize that they really are bromides and not things that Poe or de Maupassant might envy. Once you know them for their actual worth you can give them their proper place in the scheme of your work and set out to improve and develop from these things instead of wasting your time with the most obvious development.

Take the old stuff and give it distinction. Some years ago a friend asked us to call at a new address. "And if you forget the number," he added, "its the only pink brick house in town." We remembered the street but forgot the number, remembering instead the color. You can't have all pink brick houses, but you can camouflage the most obvious and threadbare story into something that cannot be recognized. It is merely a matter of experience and experiment, but you must first gain experience through writing and studying plots before you can begin to experiment with plot changes.

Write your hundred plots and a few hundred more, and then perhaps you can take your first plot and make it into a best-seller through the experience you have gained writing the others. Don't worry about the technique of photoplay writing until you have plots so well worth while being put into plays that it is a moral certainty that they will be.

Fade!

Marc Edmund Jones, who made the vision famous, has been married. We hope that the bride is a vision of loveliness and that his dreams for the future are not visionary.

Brevity.

The story of the creation of the world was told in a few words. Every student of plotting has been told that at some time or another. The pedagogues seem to love that statement. It is very true that the story of creation is told in a couple of hundred words, but no one can make a script from that brief account. Don't cultivate brevity at the expense of clearness. Strive for both, but of the two, detail is the more important.

It's Not a Saving.

With first-class postage now three cents an ounce, the temptation to use a lighter weight of paper and so cut down costs is stronger than ever, but if you want to save postage in that manner, be consistent and do not send the stuff out at all, for the synopsis will not be read if the paper is so thin that the bottom sheets show through the sheet being read. Instead of saving an additional stamp you are wasting the postage you put on the script. The way to save on postage is to send out only the very unusual story. The usual story is not wanted. It was the usual story that closed the market for so long. If you were entered in a Marathon in which there were a thousand competitors, including some of the distance cracks, you would not jog along at your usual pace. You would give the best that was in you. It is the same with script writing. You are in competition with the cracks of the game, and there is no handicap allowance. Until you can come within reaching distance of their pace you are merely serving as a runner-up, and cannot hope to be anything better.

Working Synopses.

Someone wants to know if a working synopsis is the same as a detailed synopsis. It is. It is a synopsis to work from, and if a script of action is to be made from a synopsis, it follows that all the essential action, in detail, must appear in the synopsis. But this does not mean that the action must appear in chronological order or that each scene must be briefed. It means that all of the facts must be given the continuity writer that he may arrange these facts into a continuity of action that shall tell a complete story. It does not tell that John is seen riding along the road and that Nell is then seen riding along the road, and John is seen again and we come back to Nell, who dismounts and tries to fix a strap. The synopsis will tell that John, riding along the road, comes upon Nell, who is having trouble with her saddle. He fixes it for her and they ride on together, establishing the acquaintance that leads to love. Just how the scene flashes is a matter of no consequence. This may safely be left to the continuity man. He may write in three scenes or a dozen, so that he arrives at the fact. This is what the detailed or working synopsis means as distinguished from the brief synopsis giving merely the high lights of the story without attempting to recite all the minor facts.

Makes Maps.

There are lots of ways of making trouble for yourself. One author writes that he makes a map or scene plot of each scene that he may get a clear idea of the action he plays in that scene. We used to know another writer who used much the same idea. He would lay out his scene with match boxes, spools and things and move the spool characters about the set. All this is too much trouble, but it does not pay to get clearly fixed in your mind a mental picture of the scene in which you are writing. You can do it "in your head" with a little practice, and you'll find that if you have a clear picture of the scene you are better able to tell when to come in for a close-up and when the action will take well from the original camera point. It is not necessary nor even desirable to send the scene plots to a director. He is not apt to use them, and he certainly cannot always get exterior locations to match your ideas, but you can write with a clear idea of how your people are moving about, and then they will be less apt to fall over themselves and each other.

Double Standard.

There are two gauges of success: your bank account and your conscience.

Technique of the Photoplay

By

EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

A book replete with practical pointers on the preparation of stories for the screen, answering the hundred and one questions which immediately present themselves when the first script is attempted. A tested handbook for the constant writer of picture plots. "Straight-from-the-shoulder" information from an author with a wealth of real "dollars-and-cents" experience.

By Mail, Postpaid, Three Dollars

Published and For Sale by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 516 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

Schiller Bldg., Chicago Wright and Callender Bldg., Los Angeles

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second sets of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

A New Carbon.

The Speer Carbon Company is marketing a new carbon designed for use with a.c., the same to be known as the Speer Alterno Carbon. For the new product the company makes large claims, among which is noiseless operation, a perfectly steady arc and the equaling of d.c. illumination. The booklet descriptive of the new carbon which is being sent out as advertising tells us that "with the Speer Alterno Carbons the work of the 'booth' is simplified and made a real pleasure."

Possibility of noiselessness of operation we may concede and we trust the claim of the company in this respect will prove to be true. Steadying of the arc will be splendid and we may hope for largely improved illumination. None of this is at all impossible. But as to the work of the "booth" becoming a real plesaure, why I suspect that is putting it perhaps a trifle stronger than facts will entirely substantiate. No matter how excellent the new carbon may prove to be I shall not expect to see operators regarding the ending of their six or eight hour daily stunt with deep feelings of regret. We will be in position to make more complete report on these carbons as soon as we have heard from operators using them. Will operators using Speer Alterno carbons, or who have given them sufficient use to be called a fair trial, kindly report their findings to this department at once.

If the carbon eliminates noise it will from that standpoint indeed be a boon to operators obliged to use a. c. In making the trial, however, should their be failure of result in this respect be very certain, before condemning the carbon, that the noise does not eminate from the economizer. An economizer set too close to a sheet-iron covered floor or wall is apt to kick up a loud humming roar, due to vibration in floor or wall set up by magnetic action, you know.

The new carbon is standard size, so that no adapter is required for the lamp jaws. In testing the new carbon be very sure they are thoroughly dry, which same applies to all carbons, for that matter. Moisture in carbons is very bad. Do NOT keep them in a damp storage place. The Speer company recommends the following combinations: For 40 to 55 amperes ⅝ upper and lower; for from 55 to 70 amperes use ¾ upper and lower; for from 70 to 85 amperes use ⅞ upper and lower.

The advertising of the company reccmmends what is known as the "jack-knife set" for the new carbon. I at once called them to account for this. I have been trying for years to eliminate that set and had all but succeeded when this recommendation came out. I wrote an article somewhat sharply criticising the company on this matter, sending them carbon copy prior to publication. They came back with the following, my friend, J. S. Speer, president and general manager, wielding the modern pen (crow-track girl and typewriter) as follows:

> The article was read with much interest. I note that you score me on the "jack-knife setting." Upon first consideration of your arguments I concluded they had real merit and that there was possibility of our having ill-advised the operator regarding proper setting for Alterno carbons. Investigation has, however, convinced me such is not the case. In the first place all practical tests, as well as reports of our engineering department convince me the merits of Alterno carbons are entirely different from the various facts set forth in your report. (Not a "report," Brother Speer; merely a general setting forth of facts as we have found them in the past.—Ed.)
>
> You say we will "have to be shown," hence I enclose copy of our engineers report, upon which we shall be glad to have your comment. While you say in your Handbook you are not strongly impressed with curves, we were obliged in this instance to use them in order to illustrate our work. Our engineers found that Alterno carbons when run with jack-knife setting operate equal in every respect to the straight setting, and have the advantage of producing from 45 to 47 per cent. greater candle power. If the jack-knife set gives produces this additional illumination, with equal amount of adjustments and feedings of the carbons, there seems to be no valid reason why the jack-knife would not be preferred by operators. Maximum illumination with a minimum amount of trouble seems to be the present day requirement of the operator, and these are the features we have endeavored to incorporate into the Alterno carbon. * * * Other points being equal and light producing qualities of the jack-knife set vastly superior, it would seem that all arguments should be in favor of our recommendation for its use. I shall be very glad to have your further comments on this matter. Meanwhile we will secure a number of reports from impartial operators, who are already forwarding repeat orders for Alterno carbons. Samples shall also be submitted to any operators you may see fit to name as experts on a. c. projection, reports of these tests to be made direct to you.

I dont' care particularly for reports from "experts" on a. c. projection, Neighbor Speer. Just reports from average operators, because they are the brand who will be called upon to use the actual article. But you might send a dozen or so to John Griffiths, 52 Maple street, Ansonia, Conn., and to L. C. LaGrow, Victoria Theater, Ossining, New York, requesting them to report to me. They are both high class men and are both using a. c. Should imagine the ¾ size would be right in both cases, but you might first inquire.

Between your company and myself there is but one argument, viz., with relation to the jack-knife setting. I will first submit the Speer Engineering Department report and then set forth my reasons for questioning the advisability of using the set in question.

Indentification Data, Test No. 181. F. H. Richardson's article on New Speer Carbon. Reference Curve No. 1071. Received from Sales Department. Received at Laboratory. Test started November 30, 1917. Mr. J. S. Speer, President: Following is a report of exhaustive tests made to determine the relative merits of jack-knife and parallel settings for Speer Alterno carbons.

It is well known that a steady arc is not always possible when ordinary soft cored carbons are used with a jack-knife setting for alternating current. This is because with this type of carbons the arc must be very short to insure stability, and the jack-knife setting makes the opening A, Figure 1, too great to maintain a well balanced arc, while with the parallel setting this excessive opening does not exist. With the parallel setting there has always been a considerable sacrifice of light. It was evident that if a carbon were developed which would burn on alternating current successfully with a comparatively long arc, then the jack-knife setting and the resulting increase in light were possible. Following a large number of tests which have accompanied the development of the Speer Alterno carbon, the tests herein reported add further evidence of the advantage of the jack-knife setting. Two tests were made. 1st, a practical test at the Temple Theater, and 2d, a laboratory test in the illumination laboratory. In the first test the lamp houses were operated by an unbiased moving picture operator, Mr. Thiel, and the observations for this test were made by Mr. Lion, a technically trained engineer. In this test, Speer ¾-in. Alterno carbons were used in the Power's 6-A and the Simplex Moving Picture Machine, and each setting was used alternately in each lamp house to equalize any variations which might result from the different characteristics of the lamp houses. Each kind of setting was run the same length of time. Observations were made of the number of feeds, number of adjustments other than actual feeds, degree of steadiness and apparent intensity of screen illumination, with the following results:

SPEER ALTERNO CARBONS

	Settings.
	Jack-knife.	Parallel at 150°.
Number feeds	43	41
Number adjustments	4	7
Steadiness	Excellent	Excellent
Illumination	Better than parallel setting
Ratio of number of feeds	1.048	1.00
Ratio of number of adjustments	.57	1.00
Ratio feeds and adjustments combined	.98	1.00

The second test was conducted in the illumination laboratory under the direction of Mr. Benkelman. In this test, ¾-in. Speer Alterno carbons were used with the same settings as in the first test, and observations were made of degree of steadiness and amount of illumination. The illumination test was photometric and the Macbeth Illumionmeter was used to measure the horizontal candle power. During this test the steadiness of operation was observed to be the same for each setting.

Come Let Us Reason Together.

Because this departemnt has insisted upon the payment of higher operators' wages and better operating room conditions some exhibitors have perhaps looked upon it with unfriendly eyes, believing it to be their enemy, instead of one of the best friends they have, ever have had or ever will have. Without meaning it in an offensive sense I must say these exhibitors are not using their reasoning powers to good purpose, at least as applied to this matter. They are substituting prejudice for argument and short-sightedness for progressiveness.

For the moment let us lay aside the wage matter and consider what this department and its editor (for those exhibitors opposed to it couple its activities inseparably with its editor, in which they are perfectly right) has done for the exhibitor. You will, I think, all admit there is a wide gulf between the faintly illuminated, shadowy "fuzzy" picture of eight years ago and the picture of today. I think that you will also agree, without argument, that the picture of eight years ago most emphatically would not fill the theaters of today, at present admission prices. Step into almost any theater of today and watch the comparatively beautiful screen result. Compare it mentally with what you saw in the best houses eight short years ago and then start your thinker working. Ask your self the question: What part has this Projection Department of the Moving Picture World and the handbooks of its editor played in the improvement? True, it is a hard question to answer accurately, because of the great number of improvements made by different manufacturers, the idea for which came either directly from the editor or came from the department. This applies to projection machine manufacturers and to a considerable extent to film producers. The best answer is an examination of my books and the files of the Projection Department, and a comparison of them with all other avenues of knowledge operating to improve projection. I make the assertion that there is literally no department of the industry which does not owe something of its advancement to this department and the exhibitor is the direct beneficiary of every step we have made for advancement. I make the further claim that, hard pressed as the exhibitor is just now, he would be still more harrassed but for the work this department has done, which has enabled him to put on such an excellent screen result that the public is unwilling to dispense with the "movie," even at advanced prices sufficient to enable him to withstand the war-tax pressure. And I defy intelligent contradiction of that claim. But let us return to the subject under discussion, viz.: operators' remuneration.

Come, let us reason together, forgetting for the moment that you are an exhibitor and I an advocate of increased remuneration for operators. Let us examine the subject strictly on its merits, without prejudice and with open minds. Also for the moment at least, assume that this department and its editor seek only the best good of the industry as a whole, fighting the battles of no one set of men, except in so far as the advancement of the interests of that set is necessary for the best interest of the business as a whole.

First, let us clearly understand that a "union scale" is not a flat level for all operators. If it were I would oppose it with every power I could command. It is wholly, solely and entirely a minimum to be paid the poorest men. Men of superior ability are presumed to command more. I merely cite this because some men seem to imagine the "wage scale" puts all on the same level. Most emphatically it does NOT.

And now here is the reason why this department has taken the course it has in this matter. Would you, friend exhibitor, rent films from a producer who set his maximum salary for actors and actresses at say twenty-five dollars a week? Remember there can be plenty of actors and actresses had at that figure, or, at least, they call themselves actors and actresses. Your very prompt answer is no, is it not? Why? Because the producer could not secure ability for any such sum. People would not be interested in the performance put up by that kind of an "artist," is your reply, is it not? In other words, you must have the art of real artists upon your screen in order to secure patronage for your theater.

And right here I ask you to pause and ponder the next sentences very carefully. If you find profit in the high-priced, high-class artist, which entails a high film rental payment, why will you not also find profit in the reproduction of the art of the artist upon your screen by a high-class operator—even though it cost some added remuneration? Has it never occurred to you that in order to get the real value from the work of an artist in moving pictures the tempo of projection absolutely must be very carefully judged, which means that the work of the artist must be interpreted by the operator, precisely as the high-class musician interprets his music. Van and Schenck are well known in vaudeville, in this and other countries. They are singers. Schenck has a wonderful tenor voice, it is true, but I have heard other singers with equal voice sing a song which sounded quite ordinary. I have heard Schenck sing the same song and move an audience almost to tears. Why? Both sang the same song. Both had equal excellence in voice. But Schenck interpreted the song. His voice followed the notes up and down, but their other values were the values given them by the singer himself. In consequence, when he had done, the audience fairly rocked with applause. And can the operator do the same thing with a film? The answer is that to a very large extent he most certainly can. This is not only my own statement, but is a fact which has been publicly recognized, in print, by no less person than D. W. Griffith. But you, friend exhibitor, cannot expect that class of service from any but an operator of real ability. It requires brains to properly interpret and reproduce upon the screen the work of high-class artists, or to even get the best possible from the work of actors and actresses of less ability, and in that last sentence you have the gist of my argument and the reason for my position on the operator wage question. To get full value at the box office you just simply must have the best possible projection and interpretation of the photoplay on the screen. To get that you must have at least some degree of ability in the operating room, and to get that you must pay for it. Ability is not to be had for a song. The cheap operator is not, ordinarily, the equal of the high-priced operator, any more than the cheap actor is the equal of his higher-priced brother. Justice cannot be done to the modern photoplay without brains in the operating room. Brains in the operating room cost money, even as they cost money elsewhere and—there you have the reason for the position of this department and its editor on the operator wage question in a nutshell. Dispute its correctness if you can. In closing kindly note that I am insisting just as strongly that the operator must make himself competent and deliver the goods.

Toronto Comes Back.

Operator Piton, Rialto Theater, Toronto, Canada, comes back at Marion Long, who recently sent in a letter setting forth what was purported to be a descriptive criticism of Toronto projection affairs. Brother Piton very evidently slaps his righteous wrath on the wrist and makes it behave because he is dealing with a Votes for Women member of our tribe. Had Miss Long been a mere man sulphuric acid would have been as circus lemonade compared to the strength of the vials of wrath he would have poured out. He says:

> Hello, Mr. Richardson! Nothing the matter up here in the Northland, but we just must reply to "Sister" Marion Long's letter. In view of the fact that Miss Long is (her own statement) merely an enthusiastic student of projection, and not a practical operator, we won't be hard on her this time. But watch your step, Sister. Next time, maybe, we'll forget to bow before we start talking.
>
> To begin with, it really seems out of place for an operator (?) of only a few months' experience to criticise the work of those who have been at it for years. For some reason I am reminded of the average assistant operator, who, after working with an operator for three months, proceeds to instruct his teacher as to how the work should be done. Miss Long says she has a Power's Six. Does it necessarily follow that she is an operator? Because a man owns a farm, does it follow that he is a farmer?
>
> But to get down to business. First, I have just returned from a trip which included New York, Newark, Jersey City, Bridgeport, Buffalo and Detroit, and want to tell you, Mr. Richardson, that projection in Toronto is just as good, and in some cases, even better than in the cities named, except for the Strand, New York City, which I regard as the best I have ever seen. (Viewed merely as projection, neglecting surroundings and programme, I can show you plenty very nearly, if not quite, equally good right here in New York City.—Ed.) Miss Long says there are but three Toronto theaters with real good projection. She forgets to name Lowe's theater, in which, according to my view, the projection is simply great. She classes the Hippodrome as having third rate projection. Well, I want to say that the "Hip" projection is about the same class as that of the Rialto, New York City; also the "Hip" operators are fighting the same trouble found at the Rialto, viz.: a light struck screen, and how in His Satanic Majesty's dominion CAN an operator give high class screen results with all kinds of light other than that from the lens, pouring on the screen? At the New York Rialto they were playing the Triangle "The Man Who Came Back," with the full orchestra in action. Result: Picture highlights absolutely killed, in spite of brilliant projection light. Granting beauty of music and brilliancy of projection light, the picture was not black and white; it was brown. And who would, or could, lay the fault at the door of the operator? This is not said in criticism of the Rialto, but as setting forth a condition which makes for poor screen result, with which you, yourself, are acquainted. The same condition prevails in our Hippodrome. Its operator is one of the best, who has been in the operating room for more than ten years. He is editor of the Universal Bulletin Projection Department here.

As to the Strand, its projection is fine. I go to that theater every week, and not once in the past four years have I seen poor light on the screen. But Miss Long, nevertheless, places them in the second class. The Rialto, Toronto, she calmly sets down in the third class, and goes on with her knitting. This is where Your 'Umble Servant manages to fool the manager out of a weekly stipend, collaborating with Big Bill Ayres. Poor Bill and I! If Miss Long is right, then Bill has been buncoing managers with third class work for eight years, and actually getting away with it. For Bill has never been out of work a day in all that time. Also me, I eat three (3) (III) square meals per each day. Gee, I hope friend Manager don't get next to me! Here are our conditions: House seats 750; operating room underslung from ceiling, twenty-five feet from screen, with port holes not in center. Result, keystone. However, we have just installed a new screen, at an angle, and picture is much improved. When Miss Long next pays our poor house a visit we trust that, in view of improved conditions, she will at least raise us to second class. If she cannot see her way clear to do this, we cordially invite her to come up and set we poor operators on the right path. And about the Globe: Our short friend over there always said he had first class projection, but if Miss Long says second class, why, it's sufficient. Second class for yours! I might add that I am a student of Richardson's Handbook, and think it great. Am always seeking to better myself. I fail to find a work on projection by Marion Long in our public library at this time. However, should that estimable lady see fit to issue a later, more-up-to-date work on projection than Richardson's Handbook I should very much like to have a copy.

There, Miss Long, you may be considered to have received your verbal spanking from Toronto. Maybe your criticism were a bit lopsided, not to say spotted, ripped, faded, and with a button or two missing. But, anyhow, you did one thing. You woke Toronto up and caused them to let us know they were still cluttering up the map. Seems to me your Rialto conditions are such that, viewed from the standpoint of the unprejudiced audience, but little more than a third class screen result could be expected, Brother Piton. And it is distinctly to your credit if you are able to give a good third class projection under the conditions you name. That it is a third class screen result is NOT the fault of the operator. Who in Heaven's name COULD give decent results with a screen 25 feet from the lens, and not square with it at that? The thing is impossible. Such a condition is utterly outrageous from the projection viewpoint. That you get any sort of acceptible result at all is distinctly to your credit. And you also practically admit that Miss Long's criticism is at least in part justified in the Hippodrome. Miss Long's main error seems to have been that she failed to say where the fault lay, rather than in overstating the fault. You must understand that it is quite possible there will be third class screen result without the operator being in any way to blame. Miss Long should have used the term "screen result" instead of "projection." The latter term is, or may be, misleading when used as she used it. If the Toronto local wants me to, I might motor up there next summer. Have visited Montreal and Quebec; also several Western Canadian cities, but to date have never visited Toronto. Let's hear from you if you would like me to come. No expense attached, of course, except such as you might incur in arranging a meeting of operators and managers while I am there.

Family Record Films.

At last the Bettini camera and projector, which were mentioned in this department as a promising prospect something like a year ago, has been perfected and is ready for the market.

By the Bettini process the photograph is taken on a rectangular glass plate, 4¾ by 8½ inches. As many of these plates as desired may be joined together in the taking. Barring breakage they are practically indestructable, so that at last the problem of family record films, which heretofore was an uncertain quantity, by reason of the problematical lasting qualities of the celluloid film stock, seems to be solved. The projector handles the glass positives perfectly. There are 16 photographs in each horizontal row and 36 rows, so that each plate is equal to 36 feet of film. Another outstanding feature is that the photos enlarge, by a process Mr. Bettini has perfected, wonderfully well, so that when an individual has a plate of close-ups made there are almost 600 poses to choose from for a "still." The pictures are about ¼-inch square. I have seen some amazingly beautiful enlargements twelve to sixteen inches square.

There seems now no valid reason why a person cannot have a movie made of his baby boy or girl, which same will reproduce perfectly when the child has grown to man or womanhood, passed life's meridian and is wandering down its westward slope. By this process, too, I can see no reason why it would not be entirely practical to show the inauguration of our next president, precisely as it occurred, to the men and women of one or even two hundred years in the future. Just how long photographic emulsion on glass will last I do not know, but at the first signs of deterioration a copy could be made from the plate. Properly cared for, however, I see no reason why a single, thoroughly washed plate should not last fully a hundred years—maybe much longer. And thus it seems to me a new and tremendously important field is opened to the moving picture.

Not Practical.

W. H. Gambien, Billings, Oklahoma, says:

> Notice much comment as to destruction of film by operators punching it in order to establish a change-over sign. Am making suggestion in the hope it may be of value. I don't blame the operator. Put yourself in his place. I place the blame on the producer, and honestly believe if they would all agree to standardize a certain tint for the last few feet of each reel and use that tint in no other part of any reel it would very soon come to be recognized as a change-over signal, and punching would be stopped.

Sorry, neighbor Gambien, but the tint scheme is not practical by reason of the fact that the last scene in any given reel might be such that the tint selected would utterly ruin it; ruin its effect I, of course, mean. This department has repeatedly pointed out possible change-over signs which could easily be incorporated in film without in any way working injury, such as, for instance, a fade out of certain form, a title of certain form, or even of certain tint (used that way your suggestion is practical), but to date the producers have just simply, to all intents and purposes, told operators, exhibitors, exchanges and the whole works to go plumb to the devil. They roar about the punch marks, but absolutely refuse to take any practical step to make them unnecessary. You are entirely right. It is entirely up to the producers. Let them introduce a change-over sign in practical form, standardize it and punching will automatically cease.

Incandescent Projection.

B. L. Mellinger, Reading, Pennsylvania, orders a handbook and says:

> Received the question booklets and find them to contain some very perplexing questions, which it will require time and study to dig out the correct answer. Have an incandescent lamp outfit on one of my Power's 6-A projectors. Am projecting a sixteen-foot picture at 84 feet, using a 600-watt bulb—20 amperes at 28 to 30 volts. Get as good a picture with a 40-ampere a. c. arc. Please hustle the handbook along.

The handbook will be in your hands long before this is in print. Yes, I should imagine you would be able to get practically the same result with the incandescent as with a 40-ampere a. c. arc, unless you are expert in handling the a. c. arc. But at this time I think this approaches the limit of possibility. Forty amperes a. c. is, as I have repeatedly pointed out, too low for uniform excellence in results. The light concentration must be such (at the spot) that unless absolutely constant attention is given there will inevitably be recurring shadows on the screen, or else with less concentration the screen illumination will not be very satisfactory. Glad to have your report. Steady progress is being made in the perfection of incandescent projection, and I think before very long it will be in position to fill a very considerable proportion of the field.

Halifax Fund.

Say, what's the matter with you fellows anyway. Honestly, I am ashamed of you. You loosen up like an exhibitor buying carbons. Here are your brothers of the far north suffering from one of the greatest catastrophes America has ever seen and just one man outside of New York City has had enough of the milk of human kindnes to send in a few cents to help.

Projection Department, Moving Picture World	$5.00
F. H. Richardson	2.00
New York Operators' Local Union 306	50.00
Operators, Strand Theater, Hartford, Conn	1.00
Harry Mackler, Business Agent, Local 306	2.00
	$60.00
Remitted to Halifax Local Union 497 by Post Office money order, sent December 14th	$60.00

Now supposing you fellows loosen up. Certainly four thousand of you can give twenty-five cents each without straining any buttons. All right; get busy and do it. All contributions will be acknowledged in this department.

Projection Experience

There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save its purchase price each month.

Buy it Today
$4 the Copy
Postpaid

MOTION PICTURE Handbook
For Managers and Operators
By F. H. RICHARDSON

The recognized standard book on the work of the operator. Complete descriptions and instructions on all leading machines and operating equipment.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Schiller Bldg. Chicago, Ill. | 516 Fifth Avenue New York City | Wright & Callender Bldg. Los Angeles, Cal.

To save time, order from nearest office.

This paper has never been published except in a Union shop, so it makes no difference whether we print the Union Label or not, but at the request of a few of our readers to the editor of this department it is printed herewith.

Motion Picture Photography

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be indorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Tinting and Toning of Eastman Positive Motion Picture Film (Continued).

(Standard Methods Worked Out and Recommended by the Eastman Research Laboratories.)

FORMULAE FOR TINTING.

Tint No.	Avoirdupois
1. Cine Red	2 lbs.
Water	50 gals.
2. Cine Red	8 oz. 145 grains
Cine Yellow	8 oz. 145 grains
Water	50 gals.
3. Cine Red	5 oz. 220 grains
Cine Yellow	5 oz. 220 grains
Water	50 gals.
4. Cine Red	3 oz. 350 grains
Cine Yellow	3 oz. 350 grains
Cine Blue-green	320 grains
Water	50 gals.
5. Cine Red	5 oz. 260 grains
Cine Orange	1 lb. 11 oz. 175 grains
Water	50 gals.
6. Cine Red	1 oz. 175 grains
Water	6 oz. 350 grains
Cine Orange	50 gals.
7. Cine Orange	11 oz. 45 grains
Water	50 gals.
8. Cine Orange	16 oz. 300 grains
Cine Yellow	16 oz. 300 grains
Water	50 gals.
9. Cine Orange	4 oz. 75 grains
Cine Yellow	4 oz. 75 grains
Water	50 gals.
10. Cine Yellow	2 lbs.
Water	50 gals.
11 Cine Yellow	8 oz.
Water	50 gals.
12. Cine Yellow	1 lb. 4 oz.
Cine Blue-green	2 oz.
Water	50 gals.
13. Cine Yellow	14 oz.
Cine Blue-green	2 oz. 350 grains
Water	50 gals.
14. Cine Yellow	7 oz.
Cine Blue-green	1 oz. 175 grains
Water	50 gals.
15. Cine Yellow	9 oz. 130 grains
Cine Blue-green	7 oz. 175 grains
Water	50 gals.
16. Cine Blue-green	1 lb.
Water	50 gals.
17. Cine Blue-green	4 oz.
Water	50 gals.
18. Cine Red	250 grains
Cine Blue-green	12 oz. 30 grains
Water	50 gals.
19. Cine Blue	4 oz.
Water	50 gals.
20. Cine Red	6 oz. 145 grains
Cine Blue-green	1 oz. 350 grains
Water	50 gals.
21. Cine Red	3 oz. 85 grains
Cine Blue-green	2 oz. 175 grains
Water	50 gals.
22 Cine Red	5 oz. 175 grains
Cine Yellow	1 oz. 150 grains
Cine Blue-green	1 oz. 250 grains
Water	50 gals.
23 Cine Red	3 oz. 90 grains
Cine Yellow	280 grains
Cine Blue-green	1 oz. 30 grains
Water	50 gals.
24. Cine Red	10 oz.
Cine Blue	1 oz.
Water	50 gals.

Copyright, 1918, by the Chalmers Publishing Co.

The solid dyestuffs are thoroughly dissolved in as small an amount of hot water as possible and filtered through fine muslin. Hot water should be poured over any residue remaining which should be only slight—in order to ensure thorough solution of the dye. The dye solution is then diluted in the tank to the required volume at 70 degrees F.

Except in special cases such as fire scenes, sunset and moonlight effects and the like, it is very undesirable to employ strong tints, as apart from the displeasing effect and irritation to the eye, the dyestuffs produce a slight softening of the gelatine film which used at 80 degrees F. in 1% solution.

Should it be necessary to employ such concentrated baths in summer, it is necessary either to cool the dye bath or use a suitable hardener. This will be unnecessary if hardener is employed in the fixing bath after development, but otherwise it formalin (40%) be added to the dye bath to the extent of 1 volume to 400 volumes of dye solution, no trouble will be encountered. During the winter months, when it is advisable to treat all film after developing and fixing with glycerine, the latter may be incorporated with the dye bath, thereby eliminating an extra operation. The strength of the glycerine should be 2%, or two volumes per one hundred volumes of dye solution. In most cases, however, the addition of glycerine considerably retards the rate of dyeing, so that in order to obtain the same degree of tinting within a period of ten minutes, the concentration of the dye bath should be increased accordingly.

Where the use of delicate tints is employed the effect is both to remove the contrasting black and white effect, and to add a touch of warmth to the black deposit of silver even in cases where the highlights are insufficiently stained to be noticeable. The result in many cases is equal to that obtained by partial toning.

Although temperature has little effect on the rate of dyeing with the dyes recommended, it is advisable in all cases to work at 70 degrees F. in order to produce uniform results and remove any danger of softening the film.

Only good plucky positive film may be successfully tinted, and in so far as tinting tends to reduce contrasts, the positive should be of normal density but slightly on the hard side.

Time of dyeing depends somewhat on the previous handling of the film. Film which has been fixed in a bath containing ordinary, or chrome alum, dyes more quickly than that treated with plain hypo and hardened with formalin.

It is probable, therefore, that small traces of alum are left in the film even after prolonged washing, which serves as a mordant for the dye.

The film for dyeing should be fixed in hypo containing sodium bisulphite only (25% hypo with 2.5% sodium bisulphite—the cooled bisulphite being added to the cooled hypo) so that in case an alum fixing bath is employed, or if for any other reasons the tints indicated are not obtained in the time given below, then either the time of dyeing or the dilution of the dyebath must be altered accordingly.

The concentration of the dyebaths has in each case been so adjusted that dyeing is complete in ten minutes—which time is considered a minimum for the production of uniform results, and for complete control of the dyeing operations. Shorter time of immersion will produce lighter tints, though, as in the case of toning, experience has shown that in order to produce uniform results it is advisable to maintain the time of dyeing constant, and obtain varying effects by changing the composition of the dyebaths.

Should the film for any reason be over-dyed, a small portion of the dye may be removed by washing for 10 to 15 minutes, though the particular fastness of the dyes allows only slight mistakes to be rectified in this manner.

Life of the dyebath averages about 40,000 feet per 50 gallons dyebath. The bath may be revived at intervals by the addition of more dye, though this procedure is uncertain and it is generally advisable to mix fresh solution.

Either the "drum" or "tank" method may be employed, and in either case after dyeing for ten minutes (during which time the rack should be agitated in order to ensure even dyeing and prevent accumulation of air bubbles) the film should be given a thorough rinse in plain water.

Before drying films on racks it is advisable to set the rack at a slight angle for a few minutes, so as to enable the surplus water to drain off more readily through the perforations. If drums are used for drying it is advisable to remove the surplus water by whirling the drum previous to drying.

The great pitfall in dyeing is patchy and streaky film caused by insufficient washing of the positive after fixing and before dyeing, insufficient agitation of the rack when in the dyebath, and the use of dyes which "bleed" too freely.

In general, almost any tint, if delicate, may be employed with advantage, though for general use those ranging through pink, rose, orange, yellow, pale green and pale blue, are to be recommended—others are for special purposes. The nature of the tint as seen in the hands is no criterion of the appearance of the projected image, though by a little practice and by viewing only by artificial light it is possible to preconceive the appearance of any sample on projection.

(The End.)

Music for the Picture

Conducted by GEORGE W. BEYNON.

Beynon to Edit Music Department

New Moving Picture World Contributor Has Had Long and Wide Experience in the Musical Field.

BEGINNING with this issue of the Moving Picture World (February 2) the Music Department will be conducted by George W. Beynon. Mr. Beynon is a musician of wide experience and marked skill. He has made a deep study of photoplay requirements, of the demands of the management of theatres and of the desires of the public.

Mr. Beynon was born in Canada, but later became a citizen of the United States. He was graduated in Arts from the University of Toronto. Under the tutition of Dr. Anger, an authority on harmony and theory and author of many text books, he spent four years in the Toronto Conservatory of Music. In Leipsic, Germany, he was given the Mus. Doc. degree.

George W. Beynon.

Much time has been given by Mr. Beynon to orchestral and band arranging. He has synchronized many operas to tableau form, which have been used extensively. As an arranger his experience has covered songs, classic and popular music, vaudeville acts and grand opera selections.

Mr. Beynon spent some years as a professional singer. He has a deep bass voice and filled concert and recital dates all over the country. He led choirs and bands, and later entered the orchestral field, where he has remained. In September, 1915, Mr. Beynon was engaged by Oliver Morosco to assemble and synchronize music for "Peer Gynt." The first playing of the arrangement was at the Broadway Theater by an orchestra of thirty pieces.

As a result of this work Mr. Beynon was engaged to write a score for all of the Pallas and Morosco productions and later secured a contract with the Famous Players and Lasky companies. His schedule called for the arrangement of a score every three days. A total of 162 were written. Exhibitors praised Mr. Beynon's work, and it is said that many found the way paved for the enlargement of their orchestras and the increasing of their prices of admission.

Mr. Beynon has been retained by some of the large film companies to take charge of their musical service. Also he has found time to direct the musical programs of several theatres.

On January 27, at the presentation at the Lyric Theater of "Lest We Forget," Mr. Beynon personally will direct an orchestra of thirty pieces.

Proper Presentation of Pictures Musically.

Playing for the Picture.

MUSIC for the picture is here to stay. The screen action, watched in silence has not the wonderful effect that is obtained by the use of a musical setting which holds the atmosphere and interprets the dominant emotion. The musical accompaniment to a song is always subservient to, and in perfect tempo with, the singer. It rises and falls with the voice, breathing softly in the pianissimo passages and crashing loudly in forte moments, yet never dominating the situation, nor predominating over the voice. It supports and carries the singer. This principle applies exactly to music for the photoplay. Let your music support the action and carry the amtosphere of the feature.

In this day of symphony orchestras of thirty or forty men, music values have been distorted beyond all proportion. Some of our biggest theaters have become a bedlam of noise, and the idea prevails that each scene must be interpreted musically, to the extreme. We are carried back to the Biblical days when the "sounding of brass and crashing of cymbals" was music to the ears of the populace; when songs were loudly shouted and the "trumpets blared" out their motifs. Surely we cannot blame the photoplay for this retrogradation, but the fact remains that many orchestras do not accompany the picture, but play over it.

A scene depicting the grief of an aged mother is shown and the orchestra immediately begins "Asa's Tod" by Grieg, when "One Who Has Yearned Alone" (Tschaikowsky), "A Keltic Lament" (Foulds) or Lamento (Gabriel-Marie) would be more reasonable. When they must fit a real anguishing death scene, they have used their loudest thunder and the scene becomes less impressive by contrast. Why use Il Guarany Overture for a picayune fight when one may need it for a terrific battle scene, or La Chevaukee from La Valkyrie for horsemen riding, when it may be used for the stirring onslaught of rushing cavalry charges. The many beautiful selections, specially arranged for strings alone, are seldom, if ever, used in large orchestras. Yet they are most effective, easily procured, and provide a charming change of color, that soothes the ear. It is a grave mistake to use dynamic numbers that overshadow the scene depicted. Each selection sticks out like a sore thumb and the attention of the patrons is detracted from the picture entirely. Losing for the moment the thread of the plot, they sit back and listen to the concert.

Many leaders try to fit every passing scene or "flash back" and provide a choppy, meaningless melange that irritates the audience. Each scene or series of scenes always has a predominant thought or motif behind the action shown. It is the thought which should be portrayed, and if a "flash back" occurs it does not signify a change in the dominant emotion. Thus the music should continue until a complete change is established. For example, a father is dying and longing for his only son. We are shown in a "flash" the dissipated son, drinking in a saloon. This lasts for 15 seconds and returns to the death bed scene. Sorrow is the dominant emotion and to change to a fox-trot for the "flash" would disrupt the continuity of the scene. The father dies, the family slowly leave the room with the doctor, and we are then shown an exterior of the home of the hero. This is the point to change the music to a lighter vein in keeping with what follows. There may be a series of scenes containing the same feeling, but distinctly separate and remote from the standpoint of action. In this instance there need be no change in the music to fit each scene; for, by using a long selection which portrays the prevalent thought, you get a smooth and true presentation. Cowbells, sand blocks, wind machines and traps of all descriptions are frequently brought in at every possible excuse. In fact, a drummer is sometimes judged by his agility in handling, one after the other, every contraption around him. Legitimate "effects" have their place in re-enforcing the disturbances depicted on the screen, but when used continually become meaningless and a nuisance.

The fallacy lies in the fact that musical director tries to get as many big musical moments as possible into every film. The consequence is, that, taking the music in its entirety, you get the idea of a series of mountains and valleys, the latter being the incidental or neutral numbers (selected to give the orchestra a little rest) which, by contrast, become more drab and meaningless. The photoplay, as the name indicates, is a play given upon the screen, and all the varied scenes and situations gradually lead to a climax. This may come at the finish of the picture, just before the end, or in the middle. Music should be selected with this point kept in view. The climax of the picture should be the climax of your music, though subservient to, and always below, the action. At no time should music predominate or stand out from the scenes shown. The entire setting should be graded up to the climax and down to the anti-climax. There are many examples of big scenes that would be accepted as the climax if the orchestra were not careful in its playing for them. Music must keep pace with the progressive strides of the picture industry. The time has passed when a job-lot of music can be dumped into the orchestra pit to be played for the picture. Music must fit each prevailing emotion (not dominate it), in tempo and character, and also in sequence with the preceding number, with due regard for what is to follow. Key sequence is necessary, to obviate abrupt discords in changing from one number to the next and to consolidate the many selections into a comprehensible whole. The entire musical setting should be built up and welded together; a perfect accompaniment to the picture, unheard by the audience but felt.

Leaders Service Bureau.

Questions Answered—Suggestions Offered.

Q. "Can music be procured for a saxaphone quintet in sufficient quantities to use for pictures?"

A. "No. There is little if any music written solely for saxaphones, but if you wish to introduce the instruments into your orchestra, the baritone saxaphone readily plays from a cello part, the alto from a clarinet part transposed and the soprano from the violin part. As an innovation we imagine it would be immense, but might become too 'Jazzy' as a regular thing."

* * *

Q. "What is the best instrumentation of a seven-piece orchestra for a small theater playing pictures?"

A. "Piano, Harmonium, two Violins, Flute, Clarinet and Cello."

* * *

Q. "Do you believe in changing the traditional tempo of a number to suit the scene?"

A. "Generally speaking, no—but if the scene is interrupted by a 'flash back' of a few seconds the music might be retarded or hastened to fit the flash, returning to the original tempo to complete the scene."

* * *

Q. "Can I get a list of music that can be played free?"

A. "We refer you to our printed lists in the issues of November 10, November 24, December 1, December 29, January 12 and January 26. If you cannot readily procure these we will be pleased to send you a copy of them upon your request."

* * *

Q. "I am anxious to study Harmony. What are the best text books to use?"

A. "The best is a matter of opinion. We would suggest 'Harmony,' by Prout, 'Harmony and Theory,' by Richter, 'First Rudiments of Harmony,' by Anger."

* * *

Musical Suggestion Synopsis.

ROSE OF THE WORLD (Artcraft)—Theme for the Heroine—Andante. Suggest "Arabian Nights," Mildenberg, or "Will I Wake?" Wolforde-Finden.

The first two reels take place in India and require Oriental music. The third and fourth bring the action in England. Use pathetic stuff. During the last reel introduce some Oriental selections. Finish with the Theme. Cue sheet can be obtained from Artcraft Exchange.

MRS. DANE'S DEFENSE (Paramount)—Theme for the Heroine, Andantino. Suggest "Premier D'Amour," Benoist, "Consolation," Liszt, or "Extase D'Amour," Roze.

The play is dramatically heavy and requires big stuff except in the second and third reels where Allegrettos, Waltz-Intermezzos and Moderatos can be used. Cue sheet can be obtained from Paramount Exchange.

HIS MOTHER'S BOY (Paramount)—Theme for Ray, One-Step. Suggest "Send Me a Curl," O'Hara, or "Cutey," Motzan.

The picture is comedy and needs light treatment. Watch for big first fight and mob scene. No cue sheet available.

THE PRICE OF FOLLY (Pathe)—Theme for the Heroine, Andante. Suggest "Elysium," Speaks, or "Eventide," Schytte.

This is melodrama throughout, and the first and second movements of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony would cover it splendidly. Cue sheet at Pathe Exchange.

STOLEN HONOR (Fox)—Theme for Heroine, Moderato. Suggest "Chiffonette," Atherton, "Eleanor," Deppen, or "Serenade," Widor.

Use melodramatic music, a few misteriosos, a march or two, and some dramatic stuff. Cue sheet can be obtained from Fox Exchange.

THE WILD STRAIN (Greater Vitagraph)—Theme for the Heroine, Waltz-Intermezzo. Suggest "Spring-Time," Drumm, or "Petite Bijouterie," Bohm.

The first two reels dequire only Moderatos, Allegrettos and Allegros. Use "A Day with the Circus," Lampe, or "The County Fair," Armand, for the circus scenes. Note the big fist fight and use a long hurry. Cue sheet can be obtained from Vitagraph Exchange.

THE BEAUTIFUL MRS. REYNOLDS (World)—Theme for the heroine, Valse Lente. Suggest "Destiny Waltz," Baynes, or "Innamorata," Marchetti. Use a medley of old songs if possible, such as "Seeing Nelling Home," "Old Oaken Bucket," etc., to open the picture.

The action takes place in 1777, so naturally no new or popular numbers should be used. Old English and a touch of Southern airs would fit admirably. Cue sheet can be obtained from World Exchange.

MEN WHO HAVE MADE LOVE TO ME (Essanay)—Theme for the Heroine, Andantino. Suggest "Consolation," Liszt, "Au Matin," Godard, or "Longing," Floridia.

This deals in six episodes of love. Use the theme at the conclusion of each. Note the fight in the restaurant scene of the third reel, and the Chinese atmosphere almost immediately following. Light music will do except in a couple of sad scenes. In the last reel there is a chance for big dramatic stuff, where a man breaks into Mary's room. Cue sheet can be obtained from Kleine Exchange.

IN BAD (Mutual-American)—Theme, none.

This is a comedy of slapstick variety. One-steps, fox trots or light opera selections will do nicely. No cue sheet available.

NO MONEY, NO FUN (Sunshine)—Theme, none.

Another comedy of the usual variety. Light jazzy music is needed. No cue sheet available.

THE FLAMES OF CHANCE (Triangle)—Theme for the Heroine, Andantino. Suggest "Longing," Floridia, or "Melodie," Lederer.

There will be need of a few Battle Hurrys, a Misterioso and some dramatic numbers. The French atmosphere should be fitted with music by Massenet, Debussy or Berlioz. Cue sheet can be obtained from Triangle Exchange.

EVIDENCE (Triangle)—Theme for the Heroine, Lento. Suggest "Yester-thoughts," Herbert, or "On Wings of Love," Bendix.

This is a heavy drama, filled with mystery. Such number as "En Mer," Holmes, "Prelude," Rachmaninoff, "Preludes," Chopin, and music of this order will fit the situations. Have on hand a few one-steps and waltzes for lighter moments and a march suitable for the wedding scene. Cue sheet can be obtained from Triangle Exchange.

THE BRIDE (Edison)—Theme, none.

This is a one-reel comedy and we would suggest that some of the light opera selections be used throughout—"Mlle. Modiste," Herbert, "Maid in America," Romberg, or "When Dreams Come True," Hein. No cue sheet available.

JULES OF THE STRONG HEART (Paramount)—Theme for the Heroine, Moderato. Suggest "On the Banks of the Saskatchewan," Caryll, "At the Hamlet," Godard, or "Jacqueline," Behr.

This is a story of the Canadian woods. It needs many pastoral numbers typically French. It is filled with pathos, requiring andantino or andante subjects. Not the storm, riot and fight scenes. The following numbers can be used advantageously throughout the setting: "Prelude and Romance," Reinecke, "Meditation," Williams, "Mountain Music," Borch, or "Indian Summer," Lake. Cue sheet can be obtained from Paramount Exchange.

THE KITCHEN LADY (Paramount)—Theme for the Heroine, Allegro. Suggest "Candy Land," from Jack o' Lantern, Caryll, "Kiss Me Again," Herbert, or "Miracle of Love," McKee.

A comedy dealing in animal antics. The usual two-steps and light music will fit excellently. No cue sheet available.

Music at the Strand.

In the week of January 6 the Strand Symphony Orchestra, composed of fifty musicians, rendered Rhapsody Estana Overture by Chabrier under the baton of Mr. Spirescu. Mlle. Zentay played "Mazurka," by Zaryzski, in her usual good form. Manager Edel staged "The Mikado" in tabloid form, and Carl Edouarde led the orchestra through the intricacies of the music for the feature.

A few points in the setting of the picture are worthy of particular notice.

During a sad scene Massenet's "Bois Sacre" for flute solo was introduced and proved most effective. We usually associate the interpretation of pathos with the violoncello, but the exceptional execution of the low tones of the flute would bring tears to a stone. Another example of novelty occurred, when a French liner was seen about to leave port. A band was indistinctly heard playing "The French National Defile March." We were positive that the music came from the ship's saloon, but as a matter of fact the trick was done by placing the brass and wood-wind sections of the orchestra "back stage." It was duly appreciated and drew considerable applause. These legitimate "effects" are what makes the difference in the caliber of a performance.

Mr. Harold Edel has done good work in his novel treatment of "The Mikado." There is an abridgement of the popular Operetta by Gilbert and Sullivan, done in cycle form, with stage settings and in costume. The better known solos, duets, trios and quartettes are strung together in such a manner that the story is well and concisely told. The acting was clever, the lighting exceptionally good, while the singing of Mr. Aldridge and Miss Horgan showed years of familiarity with their roles. The whole tabloid was bright, well enunciated, and took only twenty minutes.

So long as Mr. Edel does not allow his music to crowd out the picture interest it will give to his show a decidedly artistic touch that should find appreciation.

Additional List of Free Music.

Huntzinger & Dilworth, 505 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Send Me a Curl.....Geoffrey O'Hara
Six Full Fathom of Men.....Linn Seiler
Springtime of the Year.....Harriet Rusk
The Field o' Ballyclare.....Florence Turner Maley
The Wind's in the South.....John Prindle Scott

THEATRE MANAGERS

Look for Our New Department

"Advertising Aids for Busy Managers"

Every Week You Can Use It and You Should

Not a Combination Says Berst

Arrangement with Paralta Members Gives Pathe Production Facilities on the Coast.

J. A. BERST, vice-president and general manager of Pathe, announced last week that arrangements have been completed with Carl Anderson, president, and Robert Brunton, manager of productions of Paralta, for the production of important features in the Paralta's new studio in Hollywood, Cal.

This arrangement is regarded as the first important step in the direction of a centralization of Pathe production activities and a further means of assuring the steady supply of bigger, better pictures that mark Pathe's policy.

Four of the companies now engaged in Pathe plays will shortly start work in the Paralta studios. Bryant Washburn will be the first. It is reported that Fannie Ward, Frank Keenan and Bessie Love, who are now working in the Pathe studios in the East, will be sent West within the next month under the new arrangement.

Mr. Berst and Mr. Anderson, in announcing the arrangement, emphasized the fact that it is in no sense a combination of any sort.

"Pathe and Paralta have absolutely no connections of any kind," stated Mr. Berst. "Each company is as independent of the other as they were before this arrangement was made. It simply means that, after surveying the producing situation both here and in the East, we have decided it would be to our advantage to produce some of our important features in the Paralta studios.

"Since I have been here I have visited all of the important studios in the West and I have decided that we can make better pictures in the Paralta studios than any other studio in California. They have a splendid organization of men trained in the making of the kind of pictures the public demands today and their equipment is thorough and complete."

Mr. Berst stated that the pictures will be made under the supervision of Pathe, who will have their representative at the Paralta studios to control all details of production, from story to completed negative.

"With the Eastern studios of Pathe and the Astra Company and the Paralta studios in the West," continued Mr. Berst, "it will be possible for us to have a greater variety of pictures than we could get by confining our production activities to one section of the country. There are some pictures that can be made to better advantage in the East, and these productions, as in the past, will be entrusted to the Astra Film Corporation, which has done highly satisfactory work for us. Other stories, however, requiring either Western setting or the scenery that can only be found in California, can be made better in the West."

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of January 20 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"The Widow's Might" at the Rialto.

JULIAN ELTINGE, in the amusing dual role of a young rancher and a fictitious "Princess Martini," exercised his familiar talents for impersonating members of the fair sex in a Paramount picture called "The Widow's Might" was the feature of the program at The Rialto the week of January 20. A western ranch and a fashionable resort hotel provide the settings for a cleverly developed plot based on a story by Marion Fairfax. A villain and a lady fair figure in the action, the former being utterly foiled and the latter completely won by Eltinge's baffling shifts from one disguise to another. As in Mr. Eltinge's other pictures the element of comedy predominates at all times. Florence Vidor and Gustave Seyffertitz are the star's principal support. Emanuel List, the Rialto Male Chorus, and Gaston Dubois were on the program.

The usual selection of scenic and educational pictures, comedies, and news events were also shown.

"Wolves of the Rail" at The Rivoli.

The Rivoli entered the fourth week of its career with William S. Hart as its leading screen attraction in "Wolves of the Rail," an Artcraft picture written by Denison Clift and produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. The scenes are laid along a railroad in the California mountains, with the star as the leader of a band of train robbers. By a clever twist of the plot Hart impersonates the secret service man who is sent out to get him and, experiencing a change of heart, proceeds to rid the road of the bandits who infest it. Viola Dale appears as the girl who is the bad man's reward, and there is an excellent supporting cast.

Gladys Rice and Joseph Martel were the soloists.

Scenic and comedy features and the Animated Pictorial completed the program.

"Stella Maris" at The Strand.

Mary Pickford was seen at the Strand in a dual role taken from William J. Locke's celebrated novel, "Stella Maris." As an invalid heiress, surrounded by every luxury wealth can command, the comparison with United Blake, a poor orphan, presents a startling contrast. Through trick photography, both characters are shown on the screen at the same time. "Stella Maris" is an Artcraft picture. A feature of timely interest was a picture produced by the Educational Film Corporation, "The Making of An American Officer," showing life in Plattsburg from 5.30 a. m. 'til evening. The James Montgomery Flagg comedy entitled "The Superstitious Girl," a scenic study in natural colors, a Ditmars' zoological feature and the Topical Review were included on the program. The soloists were Grace Hoffman and Herbert Waterous.

Eighty-first Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-first Street, Douglas Fairbanks in "A Modern Musketeer" was the picture feature.

Chaplin Studio Opened for Business

THE New York offices of The First National Exhibitors' Circuit have just received glad news per telegraph from their Million Dollar Comedian's new studios—"Charlie started work to-day. Will deliver first comedy in usual six weeks"—which will place the release date of the first comedy in the latter part of February.

A letter from Sid, the comedian's brother, received a day or two previous to the receipt of the wire, caused no little apprehension on the part of the Circuit's officers. It stated that Charlie, while doing a bit of wire walking on the steel roof frame of the new studio lost his balance and came mighty near cancelling his contract by a tumble to the hardwood studio floor, forty feet below. Charlie had gone aloft to get a look over the neighbor's back fences, and while up top was doing a bit of funny business for the benefit of the workmen employed on the floor below. He slipped, but caught himself. Sid says his heart almost quit work. When he found his voice he gave his valuable brother a "calling down" in more senses than one. He adds that he has been sticking closer than a brother ever since and that he finally induced Charlie to make a start at work in order to keep him out of mischief.

Chaplin Does a Stunt.

All is well now, however, as the comedian has to get to work earning that million—which, even for him will entail pretty constant application.

DONALD CRISP SCORES.

An unusual triumph fell to the lot of Donald Crisp last week when two of his Paramount pictures held sway on Broadway at the Rivoli and Rialto and were accorded paens of praise by the newspaper dramatic critics. The pictures were "Rimrock Jones," starring Wallace Reid, and George Beban's "Jules of the Strong Heart," appearing as rival attractions and both doing a tremendous business, it is announced.

The Motion Picture and the War

Importance of the Exhibitor in Present Crisis Brought Out by Adolph Zukor, President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation

ADOLPH ZUKOR, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in an interview last week brought out not only the advisability but the absolute necessity of increased endeavors on the part of the exhibitor to cheer the nation. In this connection, Mr. Zukor said:

"A golden opportunity lies before the motion picture theater exhibitor of today, which should be grasped at the psychological time. It has taken some time for the American public to realize that we are engaged in a mighty war, for the United States has, fortunately, occupied a position of great prosperity. With hundreds of thousands of our boys going to the front, however, we are beginning to experience the feelings that our allies encountered when their men rallied to the colors, and we should be guided by the events that took place in those countries.

Adolph Zukor.

"Our everyday life is being filled with little inconvenience, due to the enormous help this country is giving the allies, and the newspapers teem with war news. Now is the time for the exhibitor to make his house the court of happiness and gladness for his locality, where his patrons will gather to relax the tension of the times, which fact he should bring out in his advertisements in newspapers, and in slides, etc. In so doing he will not only benefit himself, but will be performing a patriotic service for his community.

"In times of peace the maxim of 'all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy' was well recognized, and the film industry was brought to its present proportions because the American public thoroughly believed in it. In times of war, with the added mental burdens, the motion picture theater is more than ever a public necessity.

"Don't let your patrons mope in their homes, but bring to them the attractiveness of your theater by systematic advertising. There is no doubt that millions of people who have not yet been converted to picture patrons can be made regular 'fans' at this time, if they can be induced to appreciate the real benefits derived from attending your theater.

"Transportation facilities are such that the motion picture must fill the gap in the country's amusements caused by the inability of traveling companies to secure accommodations. Every available car is being utilized to transport food and essentials, and passenger trains have been eliminated from the schedules. Prices of admission for the speaking stage have gone skyward, and now, more than ever, is the picture theater the cheapest, as well as the best, form of entertainment.

"The entire country is in a prosperous condition, and with the billions of dollars being spent by the Government this condition is enhanced. Of course, we must not blind ourselves to the fact that the cost of the commodities of life have gone up, and that the Government has waged a campaign of conservation which has educated the public to demand value for its money, but this really benefits the better theatre and enables the manager to get higher admission prices. In speaking with our London representative, J. C. Graham, I find that the same thing occurred in England, where the first-class picture houses, after four years of war, are prosperous and those showing cheap films have suffered.

"Great war authorities have declared that the morale of the nations will play an important part in the quick conclusion of the conflict, and the motion picture theatre can play an important part in maintaining the high spirits of the American nation. The exhibitor is now the purveyor of an article—amusement—which the public not only wants but needs.

"President Wilson himself must have anticipated the part the motion picture would take in the war, for he declared, after a eulogy of the film, that he proposed to use the picture houses as the quickest means of disseminating information to all the people.

"Advertising is now essential to the exhibitor, for he should drive home the fact that his is the playhouse of comfort, amusement and entertaiment, in which are presented the famous stars of the stage and screen. His advertising must be honest, however, and in many instances it will open the eyes of the exhibitor when he starts his advertising campaign to discover that he has nothing worth-while to advertise if he is not showing the stars and the plays that the public demands.

"Many theaters will take advantage of the conditions which have arisen, and which will become more intense in the near future, and will capture increased patronage and prosperity by broadsides of publicity. Others will not, and they will have no one to blame but themselves and their lack of enterprise and appreciation of the important part they play in the general morale of the nation.

"It should not be forgotten that the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has demonstrated its faith in the present condition and the anticipation of the future by spending a million of dollars in a great national campaign of education to acquaint the public with the photoplays it produces, and it is backing up this publicity with the best pictures that brains and money can produce. The exhibitor, therefore, should surely not ignore the warning I am giving him, and I sincerely hope he will believe the good faith that inspires it. The prosperity of the picture theatre is necessarily our prosperity, and we are desirous of building upon solid ground.

"The year 1918 should be a memorable one in the industry, for it will mark the culmination of important events that had their birth in 1917. Within a few months spring will arrive, and with it the great offensives on the battlefronts of Europe. The tension of the war will be at its maximum, and the exhibitor has sufficient time, by beginning now, to decide the part his house will play in his locality. And when the war is over, and the country again filled with gladness, it will be a difficult matter to wean patrons from the theatres that established a clientele during the dark hours when entertainment was not merely a pleasure but a necessity."

DIRECTORS BALL AROUSES INTEREST.

Increasing interest is being shown throughout local filmdom in the invitation supper and dance of the Motion Picture Directors' Association which will be held at the Biltmore Hotel on the evening of January 26.

The fact that the affair has the guarantee of exclusiveness owing to the limited number of invitations issued lends a value to the cards of admission that other dances fathered by the film folks have not always possessed and the Dance Committee is being besieged for invitations by the less fortunate ones who have not been included in the list of guests.

That many surprises and much entertainment of a novel nature will be furnished the lucky patrons of the affair are promised, this feature of the evening's fun being in capable hands.

At the meeting of the Association held at the Studio, 234 West 55th street on Tuesday night, Director J. Searle Dawley, on receiving the report of Wally Van, chairman of the Ball Committee as to progress made and acceptances received, expressed his conviction that the event would establish a new standard for similar affairs in the future.

GLORIA SWANSON BACK ON KEYSTONE LOT.

Gloria Swanson, the brunette beauty who has appeared in many Keystone comedies in the past, has returned to the fold and will begin work at once at the Culver City studios in one and two-reel Triangle-Keystone comedies.

How It Is Done at the Strand

A Discussion of Methods Which Have Actually Been Worked Out Successfully.

By Harold Edel, Managing Director.

WHEN Robert Fulton announced that he would run a boat up our well-known Hudson by steam, they all proclaimed him, in the language of the classics, a nut. When Adolph Zukor stated that he would present famous stars in famous plays on the screen, the wiseacres thought it preposterous. A radical departure will always cause dissenting criticism of a most emphatic nature and thus when the management of the Strand announced a new entertainment in the world of amusements, namely, a combination of high-class screen offerings and condensed opera, various individuals shook their heads and smiled.

The very first week following the installation of this new form of entertainment the Strand theater proved that its new endeavor was a smashing success. The matter of condensing an opera such as "Carmen" into a thirty-minute offering is by no means an easy task, but the results already evident has encouraged us to work along even broader lines in this direction than previously planned. In selecting the operatic attraction for our bill our first care is in securing an opera that is popular among the average amusement-seeking public. "Carmen," for instance, is known throughous the length and breadth of the land. To present a production that is unknown to the average theatergoer, even though it be a masterpiece, would be folly, for it would not be appreciated excepting by a small percentage of even a high-class audience.

"Carmen," then, was selected as our first vehicle to mark the introduction of a new feature at the Strand. Four people were used in the presentation of a condensed version of the famous piece, each individual an artist of recognized talents. Special scenery and costumes were prepared and lighting effects were studied out. The most difficult task, of course, was the business of condensing the opera, and in this work Oscar Spirescu, conductor of the Strand Symphony Orchestra, proved a most able collaborator.

By eliminating the two vocal solo numbers we were able to present the usual amount of screen entertainment, consisting of the feature, Pauline Frederick in "Mrs. Dane's Defense"; Zoological pictures, the Strand Topical Review, Scenic and Educational pictures and a James Montgomery Flagg comedy, as well as a special patriotic "bit" preceding the overture, and a violin solo. In other words, our operatic offering takes the place of the usual vocal presentations.

Congratulatory letters received from prominent celebrities of the music world indicate that we have succeeded in attracting a new clientele to the Strand and this, of course, means added returns at the box office. In a recent article I cited the success of the matinee symphony programs preceding our regular bill. At that time I mentioned that with the installation of this idea we branched out into the musical field, making our complete programs of double drawing power. With the introduction of opera we go still further into the music field and our representation in the music columns of all publications has been greatly enhanced.

In catering to two distinct branches of art, however, it is very important that one will not conflict with the other. By this I mean that to go too far into the music world would have a negative effect upon the portion of the audience which gets its chief enjoyment out of the picture program, and vice-versa. Therefore, it is all-important that the popularity of the musical presentations are as popular as they are meritorious. This I brought out in my recent article concerning photoplay music and its importance to the success of a cinema theater warrants repetition.

The introduction of popular opera in the photoplay theater in conjunction with a bill of screen entertainment is not only possible, but as proved by the Strand, is very desirable. The Strand in this, as in many other cases, is the first theater in the country, if not the world, to present this new form of entertainment, and to my mind there seems to be no reason why it should not be popular throughout the entire country in the larger cinema houses. Letters from our usual patrons, as well as the storm of applause that was accorded the presentation of every performance, in addition to record attendances, indicate that the new entertainment is a big success, and we are arranging for further offerings of this kind along even broader lines.

FOR STATE RIGHT MEN.

A comprehensive list beginning on page 649 and covering more than eight pages will interest State Right men.

"When Tinting and Toning is Effective"

By Edward M. Roskam.

ALL the world is a rainbow filled with sunshine and shadows." Few of the big feature film producers take advantage of the wonderful artistic effects that can be derived by the use of plain tints such as amber, blue, yellow, green, rose, orange, purple, red, or by the use of tinting and toning which gives a combination of two, three and four colors on each scene. Sepia tone, for instance, renders a rich brown effect to the body or half-tone portion of the print, while the sky, water or clear portions of the picture, known photographically as "high lights," stay perfectly clear.

When the tone has once taken effect it cannot be washed off. The toned films can then be put through a tinting bath and the high lights will immediately absorb the tint, while the color of the toned part will remain unchanged.

For daybreak, sunset, sunrise, storms, scenes, lightning, fire effects, electric drilling and so forth, tinting and toning combinations are indispensable when proper effects are desired.

A recent feature release shows a burglar entering an office and later attempting to open a safe with an electric drill. Throughout this entire scene a plain blue tint was used. How much more effective would this scene have been had the producer used a combination of blue tone and yellow tint when the burglar entered with his hand lamp, which would have given the effect of a darkened room with the yellow ray of the lamp showing in contrast to the darkened room, and then when the burglar applies the electric drill to change the color to a blue tone and red tint, which would have made the safe drillings as vivid and as natural as if the audience were actually watching the operation. Colors properly used and light effects please every audience. If the directors take enough trouble to make these effects, why not see that the laboratory who does your printing carries them out.

World Film Magnanimous

Offers Free Film Service to All Exhibitors Now Contracting for World Pictures.

AS A WAR measure designed to help exhibitors toward "standing off" the difficulties of the present time the World Film Corporation announces that exhibitors may have absolutely free use of World Pictures equal to those they are showing in their theaters under present contracts with this corporation.

This applies to all World Pictures published prior to "The Burglar," which was issued at the beginning of November, and there is no string whatsoever to the proposition.

The suggestion will not be made use of as a lever for new business, but is issued solely to benefit exhibitors in a substantial way at a time when burdens are peculiarly heavy and unavoidable.

The World executives believe their plan is a thoroughly practical and substantial source of assistance, taking effect at a time when it will be of double value to the theater managers contemplating prospects of a most discouraging character. The plan is outlined in the World Film advertisement on another page.

INVITED AUDIENCE SEES INNOCENT.

The Pathe Plays were given a most auspicious inauguration Sunday evening, January 20, when A. H. Woods presented Fannie Ward in "Innocent" at the Eltinge Theater to an invited audience that was composed of people of prominence in theatrical and social circles.

Three years ago at the same theater Mr. Woods presented the stage production of "Innocent" that proved a sensational success. The return of the play to the Eltinge Theater in picture play form with Fannie Ward in the part originally created by Pauline Fredericks, intensified the comparison between the stage and screen plays. As a stage play this production was greeted by the dramatic critics as a novel and strong dramatic work, but some objection was raised to the morbid and unpleasant character of the principal role. In the picturized version of Mr. Broadhurst's play all of the critical objections have been overcome. The character of Innocent has been changed from that of a vampire to a pure, sweet, little girl whose main fault is impetuosity. Miss Fannie Ward, John Miltern and Armand Kalitz, accompanied by George Fitzmaurice, director of the production, occupied one of the lower boxes, and among the many prominent people present were:

Our National Parks Pictured

Pathe Cameraman Completes Tour of Nation's Playgrounds —Many Wonderful Views Secured.

RALPH RADNOR EARLE, of the Earle Motion Picture Laboratory, San Francisco, Cal., who was commissioned a couple of years ago to take moving pictures in all the National Parks for Pathe, has returned from an 8,000-mile trip through the West with about 10,000 feet of film taken in the most wonderful and beautiful spots in America. The trip was made in his Buick car, the only one which has been in all of the National Parks, and he was accompanied on his journey by his wife, formerly Hazel Brown, once queen of the Tacoma Montamara Festo. The American flag, which graced the car during the trip, is likewise the only one that has been to all of the parks and this is to be sent to the Secretary of the Interior as a souvenir.

Mesa Verdi, Colo.

Since 1915 Mr. Earle has traveled over 34,000 miles, making moving pictures of Western America, and he is probably better acquainted with the scenic wonders of this section than any other person. Since the breaking out of the war, travel to the National Parks has increased wonderfully and there has been a tremendous demand for scenic pictures. These now vie with the finest studio productions for interest at moving picture theaters throughout the country and there is a steady call for anything out of the ordinary.

All of Mr. Earle's trips are made by automobile and he carries with him all conveniences for camping, such as sleeping bags, tents, cooking utensils and food, all selected for compactness. Hotels are patronized when convenient, but there are many days when no settlements are at hand and camping out is necessary.

The 1917 trip was begun on June 28th, and the first park visited was that of the Yosemite, which had been visited many times before by Mr. Earle. From here he went to the Sheep Springs, Arizona.

General Grant National Park in Fresno County, which was set aside by the Government to preserve a splendid grove of Big Trees, including one named after General Grant. Next the Sequoia Park was visited, and while this is but about twenty miles distant in an air line a detour of more than one hundred miles was necessary to reach it. This park contains the largest grove of sequoia giganteas in existence, as well as the largest individual tree, the General Sherman, thirty-six feet in diameter and more than two hundred and eighty feet in height.

As all of the National Parks in California are in the northern part of the State no more work was done until the Grand Ganyon, in Arizona, was reached. From here Mr. and Mrs. Earle motored over the desert to Mesa Verdi, a National Park in Colorado set aside to preserve one of the finest ruins of the ancient cliff dwellers. Then the Rocky Mountain National Park was fully covered, and several weeks were spent in the Yellowstone Park, the trip homeward being made by way of the Mount Ranier Park. As the Glacier National Park was covered in 1916 it was not again visited, nor was a stop made at Crater Lake, in Oregon. The Mount Lassen region in Northern California, which contains the only active volcano in the United States, has recently been made a National Park, and this will be visited at an early date.

The National Park films that have been made by Mr. Earle are being sent to the laboratories of Pathe Freres, near Paris, to be colored and some of the first ones to be finished have been received at the Pathe Exchange at San Francisco. In addition to taking pictures in the National Parks while on his recent trip, Mr. Earle secured a number of interesting ones outside these preserves, specially in Colorado, where the Royal Gorge and Box Canyon were filmed.

Careless Operators Misuse Film

Jewel Produces Evidence to Show What Happened to One Shipment.

Following fast in the footsteps of the national campaign for a general cut in "overhead" expenses by many of the larger producers in the country, Jewel Productions, Inc., suggests that a great deal of money could be saved yearly if some managers would instruct their operators to be more careful in handling prints.

Shows Condition of Film as Received from Arena Theater, Astoria, L. I.

Jewel, and doubtless all other producing companies, have continued trouble with the manner in which many prints are returned to the exchange by some of their clients. As an instance of this, the accompanying photograph indicates clearly that the Jewel production, "Come Through," suffered considerably when it was returned in the manner illustrated by the Arena Theatre in Astoria, L. I.

Evidently there was no attempt made to rewind the reels; no binder bands were used, and in fact were found stuck in a corner of the shipping case. As a piece of silent evidence, this photograph should impress managers with the necessity of cautioning their operators. Careful handling of prints will have a lot to do with a manager's standing with the exchange he deals with.

FIRST NATIONAL EXAMINING SUBJECTS.

The board of directors of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit were in New York during the week of January 19 to pass final judgment on several productions which have been offered, and to complete arrangements for greater co-operation in their exchange service which is just getting into good working order. Fred Dahnken, of San Francisco; Aaron Jones, of Chicago; Robert Lieber, of Indianapolis; E. H. Hulsey, of Texas, and Harry Schwalbe, superviser of film exchanges, of Philadelphia, are all in attendance at the meetings which are being held at the Hotel Astor. They report business in their respective territories as being well up to average for this time of the year.

A Tribute to St. Louis Film Men

Memories of Early Struggles and Successes Reveal the Fine Human Quality of Picture Showmen.

By A. H. Giebler.

SAYING good-bye to a native heath is not as simple as it looks. When we decided to pull up stakes and go in search of the end of the rainbow, we approached the preparations with a light heart, and it was not until we got to digging around the roots of our vine and fig tree that we realized what a tenacious hold they had taken in Missouri soil.

After we are all through, we said, we will go around and tell the boys good-bye.

In our mind's eye we pictured the scene: Here we would come, stepping along Film Row in our large and expansive manner, our coat tails flying in the wind, our eyes alight with the fire that gleamed from the orbs of Marco Polo, Sindbad the Sailor, and other celebrated travelers, shaking hands here and there, mingling quips and merry jests with fond farewells, wishing everybody good luck, and being wished Godspeed in return.

It wasn't that way at all. The few folks we saw wished us good luck, but we didn't see many. The day was so cold, and there was a fog or something that "kinda" dimmed our eyes, and the few people we did see said things that "kinda" dimmed the enterprise.

It must have been Barney Rosenthal—it was either he or Charley Werner—who asked.

"What's the matter with St. Louis? Hasn't the old town been good to you? Haven't we all treated you like a friend and brother?"

That sort of thing—home-town stuff—stuff we had no come-back for, questions we couldn't answer.

There is nothing the matter with St. Louis; it is a good old town and we love it with all of its fog and soft coal smoke. It was not that the old town has not been good to us, or that anyone had not treated us as a friend and brother—it was just that we wanted to travel, to go to far places, like Kipling's soldier, "for to admire and for to see," that caused us to write "California or Bust" on our banner and go away.

Not only has St. Louis been good to us, but the film industry has been kind. It has given us cakes and ale, butter for our parsnips, and much that was human and interesting and good for the soul.

Watched Old-Time Exhibitors Prosper.

We butted into the film business in St. Louis when the business was decidedly in its infancy, in the days when Mike Nash, William Sievers, Jack Sweeney, Pohlman and Zimmerman, John Karzin, Ed Schwarts, Joe Mogler, Al Wittman, "Red" Williams, and a lot more who are still in the game, were rocking the cradle.

Some of the cradles were very small. Mike Nash's first theatre did not seat over a hundred people, but it grew to a big black tent on the corner of Jefferson and Howard, and from this to the fine King Bee theatre now flourishing.

We knew Joe Mogler in the days when he got a piano and put it in the lobby of his home because there was not as much thought of giving the patrons music as there was of getting them into the building. We watched Joe grow into the management of half a dozen different houses, into the biggest tent show in town at Ninth and Bremen, where he had to drive stakes around the sides of the canvas to keep the kids from burrowing under the tent like young gophers. We were among those present when Joe opened the big Mogler theatre up on the hill from where the tent stood, and we saw him become president of the Exhibitors' League and raise the membership of that organization from twelve to seventy.

We knew Pohlman and Zimmerman when they turned the old Olive street car barns into the Mutascope theatre, and when they opened the Comet and the new Mutascope.

We remember John Gentner when he made the Retina from an old blacksmith shop, and how he rebuilt the house and doubled its seating capacity without ever missing a performance; and the day when he ran twenty-seven shows from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M., with that classic of all "blood and thunders," "The James Boys in Missouri!" And the girl who sang an illustrated song after each reel and came up just as strong and only a little bit hoarse after her twenty-seventh appearance.

We remember when Al Whitman, on Chippewa street, was king of the South Side exhibitors, and Fred Wehrenberg, of the Best, at Jefferson and Gravois, who made himself a sort of Santa Claus and distributed many baskets of "eats" and coal to the needy in his neighborhood.

We remember "Doc" Demko and his annual Christmas tree. Doc was just getting ready to move into his new house when we left.

We knew Frank Root and his wife and their little "Eagle" on South Broadway—an Eagle that had to have two new nests built for it; C. E. Schwartz, when he operated the little Hippodrome, and afterward two houses on St. Charles street.

We used to go to the Central at Sixth and Market when the lecturer who explained the pictures with a long stick used to forget and turn his back and go right on explaining when the operator had the "Wait-a-minute-please" slide on the screen.

We remember the rise and fall of the Crawford houses; the phenomenon of the Hippodrome and its eclipse.

When the First Exchange Started and Later.

We knew the first exchange, when O. T. Crawford had all of twenty-five reels upstairs in a room over the Gaiety theater, and the simple system of booking in vogue, which consisted in each exhibitor bringing back the reel he had used, putting it on the shelf and taking another—if he could find one that he had not already shown.

We saw other exchanges born—saw the merger that made the Swanson-Crawford exchange the biggest in the country and the school for most of the successful film men of the city.

We remember when all the exchanges were down town; when the General moved 'way out to Grand and Olive; we watched the number of exchanges grow from one to twenty, and Film Row become a landmark in the city.

We saw many nickel shows grow into cinema palaces, and held our breath with a lot of others when William Sievers built the new Grand Central at a cost of $175,000, with its two thousand seats, and watched him make good with week runs and an all-picture bill.

We saw John W. Cornelius come to town and open the Lyric, and afterward the West End Lyric with Oriental carpets on the floors and cut flowers in the lobby. We remember when John Cornelius passed away and how his shrewd and kindly face was missed, and how his wife and their son James took up the reins of the business and drove the same straight and honorable road that John had traveled.

We remember when Barney Rosenthal and Fred Keller were film peddlers and how they have gone on and up, weathered every storm and every shake-up the business has known, and yet are climbing higher all the time.

We knew Ed Dustin in the early days, and how he has grown with the industry and always kept his reputation for squareness and being a friend—a good friend to everyone; the Werner Brothers, Sam and Charlie, with their kindly humor; Sam Lears, and the big supply business he has built, and we know of many a kind and generous deed that Sam has done which he would never tell about or want us to tell of; Jack Sweeney, and his reputation of putting "dead ones" on their feet, and how he always ran a show as fast as he now does his little red flivver that he goes buzzing around town in.

Memories Too Dear to Express.

We sort of grew up with the film industry in St. Louis, never exactly in it, but always on the side lines, keeping score, as it were, recording the successes to the best of our ability, and forgetting the flukes and failures to the best of our bad memory.

That's the reason we didn't go around and tell the boys good-bye; we were afraid we would lose the fine spirit of the empiricist that filled our system and that we would tear up the long railroad ticket we had bought and stay right there forever.

And even now, we do not to say good-bye with too much emphasis. Once when a child we saw a "mover" wagon, passing along the old Springfield road, a highway that led to the plains of the west, with the legend, "Kansas or Bust!" written on its canvas sides. It was a fine-looking outfit; the wheels of the wagon were red, the horses were sleek, and five dogs were following along.

A year later we saw the same outfit coming back. The wagon's wheels were dished and ready to collapse; the canvas was tattered and torn, the horses racks of bones, and only one dog trailed a limping leg behind. The brave motto of "Kansas or Bust!" had been crossed out and underneath was written in scrawling characters: "Busted. Going back to my wife's people!"

Who knows! It may be that some day we, too, will rewrite our banner and turn our faces eastward again.

British Notes

By J. B. Sutcliffe.

THE War Office Kinematograph Committee has taken over for the duration of the war the business of the Topical Film Co. This arrangement will not displace existing plans for the handling of productions of the type of "The Battle of the Somme" or of the "Tanks" picture, but will be supplementary to the release and handling of multiple-reel war films. The main idea is to issue a bi-weekly war topical composed entirely of current news pictures from all the British and Allied fronts and including Colonial and American pictures. The adoption of an established organization for the production of news reels will thus save considerable time, both in its preparation and distribution. Under the one heading of the "War Film Budget" will appear the latest contributions of cameramen in France, the East, Italy, Portugal, Russia and the Balkans. Probably, although no definite promise is made, a set of pictures depicting some of the Navy's activities will be included in each edition. With the development of the "War Film Budget," it is intended to issue special editions in different localities. Assuming, for instance, that the committee secure a length of negative of a provincial regiment going into action, too long for inclusion in the general edition, the whole length would be printed in an enlarged local edition for circulation in the county of the regiment.

* * *

The introduction of an addition to the scale of taxation upon public amusements caused something of a general slump in moving picture theater receipts, both of London and the provinces, during October, although, fortunately, the falling off was only temporary. This state of affairs was undoubtedly assisted materially by a number of air raids over the metropolitan area coincident with the imposition of the new duty. The entertainment tax, applicable to theaters, moving picture exhibitions and all forms of public entertainment is now applied on the following scale:

Price of Admission.	Tax.	Price of Admission.	Tax.
2d	½d	15-0	2-0
4d	1d	£1- 0-0	2-6d
6d	2d	1- 1-0	3-0
1-0	3d	1-11-6d	4-0
2-0	4d	2- 2-0	5-0
3-0	6d	2-12-6d	6-0
5-0	9d	3- 3-0	7-0
7-6d	1-0	4- 4-0	9-0
10-6	1-6	5- 5-0	10-0

* * *

The Universal Company's multi-reel feature, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," is down for presentation at the Philharmonic Hall in the course of a week or two's time. J. P. Tippett, managing director of the Trans-Atlantic Film Company, is lessee of the Philharmonic Hall and has successfully exhibited the Williamson pictures and "The Dumb Girl of Portici" for seasons at this hall. It is, however, perhaps best known as the home of Ponting's "Scott Antarctic Expedition" films, whose vogue at the Philharmonic must rank with the longest runs in the metropolis.

* * *

The London Opera House in Kingsway, which Oswald Stoll is popularizing as the Stoll Picture Theater, offers an opportunity for film fans to see in the flesh some of their screen favorites. This week two London productions are being shown, "The Woman Who Was Nothing" (an adaptation of Tom Gannon's novel), and "The Mother of Destiny," a version of Eden Philpot's novel, "The Mother," and an invitation is extended to patrons to a kinema tea in the palatial salons of the theater after the matinee performance on Friday. It is announced that all the leading players in the two productions will be present. The cast includes Lilian Braithwaite, Elizabeth Risdon and Madge Titheradge, amongst others. For theaters equipped with tea lounges or cafes the "Kinema Tea" idea opens up paying possibilities, although so far as London is concerned the appearance of screen players in person is a somewhat rare occurrence.

* * *

Sir James Barrie's one act playlet, "The Twelve-Pound Look," is being done for the screen by the Ideal Company at their suburban studio.

* * *

D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance," still drawing crowds to the Princess theater during its second London presentation, has been notably free from attacks, anticipated when it was first introduced last April at Drury Lane, from clerics who might see sacrilege in the depicted characterization of Christ. Now rather a little late in the day, a semi-religious journal, "Sunday at Home," vents its spleen upon the so-called advisability of visualizing the conventional figure of Christ in the third episode scenes of the production. Mr. Griffith need have no qualms through these veiled insinuations, for this denouncement is the one exception that proves the rule of unanimous approval. The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Primate of the English Church, saw the picture and apart from his admiration of the subject as a spectacular production his comment on the handling of the Biblical scenes were the reverse of uncomplimentary.

* * *

The Trans-Atlantic Film Company is on the point of releasing in this country the ten-part Universal serial, "Perils of the Secret Service." John D. Tippett, managing director, despite the rapid decrease of open-market subjects, adheres with unshakable faith to the policy of free trading in all serial productions, notwithstanding many tempting offers for exclusive rights. The Trans-Atlantic trade shows at Universal Home, in Oxford street, are becoming quite affairs of society. At one private view last week a princess, a grand duchess and a duchess figured in the small audience.

An Interesting Table

Statistical Table of Moving Picture Films Imported Into Argentina.

1914. From	Feet.	1915. From	Feet.
Germany	71,635	Germany	38,572
Brazil	18,892	Brazil	....
Spain	39,753	Spain	553,401
United States	375,494	United States	1,182,768
France	68,486	France	1,706,256
Italy	250,723	Italy	3,335,366
Paraguay	20,860	Paraguay	32,275
Great Britain	280,636	Great Britain	1,865,664
Chile	....	Chile	305,040
Denmark	....	Denmark	60,614
Netherlands	....	Netherlands	126,345
Peru	....	Peru	62,188
Uruguay	1,574	Uruguay	2,511,198
Total	1,128,053	Total	11,779,687

1916. From	Feet.	1917 (First Six Months). From	Feet.
Chile	1,012,339	Chile	582,921
Denmark	67,699	Germany	2,361
Spain	239,308	Spain	107,846
United States	4,533,484	United States	5,176,627
France	2,745,360	France	1,180,406
Italy	2,456,851	Italy	881,270
Paraguay	142,483	Paraguay	....
Netherlands	11,414	Netherlands	10,627
Great Britain	1,720,052	Great Britain	181,843
Peru	61,795	Peru	....
Uruguay	2,557,219	Uruguay	1,577,942
Total	15,547,984	Total	9,729,395

NOTE.—The imports from Chile, Peru and Uruguay represent reimportations to a great extent. It may be estimated that about 80 per cent. of the pictures imported from Great Britain were manufactured in this country and the same thing applies to about 50 per cent. of the French imports—films made in the United States, shipped to Paris and London and reshipped from these places to Buenos Aires. On account of the war and other causes, it is difficult to obtain exact data on the rest of the southern republics, but this table reveals how important these markets have become to the American producer.

MYRTLE LIND IN DRAMATIC PRODUCTIONS.

Myrtle Lind, one of the bevy of Triangle-Keystone beauties who has been helping funny men to make the world laugh, has deserted the comedies for drama and is now working with Director Jack Dillon on his latest Triangle subject, "Betty Comes Home," which has just been started. This is a five-reel comedy drama feature showing the trouble a school girl, neglected by her family, gets into through the aid of the family chauffeur.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"Innocent"

Fannie Ward Featured in Five-Reel Pathe Play, Adapted From Well-Known Drama by George Broadhurst.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THE story of "Innocent" is well known to theatergoers, having been presented by A. H. Woods originally, with Pauline Frederick and John Miltern in the leading roles. Mr. Miltern again appears, as John Wyndham, in the photoplay version, and Fannie Ward plays the title role. The production is finely balanced and one of unusual charm, both in settings and general presentation. The story has a poignant quality, verging upon the tragic, but is relieved at the close by a welcome ray of sunlight.

Scene from "Innocent" (Pathe).

The story opens, as will be remembered by those who have seen the play, in the City of Mukden, China. Here Innocent lives with her dissolute father in a home surrounded by a high-walled garden. The Oriental atmosphere is brought out in the most carefully devised and attractive settings, and even the subtitles carry artistic scenes which strengthen the illusion.

Her father's death occurs suddenly, owing to constant drinking, and Innocent finds herself with but one friend, John Wyndham, a man much older than herself. The latter has promised her father to guard and protect her, and his sincerity is entirely apparent in this. But he, nevertheless, takes the girl with him to Paris and the worst happens. Wyndham himself breaks over his resolutions against gambling and Innocent gets her first taste of the gay life. She is pursued by Louis Doucet, keeper of a gambling house, who induces her finally to flee with him to the Riviera. Wyndham, out of pocket and shaken by his recent excesses, discovers the couple at the carnival at Nice. Doucet has been playing a slow but certain game with the girl, but she is not yet entirely within his toils. Wyndham shoots the gambler in a private dining room of a hotel. He then flees, heart-broken, and Innocent goes out of the place, disillusioned and with eyes opened at last. When they next meet it is once more in the garden at Mukden, the inference being that she marries Wyndham.

Fannie Ward plays the role of Innocent with rare skill, her performance being entirely in character and therefore fascinating. John Miltern, long schooled in the part of Wyndham, is scarcely less pleasing. Louis Doucet, the third role in importance, is gracefully and easily portrayed by Armand Kalitz. Frederick Perry appears as the father.

Special credit should be given George Fitzmaurice, who directed the photoplay. The strong work of the actors is met at every point by appropriate and artistic surroundings. The carnival scenes at Nice are particularly notable.

Work is progressing rapidly on "Rough and Ready," William Farnum's forthcoming Fox de luxe production, and the entire company will leave within the next fortnight for a snow-clad region. Richard Stanton is in charge of the direction.

Every important member of the supporting cast has been selected. Miss Violet Palmer is leading woman. Other players are Alphonse Either, Jessie Arnold, David Higgins, Frank Newton, Mable Bardine and Franklyn McGlynn.

"Cupid's Round-Up"

Western Thriller by the Fox Company with Tom Mix Making Things Lively—A Touch of Old Time Cowboy Dash.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

THE old Western melodrama plays a return engagement in "Cupid's Round Up," a new five-reel Fox picture with Tom Mix. The plot could have been improved by leaving out one or two of the old-fashioned easy expedients; but the value of the picture is high in spite of its story. It is a welcome revival of something that always had a warm place in the hearts of audiences and was unmercifully overdone until it became like pie to a sick man. The chase and the running fight are and always will be high cards in the pictures, and so are bronchos and rustlers driving off herds of cattle against Western backgrounds. There are plenty of these things in this picture. What is lacking is a strong, concrete story that would have given the director a chance to show his imagination. He proves he has it even here. The picture depends almost wholly on Tom Mix's ability to ride and shoot and handle a red-blood situation. Tom Mix makes it a good picture for the average audience.

Two Western fathers have agreed to have their children, a boy and a girl, marry. When the story opens the time has come. Two young people have reluctantly agreed to take their medicine in a month's time. The young man is going to "have a fling" and hopes to get to the wedding a wreck. The girl (Wanda Petit) goes to her ranch. The man sees her on the train and, not knowing her, is interested. He manages to get off at her station. "The" hotel is kept by a woman (Virginia Ford) and is a nest of cattle thieves. Tom astonishes the natives and the woman falls in love with him. The foreman of the ranch next to the girl's gives him a job. The girl has made her maid say she is the lady, and Tom makes love to his heart's content, remembering that the month must close only when he sees the "mistress." He is accused by the villain of murder and has to make a gallop for it. He catches a train and jumps in through an open window just where the girl is seated.

The director is E. J. Le Saint. The scenario is by Charles Kenyon, from the melodrama by George Scarborough.

"Jules of the Strong Heart"

Paramount Presents George Beban in a Highly Effective Characterization from a Story of the North Woods by William Merriam Rouse.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

JULES OF THE STRONG HEART" is well-directed by Donald Crisp, from a scenario by Harvey Thew, and the support is good, notably and surprisingly that of a baby who plays an unconsciously plucky role while man-handled throughout the comedy-melodrama, but it is doubtful if the story would have been far removed from the regular drama of the woods but for the one cameo-like characterization of "Jules." Jules is a French trapper of native sweetness, a tenderness which flowers into an instinct almost maternal through care of a baby he is bringing up on the bottle for a reason disclosed late in the story. The baby has been committed to his care by a dying mother, who believes her husband dead and who cannot bear to think of her child becoming a ward of the company factor.

The good cheer, natural tenderness and joyous philosophy of Jules, together with his ingenuity in providing for the babe under most difficult circumstances furnish a decided relief from the monotony of Hudson Bay stories and logging-camp melodramas. The rest of the story is a revolt stirred by the villain among the workmen, who are led to think they are not to receive their pay, a plot which must have sounded like old times to Charles Ogle, who played a part in this one.

Jules of the Strong Heart goes for the money during a violent gale and takes the villain along to sail the boat. The villain beaches the craft and attempts to torture Jules into revealing where he has hidden the order for the money, spread-eagling him on the sand. Now comes the papa of the baby in a motor boat next morning. Papa and the heroine set out to find Jules. They rescue him—he had the order for the money hidden in his mouth—and carry him back to camp along with the villain, where the latter will get his. Very much to his own surprise and delight, Jules wins the heroine in a lively last scene. The story was well presented at the Rialto.

"Fields of Honor"

Goldwyn Presents Mae Marsh in a Sympathetic Modern Story with a Flash of Wartime Vim by Irving S. Cobb.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

"FIELDS OF HONOR" depicts two of them, that of a pure-minded girl's bitter struggles through almost hopeless circumstances to the best she hoped for, a life warmed by true and tested love, and that of blood lust "over there" in strong contrast. In the latter there are some vivid flashes of combat, handled with skill by Ralph Ince, and some effective symbolism. The main story, however, is direct, simple and well suited to the ability of Miss Marsh—she seems to be steadily improving, showing more refinement and subtlety without losing sight of the necessity of making her characterizations clearly outlined, a thing lost sight of by many capable stage actresses in screen impersonations. Miss Marsh depicts that strong and distinguishing characteristic of her ex—capability for self-sacrifice—with a truly feminine delicacy and resignation. She wins the attention of a young artist while she is crossing the Atlantic as an emigrant from France. With her are a brother, Paul; a sister, and "Hans," a young German admirer of the sister. She meets the young artist again in New York, while she is at work in a flower store, and he falls violently in love with her. He finally arranges for her to come to the home of his wealthy parents with a view to letting them know how sweet a girl he has chosen to marry. There she is most brutally villified by a cousin of his, whose attentions she has repelled. The young artist is persuaded by his parents to test his love and her character by a short absence, and circumstances conspire to deprive her of knowledge why he has gone away. From that moment her trials become acute.

The ordeal begins with a declaration of war, which sends both Paul and Hans back to defend their respective countries. The sister, who has become engaged to Hans, falls ill, and the plucky little girl is at the last of her resources when news comes from Paul that he and Hans met on No-Man's Land in a hand-to-hand combat, and that Hans is dead, though not killed by Paul. One disaster follows another in rapid succession, contrasted with scenes on the "Fields of Honor" abroad, until the sister dies, and there is no resource left for the unfortunate little emigrant but to get back to France. She is on the eve of sailing when the artist returns, and she is rewarded for her purity and fortitude. Irvin S. Cobb is improving. He is getting the swing of the screen story, and he is fortunate in combining with so capable a director as Ralph Ince, a director whose earliest work met with appreciation in this paper. The story was admirably presented at the Strand, and it should form a strong and attractive number on any program.

"Cheating the Public"

Splendidly Handled Trial Scene Is Climax of Picture Filled With Emotional Appeals—Melodramatic Plea for Democracy by Fox Company.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

THE new Fox Standard picture, "Cheating the Public," is a melodrama with personified Greed for its villain, and it is one of those big emotional pictures. At its climax the little heroine is put on trial for her life and loses. Director Richard Stanton, with the good help of the cast of players, reaches an intensity of emotional appeal in this group of scenes that is astonishing; it welds the audience into a unit. This is accomplished partly by the large number of points of personal contact with the girl in the dock that he picks out in the crowded court room. We see human faces following the fortunes of the case. The story behind the trial scenes must have been big to enable him to find so many people deeply interested and it permits him to continue the trial until it becomes tremendously affecting. He puts the girl in her hard predicament, shows the jury, the impersonal judge, the district attorney intent on getting a verdict, and then he makes the girls' attorney treat her with the greatest tenderness. At the important points he picks out the girl's friends and shows how it is affecting them. You begin to see how many sides there are to the case and you begin to feel up to your limit how deep and wide the sympathy is. After the trial you hardly expect the director to attempt any further emotional appeal. He does, and reaches a very poignant one by making Mrs. O'Toole bring the girl's baby sister into her death cell so she can kiss it good-by. Enid Markey, who plays the unfortunate heroine, does work to be proud of in the part. Ralph Lewis plays the villainous factory owner and Edward Peil plays the girl's attorney. The whole cast deserves praise.

The picture is big. We don't need to criticise the story too closely. It opens in and about a canning factory. We see the miserable homes and the children working at starvation wages in the factory. The usual hard-hearted owner and his bully of a boss are here. Things culminate in a strike and all along the sympathy of the audience for the girl is well taken care of. The boss has been fired by the owner, and during a thunderstorm, when the workers are about to give in, the girl goes to the house of the owner to plead with him. He tries to ruin her. She has a revolver and fires at him. It is another bullet that kills him; but she is accused and condemned. At the last moment a confession, followed by an exciting race to the Governor, wins a stay and she is freed.

Triangle Five-Part Releases

"Her American Husband," Japanese-American Photoplay Featuring Teddy Sampson, and "The Gun Woman," Western Melodrama with Texas Guinan in Title Role.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"Her American Husband."

E. MAGNUS INGLETON is the author of "Her American Husband," a five-part Triangle photoplay directed by E. Mason Hopper and featuring Teddy Sampson. It is the story of the Japanese girl who marries an American, only to find herself deserted after the novelty of her quaint ways and abject devotion have worn off. Unlike the heroine in "Madam Butterfly," Mrs. Cherry Blossom Franklyn is not left in her native land to await her husband's return, but accompanies him to America. She sees but little of the man she married, however, once he is among his old friends of both sexes, and her child dies while its father is engaged in one of his old time revels. The ending is according to poetic justice. The unfaithful husband is strangled to death and his widow returns to Japan with her father and the old lover who avenged her.

There is little of movement and suspense in the story, but the incidents are always within reason and the production appears true to its subject. The portions of the plot that pass in Japan are particularly effective. Teddy Sampson is an excellent "Cherry Blossom." She has caught the mannerisms of the character and portrays her emotions with real power. Leota Lorraine as Miriam Faversham, Darrell Foss as Herbert Franklyn, Thomas Murihara as Tokimoda, Misfo Saki as Yoshlanda, Jack Abbe as Kato, W. A. Jeffries as Mason, Arthur Millet as Abbot, Ludwig Lowry as Jessop and Kathleen Emerson as Dolly are the remaining members of an entirely satisfactory cast. Friend Baker was the photographer.

"The Gun Woman."

The bad man of the West, so long the favorite hero of readers of a class of fiction now on the decline, has a rival in "The Gun Woman." This five-part Triangle Western melodrama was written by Alvin J. Neitz, directed by Frank Borzage and has Texas Guinan at the head of the cast. Her role is called The Tigress, a young woman who owns the "Devil's Kitchen," a gambling hell and dance hall at La Mesa, and whose finger is as quick on the trigger as that belonging to any outlaw of the opposite sex. After piling up quite a roll at the business and helping to populate the La Misa graveyard, The Tigress betrays a common female weakness of heart and falls in love with an engaging person known as The Gent. He loads her up with fairy tales about a happy little home far away from her old wild life and she hands over her savings. But her dream never becomes a reality. The Gent is a stage robber by profession, but willing to pick up money in other dishonest ways.

He goes to a new boom town and opens a hell's kitchen of his own with the cash belonging to The Tigress. In the meantime, over at La Mesa, The Tigress has been waiting for news of the absent one. When he returns he confesses how he has used the money and coolly informs the lady that he never intended to marry her. She gives him a month to bring back her earnings, appears promply at the end of the thirty days at The Gent's saloon, shoots up the place, puts a bullet through the unfaithful one and rides off to love and happiness with a stout-hearted gentleman who knows her past history and is willing to take chances.

Attention to details and correct locations mark the production of "The Gun Woman." It is acted in the right spirit by the star and her support, which includes Ed Brady as The Bostonian, Francis MacDonald as The Gent, George Chase and Thornton Edwards as The Vultures, and Walter Perkins as the sheriff of La Mesa. Photographed by C. H. Water.

"The Winding Trail"

Viola Dana Featured in a Western Story of Revenge, Containing Several Strong Dramatic Scenes and Good Characterization.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell.

WESTERN deserts and dance halls of the days of the early '70's furnish the locale for "The Winding Trail," released by Metro on January 14 in five parts, featuring Viola Dana. It is an interesting melodrama, differing from the usual offerings by its lack of romance; the leading male role being that of an outlaw who, though affected by the girl's influence, is not regenerated to the extent of becoming a conventional hero, but is consistently kept to character. There are many strong dramatic moments which serve to overcome the unpleasant points of the story.

When a caravan crossing the desert is refused a supply of water by the bandit, Waldo, the girl, Viola Dana, dresses as a child, goes to him, and finally softens his heart. A Mexican reveals her subterfuge, and is about to hold her, when he discovers she is looking for Alvin Steele, who has wronged her sister. He lets her go on condition that she bring Steele to him. This she succeeds in doing. Waldo then forces his wife, whom he has ill-treated because of a previous affair with Steele, to choose between them; she fires, and Steele falls. The bandit then tells his wife she is free to go her own way, and she starts across the desert. The girl, her vengeance satisfied, finally persuades the bandit to forgive his wife, and then heads her horse toward the East.

The role of Audrey Graham fits Viola Dana, and her work is excellent. In addition to giving a fine portrayal of the dramatic requirements she again demonstrates her ability as a dancer in a Spanish dance in the dance hall scene. Clifford Bruce gives a fine portrayal of the bandit, while Hayward Mack is satisfactory as Steele, and Mabel Van Buren successfully interprets the role of Lou, the bandit's wife.

Considerable credit is due to the Director John Collins for the manner in which the characterizations are brought out, and the excellence of the locations and types of the supporting characters.

"His Robe of Honor"

Henry B. Walthall Has Novel Role in Seven-Part Paralta Photoplay from Story by Ethel and James Dorrance.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A LESS dignified but equally appropriate title for the Paralta photoplay, "His Robe of Honor," would be "The Clean-Up." This seven-part screen version of the story by Ethel and James Dorrance is novel in one respect at least—it reforms its rogues of both sexes and preaches a gospel that should be called to the attention of a class of men which the world has long thought beyond redemption. The dishonest lawyer, whose sharp practice often works great harm, is here told to mend his ways and he may attain a judgeship and the love of a beautiful and accomplished woman as his reward. The entire story is a practical application of the old adage "It is never too late to mend," and many persons will believe in the complete reformation of its leading character.

At the opening of "His Robe of Honor," Julian Randolph, a shyster lawyer, whose specialty is furnishing phony jurors, is offered a judgeship if he clears the brother of a prominent policitian of a murder charge. By the aid of his usual tools he succeeds and is given a position on the bench. Here he is expected to obey the commands of the men who secured his appointment. But Randolph disappoints them. He has fallen in love with Laura Nelson, a beautiful girl of fine social position, and resolves to follow the straight path. He breaks off with Roxana Frisbee, a social free lance with whom he has been intimate, and who has assisted him in his crooked schemes, and refuses to betray his trust. The reformed lawyer gets the better of his enemies, wins the girl he wants and has the pleasure of seeing his old flame turn from her evil ways and become the wife of a man who can offer her an honest love.

Rex Ingram directed the picture. Most of his work is well done, but he has made two noticeable errors. One is in using an office boy as the guardian of some safe deposit vaults; the other is a mistake in the location of the characters during the courtroom scenes.

Henry B. Walthall is the Julian Randolph of the cast. The role is the most difficult of his screen career. His method and long identification with the crooked gentry of the photoplay serve him in good stead while Randolph is still under the domination of his evil nature. The transition to the man of probity and honor is no easy task for an actor of even his unquestioned ability, so firmly is the other side of Randolph's character impressed upon the spectator. Mary Charleson as Roxana Frisbee acts with her accustomed clear understanding and skill, and Lois Wilson is an ideal Laura Nelson. Capably acted roles should be credited to Noah Beery, Jr., as "Boss" Nordhoff, and to J. J. Dowling as Bruce Nelson. Also to Ray Laidlow as Robert Partland, Fred Montague as Million Mulligan, Eugene Palette as Clifford Nordhoff and Guy Newhard as "Carrotts."

Scene from "His Robe of Honor" (Paralta).

The scenario was made by Julian Louis Lamothe. Robert Bruton, manager of productions; Carl Widen, camera man, and R. Paul Holmes, art director.

"My Own United States"

Frohman Amusement Corporation Presents Arnold Daly in Great Screen Version of Philip Nolan's Pathetic Story.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

A PRODUCTION of tremendous patriotic appeal is Anthony Paul Kelly's "My Own United States," with Arnold Daly in the leading role. It presents the memorable story of Philip Nolan, the man who cursed his own country and was sentenced to a life on ship board where he might never hear its name again. The production is alive with patriotic fervor of the genuine type, and will thrill an audience to the core. It is about eight reels in length, and might stand a little cutting here and there, but in the main tells a story so straightforward and compelling that the observer would not wish it greatly altered.

The author has drawn upon historical incidents for his story, and thanks are extended to the New York Historical Society in this regard. No mention is made of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's "Man Without a Country," but the development of the piece leaves no doubt but that it was one of the sources of inspiration, and it might well have been acknowledged as such. But the screen production goes further than Dr. Hale's story; it has a modern end, bringing the Nolan family down through three generations to the present day. Arnold Daly assumes three roles, the original Lieutenant Philip Nolan, a contemporary of Hamilton, Jefferson, and Burr, then Lieutenant Philip Nolan of Civil War days, and finally Philip Nolan, 3rd.

The production is remarkable for its presentation of characters famous in American history. First of these in importance is, of course, the original Lieutenant Nolan, a well-intentioned young man with high ideals, but lacking in insight and strength of character. Mr. Daly gives a strong portrayal of this individual. He brings out the doubtful patriotism of the man, his wavering, pliable nature; then his growing fondness and admiration for the brilliant Aaron Burr, whose treason he utterly failed to comprehend; still later, when Nolan is himself on trial, Mr. Daly reflects with conviction the sense of growing irritation and rage which led up to the infamous outburst: "Damn the United States! I wish I might never hear of the United States again"!

Of the other characters Hamilton and Burr stand out notably. Duncan McRae makes Hamilton as he was, a distinguished figure of self-evident loyalty and worth. Charles E. Graham reflects admirably the personally magnetic but scheming and traitorous Aaron Burr. The events surrounding and during the famous duel between these two quite overshadow the main story for a time, but they are wonderfully presented and after all have much to do with the unfolding of Nolan's own character. James Levering gave a life-like presentation of the famous justice, Colonel George Morgan, who sentenced Nolan to exile; E. C. Earle appeared as Andrew Jackson, Gerald Day as Lincoln, and there were numerous other good portrayals of famous men. Of the feminine parts, Anna Lehr as Agnes Churchill, Nolan's sweetheart and wife, was very pleasing, and Helen Mulholland as Theodosia Burr, Marie Du Chette as Natalie Somers, and Mrs. Mary Kennison Carr as Mrs. Hamilton, all had interesting moments.

Battle scenes are presented, showing a stirring conflict between the old war vessel, "Constitution," on which Nolan was a prisoner, and the pirates of Algiers. Later some graphic battles of the Civil War are shown; these were somewhat too extended, and seemed in part unnecessary to the story. All of the modern scenes at the opening and close of the production are thrilling and vital to the narrative.

John W. Noble directed the production, with W. Bruce Bradley as art director, and Herbert O. Carlton as photographer.

"In Bad"

A Romantic Story Finely Produced by the American, in Which Wm. Russell Takes the Leading Role With His Wonted Dash and Brilliancy.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

THE story of "In Bad" by Raymond L. Shrock gives excellent opportunities to William Russell for the display of his talents in a red-blooded, adventurous role. The glamor of romanticism holds the spectator from start to finish and is particularly strong in the last three parts of the production. This does not mean that the other members of the cast are deprived of the chance to show their powers in the art of characterization, as there are quite a number of other roles which require special talent to sustain them.

Monty Miles (Wm. Russell) causes his wealthy aunt, Theodosia (Lucille Ward), considerable worry by his recklessness. She offers him $50,000 to marry and settle down; but he refuses, as no girl then in sight appeals to him. Soon afterwards he meets Victoria Harrison (Francelia Billington), the only daughter of an elderly archaeologist, who has planned an expedition to Yucatan for the recovery of Aztec treasure. Monty is smitten by Victoria's charms, but he falls into her disfavor from the ouset, owing to a series of misfortunes not of his own making. The treasure expedition leaves for Yucatan without Monty, but he follows the party, only to be cast out as a member of it when he arrives at the ruins of Uxmal, where the treasure is hidden.

How Monty outwits Slick Edwards (Carl Stockdale), the overseer of the men engaged in digging for the treasure, by discovering the treasure himself; how he overcomes Edwards and his band in a tremendous fight in a dark, Aztec tomb, and how he rescues Victoria, her father, and his aunt, from their rock prison, in which they had been placed by the false and designing Edwards, are very sensationally told in the pictures. Best of all, Monty wins the heart and the hand of Victoria, and also the $50,000 which his aunt had previously offered him as a bait to marriage.

Mr. Russell's escapades with his boxing instructor, Lefty Ned (Bull Montana) will not fail to excite mirth and thrills in the mind of the spectator. The battle in the Aztec tomb, where Monty fights in the dark Edwards and his band of rascals, is another big thrill. And here it should be stated that the light effects employed to show this fight reflect credit on Director Sloman, also the realistic effects of the interiors of the tombs in the ruins of Uxmal.

Francelia Billington makes of Victoria Harrison a winsome, but strong-minded, young lady, who is seen at her best when she surrenders her heart to the keeping of Monty. Harvey Clark's Richard Harrison, Carl Stockdale's Slick Edwards, Lucille Ward's Theodosia, Fred Smith's Speed Armstrong, and Bull Montana's Lefty Ned are all worthy impersonations.

The release date is Jan. 28, through the Mutual Film Corporation.

"Gates of Gladness"

Madge Evans and George MacQuarrie in Five-Part World Picture by John H. Clymer and Harry O. Hoyt—Excellent Role for Juvenile Star.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

VIRGINIA TYLER HUDSON made the scenario for "Gates of Gladness," a five-part World picture; story by John H. Clymer and Harry O. Hoyt, directed by Harley Knoles. Madge Evans and George MacQuarrie are the featured players. The photoplay offers an excellent role for the juvenile star and supplies her male companion with the sort of character that is easily within his range. Most of the situations are unforced and of interest, but the finish is brought about by the familiar device of having the hero attempt to rob the home of his relatives, a reconciliation being effected through the presence of the little heroine. The production is a credit to Director Knoles, and has been artistically photographed by Rene Guissart.

The love of two brothers, Myron and Roger Leeds, for the same woman, is the cause of the trouble in "Gates of Gladness." Myron, the younger brother, marries Helen Palmer, and is disowned by his wealthy father. He tries to support his family by painting pictures, but is not very successful. Myron keeps up the struggle, however, until his little daughter, Beth, is about nine years of age and his wife gives birth to a son but fails to make a rapid recovery. In the meantime, his father has died and his brother become heir to the Leeds estate. Roger also has married, and a young son has been drowned in the pond on his grounds.

Norah, an old servant of the Leeds family, comes to see Myron and, realizing his poverty, offers to take Beth on a visit to the artist's former home, and to pass the child off as her niece. Beths aunt and uncle are attracted by her and she remains at the beautiful country estate until her father, becoming desperate by his wife's failure to regain her health after the birth of her last child, resolves to go to the old home and take by stealth some of the articles that should have been left to him. He breaks into the house and is overheard by both Beth and Roger. The little girl comes upon her father just as her uncle fires a shot at the supposed burglar. She is slightly wounded and is the means of the two brothers coming to the right understanding.

Madge Evans plays Beth with her accustomed naturalness and wistful charm and is prettier than ever. Aside from George MacQuarrie's good work, commendation should go to Niles Walah as Myron, Rosina Henley as Myron's wife, Gerda Holmes as Roger's wife, and Mrs. Steuart Robson as Norah.

"The Impostor"

Five-Part Adaptation of the Frohman Stage Success By Leonard Merrick Featuring Ann Murdock.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE IMPOSTOR," a former Frohman stage success, written by Leonard Merrick, while not altogether unlikeable in its five-part screen presentation on the Mutual program, is somewhat lacking in the artistry of making the most of the fine situations in which the play abounds. The star, Ann Murdock, who has been known to do excellent work in pictures, gives one the impression of walking through her part with a painful lack of interesting business. And yet we like the picture, partly because of its amusing situations and partly because in the way of handsome settings it is considerable of a feast for the eye.

As the story runs, a young girl who is considered the prima donna in her native village, in opposition to her mother's wishes, goes to the city to study at the invitation of a stranger, who, it is afterward discovered, has kept a fake school which was closed by the police. While the girl wanders about the city in a half-starved condition she is offered help by a strange man, who invites her to his hotel apartment while he gets some money and, incidentally, a cup of tea. A friend of the man's wife, passing the open door, recognizes him and enters, when the girl, to save the situation, is introduced as his wife's sister. While he leaves on the midnight train for Boston the girl is forced to partake of the hospitality of other friends of the man's who happen to be at the same hotel and are particularly desirous of spreading themselves for certain reasons of business, especially as the girl in her assumed identity is supposed to be heir to millions. The clearing up of the situation when the wife of the man in the case appears on the scene is well done, the story ending with the betrothal of the girl and the son of the house, where for two days she had been treated like a queen.

A Couple of O. Henry's

"The Count and the Wedding Guest" and "The Fourth in Salvador," Each in Two Reels, Released by General Film Company.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell.

"The Count and the Wedding Guest."

THIS two-reel picture released by the General Film Company is a typical O. Henry offering based on his story of the same title. It is light and interesting, comparing favorably with previous productions from the pen of this prolific author, and provides Jean Paige, in the role of Mary Conway, with an attractive role which she handles to advantage. Webster Campbell as Andy Donavan lends able assistance.

Mary, failing to attract men, gets an inspiration from a romantic novel, and after a two weeks' absence returns to the boarding house attired in fashionabe mourning. She excites the sympathy of the household with the story of her dead fiance, the Count Mazzini. Andy, the star boarder, is most impressed, and, as a result, a month later a wedding is scheduled to take place. Just before the ceremony, Mary weakens, and confesses to the deception. Andy forgives her, and introduces one of the guests, a politician, who proves to be the original of the photograph she has exhibited as that of the count.

"The Fourth in Salvador."

This two-reel offering, also based on an O. Henry story, is a clever satire of the numerous revolutions of our Central American neighbors, but it lacks the sympathy and deep human interest associated with the majority of this writer's works, being written in a different vein.

Billy Casparis (Chet Ryan) obtains a concession from the Government of Salvador to make ice for six months, posting a forfeit of one thousand dollars. Billy tries to palm off blocks of glass ice on the inspectors, as the project has not been a commercial success. Led on by other Americans a celebration is arranged for the Fourth of July, which begins by the party of five endeavoring to drink all strong beverages bearing American labels. A real revolution is scheduled, and at the crucial moment, Billy and his friends, thinking the Government troops are trying to stop their celebration, rush to the assistance of the other side, with the result that the revolution is a success. The next day, Billy is surprised when the new president calls, insists that the glass is really ice, and returns the forfeit. In addition to Chet Ryan, the cast includes W. L. Rodgers, Jack Wetherby, Charles Wheelock, and Fred Behrle.

"Rimrock Jones"

Five-Reel Paramount Offering Features Wallace Reid and Ann Little, in Entertaining Story of Mining Country.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

WALLACE REID is excellently cast in this mining story, in which the technicalities of what is known as the "Apex law" are involved. He appears as Rimrock Jones, a reckless, profligate young mining man, who struck it rich, founded a town known as Gunsight, and was then tricked out of his holdings by a crooked lawyer named McBain. The part does much to carry the interest of the story, although the plot itself is entertaining and he has good support, notably that of Ann Little, who plays the deaf stenographer, and Toto Ducrow, as the Mexican, Juan Soto. The latter does a striking bit of character portrayal, something very valuable to pictures and yet so rarely employed.

The story opens in the town of Gunsight, just after Rimrock has been tricked of his property by the operation of the Apex law. He is penniless, but still game, and has located another claim, which he calls the Tecolote, and which he believes will be richer than the first. A deaf girl stenographer, Mary Fortune, advances him some money, and later Rimrock interests Eastern capital in his new venture. The mine becomes a big producer, and in a few months he is rich again. He rewards his friend Juan Soto, who has helped him, but forgets Mary Fortune in characteristic fashion until she reminds him of his debt. Rimrock then gives her two shares of stock, which later represents a controlling interest. Mary uses her vote on the board of directors at a critical moment to save Rimrock from his own financial folly.

A number of the scenes occur in New York, where Mary goes to consult an ear specialist and is followed by Rimrock, now in love with her. Mary returns to Gunsight, to find McBain and his friends endeavoring to get control of the Tecolote, as they did the first mine. Rimrock remains in New York and is caught in the toils of Wall street and a designing woman, named Mrs. Hardesty.

The return of Rimrock to Gunsight on New Year's eve and his trip on horseback to the claim, where he finds Mary valiantly striving to protect the apex, makes a dramatic climax.

The piece was written by Dan Coolidge, adapted by Harvey F. Thew and Frank X. Finnegan, and directed by Donald Crisp. It is strong in atmosphere and story interest and contains some good character work. Others in the cast are Charles Ogle, Guy Oliver, Edna Mae Cooper and George Kuwa.

"Broadway Love"

Dorothy Phillips in Five-Part Bluebird Production Directed By Ida May Park Acts Chorus Girl Heroine of Story by W. Carey Wonderly.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

APPEARING originally in Snappy Stories, "Broadway Love," a five-part Bluebird production directed by Ida May Park and starring Dorothy Phillips as a chorus girl heroine, is not alarmingly feverish. The conduct of some of the characters is a trifle free and easy during one of the scenes and the hero attempts to become too familiar with the heroine until he discovers his mistake, but two happy marriages more than offset these touches of snappiness, and the tale proves that there are chorus girls on Broadway who live on their salaries. W. Carey Wonderly, the author of the story, knows his Tenderloin and the life that passes inside and outside of its many stage doors.

Midge O'Hara, the part played by Dorothy Phillips, is one of the Broadway chorus girls who lives on her salary. A small-town recruit and rather new to the business, she refuses an invitation to a midnight party when the queen of the chorus, Cherry Blow, entertains a wealthy Westerner named Henry Rockwell, who is anxious to hit some of the high-priced experiences New York keeps on tap. Midge has a country suitor who turns up the same night and begs her to marry him. His name is Elmer Watkins, and he is pretty small potatoes. Midge turns him down, and Cherry performs the same operation on Jack Chalvey, an old acquaintance, who went through a similar turning down when his money gave out.

Chalvey enlists Midge on his side, and she walks through the pouring rain to Cherry's apartments and tries to influence her to treat Jack with more kindness. Cherry makes Midge change her wet clothes for a stunning gown and join the party. Jack and Watkins also succeed in forcing themselves in and being invited to stay. Midge is introduced to Rockwell, and the wine starts to flow. Midge begins to think she is in the wrong flat and pretends to be ill. Rockwell offers to take her home in a cab, tries to be too friendly; the girl leaps from the taxi and is injured. She is taken to a hospital and, after her recovery, goes to Atlantic City. Here Rockwell meets her again and rewards her virtuous conduct by falling honestly in love with her. Cherry is won by Chalvey.

Dorothy Phillips makes Midge a reality, and that is both a personal and artistic triumph. Well-played roles are provided by Juanita Hansen as Cherry Blow, Gladys Tennyson as Mrs. Watkins, William Stowell as Henry Rockwell, Lon Chaney as Elmer Watkins, and Harry von Meter as Jack Chalvey.

"Why Henry Left Home"

Metro-Drew Comedy Suggested by Bertie Badger Moyers Pleases Rivoli Audience, Gaining Many Laughs.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

IT HAS been noticed by the writer that many of the most successful Metro-Drew comedies have been based on suggestions from Bertie Badger Moyers, a resident of Tampa, Fla. The picture under review, "Why Henry Left Home," is not by any means one of the least of these, but is one of the best of the Drew comedies yet presented. It deals with a domestic situation which once in a while does arise to make miserable the lives of married men. This particular situation is brought about by the over-tidy wife whose sole fad is the extermination of dust, and who follows her miserable spouse about with a duster in one hand and an ash tray in the other.

One day Henry Minor is invited by a friend into his home to inspect a puppy who is allowed to nestle its happy life away among satin cushions in the not over-tidy home of the Wards; and at this point in the story comes the turn of the tide. Henry's fondness for visiting the Wards is noticed by Polly, who drags from Henry the acknowledgment that Mrs. Ward is "very charming"—an acknowledgment which gives Polly an hour of awful forboding at the end of which she decides to peep through the window of the Ward home to discover what its real attraction is. Stealing to the window by the light of a gloomy moon she sees not pretty Mrs. Ward among the satin cushions, nor the "disgraceful puppy," nor even the game of poker that is in progress between Henry and his friend. All she saw was her nice, tidy Henry flicking cigarette ashes on the floor. She also saw on Henry's face a smile that was almost beatific, and determined to keep it there. Needless to say, on Henry's return home that night the whiskbroom and shoe brush which were wont to hang outside the door for his especial use was gone, and more wonderful still, his home had taken on an atmosphere of delightful untidiness and Polly was playing poker.

"The Menace"

Well-Made Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature in Five Parts Has Corrine Griffith and Evart Overton at Head of Cast.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

REX TAYLOR, author of the Vitagraph five-part Blue Ribbon feature, "The Menace," has furnished his story with the necessary suspense to hold the interest firmly to the finish, and woven his plot around an interesting set of characters. Many of the motives are not above melodrama and the young chap who poses as the hero allows himself to be made the tool of an enterprising housebreaker rather too easily, but the spectator is kept guessing all through how the happy ending is to be achieved, and that is a virtue which covers half a dozen artistic sins. Creditable direction by John Robertson and competent acting by the entire cast add to the attractiveness of "The Menace." To those who do not question too closely the springs of action in their photoplays, the picture will furnish excellent entertainment.

Richard Burnell, the central figure of the story, was taken from an orphan asylum by Dr. Burnell, after his own baby was drowned. The Burnells, a family of wealth and position, reared Richard in ignorance of his real birth, and the young fellow never suspected anything different until he was stopped one day by a rough looking man who informed him that he is his real father and a housebreaker of distinction. Richard is engaged to Virginia Denton, the daughter of another family of wealth and position, and through fear of losing her, readily consents to help his enterprising parent rob a number of houses belonging to his friends, the young fellow acting as inside man and opening the door for the master workman.

Finally, Richard's parent becomes too enterprising and forces him to help him rob the Denton house. Richard, who is now under suspicion and has been detected by and dismissed by Virginia, arranges with the Dentons, the Burnells and the police to trap his greedy father. This sensible act brings its reward. The housebreaker is forced to admit that he is not Richard's father at all and to explain how the Burnells were tricked into adopting their own son.

Corinne as Virginia Denton, Evert Overton as Richard Burnell, Ned Finley as the housebreaker, Herbert Prior as Dr. Burnell, Lelia Blow as Mrs. Burnell, and Frank A. Ford as Robert Hargraves, are the prominent members of the cast.

"The Spirit of '17

Jack Pickford Plays Leading Role in Paramount Offering, Which Sounds Strong Patriotic Note.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElray.

THIS five-reel number with Jack Pickford in the leading role, tells an entertaining story of the United States in war time. It radiates the splendid patriotism of the moment and it gives the observer more than one thrill of satisfaction that this is not all romance, but an accurate picture of what awakened people, young and old, are doing in this hour of trial. Such a picture, reflecting the real life of today in the guise of fiction, cannot fail to make the right kind of an impression upon good Americans. It is all story, but it "does its bit" at the same time.

Davy Glidden, portrayed by Jack Pickford, is the son of an adjutant-general. His father has charge of a soldiers' home in a small Western town. Davy has two loves, one for Captain Jerico Norton, an aged veteran of the home, and the other for a girl named Flora Edwards, whose father is superintendent of a mine. Flora loves a young fellow named Randall, and Davy is in despair over the situation.

The youth, of course, finds his opportunity to make good with Flora in the course of the narrative. The chief action is brought about by the work of two German spies at the mine. These men work upon the sympathies of the laboring men, just as has been done repeatedly since the United States entered the war. They endeavor to call a strike and plan to blow up the mine. Davy is instrumental in causing the arrest of the spies. He confides his secret regarding the activities of the spies to his friend Capt. Jerico Norton, and they arm the veterans at the home and surround the Germans. Later Davy saves Flora and her father from death and the mine itself from being blown up. Flora's affections turn from Randall, who was inclined to be a slacker, to the young hero.

The settings and action have a strong patriotic tinge all through. The soldiers' home pictured is a real institution and the veterans do their parts with interesting enthusiasm. There is also a contingent of boy scouts in the opening part of the number.

The story was written by Judge Willis Brown, adapted by Julia Crawford Ivers and directed by William S. Taylor. Other members of the cast are G. H. Geldert, L. N. Wells, Katherine McDonald, James Farley and Ashton Dearholt.

Mastercraft to Use Paralta Studios.

Word has been received by F. Eugene Farnsworth, president of the Mastercraft Photo-Play Corp., of another important production arrangement under the terms of which the Mastercraft Photo-Play Corp. will produce their pictures in the big new Paralta studios at Los Angeles, California. Under this arrangement the Mastercraft Photo-Play Corp. will be able to enjoy the splendid efficiency and big producing facilities which has made the Paralta studios the most talked of producing plant on the Western coast.

"The Eagle's Eye"

The Whartons Serial Founded on Facts Furnished by William J. Flynn Makes Excellent Impression at Showing of First Three Episodes.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

WILLIAM J. FLYNN, the recently retired Chief of the United States Secret Service, is "The Eagle's Eye" referred to by the title of the serial produced by the Whartons in which the efforts of Von Bernstorff, Von Papen, Boy-Ed, Dr. Albert and other German spies to spread terror and ruin through this country are disclosed. Courtney Ryley Cooper wrote the scenario from information furnished by the ex-chief of the Secret Service, and wove in the fictitious characters and incidents required to give the story form and the proper dramatic interest for the screen. The result is a photoplay serial that will serve as a strong reminder of the danger the United States has run from the Kaiser's representatives at Washington. Without this important element it would still be excellent entertainment.

At a trade showing given at the Strand theater, New York, January 18, the first three episodes were exhibited. The names of these episodes are "The Hidden Death," "The Naval Ball Conspiracy," and "The Plot Against the Fleet." The episodes are in two parts. The first installment deals with the sinking of the Lusitania, the second with an attempt to destroy a large number of naval officers at a Fleet Review ball, and the third shows the efforts of the German spies to torpedo the Atlantic fleet in the Narrows of New York Harbor. The Whartons have produced these episodes in a realistic manner, and have employed a thoroughly competent cast to impersonate the real and the fictitious characters of the serial.

In order to work in the romantic interest and to connect Chief Flynn with the plot a body of patriotic Americans has been invented known as the Criminology Club. This organization becomes convinced that the German Government has set hundreds of spies at work in the United States, and offers to aid the Secret Service in running them down. Flynn accepts, and Harrison Grant, the president of the club, is active in unearthing the plans of the enemy. Dixie Mason, a young woman employed by the Secret Service, is the heroine of the story. Count Johann von Bernstorff, Captain Franz von Papen, Captain Karl Boy-Ed, and Dr. Albert Heinrich Albert are all introduced, and are played by Bertram Marburgh, Paul Everton, John P. Wade, and Frederick Jones in the order named.

King Baggot is the Harrison Grant, and Marguerite Snow is Dixie Mason. Other characters are Heinrich von Lertz acted by William Bailey, and Madame Augusta Stephan played by Florence Short.

"Zongar"

George Larkin Is Featured in a Good State Right Subject Produced by Physical Culture Photoplays, Inc.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

GEORGE LARKIN is featured in "Zongar," a melodrama written and staged by Bernarr Macfadden, and to be sold on the state rights basis by Physical Culture Photoplays, Inc. The subject was shown to the trade at the Rialto on the morning of January 18. The orchestra of the house was well filled, and the close attention that followed the showing of the picture should augur well for its popularity. Surely it held the writer; you may, if you wish, discount the fact that he had not seen a picture in a week.

Mr. Macfadden describes his picture as a five-reel athletic romance, which seems a good way to put it. Certainly it is athletic; the presence of George Larkin is more than sufficient guarantee of that. There is suspense, too, and corresponding interest. Mr. Larkin has good support in Jack Hopkins, who has the heavy male role, and Dolores Cassinelli, who is the associate female malefactor of great ingenuity. Grace Davison, who plays opposite Mr. Larkin, shows in her opening scenes she is not an actress, but her work later proves that she may be. She has charm, and also is physically attractive.

In the course of the action there are many encounters, man to man battles, sometimes even in the proportion of eight to one, and an aeroplane pursuit of an abducting automobile. There are scenes from the underworld and of life among the well-to-do. There is a murder, and a wild drop of an automobile over a cliff. There are interesting swimming scenes in a big pool and in the ocean.

"Zongar" should qualify as a good state rights picture.

"Out West"

Paramount-Arbuckle Two-Part Comedy Entertaining Sample of Slapstick Farce.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

IN a search for new business the director of farce comedy finds a constant drain on his gray matter. Once in a while he manages to think up something entirely new which hits the spectator in the face, forcing him to admit that there really is something new under the sun even in the farce comedy line. This is to a certain extent the case in "Out West," a two-part comedy appearing on the Paramount program for January 20, and in which Roscoe Arbuckle plays the leading role, as well as directing the picture.

"Out West" finds "Fatty," after trying to steal a ride on a train, almost dying of thirst on the desert. When he has at last happened across a desert pool, which, by-the-way, he drains to the last drop in a few laps, he is suddenly attacked from the rear by a shower of Indian arrows. In the chase across the desert he finally comes to a small town, and rushes into a saloon just in time to break the back of a hold-up which is being perpetrated by a notorious bandit. Filling a vacancy made by the sudden demise of the bartender he proceeds to help shoot the place up. Some of the funniest scenes in the picture happen out on the sand dunes near by where a comical shooting bee takes place, and a house pushed over a cliff affords some original pieces of business. A Salvation Army lass figures largely in the last reel of the comedy, which, though not refined, is funny.

Pathe's "The Junk Man" Second Toto Comedy.

Toto, who has got off to a flying start on the Pathe program, is announced in "The Junk Man," which will be released the week of February 10. This comedy, which is in two parts like all the Toto comedies, shows the little comedian in a unique role, and one which is certain to increase the popularity which he has already acquired through "The Movie Dummy," the picture in which he made his debut as a screen comedian. He officiates as a private on a junk wagon driven by our old friend "Bud" Jamieson, the fierce looking black moustached heavyweight who did such good work in the "Luke" comedies. Kathlyn O'Connor plays the pretty girl who is not satisfied with conditions in her palatial home, and is willing to divert herself in the company of the funny little rags, bottles, and old iron collector.

Toto's methods are utterly unlike those of any other screen comedian. He does not imitate. Famed as a pantomimist through his successful career on the stage he brings to the screen many new ideas of "business." In the first place he looks different. In addition to this he is a contortionist, with a remarkable control over his body. Those who have seen "The Movie Dummy" will remember the truly remarkable way in which he is thrown around when the studio employees think they are handling a figure made of sawdust and rags. In comedy these powers are valuable, and Toto makes splendid use of them.

High Praise for "Stella Maris."

Mary Pickford's next Artcraft release, "Stella Maris," is expected to prove a sensation. In this play, adapted from William J. Locke's well known book by Frances Marion and staged by Marshall Neilan, "Little Mary" appears for the first time in her career in a dual role.

After viewing this photoplay recently, Adolph Zukor, president of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, said: "The production of 'Stella Maris' is the most remarkable thing which Mary Pickford has ever done for the screen."

Recently at the Lasky projection room in Hollywood a private showing of "Stella Maris" was given to David Wark Griffith. After the picture had been run he sought out the star and congratulated her warmly. "It will be a riot!!" was his laconic comment, characteristically brief and to the point.

"Stella Maris" was released January 21. At the Strand theater, New York City, and other similar theaters special preparations were made for the presentation of this photoplay in view of the enthusiastic advance reports concerning its unusual features.

Kalem Company to Pay All Employees.

With the promulgation of Fuel Administrator Garfield's drastic order, the Kalem Company promptly decided to make the best of it and fully protect their large office and factory forces.

"Our offices will be open every day," said William Wright, of the Kalem Company, "as they are the New York headquarters of the Government's Committee on Public Information and the American film commissioner's large staff, but our factory will have to close in accordance with the edict even though we have been working at full capacity on our many orders for printing and developing. Fortunately our facilities enabled us to put on extra speed at the first warning, and we have delivered all prints about to be released. The Kalem employees will have no cause to regret the Government's action, as they all will be paid in full for the holidays forced upon them."

Paramount Theater, Miami, Honors Petrova.

It was learned this week that an honor had been extended to Olga Petrova shortly following her arrival at Miami, Florida, where her forces are at present quartered for the purpose of shooting several exteriors necessary to the completion of "The Life Mask." Shortly after her arrival in the southern city Madam Petrova was approached by Mr. Leach, manager of the local theater bearing the name of Paramount. Mr. Leach proposed to present for an entire week's run, "Daughter of Destiny" the first production in which Madam Petrova has appeared under the auspices of her own production organization. The proposal included her personal appearance and a banquet to be held at the Royal Palm Hotel, given in honor of the picture player and to be attended by prominent people from the civic and social life of Miami, including the mayor and his staff.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

THE COUNT AND THE WEDDING GUEST (Broadway Star Feature).—An interesting O. Henry story of an unattractive girl who dons widow's weeds because of the death of her fiance. She finally wins the man of her choice, and confesses that the fiance was a myth. The hero then shows her that he knew of her deception all the time. Jean Paige and Webster Campbell are featured. Reviewed elsewhere in this issue.

THE FOURTH IN SALVADOR (Broadway Star Feature).—O. Henry's story of the same title furnishes the basis for this two-reel offering, which is a satire on Central American revolutions, and shows how a handful of Americans, while celebrating the Fourth of July, unwittingly cause the success of a revolution. Hardly as good as some of the previous stories of this successful writer. Chet Ryan is the featured player. A full review may be found in another part of this issue.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

BROADWAY LOVE (Jan. 21).—Dorothy Phillips is the featured player in this photoplay, which treats of the stage and the life of the chorus girl. The star gives her usual capable performance, and is well supported. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Fox Film Corporation.

CUPID'S ROUND-UP (Fox), January 13.—A five-reel Western melodrama, with Tom Mix in the leading role. It lacks a strong, human plot; but has so much of the cowboy dash and go that it is a good picture to feature as a change from the city triangle story to a film of Western rough life. A longer notice will be found on another page of this issue.

CHEATING THE PUBLIC (Fox Standard), January 20.—A big emotional picture that can be depended on to make something of a sensation. It has been ably handled by the director, and in one group of scenes showing the trial of the heroine the emotional tension becomes astonishing. The political message can be used to advertise the picture, but it stands on its emotional, human appeal. A longer review will be found on another page of this issue.

HUNGRY LIONS IN A HOSPITAL (Fox Lehrman Comedy).—These two reels of fun is sure to bring laughs. Some of it is extremely amusing, and all of it is likely to win favor. The quality is much the same as in the other recent Fox Lehrman releases, and perhaps its one drawback with the public will be that it reminds of the others and lacks a really rich comedy story.

Frohman Amusement Corporation.

MY OWN UNITED STATES (Frohman Amusement Corporation).—A thrilling and impressive patriotic number in eight reels retelling the famous story of Philip Nolan, known as "The Man Without a Country." Many historical characters, such as Hamilton, Burr, Jefferson, Lincoln, Grant, and President Wilson appear in the production, which covers three generations. A big subject, admirably presented. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

FIELDS OF HONOR, January 14.—A powerful and sympathetic modern story on two fields of honor, here and "over there," with Mae Marsh better than ever in a highly sympathetic role.

Greater Vitagraph, Inc.

THE MENACE, January 21.—This five-part picture is interesting melodrama, and is well acted by a cast headed by Corrine Griffith and Evart Overton. It is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

HIS ROBE OF HONOR (Paralta Plays), December 15.—A seven-part feature starring Henry B. Walthall. This picture has a novel and interesting story, and shows the shady side of politics. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Jester Comedy Company.

THE RECRUIT, February 15.—The first of the series of two-reel comedies featuring Twede Dan, the Spanish-French comedian, to be released by the Jester Comedy Company at the rate of one a month. "The Recruit" marks the first appearance on the American screen of this mirth maker, and shows in a facetious vein to what lengths a man who has been rejected by the recruiting officer on account of his diminutive size will go in order to become a soldier. Through his persistent efforts he is finally admitted into the army, where he performs all sorts of novel and ludicrous tricks. When an aeroplane becomes entangled in the clouds Twede Dan is shot out of a big howitzer heavenward and rescues the machine. This is only one of the many funny stunts that Twede Dan perpetrates. In the end he is rewarded with a medal for his intrepidity. The action takes place in an imaginary principality. Some of the scenes are very funny.

HIS GOLDEN ROMANCE, March 15.—The second of the series of two-reel comedies featuring Twede Dan. He mimics the antics of a famous comedian, but adds to them in many instances with stunts of his own invention. Twede's pranks revolve around his endeavor to gain the hand and heart, of course, of his lady love. After many humorous trials and tribulations he succeeds. The comedy is wholesome and clean, and compares favorably with pictures of this type.

Metro Pictures Corporation.

DAYBREAK, January 7. Emily Stevens is featured in the five-reel production based on the play of the same title by Jane Cowl and Jane Murfin. The interest is well sustained, and the star has been provided with a congenial role. She is assisted by a capable supporting company. A longer review was published on page 529 of issue of January 26.

THE WINDING TRAIL, January 14.—This five-reel production featuring Viola Dana is a story of revenge dealing with Western deserts and dance halls of mining towns in the early '70's. There are a number of strong dramatic scenes which make up for the lack of romance. A review is published on another page of this issue.

WHY HENRY LEFT HOME (Drew), January 14.—An excellent number suggested by Bertie Badger Moyer. In this picture Polly is seen as an over-tidy wife who, after discovering Henry's happiness at being able to flick cigarette ashes on the floor in the home of a friend, suddenly decides to make a heroic effort to be untidy. A full review will be found elsewhere.

Mutual Film Corporation.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 2 (Gaumont), January 7.—An unusually attractive number in which are the following interesting items: A corner of the building in Sacramento, Cal., which was partially wrecked in an attempt to kill Governor Stephens; an interesting allusion to the patriotism of meat saving; Madam Schumann-Heink presenting the flag to a regiment of U. S. Infantry, and some unusually interesting scenes showing French engineers restoring reconquered territory after the battle of the Aisne.

THE IMPOSTOR (Frohman), January 14.—A five-part production based on a former Frohman stage success by Leonard Merrick. The production was directed by Dell Henderson, and is remarkable for fine sets. Ann Murdock plays the stellar role, but is given too little to do to make her work thoroughly effective. The play is based on a fine situation which has not been made the most of in the screen adaptation. A full review will be found elsewhere.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 4 (Gaumont), January 21.—Some of the interesting items of this number are the shipping of a million prune trees from California to France; women taxi drivers taking the place of men called to war; the king and queen of Spain attending the horse races in Madrid; extraordinary scenes photographed during the recent blizzard, and scenes in Italy in connection with war activities.

THEIR LITTLE KID (Strand), January 22.—A clean comedy built on an old situation. Billie Rhodes plays the leading feminine role in a story which treats of how a young couple, misinterpreting a telegram from the young husband's uncle, believe that they have to borrow a baby in order to make the rich uncle believe it is theirs. The usual complications occur which usually occur in stories of this kind. Quite entertaining.

IN BAD (American), January 28. This is an appealing romantic story very well produced and acted. William Russell is seen in one of his best efforts, and the supporting cast is praiseworthy. For detailed review see another page, this issue.

Paramount Pictures Corporation.

THE KITCHEN LADY, January 13.—A Mack Sennett comedy that will make a gale of laughter. A longer notice was printed on page 526, issue of January 26, 1918.

JULES OF THE STRONG HEART, January 14.—An interesting picture set in the lumber camp region of the Northwest. George Beban has the lead in a character of exceptional natural nobility. He acts it well, and it is the big thing in the offering, though there are also many delightful views of the forest lights and shadows and the giant trees. A longer review was printed on page 526, issue of January 26, 1918.

THE SPIRIT OF '17, January 14.—A patriotic number written by Judge Willis Brown, which features Jack Pickford as the young hero. The youth is instrumental in the course of the story in rounding up some German spies with the help of a company of veterans from the Soldiers' Home. This is an interesting and inspiring number, reflecting much that is a true picture of America in war time. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

RIMROCK JONES, January 21.—A five-reel number written by Dane Coolidge and directed by Donald Crisp. Wallace Reid is featured in a part which fits him very well. He plays the role of a reckless but good hearted young mining man who is tricked out of a mine by legal technicalities. He strikes it rich again, and is aided in protecting his fortune by a girl stenographer, portrayed by Ann Little. The subject is strong in atmosphere and story interest. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ARGUS PICTORIAL NO. 6 (Pathe), January 27.—This number opens with a study of the way glass models of flowers and animalcule are made for the Natural History Museum. The scientific study of cohesion and adhesion which follows is novel and interesting; also the closing study of the stentor, a trumpet shaped inhabitant of a drop of water. The number is an instructive one.

COUNTERFEIT CLUES (Pathe), January 27.—No. 2 of "The Price of Folly" series. In this number Ruth Roland appears as a flirtatious girl, engaged to a naval officer, who falls in love with a young foreigner named Ryder. The latter turns out to be a counterfeiter, and involves the girl. Some melodramatic scenes occur in the second reel in which the girl's lover is killed and Ryder's wife appears. This contains some very good action, though the development is rather vague at the beginning.

INNOCENT (Pathe Play), January 27.—A strong and artistic photoplay version of George Broadhurst's play, with Fannie Ward and John Miltern in the leading roles. The story is a pathetic and appealing drama with a happy ending, particularly strong in settings and general presentation. It was directed by George Fitzmaurice. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

RANIER PARK (Pathe), January 27.—Another of the fine scenic Combitone pictures featuring "Our Natural Parks." This gives some sweeping, panoramic views of the Cascade mountains in Washington, where the great natural park is located. Mountain climbing parties are shown visiting various points of interest, including Ranier peak, a glacier of great size, numerous water falls, and Paradise Inn.

Triangle Film Corporation.

THE GUN WOMAN, January 27.—Texas Guinan has the title role in this five-part Western melodrama, which is full of dance hall life and contains a sentimental interest. The picture is well made. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

HER AMERICAN HUSBAND, January 27.—E. Magnus Ingleton is the author of this five-part Japanese-American story, which has been given a picturesque production, and is excellently played by the entire cast. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

CURRENT EVENTS NO. 36 (Universal), January 12.—Winter racing at New Orleans; hotel fire in California; training mules at Camp Logan, Texas; war scenes on the Arabian Desert, and numerous other entertaining features are included in this number.

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 7 (Universal), January 16.—This diversified topical number includes ice-boating in New Jersey; the Rose festival at Pasadena; American shipbuilding activities; lightless nights on Broadway, and many other features. It closes with cartoons by Hy Mayer.

VIRGINIA'S TRIUMPH (Universal Special), January 28.—The final episode of "The Red Ace," No. 16. This brings the serial to a successful close, showing the final battles of Virginia, Winthrop and their friends with the spies, the roundup and capture of the latter, and the delivery of the platinum at Washington. The patriotic finale is nicely staged. This serial, as a whole, has been unusually strong. It was written and produced by Jacques Jaccard. Marie Walcamp, Lawrence Payton, Chas. Brinley, and the others in the cast have done much to make the production a worthy successor to "Liberty."

BARBEROUS PLOTS (L-Ko), January 30.—A comic number in two reels featuring Hughie Mack and Bobbie Dunn. This contains no particular plot, but consists largely of nonsensical, knockabout situations, some of which are quite amusing. The chief scenes are in a barber shop operated as a "blind pig," a ladies' bath house and beauty parlor, and in a police station. Mixed flirtations of an inoffensive character are the chief centers of action.

VAMPING THE VAMP (Nestor), January 28.—A comedy number by Al Santell, featuring Harry Mann, Kathleen O'Connor, and Gertrude Astor. The wife, learning of her husband's vampire friend, attires herself as a man and visits the latter. The husband shows up, and some knockabout situations result. The humor is of a broad type, but none of the action is offensive. A fairly amusing subject.

THE MYSTERY SHIP, February 2.—The title of this, the tenth episode of this serial, is "The Rescue." It is an entertaining instalment, with a thrilling close. Gaston escapes from the torture chamber, and by the aid of the mystery ship makes his way to an abandoned lighthouse, where Betty and Jack Fay are held prisoners. He shoots them a line, and Betty is lowered by this to the water below, where they meet with fresh perils. A pleasing number, with a strong finish.

World Pictures Corporation.

GATES OF GLADNESS, January 28.—Madge Evans and George MacQuarrie are featured in this five-part photoplay directed by Harley Knoles. The little actress has one of her sympathetic roles, and acts with her usual charm. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Where Fox Companies Are Working

Under Pressure of Extra Production, Director Stanton Has Been Staging Plays at Biograph Studio.

ALTHOUGH he recently increased his facilities in the East by taking over the former Victor studio, William Fox again has found himself cramped for space, and has made a temporary arrangement for utilization of facilities at the Biograph studio in the Bronx. Director J. Gordon Edwards, now engaged on a picture at Fort Lee, recently worked at the Biograph studio for a short time, and he has been followed by Richard Stanton, who is directing the making of "Rough and Ready," a William Farnum de duxe production. Mr. Farnum later will go North for two or three weeks to do work on locations.

The Victor studio still is being utilized by Director Harry Millarde, who is making a picture of which June Caprice is the star. Director Carl Harbaugh, at Fort Lee, is retaking some scenes for "Jack Spurlock, Prodigal," the George Walsh special feature scheduled for release early next month.

Work on their third starring vehicle has been completed by Jane and Katherine Lee under the direction of Kenean Buel, and they have started on a fourth picture. Madame Sonia Markova is temporarily idle, and her former director, Oscar A. C. Lund, is in New Orleans with a company of players making scenes for the picture in which Peggy Hyland will have her debut as a Fox star.

Edmund Lawrence recently has been added to the Fox Eastern directing staff, and is preparing to begin work on a war drama in which Virginia Pearson will be starred.

Two of the stars in the West are temporarily idle. Gladys Brockwell has recently completed "The Moral Law" under the direction of Edward J. LeSaint, and Tom Mix has finished "Six Shooter Andy," in which he was directed by S. A. Franklin. C. M. Franklin is working with the Jewel Carmen company on scenes for "The Girl With the Champagne Eyes."

NEW FOX PRODUCTIONS TITLED.

Announcement has been made by William Fox of the selection of titles for three of the productions heretofore announced for release under temporary names. Two of these are Fox Special Feature, which will be released next week, and the other is a Standard Picture.

Jewel Carmen's next appearance, her second as a star, will be made February 17 in "The Girl With the Champagne Eyes." The story centers about these eyes, which, for a time, seem to be the only feature the girl possesses.

Tom Mix will be seen February 24 as the clean-up man of Bannack, a Western town, in "Six Shooter Andy." He is concerned largely in overcoming the evil influence of the sheriff—who is in league with a vicious element—and in protecting a young woman who has been thrown by Fate into the midst of this alien element.

The Standard Picture, which is for release January 27, has previously been carried under the temporary title of "From the Depths," but is to be released as "The Forbidden Path." It was made under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards, and is said to be an indictment of the attitude of society on the question of the double moral standard.

PIEDMONT MAKING NEW ARRANGEMENTS.

Piedmont Pictures Corporation announces that shortly it will come before the trade with projects that will rivet the attention of producers to its agency for disposing profitably of the output of American manufacturers.

Of course the new management will by that time have all its bearings, and the different selling agencies throughout the world will have received their new instructions. So far as the export industry is concerned unlimited funds will be at the disposal of the corporation in its various enterprises. The new management of Piedmont will step in closer connection with the producer, and this not only for the purpose of cementing existing friendships, but rather of getting the collaboration of the producer in the extensive plans about to be initiated by Piedmont, which soon will have in this city a representative of its various agencies, including Far East representatives. The producer will have the opportunity of greeting at a special meeting these standard bearers of American product in different countries, and thereby getting an exchange of ideas so necessary.

It is stil held by Piedmont that the world market is not properly organized, and that the returns are in no way commensurate with what they should be.

NOVEL PHOTOGRAPHY IN "THE EAGLE'S EYE."

The reputation The Whartons have made for effective trick photography is to be fully upheld in "The Eagle's Eye," their new serial photodrama founded on Chief Flynn's exposure of the Imperial German Government's spies in America. To carry out the idea of many of the situations showing spy activities trick exposures have been found necessary to attain the most convincing effects. One of these novel effects is a quadruple exposure, while another is a triple iris in which three diaphragms open at once in the disclosure of characters, then fade and then reopen. This last effect, which is made in "The Eagle's Eye," for the first time, was originated by John K. Holbrook, chief of photography at the Wharton studios.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

On Triangle Program for January 27th

Teddy Sampson and Darrell Foss Appear in Romantic Japanese Drama—Texas Guinan is "The Tigress" in "The Gun Woman."

WILL intermarriage solve the problem of the East and West? With the life of the overseas conflict shortened by three years watchful eyes are already turned toward the ominous little islands in the Pacific that are fast becoming a world-power. Whether American diplomacy will suffice to bridge the ever-widening gap, or whether some other remedy will have to be resorted to, is yet to be decided.

"Her American Husband" is a reversal of John Luther Long's famous story, "Madame Butterfly," which is familiar, either in its operatic or dramatic form, to every American playgoer. In this timely and all-absorbing drama from the pen of E. Magnus Ingleton, authoress of "Because of a Woman," intermarriage between the white and yellow races is the theme, and wonderful scenic effects, heart interest and powerful acting combine to make what Triangle officials believe to be an artistic triumph. This is a play with an unusual appeal—a romantic plot in a brilliant Oriental setting, with the symbolism of the "Butterfly" effectively interwoven.

Darrell Foss, in the title role as the profligate young millionaire, offers a striking characterization. His work in "The Firefly of Tough Luck," "The Regenerates" and "Without Honor" has already stamped him as an actor of ability. Teddy Sampson is a charming little Cherry Blossom, endowing her role with pathos and endearing witchery. Thomas Kurihara and Jack Abbe are Japanese possessing all the marks of artistic genius which have always attracted the profound admiration of European and American painters to Oriental acting. The other names in the cast represent careful selections from the Triangle players. "Her American Husband" was directed by E. Mason Hopper.

Texas Guinan is "The Tigress" in "The Gun Woman," released the latter part of the week. She is the fearless proprietress of the "Devil's Kitchen"—a saloon and dance hall—and settles all her grievances with an automatic. She becomes the victim of a bandit's duplicity, and it is then that the Bostonian, a Wells Fargo detective working incognito on his trail, wins her love and confidence. How the call of love comes into the sordid life of "The Tigress," and the consequent evolution of an apparently evil woman, is shown in this powerful drama of a woman's regerenation.

Edwin Brady has appeared in "Wild Sumac" and "Indiscreet Corinne." As the Bostonian, he does a keenly satirical characterization. Francis McDonald, who played in Alma Rubens' support in "I Love You," departs from the conventional tricks of the heavy and gives the part of the highwayman the much-desired touch of realism Thornton Edwards was made familiar to Triangle fans in "Wee Lady Betty," "Fighting Back" and "Indiscreet Corinne." Frank Borzage is credited with the direction of this production.

It's an artist's studio, and the wives all come up to pose. The husbands object, but each makes a date with the other fellow's wife for an artistic riot at the studio. Running up and down the building is a dumbwaiter that mixes husbands and wives in a wild and woolly whirlpool of wedded woe. That is the basis of the new Keystone comedy, "Ruined by a Dumbwaiter," released for the week of Jan. 27, and there's a climax in it that kicks cords of chortles and roads of riotous laughter from funproof fiends, and leaves the observer just strength enough to get home and tell the folks that the funniest film in the world has been enacted before his eyes.

Triangle Komedies Complete Program.

"A Butler Bust Up" and "Too Many Husbands" are one-reel Triangle Komedies included in the week's release.

MAURICE TOURNEUR DIRECTS MARGUERITE CLARK.

Maurice Tourneur has shown his great capacity for work, when, after only a few days rest, following the completion of "The Blue Bird," the big Maeterlinck spectacle for Artcraft, he undertook the direction of Marguerite Clark in "Prunella" last week for Paramount.

"Prunella" is the delightful story in which Miss Clark made one of her greatest successes on the stage. The play was written by Lawrence Housman and Granville Barker, and was presented at the Little theater, New York, three years ago. The screen version for Paramount is by Charles Maigne, who has contributed the scenarios for many notable productions for Paramount and Artcraft.

"FATTY" ARBUCKLE IN "OUT WEST."

That "Out West," soon to be released by Paramount, will outdistance all previous Paramount-Arbuckle comedies in point of novelty and general interest, besides its rollicking humor, is the conviction of those who have watched the film from its inception during its making at the Arbuckle studio in Long Beach, California. The picture is described as a travesty on the Western thriller and, in fact, is said to be one of the most thrilling of all dramas of the mountains and plains and the gambling dens of the frontier, that has ever been devised.

Scene from "Out West" (Paramount).

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, king-pin of the comedy, is supported by Al St. John, Buster Keaton and Alice Lake. With their able assistance he has turned out a comedy that will, it is declared, make the best of them look to their laurels and even teach the untamed bad men of the films some points on handling a six-shooter and shooting up a bad town.

The picture is filled with novelties. For example, the view of a white horse with his feet on the rail of a saloon bar, taking a schooner of beer with gusto is at least unusual. This same horse then walks out of the wet goods emporium with an indescribable gait like nothing so much as a man coming home at four A. M. after a New Year's Eve celebration.

The scenes are said to be excellently simulated, and a whole Western village with its gambling "hells," saloons, stores, etc., was built for the picture.

ALL-STAR CAST IN METRO'S "THE HOUSE OF MIRTH."

One of the most important productions which Metro will make during the coming year will be "The House of Mirth," a screen version of Edith Wharton's epoch-making novel, which was dramatized by the late Clyde Fitch and given a Broadway stage presentation. Emmy Wehlen will be starred in the role of Lily Bart in the picturization of the story which has been made by June Mathis and Albert Capellani. Mr. Capellani will direct the production.

Henry Kolker, a star of recognized ability and attainments, will have the leading masculine role of Lawrence Selden, and Joseph Kilgour has been engaged for the part of Trenor-Dorset. Lottie Briscoe has been engaged for the part of Gertie Farrish, the self-respecting young woman who lives within her income, in contrast to Lily Bart (Emmy Wehlen), who is unable to make an income of the same proportions pay for the luxuries she demands. Robin Williamson will play Rosedale, the man of wealth to whom Lily Bart turns in despair at one period in her bewildered career, and the part of the society leader, Mrs. Trenor-Dorset, has been entrusted to Gladys Alexandria.

"LA TOSCA" IDEAL PLAY FOR PAULINE FREDERICK.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Victorien Sardou play, "La Tosca," at the Famous Players-Lasky studio in New York, which, it is predicted, will be the most pretentious offering yet made by Paramount. This photoplay is being directed by Edward Jose and stars Pauline Frederick in the title role.

"The Doctor and the Woman"

Jewel Announces Release Date of Latest Lois Weber Production.

Following fast in the wake of their announcement of the national success of Mildred Harris, in "The Price of a Good Time," Jewel Productions, Inc., has fixed March 4 as the release date for "The Doctor and the Woman," another Lois Weber super-production featuring the same star.

"The Doctor and the Woman" is an adaptation of Mary Rob-

Scene from "The Doctor and the Woman" (Jewel).

ers Rinehart's forceful novel "K," as published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and tells a sympathetic story of the struggles of a great surgeon to regain the confidence lost after the failure of several operations on which he was considered a world-wide authority.

Through a series of coincidents in which he plays father confessor to various persons in trouble, "K" as the mysterious doctor is known, saves the life of his rival by the same operation that previously proved his undoing.

His former failures, explained by the confession of a jealous nurse, "K" finds happiness in a new found love of which he had been totally oblivious and again devotes his life to the ills of mankind.

Mildred Harris, as the young girl whose affection is the means of bringing "K" back to the realm of better things, is said to appear to better advantage than in any previous release.

True Boardman, an actor of proven ability, is entrusted with the role of "K," while Albert Rosco, Zella Caull, Carl Miller and others make up the balance of the cast.

The picture is considered one of Miss Weber's most appealing productions by those who have already seen it, and in point of photography, beautiful locations and unusual titling is considered her masterpiece.

"THE CLOVEN TONGUE," NEXT RUSSIAN ART FILM.

Pathe's feature release for the week beginning Jan. 20 is "The Cloven Tongue," a Russian Art film in five parts with a cast composed of the following famous players of the Moscow Art theater: Nadya Lesienka, P. A. Baksheef, N. V. Panoff and Sophie Karabana. The general point of interest in this picture is a thoroughly engrossing story, interpreted by good acting and staged artistically. It shows in perfect detail the country life of the average Russian family and is from the pen of A. M. Pushkin, whose works have been translated into many languages, including our own.

The acting is of a high order. The method of expression followed by these Russian players, most of whom have been drafted from the leading theaters of Moscow and Petrograd, is repressed to a degree, but each mood or emotion is carefully registered. The director has secured exterior locations and arranged interior settings that, as far as is known, are an exact representation of a home of one of the minor noblemen. At any rate, they convey perfect atmosphere.

"LOVE ME" FOR DOROTHY DALTON.

Dorothy Dalton is now engaged on her fifth Paramount picture, entitled "Love Me," under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, who has provided his beautiful young star with what is said to be an exceptional vehicle. From the very first of her Paramount offerings, Dorothy Dalton has added to her laurels as a screen actress of the very highest character. "Love Me" will present the star in a compelling story and will take the popular actress to the regions of the Canadian Northwest. Much traveling to the regions of snow and ice will be necessary in this picture. A powerful cast will support Miss Dalton, and will include Thurston Hall, Melbourne MacDowell, William Conklin, Carmen Phillips, and others. R. William Neil is director, and the entire production will be supervised by Thomas H. Ince.

"THE SONG OF SONGS" RELEASED FEBRUARY 11TH.

Simultaneously with the release of "Rose of the World," an Artcraft picture starring Elsie Ferguson, which has just been placed in the picture houses, comes the announcement that her next photoplay, "The Song of Songs," will be released on Feb. 11.

"The Song of Songs" is from the play by Edgar Sheldon, and was adapted to the screen by Charles Maigne and directed by Joseph Kaufman. It presents Miss Ferguson in an exceedingly emotional role, very similar to the one she interpreted in "The Outcast" on the speaking stage, and in which she scored the greatest success of her career.

The play is a high-class melodrama, replete with sensational incidents. It depicts a beautiful girl, Lily Kardos, as a salesgirl in an Oriental store in Palm Beach, where she comes in contact with many wealthy men who shower her with unwelcome attentions. She marries a rich and elderly man, who in mistaken suspicion, drives her away. She has a tempestuous career in the fast set of New York and finally meets a high-minded young man, whom she loves. They are separated by this man's uncle, who traps Lily into a betrayal of her past life, and she is prevented from suicide by her lover, who disregards the commands of his uncle and obeys the dictates of his heart.

The role is the heaviest Miss Ferguson has appeared in for the screen. Her wardrobe is elaborate, including more than a score of elaborate gowns. The photoplay adapted to the screen by Charles Maigne, the noted photoplaywright, was staged under the able direction of Joseph Kaufman, producer of many Famous Player-Lasky hits.

HAPPENINGS AT THE ROTHACKER PLANT.

Among the recent visitors at the Rothacker Laboratory-Studio, Chicago, were Edgar Lewis, the director; Mr. Graham, of the Petrova Pictures Corporation, and A. I. Smith, the producer of Alaska pictures.

Tiry Miller, of the Camera Department of the Rothacker organization, has returned from an extensive stay in Pennsylvania where he was producing a multiple-reel industrial subject. Mr. Miller will remain at Rothacker headquarters for another week and then return to Pennsylvania for the purpose of adding several news reels to this feature.

Wesley Smith, formerly of the Camera Department of the Rothacker organization, has been promoted to an important position in the factory organization.

Frank J. Snyder, formerly a member of Doc. Willats' technical staff, has arrived in Chicago from New York, to join the Rothacker organization.

Jack Byrne, of the Production Department of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, is now engaged in directing several important industrial subjects involving studio work.

N. J. Baumer, studio manager of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, is fast recovering from a serious attack of tonsilities which confined him to his home for several weeks.

Watterson R. Rothacker, of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, expects to be in New York at the Hotel Biltmore from Jan. 12 until about Jan. 18, and from New York will go to Washington before returning to Chicago.

Ed. Blackburn, well known in film circles, has been added to the sales force of the Rothacker organization.

DISTINGUISHED CAST FOR BRENON'S "FALSE FACES."

In addition to Bert Lytell, who plays the stellar role, and William E. Shay, as Wertheimer, a number of players have been added to the cast of Herbert Brenon's production of "False Faces," or the sequel to "The Lone Wolf," now being filmed at the Brenon Studios on Hudson Heights.

Barbara Castleton heads the list as Cecelia Brooke, the leading feminine role in Louis Joseph Vance's swiftly moving romance. Alfred Hickman, who has taken prominent roles in a number of Brenon pictures, will be seen again as Eckstrom, which character he created in the film adaptation of "The Lone Wolf." Mr. Hickman is an actor of sterling worth. His recent portrayal of the Czar in "The Fall of the Romanoffs" was hailed as one of the best pieces of acting that has been presented on the screen. W. L. Abingdon is also a prominent member of the cast, while others who will be seen are Earle Brunswick, Henry Koser, Logan Paul, Franklin Murray and Joseph Scott.

"THE DONKEY DID IT" (L-Ko).

Julius Stern presents a strictly "new woman" offering in the L-KO, to be distributed through Universal exchanges Feb. 6. "The Donkey Did It" may or may not refer to one of the political parties concerning itself just now in the question of woman's suffrage; but, at all events, Myrtle Sterling, star of L-KO comedies, takes the center of the screen and keeps it, to the credit of women as merrymakers. Babe Emerson also has prominence in the fun.

Such mere men as Al Forbes help in the comedy to be sure, but the bulk of the work falls upon the rotund Miss Sterling to be gotten away with after the slap-stick and speedy fashion L-KOs are famous for. There will be a large supporting company, mostly girls, to lend life and color to the fast-moving scenes as the characters rush through their two-reel career of comedy effort.

Pathe Schedule

Peggy Hyland in "The Other Woman"—Doris Kenyon and Ruth Rowland in Serials—Other Features for Week of February 3.

PEGGY HYLAND, in human interest, Gold Rooster play, serial episode, two-reel series drama and unusually good Lloyd comedy, stand out on Pathe's program for Feb. 3. Peggy Hyland, who has come to the fore as one of the cleverest and most popular actresses on the screen, is starred in "The Other Woman," a Gold Rooster play in five reels, produced by the Astra Film Corporation.

In this picture Miss Hyland is supported by Milton Sills, who made such a hit with Irene Castle in "Patria," and Anna Lehr. It is in every respect a quality feature, being an adaptation from a stage play controlled by A. H. Woods. It tells the intensely human story of a beautiful young country girl who comes to New York determined to succeed as a painter. She does so and falls in love with a wealthy young man named Harrington. They are attracted by each other and sincerely believe in the existence of a great love between them. Everyone will recognize the wonderful bits of real life visualized on the screen and will place himself or herself in the situations shown.

The lighting and direction of this picture are worthy of note. The characters make their entrances and exits in a novel manner, which is more nearly that employed on the stage than possibly any other picture ever made. "The Other Woman" is in every sense a photoplay.

Doris Kenyon stars in the 11th episode of "The Hidden Hand," the title of which is "Trapped by Treachery," with Sheldon Lewis, Arline Pretty and Mahlon Hamilton, produced in two reels by Pathe. Interest at the opening of this episode centers immediately on the fate of Doris Whitney, who lying unconscious in a coal carrier, is being drawn toward a big cog-wheel. Only by fast action is Ramsey able to save her. Later she falls into the hands of Dr. Scarley, whose evil character is now fully revealed. A guard watching her goes to sleep and Doris manages to loosen her bonds and secure his gun. When he wakes and advances toward her she fires at him. Scarley examines the wounded man and tells Doris that the only thing that will save his life is transfusion of blood and that she will have to furnish the blood for the operation. The episode works up to a big climax when Ramsey climbs a scaffolding and manages to fling himself into the room as Scarley is about to perform the operation. Ramsey covers Scarley with his revolver, but the wily physician holds the keen operating knife just above Doris and threatens to plunge it into her heart if Ramsey moves.

Ruth Roland appears with Frank Mayo in the third drama of the series, "The Price of Folly." The title is "The Catspaw." The story deals with Walter Sexton, who has just been elected to the state legislature, and John Rand, an influential business man who desires to prevent certain legislation for which Sexton is sponsor. Rand uses his pretty young daughter as a catspaw, in a very clever manner securing Sexton's signature and typewriting above it a statement which commits the young lawmaker to a program very far from his intentions. The ingenuity of the plot against Sexton and the machinations of Dorothy Rand make the story very interesting. The climax comes when Sexton learns of Rand's duplicity and arrest is the result for the father, though the daughter, being a catspaw, is not prosecuted.

Harold Lloyd stars in "The Lamb," a comedy in one reel, produced by Rolin. This is one of the funniest comedies in which Harold Lloyd has ever appeared. Snub, scoop-server, takes Mary, the sopralto, out for a morning stroll in the afternoon. Harold, a student, with tortoise shell glasses, is sitting on a park bench and is witness to a fistic contest which brings forth this remark: "I've always wanted to hit a guy so hard he'd yell. Where is the mule you took lessons from?" and the reply is: "Come down to the Devil's Lantern, the boys are so tough they eat soup with brass knuckles." The Lamb ventures forth to meet his new friends with his shoes tied on for the night. The first room that he sees is filled with bodies in a heap, and he is assured that the Devil's Lantern has an undertaker who gives wholesale rates and pays all the war tax. Then enters Sockless Sam, who can't sleep nights until he beats up the gang and shoots out the lights. The way in which he knocks them around makes Harold feel very ambitious and he has almost got up courage to slam the little runt of a waiter, who looks like about the easiest thing around the place, when he sees the said r. of a w. hit six men at the same time, and he resolves not to commit an unfriendly act. The picture ends with a rough-and-tumble fight, all because of Harold, that is a scream.

"Picturesque Brittany" (Huelgoat), Pathe colored travel, and "Bonnets of Brittany," Pathe colored educational, form a split-reel, the first half of which shows beautiful scenes in picturesque Brittany and France, and the second half shows the remarkable hats which are made by the girls themselves out of fine lace.

This program also has an International cartoon and educational split reel, and Hearst-Pathe News No. 12 and No. 13.

MABEL NORMAND IN "DODGING A MILLION."

Goldwyn stars have been fortunate enough to secure assignments to pleasant South Georgia locations during the recent cold snap—all but Mabel Normand, who was busily completing the last scenes in "Dodging a Million," with Director Tucker, in spite of the handicaps as to heat, light and other necessities under which Fort Lee, N. J., has been laboring since Christmas.

GEORGE BEBAN IN "ONE MORE AMERICAN."

William C. DeMille wrote "The Land of the Free," from which Olga Printzlau pictured the Paramount offering, "One More American," several years ago, and therefore could not have had George Beban in mind when he developed the character of Luigi Riccardo. Had he really been thinking of the talented delineator of Latin characters, however, he could not have painted a character more suited to the star's ability.

Mr. DeMille has directed the production, which will be a Paramount release in the near future, and which concerns Luigi Riccardo, who owns a little Marionette theater in the Italian quarter of New York, and has saved his pennies against the day when his wife and little girl will arrive from the shores of sunny Italy to make their home in the land of freedom. With him lives his cousin Lucia, who is courted by Bump Rundle, a prize-ring philosopher. Riccardo is a victim of Regan, the ward boss, having gained his enmity by refusing to pay graft money, while Sam Potts, a reporter, has been trying to get the goods on Regan, but so far has failed.

Scene from "One More American" (Paramount).

When the little family arrives from Italy and lands at Ellis Island, Regan uses his influence with the medical inspector at the Island to prevent the wife and child being admitted. The anguish of Riccardo on learning that his loved ones are, after all, to be lost to him, is pitiful, and he sets out to kill Regan, having learned that he is responsible.

Meantime, the ward-heeler has been trapped through Potts, and when Riccardo finally reaches him he finds that his enemy is powerless, while the Doctor is willing to make reparation and gladly passes the wife and child, who are restored to the arms of the husband and father amid a scene of glad rejoicing.

HART IN "BLUE BLAZES RAWDEN."

William S. Hart excels in those stories of primitive man reformed through stress of circumstances, regenerated by the renewing of the mind in the crucible of love and hate, which idea has formed the basis of several of his pictures released by Artcraft. In "Blue Blazes Rawden" it is employed with telling effect. He is, in this instance, a veritable giant of a man, rough, lusting for life and the delights of the lumber camp saloon after a season immured in the fastnesses of the forests. His encounter with a renegade Britisher who is later killed in a fight, the primal lure of love as expressed by Babette, a woman of the camps, and the final revulsion of feeling and tendencies that follow the hallowing influence of a motherly woman's benediction form a series of incidents that bring the drama to a high pitch of intensity and once more, it is asserted, provide for Wm. S. Hart a vehicle that gives him full scope for his inimitable powers of character interpretation.

The virility and strength of character that render these interpretations of Wm. S. Hart so outstanding in their originality and realism, are part and parcel of the man himself, otherwise they could never be so successfully simulated on the screen. The forthcoming picture will serve to still further heighten the popularity of the star, according to all advance opinions.

"THE BLUEBIRD" FINISHED BY DIRECTOR TOURNEUR.

Production work on "The Blue Bird," the Maurice Maeterlinck masterpiece, which has been going on for several months at the Famous Players-Lasky studios in Ft. Lee, N. J., was brought to a close last week when director Maurice Tourneur filmed the final scenes. When the last O. K. sign was photographed at the end of a scene it marked the conclusion of the biggest production ever undertaken at this studio.

February Metros

Many Interesting Features Announced in List of Subjects Ready for Release.

TWO Eastern productions and two productions made in Metro's West Coast studio at Hollywood, Cal., will be released by Metro Pictures Corporation during the month of February. Five stars will be represented—Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, Harold Lockwood, Viola Dana and Edith Storey, appearing in the order named. B. A. Rolfe presents the West Coast pictures, "Weaver of Dreams" and "Revenge." Added to these will be a special production de luxe with the great Nazimova as star—a new gypsy play now in process of completion. Four Drew comedies will also be released during February. These are "Help Wanted." "The Bright Lights Dimmed," "After Henry" and "His Generosity," in the order named.

The first February release will be "Under Suspicion," a feature comedy melodrama starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne. William S. Davis has directed this five-act production, which had been adapted by Albert Shelby Le Vino from the original story by Hugh C. Weir. Smiles and thrills are provided in this brilliant picture in about equal proportions. Mr. Bushman takes the part of a young millionaire, Gerry Simpson, who falls in love with a girl reporter at a society function. The girl reporter, Virginia Blake, played by Miss Bayne, has a horror of the idle rich, so young Simpson goes to work. He becomes a cub reporter. Some jewels belonging to a wealthy woman are stolen, and suspicion points strongly to Gerry. The girl reporter finds a clue and begins to track the culprit. A monkey provides the "missing link" in the evidence.

The real thief is the person least suspected, of course, and there are thrilling scenes of excitement and adventure before the interesting denouement takes place. The co-stars are surrounded by a capable cast of players, including Eva Gordon, Frank Montgomery and Sidney D'Albrook. "Under Suspicion" was produced under the personal direction of Maxwell Karger.

"Broadway Bill," with Harold Lockwood as star, will be released Feb. 11. "Broadway Bill" is a romance of Broadway and the North woods, written and directed by Fred J. Balshofer. It contains a part for the popular star wholly to his liking and one in which he will make certain appeal.

"Broadway Bill" is given his nickname on account of his fondness for the bright lights of the "big town." The gaieties of Broadway lead him insidiously into the habit of drink, but, at last, finding that he has lost the good opinion of Muriel Latham, the girl who matters, he determines to go to the Maine woods and win back his self-respect. He finds a new enemy to fight, this time a personal one—Buck Hardigan, foreman of the lumber camp. For a time it looks as though the fight would be decided against Bill, but he finally succeeds in vanquishing both his antagonists—drink and Buck Hardigan. The love interest of "Broadway Bill" is well sustained. Martha Mansfield plays the part of Muriel Latham, opposite the star, and Stanton Heck has the role of the camp bully, Buck Hardigan. Bert Starkey also has an important part.

Metro's Feb. 18 release is "Weaver of Dreams," with Viola Dana as star. This is a picture version of Myrtle Reed's famous story, with Miss Dana in the charming role of Judith. John H. Collins has directed "Weaver of Dreams" at Metro's West Coast studio.

Miss Dana has seldom had a part more suited to her winsome personality than that of Judith. The action of "Weaver of Dreams" takes place in a rural community where the simpler emotions hold sway, giving the little star another opportunity to display the sincerity that many consider her chief charm. "Weaver of Dreams" is primarily a drama of the human heart.

Judith is in love with Carter Keith, a young physician, and becomes engaged to marry him. They build their house on a hill, and steal away at odd moments to take a look at it, and dream over the happiness to come. They call it "the house of hearts." All this the old musician, the "weaver of dreams," sees and notes. Then comes Margery, and before he realizes it Carter is fascinated. The climax of the story is one wholly unimagined. There are many devotees of the works of Myrtle Reed throughout the country, and of these many call "Weaver of Dreams" their favorite novel. To them the new Dana production should make special appeal.

A cast of sterling excellence surrounds Miss Dana in this picture. Clifford Bruce, well known to Metro patrons, has the role of Carter Keith. Russell Simpson has an important part. Cora Drew plays Aunt Cynthia Bancroft, who has a belated romance.

The final February release is "Revenge," with Edith Storey as star. "Revenge" is a Western story of love and adventure, adapted from Edward Moffat's popular novel, "Hearts Steadfast," the scenario being the work of William Parker and H. P. Keeler. Tod Browning, who has directed Miss Storey in "The Legion of Death" and in "The Eyes of Mystery," has also directed "Revenge."

Alva Leigh, an Eastern girl, goes West to avenge the death of her fiancee, Donald Jaffray. Two men befriend her, Dick Randall, formerly Donald's cabin-mate, and "Sudden" Duncan, owner of the dance hall. One of them does so with a friendly purpose, and the other hoping to conceal his real enmity toward herself and the dead man. She realizes that all is not as it should be, but is led to false conclusions. Tragedy enters and death stalks near. The climax of this absorbing picture drama is breath-taking in its suspense and surprise, giving Miss Storey opportunity for the heights of emotional acting, in which she excels.

A wonderful cast has been selected to support Miss Storey in "Revenge." Her leading man is Wheeler Oakman, a favorite player of genuine ability. Alberta Ballard has the colorful role of "Tiger Lil," and Ralph Lewis is "Sudden" Duncan. "Revenge" furnishes a strong completion to the Metro productions of the month.

DOROTHY PHILLIPS PICTURES SPECIAL RELEASES.

Although they will continue to be released through Bluebird exchanges, photoplays in which Dorothy Phillips is star will, hereafter, be special attractions, to be designated as "Dorothy Phillips Productions." There will be no brand designation, and the method of handling the pictures will apply as though they were independent productions without being any part of the regular Bluebird program.

"The Grand Passion," lately introduced to the screen for the first time at the Broadway theater, New York, will be the initial "Dorothy Phillips Production" to reach exhibitors under the new plan. William Stowell, who has always been Miss Phillips' leading man in Bluebirds, and Jack Mulhall, who has been a star in other Universal features, appear as Miss Phillips' principal supporters in this Ida May Park production.

Miss Park lately completed another offering in which Miss Phillips will star—"Her Fling," a feature based on Katherine Leiser Robbins' story of the same title. William Stowell, Sally Starr and Joseph Girard will head the supporting company. "The Girl Who Dared" is still another Dorothy Phillips production now being finished off at Universal City, under the direction of Allen J. Holubar, with James Oliver Curwell's novel as the basis of the scenario.

"The Girl Who Dared" is a romance of the North in which extensive winter scenes and unusually heavy sets predominate. Lon Chaney and William Stowell will play the principal male characters, with Priscilla Dean, William Burress and Joseph Girard concerned in essential supporting roles. Bluebird exchanges will conduct a separate compaign for marketing the "Dorothy Phillips Productions," with these three offerings to begin with. Others will follow from time to time, as suitable material may be found.

FRANK KEENAN IN "LOADED DICE."

Frank Keenan will make his first appearance under the Pathe Banner on Feb. 10. The title of Mr. Keenan's initial Pathe Plays release is "Loaded Dice." It is a five-reel adaptation by the well-known scenario writer and author, Gilson Willetts, from Ellery H. Clark's successful book of the same name. The picture is characterized by a remarkable principal role, an unusually powerful story, a fine cast, handsome settings, high-class photography, including many night scenes and illustrated titles.

The part created by Mr. Keenan is that of an unscrupulous, unprincipled man, who believes there is no God. A man who plays for high stakes with "loaded dice" because he says that to win he must do so. A climax more gripping than anything Mr. Keenan has ever had on the screen, he dies with these words on his lips, "I lose, there is a God."

In addition to Frank Keenan, the cast includes Florence Billings, an actress of unusual beauty and ability, who is especially suited to be Mr. Keenan's leading woman. Guy Coombs, a well known stage and screen actor, who plays the young millionaire whom Richard Gordon uses as a "catspaw," and Madeline Marshall, who plays the wealthy young girl to whom he succeeds in engaging himself.

The production is characterized by a number of very remarkable night scenes and unusually large settings, in one case the complete exterior of the main stage having been constructed in the studio to obtain the effect of a terrific thunderstorm.

The art titles are confidently expected to create something of a sensation, as they reveal a new method of carrying out the thought, both in words and in atmosphere.

IMPORTANT PLAYERS SUPPORT SESSUE HAYAKAWA

In the support of Sessue Hayakawa for his forthcoming Paramount picture, "Hidden Pearls," a cast of unusual excellence is provided, numbering among its members such well-known players as Margaret Loomis, who appeared with the Oriental star in "The Bottle Imp" and "The Call of the East"; Theodore Roberts, James Cruze, Noah Beery, Clarence Geldart, Florence Vidor, Jack Holt, Gustav von Seyffertitz and Henry Woodward. The picture was directed by George H. Melford, assisted by Claude Mitchell and photographed by Paul Perry. Beulah Marie Dix wrote the story and also scenarioized it.

GOLDWYN SCENARIO STAFF GROWS.

Recent acquisitions to Goldwyn's scenario staff are Rosalie Ashton and Beatrice Morse, both well known in the magazine field before undertaking motion picture work. With Lasky, and at Fox Western studio, they collaborated on continuity and contributed original stories. Mabel Strouse, for a long time a standby in the scenario bureau of World Film, also has cast her lot with Goldwyn, where her keen sense of picture values is making her a valued member of the staff at the Fort Lee studios.

"THE WIFE HE BOUGHT" (Bluebird).

Larry Evans' magazine story, "One Clear Call," served as the basis of Bluebird's release February 4. Harvey Gates prepared the scenario and Harry Solter directed the production. Carmel Myers is presented in the star part, with Kenneth Harlan featured as her leading man. Howard Crampton and Sidney Dean also have essential roles in a feature that depends upon sensationalism for its principal appeal.

This is the third Bluebird in which Carmel Myers has been starred. She gained her first prominence in open market, "Sirens of the Sea," and was then engaged for Bluebirds, appearing first in "The Lash of Power" and later on in "My Unmarried Wife." Kenneth Harlan has been her leading man in the preceding Bluebirds, and it is declared that both players are better provided with effective roles in "The Wife He Bought" than ever before.

While sensational episodes are depended upon as the outstanding features of the production, there is a strong melodramatic plot to weld together the exciting incidents, an extremely realistic shipwreck scene climaxing the accumulation of sensations. Harry Solter, the producer, is one of the pioneers in photoplay production and has brought the benefits of long experience to his work in creating a screen melodrama of forceful effectiveness.

FEBRUARY L-KOS READY.

Julius Stern, president of L-KO Comedies, announces that his February product is ready for release. Despite the rainy season and a natural desire to avoid the attendant drawbacks, there will be no dimiuntion of effort at Hollywood, where the L-KOs come from. "Keeping even with production on a two-reel comedy every week is task enough," says Mr. Stern, "without hoping to get ahead with a stock of negatives."

"The Donkey Did It" will star Myrtle Sterling Feb. 6. For Feb. 15 there will be a flashy showing of femininity in "Pearls and Girls," surrounding Hughie Mack and Eva Novak. Jim Davis directed this comedy.

"Beaches and Peaches" indicates something of its nature in the title selected for the Feb. 20 release. Archie Mayo directed Dave Morris and a large delegation of L-KO girlies in this bathing-suit comedy. Mack Swain will star in "Sherlock Ambrose," Feb. 27, offering a comedy detective story with slapstick trimmings. W. S. Fredericks directed the "Ambrose" L-KO.

HAROLD LOCKWOOD RETURNS FROM MAINE WOODS.

After working for three weeks' time at their location camp on the Rangeley Lakes in Maine, Harold Lockwood and his company of Metro-Yorke players have finished the lumber camp scenes in "Broadway Bill," Mr. Lockwood's next Metro Star Series production, and have returned to New York, where the final scenes to complete the picture will be put on.

The company found circumstances most favorable to their purposes in the North. The action of the lumber camp scenes takes place in mid-winter and Maine was experiencing real mid-winter weather during the company's visit. The ground was covered with four feet of snow and the mercury dropped to a point as low as 48 degrees below zero. The highest point reached was 10 below.

"THE GREAT SEA SCANDAL" (Nestor).

Craig Hutchinson has turned out a speedy Nestor, to be supplied through Universal channels February 4. It is called "The Great Sea Scandal," and will have Dave Morris as its featured comedian. Gladys Tennyson and Gertrude Aster will lead a bevy of pretty girls into the swift complications that result through an ocean trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

The amount of fun that may be extracted from what is usually a conventional journey promises to do great credit to the inventiveness of Director Hutchinson and the skill of his players in catching his ideas. Dave Morris was never better provided with an eccentric comedy role, and "The Great Sea Scandal" is likely to add considerably to his screen reputation when this Nestor gets into circulation.

A ONE-REEL LLOYD COMEDY EVERY WEEK.

Beginning with the week of Sunday, Feb. 3, Pathe announces that there will be an important change in the comedy portion of its program, and that there will be issued every week after that date a one-reel Rolin comedy featuring Harold Lloyd. In these comedies will also appear those other Rolin favorites who have been associated with Lloyd from the beginning —Bebe Daniels and "Snub" Pollard. This increase in the output of Lloyd comedies is in answer to a greatly increased demand for which the popularity of the two-reel "Lonesome Luke" comedies had much to do. It was felt that Lloyd in one-reel comedies exclusively would have a wider distribution than would be possible with the longer films.

The first of these one-reel comedies to go out on the increased schedule is "The Lamb," which will be issued on Feb. 3. The second will be "The Gasoline Wedding" on Feb. 10, the third, "Hit Him Again," on Feb. 17, and the fourth will probably be "Beat It," on Feb. 24. These comedies are said to be in Lloyd's best vein. They are all produced under the general supervision of Hal E. Roach, of the Rolin Company, who has achieved remarkable success in comedy direction, and who personally directed the two-reel "Luke" comedies.

"WOMEN IN THE WORLD OF WORK" (Bray).

An unusually interesting series on "Woman in the World of Work" is announced by The Bray Studios, Inc., to be released as part of the Paramount-Bray Pictograph, "the magazine on the screen." The first issue appears in the 103d release, for which Miss Anne Haviland, a young Southerner who has made a success of distilling perfumes from flowers, furnishes the story.

While the Miss, who, clad in overalls, assumes to do the work of her big brother who has joined Uncle Sam's fighting forces, is worthy of a high place up on the list of women who achieve, it is not from among these that The Bray Studios, Inc., have selected their subjects. It is from the women who, brought face to face with the problem of winning a livelihood for themselves, and not infrequently for others dependent on them, untrained and with no apparent means, not only win out but succeed to a degree that brings them fame as well as fortune.

Scene from "Women in the World of Work" (Paramount-Bray).

It is the stories, told on film, of these courageous women, each an inspiration and incentive for others, that the Bray Studios, Inc., will release. No more interesting material could be gathered. Each has the human-interest appeal that goes straight to the heart of every man and woman for the success won by one who, by nature and training, is handicapped at the outset, is a success, the gaining of which must win the admiration of all humanity.

This series will run over a period of weeks, and each installment, a complete story in itself, pulsates with life and action, and is a tribute to the sterling character of that American womanhood whose sons are carrying the flag of Liberty to the shores of distant Europe.

LAST WORK OF CHARLES KLEIN IN FILMS.

"The Guilty Man," a vivid attack upon the double standard of morality, has been made into an absorbing photoplay, presented by A. H. Woods, famed as a producer of strong emotional dramas to be released by Paramount. Thomas H. Ince, Inc., supervised the production, which was directed by Irvin V. Willat.

"The Guilty Man" represents the last work of Charles Klein, who was lost on the Lusitania. Miss Ruth Helen Davis wrote the first manuscript and Mr. Klein revised it for her. He completed no other play after finishing his work on "The Guilty Man."

Mr. Woods and Mr. Ince have chosen a perfectly balanced cast for "The Guilty Man," including Gloria Hope, Vivian Reed, William Garwood and Charles French.

EMMY WEHLEN IN SATURDAY EVENING POST STORY

"Good Will and Almond Shells" is the name of the next Metro production in which exquisite Emmy Wehlen will star, the screen version of Edith Wharton's "The House of Mirth" having been postponed to a later date. Work on the new production will begin at once at the Metro studio under the direction of George D. Baker, who has completed the direction of Mme. Nazimova in a new special production. Mr. Baker has been associated with Miss Wehlen in numerous of her Metro successes, including "The Duchess of Doubt," "Sowers and Reapers," and "The Pretenders." "Good Will and Almond Shells" is from the pen of Kenneth L. Roberts, and was published in the Saturday Evening Post.

Henry Kolker will play Lawrence Gray, a capitalist; Joseph Kilgour will have the part of "Silk" Wilkins, alias Remington Rountree, a confidence man. The production will be under the supervision of Maxwell Karger, general manager of the Metro studio.

"THE WIDOW'S MIGHT" (Paramount).

The next Julian Eltinge-Paramount picture to be released will be a comedy written especially for the star by Marion Fairfax—"The Widow's Might." This production was staged under the direction of William C. DeMille, the well-known director of "The Warrens of Virginia;" Geraldine Farrar in "Carmen," and other popular screen hits.

Headed by Florence Vidor, who also appeared opposite Mr. Eltinge in "The Countess Charming," the supporting cast includes various well know names, such as Mayme Kelso, James Scene from "The Widow's Might" (Paramount).

Neill and Gustave von Seyffertitz. This photoplay is the popular female impersonator's third Paramount picture and, judging from advance reports, will easily prove his most successful film to date.

In his newest screen offering, Mr. Eltinge appears as Dick Tavish, an enterprising young New Yorker, who decides that "there is money in cows" and establishes himself on a Western ranch. How he is obliged to disguise himself as a woman in order to entrap the crook who is trying to steal his farm, and how he finally wins out against all sorts of odds, makes a thrilling and entirely humorous picture, it is announced.

The story was mostly supposed to happen at "Coronalta," a fashionable California resort, and beautiful Pasadena furnishes the scenery, the attractive hotels and smartly gowned guests so necessary for the correct "atmosphere." Many new gowns of the latest design will be presented for the first time in this film by the clever actor.

UNIVERSAL MULTIPLIES SERIALS.

Making good his announcement of policy for 1918, Carl Laemmle, president and director general of Universal Film Manufacturing Co., is applying more energy to the production of serials than ever before in the history of that organization. It has previously been Universal's rule to finish the release of one-chapter-serial before starting to circulate its successor, but now serials will overlap serials throughout the coming year.

Under the new plan, Eddie Polo and Vivian Reed's serial, "The Bull's Eye," starts circulation Feb. 4, when Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber's adventures in "The Mystery Ship" has reached its eleventh episode. Work has already begun on "The Lion's Claws," in which Marie Walcamp will be presented under the direction of Jacques Jaccard, who also produced "The Red Ace" and "Liberty, a Daughter of the U. S. A" serials in which Miss Walcamp furnished chapter sensations during the past year.

"The Lion's Claws" will be a jungle adventure, employing the menagerie of wild animals at Universal City, where the first episode of the serial are now in the making. An engrossing story is promised, with opportunities for exciting and sensational situations galore.

Director Harry Harvey is preparing to create another serial, with Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber the stars, as soon as these players have finished with "The Mystery Ship." The new one will probably be called "Pleasure Island." Eddie Polo and Vivian Reed, as soon as they have done with "The Bull's Eye," will also start at once upon another chapter-story to keep serials going to exhibitors without interruption.

MAE MARSH'S NEWEST GOLDWYN.

Mae Marsh will have one of the greatest acting opportunities of her motion picture career in a new production just announced by Goldwyn pictures. In it she will appear as the young heroine of a romantic story of thoroughbred crookedness from the pen of Irvin S. Cobb, among the foremost of America's authors, and now a participant in Goldwyn activities. The original story of the production was published in the Saturday Evening Post under the title of "The Web." This title may not be used, it is said, for the screen version.

BLUEBIRD MAKES CHANGES IN FEBRUARY RELEASES.

Changes in both plays and titles are announced by Managing Director Carl Laemmle for the February program of Bluebirds. The stars involved include Monroe Salisbury, Mae Murray, Carmel Myers and Franklyn Farnum. Production is so far advanced at Universal City that Bluebirds for March and April are also completed, the product furnishing plays for all of Bluebird's stars to be seen at best advantage. Here is the final arrangement for February:

"The Wife He Bought" will be presented by Carmel Myers week starting Feb. 4.

"Hands Down" will have Monroe Salisbury as its star, released Feb. 11, Ruth Clifford being featured as Mr. Salisbury's leading lady in a Rupert Julian production.

"The Morals of an Actress" is a Robert Leonard production, to be presented by Mae Murray Feb. 18.

"The Rough Lover," to be presented by Franklyn Farnum, Feb. 25, has been previously referred to under its original title, "Breeze Bolton Blows In."

Allotments of Bluebirds for March are tentatively forecasted thus: March 4, Carmel Myers in "The Green Seal"; March 11, Monroe Salisbury in "Hungry Eyes"; March 18, a Dorothy Phillips production, "Her Fling"; March 25, Mae Murray in "The Eleventh Commandment."

"HEADIN' SOUTH" NEW FAIRBANKS PICTURE.

The Douglas Fairbanks Special, consisting of eight passenger trains and twelve freight cars, carrying two hundred Buckaroos and an equal number of horses arrived at Tucson, Arizona, last week, for the purpose of filming the exterior scenes of "Headin' South," from the story by Allan Dwan. The first two days were spent shooting scenes in the vicinity of Ft. Lowell, historically known as the location of the famous battle fought by General Miles when he captured Geronimo, the notorious Apache chief and his tribe of fighting Indians.

The principals of the company who journeyed into Tucson on the Douglas Fairbanks Special includes Katherine McDonald, the new leading lady; Frank Campeau, Chief Producer Allan Dwan, Director Art Rosson, Assistant Director James P. Hogan, Business Manager John Fairbanks, Harry Tenbrook, Bennie Zeidman, publicity representative. Special reservations were made for the photographic staff, consisting of Hugh McClung, Harry Thorpe, Len Powers, Glenn McWilliams, Charles Warrington and Billy Emerson, who is in charge of a large crew of property men and carpenters.

Among the prominent cowboys who will take active parts in "Headin' South" are Johnny Judd, Tommy Grimes, Art Acord, Hoot Gibson, and Ed Burns, who is in charge of all the horses. Ginger, the Fairbanks dog, is the mascot for the company.

SPLENDID CAST IN "THE HIRED MAN."

Many unique types appear in Charles Ray's third appearance in an Ince-Paramount picture, which is entitled "The Hired Man," and is a pastoral drama in which the star undergoes some sensational experiences. The play is by Julian Josephson, popular writer of short stories for magazines, who displays a pleasing familiarity with farm life. Ray plays the part of Ezry Hollins, the hired man who loves his employer's daughter and studies at night to make himself worthy of her. Doris Lee is Ruth Endicott, the girl in question, and the role of Caleb Endicott, her father, is played by Charles French, and Lydia Knott is his wife. Gilbert Gordon interprets the role of Walter Endicott, whose waywardness gets him in trouble, and who involves the hired man into great difficulties. Carl Ullman is Stuart Morley, the rival for the affections of Ruth. A thrilling fist fight takes place between the two claimants for the hand of the fair Ruth, in which Ray demonstrates his athletic ability.

Humorous scenes are shown at the old-fashioned "corn huskin' bee" and barn dance. The locale is New England. It is claimed by Paramount that this is the best picture thus far released starring Ray, excelling "The Son of His Father" and "His Mother's Boy." Special attention is being called to the excellent photography and scenic effects.

"PAINTED LIPS" (Universal).

The Louise Lovely offering, to be released through Universal exchanges, Feb. 4, was written by Charles Kenyon, author of the stage success, "Kindling." In its original story form its title was "The Straw Cellar." Edward J. Le Saint directed the production.

Miss Lovely's support will include Edward J. Cody, Alfred Allen, Hector Dion, Beatrice Van and Betty Schade. Without apparent design "Painted Lips" becomes a problem play. It is first a sensational offering and then turns into a problem play, dealing with life in the underworld where the heroine finds herself unwillingly the center of an unusual intrigue.

Louise Lovely has been presented by Universal in a series of sensational features, and the assertion is made that in "Painted Lips" she has the best offering she has ever presented. This promise is largely established by the nature of the story as well as through the skill and detail involved in making the actual production.

"The Cross Bearer"

New World Film Special Production Released at Regular Rates.

"THE CROSS BEARER," in seven reels, will be released March 18, by World-Pictures Brady-Made. This picture play has Cardinal Mercier as its principal personage, and Belgium as its setting. It is to be issued upon the regular World program at regular World prices, in keeping with the fixed policy of this corporation.

"The Cross Bearer" will be the third special feature to be distributed to exhibitors of World pictures without extra cost. "Rasputin, the Black Monk," and "The Burglar," were published similarly, at greatly increased expenditure on the manufacturer's part. Like these productions "The Cross Bearer" was made as a personal venture by William A. Brady, and purchased by the World Film Corporation for its regular patrons by way of demonstrating that big features can be brought within the reach of program houses. One of the big scenes of "The Cross Bearer" is an authentic reproduction of the Louvain Cathedral, in which Cardinal Mercier is celebrating mass when the German forces rush in and take possession, ejecting the congregation, piling up the seats and setting fire to them, and afterward making a barracks of the edifice.

This scene was built alongside the World's studio in Fort Lee, and was exceedingly massive and imposing. Upon an adjoining lot a street scene several blocks in length was constructed upon a scale sufficiently large to permit the passage of artillery and great numbers of men and women. On the night before this street scene was to have been "shot" a heavy wind storm arose and flattened the structure completely, besides carrying parts of it a long way into the interior of New Jersey, so that it became necessary to rebuild the set entirely.

Montagu Love plays the role of Cardinal Mercier in "The Cross Bearer," and the personation is said to be the most impressive exhibition of acting yet contributed to the screen by this always dependable artist.

There are no episodes of carnage in this picture, which, however, contains a number of military scenes, such, for instance, as the German soldiers entering Louvain and taking formal possession of the city. Many of the interiors, reproducing various rooms in the Cardinal's residence, are of regal magnificence, showing furniture, tapestries and paintings of very great value.

These interiors were made following photograps of the real Cardinal's palace, and there was no sparing of expenditure in this or other directions.

The love story of "The Cross Bearer" concerns the beautiful young ward of the Cardinal and an officer in the Belgian army. Plotting to capture the girl for purposes of his own is the German governor-general, whose designs are foiled by the superior craft of the aged prelate known as "the protector of Belgium."

PRESS BOOK FOR "MADAM WHO."

The offices of Paralta Plays have issued a press book of Henry B. Walthall's initial Paralta Play, "His Robe of Honor," which contains many new ideas, and promises to be a great step forward in assisting the exhibitors exploiting this production.

The cover is done in three colors similar to the cover used on the press book for "Madam Who." The first page inside contains the complete cast of characters together with the names of the heads of the various departments under whose supervision the production was completed.

The following page is devoted to catch lines to be used for various advertising purposes, which takes the place of advertising layouts which have been so widely talked about and so little used. Illustrations of the various billing paper consisting of two three-sheets, two one-sheets, and one six-sheet, and a double-column, single-column, and thumb nail cuts to be used for newspaper and program purposes.

In preparing the press copy for the book it has been compiled in such a manner so that it can be edited by any newspaper by the mere stroke of a pencil. Any paragraph can be eliminated without injurying the continuity of the press notice. There are no squibs in the book, but the first paragraph of each press notice is written in such a manner that it is a squib in itself, and any of the following paragraphs can easily be used for squibs by a slight alteration.

JUNE CAPRICE TO WEAR FINE CLOTHES.

The Fox special feature to be released Jan. 27 features June Caprice as a rich girl in a production entitled "The Heart of Romance." The plot hinges on a love affair, the heroine's hand being sought by a struggling young writer who is suspected by the heiress' guardian of courting the girl because of her money. A unique plan for testing his affection is devised, with the result that he proves his sincerity.

The story of "The Heart of Romance" was written by Frances Crowley, and the scenario was done by Adeline Leitzbach. Harry Millarde was the director. The cast includes Bernard Thornton, George Bunny, Joseph Kilgour, Lillian Page, Jack Martin and Jack Raymond.

It is said that the production differs from that of the usual Caprice type in that the star throughout is in the role of a rich girl. In many of her previous pictures she has been cast in roles which have afforded little opportunity for wearing the fine clothes in which all women delight to appear.

"THE EAGLE'S EYE."

The cartoon here illustrated was painted by Louis Agassiz Fuertes, one of the great ornithological artists of the world, and presented to William J. Flynn, then chief of the United States Secret Service, as typifying the achievements of this branch of the United States Government, "The Eagle's Eye," in combatting the intrigue, espionage and propaganda of the Imperial German Government in America.

The painting is so effective, both in art and subject, that it is being used as the design for a twenty-four sheet stand to create interest in the serial photodrama, "The Eagle's Eye," which the Whartons are now producing at their studios at Ithaca, founded on a story by Chief Flynn, exposing the secret machinations of the Kaiser's spy army in this country. Mr. Fuertes painted this subject and presented it to Chief Flynn several months before this motion picture production was conceived.

Cartoon Painted by Louis Agassiz Fuertes. Presented to William J. Flynn.

The painting of the Eagle in this cartoon is absolutely correct in every physiological detail and in coloring. This is one of the very few instances where the great American eagle has been pictured with absolute accuracy by an artist who is also a great authority on the physiological development of winged life, including birds of prey. Mr. Fuertes is a native of Ithaca, where he was born forty years ago.

NEW PLAYS AND PLAYWRIGHTS FOR TRIANGLE.

Several well-known magazine stories are being picturized and three new men have been added at the scenario department of the Triangle Culver City studios. The new faces include Charles Mortimer Peck, well-known scenario editor and special writer, who is picturizing Norman Sherbrook's magazine story, "Smoke"; Frank Condon, Satuday Evening Post writer and continuity expert, who is picturizing "The Veil," also by Norman Sherbrook, and Charles Wilson, who is making the screen adaptation of W. Carey Wonderley's magazine story, "Another Foolish Virgin."

Jack Cunningham is finishing the picturization of "The Siren in the House," also a magazine story by W. Carey Wonderley. Other members of the staff include Lanier Bartlett, who has just finished the continuity on a Japanese story, "The Mystic Fan," by Lawrence Gibson; Catherine Carr, who is dramatizing "High Tide," a sociological drama, by B. D. Carber, and George Elwood Jenks, who is making the screen adaptation of "The Vorter."

Philip Hurne, the author and co-directer of the recent Triangle release, "Framing Framers," has been made head of the reading department in the scenario department at the Triangle Culver City studios.

BUSHMAN AND BAYNE BEGIN "THE BRASS CHECK."

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne have placed in production a new comedy drama, "The Brass Check," at the Metro studio. "The Brass Check" is from the pen of Edward Allan England, and its scenario version has been made by June Mathis. William S. Davis is directing this five-act screen romance, assisted by Harry Franklin, who has returned to Metro after a two months' vacation trip. Mr. Davis has recently completed the direction of the popular co-stars in Hugh C. Weir's "Under Suspicion," which will have an early release.

A capable cast of players especially chosen for cleverness in character delineation has been chosen to support Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne in "The Brass Check." It includes Frank Currier, Frank Joyner, Ollie Cooper, and John A. Smiley, who may safely be trusted in the handling of the quaint and interesting situations to be found within the play's five acts.

"THE HOUSE OF GLASS" NEARLY FINISHED.

Clara Kimball Young declares that never before in her screen career has she led such a breathless and tempestuous existence as in the role of Margaret Case, which she plays in "The House of Glass," the famous Broadway success which she is picturizing for Select Pictures.

"The House of Glass' is all but finished. In it Miss Young is supported by an able cast, including her father, Edward Kimball; her leading man, Corliss Giles; Pell Trenton, Norman Selby (Kid McCoy), James T. Laffey, Josie Sadler, William Waltman, Peggy Burke and Doris Field.

"Beauty and the Rogue" Leads Mutual

George Periolat Supports Mary Miles Minter—Billie Rhodes in "Somebody's Widow."

IN Mary Miles Minter's next American-Mutual production, titled "Beauty and the Rogue," which will be released on the Mutual schedule Jan. 28, this delightful little star will be seen in a role quite different from any character she has yet portrayed. As "Bobbie Lee," the unsophisticated daughter of a wealthy and doting father, she is interested in the work of an "uplift" society, and is imposed upon by an ex-burglar who works on her sympathies and promises to "go straight."

Demure little Mary Miles doing a tip-toe dance, a la ballerina, and doing it with all the grace of a Pavlowa, promises a charmingly diverting episode. There is a surprise in store for the Minter enthusiasts, for few know that it was a toss-up with Mary Miles when she began her stage career between the terpsichorean and the dramatic art. George Periolat, who plays the father, will have his first opportunity for aeons to wear real human clothes, as heretofore he has been garbed as decrepit misers, crazy sea captains, bibulous beachcombers and old-man roles, until the public has almost forgotten what he looks like.

Alan Forrest plays opposite Miss Minter, while Spottiswood Aitken has an eccentric bit which he handles in his inimitable way. Orral Humphrey is "Slippery," the blubbering burglar who pilfers the jewels and shatters "Bobbie's" illusions of the "uplift." Clarence Burton and Lucille Ward complete an exceptional cast.

The Strand Comedy, released Jan. 29, stars Billie Rhodes in a peppery farce, titled "Somebody's Widow." Billie poses as the inconsolable young widow of a victim of the sea, in order to capivate a bumptious young scenario writer who is immune to feminine charms. She is on the point of succeeding and winning a bet she made with her chums when the secretary of the scenarioist learns of her scheme, makes up as her sailor-husband returned from the sea and exposes the bogus widow.

The "Mutual Weekly," the interesting and timely topical news-reel, which is a pictorial exploitation of the most significant events of the week, is released on January 28. An interesting subject was titled "Traitors at Home." Starting with a scene in a restaurant it showed a man who will not observe "meatless day," followed by scenes of beef cattle on the range which will be used to feed American soldiers, and the handling of beef at the army camps. The lesson is obvious and convincing.

KERRIGAN'S SECOND PICTURE.

J. Warren Kerrigan, whose first Paralta Play, "A Man's Man," received the unstinted praise of all who have seen it, will be seen in the near future in his second Paralta Play, "The Turn of a Card," from the pen of Frederick Chapin, which will be released by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation the first of February. The story, which has been adapted for the screen by Thomas J. Geraghty, concerns the adventures of "Jimmy Montgomery Farrell," a young college man who goes West to look for some oil fields and becomes involved in a series of enjoyable complications which threaten his destruction, but which are surmounted by most unusual twists which add a delightful charm to the story.

Mr. Kerrigan is most enthusiastic over the part, and claims that it fits his capabilities equally as well as did "A Man's Man." And the story is of the type that has won for Mr. Kerrigan his greatest laurels.

The production is a romantic comedy drama, and Mr. Kerrigan's leading woman, Miss Lois Wilson, in the role of "Cynthia Burdette" is most happily cast. The remainder of the supporting cast consists of Eugene Pallette, "Tiny" Morgan, David M. Hartford, Roy Laidlaw, Eleanor Crowe, Wallace Worsley, Clifford Alexander, Ida Lewis, Albert Cody, and Janice Vincent.

The production was made under the direction of Oscar Apfel and photographed by L. Guy Wilkey, both of whom assisted in the making of Mr. Kerrigan's former Paralta Play.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG BUYS TAXICAB.

Pedestrians along upper Broadway were treated to a unique sight recently, when Clara Kimball Young and her director, Emile Chautard, and members of her Select company worked on a couple of difficult scenes for the film version of "The House of Glass," Max Marcin's famous play which the star is now screening for Select Pictures.

The action of the play called for a couple of bits taken inside a taxicab. While these are incidental, they bear largely on the subsequent trend of the plot, and it was necessary that the proper lighting be obtained. Director Chautard, who is satisfied with nothing less than the best, was hard to please, and after several futile attempts to gain, in a rented taxi, the effects he desired he called a halt and entered into negotiations for its purchase.

With the sale consummated, he proceeded to rip the machine to pieces. Under his direction half of the top was cut away and the taxi mounted on a truck. Miss Young and Pell Trenton, who plays the role of Burke, were installed in the cab and the truck with cameraman proceeded out into Broadway for the local color of a street scene. The new arrangement worked perfectly and the scenes were shot with no further delay.

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 7.

You have read that the Zeppelins, upon which the Germans relied for so much at the beginning of the war, are a failure. In the Animated Weekly No. 7 you will see the concrete evidence of just how much of a failure they really are.

Five great Zeppelins, worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, raided London, bombing schoolhouses and ammunition plants alike, as is the Teuton custom. They were able to escape safely from the pursuing British aeroplanes, but on their way back to Germany over France, they encountered an angry swarm of war-hornets, called into action by wireless from London. In a short half hour the dead and crippled babies of London had been avenged by the French airmen. Four of the five Zeppelins were brought down, three of them in flames and one almost undamaged.

Universal Animated Weekly No. 7 shows two of the monsters on the ground, one of them a mere skeleton, the other complete in practically very detail. They are the most exceptional pictures of the great dirigibles ever shown.

Pictures just released by the Censor show the American delegates to the great war council of the Allies in Paris. Fourteen nations, all fighting Germany, were represented at the conference, designed to bring about a greater degree of unity among the Allies.

Col E. M. House, President Wilson's confidential adviser and chairman of the American War Mission, was caught by the Universal cameraman, as also was General Pershing, conferring with Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, member of the American Mission and chief of the United States Army general staff. The delegates from Japan, Premier David Lloyd George of Great Britain, Premier Clemenceau of France, and General Currie, commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces in France, are also shown on the screen.

Other features of Universal Animated Weekly No. 7 include interesting pictures of the construction of wooden ships at Houston, Texas, giving some idea of what Unce Sam is doing to beat the submarine pirates; the New Jersey State championship races for ice boats on the Shrewsbury River, a series of thrilling pictures; a British "tank," which had seen service in the Cambrai battle, doing duty as a bank in London, accepting the surrender of dollars for the British war loan; the beautiful Rose Festival at Pasadena, Cal., during which four persons were overcome by the heat; snow scenes in Chicago during the great blizzard, the biggest in Chicago's history, and many of Uncle Sam's army and navy boys in the City-to-Ocean race at San Francisco.

TAYLOR HOLMES IN "A PAIR OF SIXES."

George K. Spoor announces the cast on "A Pair of Sixes," a Taylor Holmes production, now in the making. The entire country was scoured to get the players most suitable for their parts in support of Mr. Holmes, who will play the part of T. Boggs Johns, the pill manufacturer, and later butler in the home of George Nettleton, his business partner, as a result of a game of cards. Nettleton is to be interpreted by Robert Conness, the well known stage star, and who has already made a name for himself in the movies.

During his stage career Mr. Conness appeared as leading man with Blanche Walsh, Mary Mannering, Francis Wilson and others. Mr. Spoor also has secured the services of Maude Eburne, who created the role of "Coddles" in the stage presentation of Edward Peple's farce comedy. Charles E. Ashley, who created the role of Krome in the original stage production, will play that part.

Alice Mann, a screen actress of considerable note, who has played leads with many noted comedians, will appear as Florence Cole. Cecil Owens, who will play Vanderholt, is now appearing in Chicago with Jane Cowl in "Lilac Time." Edna Phillips Holmes takes the part of Mrs. Nettleton. Others in the cast are John Cossar as Mr. Applegate; Byron Aldenn as Tony Taylor; Virginia Bowker as Sallie Parker, and Tommy Carey as Jimmie, the office boy.

Assembling of Mr. Holmes' newly completed Spoor feature, "Ruggles of Red Gap," is about completed. Mr. Holmes is even more enthusiastic over this picture than "Uneasy Money," which is now showing throughout the country.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE AFTER FRESH LAURELS.

Constance Talmadge, who dealt herself a handful of aces when she signed up to appear in Cosmo Hamilton's great story, "Scandal," as her first Select picture, evidently has no intention of crab-walking. Neither backward nor sideways progress is tempting to this young comedienne.

"Scandal" was followed by "The Honeymoon"—also a big success. "The Studio Girl" is just about to be sprung on a laughter-loving public, and, in the meantime, out in California, Miss Talmadge is making swift work of the comedy plus drama mixture so excellently combined in Frances Hodgson Burnett's novel of international romance, "The Shuttle." This production, under the direction of Rollin Sturgeon, is two-thirds finished at the studio in Hollywood.

The two following subjects are to be "Up the Road with Polly," a picturization of the novel by Frances Sterrett, and "Good Night Paul," a screen version of the musical comedy in which Ralph Herz is starring on the road this season.

A. L. Smith's New Alaska Feature

The Producer of "Alaska Wonders in Motion" Has Another Promising Alaska Production with Lottie Kruse in Leading Role.

A. I. SMITH, manager of Smith Films, is in Chicago at the Rothacker laboratory-studio, putting the finishing touches on the continuity and general assembling of his new Alaska feature which will soon be presented to the public. Mr. Smith will be remembered as the man who produced the picture entitled "Alaska Wonders in Motion" which made such a big hit when released by the Educational Films Corporation of New York City.

Mr. Smith promises much for his new production, which is a photoplay of unusual scenic value and general interest, inasmuch as it not only features the natural beauties of Alaska scenery, but gives the public a glance at the real character known as the "Sourdough."

On May 1, 1917, Miss Lottie Kruse, formerly of the Fine Arts Company, was selected by Mr. Smith to appear in the feature role and Henry Bolton, formerly of the Balboa Company, was chosen as the masculine lead. After securing some of the scenes in and around Pasadena, California, the party left for Seattle, from which point they took passage aboard the Steamship Alaska bound for Anchorage. While en route many scenes were staged aboard the ship.

The company made its first stop at Cordova, where they went up the Copper River to Miles and Chiles Glaciers, the largest glaciers in the world, both of which were featured in Rex Beach's novel, "The Iron Trail." Eight days were spent in this scenic wilderness and many wonderful views of Chiles Glacier were obtained, showing the ice continually falling its full height, over four hundred feet, into the Copper River. It was here that Miss Kruse made her famous dip into the icy water and narrowly avoided a serious accident, for the boat, from which she capsized, a few minutes later was utterly demolished by tons of falling ice.

One of the features of the new Smith picture is a real northern dance hall scene in which an exciting fight was staged between Mr. Bolton and the notorious Young Viking. Three hundred and fifty true northern characters were selected to appear in this scene, many of them old-time gamblers and famous gun men who crossed the Chilcoot Pass during the gold rush in '98.

This new feature is in six reels and as soon as the finishing touches on the sample print have been made by Mr. Smith, who is now at the Rothacker laboratory, Chicago, for that purpose, it is to be brought on to New York for a special trade showing that will be given previous to offering to the feature buyers.

Miss Lottie Kruse formerly appeared in such productions as "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "The Half Breed," "The Planter" and other pictures of big calibre, but it is said that in this Alaska picture she has accomplished her best work. She is given worthy support by the cast.

ALLIED WAR CONFERENCE IN GAUMONT-MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Important news pictures from Europe make up a very interesting half of No. 4 of the Gaumont-Mutual weekly, which is released on Sunday, Jan. 20. Photographs are shown of the new French Cabinet, headed by M. Georges Clemenceau, premier and minister of war, and of the Allied war conference, composed of special ambassadors of the Allies, which met in Paris to establish a better unity of control in the conduct of the war.

The recent Prussian success in Italy was made possible because the Huns were able to withdraw from the frontier of demoralized Russia an immense army and hurl it against a lesser Italian force with an insufficient supply of guns and ammunition, but this success was checked as soon as the Allies awoke to the gravity of the situation and rush additional supplies to the Italian front. All kinds of trucks were requisitioned to convey these supplies overland, and some of the most interesting pictures in this issue of the Gaumont-Mutual weekly show a train of ammunition-laden autos crossing the Franco-Italian border. Others show trains loaded with big guns and shells leaving Brescia, in northern Italy, for the fighting line along the Piave.

Another foreign picture shows the King and Queen of Spain attending the opening of the racing season in Madrid.

Of the many pictures taken in the United States for this issue of the Gaumont-Mutual weekly, the most timely and entertaining are the several scenes which illustrate the record-breaking blizzard which tied up all traffic and paralyzed business for a week or more throughout a large portion of this country.

MISS BARA WORKING ON HER OWN STORY.

Miss Theda Bara is filming a vampire story which was written by herself. This is the first attempt the Fox star has made at writing a scenario.

The story, as constructed by Miss Bara, runs the gamut of vampire portrayals and emotions. The scenes include that of the far-away mysterious island of Java and the gay life of Paris, where the heroine of Miss Bara's story meets a tragic death.

"Stars to Sell Stars"

Select Adopts a Slogan for Sales Force—Organization of Specialists Now Completed.

SELECT Pictures Corporation has adopted the slogan, "Stars to Sell Stars," as applied to its sales organization. This phrase, which sums up the progressive policy followed in building up its distribution machinery, is the choice of General Manager Arthur S. Kane.

Recognizing the fact that in the motion picture industry conditions of sale and the product sold have vastly changed, Select has within the last three and a half months built up a sales organization carefully calculated to be best suited to the conditions which today surround the sale of high-grade pictures. The guiding thought in the rounding out of this organization has been that the proper handling of a quality product calls for a quality salesman. Paralleling this idea has been the determination to make Select's representatives in every territory of the United States a commanding figure in their respective fields. The organization now is complete.

"The one best man in each particular territory—that has been our aim," says General Manager Kane. "It would make no difference if the man who covered Cleveland, for instance, could not sell cheeses in Atlanta. The point is, is he the very best man to sell Select pictures in Cleveland, bar none?

"Naturally the relationship between the branch manager and the home office has also undergone a change. It is the policy of Select to give the territorial head (whether he be called branch manager, district manager, or any other title) the utmost freedom of action compatible with a responsible organization, and to hold him to account for results. Having secured men who are territorial specialists, Select proposes to avail itself to the fullest extent of their highly cultivated knowledge of the field under their command."

TEN PARALTAS READY.

W. W. Hodkinson this week announced that ten Paralta Plays featuring the three stars, Kerrigan, Barriscale and Walthall, are now practically ready for distribution. This is stated as assurance to the exhibitor of one of the important claims which Mr. Hodkinson has been making; that is, a continuous product of assured quality. It is pointed out that these plays, prepared so long ahead as they have been, allow the Paralta Company to live up to the high standard of quality which they have set. It is also pointed out that this is a very solid guarantee of the solidity of Hodkinson plans and distribution.

The ten plays which are now ready are the following: "A Man's Man," with J. Warren Kerrigan (issued); "Madam Who?" with Bessie Barriscale; "His Robe of Honor," with Henry B. Walthall (issued); "The Turn of a Card," with J. Warren Kerrigan; "Humdrum Brown," with Henry B. Walthall; "With Hoops of Steels," with Henry B. Walthall; "Rose o' Paradise," "Within the Cup," "Blindfolded" and "Patriotism," with Bessie Barriscale.

EDNA GOODRICH DESIGNS MILITARY GOWN.

Miss Edna Goodrich launched a new fashion when she had her New York costumer construct for the studio scene in her new Mutual productions, "Who Loved Him Best?", a very straight-lined military costume, with high-standing collar, braided front and tight skirt and sleeves.

Miss Goodrich's superb figure is displayed to the fullest advantage as she stands on an elevated platform posing for the sculptor hero of the drama, as "American Militant," sword in hand, in a sort of Joan of Arc role.

This costume was made from a design furnished by the star herself, and its popular lines were at once recognized by the model-makers as likely to catch the fancy of America's patriotic women. Already there is a wide demand for the new model, which is being filled largely in New York at present.

Miss Goodrich is already famed as the designer of her own hats and gowns. For instance, the stunning hat she wears in the art exhibition episode of "Who Loves Him Best?" is a Goodrich design, as have been many others of the attractive millinery creations worn by the actress in her recent Mutual productions.

JEWEL INSTALLS NEW SALES SYSTEM.

Jewel Productions, Inc., working to obtain the maximum efficiency in their sales department, has reshaped its policy of distribution to meet the requirements of war-time conditions. All local exchanges are put under the jurisdiction of a zone sales office, in which is installed a zone sales manager, who attends to the larger accounts and has direct supervision over the salesmen in that territory. The sales manager will work independently of the exchange manager and will confine himself strictly to getting business and running down complaints in his zone.

All sales managers will be under control of the sales manager of the home office and will make their recommendations direct to him. In this way Jewel feels that its sales department will develop greater efficiency through the spurring activities of the zone managers who are directly responsible to the home office.

Another feature of the plan is the elimination of inconsequential detail which hitherto has been decided by the home office, but will now be weeded out in its respective zone.

Doings at Triangle Studios

Many Directors Making Many Plays—Evidences of Much Speeding Up.

TWO new subjects have been started within the past week, one picture, "The Shoes That Danced," has been completed, four other companies are in various stages of production on their latest Triangle features, and two directors, Jack Conway and Walter Edwards, are waiting for stories. Both expect to have companies at work on new stories within another week.

Triangle Director Cliff Smith lost no time after the completion of "Keith of the Border," in which the cowboy star, Roy Stewart, was featured. He began work immediately on an exceptional Western subject, the working title of which is "Faith Endurin'." An unusually strong cast is supporting Stewart in this picture.

Fritzie Ridgeway, who has just completed a Triangle feature, "Real Folks," in which she was allowed to wear lace and frills, will again be seen as Stewart's leading woman. Others in the cast include W. A. Jeffries, Joe Bennett, Ed. Brady, Walter Perkins, and a half score of cowboys. The picture is being made at the Triangle ranch studio, Hartville.

After a vacation of several weeks, Jack Dillon, who has directed Olive Thomas in most of her Triangle features, is again at work on a five-reel comedy-drama. Working with Dillon are Jack Gilbert, well-known juvenile, who is back with Triangle; Myrtle Lind, one of the famous Triangle-Keystone beauties; Myrtle Rishell, a new comer at the Culver City studios, who plays the society matron; Gene Burr, George Pearce, Anna Dodge, Percy Challenger, and J. P. Wilde. The working title of Dillon's new story is "Betty Comes Home," and in it a young school girl does just what the title implies and a lot more.

After spending a week on the New York street set at the Triangle studios filming scenes in Gotham's East Side, Director Frank Borzage finished his latest Triangle feature, "The Shoes That Danced," with a day's work in one of the most fashionable of Los Angeles' department stores. This picture is the screen adaptation of John Moroso's magazine story by the same name. Borzage is planning a short vacation at Salt Lake City, Utah, where he will visit his parents before starting his next Triangle feature.

The Triangle feature company, which, under the direction of Raymond Wells, is working on Frederic Bechdolt's Saturday Evening Post story, "The Hard Rock Breed," has returned from the stone quarries near Colton, California, where the location work was done for the picture, and is now working at the Culver City studios on the interiors. The trip was replete with thrills, according to Assistant Director McLaughlin. Included in the cast of "The Hard Rock Breed" are Margery Wilson, Jack Livingston, J. Barney Sherry, Jack Curtis, Lee Phelps, Curley Baldwin, Aaron Edwards, "Bull" Durham, and Marion Skinner.

Triangle Director Thomas Heffron and a company including Bill Desmond, Jack Richardson, Mary Warren, John Lynce, Lillian Langdon, and others have been spending the week at San Pedro harbor, where they have been working on the Triangle three masted barkentine, Fremont, on a story of the Carribean Sea in which Bill Desmond is a swashbuckling pirate.

Director E. Mason Hopper is nearing completion on a big Triangle feature, the working title of which is "The Answer," written by one of the Triangle staff artists. Included in the cast are Alma Rubens, Claire Anderson, Joe King, Francis McDonald, Jean Hersholt, Wilbur Higbee, and Betty Pearce.

Director Gilbert P. Hamilton is making rapid strides on his latest picture "A Soul In Trust," in which Belle Bennett is playing the featured part, supported by J. Barney Sherry, Darrell Foss, Lee Hill, Lillian West, Grover Franke and others. Some elaborate costumes will be seen when this feature of life in the South and in Washington, D. C., is released.

H. O. Davis, vice-president and general manager of the Triangle Film Corporation, is back at the helm at the Culver City studios after a business trip to New York, and the feature companies are working overtime in a drive to gain on the exceptional production schedule set by Mr. Davis for 1918.

NEXT PARAMOUNT-SENNETT JANUARY 27TH.

The next Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy entitled "His Hidden Purpose" will be released January 27. This comedy, it is announced, is a regular Laura Jean Libby melodrama turned into a merridrama disclosing the persecuted heroine, the hampered hero, the vile villain, and the scheming father. With his customary magic touch, Mack Sennett, the comedy king, has managed to transform every little sob spot to a smile spot, and the whole is said to be a joyous riot of laughter from start to finish. Marie Prevost plays "The Girl"; Chester Conklin, "The Villain"; Gene Rogers, "The Father"; Neal Burns, "The Sweetheart," and Frank Cooper, "The Boarding House Keeper."

RELEASE DATE OF "THE LIGHT WITHIN" FEB. 1.

Immediately following the announcement that the title, "The Light Within," has been chosen for the second production in which Madam Olga Petrova will appear, the release date for this feature has been set as Friday, February 1, through the exchanges of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

The premier of the second production starring Madam Olga Petrova under the banner of her own organization will take place at either The Rialto or The Rivoli. S. L. Rothapfel is holding his schedule open to accommodate the presentation of the picture for its first New York appearance.

HOTALING'S 700TH COMEDY.

Arthur D. Hotaling has just completed his 700th comedy, "The Soup and Fish Ball." And this means 700 comedies without one written line of script. Mr. Hotaling is one of the pioneers of the comedy-producing field and his long-applied knowledge of what makes screen patrons laugh is evident in the popularity of his Essanay productions. "The Soup and Fish Ball," released January 26, deals with the amusing and exciting results of an enmity between two "hod-carrying" gentlemen, a clash that is brought to a thrilling climax during a grand ball.

General Film reports continued and growing popularity for Essanay's one-reel comedies, as well as the one-a-week scenics. The release for January 26 on the scenic program is "A Romance of Rails and Power," a story built around the electrification of railroads and starring Virginia Valli.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN STORY FOR ALICE BRADY.

Alice Brady, whose latest Select production, "The Knife," has been based on the play of the same name by Eugene Walter, is to go far afield in her next Select picture. From this purely American story to the next Alice Brady production is a long step indeed. In her fourth Select picture Miss Brady will return to a field which she has formerly occupied most successfully, that of Russian romance.

Scenes abounding in heavy snows and hard frozen stretches of country will be embodied in the picture, which will again be under the direction of Robert G. Vignola. "Ruthless Russia" is being considered as a title for the new production.

In the meantime, Miss Brady's second Select picture, "Woman and Wife," a film version of Charlotte Bronte's "Jane Eyre," is finding its way into all the high-grade picture houses in different sections of the country.

THE DREWS IN A FIVE-ACT "THRILLER."

The Drew five-act production, which will undoubtedly attract attention from Maine to California, is the Drew's screen version of "Payday," a meodrama by Lottie M. Meany and Della Bailey that was played on Broadway not long ago, with Irene Fenwick in the leading role. In the Metro "thriller" that has been made from this production, Mrs. Drew will play a "poor working girl," and Mr. Drew will be seen as a vitally bad man. The screen version of "Payday" teems with surprises, and is bound to be of the most absorbing interest to every Drew "fan" throughout the country. Mr. and Mrs. Drew absolutely refuse to divulge many details of this five-act production, but admit that it contains at least one murder. They will not, however, tell who commits the murder. "You may quote me as saying," says Mrs. Drew, "that there is some exciting gunplay."

IVY DEIBEL WORKS WITH JUNE CAPRICE.

Miss Ivy Deibel, the ninteen-year-old Cleveland girl who won the distinction of having the best "camera face" out of a field of 1,300 contestants, was cast last week by William Fox for a part in June Caprice's forthcoming special feature, "The Heart of Romance." Harry Millarde is directing this subject.

Miss Deibel worked several days during the week with the Caprice company and is said to screen exceptionally well. She appears prominently with the Fox players in the beautiful little party scene in "The Heart of Romance," which practically opens the picture. Miss Deibel will be seen in several hundred feet of film in the production. Miss Deibel will probably be assigned to another company within a few days.

103D RELEASE OF PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPH.

For the 103d release of Paramount-Bray Pictograph, Leighton Budd, of the Bray studios, noted as a political cartoonist, contributes an animated cartoon, "Putting 'Fritz' on the Water Wagon," which is based on President Wilson's recent statement that the United States is making war not on the German peope, but on Kaiserism and the military autocracy of Germany. It depicts the personification of Germany on a rampage, after imbibing "Militarism," "Kultur," "Deutschland Uber Alles," and other concoctions at Kaiser Bill's gaudy saloon. "Fritz" staggers across Miss Belgium, whom he attacks and makes off with, and he is mixed up in an awful row with his neighbors when Uncle Same comes along on a water wagon and covers up the belligerent inebriate.

"TROUBLEMAKERS" SHATTERS RECORDS IN PHILADELPHIA.

"Troublemakers," the Fox comedy-drama with Jane and Katherine Lee as stars, established a record for big business for a week's run at Philadelphia's Palace during the week of Jan. 7-12. Seven performances every day were given, and at five of these the S. R. O. sign was needed.

The little stars made their personal appearance at the Palace each day at three performances and received ovations each time. They were big drawing cards in themselves, as was attested by the crowd remaining to meet them after each performance. Jane and Katherine sang and danced for the spectators and were invariably encored.

Picture Theaters Projected

POCAHONTAS, ARK.—Harry Sparkman has purchased Gem theater from G. E. Gamel.

ALAMEDA, CAL.—New Hamblen theater on Park street, near Encinal avenue, is nearing completion.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.—N. O. Anderson plans to erect large theater building at Los Angeles Harbor, with seating capacity for 1,000 people.

SAN ANSELMO, CAL.—D. D. Baxter has disposed of his moving picture business to George Campbell of San Francisco.

SAN PEDRO, CAL.—Theater with seating capacity for 1,000 persons will be erected on Sixth street. Lessees are Ray Pierson and F. O. Adler.

ST. HELENA, CAL.—E. C. Wilson has purchased Liberty theater from L. H. Killingsworth. Mr. Wilson, in partnership with J. A. Enos, also took over Lincoln theater.

BRISTOL, CONN.—Bristol theater is in course of construction on N. Main street.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Rialto theater, which is being erected at Ninth and G streets, is only the first of a string of six theaters to be constructed here at cost of $1,200,000 by Tom Moore.

PENSACOLA, FLA.—Company organized by Joe M., Sidney P. and Sol A. Levy, and others, will erect theater to be known as the Strand.

ATLANTA, GA.—Approximately $30,000 will be expended by Forrest and George Adair in remodeling the Arcade theater.

ATLANTA, GA.—Government has let contract to Arthur Tufts, Candler annex, to erect theater at Camp Gordon, 120 by 167 feet, including stage; light mill construction, concrete piers, composite fireproof roof, matched pine floors over subfloor; thirteen direct radiating furnaces, electric lights, etc.

BEECHER CITY, ILL.—Moving picture theater has been opened in Clark-Struve hall. Pictures will be shown every Thursday evening.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Walter W. Ahischlager will erect a theater at 4624-42 Sheridan road, with seating capacity for 3,000 people.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Amalgamated Theater Corporation, 6 S. Wabash avenue, have plans by C. W. and George L. Rapp, 69 W. Washington street, for a five-story theatre, store and hotel building, to cost $750,000.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Longacre Construction Company has contract for Phoenix theater, at State and Lake streets, to be erected for Martin Beck. Same contractors are now at work on Woods' theater, at Dearborn and Randolph streets.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Longacre Construction Co., 36 W. Randolph street, have the contract to erect a sixteen-story theater, store and office building, 180 by 163 feet, for the Estate of Charles Kohl, 22 W. Monroe street, to cost $1,000,000.

GALESBURG, ILL.—Orpheum theater has abandoned vaudeville for the period of the war. Program of high-class moving picture productions has been inaugurated.

GALESBURG, ILL.—Frank Theilen of Aurora has purchased the Colonial theater and appointed Harry Lewis manager.

HERRIN, ILL.—New Hippodrome theater has opened under management of John Marlow.

HIGHLAND, ILL.—Walter Kilmer and William Walsh have established a moving picture theater in Verona hall.

JACKSONVILLE, ILL.—Princess theater has reopened under management of Carl Lowenstein.

OTTAWA, ILL.—Frank Theilen of Aurora has transferred the lease on the Gayety theater here to J. D. McKeen of Morris, Ill.

ROCKFORD, ILL.—Miday theater now under construction at East State street has been leased by Acher Brothers.

HEBRON, IND.—G. Weggen is converting a garage into a moving picture theater.

MUNCIE, IND.—Wysor Grand theater has been remodeled and will open under the management of George S. Challis.

PATRIOT, IND.—Old church edifice has been converted into an attractive moving picture theater by H. J. Harris.

PORTLAND, IND.—W. H. Ludy has disposed of his interest in the Theatorium moving picture house to F. C. and Charlton Templin.

RENSSELAER, IND.—Robertson & Viant are the new proprietors of the Princess theater.

CHARITON, IA.—New Lincoln theater has opened.

DEEP RIVER, IA.—T. H. Connell and D. F. Doty have taken over management of Lyric theater.

DUBUQUE, IA.—John L. Little of Dyersville has taken over interest of J. R. Kaltenbach in Star theater. William Warren has been engaged as manager.

ELDORA, IA.—Max Tschauder of Marshalltown has purchased Grand theater from Hortense Porter.

ELKADER, IA.—J. L. Flanagan has sold Majestic theater to E. E. Beers.

GERMANIA, IA.—J. H. Pink has disposed of his moving picture business to J. E. Smith.

IONIA, IA.—C. N. Morton has sold Star theater to Peter Herzog.

MILO, IA.—F. A. Pahre has purchased Star theater from J. G. Tharp.

MORAVIA, IA.—Crystal theater has been leased by J. E. Benton.

POCAHONTAS, IA.—Frank Stegge has leased Princess theater to Lonil Hronek.

STORM LAKE, IA.—Martin J. Powell and Edward Roberts have consolidated their interests in the Empress and Princess theaters.

WATERLOO, IA.—Cotton theater has opened under management of W. W. Gallup.

WAVERLY, IA.—H. G. Nicholas has disposed of his opera house to George Moulds.

COFFEYVILLE, KAN.—Vaudeville and moving picture theater is being erected for Tackett Brothers.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—B. F. Keith theater interests have purchased Strand theater. I. Libson will be manager.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Prytania theater has been opened by Jacobs & Laudry.

PORTLAND, ME.—Extensive improvements costing $100,000 are being made to the Strand theater at 565 Congress street. House will reopen under management of W. E. Reeves.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Extensive improvements are to be made to the Monumental theater.

CAMP MEADE, MD.—Claiborne & Johnson Co., Inc., Garrett building, Baltimore, have the contract to erect a $50,000 theatre for L. F. Allardt, 22 Monroe street, Chicago.

BOSTON, MASS.—Plans are being prepared by Funk & Wilcox, 120 Boylston street, for a theater and office building, to be erected at 1410 Massachusetts avenue, for the Harvard Square Theater & Realty Trust.

FARIBAULT, MINN.—American Amusement Company has taken over the Empress theater, formerly conducted by Louis Hollman. New manager is Will J. Glaser.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Heilbron & Weiskopf, 155 E. Ninth street, have plans by George A. Blewett, 642 Endicott building, for a one-story moving picture theater.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Earl H. Miller plans to open a moving picture theater at 917 Grand avenue, near Milton street.

FREDERICKTOWN, MO.—Gem theater has moved into its new quarters in building formerly occupied by the Grand.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—Theater to be known as the Doris is being erected at 908 Walnut street by George W. Curtiss. It will have seating capacity for 976 people and cost $50,000.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Liberty Realty Company has plans by Norman B. Howard, 943 Century building, for a three-story brick, concrete and steel theater, hotel and store building at 18th and Market streets, to cost $1,700,000.

GOTHENBURG, NEB.—Sun theater will open soon.

OMAHA, NEB.—Vaudeville and moving picture theater to cost $400,000 is in course of construction for A. H. Blank.

MORRISTOWN, N. J.—Lyon's Theater Company has been incorporated.

HURLEY, NEW MEXICO.—New moving picture theater, with seating capacity for 600 people, has opened under the management of James A. Shipley.

GOUVENEUR, N. Y.—Zina Taggart of Rensselaer Falls has sold the Wonderland theater here to W. E. Murphy of Ogdensburgh.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Colonial Theater Company will expend $3,000 in remodeling moving picture theater at 197 E. Main street.

MINOT, N. D.—Management of Lyric theater has been taken over by Nick Greenway. High-class pictures will be shown.

AKRON, O.—Hippodrome Arcade Company will erect a theater at 182 S. Main street, with seating capacity for 3,100 people.

CLEVELAND, O.—Hartley T. Palmer, formerly manager of the Utopia theater at Painesville, has leased the Milo theater at Miles avenue.

COLUMBUS, O.—Carl & Cook, 150 Kenworth road, have the contract to remodel the Broadway theater.

DAYTON, O.—L. Rauh Estate, 300 Rauh building, have plans by Pretzinger Musselman, 1155 Reibold building, to rebuild theater damaged by fire.

FINDLAY, O.—Majestic theater has been purchased by Community Theaters Corporation of Chicago. It will be conducted under the management of S. J. Stoughton of Chicago.

MARION, O.—R. T. Lewis has plans by Thies & Thies, 67 Davies building, Dayton, O., for a one-story auditorium, 62 by 90 feet, to cost $20,000.

PIQUA, O.—Strand theater has been leased by H. W. Kress from Frederick Adams.

YORKVILLE, O.—Frank Fawcett, Bridgeport, O., has the contract to erect a one-story moving picture theater and store building, 30 by 84 feet, for Louis Bourg, Hackett, Pa., to cost $5,000.

ADA, OKLA.—De Sota theater, conducted under management of J. T. Painter, has been taken over by James Miller.

BEAVER, OKLA.—Dave Anderhub has purchased Minso theater from Ernst Pinkston.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Founded by J.P.Chalmers in 1907
Everything the Moving Picture Man Wants to Know About His Business
Chalmers Publishing Company 516 Fifth Ave. New York

THE BLUE BOOK OF THE MOVING PICTURE INDUSTRY

Write and ask us why—
If you don't believe it—
Or, better still—
Don't take our word for it—

Just ask any person who has been actively engaged in the moving picture industry for a year, or even six months.

You'll find it a well established fact that to do business with the MOVING PICTURE WORLD goes a long way toward establishing you as a figure of commanding importance in your field.

Every person commercially interested in moving pictures reads it.

Its advertisers are the most trustworthy and dependable purveyors to the trade.

Its best friends are the foremost manufacturers, distributors and exhibitors in the business—

For none but the best type of individuals in the industry can be friendly with the MOVING PICTURE WORLD'S staunch and unswerving policy of square, honest dealing in every department of the business as a means to its surest and most permanent advancement.

REGISTER IN "THE BLUE BOOK OF THE MOVING PICTURE INDUSTRY" BY IDENTIFYING YOURSELF WITH THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

Send us your subscription today and read carefully each issue published.

Use our advertising columns for your trade announcements.

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

New England Theaters Are Closing Early

Things Are Coming Along Not So Bad as Some Had Feared—League Is in Perfect Sympathy With the Government—Some Complaints.

By Richard Davis Howe, 80 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

BOSTON, MASS.—New England Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow was pleased at the way the moving picture theaters of Massachusetts took hold of the situation and carried out his orders calling for a 10 o'clock closing of all picture houses, to the letter. Practically the only exhibitors to suffer any noticeable loss in patronage were the Boston picture men, as moving picture houses in other parts of the Bay State, especially in the smaller towns and cities, have always maintained a policy of early closing. The local houses, however, proved their "metal" and closed up their doors tight when the clock struck 10.

It was generally agreed that the first effect of the early closing orders was to hit this city hard. The managers claimed that their receipts dropped as much as 50 per cent., yet there did not seem to be any general discontent. Patronage of the places usually open at night seemed on the whole considerably smaller than usual under normal conditions. It was pointed out that Monday is a sort of a "stay-at-home night" anyway, even so far as the theaters are concerned.

Practically all of the theaters, both moving picture and legitimate houses, were emptied either before or at 10 o'clock. A few legitimate houses were unable to close their shows until 10.15 or a few minutes after. The theater people said without exception that the new orders still has a bad effect on box-office receipts and that they anticipated such a result until the general public becomes accustomed to the new order of things.

The legitimate theaters of Boston presented a mighty protest to Fuel Administrator Storrow and the coal dictator for New England allowed them a hearing. He pointed out that the Metropolitan Sewerage and Water system had but four days' supply of coal on hand and that if relief did not come soon the result would be serious. He also stated that some of the large factories working on war orders, including the huge Ayer Mills, making blankets for the troops, would be compelled to shut down their plants unless coal was rushed to them immediately. In view of the critical conditions to the complete success of the great war, the theatrical interests quickly volunteered to do their share.

League Accepts the Situation.

Members of the Massachusetts Branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America met at a special meeting at the local headquarters on Pleasant street, and after a thorough discussion of the drastic orders, it was agreed that the matter required no action on the part of the league. The sentiment of the several delegates was unanimous that the moving picture exhibitors accede to the terms of the order.

Harry I. Wasserman, manager of the Eagle theater, Roxbury, and an active member of the league, after the meeting said: "We felt that the sacrifice demanded of us is infinitely small in comparison with those being made by the boys at the front. All the men at the meeting were in favor of closing at 10 p. m."

None of the big downtown motion picture men attended this meeting. In some cases their sentiments were in favor of sticking with the legitimate theaters in voicing a protest against the sweeping mandate.

Claim That No Coal Is Saved.

Manager Thomas D. Soreiro of the Park theater, stated: "Theaters are not considered luxuries to-day. They are necessities. The moving picture houses depend mainly upon their evening business. Closing us up at 10 o'clock will bring no saving in fuel. We shut down our heating plant at 8.30 every evening. The warmth from the bodies of 1,000 or more persons develops sufficient warmth even on cold nights after they have been in the theater for a while.

"The theaters have been the refuge of thousands of people whose homes are coalless during the shortage. Closing them earlier means driving those people into the cold so much earlier.

"The light-saving is negligible. Movie houses are in darkness most of the time. We have curtailed our light one-third lately."

Few if any of the Massachusetts movie theaters started their shows any earlier in the day because of the earlier closing. Many of the managers made slight changes in the arrangements of their program, slashing out a comedy or news reel in the morning show, which gave them practically the same program throughout the day.

Some film men believe that the new orders will result beneficially for the picture houses, because it is expected many patrons of legitimate houses will hereafter patronize "movies" more often.

"Al" Lewis Goes to Camp Devens.

Boston, Mass.—"Al" Lewis, well known New England film salesman and former manager of the "Enlighten Thy Daughter" company, playing the picture on a percentage basis, has been drafted for Uncle Sam's National Army, having gone to Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., this week.

Mr. Lewis has been identified with the film business for some time and is an experienced salesman and advance man. He has traveled for several large theatrical shows during the past ten years.

Last summer he traveled for Harry G. Segal, general manager of the Globe Feature Film Corporation, of this city.

T. B. Spry Gets Gift of Appreciation.

Boston, Mass.—Thomas B. Spry, assistant general manager of the Select Pictures Corporation of New England, received last week a handsome octagonal watch, the gift of Louis J. Selznick, head of the Select Corporation. Mr. Selznick presented Mr. Spry with the beautiful timepiece as an expression of his appreciation of Mr. Spry's unceasing efforts in establishing Select Pictures on a firm foundation in New England.

Packages of Tea Advertise Petrova Film.

Boston, Mass.—Considerable special advertising was done in connection with the first production of Mme. Olga Petrova by her own company, which played Nathan H. Gordon's Olympia theater in this city last week with great success. The chief feature of the advertising was the packages of imported tea given away to each lady patron as a gift from Mme. Petrova.

"Our Navy" Film Attracts Crowds.

Boston, Mass.—The Prizma natural color motion pictures of "Our Navy," which are being shown at Tremont Temple, are having a successful run in this city and are drawing large audiences daily. The pictures show the building of ships, the working of them, the scenes of tars at work and play, and the firing of mammoth guns, the flying of aeroplanes and other interesting things.

Becomes a First-Run Theater.

The Castle Square theater also made another big change in its policy last week Commencing Thursday, January 10, the theater became a "first run" house, and the double feature first run program consisted of "Runaway Romany" and "Madame Who." The new policy of first run and double features is sure to be a success in this house, as its patrons have of late been clamoring for a longer performance.

The tea room is open between the hours of 12 and 3 p. m. and 4 to 8 p. m. The Castle Square now runs a continuous performance from 12.30 until 10.30 p. m.

L. H. McCracken Joins Navy.

Boston, Mass.—Another member of the Boston film circle, L. H. McCracken, has enlisted in the navy. He is head booker in the local office of the Triangle.

Boston, Mass.—Manager Frank Ferguson of the Sherman Releasing Agency, exploiting "The Crisis" in New England, states that the picture is going over big and that it is solidly booked for some time to come. It is being played in both the small and larger towns to capacity.

Boston, Mass.—Manager C. L. Osborne, of the First National Exhibitors' circuit, in this city, is very enthusiastic over the progress made by the organization since it was established in New England. Business, he says, is booming, and he expects it to continue so.

See State Right Lists on pages 649 to 657 of this issue.

Capital City Exhibitors on Anxious Seat

Regulations Are Arriving Ever Fresh and New But Taxes Remain Steady No Matter What Other Burdens Theaters Must Carry.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There is so much doing in the National Capital nowadays that it is a case of hit and run, grab and endeavor to understand and digest things as they come along. The exhibitors here no sooner recover from one interesting fact than something else bobs up, and yesterday becomes a period so far back as to be forgotten.

For instance, last week there flamed up legislation looking to put a ban on Sunday shows. This week along comes the Fuel Administrator, Dr. Harry A. Garfield, who prescribes that no motion picture shows shall do business on Mondays. "Hot stuff," declared leading exhibitors. If you have coal in your theater cellar you can't use it anyway, and houses that have been losing money right along hit another loss, for there is no reduction in taxes when the houses are closed. Mr. Exhibitor pays on an open-house basis on everything but the admission tax.

Just at present there is also a movement afoot for a curfew law for minors. This is adding somewhat to the difficulties of the theater men. Business has taken a big slump and there is general complaint. There are some among the exhibitors who declare that a continued run of this type of hard luck will have the effect of closing their houses until conditions change.

Boyd C. Cunningham Heads Paramount Office.

Washington, D. C.—In line with the general comment above, the motion picture industry here was electrified last week by the announcement that Boyd C. Cunningham had succeeded R. E. Barron as manager of the Paramount-Artcraft exchange, and that the resignation also of James L. Brown as assistant manager had been accepted.

Boyd C. Cunningham is no stranger to Washington, for it was only a little over a year ago that he severed his connection with the Mutual Film Corporation to become associated with his present employers. He started in the game in Philadelphia in 1912. He was in that city only three months, however, when he joined the Mutual company and went to Baltimore to open an exchange there. Three months later, on July 4, 1912, he became manager of the Washington exchange, exercising supervision over the Baltimore office in addition. He continued in this employment until August, 1916, when he went to Seattle, Wash., for the Artcraft Pictures Corporation.

Upon the merger of Artcraft and Paramount Mr. Cunningham returned east and assumed charge of the Twenty-third street office in New York City, serving northern Jersey. He has now returned to Washington as boss of the Tenth Street office.

Will Make Exchange More Attractive.

Al Lichtman, general manager for Artcraft and Paramount, has come to Washington from New York, and W. E. Smith, district manager for these companies, is here from Philadelphia for a conference with Manager Boyd C. Cunningham as to the future policies to be followed by the local exchange. At the same time they will go over the plans for the completion of arrangements, under which the new exchange on Tenth street will be the most attractive and best laid out establishment of its kind in this city.

The complete outfitting of the exchange has been greatly delayed by many things, but it is showing promise, and Mr. Cunningham hopes to have all completed by the end of the month. The first floor will contain film and paper rooms and at the rear are two large vaults, built in conformity with the new fire regulations governing the storage, manufacture and handling of films in the District of Columbia. This section is more or less upset at present as the work of building the various partitions, putting up the racks, and other needed things have not yet been completed.

The second floor, housing the various departments of the offices of the two companies, will be the envy of a great many exchange men, for the lay-out promises to be ideal. One entering the floor at the front has a clear view of every department. The service department will come first, for service, according to the management, comes first in the business of the exchange, and following along will come telephone department, manager's office, booking and bookkeeping departments, etc.

The upper floor offers ample storage facilities. The building is modern in every particular and has a very attractive front. Mr. Cunningham predicts that as soon as present arrangements are completed he will be enabled to show exhibitors in this territory an unexcelled exchange in every respect.

Gerald Payne Back in Washington.

Gerald ("Jerry") Payne, former manager for Triangle in this city, is back at his old job with Paramount-Artcraft in the new exchange.

A. J. Nelson Look for Another Domicile.

Washington, D. C.—It never rains but it pours, according to A. J. Nelson, manager of the local General Film exchange. Last month he received notice from the owners of the building at Seventh and E streets, Northwest, that the Government had commandeered the premises and the General Film Company would be given thirty days of grace, upon the expiration of which the floor space occupied by its employees would be pre-empted by employees of Uncle Sam. This month he was given a notice by the owner of his home that he would be given fifteen days to find a new domicile, the premises at present occupied by him having been sold. These are war times and very strenuous. Homes, apartment houses and hotel rooms are very scarce. Mr. Nelson has just completed a double round of the real estate offices on behalf of his firm; now he will have to do a similar stunt on his own behalf.

The General Film Exchange.

The new quarters of the General Film, secured by Mr. Nelson after a weary search, are on Tenth street, near the new quarters of the Artcraft-Paramount companies. They were vacated by their former occupant when the town went dry on November 1, and cannot be said to be ideal for an exchange. The building is an old one; the heating plant is insufficient, and the lighting system is not as good as could be desired. Despite all this Mr. Nelson is handling an increased business. He has been very much up against it for the past two or three months, due entirely to local conditions, and this even carried through to the point where, when he ran across his present quarters, he, with the aid of his assistant, Mr. Flax, and one or two other members of his office staff, did the moving and put up all of the shelving, being unable to secure any outside help.

If there ever was a need for an up-to-date film exchange building it is right now. The building on G street is under way, but several months will elapse before it is ready for occupancy, and things move so quickly nowadays (except construction work on buildings) that Mr. Nelson, in common with other exchange managers, refuses to deal in futures and only sighs and wishes the building were available now.

Benefit for Colored Soldiers at the Howard.

Washington, D. C.—Manager A. J. Thomas, of the Howard theater, catering to the colored population in the U street section, set aside 400 seats at a recent performance for the benefit of the colored officers and enlisted men from Camp Meade. Mr. Thomas is "doing his bit" towards entertaining the drafted men of that camp. Arrangements were made by the war service board auxiliary of the War and Navy Departments' commissioners on training camp activities.

Atlanta News Letter

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Criterion Theater a Refuge All Day Sunday.

ATLANTA, GA.—Willard Patterson, manager of the Criterion theater on Peachtree street, just above Five Points, kept the theater well heated all day Sunday for the benefit of any people who were unable to secure fuel and other means of keeping warm.

Mr. Patterson is doing all possible in every way to aid during the present crisis brought about through the combination of the arctic weather and the shortage in the coal supply for the city. No pictures were shown on Sunday, of course, the theater being simply open as a place of refuge for any possible sufferers from the extreme cold.

Atlanta Theaters Have Few Patrons.

Atlanta, Ga.—On account of the cold weather being experienced in the South motion picture houses are having a slump. The theaters in Atlanta have not for many a week had such small audiences as this week.

Manager Percy Weadon Now on Job.

Atlanta, Ga.—Percy Weadon, of New York, arrived in Atlanta Wednesday and immediately went to Camp Gordon to familiarize himself with the needs of the Government theater at that cantonment, which he will manage, having offered his services and been accepted by the Government. All classes of amusements, including motion pictures, will be used by Mr. Weadon to amuse the 30,000 soldiers quartered there.

Macon, Ga.—Dr. C. L. Williams, in charge of the public health work here, issued an order this week, Jan. 14, prohibiting any child under 16 years of age from entering any theater for an indefinite period. Three or four cases of meningitis were discovered in Macon among children, and rigid measures were adopted to guard against an epidemic.

BUFFALO TRADE NOTES.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Carnival Court, which has an airdrome, recently suffered a loss of $15,000 by fire. This is an amusement park located in Main street, Buffalo. Defective electric light wires caused the blaze.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A benefit performance was recently held at Shea's theater, Buffalo. Vaudeville and moving pictures were featured. Several hundred dollars were realized to buy smokes for Buffalo soldiers. The benefit was arranged by Henry Carr, manager of the house.

The Triangle Exchange, Buffalo, has been having "a freeze-out" on account of the coal shortage. Manager Montgomery is using wood to keep his fires burning and is patiently displaying the "business as usual" sign.

"There is an extra demand for the Charlie Chaplin specials," said W. A. V. Mack, manager of the Mutual, Buffalo. "Some of the exhibitors are repeating the pictures four and five times. One of the first-run downtown houses has rebooked the twelve specials, notwithstanding the fact that a very small house a block away has shown each one of the Mutual Chaplins four to six times."

Indiana News Letter

From Indiana Trade News Service, 861 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

Yearly Report of Circle Theater Company.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The company owning and operating the Circle theater held its yearly meeting on January 8 and re-elected all its officers. A. L. Block was again chosen president. The reports for the last year showed a tremendously successful business, both from an artistic as well as a financial standpoint. The stockholders of the companies tendered an expression of gratitude to S. Barret McCormick, manager, and to his competent staff of assistants. Much of the credit for the elaborate stage settings presented at the Circle during the last sixteen months belongs to Mr. McCormick. He was assisted in the work by H. D. Bolton, stage manager, and Charles Reed, an Indianapolis scenic artist.

The musical entertainments at the Circle have likewise meant much to the city of Indianapolis. The Circle orchestra of twenty artists, under the direction of Max Weil, has gained fame for the character of the music it has presented. The Circle's musical library contains a wealth of compositions from the greatest of composers.

The year also has been notable for the number of internationally famous singers and artists who have appeared on the Circle's stage. Many opera and concert stars who have been heard at the Circle could have appeared in Indianapolis only at expensive concerts if it had not been for the nation-wide prestige of the theater.

South Bend's Seat Tax Was $10,000 for Two Months.

South Bend, Ind.—South Bend theatergoers paid into Uncle Sam's war coffers the first two months the law has been in effect—November and December—almost enough money to build a theater. The amount, representing the 10 per cent. war tax collected from each patron during that time, almost reached the $10,000 mark.

In round figures approximately $9,700 was the combined contribution of the city's seven theaters—Oliver, Orpheum, Auditorium, La Salle, Castle, White Eagle and Honeymoon. The Oliver, being a legitimate house, was the heaviest donor for any single performance, some of the tickets for the big road productions netting the Government 15 cents on each one sold as compared with only three cents as the highest amount received on a single ticket at the Orpheum.

BINGHAMTON NOTES.

By L. D. Brown, 25 Henry Street, Binghamton, N. Y.

Many Theaters Closed—Business Just Fair.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—The Laurel theater has closed on account of lack of coal and will not open up again until things are different. Mgr. Jack Carroll says he may not open again till spring.

The Susquehanna Valley theater of Binghamton also is closed. On one of the cold nights their water works froze and there is not enough business to warrant the expense of fixing them.

The new Floral Avenue theater, which opened up shortly after the first of December, 1917, did not survive very long. The location is very bad. The house was opened by J. F. Small, to his sorrow. The equipment is all new with latest Power's machines, purchased through the Moving Picture Machine Co. of this city. The seating capacity is four hundred and fifty. The house closed the week of New Year's.

The other shows, The Symphony, Star, Stone, People's, Court, report business just fair, nothing to brag of at the present.

Pennsylvania Censor Says Films Are Bad

Arraigns Producers and Their Pictures—Says They Use the "Dirty Linen of the World" and Are a "Fly Blown Mess"—Few Worthy Films.

By F. V. Armato, 144 North Salford Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

HARRISBURG, PA.—Dr. Ellis Paxon Oberholtzer, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors, was strong in his denunciation of approximately 85 per cent. of the pictures offered. This complaint formed the greater part of the annual report submitted to the governor Tuesday, January 15.

The arraignment of producers and pictures by the chairman of the board is sombre, torrential, rhythmic, and it culminates in an ominous murmur against some of the men who, as the censors see it, use "the dirty linen of the world" to make their—ahem!—sunplays and throw upon the screen "a fly-blown mess of kinetoscoped rot."

The report shows that the subject matter resorted to in the past year by moving picture producers, bent primarily upon enthralling the child mind—whether it exists in children or in the mature—included, among other things, these dramatic elements listed in the report:

The capture of young girls and their induction into white slavery. Malpractice. Birth control. Strangulation. Shooting. Stabbing. Profuse bleeding. Nudity. Torture of human beings. Use of habit-forming drugs. Scenes at birth. Executions. Disease.

In accents of woe the censors' report also lists "burlesques of funerals," "disparagement of the clergy," "sensual love scenes," "burning," "wrecking," "safe-cracking," "counterfeiting," "burlesque of lying-in hospitals" and "vulgar exhibitions of under clothing" as merely a few of the striking details used by practitioners of the new art in their work of uplifting the public mind.

At the end of the report the censors had enough breath left for a firm and generous tribute to travel pictures and educational films and a few plays and comedies that were really artistic and good.

Two Additions to Peerless Sales Forces.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Charles Campbell, formerly of the Mutual, and George W. Smiley, formerly of the Perfection, have joined the star salesmen force of the Peerless.

Palace Theater Nets $400 for Red Cross.

Ardmore, Pa.—S. E. Bleyer, of the Palace theater, held a Red Cross benefit on Monday, January 14 in conjunction with the presentation of Alice Brady in "The Maid of Belgium," and the princely sum of nearly $400 was realized.

Beautiful New Theater Opens in Shamokin.

Shamokin, Pa.—J. F. Higgins, owner of a chain of theaters up the state, recently opened his new Majestic theater in Shamokin. The new house has been constructed of white terra cotta, is of fireproof construction, and has pleasing architectural lines. It is handsomely furnished. The decorations of the auditorium are done in old rose and gold, giving a beautiful and striking effect. Rich red velvet carpets and drapings have been also used.

No balcony exists, but in its place there is a tier of loges encircling the theater containing 950 wicker chairs, while the main floor holds 1,100 upholstered seats. Indirect lighting system has been used, and all conveniences for the comfort of the patrons have been provided. A new Barkoff grand organ has been installed at a cost of $8,000, while an orchestra will be engaged at times to assist with special musical numbers. Admission charges are 10, 15 and 20 cents, evenings, and 5, 10 and 15, matinees. Mr. Higgins will run a selected program of all of the high-class productions.

Philadelphia Trade Jottings.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Benjamin Chapin's Lincoln series has arrived at the local Paramount Artcraft exchange, and will shortly be presented to the newspaper men for a private showing.

Shipping conditions are reported in eastern Pennsylvania to be in a most deplorable state. Films are continually being delayed, and if it were not for the relief given by the Parcel Post system a great number of exhibitors would be compelled to suffer from the lack of proper delivery of their shows.

Kensington, Pa.—Six theaters in this section have booked the Mrs. Vernon Castle series, and over sixteen theaters in West Philadelphia. Splendid results have been achieved through the consistent efforts of Messrs. Martin and Berman, of the Pathe exchange, in advocating a new policy to the exhibitors.

Central Illinois News

By Joe Esler, Quincy Correspondent of Moving Picture World.

Fred Heyworth with Washington Theater.

Belleville, Ill.—Fred Heyworth, one of the old Ringling troupers, is now with the Washington theater at Belleville and would like to hear from some of his old-time friends.

G. W. Martin Celebrates Second Anniversary.

Bloomington, Ill.—G. W. Martin, manager of the Irvin theater at Bloomington, is celebrating his second anniversary as manager of that fine feature picture house. He is using exclusive Metro and Paramount service and is getting the business.

Trade Notes Picked Up Here and There.

Peoria, Ill.—Perry Robinson of the Apollo theater at Peoria is featuring Paramount films and reports business as great.

Peoria, Ill.—Joseph Froshin, manager of the Princess at Peoria, says that the World and Pathe are bringing the dimes to his box office.

Peoria, Ill.—R. B. Francis, manager of the Duchess theater at Peoria, is using Triangle and Blue Bird feature plays to fill his house. Business is good he says.

Pekin, Ill.—G. W. Hill has taken over the Court theater at Pekin and will use Select features and Triangle. H. B. Dittman will act as his chief operator.

W. O. Frederick is manager of the Capital at Pekin and is using Goldwyn, Artcraft and Paramount service.

A. W. McClellan is manager of the Dreamland now.

Peoria, Ill.—Clarence G. Steinhardt is manager of the Columbia theater at Peoria and is using Paramount, Metro and Fox features at his house. He is also using some local views to liven things up. They help bring in the crowds.

Bloomington, Ill.—W. R. Lyon, manager of the Castle theater at Bloomington, has just returned from a business trip to the larger cities in this territory and reports business as good with most of the managers he called on.

Fuel Administration Permits One Lamp

St. Louis Theaters Can Burn One 150-Watt Lamp Outside on Lightless Nights—Particular About How the Watts Are Used.

By Mary Moore, 6035 Kingsbury Block, St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—A slight concession was granted by the St. Louis Fuel Administration in favor of the motion picture exhibitors of this city during the week just ended, and despite the fact that the concession is small it will mean thousands of dollars to the picture theaters of the city.

Joseph Mogler, president of the Exhibitors' League, presented to the Administration an appeal from a majority of the movie house owners of the city to the effect that the "lightless night" order, which barred all exterior lighting, meant virtual death to business on two of the best nights of the week—Thursday and Sunday. A concrete showing of the facts was available in the receipts of the larger houses.

The Administration conceded the justice of the exhibitors' position, which was in the interest of legitimate business and not in the least unpatriotic and granted the theaters the right to burn one light on the outside on "lightless" nights. A provision is made, however, that this light must be not over 150 watts, and this 150 watts cannot be made up of two 75 watt lamps, but one light only. It is further provided that the lamp used must bear a one and one-half inch ring of red surface, indicating that the light is permitted by the Fuel Administration.

Already several of the houses have been equipped with the single light effect, which, in view of ban on all other lights on a given street, serves its purpose of night attraction and has materially increased the "lightless" night receipts.

Ivan to Open State Rights Office in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo.—The film field here will be broadened in the near future by the entrance into this territory of the Ivan Production Company, which is already arranging for a St. Louis office under the management of B. H. Hoddup. The Ivan productions were at one time under the direction or distribution of the Paramount company, but will enter the field as state rights products.

Edward Carr Transferred to New York.

An important change in filmdom here took place during the week when Edward Carr, local manager of the Triangle offices, was transferred to New York. The local office will be managed by a Mr. Webster. The Triangle recently signed up with the Cella-Tate syndicate, controlling the largest houses in the city, under the usual Triangle contract. This contract was abrogated between Triangle and the Cella-Tate organization some weeks ago and resulted in court litigation, which was later patched up. Dave Russell represented the Cella-Tate syndicate, and Edward Carr the Triangle in all these operations.

G. F. Hennessey Tries Married Life.

G. Francis Henessey, manager of the Bluebird office in St. Louis, eloped to Taylorville, Ill., this week and was married to a former Mrs. Lewis. This is Henessey's first venture into matrimony. He was formerly advertising man on the St. Louis Times.

D. E. Boswell Knows It's Good.

D. E. Boswell, manager of the Vitagraph offices in St. Louis, was married during the week. This is his third venture.

Here and There in St. Louis.

Ted Morse, assistant manager of the Paramount offices, is confined to his home with rheumatism.

Hector Pasmezoglu, Greek consul in St. Louis, and owner and manager of the Congress theater, a film house, is ill and has been absent from his post for several days.

A. D. Flintom, district manager for the Paramount in Missouri, Kansas and Iowa, was in St. Louis during the week. Mr. Flintom formerly owned the Paramount franchise in the three states. He was made district manager in the reorganized Paramount company.

Maritime News Letter.

From Alice Fairweather, "Standard," St. John, N. B.

Transportation Still Uncertain.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—The transportation difficulties spoken of last week have not entirely disappeared as yet and several patrons of the theaters were disappointed at not seeing their serial at their favorite picture house. The very close bookings made here makes little allowance for delays. Comedies have had to be substituted in several instances.

Nickel Theater Opens in St. John.

St. John, N. B.—The event of the most interest in the motion picture world of this locality is the opening of The Nickel, the theater on Queen's square, St. John, which is to open on Wednesday, Jan. 16. The building is known as the Queen's rink and has been used as a skating rink. Under the management of Robert Armstrong it has been remodeled into a theater seating one thousand. A Powers machine has been installed over the main entrance, the lighting system is of the indirect type and a modern heating system has been installed.

Manager Armstrong proposes to make the admission fee 5 cents and to run five shows daily, with a change every second day. There are to be no serials, but plenty of comedy pictures.

The floor of the theater is raised fifteen feet from the curtain to the rear seats, the seats sloping from the center aisle to the walls. The ceiling is circular. The walls are of steel. The color scheme is cream salmon and terra cotta with the woodwork in cherry. Over the main entrance has been placed a beautiful fan-shaped window which, with other windows lights the large lobby. This lobby runs the whole width of the building and has steel walls finished in cream and terra cotta with the friezes done in green.

Manager Golding's New House Organ.

St. John, N. B.—The Imperial theater, with its always "up to the minute" manager, W. H. Golding, is this week getting out a house organ which will give general news of the trade. The two vaudeville acts, with their performers of international repute, are giving great satisfaction.

The management has contracted for the full Paramount and Artcraft service. With these pictures will be shown the Drew comedies, the British Official Weekly, the Pathe British Gazette. Captain Bairnsfather's Cartoons and a series of Pathe scenic colored tours. This last named series begins Monday, showing British Tonic Towns and is very fine. The Universal serial, "The Bull's Eye," begins Feb. 8. There will also be some Select pictures featuring Clara Kimball Young and other films of excellence.

The Imperial orchestra is to be augmented by the addition of a flute violo and piccolo player. The management claim, and justly, that they are giving the people of St. John an absolutely high class program of metropolitan shows along the lines of the Rialto and Strand and others of the finest motion picture houses. The best show for the money in Canada. There are at the Imperial six hundreds seats which are priced at 25 cents and twelve hundred at 15 cents.

Everyone who visits the theater speaks of the excellence of the service and the perfectly kept appearance of the Imperial.

Interesting Notes About the Spencer Theaters.

